FATE OF AN EDITOR WHO TOLD THE TRUTH FOR ONCE.

A North Carolina editor once announced that just for one issue he would tell the truth. Here are a few choice items from the local page:

"John Bonin, the sorriest man in town, took advantage of the summer rates Sunday and went to the city to get drunk on dispensary liquor. He borrowed the money from his wife. She works in the cotton mill at night. He sleeps all night and loafs all day. Mrs. Bonin is devoted to her husband. She recently threatened to pull all the hair out of another woman's head because that woman had said that her husband was lazy." "Mrs. Sophia Wyche wore another new dress and new hat to church last Sunday. She was the cynosure of all eyes. Her hat cost $8 and the making of her dress cost $10. Mrs. Wyche has notified the editor to say that she will spend part of the summer away at the springs and the seaside resort. Her husband, whose income is about $40 per month, has to rent a house, hire a cook, a nurse, pay the preacher and the doctor. He also has to pay town taxes. When the groceryman, Tom Doyle, went into bankruptcy last October it was found that poor Jim Wyche owed him more than anybody else in town. "List Taker Montclair thinks there will be a decided shrinkage in the value of town property during June. Two or three have listed since he opened the books this morning. They are among the large property holders. If one could buy their property for three times what it is listed at he would certainly be in luck. We would give the name of these distinguished gentlemen, but they are prominent members of the church and we do not wish to embarrass the minister. The members of the S. S. Poker Club, who have for the past eight months been doing business in the rear room of the barber shop, are thinking of suspending operations for the summer. These young sports say they have no fear that Chief Police Rotcorp will molest them in their semidaily and nightly gatherings. Their only reason for suspending operations is that funds have run low. Business will begin at the old stand October the first next. "Dave Sonney called Ed Bates a thief one day last week. Ed went after him and made him show his tongue." Married Miss Alyce Wyse and Mr. Mario Monk at the Baptist parsonage, Sunday afternoon. The bride is a very ordinary girl who loafs around the drug store and post office most of the time. She can drink more coco-colas than any old soak in town and she is as thin as a piney woods rooster in July. She is not a beauty at all and she has a voice like a squedunk and a gait like a goat. The groom is an ordinary loafer. He lives off the old man and isn't worth a cart of shucks. This couple will have an unhappy life, and so the editor has no congratulations to offer." "Rev Junius Light foot preached Sunday night on charity. The trouble with him is he doesn't live up to his own advice. He is the stingiest man in town."

Now, in the good old summer time when the Bob Whites make music in the golden wheat fields, all the day long people drive out to the edge of the town to see a piece of coat tail suspended from a barbed wire fence. It is all

Rev. J. E. Ayscue, pastor of the Memorial Baptist church of Greenville, has consented to preach the sermon at the close of Winterville High school. We consider ourselves fortunate indeed in securing his services.

J. L. Jackson knows the value of a well selected orchard. He is setting out some fine fruit trees on his lot.

The monthly mission meeting was held at the Baptist church Sunday night. A very able talk on the history of missions was made by Jno. R. Carroll, the efficient president.

Capt. Galloway's Epitah.

The Salisbury Post has this to say of Capt. Galloway, the "Juvenile" representative from Greene:

Despite the weight of years and physical infirmities Capt. Swift Galloway, of Greene, is the juvenile of the house.

"What, captain, would you say should you choose to write your own epitah?" I interrupted as he was entertaining a dozen of us in the house between sessions today with reminiscences. "I would say," he replied without hesitation:

"Swift Galloway, lame in both legs, cripple in both hands, blind in one eye; seeing very indifferently with the other, deaf in one ear was until the last expiring breath on the firing line."

Spring Almost Here.

Some say it was Tuesday and some today for the ground hog to make his second appearance. But in either case he could see his shadow, so if he wants to go back in his hole for ten days more let him go. We have stood the forty days weather mixture all right and the rapid approach of spring will soon have us dispensing with the coal man that community has of the editor who dared to tell the truth for once. The paper suspended publication, Unfortunate Robin Redbreast.

Tuesday of this week Mr. Dal las Lee, of Ingrams township, killed a robin which several weeks or months ago had the misfortune to have a stick driven through its body. The stick was about an eighth of an inch in size and nearly twice long enough to go through the bird. It went through the breast and out at the back and the top end was sticking out a quarter of an inch. Below its breast about an inch of the stick showed and had worn slick. At the entrances above and below the flesh seemed to have healed somewhat around the stick. When Mr. Lee saw the bird it was seemingly well and flying around like the other birds. The accident to the poor bird must have happened when a tree fell or during a storm. The mystery of it all is how the bird lived and flew around with a stick through its body. The bird was on exhibition at this office for two days and seen by several persons. - Smithfield Herald.

Opera House Tonight.

One of the many amusing stories by Mr. Cox, the leading comedian with "Dorcas" (which is to be presented at the opera house tonight by the Ethel Morton Opera Company) is of a happening which took place in New York shortly before his present engagement. He was hanging onto a strap in one of the subway cars. Suddenly, the strap gave way and Mr Cox was precipitated into the lap of a most indignant old lady of generous proportions. "Get up, you heathen," she exclaimed. Mr. Cox gathered himself together and remarked soberly, "I beg your pardon, I'm not a heathen—I'm a Laplander."

Somebody Move.

Nobddy has yet actually taken hold of the idea that a pavillion and bath houses on the river front would be a good thing. Getting time to start in if such a convenience is to be inaugurated by summer.

Which side of the trust question a man will take largely depends on whether he is on the outside or inside himself. - Atlanta Journal.

MAN.

A man's life is full of crosses and temptations.

He comes into this world without his consent, and goes out against his will, and the trip between the two is exceedingly rocky. The rule of the contraries is one of the important features of the trip.

When he is little, the big girls kiss him; but when he is grown, the little girls kiss him.

If he is poor, he is a bad manager; if he is rich, he is dishonest.

If he needs credit, he can't get it; if he is prosperous, every one wants to do him a favor.

If he's in politics, it's for pie; if he's out of politics, you can't place him, and he's no good for his country.

If he doesn't give to charity, he is a stingy cuss; if he does, it is for show.

If he is actively religious, he is a hypocrite; if he takes no interest in religion, he is a hardened sinner.

If he shows affection, he is a soft specimen; if he seems to care for no one, he is cold-blooded.

If he dies young, there was a great future before him; if he lives to an old age, he missed his calling.

The road is rocky, but man loves to travel it.—Ex.

Killed by Funay Story.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Bennett, wife of Fred K. H. Bennett, of Trenton, is dead as the result of a funny story told by her husband a week ago. She laughed so heartily that she burst a blood vessel, and death ensued after several days of intense suffering. Three years ago Mrs. Bennett's two sons were drowned together while swimming in the canal.

The Bennett's were at dinner when the husband told the fatal joke, which was about a young man who telephoned to his wife that six or eight of their relatives were coming to dinner and that she had better get a slice of ham for the meal.

The wife laughed until she became unconscious. Despite the best medical and surgical skill that could be procured, Mrs. Bennett suffered great agony before she passed away.

Disputed About Rent.

Savannah, Ga., March 11 — W. P. Harrell, of Dodge county, was shot and instantly killed tonight about 7 o'clock by Mrs Sallie Freney. The killing grew out of a dispute about rent, Mr. Harrell owning the house in which Mrs. Freney lived. He had gone there for the purpose of collecting the rent and upon being refused payment he told Mrs. Freney that he would have her put out, whereupon she drew a pistol and shot Harrell twice through the heart and brain. Mrs. Freney was arrested. Mr. Harrell leaves a wife and several children.

No Seating While Act is On.

The curtain will rise on "Dorcas" tonight at 8:30 o'clock and persons who are not in their seats by that time must wait until the act ends before the ushers can show them to their seats. This is a requirement of high class companies, and ought to be the rule at every performance in an opera house. Neither the actors nor the audience wish to be disturbed while the play is going on. Therefore all holders of reserved seat tickets should be on hand by 8:30 tonight.

THE MARCH MIRROR.

Look in and See Whose Face is There.

Ex Gov. T. J. Jarvis left Wednesday morning for Elizabeth City.

Frank Wilson has returned from his trip to northern markets after new goods.

Rev. J. W. Rose, of Edenton, is in town in the interest of his paper, the Chowan Baptist, which he publishes in connection with his pastoral work.

Died Under Tons of Dirt.

Last Monday afternoon at the works of the Midway Brick Co., a half mile west of the railway station at this place, where clay was being taken out the dirt caved in and buried Chas. C. Mebane and his father, Buck Mebane, both colored. The latter was extricated in a dying condition, but it is believed he will recover, while the former being much farther back was not reached until life was extinct. The negroes, as we are informed, had the contract to dig the clay to keep the brick mills going. To save a great deal of digging they dig under for some distance and split off the over-hanging ledge, and it was in this way the men were caught. The recent rains had softened the dirt and it broke down this time of its own weight.—Graham Gleaner.

Bank of Greenville on Honor Roll.

The Financier, of New York, publishes an honor roll each year of State banks whose surplus and profits is in excess of capital stock. This honor roll for 1907 names the Bank of Greenville, placing it as 3rd among the banks of North Carolina and 193rd in the United States. The capital stock of this bank is $25,000, while its surplus and profits reach $41,637. It is a good bank that can reach this distinction.

Dorcas Tonight.

WEDNESDAY, MAR, 13th, 1907

That spot on the sun, like some folk's bank account, has shrunk wonderfully.

With congress and the legislature both adjourned March has a clear field in which to blow without fear of competition.

The Thaw case seems to be unbalancing other people. A Baltimore man shot a girl whom he thought was Evelyn Nesbit Thaw.

Marie Corelli says that a power which she cannot resist makes her write. Same way here, sweet Marie, but the irresistible power that keeps us at it is the demand for food and raiment.

It is a long time before another State election in North Carolina, and the talk that has already sprung up about a split in the Democratic party in the next campaign is rather far fetched. There may be some disgruntled folks, they bob up in every campaign, but the party is all right and will be found that way when next voting time comes.

We cannot think Rev. Walt. Holcombe ever saw the "Clansman" played, or he would not have made the statements about it that he uttered in Charlotte Sunday. Just because a man is in the pulpit should not give him license to make random statements concerning things of which he knows nothing. So many of his hearers know that his statements are incorrect that it really puts him in a bad light and lessens his influence for good. Charlotte has recently had two instances of preachers making erroneous statements when they were not in possession of the facts to back up their utterances, and knew it at the time. Some preachers, like other folks, just want to jump on things for the momentary notoriety it may bring them. It would be more creditable if they always knew in advance that what they are saying is true.

RANDOM REFLECTIONS.

By a Contributor.

It is popularly supposed that Mr. Bryan's silence about government ownership is due to the fact that the railroads are speaking for themselves.

A man in Canada died the other day at the age of 111 without ever having bought an umbrella. But think of the number he might have borrowed during his lifetime.

Among the experts butting into the limelight, of the Thaw case, is a palmist who has read the hands of almost every principal in the case. Can't suggest anything else unless they call in a pedist and have their hoofs looked over.

Uncle Sam will hereafter look out for pickpockets when he carries any money to Chicago.

Senator Foraker evidently believes that the Ethiopian will change his skin if the white-wash is put on thick enough.

About all it takes to reorganize a railroad these days is a roller top desk in a New York office and a little nerve.

It seems unnecessary to state that the Illinois man who lost his mind because of the increase of salary was not a congressman.

A Kansas man has just married a woman whose name and address he found in a package of cigarettes. There no end to the dangers that lurk in the pesky little white rolls?

Mr. Spooner will be greatly missed in the senate chamber, and by no one more than Senator Tillman who was in the habit of helping him make his speeches.

Does Coffee disagree with you? Probably it does! Then try Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee. Health Coffee is a clever combination of parched cereals and nuts. Not a grain of real coffee, remember it. Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee, yet it's flavor matches closely old Java add Mocha coffee. If your stomach heart or kidneys can't stand coffee drinking, try Health Coffee. It is wholesome, nourishing and satisfying. It's safe even for the smallest child. Sold by T. E. Hooker & Co.

Panama Canal—Erie Canal.

Machinery is digging the Panama canal a thousand times quicker than the shovel dug the Erie. Machinery produces the L. & M. paint at 50 times less cost for labor, than if made by hand. The L. & M. gives the best job in the world, because L. & M. Zinc hardens L. & M. White lead and makes L. & M. paint wear like iron for 10 to 15 years. It only requires 4 gallons of this celebrated paint and 3 gallons of Linseed Oil at 60¢ per gallon, to paint a moderate sized house. If any defect exists in L. & M. Paint, will repaint house for nothing. Sold by H. L. Carr, Greenville. 52w

It's a pleasure to tell our readers about a Cough Cure like Dr. Shoop's. For years Dr. Shoop has fought against the use of opium, chloroform or other unsafe ingredients commonly found in cough remedia. Dr. Shoop, it seems has welcomed the Pure Food Drug Law recently enacted, for he has worked along similar lines for many years. For nearly 20 years Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure containers have had a warning printed on them against opium and other narcotic poisons. He has thus made it possible for mothers to protect their children by simply insisting on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by Bryan's Drug Store.

Croup can positively be stopped in 20 minutes. No vomiting—nothing to sicken or distress your child. A sweet pleasant and safe Syrup called Dr. Shoop's Croup Cure, does the work and does it quickly. Dr. Shoop's Croup Cure is for croup alone, remember. It does not claim to cure a dozen ailments. It's for croup, that's all. Sold by Bryan's Drug Store.

TOO LIFELIKE.

Curious Reason For Rejecting the "Portrait of a Doctor."

Concerning the prize, "Portrait of a Doctor," by Seymour Thomas, there is a very amusing story. Several artists had made paintings of the gentleman who is represented in this celebrated picture, but the family decided that none of them was "lifelike enough." After visiting the Thomas studio the gentleman's relatives commissioned this artist to copy the task.

The work went on well, and the picture was completed. Every one was delighted. All declared—friends, family and enemies—that it was a "living likeness."

One day, before the picture had been sent home, the wife of the doctor called with her sister-in-law. This woman had been suffering from nervous prostration and had come to spend several months with her brother for a rest.

Instantly on entering the studio she threw up her hands and exclaimed in a hysterical, horrified tone:

"Oh, my dear, my dear! How much like Robert that is! Oh, it is horrible! I couldn't stand it in the house a moment. Why, it looks just exactly like him, and I'd almost think him about to speak. Don't take it—it's uncanny!"

Abashed into silence, embarrassed beyond description, the wife and sister-in-law later left the studio.

"And what do you think," said Mr. Thomas, with a gentle smile. "A few days later I had a note from the wife asking me if I could not take the picture a little less lifelike?" "Did I do it? Well, I guess not! That was one of my best pieces of work, and I know that in trying to please everybody you are apt to be in the same predicament as the man with the donkey—in the end you'll lose the donkey and will have pleased nobody. Give me changeable sitters, but deliver me from the family."—Scrap Book.

No Contract.

Those who desired to secure Philander Hay's services as a wood sawyer were obliged to take him on his own terms. "I'll saw an' split all you get here an' tier it up for ye in good shape for $1.75 a day," said Mr. Hay after an inspection of the summer resident's shed yard.

"There are just three cords of wood to be sawed and split," said the summer resident briskly. "How much will you charge for the job?" "I don't do work that way." And Philander surveyed his victim with a relentless gaze.

"If I set out to saw an' split by the job, what with the wear an' tear on my saw an' hatchet an' the liming that has to be put on my back nights, when you get it all reckoned out there wouldn't be any money in it, an' I wouldn't have had a minute to set down an' see how I was getting on either."—Youth's Companion.

Uncomfortable Shaving.

The traveler, who had just returned from abroad, sank back into his accustomed barber's chair with a sigh of relief. "This is the first time I've had the prospect of a comfortable shave for three months," he remarked. "They have improved in a good many things abroad," he continued, "but the barbers over on the other side still stick to those uncomfortable chairs of theirs in the most absurd way."

"I asked the man who shaved me in London, and nearly broke my neck at the same time, why they never used American chairs in the barber shops of London."

"I don't know, sir," he said, "except for the reason that they are made in America, sir."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

He Had an Opinion.

At the time of the ecclesiastical trial of Professor Woods of Andover Theological seminary for alleged heresy, a retired New Hampshire clergyman while making a journey by rail was absorbed in reading the details of this trial as reported in the Congregationalist. A sporty looking individual who sat beside him was absorbed in the pages of a different periodical.

"My friend," said the clergyman, "what do you think will be the result of the great contest that is now agitating the nation?"

"Think!" said the other. "I think that John L. Sullivan will knock the stuffing out of the presumptuous cuss in the first round!"

The Sirloin.

The term "sirloin" of beef is a corruption of "surloin," from the French word "surloin," meaning over or upper portion of the loin; also because King James I, when dining at Houghton hall, in Lancashire, in one of his fits of humor said to an attendant, "Bring hither that surloin, sirrah, for 'tis worthy of a more honorable post, being, as I may say, not surloin, but Sir Loin, the noblest joint of all."

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

digests what you eat, takes the strain off of the heart, and contributes nourishment, strength and health to every organ of the body. Cures indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach, inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the stomach and digestive tract, nervous dyspepsia and catarrh of the stomach.

After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

MRS. LORING NICHOLS, Penn Yan, N. Y.

I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—corrects blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's pain? periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 30 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruiise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply common sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets

A MATTER OF BUSINESS.

The Lesson a Vegetable Vender Taught a Dazed Woman.

Only a single cabbage remained of the wagon load of produce with which the huckster had started in. It was a good head, and the keen witted huckster was alive to the chance of selling it, although the hour was late. As he glanced from side to side of the street, seeking a purchaser, says a writer in the New York Sun, he was hailed from a doorway by a housewife's cry:

"What are you selling?"

"Whoa, Bill!" said the vender to his horse, and to the prospective customer he called, "Only one cabbage left, missus!"

"Is it a good one?" she asked from the curb.

"Sure; as good as any ever came from Jersey."

"How much do you want for it?"

"It's worth a dime, lady, but I want to sell out, so you can have it for a nickel."

After pulling off some of the leaves to make sure the head was fresh and sound the woman handed the huckster a nickel. The coin was transferred to his pocket, already filled, and the cabbage was placed in the woman's arms.

As she turned to go another woman who had come up during the bargaining said to the merchant:

"Got any cabbage?"

"Yes, ma'am; one head left."

"How much is it?"

"Ten cents."

"Is it a good head?"

"Finest kind of Long Island cabbage."

The woman who had just bought the last head of cabbage was astonished by his calm assertion that he had one left when she knew the bottom of his cart was bare. She waited to see how he would satisfy the second woman.

When the last comer said, "I'll take it," the huckster turned calmly to the owner of the cabbage, took it from her arms and handed it to the new customer. At the same time he took her dime from her fingers.

As the first woman stood with mouth open, too astonished to protest, the second walked away. Then the woman deprived of her cabbage found voice to say indignantly:

"That was my cabbage! How?"

The huckster interrupted her with:

"Yes, ma'am; I know it. Here's the dime I got you for it. You're a nickel in."

"But I didn't want to sell it."

"Didn't want to sell it!" he exclaimed in a sorrowful tone. "Sure you did when you could make a profit like that. Never miss a chance to make money, lady. That's the way to get rich."

"Here's your dime," and as the woman, still dazed, took the dime he said, "Git up, Bill!"

The Vote Was Secured.

An ex-M. P. who contested a highland constituency some years ago tells the following anecdote:

Once, after a long and fatiguing day's canvass, I tackled a dissenting minister, who was very keen upon the subject of getting the bishops out of the house of lords, and in pursuance of his favorite hobby he asked me:

"Well, sir, what are you prepared to do about the bishops?"

I was irritated and fatigued by my day's work, and I testily muttered, "Oh, hang the bishops!"

The minister bowed and replied: "Well, sir, you go rather beyond me there. I canna undertake to go altogether that length with you, but you shall hae my vote."—Pearson's Weekly.

As Good as She Sent.

Years ago the once famous Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams were playing an engagement at the Boston museum. The couple were always great favorites in Boston, but Mrs. Williams was somewhat noted for her sharp tongue both on and off the stage.

On the night in question she had been disturbed by the crying of a baby in the gallery. Stepping to the footlights, she stopped in the middle of her lines and, looking toward the offending child, cried, "Wanted, a nurse!"

To this came in a rich brogue from the child's mother, so that all the house heard, "No Irish need apply."—Boston Herald.

Worthy of Respect.

"I found my waiter—the waiter who serves me my luncheon at a downtown restaurant—in there with his best girl dining," said the exchange broker as he came back to his table at the hotel. "I wish you could have seen him. He was magnificent."

"Did you speak to him?" asked his companion.

"Well, I should say so," the broker declared. "He makes a lot more money than I do."—New York Press.

HOW WE WALK.

The Muscles Used and the Mechanical Work They Do.

The chief muscles concerned in walking are those in the calf and back of the leg, which, by pulling up the heel, also pull up the bones of the foot connected with it, and then the whole body, the weight of which is passed on through the bones of the leg. When walking the trunk is thrown forward so that it would fall down prostrate were not the right foot planted in time to support it. The calf muscles are helped in this action by those on the front of the trunk and legs, which contract and pull the body forward, and, the trunk slanting forward when the heel is raised by the calf muscles, the whole body will be raised and pushed forward and upward. This advancement of each leg is effected partly by muscular action, the muscles used being (1) those on the front of the thigh, bending it forward on the pelvis; (2) the hamstring muscles, which slightly bend the leg on the thigh; (3) the muscles on the front of the leg, which raise the front of the foot and toes, preventing the latter, in swinging forward, from hitching in the ground.

When one foot has reached the ground the action of the other has not ceased. There is another point in walking. The body is constantly supported and balanced on each leg alternately and therefore on only one at once; hence there must be some means for throwing the center of gravity over the line of support formed by the bones of each leg, as it supports the weight of the body. This is done in various ways, and hence the difference in the walk of different people. There may be slight rotation at the hip joint, bringing the center of gravity of the body over the foot of this side. This "rocking" motion of the trunk and thigh is accompanied by a movement of the whole trunk and leg over the foot planted on the ground and is accompanied by a compensating outward movement at the hip. The body rises and swings alternately from one side to the other as its center of gravity comes alternately over one or the other leg, and the curvature of the spinal bones is altered with the varying position of the weight. — London

There is a Difference Between Him

Here and in England.

"The different use of the same words in England and America," said the returned tourist, "is sometimes amusing, sometimes bewildering, and occasionally, as I have found it, embarrassing. During my sojourn in the British isles I found myself one evening in the quaint old town of Warwick and very much in need of a square meal. Not being familiar with the place, I stepped into a drug store, or chemist's, as they call it, to make inquiries. The proprietor looked me over.

"Well," he said, "if you want a hotel fare, go up to the Arms, but if you're looking for a place where a healthy man can get his shilling's worth go right across the street, indicating a little restaurant.

"My good looks are not my strongest point, but I don't know that I ever had their absence so forcibly brought home to me—at least by a stranger. I must have regarded my informant with some interest. 'Thank you,' I said, 'and supposing I were a beauty, where would I go?'"

"The English aren't overquick to see a point, and it took him at least half a minute to begin to smile. The relaxation of his countenance ended in a laugh.

"Bless you," he said, "I wasn't referring to your face, but to your tastes. I fancied you were a man who wanted plain food, and plenty of it. Homely here means home loving, substantial folks."

"So we arrived at a satisfactory understanding, and later, I am glad to say, I had a satisfactory meal. But on thinking it over afterward it impressed itself upon me that my friend the chemist hadn't explicitly denied the construction that I hastily put upon his adjective."—New York Press.

A Mixed Quotation.

In a case of some notoriety a lawyer who is noted for his flowery oratory was defending the accused. Wishing to emphasize the tender relation that had existed between his client and the complainant, he exclaimed: "What does Omar say on this subject? 'A dog and a bone and a hawk of hair and then singing beside me in the wilderness.' And to this day he doesn't understand why his respectable attentive audience laughed."—Kansas City News.

He had no coat upon his back, But had one on his tongue, And Rocky Mountain Tea, it's said, Kept him from being hung. (Bad breath.) Wooten's Drug Store.
