

GREENVILLE, THE PLACE FOR EASTERN TRAINING SCHOOL.

Hassell, N. C., March 5th.
Editor Reflector.

In behalf of Eastern training school of North Carolina, I wish to say a few words. Nothing is more badly needed at this time than a training school in our own locality. Every citizen living in this part of the State ought to become thoroughly aroused and enthusiastic and help maintain and support a good cause, a cause which means the upbuilding and uplifting of every one of its citizens. Our people do not want to be the most illiterate class of people in the State, and in order to prevent this, we must fight faithfully for our rights, as our forefathers did in securing our independence.

Education of the children is so badly neglected today. There are two great reasons for this:

1st: The committee make a mistake in securing a teacher from another part of the State, or perhaps another State, whose chief object is to teach for the profit she gets, not that she has the slightest interest in the child, or even tries to promote or advance the child; thus, this is one great reason why we need an Eastern training school, so that we may educate our own girls who understand and who are in sympathy with the child.

2nd. Another reason that the child doesn't advance as rapidly as he should, he doesn't receive the proper encouragement from the parents. Parents, you who read this, think of it, inquire about your children, manifest some interest, and you will see great and marked changes. So many of our citizens entertain the wrong idea concerning our training school. The object of this school is not to damage any other school, nor by any means to damage the grand and noble work of Dr. Charles McIver, whose memory will ever be loved and cherished, but it is for this; to train and to educate properly and thoroughly our own girls.

So many of our people are greatly annoyed and troubled in securing their teachers. Why is this? Because many of our girls who are anxious to teach, are not competent. Quite naturally those living nearest the colleges have the best advantages, and are more in demand. Feeling their importance, they flatly refuse to come East, saying that our climate is unhealthy, thus if we had a training school of our own, we should be independent, and could furnish our own teachers, who are anxious, ambitious and competent. It is now to the interest of every citizen of North Carolina, as well as Eastern Carolina, to become interested, and educate your children, as the day is now at hand when a person is judged and valued by what he knows, and not by what he is worth, and it should be constantly borne in mind that the children of today will make the men and women of tomorrow. As our citizens are, so will our State be. In order to enjoy good government and prosperity the education of each and every child should be carefully noticed and considered.

It is my earnest desire, that an Eastern training school may be established at an early date, and that Greenville may be the fortunate town. No people will be more loyal, more enthusiastic, or more zealous, than the people of Greenville, and no people will do

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

Notes from our bustling Neighbor.
Winterville, N. C. March 6, '07.

Theodore Cox, who spent last week at Wilson, has returned home.

W. H. Rouse is having his residence painted which adds greatly to its appearance.

Jesse Cannon and little daughter, Irna, of Ayden, spent Sunday afternoon here visiting relatives.

J. D. Cox went to Coxville Monday on a surveying trip.

G. E. Lineberry and J. R. Carroll went to Greenville Saturday afternoon.

Dr. Cox is a very busy man now as there is much sickness in his territory. Yet he is in excellent spirits. It is a boy.

Rev. N. H. Shepherd, of Fremont, will preach at the Baptist church tonight (Wednesday) March 6. All are cordially invited to hear him.

We hear very much complaint about the bad condition of the roads just at this time. The farmers and traveling public never realize the full extent of loss sustained to their vehicles and teams by this bad condition of affairs. The time lost also is enormous. Suppose a farmer lives five miles from market, he can make probably three loads of fertilizer per day, carrying 1600 lbs at a load. If he should have a good road, he could carry 2000 lbs, thus gaining nearly a load in a day. The good road would also benefit him in the same way during the marketing season. Labor, teams and vehicles are very expensive; thus it would be to the interest of everyone to invest more in straightening, draining and grading our roads and have our highways in a condition that would be a credit to our boasted civilization. This is a problem worthy of consideration from a strict business standpoint.

The Pitt County Oil Co. has put in a phone which will add greatly to the convenience of the managers and also to its patrons.

J. F. Stokes was here Monday.

Our clever and efficient R. F. D. carriers can face these cold, wet days with a better spirit since their salaries have been raised. Success to them.

The building spirit has in no wise departed from our citizens. Two more new houses are in course of erection.

Weather.

Fair tonight, Thursday fair, warmer.

One of the Reflector forces, C. D. Morton, being on the sick list, puts the work in bad shape for the time being.

more for its progress than the people of Pitt and surrounding counties. Those of you who have daughters whom you are contemplating to educate for teachers, prepare to send them to the training school. Wake up and become interested and remember you are living in a wonderful age of prosperity. Those of you who haven't thought to this matter in the proper light, consider it carefully, and although your education may have been scant and limited ought to make you all the more anxious about your children, realizing the time is at hand when a good, thorough, practical, education is the necessity of success in life.

Miss Rosa L. Moore.

NEGRO MAKES CONFESSION.

Had Committed Murder and Many Burglaries.

Two negroes were hanged in February at Farmville, Va., for murder. One of these, named Jesse Ruffin, in a confession told of a number of burglaries he had committed, his crimes covering portions of West Virginia, Virginia and North Carolina. Among the North Carolina towns mentioned he said he broke in four dwellings at Ayden. While he did not mention Greenville, he might have been the same party who committed a burglary in this town, as it is recalled that a house was broken into here a few nights after the burglaries in Ayden. This was followed by reported burglaries at points above here, indicating that the perpetrator of them was moving up the railroad. Robersonville, Williamston, Tarboro, Enfield, Halifax and Weldon and other places were named by Ruffin as towns where he had broken in houses, and after leaving this road he visited towns between Weldon and Durham.

Striking Features of the Jamestown Fair.

The Jamestown Tercentennial will spend in round numbers about $10,000,000 upon the grounds, buildings, and exhibits. But that large sum will furnish but a small number of the exposition and will be but a minute fraction of the vast monetary values that will be represented in other ways. For instance, every nation in the world has made arrangements to exhibit sections of its navy, some with a surprisingly large number of various types of their fighting craft; and many of the powers have also agreed to send large numbers of their soldiery to the general friendly rendezvous. A naval expert, basing his calculations upon data furnished by the United States Government and the other governments that will participate, has figured that there will be anchored in Hampton Roads at the time of the exposition fighting craft alone that would represent an outlay of $250,000,000. And it will not mean bewilderment or monotony. Every variety of fighting craft in existence today will be on display, from the tiniest torpedo messenger boat to the largest battleship or armored cruiser; and the United States Government at least will have a display illustrating the evolution of the fighting vessel from the early days of the nation down to the present time.

The display of commercial and passenger craft in ordinary use in and about Hampton Roads at the time of the exposition will present a feature of interest fully as great as any that the exposition could give, particularly to all inland visitors. And the forts around Hampton Roads (Fortress Monroe and the Rip-raps), the navy yard at Norfolk, and the gigantic shipbuilding plant at Newport News will easily represent, apart from a sentimental historic value, an outlay of another $100,000,000. And these features are such as may not be found in duplicate anywhere else along the Atlantic Coast.—From "The Jamestown Tercentenary Exposition," in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for March.

Easter greetings, birthday greetings and greetings from Greenville post cards at Reflector Book Store.

PASSED AMID APPLAUSE.

Action of House on Eastern School Bill.

The extract below is taken from the Raleigh News and Observer's report of the proceedings of the house branch of the General Assembly on Tuesday, when the bill to establish an Eastern training school came up as a special order:

The house went into consideration of the bill providing for high school instruction and the establishment of a teachers' training school in Eastern Carolina.

Mr. Blount, explaining the bill, said it was a committee substitute for other bills introduced. It had received the unanimous support of the senate and house committees on education and had received the unanimous endorsement of the senate and house committees on appropriations. It carried but a small appropriation, but in other respects, was one of the most important bills that had passed the General Assembly in a generation.

The bill had the endorsement of the governor, the council of state and the superintendent of public instruction, and the acting president of the State normal college at Greensboro.

Mr. Blount opposed the bill on the ground that the establishment of a training school in the east might damage the Greensboro school, and several Greensboro normal graduates in his county had written him and urged that he oppose the bill.

Mr. Blount further explained that the bill had the cordial support of President Foust, of the Greensboro normal college, and it was so drawn to the satisfaction of all parties, that it could not central school at Greensboro.

The bill passed its second reading by an almost unanimous vote. On its third reading, Mr. Stephens, of Union, objected.

Mr. Doughton, of Alleghany, hoped the bill would be passed. He said the people of the east were entitled to it. They had always been liberal and fair in supporting other institutions, and all parties had agreed on this bill. Mr. Bowman, of Mitchell, favored the bill and said he hoped it would pass without a dissenting vote. Mr. Kenedy, of Sampson, also spoke for the bill, and Mr. Dilling, of Gaston, in urging it said it ought to pass the house unanimously. Messrs. Boyd, of Haywood, and Gibbs, of Swain, heartily supported the bill. Mr. Boyd bringing down the House by declaring he stood flat footed for it: and was going to vote himself unanimously for it, for the west almost had it all, and he thought it was time the east was getting a little bit.

Mr. Stephens withdrew his demand for a roll-call and the bill passed its third reading almost unanimously, amid loud applause and hand clapping.

Remember the Organ Recital.

An organ recital is something new in Greenville so we have a new treat in store for us. The recital Friday night will be devotional and delightful, and we hope to see a large attendance. Mr. Freeman, who will preside at the organ, comes to us with high testimonials and large experience in conducting such recitals. We are sure those who attend will go away with glad hearts and higher aspirations. It will be manifest to every one who beholds the beautiful church and hears the charming music that we have incurred heavy expenses in procuring these things. We are now pressed for a payment on the organ and we shall ask our friends Friday night to help us meet these expenses. It is our purpose to take up a collection for these purposes and we hope our friends will go prepared to make a liberal contribution.

T. J. Jarvis, for Committee.

THE MARCH MIRROR.

R. Williams went to Raleigh today.

Miss Addie Johnson, of Kinston, who has been visiting Mrs. C. D. Rountree, returned home today.

Miss Laura Pugh, of Grifton, who has been visiting Mrs. F. C. Harding, returned home today.

Miss Patrick, who has been visiting Miss Lillian Nobles, returned to her home near Grifton today.

O. E. Warren has gone to Morehead near where he is setting out some vineyards and orchards.

B. J. Pulley and W. A. Bowen of the firm of Pulley & Bowen, are both in Northern markets buying new goods.

Can Write on Front of Post Cards.

By an order of the Postmaster General, issued several months ago, and which went into effect March 1st, senders of cards are at liberty to send a written message on the left half of the front, the right half being reserved instead of the whole face of the card "for the address only." This may be done on any postal card, whether it be one of the old style, which bears the notice "This side for the address only," or not; and without the prepayment of anything more than the rate applicable to post-cards, which is one cent within the United States or its island possessions, and Panama, Cuba, Canada and Mexico, and for other countries two cents.—Wilmington Star.

Uncle Sam's Salary.

The National Magazine under a title of "Who pays Uncle Sam's expenses" says:

"The salary of the president, vice president and entire cabinet for the year is collected from the beer drinkers in one day.

"By midnight, January 1st the smokers of cigars and cigarette have provided for the salary of the supreme court of the United States, for the ensuing year.

"The snuff consumers maintain the public health and marine hospital service.

"The tax on oleomargarine and renovated butter pays the expenses of the national soldiers' homes.

"Card players support West Point military academy.

"The tax on these same articles paid 52 1/2 per cent of the Spanish-American war."—Exchange.

Hogs' Strange Behavior.

Hogs over near the good chuch Providence are acting queerly here recently anyway. One of my grave, dignified stewards was telling me about it the other day.

"Brother M," said he, "a strange thing is happening over in our community." "What in the world is it?" said I. "Well," replied my steward, "it's the hogs. They are acting as I never saw them before. They are actually rubbing their tails off." "You don't tell me—rubbing their tails off?"

Steward: "Yes, sir, it's a fact. It seems it is some sort of a disease that peculiarly affects that part of the hog's anatomy, and he goes to a pine tree and rubs until the tail is excommunicated. We have more bobtail hogs in my section than you can shake a stick at."—Southern Christian Advocate.

There is no way you can catch the attention of the people quicker and reach more of them than by using The Reflector. It does the work for you.

Editor Wade Harris, of the Charlotte Chronicle, is a regular prize fighter, but he never hits below the belt, as witness this: "The Greenville Reflector thinks that The Chronicle and the Greensboro Record are unfair to the eastern politicians in the matter of the proposed new normal school for the eastern part of the State. It says: 'This movement for a training school for teachers never had in it the slightest motive to antagonize the State Normal at Greensboro, nor to even come in competition with it. On the contrary the people of the east favor the State doing everything possible for the Greensboro institution, but at the same time they want and must have something for themselves.' Why, to be sure The east is nothing if not modest. Because there is a normal school in the west there must be a normal school in the east. Because there is a penitentiary at Raleigh there should be a penitentiary at Greenville, or some other town in the east. Likewise, as there is a State hospital at Mrganton, there should be a State hospital at Newbern. Yes, sir; the people of the east want something for themselves and must have it."

This is what the German called "de upper gu"—upper cut.—Greensboro Record.

That is all right, boys, keep it up if you want too. At the same time just watch and you will see that the East gets something or know the reason why it is going to get that training school, too.

BANK OF ENGLAND NOTES.

The Enormous Output and the Safeguards Against Forgery.

The Bank of England refuses to use color for its notes on account of the fact that the authorities believe that its whiteness and apparent simplicity are the greatest safeguards against forgery. The whiteness of a Bank of England note is different to that of any other paper and is obtained by using only the very finest linen rags in the making.

At Laverstoke, a little village in Hampshire, the paper is prepared, and at the mill there every blank is as zealously guarded as if it were already engraved. Every workman or workwoman employed at the mill is bound to secrecy, and the secrets of the mysterious water mark and texture of the paper are known only by the most tried and trusted of the workmen.

It is not generally known that every bank note bears a private water mark, which is constantly being changed in a way known only to the head officials and which is discernible through a microscope only. And it says much for the vigilance and skill of the Bank of England cashiers that, although they pay on an average £27,000 in exchange for notes every day, they have never yet paid a forged note.

The easiest way to detect a forged note is by dampening a corner with the tongue. If genuine, the water mark appears very distinct. In counterfeit notes it almost disappears. On a genuine "five" there is a small white dot on the right side of the Old English "F" in the word "Five." The tail of the letter "F" in the sentence "For the Governor and Company" is also left in an incomplete state.

The ink with which bank notes are printed is made of charred husks and stems of Rhenish vines, and the recipe, like the manufacture of the paper, is a carefully guarded secret.

Each bank note costs about a halfpenny to produce and on an average is in circulation about seventy days. After being paid the notes are stored by the bank for five years, at the end of which time they are destroyed by burning in a large furnace. Eighteen millions of money thus disappear in the course of every year.

Once a note is returned to the bank it is never reissued, and after being canceled by having the signature of the chief cashier torn off it is placed in what is known as the bank note library for purposes of reference. There are no fewer than 120 clerks in this department, and so perfect is their system of filing that any one of the 77,745,000 notes which form the usual stock on hand can be reached in five minutes.

Altogether the Bank of England has some £15,000,000 worth of notes in circulation and issues between 50,000 and 60,000 notes of various denominations each day. There are seventy or eighty kinds of Bank of England notes of different values. Every year about 3,000 of the notes issued are lost or destroyed by the owners. At any rate, they are never returned to the bank and represent a clear profit. While it is true, however, that if a note never comes back the bank profits to that amount, they never can tell when these so called missing notes may be presented.

Some people possess a weakness for hoarding bank notes, and the result has been that frequently the bank is called upon to cash dirty, crumpled notes which were issued years ago.—London Tit-Bits.

Fooled Old Jowett.

Once when Professor Jowett was visiting his friend and pupil, Professor Sellar, he declared that he never gave to leggars. Mrs. Sellar was an adept in "mystifications," an accomplishment popular in Scotch society since Sir Walter Scott's time. She disguised herself as a poor, highland woman and waylaid her husband and Jowett at a cross-road, begging importunately and telling her tale of woe so piteously that Jowett at last said: "Poor thing! She seems very miserable. Give her half a crown." Sellar said he had no money with him, and before the alms were forthcoming the secret was triumphantly unveiled.

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

digests what you eat, takes the strain off of the heart, and contributes nourishment, strength and health to every organ of the body. Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the Stomach and Digestive Tract, Nervous Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach.

After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.
MRS. LORING NICHOLS, Penn Yan, N. Y.

I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effects are charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Brise your finger and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply common sense. We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

A COMPOSITE GENIUS.

He Seems to Have Read Biography the Wrong Way.

In reading the lives of men who played a great part in life we are often struck by the fact that those heroic men were in many cases addicted to certain vices. But it would be well for young men to remember that the great ones of the earth succeeded not because of any bad habits they may have had, but in spite of them. To get the greatest possible benefit from reading biography we should make an effort to emulate great men in their earnestness and goodness and not in their littleness or badness. There is something unworthy to be found in the lives of all men, human nature being far from perfect. But such unworthiness is not to be copied. The young man spoken of in the following little story seems to have read biography the wrong way:

He lingered near the managing editor's desk, waiting for an appointment on the regular staff.

"But you drink," said the manager, wishing to let the young fellow down easy.

"Yes," replied the young man.

"So did Alexander the Great."

"And you are a dude," glancing at the youth's dandified dress.

"So was Disraeli."

"And you are a liar."

"So was Napoleon Bonaparte."

"And you swear occasionally."

"So did George Washington."

"You are liable to get drunk."

"Like Daniel Webster."

"And you write a fearful scrawl."

"Like Horace Greeley."

"Well," said the manager, plunging at a heap of manuscript, "anyhow we don't need you. You won't do. Good morning."

The young man turned away sorrowfully. "It's no sort of use," he said.

"A fellow combines in his own brain and person the traits of all the great men from Alexander to Greeley and can't even get a place on a newspaper. The world is growing too fast for genius."

Exchange.

An Unusual Father.

He began after the usual form: "I have a little boy at home who—"

They interrupted him before he had got far.

"Pardon me, old man, I must be going along. Sorry I can't wait, but I'm due at the office," and so on.

"Just a minute," he urged, buttonholing the two nearest. "It won't take a minute."

They sighed and resigned themselves.

"All I want to say," he went on, "is that I have a little boy at home who never said a bright thing in his life."

They grasped his hands with thankfulness that could find no expression in words. And then he added:

"He's too small. He can't talk yet."—London Mail.

Americans Growing Bigger.

A tailor whose firm has been continuously in business in Philadelphia for over a century has compiled from his books of measurement some statistics that discount the statements of the pessimists. These statistics show that the American in the past century has grown taller, stronger and slimmer—greater in height and in chest girth, less in the girth of waist and hips. The average chest of 1795 was 36 inches. It is 38 inches now. The average height was 5 feet 7 inches. It is now 5 feet 8½ inches. The length of leg has increased in the same proportion. The shoulders and chest have greatly developed. The waist, on the other hand, has lost two inches.

The Brougham.

What is the correct way to pronounce the name of that vehicle, the "brougham?" Up in Scotland, where the original Lord Brougham came from, the name was pronounced "Broocham" (with the "oo" as in "book" and the "ch" as in "loch") and also "Broofam" and "Brooham" ("oo" a little longer). In London society made it "Brooam" or "Broom" ("oo" as long as one pleases), and the vehicle was "broom." Elderly people still say "broom," says the dictionary, and a few make it "broo-am," but "broam" is commonly preferred by the educated among the younger generation. The one really vulgar pronunciation is "brome."

Russia's Vast Forests.

Very nearly four-tenths of the surface of Russia in Europe is covered with woods and forests, according to the Revue Economique Internationale. In fact, the Russian forests are so great in extent that they almost equal the entire united area of western Europe, including Austria-Hungary, Germany, Switzerland, Belgium, Italy, France and Spain. Among European countries, next to Russia, Austria-Hungary is the richest in forests.

TEACHER'S ASSOCIATION.

Program for Saturday, March 9th.

11 a. m. Devotional exercises, Rev. J. E. Ayscue.

11:15. Reading of minutes and roll call.

11:20. Number work in the first, second and third grades, Miss Lela Brown.

11:40 Arithmetic in the fourth and fifth grades, Miss Delle Clements.

12. Reading in the third and fourth grades, Miss Etta F. Peace.

2:20. How I teach Arithmetic. Supt. W. H. Cale.

2:40 Address. Supt. C. W. Massey, of Durham.

1 p. m. Adjournment.

The weather was so bad at the time of the last meeting that we did not expect you. From the above program you will see that

Supt C. W. Massey, of Durham, will speak for us. He has a fine teachers' association in his county. He is a special friend of mine and I want to ask every teacher in the county to be present at this meeting, if for no other reason for my sake. There will be a short meeting of the Woman's Betterment Association immediately after the adjournment of the teachers' association.

It is desired by the officers that you remain a short while to this meeting. All teachers who intend to enter the contest for the $25 prize for the greatest improvement in school houses and grounds will send or hand in their names at this meeting next Saturday or they will be debarred from contesting.

This is made necessary by the fact that the April meeting will be the last meeting of the teachers during this term and the prize will have to be awarded at the April meeting. Full announcements about reports, etc, will be made at this meeting next Saturday.

W. H. Ragsdale,
Supt. Schools.
