

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes from a Hustling Town.
Ayden, N. C., Mar. 1.

D. O. Moore left Tuesday for Scotland Neck.

Guilford Cox, of Greenville, is here on a visit to relatives.

W. M. Edwards went to and returned from Tarboro Thursday.

W. E. Hooks and wife spent the afternoon Tuesday in Grifton.

A real large crowd attended the Clansman at Greenville Tuesday night.

We are pleased to see Ed Garis out on the streets after a prolonged sickness.

Peter Hines took in the Clansman and says it was O. K. But, says he, "I didn't laugh one bit."

Some 12 or 15 Odd Fellows went to Shelmerdine from here Wednesday night for the purpose of organizing a lodge.

J. R. Smith went to Greenville yesterday as a special minister plenipotentiary and grand mogul extraordinary to bring and escort home any Odd Fellows who might have strayed or got lost on their trip to Shelmerdine.

Will Johnson, a young man living on George Worthington's farm near here, died Tuesday evening about 5 o'clock. Mr. Johnson was an industrious, energetic man and held in high esteem by those who knew him. He leaves a wife and four small children.

First day January, 1907, positively no charging at Saul's drug store and after said date is promiscuously advertised any and everywhere. But alas! as truthful as we thought the doctor to be, yesterday we caught him in an act worthy a good cause. He was charging Jim Alexander's soda fountain.

Miss Prime, of Maine, who has been visiting Mrs. Carson here, for some considerable length of time, left for her home yesterday. She was accompanied by Miss Lizzie Raspberry. There was a sigh at the depot and we are told several sighs in sight and several youngsters are still a "sighing."

We take it from the News and Observer that the Hon. L. I. Moore will resign at an early date his position as solicitor of the third judicial district of North Carolina, and that four applicants are aspirants for the place: Messrs. C. L. Abernethy, of Carteret; L. V. Morrill, of Greene; and J. L. Fleming, of Pitt. The first named we know only by reputation and he bears a good name as a man fully capacitated for this important office and he would, if appointed, fill it most creditably. As to the other three they are our warm personal friends; anything that we could do to advance the interest of either would afford us very much pleasure. Mr. Morrill and Mr. Fleming are as we take it surrounded by circumstances very favorable to a successful life in their noble profession. Endowed with no small financial means, a practice sufficient to gratify any young man just on the threshold of a lofty ambition and surrounded by friends who will see to it that the future holds in store for them grander things still, can, we think, better afford to await, Mr. Whedbee, blessed too with numerous friends, a highly cultivated mind, honorable, just and conscientious, yet a poor man, struggling hard for a maintenance of himself and family

SOLICITOR MOORE RESIGNS.

Successor to be Named March 4th.

It is now a fact that Hon. L. I. Moore has tendered his resignation as solicitor of the third judicial district, as is shown in the correspondence given below. It is regretted by many people that Mr. Moore takes this step but the reasons given in his letter are good. He is at present serving his third term as solicitor and has made a most efficient officer. He has also been active in helping to develop Greenville during his residence here, and his counsel and influence in this particular will be missed.

The opportunity that has come to Mr. Moore of stepping into a large civil practice succeeding Judge Guion at New Bern, is one that no man could well let pass by, and he was wise in accepting it. At the same time to give such practice the attention required and also faithfully perform the duties of solicitor, is more than one man can do, hence he has resigned the latter.

Mr. Moore's host of friends in Pitt county will always wish him well, and there will be a cordial greeting here whenever his business calls him this way. Greenville also has a warm place in his heart, and he has said to us that he would be glad of any opportunity in which he could aid the growth of the town and prosperity of our people.

The correspondence between him and Governor Glenn bearing upon his resignation follows:

New Bern, N. C. Feb. 23, 1907.
Hon. R. B. Glenn, Governor,
Raleigh, N. C.

Sir:
On account of the increase in my civil practice demanding my entire time, it has become necessary for me to tender to you my resignation as solicitor of the third judicial district.

I find it impossible for me to keep up with my practice and attend to the duties of my office without serious injury to my health. I beg therefore that you will accept this resignation to date from the 4th of March, 1907.

With assurance of high esteem I beg to remain,
Yours respectfully,
L. I. MOORE.

In reply to the foregoing Governor Glenn wrote the following letter:

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 27.
Hon. L. I. Moore,
New Bern, N. C.

Dear Mr. Moore:
Your letter received and with regret I accept your resignation as solicitor of the third judicial district, the same to take effect March 9th 1907.

I cannot make appointment of your successor before March 4th, and therefore desire you to hold the office until March 9th in case of an emergency.

No official in North Carolina has ever discharged the duties of his office more faithfully than you have. You have prosecuted fearlessly and wisely, and have at the same time protected those who were not guilty. You deserve the commendation of all for your faithful discharge of duty.

With kind regards I am,
Yours very truly
R. B. Glenn.

and for this reason and this reason alone, we would like to see the honor fall at his door. Either of the four are good men, true and tried and either would make us a worthy solicitor.

DURHAM CATCHES STATE TEACHERS.

The Assembly will Hold its Meeting There.

Durham, N. C. Feb. 27.—The next session of the North Carolina Teacher's Assembly will be held in Durham, June 11-14.

This is the decision of the special committee appointed to select the meeting place. This committee met in Greensboro Saturday night, and after carefully considering the several invitations which were laid before it, and fully canvassing the entire situation, decided that Durham is the best place for the next session.

The citizens of Durham, the chamber of commerce, the teachers of the city schools and the faculty of Trinity college all extend cordial invitations to the assembly and the people of the city pledged sufficient financial support to enable the officers of the Assembly to prepare a program that will contain some of the most distinguished educators and lecturers in the country. Superintendent Carmichael through whom these invitations were extended, has received a letter from Secretary R. D. W. Connor expressing the thanks and appreciation of the committee for the interest and support offered by the citizens of our city.

The assembly last year met at Raleigh and more than 700 teachers were in attendance. It is confidently expected that even a larger number will attend the Durham meeting. It is probable that a special teachers' train will be run from Durham to Norfolk to carry the teachers in a body to the Jamestown exposition. This feature of the session will be a great drawing card.

Suppose the Foreigner Should Leave Our Cities.

It is in the large cities that the departure of the foreigner would be most severely felt. In the thirty large cities in Union persons native-born of native parents formed in 1900 but 33 per cent. Of the total population New York, from its boasted eminence of 3,500,000 inhabitants at the twelfth census, would shrink to less than 805,000, yet still remain the most populous city. Philadelphia's population would be cut in; Chicago would lose nearly four-fifths; Boston would decline from more than half a million to approximately 150,000; while Milwaukee would sink from near the 300,000 mark to less than 50,000, or to but little more than one-sixth to her total population. These facts faintly suggest the disturbance of the population equilibrium, especially in the urban centers of the North and West, which would result from the exodus of the foreigner and the children of foreigners. In this branch of the subject even the Southern States would be mildly interested, since in the cities are located practically all the foreign element resident in those States.—From "Why We Need the Immigrant," by William S. Rossiter, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for March.

GLENN ASKS HAVE WE KEPT THE FAITH.

Seven Specific Promises Made by the Democratic Platform to the people of North Carolina. Only Two so Far Kept.

Yesterday the governor sent a brief and pointed message to the General Assembly. It is evident from the message that the governor believes the Democratic platform was made to stand on as well as to get in on.

When it was read in the senate some senators, who, when in executive session, had voted to cut the heart out of the railroad bill and given scant consideration to the Holt and Aycock bills, looked as solemn as if they were attending the funeral of their dearest relative, and when the reading clerk had finished the wise and sensible message that will be applauded from Murphy to Manteo, the senate resumed the consideration of business without ordering it printed.

In the house there were some members who do not desire to fulfill in letter and spirit the pledges of the Democratic platform, who looked funeral like while it was being read, but those members who vote in the legislature like they spoke on the stump, received the message with evident gladness, and when the reading clerk had read the closing sentence a motion prevailed to print three hundred copies. That was good. It ought to be read by every voter in the State, for it shows that the governor believes that every pledge of the party should be kept sacredly.

The message of the Governor is as follows:

"February 23, 1907.
"To the Honorable The General Assembly of North Carolina:
"Gentlemen:—Only seven more working days remain before the end of this session of the General Assembly, and a great deal yet remains to be done in order to keep the pledges made by us to the people. The dominant party in North Carolina through its platform, promised unconditionally to do certain things.

"First. We promised a four month school term for all the children in the State;

"Second. We pledged ourselves to the enlargement of our charitable institutions until all the indigent insane of the State are cared for;

"Third. To materially and substantially reduce passenger rates;

"Fourth. Also to substantially reduce freight rates and rentals;

"Fifth. To pass such laws as seemed best to stop unjust discrimination of railroads against North Carolina towns in favor of other points with no greater natural advantages;

"Sixth. To enlarge the powers of the Corporation Commission, so as to enable them to remedy many existing evils;

"Seventh. To enact a law restricting all inordinate and dangerous combinations, and against trusts and combines that illegally and wrongfully oppress the rights of the people.

"These were the promises made. Have we kept the faith?"

"I congratulate you on the passage of the bill enlarging and supporting our charitable institutions; likewise upon the certainty that you will pass a bill in regard to passenger rates, which will give great relief. I also am informed that bills looking to the carrying out of the other pledges are before one or both of the branches of your Honorable Body. I feel therefore that I would not be discharging my duty if I did not again earnestly and emphatically ask you to pass a law substantially reducing freight rates, and righting any wrongs committed by telephone companies.

Also, while doing everything in your power to encourage and advance all legitimate enterprises, to pass an act that will prevent unlawful and unholy combines that tend to destroy business, prevents competition and reduce prices. Every corporation should be encouraged to extend its business and to build up its interests, and as this is done legitimately, every aid should be given them, but when in combination or agreement, they act illegally, they ought not to expect to be treated differently from others who violate the law, and we will be false to our pledges unless we pass some act that will forbid all illegal and corrupt combines.

"It is needless for me to tell you that great injury is inflicted upon the jobber, merchants and other business men of our State when they cannot get the same railroad facilities as are given towns in other States with no greater natural advantages than we have, and we must do our best to carry out the pledge to stop this unjust discrimination.

"There are a few other things that ought to be done: Insurance companies ought to be required to invest or deposit a certain per cent of the amount of their earnings in this State, where they are doing business, and not be allowed to carry over nine million dollars each year out of North Carolina.

"I regret that the criminal laws were not amended, but it is too late for that now.

"In conclusion I have one more request that I earnestly make, and that is your honorable body take up the question of salaries,—starting at the employees, then the clerks, then coming up to the higher officials,—but giving preference to the employees and clerks first,—for with the cost of living increased as it is, I cannot see how they can live and do efficient work upon what they now receive. The State ought not to hesitate to deal justly and fairly with this class of public servants who are least able to live at the present rates, and I am sure the people would approve your action.

These things I earnestly lay before your honorable body, asking you to vigorously push the matters referred to, to the end that we may go before the people of the State and say "We have kept the faith."

"Yours respectfully,
R. B. GLENN,
"Governor."

TO OWNERS OF STIEFF PIANOS.

We have made arrangements for one of our factory tuners and action regulators to visit Greenville every 6 months, and for the accommodation of our patrons a charge of $3 will be made for tuning (including action regulation) or a charge of $5 will be made to any owner of a Stieff piano who desires his instrument kept up for a year, during which time 2 tunings will be given and such other attention that the instrument may need. Our work will be strictly guaranteed or money refunded by filing complaint in our Norfolk office. The price named is very moderate. We take this measure to prevent incompetent tuners from tampering with our instruments. It is not our intention to interfere with the competent tuner who is after making an honest living, but there are so many claiming to be associated with some reputable firms when they are really working independently and have never been inside of a piano factory. We particularly call attention to a man who came through here some time ago claiming to have been associated with a factory of the highest distinction as an action maker. This man did a great deal of damage to instruments. For the upholding and maintenance of the standard of our pianos we have decided to make the above arrangements. A factory man will visit Greenville in a month or about, when such an announcement will be made in The Reflector. We repeat, our work will be absolutely guaranteed and we request displeased patrons to file complaint with our Mr. Fineman or the Norfolk office when money will be cheerfully refunded. Our patrons are also to ask for the factory certificate of our man. Very Respectfully,
23-2td. Chas. M. Stieff

FRIDAY, MARCH 1st, 1907.

Train schedules seem made for anything else than to run trains by.

The legislature has only about ten more days for work, with the railroad rate matter and several other important measures not yet completed.

Greenville should not go to sleep on the matter of the Eastern training school for teachers. It should not be allowed to die after so much has been done.

There are too many members of the legislature wanting a railroad bill bearing their own name for much in the way of regulation to be accomplished. The proper thing to do is forget themselves and settle down on one bill with an eye as to what is best for the State.

A pretty pickle has developed in the town of Concord. In 1889 the commissioners of that town began drawing $24 each per year as salary. Four years ago the board then in office concluded that amount was not sufficient remuneration for their services and commenced paying themselves $100 each per year, each succeeding board since then following this precedent. Recent investigations disclosed the fact that there was no authority whatever for the commissioners to receive any salary for services, and the present board as well as its predecessors face the dilemma of paying the money thus received back to the town or appealing to the legislature for relief. The facts show there was no intention on the part of the commissioners to take money wrongfully, but it is evident that there was a loose way of conducting the affairs of the town.

The Most Desolate Spot.

Perhaps the most desolate spot on earth is a tiny storm swept islet in Bering sea nearly midway between Alaska and Siberia. Nearly fifty miles from the nearest land, King's Island is a barren rock, so steep that no beach landing can be found. Here on the southern side, perched like nests above the roaring surf and secured to the rocks by walrus thongs, are the skin dwellings of the walrus hunters. Here the sun is never shining, the sea never smooth. Cold, chilly fogs enshroud the place in summer, while the frequent and furious gales that sweep through Bering strait at all seasons render the narrow summit uninhabitable. Ice locked during nine months of the year, the natives depend entirely upon the seal, walrus and whale as a means of existence. During the brief summer a stray whaler may visit the island for a couple of hours, but this is the sole communication with the outer world. The King's Islanders are closely allied to the Alaskan Eskimos. They are a fine, hardy race, inured to daily dangers and privations, and are reckoned the best and bravest sailors in Bering sea. Their boats of walrus hide will carry from twenty to thirty persons in a mountainous sea.

Strange Fuels.

"I have eaten mutton cooked on a fire of broken mummy," said the sailor. "It was in Egypt, and the mummy was stolen out of a tomb. Them natives is always stealin' mummies. They sell them in pieces to tourists, and what pieces they can't dispose of otherwise they throw into the bin for fuel. Mummy burns like tinder, but it's a ghastly fuel. It was as ghastly a fuel as the shoe last that they burn in the shoemakin' town of Lynn, where the old fashioned and hand made lasts glow in the grates look to you like a pile of human Tribbles. I been in tannery towns where the fuel is leather or chips. This fuel smells and smokes. It clinkers, too, formin' itself into big, solid chunks what have to be broke up with the poker every little while. In British Columbia, where fish is as plentiful as air, they burn dried fish when there's no wood handy. The oil in the fish causes them to burn well, but the smell of this fish fuel ain't to no white man's taste."

Pawnshop Art Sales.

"One of the most indefatigable painters in Philadelphia has almost exclusively a pawnshop trade," said a pawnbroker the other day while discussing the many tricks of his business. "He has been working this market," he continued, "for almost four years. I believe I was his first customer. He was reduced to the point where his only capital was a lot of pictures that he could not sell. In his extremity he came to me. I advanced him a little money on several pictures, which I was lucky enough to sell. The funny part of it was that the man himself couldn't sell a picture to save his soul. He finally realized that he was deficient in business ideas and confined himself strictly to painting pictures, while I attended to the sales. At last he got other customers in my line, and today he actually makes a living from the pawnshop trade."—Philadelphia Record.

What Ailed the Speech.

At the close of one of the sessions in the trial of Warren Hastings when most of those engaged had gathered in the anteroom Dr. Parr stalked up and down the room in his peacock, pompous way, growling out phrases of the speeches of Fox and Sheridan, but saying not a word about Burke's. Burke, sensitive at this omission and anxious for some commendation from the great authority, could at last contain himself no longer and burst out: "Doctor, didn't you like my speech?" "No, Edmund," replied Dr. Parr, calmly eyeing his excited questioner. "Your speech was oppressed with metaphor, discolored by parenthesis and debilitated by amplification!"

His Shaky Seat.

A small Canadian ventured into the room while his eldest sister was entertaining a masculine caller. "Mr. Harris," the youth finally interrupted, "I wish you would take me with you some day." "Take you with me!" echoed the caller. "Where do you want to go, Bobbie?" "I heard Mr. Grant, next door, say you were on the water wagon and he guessed you'd soon fall off. I'd love to help you drive."—Canadian Courier.

Eloquent Silence.

There are silences of all sorts, as there is speech of all sorts. There are silences that set one's teeth on edge—it is always a relief to break them—and there are silences that are gentler, kinder, sweeter, more loving, more eloquent than any words and which it always a wrench to interrupt.—Morton Crawford.

French Economy.

France in her system of finance and in her wise and conservative policy and economy, has been among the people. The government conducts a wise banking system whereby every postoffice has its savings bank department—its "caisse d'epargne." No one may make a deposit as low as 1 franc (20 cents), which deposit is recorded in one's "livret de la caisse d'epargne" (savings bank book). A convenient feature of this system tending to make saving easy is that one may make his deposits in any postoffice anywhere in France and may withdraw any part or all his savings at any postoffice, without regard to where the deposits have been made. I have never had a servant in France who had not her "livret de la caisse d'epargne," and yet the girl or woman, if she had no family of her own to support, almost invariably contributed to the support of her father's family. I have had one middle aged "femme de chambre" on whose face each day I could read pretty well how the bourse was going.—Flora McDonald Thompson in Harper's Bazar.

Shopping.

Shopping is a form of cruelty indulged by married ladies toward their husbands. It is incipient in young girls, reaches an active condition in brides and arrives at its most virulent stage between the tenth and the twenty-fifth year of married life. A small, delicate, slight, nervous, sensitive woman who would faint away at an empty mouse trap will go through the shopping district in from two to seven hours and come out refreshed and sustained by an unflinching trust in her husband's credit is good, while that gentleman at the end of forty-five minutes has to be carried home on a stretcher. Some women are born shoppers, others achieve it, but not one of them has it thrust upon her. Shopping is extensively practiced on week days, beginning on Monday with a rush and ending on Saturday in time for the opera. It promotes industry. Without it married men would have time to rest.—Delineator.

Shooting a Rabbit.

In Sullivan county there is a man who spent a whole day hunting, and at nightfall he was returning homeward empty handed when he found a rabbit in a snare and still kicking. He released it and was about to dispatch it with the back of his hand when it occurred to him that he could not say he shot it, as no shot marks would be found to corroborate his story. So he tied a string to one of the hind legs of the rabbit, tied the other end to the fence, backed away twenty yards and fired. The shot cut the string and the bunny ran away. Such a good joke on himself was too good to keep, and he told it at the village grocery, little thinking that it would be handed about, until now if you want to anger him the mere mention of the yarn opens the old sore.—Forest and Stream.

Practicing by Ear.

When Grover Cleveland was practicing law at Buffalo among his associates was a young lawyer who, though a bright fellow, was rather inclined to laziness. He was forever bothering Cleveland about points of law rather than look them up himself. At last Cleveland became tired of it, and the next time the young man sauntered in Cleveland knew what he wanted and, getting up, pointed to his bookcase and said: "There are my books. You are welcome to them. You can read up your own case." The fellow was caught, but he rose to the occasion. "See here, Grover Cleveland," he said, "I want you to understand I don't read law. I practice entirely by ear, and you and your books can go to thunder!"

Women Rule as Babies Do.

The ordinary man would still much rather glorify women and set them on a mock throne, whence he can depose them at will, than have to acknowledge in them a real title to regard. It is difficult for a man to overcome his essential self importance. Most of us perhaps prefer to have inferiors round us—an abject trait of character, but natural. And only very slowly have we men been getting to prefer our womankind as friends and equals rather than as queens and pets, ruling us as a baby or a spoiled dog does.—London Saturday Review.

A Clever Hint.

"You are so popular," sighs the swain. "You have so many suitors!" "The ideal!" smiles the fair young thing. "Why, I can count them all on the fingers of my left hand. See. The index finger is Mr. Smugforth, the second finger is Mr. Balder, and the third finger—the third finger of my left hand—the third finger is you." Next day he got the ring for it.—Chicago Post.

News to Him.

"The beauty of this great and glorious republic," said the American proudly, "is that any boy born here may become president." "Fawncy!" exclaimed the British tourist. "I was under the impression that the president had to be at least forty years of age."—Catholic Standard and Times.

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

digests what you eat, takes the strain off of the heart, and contributes nourishment strength and health to every organ of the body. Cures indigestion, dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the stomach and Digestive Tract, Nervous Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach.

After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.
MRS. LORING NICHOLS, Penn Yan, N. Y.

I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me.
D. KAUBLE, Nevada, O.

Digests What You Eat

Dollar bottle holds 5¢ times as much as the trial, or 50 cent size. Prepared at the Laboratory of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, U.S.A.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of dyspepsia, heartburn, and indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve sickness—nothing else. It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Restorative—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. With out that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accommodations were ever to be had. For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.

A ROOM OF SOBS AND MOANS

Walls, They Say, Have Ears, but These Had Mournful Voices.

"Rooms retain the sighs and sobs of the people who have lived in them," said the woman. "That's the reason I like to live in a new flat that nobody has had time to be unhappy in. I was living in such a flat once when suddenly I took a notion that nothing would do me but a studio in Washington square. You know, there are some of the oldest sort of houses down there—houses that have been lived in and lived in, that people have laughed in sometimes, of course, but that are full of the echoes of sobs.

"You don't believe that, do you? Well, wait till I tell you. I found what I thought was the thing to suit me for life. I concluded to stay there forever. Never to move out of that studio in Washington square. You never saw a more beautiful view from the three windows overlooking the park. Delicate twigs, almost like shadows of twigs, blue skies, fleecy clouds and birds in the trees singing. Besides, there was an open grate for a fire. If I had nothing to eat I concluded that there should always be a fire in that grate.

"But I moved in on a rainy day. The rain lashed the window panes. Some twigs struck at them like knuckles. It was dusk when I got my things straightened about a little and sat down to rest by the open fire. The maid threw on an extra little log for luck and went out. Except for the flicker of the fire-light the room was dark. The light from the fire accentuated the darkness. It left deep shadows in the corners.

"At first I thought the sobs and moans were the rain outside, but when the rain died down the sighs continued. Once the door that I had thought was firmly fastened blew wide open. I was rigid with fright before I got up sufficient courage to rise and lock it. All night long I seemed to hear sighs and whispers.

"I stayed there a month before I asked what the matter was. I became a nervous wreck. The moment dusk came I lighted every gas jet, every candle. I was afraid to go to bed. My bed seemed surrounded by invisible creatures, who sighed and sobbed. Finally I went to the owner.

"Who lived in these rooms before I did?" I asked him.

"A doctor," he answered. "He was also a surgeon. He lived here fifteen years."

"For fifteen years! Patients coming and going, telling their tales of woe, sobbing, moaning, sighing, grieving! No wonder the walls held the memories of their sufferings, had kept their sighs and their sobs! And where my bed stood had stood his operating table. No wonder that around it came those invisible creatures who had sobbed and suffered there!"

"Move?" I couldn't get a van quick enough. The following day found me a long way from that surgeon's studio in Washington square, with its moans and sighs.—New York Press.

Rather Trying.

It must be rather trying to be married to an emotional actress, to have her clutching you by the throat at 3 in the morning and shouting in a hoarse stage whisper:

"Slave, didst lock the kitchen door? The key! Where is it? Quick—I'll strangle thee! Didst lay the milk pitcher on the outer battlements? Ah, me, my lord—I'm mad!"

"Yes," the poor fellow sighs as he extricates his main reservoir from her bony clutch, "mad as a March hare and more aggravating."—London Express.

A Christian Pianist.

A young woman receiving instruction in piano playing was told one day by her instructor that she was a "Christian pianist." On the way home she debated what might be meant by the expression. Her father also considered the "compliment" as doubtful and, meeting the instructor a few days later, asked why his daughter had been called a "Christian pianist." "Oh, sir," was the reply, "I simply meant she didn't let her right hand know what her left hand does."—Philadelphia Record.

Feline Ingenuity.

Short—I thought you were going to drown that cat?

Long—Well, they say a cat has nine lives, but this one has twenty, I think. Why, I actually put that cat into a tub of water and tied a brick round its neck, and what do you think?

Short—Goodness knows.

Long—Well, this morning when I went to look at the tub the cat had swallowed all the water and was sitting on the brick.—London Answers.

The Berry He Was.

When Bishop Berry of the Methodist Episcopal church was a young preacher he once gave a lecture in a rural community. Wishing to be witty, he announced to his audience that he was a berry and called upon them to state what kind of berry. Nearly every berry known in the vicinity was guessed, and the speaker refused to share the qualities of any of those named. At last an old lady who was not sympathetic with the seeming levity of the lecturer, arose and exclaimed in a squeaky voice: "I know what kind of a berry you are. You are a gooseberry and a very green one at that. Go on with the lecture." And the lecturer did quickly.—Christian Work.

Animal Shells.

It is a curious fact that the shells of certain animals, such as cephalopods, brachiopods and some bivalves, are commonly marked by retrogressive changes as age advances. "The old man returns to second childhood in mind and body," states a well known scientist at Washington, "and the shell of the cephalopod has in old age, however distinct and highly ornamental the adult, very close resemblance to its own young."

Started Early Enough.

"I want to talk to you, Mary, about that young man of yours," said her father. "When did he say good night to you last evening?"

"At 10 o'clock," replied the fair girl.

"What? Why, it was 1 o'clock at least!"

"Oh, that was when he finished saying it!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

His Second Book.

"Your first book, if it is a success, generally leads to the success of the second," remarked a rising author.

"Yes, indeed," said another. "It was the success of my first book that made my second. My second book," he added, "was a bank book."

Old Age and Rushing.

You may join the mile a minute class, but no oil has been discovered yet that will keep all the eggs in condition. Good old age was never a sequel to a rush.—Manchester Union.

Modern Irish.

As a professional student of languages I have no hesitation in saying that modern Irish is more difficult than ancient Greek.—Manchester Guardian.

If the poor cannot always get meat the rich man cannot always digest it.—Giles.

Providing for the Future.

There is one problem that dominates the home, an obtrusive, pervasive problem that oftentimes the whole horizon of life, one that, like Banquo's ghost "will not down;" it is the ever-present question of home financing. When we have mastered the "to have," the problem for the "to hold" confronts us. It is the question of providing for the home which can never be properly answered until we realize that "provide" is a verb that should ever be conjugated in two tenses—present and future.

There is in our American life, too often, a blind optimism in living up an income, in assuming that because the sun of prosperity shines warmly today there is no need of providing umbrellas for a possible rainy tomorrow. Those who wisely live within an income rarely have to face the problem of trying to live without one. There are two simple guaranties against future poverty and dependence on others, two great safe-guards for home and family—a bank-book and an insurance policy. They represent the material defense of the home, a bulwark of love's forethought standing strong and firm in the hour of need.—William George Jordan in the March Delineator.

To stop a cold with "Preventics" is safer than to let it run and cure it afterwards. Taken at the "sneeze stage" Preventics will head off all colds and Grippe and perhaps save you from Pneumonia or Bronchitis. Preventics are little toothsome cold cure tablets selling in 5 cent and 25 cent boxes. If you are chilly, if you begin to sneeze, try Preventics. They will surely check the cold, and please you. Sold by Bryan's Drug Store.

Croup can positively be stopped in 20 minutes. No vomiting—nothing to sicken or distress your child. A sweet pleasant and safe Syrup called Dr. Shoop's Croup Cure, does the work and does it quickly. Dr. Shoop's Croup Cure is for croup alone, remember. It does not claim to cure a dozen ailments. It's for croup, that's all. Sold by Bryan's Drug Store.

Advice to mothers. Don't let your children waste away. They can be strong, healthy and vigorous with Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. It's a swift winged messenger of health. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets.
Wooten's Drug Store.

Does Coffee disagree with you? Probably it does! Then try Dr. Shoop's Health-Coffee. Health-Coffee is a clever combination of parched cereals and nuts. Not a grain of real coffee, remember in Dr. Shoop's Health-Coffee, yet it's flavor matches closely old Java add Mocha coffee. If your stomach heart or kidneys can't stand coffee drinking, try Health-Coffee. It is wholesome, nourishing and satisfying. It's safe even for the smallest child. Sold by T. E. Kooker & C.
