Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Manning of Greenville spent Sunday here visiting relatives.

The Pitt County Oil Co., is putting in a dynamo for its individual use. Mr. D. Job of Greenville is here installing it.

Mrs. J. O. Bobbitt and Miss Bessie Helen, who attended the debate returned to Shelmerdine Saturday.

Several of our people went to Greenville Tuesday evening to see the "Clansman."

Mr. B. D. Forest returned home Saturday after spending several days at her father's in the country.

Miss Mollie Bryan returned from Bethel Sunday afternoon.

Miss Louise Fleming returned to her home near House Monday, after attending the debate here.

"THE CLANSMAN"

Witnessed With Much Satisfaction by Large Audience.

"The Clansman" was presented in Masonic Temple opera house Tuesday night to an immense audience. Owing to the late arrival of the special train bringing the company, much of their best staging effects could not be transferred and put up in time for use, but even with this absence the play was thrilling and rendered with good effect. There were in the audience a number of ex-Confederate soldiers to whom were brought back vivid recollections of the trying reconstruction period through which they passed, and they were most generous in applause given throughout the drama. The play gave much satisfaction.

The management of the opera house feels especially grateful to the people of the community for the liberal patronage given. Getting "The Clansman" here was the biggest venture that has been made for the opera house and public appreciation was shown in the large attendance. It was an audience that would have done credit to much larger towns than Greenville.

Prof. Ragsdale's Brother Dead.

A telephone message from Louisburg Tuesday evening announced the death of Mr. George A. Ragsdale, brother of our townsman, Prof. W. H. Ragsdale. The latter was at his bedside when the end came.

Alarm But No Fire.

There was a fire alarm this morning coming from the vicinity of the river front. A house down there occupied by colored people caught on fire but was put out without damage.

Keeps Caving.

Tuesday night's rain again covered the street over the culvert near the graded school. It caves every time it rains lately, and the secret of the trouble is hard to locate.

A good way to treat trouble is not to speak as you pass by.

LURE OF DEATH VALLEY.

Wonderful Fascination Possesses Those Who Draw Its Perils.

While gold seems to be the underlying cause of the great interest taken in Death valley, yet a mysterious fascination takes possession of all who once brave its dangers. Numberless legends have been handed down from generation to generation of strange happenings almost beyond human explanation, yet at the bottom of all runs the streak of gold, for which men daily sell their lives and oftentimes their very souls.

Old Indian trails and signs point the way from spring to spring, telling whether the water is good or bad, the distance from one to the other, the passable and impassable canyons, the location of old Indian villages, etc. In order to read the signs correctly one must be familiar with their ways and customs, and even then it has become difficult on account of changes that are constantly taking place through natural and human agencies.

The trails are of different periods, some being much better than others. At intervals beside the trails are monuments of stone, with a pointed rock showing the direction to take. Two rocks pointing in opposite directions indicate that it is impassable. The location of metal stones is also significant. A metal stone is a flat stone, hollowed in the center, used for grinding acorns for flour, and will be found not more than a half day's travel from water. Many springs known to the Indians are not down on the maps.

The valley itself is about all that it has been painted. At times a man or beast would mire out of sight, and at other times the shifting sands would almost bury him alive. Yet men live there year after year without feeling that they are incurring any unusual amount of danger. They know where they may and may not go and how to prepare for emergencies.—Rhyolite Herald.

Riddles.

She was reading a paper before the Mothers' club.

"And here I will insert," she said, "half a dozen questions of the sort my little boy asks me every night before he falls asleep."

"Why does Santa Claus give children skates when there ain't any ice?"

"When I drink water, why don't it run down into my legs?"

"Is it his very best medicine that the druggist has in them big green and blue bottles?"

"Why is it I breathe out smoke when I'm cold and not when I'm warm?"

"Who cooked dinner when all the big folks was little boys?"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Collector's Bequest.

"My wish is that my drawings, my prints, my curiosities, my books—in a word, these things of art which have been the joy of my life—shall not be consigned to the cold tomb of a museum and subjected to the stupid glance of the careless passerby. But I require that they shall all be dispersed under the hammer of the auctioneer, so that the pleasure which the acquiring of each one of them has given me shall be given again in each case to some inheritor of my own tastes."—From the Will of Edmond de Goncourt.

Some of the First.

A group of bachelors who carry on co-operative housekeeping on the upper west side deputed the most caustic of their number to re-monstrate with their grocer about the quality of his eggs. The grocer assumed the role of injured innocence. "It's impossible that those eggs should be bad," said he. "We've been getting them from the same farm for eighteen years." "That's just the trouble," replied the spokesman; "this morning you sent me some of the first you got."—New York Post.

Sarcasm In the Jury.

The second day drew to its close with the twelfth jurymen still unconvinced.

"Well, gentlemen," said the court officer, entering quietly, "shall I, as usual, order twelve dinners?"

"Make it," said the foreman, "eleven dinners and a bale of hay."—New York Press.

FINDING LONGITUDE.

How it is Done by a Sailor's Watch or Chronometer on Board Ship.

If the earth did not rotate, says Prof. W. H. Turner longitude could be found in exactly the same way as latitude, for a traveler starting from a place on the equator where some bright star was seen on the horizon due east, would, if he traveled toward it, see it rise in the heavens (just as he would see the Pole star rise by traveling due north) and the height to which it rose would indicate the length of the journey eastward—that is, his longitude.

But the rotation of the earth insists upon carrying him eastward in any case, so that even if he remained in the same spot the star would still rise and its height would then indicate the time elapsed since he first observed it, as he could readily verify if he possessed a watch keeping correct time. If, being provided with such a watch, he set out on a journey, the height at any moment would be due to a combination of two causes: First, the rotation of the earth, for which he could make allowance by consulting his watch; the second, his journey eastward the length of which he could accordingly calculate.

Nowadays the sailor finds his longitude just in this way, by carrying a watch or chronometer with him on board ship. But to make a chronometer that would keep time correctly at different temperatures, and in the other varying circumstances of a sea voyage, was regarded in Flamsteed's time as hopeless—certainly as the least feasible of possible methods for finding longitude. There is, however, a clock in the sky which is independent of the imperfections of human workmanship; indeed there are many such, for every planet which charges its place among the stars is an indication of the correct time, if we are able to read it.

These clocks have, however, all one serious defect—they move far too slowly for convenient reading. The quickest of them the moon itself, takes a whole month to perform the circuit of the dial, and to read the time correctly is thus sixty times as difficult to read as the ordinary clock, which performs its circuit in twelve hours. To read seconds from a clock we arrange mechanism to multiply the motions of this hour hand 43,200 times—720 for the minute hand, 60 for the second hand; and yet, though the sailor is especially anxious to read seconds, the moon only provides him with a clock moving 60 times more slowly, rather than 43,200 times more quickly.

Nevertheless, in spite of this serious defect the advantage of knowing that the time given is correct is very great, if we can only properly interpret the indications of the clock, for besides the physical difficulty of reading the indicator which moves so slowly, there are theoretical difficulties of a grave kind in interpreting the indications. The moon does not move uniformly, but has countless vagaries or gravitation by exact calculations; but these calculations require enormous labor, as well as numerous observations to provide a starting point. But when Flamsteed proposed the Royal Observatory at Greenwich, Newton had not yet announced his great law, and it was only surmised by Flamsteed that if sufficient observations of the moon were

KING-HANCOCK

Miss Daisy Hancock of Richmond, Becomes Bride of Rev. A. T. King, Formerly of Wilmington.

The wedding of Miss Daisy Hancock, daughter of Mr. W. T. Hancock, of 11 North Twentieth street, to the Rev. Alonzo T. King, formerly of Wilmington, N. C., but more recently of this city, took place quietly at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the home of the bride, the Rev. Calvin S. Blackwell, of the First Baptist church, Norfolk, Va., officiating. The announcement of the marriage comes in the nature of a surprise to the many friends of the bride, who is prominent in Richmond society.

Mr. King, who is now engaged in educational work, was, before he took it up, pastor of Fairmont Baptist church. He took his master's degree at Richmond college, and also the master of theology degree at Southern Baptist Theological seminary in Louisville, Ky., and is now pastor of Hebron and Beulah churches in King William county.

Mr. and Mrs. King, after they return from a northern trip, will be at home at 11 North Twentieth street.—Richmond News-Leader.

THE EASTERN SCHOOL.

Nothing Else Will Supply the Need.

If there are young women who are denied the benefits of a normal and industrial school it seems to us that it would be cheaper to enlarge the one we already have than to build a new one somewhere else.—Durham Herald.

But the trouble comes right there. Those working to get the legislature to make a large additional appropriation to the Greensboro school admitted publicly that the appropriation would not enable the institution to take one girl more than it already has. So the idea seemed a desire to raise the quality and standing of that school more than to increase its accommodating capacity. There is no special objection to the rank of the Greensboro school being thus raised and we hope it will get the appropriation, but what the east wants and must have is a training school that will train teachers that will teach in the public schools of the east.

The Greensboro school does not supply these, hence the lack of teachers for the schools of the east makes necessary the steps the eastern people are taking.

A Baltimore ducky, when arrested on the charge of stealing thirteen chickens, was asked if he did not know thirteen was an unlucky number and why he had stolen that number of chickens, replied that he did so because there were not fourteen in the coop. That ducky will take his chances against luck the very next time he runs upon a coop with thirteen chickens in it.—Wilmington Messenger.

made, some general law would be found running inequalities. We know now that can all be deduced from Newton's great law of through to enable sailors to read the clock.

It must have required immense courage to set out on such a campaign. Looking back on the history of our Royal Observatory, we may say that there was no more glorious moment in that history than the foundation.—Cornhill Magazine.

PERSONAL POINTS.

Miss Irma Cobb left this morning for a visit to Graham.

Mrs. A. L. Blow returned Tuesday evening from a visit to her daughter in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. White, of Hobgood, came in Tuesday evening to attend "The Clansman," and visit Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Humber.

Misses Effie Grimes, Blanche Mayo, Elizabeth Jones and Bertha Waldrop came over from Bethel Tuesday evening to attend "The Clansman" and were the guests of Mrs. D. J. Whichard.

ON ROLL OF FAME.

Miss Maxwell Dies for Little Children.

Montreal, Que. Feb. 26.—Principal Maxwell and sixteen children perished in a fire which broke out this afternoon in the Hochelage building of the Protestant School. The school was located in a brick two-story building in the east end of the city and a tended by two hundred children, whose parents are mechanics living in the neighborhood.

The fire started from the furnace. The teachers were notified and the work of getting the children out of the building began. The kindergarten department was located on the second floor and it was here that loss of life occurred. The children were started out but on reaching the landing found the lower hall full of smoke. Into this they refused to descend, though the way at this time was quite safe. Huddled together on the stairway at first they retreated to the rooms from which they had come. When the firemen arrived an extension ladder was placed in position and a large number of children were rescued in this way.

Assisting in the work was Miss Maxwell. The fire by this time was making its way upwards, and the smoke was growing so dense that even the experienced fireman could not stand it. Captain Carson endeavored to get Miss Maxwell to go down the ladder but she refused and evading the attempt to detain her, rushed back into the back part of the building in search of other little ones. When the firemen were finally able to make their way to the back portion of the building she was found lying on the floor with a little ones beside her. All those who perished died from asphyxiation.

The building was unprovided with fire escapes.

Hickory Inn Destroyed.

The Hickory Inn at Hickory, N. C., was totally destroyed by fire at an early hour Monday morning. There were many narrow escapes among the guests. One man had a leg broken, jumping from a third story window.

The fire originated in the servants quarters caused by the explosion of a lamp. The loss is estimated at about $30,000 with $15,000 insurance.

FRE - WADESBORO FROM SA-LOONS.

Senate Committee's Report for This.

Wadesboro is to be freed from its saloons and distilleries if the result of the action of the senate committee on propositions and grievances yesterday afternoon is sustained by the senate and the house. By the decisive vote of seven to two, the senate committee after a long hearing decided to report favorably the bill making Wadesboro a "dry" town and as this is the only place in Anson county where liquor is manufactured and sold the act will also "dry" Anson.

The hearing was before a joint meeting of the house committee on the regulation of the liquor traffic and the senate committee on propositions and grievances, but as the bill is a senate bill the house committee took no formal action. Both committees went into executive session after the long hearing and while the senate committee took action the house committee agreed to wait till the bill reaches the house.—Raleigh News and Observer.

We have witnessed "The Clansman" and failed to see in it anything whatever that justifies the cry raised against it in some cities and towns. There was nothing objectionable about it, nothing that could be offensive to anyone or stir up any race strife. On the contrary it was a production of such excellence that all should be glad of an opportunity to witness it.

We think Senator Graham made a grave mistake in his speech in the Senate attacking Lieutenant Governor Winston for the latter's failure to appoint him on the conference committee to consider the railroad rate bill. Lieutenant Governor Winston was entirely right. Senator Graham introduced the bill himself and went so far as to declare he would not support any other. Having thus expressed his prejudice in advance he should not have been appointed on the committee.

LITTLE THINGS HELP

The little things in life are after all the largest. The triflers in the aggregate, tell most for good or ill. An act of kindness here and a little thoughtfulness displayed there, a little self-restraint on this occasion, or the use of a small amount of pains on another occasion—these are what make such wonderful changes in life and bless both the doer of the act and the recipient.

The Progressive Farmer for last week contains a list of "Helpful Hints" in behalf of the rural carriers, men whose daily visits mean so much to many a country home. The list should be read, and attention to the advice given would—although each item is small in itself—help to make the work easier and the service better. The "hints" are:

You will be doing your carriers a great favor if you stamp your mail before putting same in box or use government stamped envelopes with return upon left-hand. This will guarantee delivery or return of letter. If you should not happen to have stamps or stamped envelopes wrap amount up in a paper. Remember that in cold weather, if the money is put in the box loose the carrier has to get off his gloves or mittens to get hold of these loose pennies. Always stamp upon the upper right hand corner.

When addressing a letter to one who is not a regular patron of a rural route postoffice, you should mark on the envelope in whose care the letter or package should go.

In addressing your letter do not write above the middle of the envelope as the address may be partially blurred by being struck with the post-marking stamp.

In regard to boxes, help your carrier by having a good one in a good easy place to drive up to, and always have your mail

If you have visitors who are expecting mail you should give the carrier their names.

Don't forget to nail your box on the post when your neighbor's cow rubs it off.

Don't forget to haul a few loads of gravel and put around your box, so that the carrier can get to your box without miring down.

Don't be afraid to meet your carrier a half mile and get your mail while the roads are bad (especially where he has to retrace). He will more than repay you when you get busy with your crop.

Any mail matter deposited in box is subject to ordinary postage rates.

Packages should be well wrapped and securely tied, and all valuable letters and packages should be registered.

The mail boxes are protected by the government. Any one tampering with them not interested should be reported at once to your postmaster.

Don't let your neighbor hitch his horse to your mail-box post, so that the carrier has to get out of his wagon to put mail in.

Don't forget to clean snow-drifts from your box.

Don't let your mailbox post lean halfway over.

Don't set your box in your picket fence. If you do, don't blame the carrier if he hubs your fence and tears off a dozen or more pickets.

Don't put letters in box and forget to raise flag.

Don't forget that the flag means much to carriers in the way of saving time.

NIGHT VIEW OF A CITY.

Carlyle's Forceful Picture of Its Paths and Its Tragedy.

"Ah, my dear friend," said he once at midnight when he had returned from the coffee house in rather earnest talk, "it is a true sublimity to dwell here. These fringes of lamplight, straggling up through smoke and thousandfold exhalation, some fathoms into the ancient reign of night, what thinks Bootes of them as he leads his hunting dogs over the zenith in their leash of sidereal fire?"

"That stifled hum of midnight, when traffic has lain down to rest, and the chariot wheels of vanity, still rolling here and there through distant streets, are bearing her to halls roofed in and lighted to the due pitch for her, and only vice and misery, to prowl or to moan like night birds, are abroad—that hum, I say, like the stertorous, unquiet slumber of sick life, is heard in heaven! Oh, under that hideous coverlet of vapors and putrefactions and unimaginable gases, what a fermenting vat lies simmering and hid!"

"The joyful and the sorrowful are there; men are dying there, men are being born; men are praying; on the other side of a brick partition men are cursing, and around them all is the vast, void night."

"The proud grandee still lingers in his perfumed sofas or reposes within damask curtains. Wretchedness covers into tinkle beds or shivers hunger stricken into its lair of straw. In obscure corners rouge-et-naïf languidly emits its voice of destiny. A haggard, hungry villain, while councilors of state sit plotting and playing their high chess game, the pawns being men."

"The lover whispers his mistress that the coach is ready, and she, full of hope and fear, glides down to fly with him over the borders. The thief still more silently sets to his pick locks and crowbars or lurks in wait till the watchmen first snore in their boxes."

"Gay mansions, with supper rooms and dancing rooms, are full of light and music and high swelling hearts, but in the condemned cells the pulse of life beats tremulous and faint, and bloodshot eyes look out through the darkness which is around and within for the light of a stern last morning. Six men are to be hanged on the morrow. Comes no hammering from the Raven's Rock? Their gallows must even now be a-building."

"Upward of 500,000 two legged animals without feathers lie around us in horizontal positions, their heads all in nightcaps and full of the foolish dreams. Riot cries aloud and staggers and swaggers in his rank dens of shame, and the mother, with streaming hair, kneels over her pallid dying infant, whose cracked lips only her tears now moisten—all these heaped and huddled together, with nothing but carpentry and masonry between them, crammed in like salted fish in their barrel, or weltering, shall I say, like an Egyptian pitcher of tamed vipers, each struggling to get its head above the others. Such work goes on under that smoke counterpane! But I sit above it all. I am alone with the stars."—From "Sartor Resartus."

Faithful "Mammy." A southern lady in a letter written after the close of the civil war told her correspondent: "I have something strange to tell you. Mammy has been free since before I was born. I never knew till now."

She goes on to tell how she discovered the fact. The account is taken from "Dixie After the War."

I was wretched and exclaimed, "Well, mammy, I reckon you'll go too!" She took it as a deadly insult. I had to humble myself. While she was mad the secret burst out.

"Ef I'd wanted to go, I could ha' gone long time ago. No Yankees sot me free. My master sot me free."

What the Composers Say. Schumann is always more interesting for what he says than for the manner in which he says it. Berlioz's magnificent orchestration does not conceal his poverty of style. The dexterity of Liszt is often set to embroider a thin or ill woven texture. Even Wagner's "romantic" operas alternate their wonderful strokes of genius with passages of sheer clumsiness or vulgarity. All these men made their own way by the force of almost unaided ability. They were saturated with the poetry of music, they were keenly susceptible to literary influence, they were full of fervor and passion, but they had not acquired the full artistry which cost Bach and Mozart so many years of patient endeavor.—Edinburgh Review.

PANACEA MINERAL WATER CURES.

Read one among a hundreds of such testimonials. "I have suffered with NERVOUS Dyspepsia for past 10 years and have received more beneficial and lasting results from the use of PANACEA MINERAL WATER than from any other remedy of the many I have had prescribed for me. It gives me great pleasure to testify to its marvelous results in my own case and, many others I have personally observed. Mrs. Martha P. Taylor, Newport News, Va. Send orders to Geo. S. ADVERTISE.

Two Dyspeptics

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat-producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated. Lean, thin, stringy people do not have enough Pepsin in the stomach, while fat people have too much Pepsin and not enough Pancreatic.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

contains all the digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach, and in exactly those proportions necessary to enable the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all foods that may be eaten. Kodol is not only a perfect digestant, but it is a reconstructive, tissue building tonic as well. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Palpitation of the Heart and Constipation. You will like it.

Digests What You Eat
Rests the stomach, rebuilds the tissues and gives firm flesh.

Dollar bottle holds 2 1/2 times as much as the trial, or 50 cent size. Prepared at the Laboratory of E. O. Wright & Co., Chicago, U.S.A.

Indigestion

Stomach troubles are a symptom of, and not in themselves a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve sickness—nothing else. It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Restorative—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had. For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.

CRITICISE HIS COOK.

Then the Queen of the Kitchen Had Her Innings.

A citizen of Kiev, Russia, found fault with the dinner prepared by his new cook and rashly embarked his criticism in cutting sarcasms. The young woman heard him in silence. In the evening he knocked up against a man in a deserted little street, and when he ventured to remonstrate he was vigorously assaulted. Unable to get the better of his adversary, he determined to do what he could at least to identify him later on, and with this object in view he tore his assailant's fashionable clothes into shreds. On his return home some hours later he found the cook standing at the door ready to shake the dust of his house off her feet. The gentleman, whose wounds and bruises left him in no very amiable mood, simply said: "Joy be with you! Some time will pass before you get another place. And as to character—well, trust me to give you one that will stick."

On the following morning he discovered that his best clothes in the wardrobe were in tatters and his glossy silk hat an unsightly wreck. Hastily summoning the other servants to his room, he angrily asked them what they knew about the matter, whereupon the nurse replied that the cook in one of her freaks of fun had donned her master's garments and gone out to walk in them the evening before, sticking on an artificial mustache to help to keep up the illusion. Then it dawned upon the wretched man that his assailant of the day before was the touchy, turbulent cook. Less than a fortnight later he received a letter through the city post informing him, in somewhat ungrammatical but unmistakable language: "You lied about the place, respected sir, when you said I could not get another if I left yours. I've been in five different places since then, and I'll be going to the sixth next Monday. Trusting your bones isn't aching, I remain Praskovia."

Spotted in Transmission.

"Algy, here's a good story," said Percy. "A man named Swords has been arrested for assault with a deadly weapon, and his case was on trial."

"Mr. Swords," asked the judge, "how will you be tried?"

"And Mr. Swords said he wanted to be tried by a jury of his spears. See?"

"Sure," answered Algy. "That's a good one."

Later in the day Algy tried it on the boarders at Mrs. Irons' hashery.

"I heard a good story this morning," he said. "A man named Swords had been arrested for assault with a deadly weapon, and his case was on trial. The judge asked him how he wanted to be tried."

"I want to be tried, your honor," said Mr. Swords, "by a jury of my peers." See?"

But the boarders gave him the stony stare, and Algy doesn't know even yet what ailed his story.—Chicago Tribune.

Troublesome Matches.

Small Boy (who has come five miles to country grocer)—Please, I want a penn'orth of matches.

Country Grocer—Here—you are, my lad.

Two hours later the boy turns up again with the matches in his hand.

"Please, mother says as how these 'ere matches won't strike."

Country grocer remarks "Rubbish!" and proceeds to strike one of the matches on his trousers.

As the shades of evening are falling and the stars begin to blink the boy creeps wearily into the grocer's shop.

"Please, mother says she ain't got no time to come round here to strike matches on your trousers!" he says.—London Graphic.

To Restore Ivory Carvings.

Ivory carvings which have darkened and become discolored may be restored to their first whiteness by exposure under glass to the rays of the sun. Remove the dust by brushing with warm water and soap. Place the carving under glass and turn from time to time so that all sides will be equally bleached or brush with pumice stone calcined or diluted, and place under glass while yet wet, exposing to the sunlight until perfectly bleached. Be extremely careful to place it under glass before exposing to the sunlight.

Paris Cabby's Ruse.

Paris cab drivers are in the habit of causing their taximeter to register the waiting tariff every time their progress is blocked by traffic or any other obstacle. In this way the traffic obstruction which makes Paris insupportable is to them a nice little source of profit. All is grist that comes, sou by sou, to their mill by causing their horses to move the wheels back and forth in a confined space.—Paris Figaro.

The Treacherous Lions.
"Lionesses are far more dangerous than lions," said an animal trainer. "Their tongues are more uncertain. They are more treacherous. They are more wily. If a lion is in a bad humor, he shows it. He growls and snarls and lurches his sides. You know what is in the wind and prepare accordingly. But a lioness in a bad humor is as affectionate as a girl. She brushes, purrs, against your leg, and she muzzles you with the joyous elasticity of a good Fox terrier. Then, as soon as your back is turned, whizz—yellow streak shoots through the air, and you are on your back, and she is at your throat. With all the cat fight it is the same. Whenever you hear of a trainer mangled or mangled, be sure it was a female, not a male, cat that did the deed."

Greenland's Glaciers.

Nearly all the Greenland glaciers and tongues from the internal ice cap terminate in vertical faces from 100 to 1,000 feet high, presenting facilities for investigation. The vertical faces reveal pronounced stratification on the basal ice, even earth materials in the laser carried by the ice being arranged in layers. Fine laminations were seen twelve or twenty to an inch. The layers are sometimes twisted and contorted and even "shoved" over each other. The glacier movement at the ice border is a foot per day to a foot per week.

Force of Example.

"Talk about the instinct of the lower orders! I built a little two story house for our parrot not long ago, and the very next morning after I put her in it she looked out of the window and greeted me in a very profane fashion."

"Why should she do that?"

"Complaining about the house, I fancy."

"But why should she swear at you?"

"Took me for the janitor, no doubt."

—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

His First Love Affair.

Mrs. Rose—Did your husband ever have more than one love affair? Mrs. Pose—Oh, only one, I believe! Mrs. Rose—And that was when he fell in love with you? Mrs. Pose—Oh, dear, no! He had fallen in love with him self long before he had met me.

Women in Medicine.

First Lady Doctor—He is sleeping now and is certainly recovering. He proposed to me this morning. Second Lady Doctor—Indeed! He was probably delirious.—Boston Transcript.

To stop a cold with "Preventics" is safer than to let it run and cure it afterwards. Taken at the "sneeze stage" Preventics will head off all colds and Grippe and perhaps save you from Pneumonia or Bronchitis. Preventics are little toothsome cold cure tablets selling in 5 cent and 25 cent boxes. If you are chilly, if you begin to sneeze, try Preventics. They will surely check the cold, and please you. Sold by Bryan's Drug Store.

Croup can positively be stopped in 20 minutes. No vomiting—nothing to sicken or distress your child. A sweet pleasant and safe Syrup called Dr. Shoop's Croup Cure, does the work and does it quickly. Dr. Shoop's Croup Cure is for croup alone, remember. It does not claim to cure a dozen ailments. It's for croup, that's all. Sold by Bryan's Drug Store.

If your stomach heart or kidneys can't stand coffee drinking, try Health Coffee. It is wholesome, nourishing and satisfying. It's safe even for the smallest child. Sold by T. E. Koker & C
