

ACTS OF THE LEGISLATURE.

A Summary of the New Laws.
(Concluded from Yesterday.)

To enable the State to make proof of the possession of whiskey licenses, issued by the government in prosecuting offenders.

To limit the poll tax to $2 in cities and towns.

To provide for the display of the State flag on all court houses, schools and other public buildings.

To exclude minors under 18 from pool rooms, bar rooms, etc.

To prohibit corporations from preventing public improvements by other corporations by preventing occupancy of land for right-of-way.

To place all telephone lines under the corporation commission.

To promote the oyster industry.

To punish fraud in giving worthless checks, drafts and orders.

To create the office of fish commissioner.

To require express companies to pay claim for loss or damage to property.

To secure immigration in North Carolina; appropriating $10,000, half from the State, half from the agricultural department.

To secure a statue of Zeb Vance to be placed in statuary hall at the Capitol at Washington.

To fix the salaries of State officers and to require fees to be turned into the State treasury.

To make general election day a legal holiday.

To make the pension appropriation $400,000, an increase of $125,000.

There were bills of course, carrying increased appropriations for all the State institutions, some forty in number.

INSURANCE LEGISLATION.

A great many insurance bills were introduced but only a small percentage of these passed. Those which did pass are as follows:

To amend the Revisal by allowing companies having over $100,000 capital to invest the excess in such manner as the insurance commissioner approves.

To regulate the use of the reserve of life companies by allowing it to be used for re-insurance, to be available in case of the insolvency of the company.

To define fraternal orders.

To prohibit the application of the iron safe clause to buildings and fixtures.

To prevent the diversion of funds insurance companies for political purposes.

To require fire insurance companies to furnish blank proofs of loans in case they demand such proof.

To regulate the form of life insurance contracts by requiring the form of all policies under $500 to be submitted to and approved by the insurance commissioner before the company can issue said policies, this act to be effective July 1.

To allow the insurance commissioner to employ an actuary and accountant to calculate and check up the books of the insurance companies.

To impose a general penalty for all provisions of the insurance law for which no special penalty has been imposed.

To provide for the volunteer firemen of the State in case of injury or sickness, due to service at fires by levying a tax of 1 per cent, upon the prem-

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

Notes From our Rustling Neighbor.
Winterville, N. C. March 20, '07.

Misses Helen Galloway, of Grimesland, and Lydia Roberson, of Robersonville, spent Sunday here.

W. E. Hooks, of Ayden, was in town Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Jno. Warren and Wm. Woolard, of Bethel, were pleasant visitors here Sunday.

Rev. B. E. Stanfield, of Ayden, filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church Sunday evening and night. He was accompanied by Mrs. Stanfield and children. They returned home Monday afternoon.

Rowan Cooper and R. H. Hunsucker are attending court this week as jurors.

Several of the school boys attended church at Hancock's Sunday.

Mack Ellis, of Kinston, is here at the bedside of his brother, George, who is critically ill with pneumonia and appendicitis.

G. E. Lineterry and family went to Greenville Monday afternoon.

Willie Bullock who has been detained from school by an attack of pneumonia returned to school Monday.

N. C. Jackson of Ayden came over awhile Tuesday evening.

It is with sadness that we announce the death of George Ellis of Greenville. He died this morning at 6 o'clock, after having suffered only a few days. He leaves several grief stricken brothers and sisters to mourn their loss. He will be buried Thursday at the Ellis' burying ground.

F. C. Nye went to Scotland Neck today to visit the graded school there.

J. R. Carroll & Dr. B. T. Cox, went to Greenville today.

There is a great amount of fertilizer being hauled away from here from the number of carts and wagons seen carrying and going. The better plan is to make the land improve itself by the proper rotation of crops, sowing cow peas and clover as often as possible.

Swapped Mule for Pocket Knife.

Two young men of the county—who shall be nameless so far as this veracious narrative is concerned—met in Wadesboro Saturday and bartered each other for a swap. One of the young men was the owner of a mule that had been left in a very dilapidated condition by its many years of weary toil, while the other was the proud possessor of a first rate pocket knife. Finally the man to whom the pocket knife belonged offered an even swap to the man who owned the mule and was taken up, the exchange being made at once.

Sunday the quondam owner of the mule repented him of the trade and wanted to "rue back." The then owner of the mule at first refused to "rue," but finally, in consideration of 25 cents to him paid by the party of the first part agreed to give up the mule. —Wadesboro Intelligencer.

iums of fire insurance companies but in order to secure this the town must comply with the fire waste law.

To declare that the agent of a life insurance company is the agent of the company and not of the policy holder. —Raleigh Correspondent to Charlotte Observer.

A Deputy Sheriff Who is Up Against a Hard Proposition.

Special to Reflector.

It was told the other day about Deputy Sheriff Weatherly levying on a car of the Southern railway here and chaining it on a siding at the depot. There it has been ever since. This morning the Southern notified the deputy to take his car away, that he had levied on it and it was in his charge and that it was an obstruction on the tracks which the heavy traffic demanded should be removed.

Mr Weatherly says the company need not think he is up against it; that he will make arrangements with the street car people to place it on their tracks—it is only a few feet away—take it out to the end of the line out of the way, advertise and sell it.

All of which shows you can't get away with an officer who knows how. —Greensboro Telegram.

Our Men the Best Marksmen.

"The men of the United States army are the best marksmen in the world," said Brigadier General Henry C. Ward, retired, who is at the Ebbitt house. General Ward has just returned to Washington after an extended trip abroad. He was retired a year ago last November while serving as colonel of the Fifteenth United States infantry at Monterey, Cal., after a service in the army of forty-five years. "I went abroad soon after my retirement," said General Ward, "and have visited nearly every country in Europe. In my opinion the soldiers of the United States are as good as any in the world. Many of the European countries have larger armies than we have, but they are no better. Germany's and France's are the greatest numerically, and their discipline is good, especially Germany's. In England Lord Roberts is doing much to improve the service. He is devoting a great deal of attention to marksmanship and is accomplishing much good. He looks upon America as the greatest country in the world in this respect. In fact, it is the general belief all over Europe that Uncle Sam's are the best shots." —Washington Post.

A Curiate's Mistake.

New York church circles are interested just now in the case of the assistant rector of St. Matthews Episcopal church, who got into serious trouble while searching for material for a sermon. To get this material he undertook a tour of a disreputable district. During the course of his tour, he went to a furnished room with a negress who had accosted him on the street. He accused her of an attempt to rob him, and when detectives appeared he imagined they were accomplices of the woman and fought his way out of the house. On returning with a uniformed policeman to get his hat the minister was arrested by the detectives. Of course a sensation followed the arrest and he did not get to whack into shape the material which he had gathered for a sermon, after all, for he has been relieved to his duties as curate. He may have meant well, but he was very unwise in his methods for gathering pulp material. It is to be hoped that his experience will give a check to the fad of "going slumming." Work in the slums should be left to the preachers whose business it is to attend to it.—Charlotte Chronicle.

THAW CASE SET BACK.

New York, March 20.—It is thought today that the Thaw case will not be given to the jury until Monday. The defence expects to prove by Carvalho that Hummel fixed a photographic trick concerning Evelyn Thaw's affidavit.

BLACK JACK ITEMS.

Black Jack, N. C., Mar. 19.

Jodie Dixon got his foot cut very bad Saturday but is getting along very well at present.

Miss Lula Mills came home Friday from Winterville high school and returned yesterday.

Mark Twain on Advertising.

The following statement by Mark Twain shows the value of advertising:

"When I was editing the Virginia City Enterprise, writing copy one day and mining the next, a superstitious subscriber once wrote and said he had found a spider in his paper. Was this good or bad luck? I replied to him in our 'Answers to Correspondents' column as follows:

"Old Subscriber—The finding of a spider in your copy of the Enterprise was neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our pages to find out what merchant was not advertising, so that it could spin its web across his door, and lead a free and undisturbed existence forever after."

Learn by Listening.

While every man has a right to look after his own interest, and follow his own inclination, it is better in the end to always show a decent regard not only for the people immediately associated with one, but for the opinions of man kind in general. You can always learn more from the ideas expressed by others than by listening to your own conversation.—Ex.

Your attention is called to the millinery announcement of the opening of Mrs. L. Griffin & Co. It will take place Tuesday and Wednesday, March 26 and 27th. It will be worth your while to see their bountiful display and make your selections.

THE MARCH MIRROR.

Look in and See Whose Face is There

Miss Glenn Forbes left this morning for LaGrange.

L. M. Tesh, traveling correspondent of the Merchants' Journal, Raleigh, was in town today.

Mrs. T. H. Fleming and little daughter, of Centerville, came up Tuesday evening to visit Miss Lillian Nobles.

The Sick.

Mrs. M. T. Cowell is sick. Robert Evans is very sick with pneumonia.

Wiley Brown is confined at home with grip.

C. D. Rountree, who was sick several days is out again.

Died.

Mr G. H. Ellis, who has resided here some years and conducted a shoe repair business on Fourth street, died this morning, of pneumonia and appendicitis, at the home of his sister at Winterville. He was taken sick some days ago and went to his sister's.

Important Revenge.

A story is told of Horace Greeley that an acquaintance got offended at one of his articles in the Tribune, went to the office and stopped his subscription. Later in the day, he met Mr. Greeley and said: "I've stopped your paper." "There must be some mistake," replied Greeley, "for I just came from the office, and when I left, the presses were running, as usual, the clerks were as busy as ever, the compositors were hard at work, and the business was going on the same as yesterday and the day before."

"Oh!" said the old subscriber, "I didn't mean that I had stopped the paper; I stopped only my copy of it, because I didn't like one of your editorials." "Pshaw!" retorted Greeley, "if you expect to control the utterance of the Tribune by the purchase of one copy a day, or if you think to find any newspaper worth reading which will never express convictions at right angles with your own, you are doomed to disappointment."

Death in the Can.

Every few days some woman or child dies a most horrible death as the result of using a kerosene oil can in kindling a fire. Mrs. Etta Chilton, who lived at the White Oak Mills at Greensboro, was burned to death one day last week while trying to start a fire in the kitchen stove with kerosene. The can exploded, as is frequently the result of this practice, throwing the burning oil all over her, and before she had time to realize what had happened her clothing was all in a blaze. She was burned so badly before assistance could reach her that she died soon afterward. And yet a great many people, notwithstanding repeated and terrible warnings like this one, will go right on using the kerosene can in kindling fires as carelessly as if there were no danger, while there would be little or no danger if the oil were first poured out of the can into an open vessel.—Waxhaw Enterprise.

A Remarkable Escape.

We are told of a remarkable occurrence at South Rocky Mount last Friday. A little white child, about three years of age, ran on the track and a shifting engine knocked the little fellow down. At that point the cross ties were not filled in between with gravel, and the child falling between them, the engine passed over him from end to end without making a scratch on him. His mother, who was standing nearby and saw him knocked down by the rear of the engine, thought surely her child was killed and fainted dead away, but the little fellow was not only not hurt, but was not even made to cry.—Rocky Mount Record.

ENTRY OF VACANT LAND.

To hear some of the talk about the late legislature it would be supposed that North Carolina was the only State in the Union that took action towards lowering passenger fares. As a matter of fact some eight or nine States took more radical action than North Carolina. Ohio leading with a two cent flat rate, while New York's legislature is now laboring with the same kind of a bill.—Greensboro Record.

When Congressman Small was a young lawyer he was once arguing a case before a county magistrate. "Why" said Mr. Small, "the man at the bar, Jones would just as soon kill me right here before your face; as not." The old magistrate slowly took out his spectacles, put them on, peered over to get a good look at the desperate Jones. Then he pointed his finger at him, and said, "You, Bill Jones, if you kill John H. Small before me I'll fine you one dollar and fifty cents for contempt to court, turn my soul if I don't!"—R. J. TOO LIFELIKE.

Curious Reason For Rejecting the "Portrait of a Doctor."

Concerning the prize, "Portrait of a Doctor," by Seymour Thomas, there is a very amusing story.

Several artists had made paintings of the gentleman who is represented in this celebrated picture, but the family decided that none of them was "lifelike enough." After visiting the Thomas studio the gentleman's relatives commissioned this artist to essay the task.

The work went on well, and the picture was completed. Every one was delighted. All declared—friends, family and enemies—that it was a "living likeness."

One day, before the picture had been sent home, the wife of the doctor called with her sister-in-law. This woman had been suffering from nervous prostration and had come to spend several months with her brother for a rest.

Instantly on entering the studio she threw up her hands and exclaimed in a hysterical, horrified tone:

"Oh, my dear, my dear! How much like Robert that is! Oh, it is horrible! I couldn't stand it in the house a moment. Why, it looks just exactly like him, and I'd almost think him about to speak. Don't take it—'tis uncanny!"

Abashed into silence, embarrassed beyond description, the wife and sister-in-law later left the studio.

"And what do you think," said Mr. Thomas, with a gentle smile. "A few days later I had a note from the wife asking me if I could not 'make the picture a little less like the doctor—a little less lifelike?' Did I do it? Well, I guess not! That was one of my best pieces of work, and I know that in trying to please everybody you are apt to be in the same predicament as the man with the donkey—in the end you'll lose the donkey and will have pleased nobody. Give me changeable sitters, but deliver me from the family."—Scrap Book.

No Contract.

Those who desired to secure Philander Hay's services as a wood sawyer were obliged to take him on his own terms. "I'll saw an' split all you got here an' tier it up for ye in good shape for $1.75 a day," said Mr. Hay after an inspection of the summer resident's shed yard.

"There are just three cords of wood to be sawed and split," said the summer resident briskly. "How much will you charge for the job?"

"I don't do work that way." And Philander surveyed his victim with a relentless gaze.

"If I set out to saw an' split by the job, what with the wear an' tear on my saw an' hatchet an' the limiment that has to be put on my back nights, when you get it all reckoned out there wouldn't be any money in it, an' I wouldn't have had a minute to set down an' see how I was getting on either."—Youth's Companion.

Uncomfortable Chiving.

The traveler, who had just returned from abroad, sank back into his accustomed barber's chair with a sigh of relief. "This is the first time I've had the prospect of a comfortable shave for three months," he remarked. "They have improved in a good many things abroad," he continued, "but the barbers over on the other side still stick to those uncomfortable chairs of theirs in the most absurd way."

"I asked the man who shaved me in London, and nearly broke my neck at the same time, why they never used American chairs in the barber shops of London."

"I don't know, sir," he said, "except for the reason that they are made in America, sir."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

He Had an Opinion.

At the time of the ecclesiastical trial of Professor Woods of Andover Theological seminary for alleged heresy, a retired New Hampshire clergyman while making a journey by rail was absorbed in reading the details of this trial as reported in the Congregationalist. A sporty looking individual who sat beside him was absorbed in the pages of a different periodical.

"My friend," said the clergyman, "what do you think will be the result of the great contest that is now agitating the nation?"

"Think!" said the other. "I think that John L. Sullivan will knock the stuffing out of the presumptuous cuss in the first round!"

The Sirloin.

The term "sirloin" of beef is a corruption of "surlain," from the French word "surlonge," meaning over or upper portion of the loin; also because King James I., when dining at Hoghton hall, in Lancashire, in one of his fits of humor said to an attendant, "Bring hither that surlon, sirrah, for 'tis worthy of a more honorable post, being, as I may say, not surlon, but Sir Loin, the noblest joint of all."

The Red Clover Blossom and the Honey Bee on Every Bottle.

"A Cold or a Cough nearly always produces constipation—the water all runs to the eyes, nose and throat instead of passing out of the system through the liver and kidneys. For the want of moisture the bowels become dry and hard." Nearly all other cold cures are constipating, especially those containing Opium. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar moves the bowels, contains no Opium.

LAXATIVE
HONEY AND TAR

Relieves Colds by working them out of the system through a copious action of the bowels.

Relieves Coughs by cleansing and strengthening the mucous membranes of the throat, chest, lungs and bronchial tubes.

For Croup, Whooping Cough, La Grippe, Influenza, Bronchitis, and all Coughs, Colds, Lung and Bronchial affections no remedy is equal to Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Children like it.

Put up in 25c, 50c and $1.00 bottles at the Laboratory of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, U.S.A.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—removes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets at 25c in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Prick your finger and doesn't it get red, and swell and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

A MATTER OF BUSINESS.

The Lesson a Vegetable Vender Taught a Dazed Woman.

Only a single cabbage remained of the wagon load of produce with which the huckster had started in. It was a good head, and the keen witted huckster was alive to the chance of selling it, although the hour was late. As he glanced from side to side of the street, seeking a purchaser, says a writer in the New York Sun, he was hailed from a doorway by a housewife's cry:

"What are you selling?"
"Whoa, Bill!" said the vender to his horse, and to the prospective customer he called, "Only one cabbage left, missus!"

"Is it a good one?" she asked from the curb.

"Sure; as good as any ever came from Jersey."

"How much do you want for it?"
"It's worth a dime, lady, but I want to sell out, so you can have it for a nickel."

After pulling off some of the leaves to make sure the head was fresh and sound the woman handed the huckster a nickel. The coin was transferred to his pocket, already filled, and the cabbage was placed in the woman's arms.

As she turned to go another woman who had come up during the bargaining said to the merchant:

"Got any cabbage?"

"How much is it?"
"Ten cents."

"Is it a good head?"
"Finest kind of Long Island cabbage."

The woman who had just bought the last head of cabbage was astonished by his calm assertion that he had one left when she knew the bottom of his cart was bare. She waited to see how he would satisfy the second woman.

When the last comer said, "I'll take it," the huckster turned calmly to the owner of the cabbage, took it from her arms and handed it to the new customer. At the same time he took her dime from her fingers.

As the first woman stood with mouth open, too astonished to protest, the second walked away. Then the woman deprived of her cabbage found voice to say indignantly:

"That was my cabbage! How!"

The huckster interrupted her with:

"Yes, ma'am; I know it. Here's the dime I got you for it. You're a nickel in."

"But I didn't want to sell it!"
"Didn't want to sell it!" he exclaimed in a sorrowful tone. "Sure you did when you could make a profit like that. Never miss a chance to make money, lady. That's the way to get rich."

"Here's your dime," and as the woman, still dazed, took the dime he said, "Git up, Bill!"

The Vote Was Secured.

An ex-M. P. who contested a highland constituency some years ago tells the following anecdote:

Once, after a long and fatiguing day's canvass, I tackled a dissenting minister, who was very keen upon the subject of getting the bishops out of the house of lords, and in pursuance of his favorite hobby he asked me:

"Well, sir, what are you prepared to do about the bishops?"

I was irritated and fatigued by my day's work, and I testily muttered, "Oh, hang the bishops!"

The minister bowed and replied: "Well, sir, you go rather beyond me there. I canna undertake to go altogether that length with you, but you shall hae my vote."—Pearson's Weekly.

As Good as She Sent.

Years ago the once famous Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams were playing an engagement at the Boston museum. The couple were always great favorites in Boston, but Mrs. Williams was somewhat noted for her sharp tongue both on and off the stage.

On the night in question she had been disturbed by the crying of a baby in the gallery. Stepping to the footlights, she stopped in the middle of her lines and, looking toward the offending child, cried, "Wanted, a nurse!"

To this came in a rich brogue from the child's mother, so that all the house heard, "No Irish need apply."—Boston Herald.

Worthy of Respect.

"I found my waiter—the waiter who serves me my luncheon at a downtown restaurant—in there with his best girl dining," said the exchange broker as he came back to his table at the hotel. "I wish you could have seen him. He was magnificent."

"Did you speak to him?" asked his companion.

"Well, I should say so," the broker declared. "He makes a lot more money than I do."—New York Press.

These Hustling Americans.

At a recent gathering in Baltimore two men from different sections of the country were discussing the capabilities of "nervous, restless Americans" for being most slow and deliberate. The Marylander claimed the palm for slowness for the inhabitants of the Eastern Shore of his state.

"It is a saying hereabouts," said he, "that if oysters had been created with legs the people of the Eastern Shore would all have starved to death."

"The folks around Mount Monadnock have a saying that beats yours," remarked a Vermont man. "Of one man up there it used to be observed that if you were to give Hiram Higgins forty yards start stock still would catch him!"—Harper's Weekly.

A Verbal Puzzle.

"Lieutenant colonel" is probably the worst verbal puzzle that confronts the child," says a writer. "Our pronunciation is a heritage from the sixteenth century spelling 'coronel,' which represented the Spanish form, wherein the change of 'l' to 'r' was linguistically natural, though popular etymology wrongly connected the word with 'corona,' a crown. It is really from the Italian 'colonna,' a column, the 'compagnia colonella' having been the first company of an infantry regiment, the little column which the 'colonel' led. In the seventeenth century 'colonel' had three syllables, as in Milton's line 'captain or colonel, or knight in arms,' but in Johnson's time the common pronunciation was 'col'nel."

Boys' Four Seasons.

"Spring, summer, autumn and winter, these are the four seasons as the man sees them," said a schoolteacher a few days ago. "The boy has another way of dividing the year, however, and when he does not watch the seasons of the year on a calendar above his desk he never forgets them. His division is apples, ball, slunkey and kites. Apples come in place of spring, ball in summer, slunkey in autumn and skating in the winter. I can tell what season it is by the number of boys at play in the street as by an almanac."—Kansas Star.

PULLEY & BOWEN'S Spring Millinery.

In opening our new department we beg to say to the ladies of Greenville that we are prepared to offer the choicest and most up-to-date line of MILLINERY ever offered in the South: both in Street and Dress Hats, embracing all the latest ideas of both foreign and domestic markets. We will show trimmed Hats to suit all classes of trade, from low grade to the finest effects that can be produced. Our designer and trimmer MISS ELOISE BACON, has been trimming patterns in one of the largest wholesale houses in the east. She has held some of the largest positions in the south, and to see her skill in designing will be a treat to the lady buyers. In Dress Goods, we will far exceed other seasons in showing better and more varied styles than ever before, and we can furnish any style of headwear to match dresses of all description. Call and inspect our new department before buying, as we feel assured you will be more than pleased with both styles and prices. We will announce day of opening later.
