AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes from a Hustling Town.
Ayden, N. C., Mar. 12.

Fred Morrill, of Kinston, spent the day very pleasantly here yesterday.

Rev. T. H. King filled his regular appointment here Sunday.

Harry Lindley, 13th and 14th, with an entire new troupe, new plays and everything of the latest is billed on our bulletin boards.

W. J. Boyd and W. E. Hooks have gone to Vanceboro.

Dr. M. M. Sauls is quite sick at his home and his presence is badly needed at the drug store. All are wishing him a speedy recovery.

W. A. Hardy and wife, of Greene county, spent Sunday with the family of Luther McLawhorn.

Miss Bessie Eason, of Snow Hill, spent the better part of last week with her cousin, Master Joseph McLawhorn.

W. J. Hemby has been to and returned from Beaver Dam having gone after his family who were on a visit to the mother of Mrs. Hemby.

F. F. Guthrie and wife, of Charleston, S. C., have been visiting the family of J. E. Jones, M. Guthrie returned to his home yesterday and his wife will remain sometime longer with her parents.

J. R. Jones, one of Uncle Sam's boys from Fortress Monroe, is at home for a visit of several days.

Josephus Cox and J. F. Harrington of Winerville, were on our cotton market Saturday.

Can Nobles who has been very sick is much better.

Everett Stroud, is home from Scotland Neck on a visit to his family here. Owing to the sickness of one of his children he will remain several days.

Miss Vara Smith after a pleasant visit to Mrs. B. F. Manning, Jr., has returned to her home at Fort Barnwell.

Manning Brown, a colored man, an employe of the Ayden Lumber Co. had the misfortune to fall under a car and break his leg.

C. A. Fair and C. R. Williams went to Winterville yesterday.

Wednesday Night.

Some of the finest voices on the American stage are to be found in "Dorcas," the comic opera which is to be presented at the Masonic Temple opera house on tomorrow night by the Ethel Morton Opera Company. So much has been said, by press and public, in praise of the young star's voice that it seems unnecessary to speak of it here. The quartette in the first act is a special feature, and we feel sure that Mr. O'Donnell's solo will be one of the distinct hits of the performance here, as it has been elsewhere.

Death of Miss Carrie Wray.

A telegram received yesterday morning announced the death, Saturday night, at Haw River, of Miss Carrie Wray, of Shelby. For some time past, Miss Wray has been teaching school at Haw River. She was a daughter of Mr. George Wray, of Shelby, and a most lovable young lady. Her death will come as a blow to many Charlotte people who knew her and loved her.—Charlotte Observer.

Miss Wray is well remembered in Greenville. She once taught in the graded school here and resigned because of ill health.

Dentist Was Master of His Profession.

You see, I've been at the dentist's, or, rather, the dentist has been at me. I was feeling sort of down in the mouth over a poor tooth I had—poverty is no disgrace until it affects your teeth. Well, I hadn't been at the dentist's very long when I found that he was also feeling down in the mouth over my tooth. Right then and there I settled in the chair and let him go ahead. I could put my trust in such a sympathetic fellow, even if it was my own mouth that he was feeling down in.

Well, he injected an expectorating-less spittle in my mouth and two or three miniature hoes and rakes. Then he tore off two or three yards of cotton stuffing and sucked that in. Then he asked me please to open my mouth just a little wider so he could get his arm in.

Just at that juncture I thought of a good joke. I waved my hand and he unloaded all the baggage out of my mouth, and I started to tell the story. But he didn't see the point, so he stuck in a phonograph and run it backward and it sucked out all my words. At such a bit of dental ingenuity I was speechless. I sat there and thought of home and loved ones and unpaid laundry bills and he worked away on that tooth. He drilled a great deal harder than any member of the Twenty-third Regiment has to.

And then he came in touch with my telegraph system, where upon he said I had a good deal of nerve. I wanted to tell him I had more of that than cash, but I couldn't get the command of my speech. I could only express myself through my feet.

"That doesn't hurt you," said the kind man, 'cause he knew I couldn't contradict.

We'll, before he got through with me, he found more openings in my teeth than there are in a want-ad column. There was something the matter with every tooth in my head except one. And that I hadn't cut yet.—Business World

Monotony in Advertising.

The efficacy of an advertisement, like that of a mustard plaster, is greatest when it's fresh. Therein newspaper announcement, changed daily, has the advantage over all the other forms of publicity. It never has a chance to grow stale. It constantly assails the consumer with new arguments and new inducements, and he cannot choose but yield. Monotony is fatal to the success of advertising. There is no excuse for monotony when the newspaper is the medium used.—Philadelphia Record.

Marriage Licenses.

Register of Deeds R. Williams has issued the following licenses since last report:

WHITE

George Elliott and Addie Hales
Charles Smith and Mamie Lesley.

Ed Lewis and Lössie Mayo.

COLORED.

Ronny Greene and Bettie Harris.

Richard Stewart and Nelie Edwards.

Samuel Short and Addie Daniel.

John Eady and Julia Buck.

David Ellis and Rena Joyner.

The merchant who will have spring goods to sell should be talking about them through The Reflector.

PITT'S REPRESENTATIVES

Have Served Their People Well.

Senator J. L. Fleming and Representative J. J. Laughinghouse and S. M. Jones are home again, after having served their people well and faithfully in the legislature of 1907.

It was Senator Fleming's second term and he was very prominent in the senate, taking a leading part in debate and being the champion of several important bills.

It was also Representative Laughinghouse's second term in the house and his experience there made him a useful member. He was vigorous and effective in debate, fighting valiantly for measures he deemed to the best interest of the people and opposing as earnestly whatever he thought detrimental to the State.

Representative Jones served his first term, and while not being heard on the floor as often as men of longer experience he ranked as a most useful member. He stood in high regard among his colleagues as a sound and conservative member, being squarely and firmly for the right.

All these gentlemen return to their people with a consciousness of having served them faithfully. They are entitled to the commendation of their county.

A Waterway From Raleigh to the Sea

Washington, March 11.—Water transportation from Raleigh to the ocean is a far cry, but by no means an impossibility. In the opinion of Senator Simmons the action of Congress in appropriating $550,000 for cutting a canal between Pamlico Sound and the ocean means that the Federal government will sooner or later begin a movement to make navigable the rivers in the State, which now find outlets into the sounds, and which have no deep water connection with the ocean. The proposed channel between the sounds and the ocean will be ten feet in depth, which is greater than that of any of the sound bound rivers. The government has been spending many thousand dollars to deepen the harbors on the rivers emptying into these sounds and now that a deep outlet to the ocean has been provided for, it will be comparatively easy to interest the government in giving greater depths to such sound river towns as Washington, New Bern and Plymouth.

There is already a report in existence made by army engineers, recommending an appropriation of $374,000 to give a three foot depth to the Neuse as high up as Smithfield. Senator Simmons has given much to the subject and he thinks that in all probability a five foot depth can be obtained in the river to Raleigh. The Neuse is 150 miles between New Bern and Smithfield, and of course, the construction of locks and dams would be necessary to give a five feet depth to Raleigh.—T. J. Pence, in News and Observer.

Shirtwaist Sale.

The shirtwaist sale to be given by the ladies of the Baptist church will open Friday, March 15, at 10 o'clock in Perkins' hall. A cake sale will be held in connection with this. The ladies are asked to have the shirtwaists ready, as the committee will call for them not later than Wednesday.

LEGISLATURE IS OVER.

Adjourned at Five O'clock Monday Afternoon, the Halls Ringing With Songs Merry and Sad, and Good Cheer Prevailing.

The general assembly adjourned without day yesterday afternoon at five o'clock, the close of the session succeeding an hour that will be remembered for its patriotism, good feeling and brotherly love. Stalwart statesmen who had contended with unrelenting warfare in the legislative battles, were met on their equally as valorous combatants in a spirit of fellowship, and the erstwhile hostile fighters were laughing and singing and crying together, with frequently the diversion of manly embraces. There were long intervals before the hour for adjournment, during which there was music which resounded throughout the spacious halls and seemed to shake the stately old capitol. Songs merry and sad, patriotic and religious, were sung, everybody taking part.

Happy hits were dealt in witty speeches; amusing bills and resolutions aroused the risibles of the semi-sad legislators, and the crowded galleries, filled with handsomely dressed and beautiful women, participated in the enjoyment of the occasion.

The senate passed the house substitute anti-trust bill, but refused by a vote of 19 to 16 to adopt the Justice amendment, which would have made the bill effective against the trusts that are injuring the State's trade and commerce, and the senate returned the bill to the house with the Justice amendment detached. The house passed the bill as amended by the senate, and Mr. Justice introduced a supplemental bill which would have afforded the people relief from the most oppressive trusts, which passed the house with only four votes cast against it, but the bill was killed in the senate by a majority of only one vote. Remarkable scenes transpired in both the house and senate during the consideration of the Justice supplemental bill.

The investigation committee reported to the house, but made no recommendations, leaving the matter "to be dealt with by the courts in whatever proceedings may hereafter be instituted." There was general interest in the reading of the report, and especially in that part which referred to the Rev. Plato Durham, of Charlotte. The committee found that the false charges concerning the legislative conference committee on the passenger rate bill were repeated by Rev. Mr. Durham, and that he repeated the false charges "without any investigation as to the truth of the matters charged in said publication, and that, when called upon to testify before the committee he was unable to justify or excuse his conduct in making said charges." Continuing, the report said of Rev. Mr. Durham: "Mr. Durham stated that some person had told him of the matters charged and which reflected upon the members of the committee, but declined to state who had told him this. We did not find whether or not Mr. Durham was ever told this, but we do find that, if he was, it was utterly false, and, if he had been duly careful and considerate of the character of the committee, he would have learned that the charges were utterly without foundation, and he should have refrained from repeating these false charges."

The report charged that Mr. R. W. Simpson, formerly editor of the Evening Times, resorted to a subterfuge to conceal a slanderous and false charge made by him.

Judge Winborne, member of the conference committee, arose to a question of personal privilege in the House, and stated that Mr. Durham had been suffering from hydrophobia caused by a bite and had sought to vent his spite on honorable men. Judge Winborne stated that he would give no further attention to Mr. Durham, "leaving him to his conscience and his God."

A House bill passed both bodies of the Legislature increasing the salaries of the judges of the Supreme court to $3,500 annually.—Raleigh News and Observer.

THE MARCH MIRROR.

Look in and See Whose Face is There.

C. D. Rountree has been quite sick the last few days.

Miss Mae Draper left this morning for Goldsboro.

Harry Skinner returned Monday evening from Raleigh.

Mrs. W. M. King returned this morning from a visit to Rocky Mount.

C. S. Forbes has returned from the Northern markets where he went to purchase new goods.

Mrs. L. E. Ricks of Sheldene, who has been visiting Mrs. J. S. Tunstall returned home Monday.

Dr. and Mrs. H. Johnson, of Fremont, who have been visiting his sister, Mrs. C. D. Rountree, left this morning.

Senator J. L. Fleming and Representative J. J. Laughinghouse reached home this morning from Raleigh.

D. J. Whichard, Jr., who served as a page through the legislature just closed, returned home this morning from Raleigh.

Mrs. E. B. Moore, of Washington who had been visiting her sister, Mrs. R. H. Hearne, returned home Monday evening.

Knoxville Lines up for Temperance.

Knoxville, Tenn., March 11.—Knoxville, by a majority of nearly 2,000 votes, decided today that the saloons must go. Under a state law granting incorporated cities the right to say whether or not they desire saloons an election was held as an expression of sentiment. The result was a majority of 1,921 for temperance. Six months will be given the saloons in which to close. Today's election was featured by memorable scenes. 5,000 women and children paraded the streets before the polls opened and all during the day women worked at the polling places, requesting the men to cast their votes for the temperance cause.

Don't Miss "Dorcas".

Mrs. Estelle Morton, who plays Griselda in "Dorcas" the production to be given by the Ethel Morton Opera Company on tomorrow evening at the Masonic opera house has been the constant friend and companion of her daughter, always. To her, the young comedienne still remains the little girl of a few years ago. It is no unusual occurrence to hear Griselda say, just before the curtain rises, "Ethel, do your best, dear," Ethel apparently always obeys, and the audiences feel that Ethel's best is the best ever.

The report charged that Mr. R. W. Simpson, formerly editor of the Evening Times, resorted to a subterfuge to conceal a slanderous and false charge made by him.

Judge Winborne, member of the conference committee, arose to a question of personal privilege in the House, and stated that Mr. Durham had been suffering from hydrophobia caused by a bite and had sought to vent his spite on honorable men. Judge Winborne stated that he would give no further attention to Mr. Durham, "leaving him to his conscience and his God."

A House bill passed both bodies of the Legislature increasing the salaries of the judges of the Supreme court to $3,500 annually.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Will Never be Old.

A gentleman remarked this morning that he thought ex-Governor Jarvis looked thirty years younger. A man as good and as happy as the governor may be expected to look young. His light heart and sunny disposition will never let him grow old.

Many of us miss the joys that might be ours by keeping our eyes fixed on those of other people. No one can enjoy his own opportunities for happiness while he is envious of another's. We lose a great deal of the joy of living by not cheerfully accepting the small pleasures that come to us every day, instead of longing and wishing for what belongs to others.

Life has its full measure of happiness for every one of us, if we would only make up our minds to make the very most of every opportunity that comes our way, instead of longing for the things that comes our neighbor's way.

Weather.

MONDAY, MAR. 11th, 1907.

Rev. Mr. Durham got himself in the lime light, too.

The legislature of 1907 has joined the back members.

And before very long Greenville will be talking town politics.

The death of John Alexander Dowie, the Zionist, removes a figure who was quite prominent in the public eye for a time.

Durham continues to put on city airs and has added attempted highway robberies to other doings there.

A news item going the rounds says the railroads have contracted with magazine companies to flood the mails with sample copies during the government re-weighing period. That may account for our getting one the other day bearing a 1905 date.

Congress and the legislature are both off of hand. Now when the Thaw trial is out of the way we can all look forward to the Jamestown exposition, unless the president butts in with something in the mean time.

The legislature has come to an end and the News and Observer is doing business at the same stand. It is more than likely the "Old Reliable" will be on hand when the body meets two years hence, though in new quarters.

RANDOM REFLECTIONS.

By a Contributor.

Speaking of a two-billion dollar congress, the poor foreigners who pay the tax, as our Republican friends say, must be considering emigration to America.

It is our private opinion that John Sharp Williams will be succeeded as minority leader only when he resigns his place in the house to enter the senate.

Surgeons now declare that the attempt to cure evil dispositions by removing pressure from the brain, has proved a failure. The only success in that line was achieved by the old-time operation which removed the head itself.

A woman who is expected to praise her neighbor's hat, must feel like the man who is called upon to ask the blessing at the table right after cutting a gash in his thumb with the can opener.

A Western financier is sure that the people and the railroads are coming together. But the people would like it better if fewer of the railroads trains were coming together.

Money is popularly supposed to do some loud talking, but the $173,000 that disappeared from the Chicago subtreasury, must make its wants known by signs.

They do say Paris eats 40,000 horses a year. No wonder there are so many horselless carriages there!

Senator Bailey makes a noise a rest deal like a man who has had a narrow escape.

Ambassador Bryce remarks, "I was touched when I landed in New York." But he doesn't tell us for how much.

When your doctor asks you if he can see you apart, he may not be wanting to operate but merely to tell you about that bill.

Miss Barbara Barr laughed eight hours at one joke the other night and nearly died. Barbarous humor of that kind should be barred.

Joseph Turner, the first manufacturer of razors in the United States, has passed away. Ten million negroes ought to contribute to his monument.

LAST CALL FOR TAXES.

I will attend the following times and places for the purpose of collecting taxes for the year 1906. This is the last call for taxes for that year and persons owing should meet me and settle or costs will be added.

It is wholesome, nourishing and satisfying. It's safe even for the smallest child. Sold by T. E. KOOKER & C.

Panama Canal—Erie Canal. Machinery is digging the Panama canal a thousand times quicker than the shovel dug the Erie. Machinery produces the L. & M. paint at 50 times less cost for labor, than if made by hand. The L. & M. gives the best job in the world, because L. & M. Zinc hardens L. & M. White lead and makes L. & M. paint wear like iron for 10 to 15 years. It only requires 4 gallons of this celebrated paint and 3 gallons of Linseed Oil at 60 ct per gallon, to paint a moderate sized house. If any defect exists in L. & M. Paint, will repaint house for nothing. Sold by H. L. Carr, Greenville. 5 2w

It's a pleasure to tell our readers about a Cough Cure like Dr. Shoop's. For years Dr. Shoop has fought against the use of opium, chloroform or other unsafe ingredients commonly found in cough remedia. Dr. Shoop, it seems has welcomed the Pure Food Drug Law recently enacted, for he has worked along similar lines for many years. For nearly 20 years Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure containers have had a warning printed on them against opium and other narcotic poisons. He has this made it possible for mothers to protect their children by simply insisting on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by Bryan's Drug Store.

Mothers who give their children Kenney's Laxative Cough Syrup invariably endorse it. Children like it because the taste is so pleasant. Contains honey and tar. It is the original laxative cough syrup and is unrivaled for the relief of croup. Drives the cold out through the bowels. Conforms to the Pure Food and Drug Law. Sold by Wm. L. Wooten.

It flow like fire through your veins; it does the work. If you're wasting away day by day take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Wooten's Drug Store.

Croup can positively be stopped in 20 minutes. No vomiting—nothing to sicken or distress your child. A sweet pleasant and safe Syrup called Dr. Shoop's Croup Cure, does the work and does it quickly. Dr. Shoop's Croup Cure is for croup alone, remember. It does not claim to cure a dozen ailments. It's for croup, that's all. Sold by Bryan's Drug Store.

THE HOODOO IN INDIA.

Obsession in the Orient is Due to a Peculiar Religious Rite.

Why are obsessions so numerous in India? In India the notion among the Hindoos is that when a man has died it is necessary to cause his release from earthly bonds by an offering called pinda, made in his name in the sacred city of Gya. So long as this is not done the soul of the dead man remains tied to earth and cannot rise high. It so happens that a Hindoo spirit finds that he has become a ghost—that is to say, an earth bound soul. He very naturally thinks that his misfortune is due to the fact that no pinda had been offered in his name, and he makes gigantic efforts to see that it is done. But he finds that he cannot communicate his wishes to his relatives, friends or fellows who are yet on earth. Such souls make gigantic efforts to be able to hold communication with men who are not dead. Sometimes they succeed. And then they explain what they want. If they get hold of a friend, it is all right. They at once ask the latter to release them. But this is not generally possible. So what they do is this: They possess a woman or a man and make themselves disagreeable in as many ways as they can. Ghost doctors are summoned. They open communication with the spirit, who refuses to leave his medium until it is promised to him that a pinda will be offered in his name in Gya. When he has been able to extort this promise he leaves the body he had possessed, says the Hindoo Spiritual Magazine. This explains why cases of true obsession are so frequent in Hindoo, India. Ninety-nine out of a hundred in India have seen cases of obsession.

A ghost makes itself very disagreeable. The exorcist is summoned. He opens communication with the spirit—in short, the spirit speaks through the party he has obsessed, and a conversation like the following ensues:

The Exorcist (to the ghost)—You must leave the body of your victim.

The Ghost—I am willing to go if you promise me one thing—namely, if you will offer a pinda in Gya in my name.

The promise is made, and the ghost leaves his victim. That is the way such cases are treated generally. This is the reason why cases of obsession are so numerous in India. Indeed, they are so frequent in this country that there are many rojas (exorcists) who live by curing obsessed men and women. What is more, in India there is a hospital for obsessed people, a unique institution the like of which is not to be seen in any other part of the world. This hospital is a temple in the holy place called Hari Hareshwar, in Koccond, in south India. There possessed men and women are carried, and they are sent back cured.—Exchange.

His Editorial.

It was the practice of a certain London editor some years ago to write his leading article or articles at home the night before publication. The rest of the week he did nothing. One night his articles had not come to hand at the office. Ten o'clock came, 11, 12, and still no sign of an article. There was commotion in the office, and at last a messenger was sent to the editor's house. He found him with a glass of brandy and water before him and newspapers scattered about. There was no article written. "What do you want?" asked the editor. "The article for tomorrow." "Didn't I send it?" "No—at least it has not come to the office." "Give me the Times." The Times was found and handed to him, and with unsteady fingers he cut out one of its leading articles. This he stuck upon a sheet of paper and then, taking his pen, wrote at the top, "What does the Times mean by this?" In that form and with that introduction it appeared next morning as the editor's leading article.

Brought Him Alive.

A farmer hired a green Irishman. One of the first tasks assigned the new hired hand was to bring into the cow lot dead or alive a refractory bull that had broken into the cornfield. The Irishman was given a shotgun and told to shoot the bull if the animal showed fight. Jauntily he went about his task. The farmer stood at a safe distance to watch developments. As soon as the bull saw the Irishman enter the cornfield he bolted at him, bellowing madly. The Irishman blazed away with the shotgun and emptied the load in the beast's breast. On rushed the bull, madder than ever. The Irishman took to his heels, with the bull after him.

"What are you doing?" screamed the farmer at the fleeing Irishman. "I'm bringing him alive, sir!" shouted the Irishman between breaths.—Washington Herald.

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

digests what you eat, takes the strain off of the heart, and contributes nourishment, strength and health to every organ of the body. Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the Stomach and Digestive Tract, Nervous Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach.

After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.
MRS. LORING NICHOLS, Penn Yan, N. Y.

I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—cures blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure. Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense. We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

LEGENDS OF SCIENCE.

Toads in Cold Rocks, the Moa and the Gigantic Minhocao.

"Stories of long suffering toads and frogs, entombed in 'solid' rocks, represent myths such as arise from imperfect observation of the circumstances under which such animals are discovered," writes Dr. Andrew Wilson. "These creatures can certainly live for long periods of time—Dr. Buckland's experiment set the limit at about two years—inclosed in cavities and deprived of water or other food. But the fable credits these pent up amphibians with lasting for untold geological ages. If this were the case, these zoological Rip Van Winkles would prove really to be far older than the oldest fossil frogs and toads, which is, of course, absurd. When a rock is smashed up, no one can then assert that it was a solid mass, and the possibility of a toad or frog in its young state gaining access to the interior of the rock through some crevice and growing so that it could not escape from its durance vile never seems to occur to the minds of those who are fond of perpetuating stories of such modern miracles.

"The notion that certain animals, supposed to have long been extinct, may still live on in remote and inaccessible parts of the earth is one frequently exploited. That gigantic bird of the New Zealand islands, the moa, is said every now and then to have been discovered alive, but no living moa has ever been found, though its bones are common enough in the superficial deposits of its native land. Hidden in the sea depths and rising seldom from the ocean abysses, reptilian forms of huge size have been credited with occasionally revisiting the glimpses of the moon. But reptiles require to come to the surface to breathe, for they possess lungs alone as respiratory organs. Even the turtles and alligators, that are capable of remaining for long periods below water, must now and then take in a fresh supply of atmosphere.

"One very curious illustration of the alleged revival of some gigantic animals is found in an account given seriously and exactly in scientific journals in 1878. The animal in question was called the minhocao. It was believed to be an earthworm of gigantic size, inhabiting the highlands in the south of Brazil. This underground monster was said to attain a length of fifty yards and a breadth of five yards and was covered with a bony armor. Popular accounts credited it with being a worm, but it is hard to conceive of any worm exhibiting the characteristics given of this creature, which was said to uproot trees and to cause very grave disturbances of the soil in its burrowing operations."

All He Asked.

Stephen A. Douglas, who will be remembered in connection with Lincoln at Springfield, was very demonstrative in his professions of friendship. One day he sat down on Beverly Tucker's knee and, throwing his arm around the Virginian's shoulder, said, "Bev, old boy, I love you."

"Douglas," said Tucker, "will you always love me?"

"Yes, Beverly, I surely will."

"But," persisted Tucker, "will you love me when you get to be president?"

"Indeed I will. What do you want me to do for you?"

"Well," said Tucker, "all I want you to do then is to pick out some public place and put your arm around my neck just as you are doing now and call me Bev."

Left His Imprint.

"Count Julius Andrassy," says the Budapest Neue Presse, "was a handsome man and was particular about his appearance. He had a habit of smoothing with his hand his richly oiled and greased hair. One day an important document had passed the Austrian council of ministers, in the contents of which Count Andrassy was interested. Shortly after I met the Austrian president of the ministry, Prince Auersperg, who said to me:

"Count Andrassy has read the latest document."

"How do you know? I asked.

"I have discovered on it the imprints of Count Andrassy's fingers," Prince Auersperg answered, laughing.

His Surprise Party.

Tramp—Madam, can you help a poor man with a wife and eleven children at home?

Housewife—Are you very needy?

"Needy is no word for it, ma'am. I couldn't see the little ones suffer, so I left them to ask the assistance of the charitable."

"Did you leave home today?"

"No, ma'am. It will be seven years tomorrow. Can't you help a man who wants to surprise his little ones?"

Weight Dead and Alive.

It is a very popular idea that a person when dead weighs heavier than when living. One reason that a dead body is thought to be heavier than a living one is probably this: In carrying a living person we have the center of gravity adapted by the person carried to suit the convenience of the carrier and maintained in a position as far as possible to fall within the base of his body. Again, the elasticity of the structure of the body, especially the cartilages, though not in reality diminishing the weight, gives an appearance of lightness, as we see in the beautiful movements of the stag, and this would seem to corroborate the notion that living creatures are lighter than dead ones. It has also been asserted that the breath makes the living body lighter than the dead. But we need hardly say that a man when dead weighs no more than when alive.

Too Small to Be Seen.

Not long after his introduction into national life as a member of the house Tim Sullivan of New York conceived a violent dislike for the man then at the head of one of the executive departments. It was observed that whenever Sullivan, much to his disgust, was obliged to consult the official in question he invariably left in anything but the pleasantest of humors. One morning Sullivan had been cooling his heels in the secretary's anteroom when the private secretary entered, saying, "I am awfully sorry, Mr. Sullivan, but you can't see the secretary this morning." Sullivan, by this time in a white heat because of his long wait, dramatically exclaimed: "Merciful heaven! Is he so small as all that?"

A Mixed Quotation.

In a case of some notoriety a lawyer who is noted for his flowery oratory was defending the accused. Wishing to emphasize the tender relation that had existed between his client and the complainant, he exclaimed: "What does O'Far say on this subject? 'A dog and a bone and a hank of hair and thou sitting beside me in the wilderness.'" And to this day he doesn't understand why his respectfully attentive audience laughed.—Kansas City Star.

Profitable Desperation.
A certain Mr. Davies, who began life as a sawyer and carpenter and whose honesty and industry carried him on to wealth as a railway contractor, sunk all his money in boring for coal, no coal being found. Then he called a large meeting of his miners and told them that he had spent the earnings of his life in the speculation and would have to abandon it. Holding up a half crown, he declared that that was all he had left of £10,000 which he had sunk in the mine. A fellow called out, "And we'll have that too." "So you shall!" cried Davies, and threw the coin among them. This bit of desperation so delighted the men that they straightway determined to go to work again, wages or no wages. In a few days they found excellent coal and plenty of it, and Davies was again a rich man.

Old Indian Mathematics.
It is remarkable to what extent Indian mathematics enter into the science of our time. Both the form and the spirit of the arithmetic and algebra of modern times are essentially Indian and not Grecian. Think of that most perfect of mathematical symbolisms, the Hindoo notation; think of the Indian arithmetical operations nearly as perfect as our own; think of their elegant algebraical methods and then judge whether the Brahmins on the banks of the Ganges are not entitled to some credit. Unfortunately some of the most brilliant of Hindoo discoveries in indeterminate analysis reached Europe too late to exercise the influence they would have exerted had they come two or three centuries earlier.—"History of Mathematics," Cajori.

Celestial Game.
There is a clergyman of Brooklyn who, contrary to the usual custom of his profession, is much given to sport. Especially does he like a bit of shooting in the Adirondacks.

During his last expedition to that region, in company with a friend they were tramping through a stretch of woods at twilight when suddenly something flitted by their heads. The Brooklyn divine promptly brought his gun into play and brought the creature down. Upon hastening to the spot where it fell they beheld the face of a white owl staring at them out of the grass. Whereupon the clergyman exclaimed, with some agitation: "Come away, Jack, come away! I've shot a cherubim by mistake!"—Harper's.

He had no coat upon his back, But had one on his tongue, And Rocky Mountain Tea, it's said, Kept him from being hung. (Bad breath) Wooten's Drug Store.
