

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes from a Hustling Town.
Ayden, N. C., Mar. 5.

Mrs. F. T. Carr, of Willow Green, and daughter Mrs. G. W. Darden, of Farmville, spent Monday with Mrs. Dr. Blount.

Things were certainly lively with our merchants last Saturday. They nor their clerks hardly seemed to have time to say "psui", Ayden is no dull town. There are crowds here nearly every day and they bring money and they spend it, too. That's what makes the old mare go. If you don't believe come and see, there may be a dollar here for you.

Don't forget the Philips Comedy Company in the opera house here Friday night, 8th inst.

Miss Earle Tucker, of Grifton, came yesterday to visit Miss Sallie Bet Quinnerly.

We would hate mighty bad to travel from here to Kinston and back as some folks do without any visible results.

Miss Arah Davis came home Friday evening from the Wilson Christian College in honor of her birthday and to visit her prents. She returned to Wilson Monday evening.

Misses Gussie and Annie Lawrence came over from Winterville Friday on their way to visit their parents in Greene county. They are attending school in the former place.

Misses Anna Belle Kittrell, Sallie Bet Quinnerly and Master Will Quinnerly were in Grifton from Friday until Monday.

W. S. Blount, of Grifton, spent Saturday in Ayden. We are informed Mr. Blount anticipates moving here at an early date. Ayden will extend him and his family a cordial welcome.

James Grimsley, a prominent and wealthy farmer near Ormondsville, died Saturday evening and was buried Sunday afternoon. Mr. Grimsley was an old ex-Confederate soldier and was held in very high regard by those who knew him.

Mrs. Florence Burnette, and Miss Letha Burnette, of Farmville, were the guests of Mrs. W. J. Hemby during the past week.

Mrs. Dinah Jones from near Farmville, has been visiting her sister Mrs. J. S. Ross.

Hon. Johnston Nichols arrived Saturday evening from South Carolina to visit his father at this place.

Sidney Carr, of Greene, spent Sunday here.

Sam Frost has been on a visit to Marlboro.

Malone Tucker, from near Greenville, spent Saturday night with W. E. Patrick.

Frank Patrick, of Greenville, has been visiting his uncle, C. L. Patrick.

C. L. Williams has purchased the livery business of T. W. Hart.

T. W. Hart spent Sunday in Kinston.

Another of those baby cry howling daddies in Ayden. It's Ed Patrick this time. Great Coasar, when will the millium come!

We are glad that Cam Nobles, who has been threatened with appendicitis, is very much better. Mrs. Carney, of Rocky Mount, is here on a visit to friends.

The Phillips Comedy Company has an engagement here on the 8th inst. Tickets at usual popular prices. Remember the 8th opera house of Hooks & Gardner.

Really it seems there is no end

CHIEF CHASON STILL LIVES.

Details of Walker's Capture.

Fayetteville, March 3.—Chief of Police Chason and Officer Buckingham, who were shot here last night by the negro, Tom Walker, at the time that he murdered Officer Lockamy, in resisting the search of his house for contraband liquor, are lying at Highsmith Hospital in a most precarious condition, really hovering between life and death. The attending physicians are unable to hold out much hope for the recovery of either of the wounded men, and it will probably be 24 hours before they can hazard a definite opinion of their ultimate condition.

The arrest of Walker, the murderer, at Dunn last night about midnight was effected by Howard Smith, D. K. Taylor and H. L. Lamb, negroes of the posse who had gone upon train 82 of the Atlantic Coast Line in search of him. Walker had beat his way to Dunn on a freight train and bought a ticket for Washington. He then boarded train 82 and Mr. Smith recognized him and covered him with a revolver. Walker had shaved off his mustache and his face blacked. He was taken in charge by Sheriff Watson, of this county, and Mr. J. B. Tillingham, of Fayetteville, and taken to Raleigh for safe keeping.

Excitement was intense here all night, but all is quiet to-day.

Puzzle for Postoffice Clerks.

Cleverness is one of the attributes necessary for every man who is employed in the postoffice sorting mail, for he meets with all kinds of freaks in the shape of letters peculiarly addressed. Some jokers appear to think that all the postal clerk has to do is to solve puzzles.

Recently at the Boston office a letter was received addressed "Wood, Mass.," with a line drawn under the "Wood," and over the "Mass." The letter went out the same day it was received and reached Mark Underwood, Andover, Mass., for whom it was intended, and the postal clerk who solved the riddle did not think he had done anything brilliant. It was all in his day's work.—Boston Journal.

Heartily Endorsed.

With all heartiness The Observer commends to the people of the State the Richardson Trio, of Charlotte, which is about entering upon a tour. It is composed of a delightful party of gentlemen, with Prof. Don A. Richardson at its head, and will not fail to entertain any audience which knows how to appreciate music.—Charlotte Observer.

Greenville is to have the pleasure of hearing the Richardson Trio in Masonic Temple opera house Thursday night, March 25th.

Caught Another.

Policeman George Clark reports the catch of another possum, so he feels all right once more even if the one he had up fattening went and died.

to last year's cotton crop in this section. It is coming on our market every day. Last week we saw R. T. Cox receive a check for more than nine hundred dollars for a lot sold by him one day.

After spending several days away visiting friends in various sections, Mrs. H. C. Ormond has returned.

A REVIEW OF CONGRESS' WORK.

Appropriations During Short Session Approximate a Billion Dollars.

Washington, March 4.—More money has been appropriated during the short session of the 59th congress, which passed into history at noon today than during any previous session. The amount, as near as can be estimated, approximates a billion dollars.

Two big battleships were authorized for the navy, and the artillery corps of the army was reorganized and enlarged. A general service pension was granted to veterans of the Mexican and civil wars, and like provision was made for army nurses. For river and harbor improvements the appropriation aggregate $83,000,000.

Increased salaries were given to cabinet officers, the vice president and senators, the speaker of the house of representatives and its members, ambassadors, ministers and counsels; to post-office clerks and letter carriers.

The public made more inquires for information from the document rooms of congress regarding the ship subsidy bill, the currency measure and the bill regulating the hours of railway employes than any other pending legislation. Ship subsidy died hard in the last hours. The other two measures became laws as the session closed.

The immigration bill, one of the measures brought over from the long session, was completed under the spur of the president. That he might meet the California Japanese situation by giving the administration control of coolie importation through pass ports. The bill further restricts the admission of liens to the country.

A bill was passed for the establishment of an agricultural bank in the Phillipine Islands.

The free alcohol law of last session was modified that farmers may distill the waste products of the farm to be debarred and used for arts and sciences.

The right of appeal in criminal cases was granted the government, a measure intended to strengthen the anti-trust legislation by affording a means whereby the Supreme court may pass upon the constitutionality and construction of such laws.

An investigation was authorized regarding the condition of women and child workers.

The inter State commerce commission was authorized to ascertain if the express companies of the country are evading the railroad rate law of last session by buying, selling and handling on consignment fruit, vegetables and oysters.

Reed Smoot was retained by the senate as a senator from Utah, ending a four years' controversy.

The senate ratified treaties with Santo Domingo and Algeria. The president was authorized to use his good offices to prevent atrocities in the Congo.

The senate also launched an exhaustive investigation of the Brownsville affray.

The kickers on the farm are not so hard to get along with as the kickers in town. On the farm there is the kicking cow, and our long eared friend, the mule, while in town there is the old mossback who wants all the municipal improvements without paying for them. The cow may be sold for beef, the mule traded for a shot gun but nothing but a funeral will get rid of the kicker.—Louisburg Times.

OAKLEY ITEMS.

Oakley, N. C. March 5, 1907.

P. S. Mizzell, of Robersonville, was with us last Sunday. Station Master Cherry went to Washington Saturday.

Gordan Hines has gone to Tarboro today.

J. L. Corey and wife, of Keelsville, spent Sunday here with Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Williams. J. R. Williams spent Saturday and Sunday at Alwood.

The basket party here last week for the church was a success, all denominations taking part, and baskets was pretty. The boys bid lively, and all enjoyed it very much, all come off well pleased by having spent a delightful evening and helped a noble cause.

Rev. J. D. Bryant filled his appointment Sunday p. m. to a crowded congregation. He preached an eloquent sermon.

We are glad to state that W. E. Fleming, after several weeks of sickness, is able to be out.

Miss Mary Taylor visited at Pactolus Monday.

Good many from Robersonville and Stokes came Sunday to church.

The weather is delightful; our farmers are putting in good time tilling the soil and planting potatoes.

How to Treat Bad-Tempered Children.

A mother's patience is at no time so taxed as when she has to deal with a child who is the unfortunate possessor of a bad temper. One often sees, however, that there is a lack of knowledge among some women as to the proper way to manage such children.

Although bad temper does not rank as a vice, it ultimately may be as harmful and makes more unhappiness in a home than almost any other fault. Parents, therefore, who have their children's well-being at heart do well to check it before it becomes totally ungovernable.

It should be wrestled with early, and overcome if possible. As punishment for an outburst of temper, a holiday or promised treat should be cancelled, or the child should be sent to bed. The young naturally crave for praise and love, so perhaps the most effectual and moral way to deal with this fault is to inculcate in the child the dread of going through life unpopular and disliked on account of a trait which it is quite possible to alter for the better if he really wishes to do so.

But before taking measures to cure a child's ill-temper parents should endeavor to probe the matter to the root, and so ascertain the cause of the little one's irritation. It is so usual for children to be happy and light-hearted that peevishness is more often than not the outcome of some physical infirmity, and if this be the cause judicial treatment of a child's body will be more just than punishment.—Ex.

MORE GOOD NEWS.

School Bill Passes House Unanimously.

The following telegram received here a little past noon today, brought more good news to the people interested in the training school for teachers in Eastern North Carolina:

Raleigh, N. C., March 5.
W. H. Ragsdale,
Greenville, N. C.

Within last five minutes school bill passed third reading in house unanimously.

Alex L. Blow.

Nothing else is looked for now but for the senate to quickly pass the bill, and then the school is a certainty.

RUN DOWN BY A TRAIN.

A Norfolk & Southern Special Kills. Furney Freeman, Traveling Blind Tiger, Near Kinston.

Kinston, March 3.—Shortly after midnight this morning a special train on the Norfolk & Southern, killed Furney Freeman, white, about two miles from Kinston. The train was running from Goldsboro after the performance of "The Clansman" and struck a hand car at a sharp curve just beyond Neuse river bridge.

Freeman and his son, about 15 years old were on the car with a number of jugs of blockade whiskey. Every jug of whiskey was broken except one gallon. Young Freeman jumped from the car before the train struck it and was uninjured.

It is thought the elder Freeman was too intoxicated to realize the danger. He was struck on the head and both arms and both legs were broken. The train returned to Kinston with the body, which was buried this afternoon.

The ladies of the Baptist church were planning to open the shirt waist sale next Friday, but owing to the organ recital in the new Methodist church Friday night, the sale will be postponed until Friday, March 15th.

ON BOTTOM OF BOAT.

Captain and Mate in Perilous Position Twenty-four Hours.

Elizabeth City, N. C., March 4th.—A message by wire was received here this morning of the perilous experience of Captain Quidley and Mate Blance, of the schooner Loren, in Pamlico Sound, yesterday.

About noon the schooner which is about fourteen tons burden and plies regularly between Hatteras and Elizabeth City, on her way to Elizabeth City encountered a gale, and was capsized. The captain and his mate succeeded in gaining a position on the bottom of the overturned craft and lashed themselves with ropes where they remained until last night, being over twenty-four hours that they were in this perilous position. They were finally reached by the captain of a gasoline boat. A considerable sum of money and some valuable papers were lost.

Child Labor Law Passed the House.

The house yesterday passed on its final reading the Dilling bill to regulate and restrict child labor in manufacturing establishments and to regulate the hours of labor. There was a long debate on the bill and several amendments were made, but there was a general determination to save the "seed-corn" of the State. The bill provides that no child under twelve years of age shall be employed in any factory or manufacturing establishment in the State, and after 1907 no child under thirteen years of age shall be employed or work in a factory except in apprenticeship capacity, and only then after having attended school four months in the preceding twelve months. The bill also provides that not exceeding sixty-six hours shall constitute a week's work, and no person under eighteen years of age shall be required to work for a longer period. After 1907 no boy or girl under fourteen years shall work in a factory after 10 o'clock at night. The bill if passed by the Senate, will go into effect January 1, 1908.—Raleigh Cewh and Observer.

The lawyers are trying to work the insanity dodge for Strother brothers, too.

Congress has pulled down its flag and for a season there will be rest from that quarter.

The South Dakota legislature defeated the bill introduced at the suggestion of the governor of that State to refund to North Carolina the $30,000 collected on those repudiated bonds.

The press dispatches say that suit has been brought by members of her family against Mrs. Eddy, the head of the Christian Scientists, to make her render an account in her affairs, and that much consternation in Christian Science circles has resulted.

Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, has grown weary of the game and sent in his resignation. He said being senator required him to make too much sacrifice. No doubt there are plenty others willing to make it.

With congress adjourned and the legislature soon to adjourn, there will be nothing left but the Thaw trial. The president will have to break loose again, as something must happen to keep the reading public occupied.

The Foreign Element in our Social and Industrial Structure.

So generous is the contribution of the foreigner to many classes of occupations that the departure of that element would completely disarrange in many States, the proportion of persons gainfully employed. The native Americans, generally composing the so-called prosperous and influential classes, in many communities would not be balanced by workers in humble callings. Mines and quarries would lose two-thirds of their workers; approximately the same proportion of the servant class would disappear, as would also considerably more than half of the 10,000,000 wage-earners absolutely essential to all the manifold activities of complex modern life, leaving a native white remnant and the negro to build houses, and to work upon the street and in the office, shop and home. Even of clerks, salesmen, and persons in the minor commercial callings, the proportion lost would be disproportionately large. Moreover, the percentage of those in higher callings,—merchants, bankers, manufacturers, and corporation officials,—lost by the departure of the foreign element would be close upon half of the total number. In fact, of all the classes of occupations, agriculture and the professions alone would be comparatively little affected by the departure of the foreign element.—From "Why We Need the Immigrant," by William S. Rosziter, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for March.

Are we here in the South to lose sight of the silver dollar? Those who have cotton fields would regret such a condition of affairs, but there would be no mourning in the cities. The silver dollar is rejected as change whenever it can be, because it is so cumbersome to carry. The negroes in the country want silver dollars, however, and hence there will continue to be more or less of them afloat. Congress has cut off the appropriation for their transportation, and it is doubtful if the banks will incur the expense. They can get other money that answers their purpose just as well at much less cost. The West and South made a fight for an appropriation of $120,000 to pay for transporting silver dollars, but the majority was too strong for letting them remain in the treasury unless the banks paid for sending them back and forth from the treasury. If they practically disappear from circulation there will not be much regret felt for their scarcity.—Savannah News.

ALPINE CLIMBERS.

"Mountain Scratchers" Held in Contempt by the Natives.

There are few things that rouse the Swiss inhabitants of Alpine villages to contemptuous anger so much as the spectacle of ignorant tourists anxious to attack the unknown heights of dangerous mountains. These villagers have spent their lives among the mountains and realize their perils. When they see some stupid newcomer starting out alone on what may be nothing less than a suicidal venture, says the London Express, they say to each other, "Another mountain scratcher!"

The sensible tourist never by any means purchases an ice ax. One day I noticed a man enter one of the shops. He looked at the ice axes and finally bought one. "No one but a mountain scratcher would buy an ice ax at a toy shop," said my guide.

The next day I started out for an easy excursion to the glacier, having the same guide with me who had pointed out the mountain scratcher at the shop. He at once told me that the "scratcher" had also started for the glacier unattended.

When we began to get on the glacier the guide fastened the rope around my waist. Not being a climber, I had only my alpenstock. The guide's ice ax was ample for the cutting of necessary steps.

In a short time we saw the mountain scratcher. He was chipping away with his ax on a broad slope of ice that reached away into illimitable distance.

Without wasting words the guide stopped me and untied the rope. "Stay where you are," he said. "That fool is right in the track of the avalanches. I must get him out of that at once. He may be killed any moment."

The guide soon came near his man, but he was over him, and a deep crevasse separated them. I saw the guide thrust his ax forward, but the man's nerve failed, and he did not grasp it. The guide said that he must act promptly and thrust the point of the ax into the man's coat and under his leather belt and pulled him up by sheer force.

The two came back to where I was waiting. There was a low rumbling noise, which grew louder and louder. White drifts of moving ice came hurtling down over the slope where but a few moments before the man had been standing. We had reached him just in time.

Proposed in Public.
One of the most unique specimens of the courting crisis on record occurred at a London dinner party. He had long made love to her, and while at the table he learned from a friend sitting next to him that his rival intended to "pop the question" that very day. What was to be done? He was some distance from her, while the dreaded rival was at her side. Tearing a leaf from a notebook, he wrote on it with a pencil: "Will you be my wife? Write your answer, yes or no, on this paper and return it to me." This he sent to her by a waiter, saying: "To the lady in blue at the end of the table. Be very careful." This servant was careful enough, but the sender forgot to give him the pencil for the lady to use. She didn't have a pencil, but she coolly put the note into her bosom and answered to the waiter, "Tell the gentleman yes," with as little betrayal of excitement as if she were accepting an invitation to a game of croquet.

Humors of the Law.
Law and equity are two things which God has joined together and man has put asunder. When a prisoner in Justice Maule's court was asked whether he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon him, he replied, "I wish God may strike me dead if I stole the ducks." Maule waited for about a minute and then said: "Prisoner, as Providence has not interfered I must. Three months' hard labor."
A mayor on taking his seat on the bench for the first time informed the bar that during his year of office he would spare no effort to be neither partial nor impartial.—Address of Sir Albert Rollit in London.

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

digests what you eat, takes the strain off of the heart, and contributes nourishment, strength and health to every organ of the body. Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the Stomach and Digestive Tract, Nervous Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach.

After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain in congestion, pain in blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effects are charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 30 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruiise your finger, but doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply common sense.
We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

THE VALENTINE.

We Can Find Its Origin In An Ancient Roman Feast.

A fact in natural history—to wit, that birds in southern Europe pair about the middle of February—is said to have inspired a custom of the ancient Romans to which the origin of the modern valentine can undoubtedly be traced. At the feast of the Lupercalia, held in honor of the great god Pan, the names of the virgin daughters of Rome were put in a box and drawn therefrom by the young men. Each youth was bound to offer a gift to the maiden who fell to his lot and to make her his partner during the time of the feast. How this secular custom became allied to the name of a saint is altogether a different matter. St. Valentine was a bishop of Rome during the third century. He is said to have been a man of very amiable nature and most eloquent of speech, wherefore he was very successful in converting the pagan Romans to Christianity. Marcus Aurelius was then emperor, a relentless persecutor of the Christians, and by his order the bishop was beheaded. The date of his death was Feb. 14, 270 A. D. We find the statement in Archbishop Wheatley's "Illustrations of the Book of Common Prayer" that "St. Valentine was a man of admirable parts and so famous for his love and charity that the custom of choosing valentines upon his festival took its rise from thence." But probably the connection of name is wholly due to a coincidence of date. When the saint's name was placed in the church calendar the day of his death was made a festival to offset that of the Lupercalia, on the 15th. In Allen Butler's "Lives of the Saints" we read that the zealous Christian fathers tried to substitute the names of the saints for those of girls in the lottery game, but without success. So the "valentine" custom spread from Rome through Europe to Great Britain, always in high favor, and later, in the form of sending tender missives, came to America and down to the present time.—Housekeeper.

Of Doubtful Import.

Not long ago a fond and rather romantically inclined father was approached by a young man whose intention was to ask the parent's consent to the marriage of himself and the other's daughter.

After considerable stammering and confusion the older man grasped the other's meaning and beamed benevolently upon him. He rose and placed one hand upon the youth's shoulder in a kindly way.

"So, so. Yes, after all, I guess my little girl is grown up and must have a mate," he said. "Tell me frankly, young man, is it her heart or her money that you are after?"

The young fellow blushed painfully, but with a thrill of pride he threw out his chest and answered, "I already have her heart in my keeping, sir!"—Leslie's.

Much Broken by Misfortune.

Mrs. Cartwright, in search of a painter to touch up her kitchen walls, was directed to Napoleon Lamere. "Do you think," asked Mrs. Cartwright, eyeing tottering Napoleon doubtfully, "that you could paint the side walls of my kitchen?"

"But yes, madam," returned Napoleon, "ceef dose appartment eed ees not of a too large highness. Eel you ave som w't you call low down job, me, I can do heem de most bes' of haanybody else.

"But, madam! Helas! No more can I do dose up high ceiling, dose steep roof, dose so elevate church steep, dose sky-rape. Me, I ave hon ma two foot too great of de shake. Behol! Already, madam, me, I ave de large misfortune to broke seex of ma laig."

A Narrow Escape.

First Traveler—So you have returned from Africa? Second Traveler—Yes. First T.—Any narrow escapes, eh? Second T.—Only one—a regular prize winner, I should think. First T.—Let me hear it. Second T.—Well, I was chased by a big lion, and, having no cartridges left, I threw away my rifle and faced the brute, but as he sprang at me I caught him by the lower jaw with one hand and by the nose with the other, and there I stood and held his mouth wide open until he starved to death. A narrow escape, eh?

An Exploded Theory.

"My dear," remarked Mr. Grouch when the argument threatened to reach a climax, "it has occurred to me that a single man is a wise man. A woman to gain knowledge must be married."

"I could readily support your theory," replied Mrs. Grouch, "but unfortunately I recall that Solomon, the wisest man, had 700 wives. And perhaps, dear, you might also have an inkling of the fact that Minerva, the goddess of wisdom, never married."—Brooklyn Life.

TEACHER'S ASSOCIATION.

Program for Saturday, March 9th.

11 a. m. Devotional exercises, Rev. J. E. Ayscue.

11:15. Reading of minutes and roll call.

11:20. Number work in the first, second and third grades, Miss Lela Brown.

11:40 Arithmetic in the fourth and fifth grades, Miss Delle Clements.

12. Reading in the third and fourth grades, Miss Etta F. Peace.

2:20. How I teach Arithmetic. Supt. W. H. Cale.

2:40 Address. Supt. C. W. Massey, of Durham.

1 p. m. Adjournment.

The weather was so bad at the time of the last meeting that we did not expect you. From the above program you will see that Supt. C. W. Massey, of Durham, will speak for us. He has a fine teachers' association in his county. He is a special friend of mine and I want to ask every teacher in the county to be present at this meeting, if for no other reason for my sake. There will be a short meeting of the Woman's Betterment Association immediately after the adjournment of the teachers' association. It is desired by the officers that you remain a short while to this meeting. All teachers who intend to enter the contest for the $25 prize for the greatest improvement in school houses and grounds will send or hand in their names at this meeting next Saturday or they will be debarred from contesting. This is made necessary by the fact that the April meeting will be the last meeting of the teachers during this term and the prize will have to be awarded at the April meeting. Full announcements about reports, etc., will be made at this meeting next Saturday.
W. H. Ragsdale,
Supt. Schools.

JAPANESE POETRY.

Writing Verse is a Part of the Polite
Life of the Nation.

"There are no long poems in Japanese," says a writer. "A long poem is unthinkable to the people of Japan. They have what sometimes pass for long excursions in verse, but these are really nothing more than short poems strung together, lacking all unity save that of subject. The favorite forms are the hokku, consisting of three lines, the first having five, the second having seven and the third having five syllables, seventeen in all; the tanka, consisting of five lines of five, seven,
five, seven and seven syllables,
thirty-one in all, and the dojutsu, consisting of four lines of seven,
seven, seven and five syllables, or twenty-six in all. The tanka is the classical form, affected by the standard poets of the country, while the other forms are used by every Japanese who writes at all and by many who cannot.
The hokku is the greatest favorite.

"The hokku is composed impromptu upon every occasion, the writer putting into verse the thought appropriate to the moment, the incident or the associations suggested, much as the Greeks wrote their epigrams before the epigram became a little satiric sting. Hok-kus are inspired by grave moments as well as by the gay ones. An old statesman on his deathbed sees a dead leaf whirled past his window, and it suggests his own faring forth on the wings of eternity, and he writes, 'A leaf whirls down—a leaf whirls down in the wind.' Nothing more, but the simple repetition pours out volumes with beauty and power.

"These little poems are so much a part of Japanese life that every cultivated person writes them, and all who go to 'view' the flowers, the blossoming of the cherry trees or the reddening maples in Ueyeno or other parks, write some pretty conceit in a hokku and hang it upon the chrysanthemum or lotus stalks or on the trees. The hokku may, therefore, be justly called the song of Japan, as we say a certain ecstasy in a few notes is the song of the thrush."

This adv. changed every Monday.
