

THE THOS. J. JARVIS MEMORIAL M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

The accompanying cut shows the exterior of the new Jarvis Memorial church. But one must enter to appreciate the full import of this beautiful house of worship.

On passing in at the main entrance the visitor is first attracted by the three stately arches resting on strong columns back of the chancel. The pulpit recess is just back of the center arch, the organ to the rear of the one to the right, while the entrance to the pastor's study is under the one to the left. The room is a quadruple with lofty ceiling and huge girders, having a seating capacity of four hundred. The circular pews are of the best oak of fine finish. The other woodwork within is native cypress, brought to a finish equal to the oak. The fine art-glass windows add much to the effect, especially the very appropriate designs of the beautiful memorial windows. They all gather about scenes and ideals in the life of Christ.

Any one in the vestibule of the front entrance turning to the left enters the main body of the church at the other side from the main entrance and passes down the inclined floor to the chancel along a broad aisle, there being two main aisles converging towards the front at the altar; but, a turn to the right, brings one into the Sunday school room, separated from the church by three large lifting doors hanging on wire cables.

The ladies parlor is in front of the Sunday school room, and the class rooms extend along the side of this large room from the parlor back to the library. Back of this main Sunday school room, into which the ladies parlor and the class rooms open by folding doors—are the infant class room and two adjoining rooms for the primary and junior classes. The Sunday school apartments are well appointed and ample for the best work. All of this is finished in the same manner as the church proper.

The whole is heated by the pressure steam system. The plant consists of one American Ideal steam boiler of 1925 feet capacity and 25 radiators aggregating 1414 square feet of radiations.

The church is lighted by electricity, employing two chandeliers of oxidized brass and numerous incandescent lights.

A twenty-two, hundred and fifty dollar Moller organ has been installed and every part of the building is complete. More than $25,000 dollars have actually gone into the church, apart from the lot on which it stands.

A detailed description of the carpet, pews, windows, organ, altar furniture, etc. would require too much space. Suffice it to say, that for dignity, solidity, intellectual simplicity and churchly qualities one would have to go far to find a superior.

his appeal was almost marvelous. In a short time the amount was nearly raised, so near that when he announced at the evening service that only $175 of the $5,000 asked for was lacking, the balance was quickly subscribed. It was a great collection and everybody was delighted.

At 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon a layman's service was held. Ex-Gov. Jarvis led this meeting, making a most appropriate talk. Col J. F. Bruton, of Wilson, was the principal speaker of the hour and his subject was "Wealth." He said our nation had been pointed out as the most wealthy on earth. Asking the question, "of what does wealth consist?" he said it was not land, for God had set the bounds of the earth so the number acres could not be increased. Beside the price of land is uncertain, but to be a basis of fixing values, for there was land right here in Pitt county which the owners would be glad to give away to keep from paying taxes on it, while there were other lands that could not be bought at any price. Neither is money the true basis of wealth, for our money is intrinsically worthless and is only given a value by the stamp the government places on it. Not our standing army gives us wealth for that is the joke of the world, not our navy for that is yet in its infancy, but our wealth is our men. He then portrayed the true, the ideal, the Christian, the unselfish man in language and illustrations that were beautiful. While speaking of these he also used the occasion to pay high tribute to ex-Gov. Jarvis.

Dr. Kilgo preached again at night, the basis of his sermon being Jesus calling Matthew to follow Him. He said God never called a nation or a community, but his call was to the individual. When he wanted a great work done he found the man to do it, and in calling the individual he did not look at his surroundings or his circumstances, but looked beyond these at the man. He can take the humblest and accomplish His purpose through him. A number of notable instances of this were forcibly referred to. Like the morning sermon, Dr. Kilgo spoke with fervor and eloquence and closed with an earnest appeal to men and women to heed God's call to them and follow Him instead of wasting their lives in the frivolities of society or in pursuit of this world.

Mr. H. H. Freeman, of Washington City, was organist at all the services, and the singing of the choir was excellent. All together the day marked an epoch in Greenville's history, and one not to be forgotten by the present generation.

Greenville's Sweet Singer.

Perhaps there is not a happier person over the completion and opening of the new Methodist church than Mrs. J. B. Cherry, Greenville's sweet singer, as she has the right to feel rejoiced. Through the thirty years of worship in the old church she was the leading spirit in the music. In addition to leading the choir her solo work was also a delight to the congregation. It was fitting that she should be requested to sing at the recital in the new church Friday night, and on that occasion rendered the "Holy City" most charmingly. She always sings delightfully, but her voice was never sweeter or her expression more perfect than in this song, her soul seeming in every note.

THREE BEAUTIFUL SOLOS.

Greenville Visitor Charms Our People.

Mrs. R. M. Watson, of Wilson, who came to visit Mrs. G. S. Prichard and attend the opening of Jarvis Memorial church, delighted the congregations by singing solos at each of the services Sunday. At the morning service she sang "Eyes that are Weary," in the afternoon "Face to Face" and at night "The Day is Ended." Mrs. Watson has a rich, melodious voice, and she sings with a sweetness of tone and clearness of expression that is charming. There were many moist eyes in the congregation during her song at the afternoon service following the touching address by Col J. F. Bruton.

"Dorcas" Wednesday Night.

Greenville theatre goers have another treat in store when the comic opera "Dorcas" is presented in Masonic Temple opera house Wednesday night. It is a high class attraction and comes strongly recommended from other towns in the State where it has appeared. The managers of the opera house are exerting themselves to secure good attractions, and the more liberal patronage given by the people the greater encouragement it will be to their efforts. A good house to see a good attraction is an effective advertisement for the town. The audience should be large Wednesday night. Seat sale begins tomorrow morning.

Jarvis Memorial Church Opened

GREAT DAY FOR THE METHODIST CHURCH AND GREENVILLE.

Powerful Sermons and Good Music—$5,000 Subscribed for the Church.

If man had the making of the weather he would select a different kind from what we had Sunday. But God rules the weather, as He does all things else, and He chose to make Sunday's weather such as tested men's faith and their spirit of devotion.

It was the day for the opening of the Thos. J. Jarvis Memorial M. E. Church, South, the beautiful new house of worship which our Methodist friends but recently completed. It had been decided by the congregations of the other churches to close that day and all worship together with their Methodist brethren and rejoice with them in the completion of their building, and it was the wish of every one that the day would be marked with pretty weather.

But not so. The Sabbath dawning was as dreary as a day could well be. Black clouds hung in darkness o'er the face of the earth and rain came down almost in torrents. It was indeed a devout heart that did not feel keen disappointment in looking out upon such weather. Yet "man's extremity is God's opportunity," and what a glorious, joyous day it proved to be even if the weather was bad. As Dr. Kilgo well said near the close of the morning service "What a bright day this is! for so it was. We will not undertake a synopsis, as space will not permit, but it was a great sermon, delivered with Dr. Kilgo's usual power and eloquence.

After the sermon Dr. Kilgo made statements regarding the new church building and told why he felt a deep interest in it. Here, without calling any name, he paid as high tribute to ex-Gov. Jarvis as it seemed man could utter, referring to his loyalty and labors for his country, his State, his town and his church, summing up by pointing to the beautiful edifice as the crowning achievement of his life. Following this he saw there were some "odds and ends" in connection with the structure that need to be paid for, and he was going to ask for the modest sum of $5,000 for this purpose, the subscriptions to be payable any time during the year. Dr. Kilgo is as good a collector as he is a preacher, and told stronger than words can express the interest all felt in this happy occasion. The pastor announced the names of three persons received by letter into the membership of the church at this first service. Dr. J. C. Kilgo, president of Trinity College, preached. His theme was "The purpose of the church, the medium through which God speaks to the world." We will not undertake a synopsis, as space will not permit, but it was a great sermon, delivered with Dr. Kilgo's usual power and eloquence.

HON. THOS. J. JARVIS.

The Methodist church and the people of Greenville are largely indebted to our distinguished townsman, Hon. Thomas J. Jarvis, for the splendid new church edifice a picture of which is shown on this page. While the individual members of the church and friends have no doubt done their part, and nobly so, it was mainly through his efforts that an edifice of such beauty and magnificence evolved out of the plan to build a new church. His generalship, his wise planning, his close scrutiny of minutest detail in construction and his financing as occasion required, are endued in this house that is the pride of the church and the town. With him it was a work of the heart, a labor of love God spared him to see it brought to completion, and no head was more reverently bowed, no heart lifted with more grateful thoughts in the first public worship in the new building than his.

In recognition of what Gov. Jarvis did in making this building possible, and his services to his church and to his State, at a conference of the membership of the church to select an appropriate name for it, the vote was unanimous that it be called "The Thos. J. Jarvis Memorial M. E. Church, South."

MONDAY, MAR. 11th, 1907.

That was a fine portrait of Representative J. J. Laughinghouse, of Pitt, in Sunday's Raleigh News and Observer. The paper says "he has made a reputation as a wise, able and leading legislator."

That was a terrible accident at Statesville Friday. Workmen were excavating for the sewerage system when a deep ditch caved in and buried six men alive. All the victims were colored men. The disaster will likely cost Statesville heavily.

We believe the Durham Herald remarked that the next legislature would cut to a two cent passenger fare. Seriously we doubt it. There is no telling which way the pendulum of sentiment may have swung in two years. By then they may be wanting to give the railroads premiums.

We do think "arising to a question of personal privilege" was greatly overworked in this legislature. Law makers are no more immune from criticism than other folks. But the most amusing spectacle was when some fellows would complain that not enough notice was taken of what they said.

We certainly are at sea about trusts, and hereafter "jumping on" them may have to be done with some degree of hesitancy. If you start after one somebody is ready to say don't trouble that one, and if you pick out another to regulate somebody else says better let that one alone. And there it is, just depends on "whose ox is gored." Every one has its friends, and it is all right to go trust busting provided you go after the other fellow's. It is hard to tell when the cry of wolf means wolf.

Changed, Yet the Same.

A southern man, who has for some years past been established in New York, recently visited his former home in Virginia. While there he was busy renewing old acquaintances. Among these was the son of an old preacher whom the former Virginian remembered as having invariably discoursed on the same topic. "Heard father since you've been back?" asked the son. "I am sorry to say that I have not," said the other. "Tell me," he added, with a smile, "is he preaching that same old sermon?" "Oh, yes," replied the son, not at all taken aback by the question, "but for the last year or two he's been hollering in different parts of it."—Lippincott's.

Lamb and the Scotchman.

Charles Lamb said he never could impress a Scotchman with any new truth; that they all required it to be spelled and explained away in old equivalent and familiar words and phrases. He said he had spoken to a Scotchman who sat next to him at dinner of a healthy book. "Healthy, sir! Healthy, did you say?" "Yes, healthy." "I dinna comprehend. I have heard of a healthy man and of a healthy morning, but never of a healthy book."

DRINKING WATER.

To Be of Any Use It Must Be Pure or Comparatively So.

Water is the universal solvent, and it preserves this property inside the human body as well as without. It is therefore a useful, indeed indispensable, substance. But it must be taken with discretion.

If one drinks a hard water—one already saturated with salts—it does little good, for all its energy must be expended in removing from the system the mineral matter which it already holds in solution, and the animal waste is left where it was before.

A drinking water to be of any use must be pure or comparatively so. Distilled water is the best drink, but unless it is aerated—shaken up so as to absorb air—it is flat and most unpalatable.

Rain water in the country is distilled water and if properly collected and stored is excellent for drinking purposes. The first fall should be allowed to run away, for it contains the dust and other impurities in the air and also the bird droppings and dirt from the roof or other collecting surface.

The cistern in which it is stored should be protected from the surface drainings and should be tightly covered to keep out dust. Water so kept is greatly preferable to well water, which is almost never beyond the possibility of contamination, no matter how far it may be from the barn or the outhouses and no matter though it may be at a higher level. There are often seams and cracks in the earth which give free way to water, and in this way the surface washings may be carried to the bottom of a deep well a long way off and on a higher level.

Many persons will not trust any natural supply and drink only bottled water, either natural or artificial. But this is not always as safe as it seems to be. The maker of the artificial water may not filter it before charging it with carbonic acid gas, and then of course it is no better than the water of the town where it is made.

The natural waters may be pure and they may not, just as any spring may be pure or contaminated.

Those who live in cities where the water is filtered may safely drink it if they can be sure the water supplied is always that which came through the filter beds. Those in charge of public water supplies have been known to mix unfiltered water with the filtered or to substitute it entirely without warning to the users.—Youth's Companion.

Jefferson Stopped It.

The custom of presidents of the United States reading their messages to congress prevailed up to the first term of Thomas Jefferson, who discontinued it. Various explanations for Jefferson's departure from the custom of Washington and John Adams have been advanced, the most popular being that Jefferson felt that it savored of royalty, seeing that the king of England went in person to parliament and read his address from the throne. Another explanation was that Jefferson's voice was notably weak. Jefferson himself said in making the change, "I have had principal regard to the convenience of the legislature, to the economy of time, to their relief from the embarrassment of immediate answers on subjects not yet fully before them and to the benefits thence resulting to the public affairs."

Jap Sign of Fidelity.

"The Japs are a fine race," said a globe trotter, "but there's one thing about them I don't like. The married women all blacken their teeth with a paste made out of sweet oil and soot. When a young married woman gives you a smile, instead of being ravished with a glimpse as of snow on roses—pearly teeth gleaming between red lips—you look into a black hole. You frown. You turn away in disgust. The idea is that the married woman's black teeth, making them unattractive, keeps them faithful to their husbands. Seems to me it must have the opposite effect on the husbands."—New York Press.

A Typical Yankee.

That Dr. Holmes was a typical Yankee in undemonstrativeness was shown in the meeting with his son, who was wounded at Chancellorsville. For many days he had sought the captain on the fields and in the hospitals and at last learned that he was on a train that was carrying the wounded to Washington. He entered the car, saw the pale face of his wounded boy, and they clasped hands with a "Hello, cap!" and "Hello, dad!"

THE INTRODUCTION.

The Happy Way a Young Fellow Got Acquainted at Home.

How a young fellow who had got into the habit of spending all his evenings away from home was brought to his senses is related in the Baptist Commonwealth:

One afternoon his father came to him and asked him if he had any engagement for the evening. The young man had not.

"Well, I'd like to have you go somewhere with me."

"All right," said he. "Where shall I meet you?"

The rest of the story is in the young man's own words.

"He suggested the Columbia hotel at half past 7, and I was there. When he appeared he said he wanted me to call with him on a lady. 'One I knew quite well when I was a young man,' he explained.

"We went out and started straight for home.

"She is staying at our house," he said.

"I thought it strange that he should have made the appointment for the Columbia under those circumstances, but said nothing.

"Well, we went in, and I was introduced with all due formality to my mother and sister.

"The situation struck me as funny, and I started to laugh, but the laugh died away. None of the three even smiled. My mother and sister shook hands with me, and my mother said she remembered me as a boy, but hadn't seen much of me lately. Then she invited me to be seated.

"It wasn't a bit funny then, although I can laugh over it now. I sat down, and she told me one or two anecdotes of my boyhood, at which we all laughed for a little. Then we four played games for awhile. When I finally retired I was invited to call again. I went upstairs feeling pretty small and doing a good deal of thinking."

"And then?" asked his companion.

"Then I made up my mind that my mother was an entertaining woman and my sister a bright girl.

"I'm going to call again. I enjoy their company and intend to cultivate their acquaintance."

Raw Salmon Poisonous to Dogs.

There is no specific cure for salmoned dogs. In general an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Keep the dog away from salmon, if possible, but if he succeeds in poisoning himself with this fish console yourself with the idea that, whether he lives or dies, he will never be salmoned again. The percentage of salmoned dogs which are cured is very small. Physic of any kind in large quantities is the most effectual remedy. It is supposed that the man who said "Throw physic to the dogs!" referred to dogs which had been salmoned. It may be well to state that cooked salmon has no deleterious effect on dogs. It is claimed by some experts that it is only the blood of the salmon which is poisonous to dogs. Others say the poison is in the head of the fish.—Portland Oregonian.

Lord Denman and the Hatter.

This odd story is told of the late Lord Denman, who, on being reminded by a west end hatter that a small account was "overdue," visited the shop and gave the manager a legal reply to the request for payment. "You state," he said solemnly as he stood over him, shaking his finger at him as though warning him to be careful, "that this account is overdue. Remember that a bill of exchange or bill of acceptance may become overdue, but a tradesman's account never. A gentleman pays when he thinks he will or when he has the money. But, to show that no ill feeling exists, I will pay the account and take another hat."

Your Nerve History.

You are unconsciously writing a history in your nerves, and this history you cannot wipe out at will, as you may wipe out a scrawl on a blackboard. It endures, and it reproduces itself. The thoughts of your mind, the purposes and impulses of your heart, your passions, your affections, your inspirations and your beliefs stamp themselves indelibly on your nervous system. They cut channels of habit. They react on your soul continually for good or evil. They shape your character, and your character is what you are, what you will be always.—Philip S. Moxom, D. D., in "The Form of Life."

Spots on Clothing.

A cake of magnesia and a clothes brush are good friends and save many trips to the cleaners. Rub the spot with magnesia and let it remain a few hours, then brush away. The stain will have disappeared. Rub both sides of the spot if possible and let the magnesia remain for two days or more if the spot is a bad one. This can be used for spots on silk.

HOW WE WALK.

The Muscles Used and the Mechanical Work They Do.

The chief muscles concerned in walking are those in the calf and back of the leg, which, by pulling up the heel, also pull up the bones of the foot connected with it, and then the whole body, the weight of which is passed on through the bones of the leg. When walking the trunk is thrown forward so that it would fall down prostrate were not the right foot planted in time to support it. The calf muscles are helped in this action by those on the front of the trunk and legs, which contract and pull the body forward, and, the trunk slanting forward when the heel is raised by the calf muscles, the whole body will be raised and pushed forward and upward. This advancement of each leg is effected partly by muscular action, the muscles used being (1) those on the front of the thigh, bending it forward on the pelvis; (2) the hamstring muscles, which slightly bend the leg on the thigh; (3) the muscles on the front of the leg, which raise the front of the foot and toes, preventing the latter, in swinging forward, from hitting in the ground.

When one foot has reached the ground the action of the other has not ceased. There is another point in walking. The body is constantly supported and balanced on each leg alternately and therefore on only one at a time; hence there must be some means for throwing the center of gravity over the line of support formed by the bones of each leg, as it supports the weight of the body. This is done in various ways, and hence the difference in the walk of different people. There may be slight rotation at the hip joint, bringing the center of gravity of the body over the foot of this side. This "rocking" motion of the trunk and thigh is accompanied by a movement of the whole trunk and leg over the foot planted on the ground and is accompanied by a compensating outward movement at the hip. The body rises and swings alternately from one side to the other as its center of gravity comes alternately over one or the other leg, and the curvature of the spinal bones is altered with the varying position of the weight. — London are caused by Indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of Indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

digests what you eat, takes the strain off of the heart, and contributes nourishment, strength and health to every organ of the body. Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the Stomach and Digestive Tract, Nervous Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach.

After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

MRS. LORING NICHOLS, Penn Yan, N. Y.
I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. This surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 30 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Brise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply common sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

Shirtwaist Sale.

The shirtwaist sale to be given by the ladies of the Baptist church will open Friday, March 15, at 10 o'clock in Perkins' hall. A cake sale will be held in connection with this. The ladies are asked to have the shirtwaists ready, as the committee will call for them not later than Wednesday.

"Dorcas" Delight.

Only a small audience assembled Thursday evening to witness the comic opera, "Dorcas" by the Ethel Morton Opera Company. Those who did attend enjoyed themselves, and those who did not missed a treat. The feminine portion of the performers were good looking and some of the gowns were exquisite.

The singing was excellent and enthusiastically applauded. There was one familiar face, Wilbur Cox, as Labin Mugsby, who was here with the Herald Square Opera Company when it was at its best.

His was the funny character this time and was better than when here before.

There were a number of musical numbers that captivated the audience, especially "The Chess Duet" sung while two were engaged in the game - Tarboro Southerner.

Warning to Piano Owners.

There are two parties in Greenville, one a Mr. Loker and an associate of, his soliciting for the selling and tuning of pianos representing themselves to be employed by the Hume Minor Co. The fact that this firm's name has recently been changed to Burk-Hume Piano Co., and that these parties are representing a firm not in existence any longer caused me to make investigation. Mr. Hume who was questioned as to the gentlemen states that neither have any connection with the firm, that this tuner going the rounds with this Mr. Loker was at one time given a trial to do piece work which was very unsatisfactory and would not be responsible for any of his statements or work. Th's Mr. Loker who pretends to be their salesman has also no connection with them in that or in any other capacity and the card that he presents as being with Hume-Minor Co., is bogus and is intended as an instrument to obtain work for his partner which seems the main and only business between them. There is another party by the name of Oneill who traveling through some sections of Pitt claimed to be our tuner. This claim is also bogus, no such man has ever been with us and every owner of a piano should guard against these people, my motive in branding such people is not actuated by jealousy or any other ill and selfish motive. I feel that I must protect the pianos and patrons who possess it. Bogus claims means bogus work and the ruin of a piano.

Respectfully,
G. G. Fineman.

Read one among a hundreds of such testimonials. "I have suffered with NERVOUS Dyspepsia for past 10 years and have received more beneficial and lasting results from the use of PANACEA MINERAL WATER than from any other remedy of the many I have had prescribed for me.
