Butte Operators Uneasy.

Special to Reflector.

Butte, Mont. March 29.—Despite the agreement reached last week between the copper mining companies in the Butte district and the committees representing their employes, the management of the larger companies do not feel that all chance of another slip-up in the negotiations is past. It is learned that the miners' union will have to change some requirements of its constitution before finally ratifying the engagement. A meeting for this purpose is in session today. In the meantime further delay is feared. Further details as to the agreement have been disclosed. The agreement provides that wages shall be $4 a day when copper is 18 cents a pound or more, and $3.50 a day when it is less. An agreement between the smelter men and the companies is now being considered.

D. R. Anthony to Succeed Curtis.

Special to Reflector.

Topeka, Kans. March 29.—The primary for the selection of a Republican candidate for congress in place of Congressman Curtis, who resigned to become United States senator, is in progress today, the selection will be voted for at the election on May 23rd. As the district is overwhelmingly Republican, the nominee today is certain of election. All candidates expect Daniel R. Anthony, of Leavenworth, editor of the Leavenworth Times, have withdrawn, so that he has no opposition, and will be chosen congressman.

Havana Tobacco's Deficit.

Special to Reflector.

Jersey City, N. J. March 25.—The report for the year of the Havana Tobacco Company shows that there is a deficit of $246,000. Net earnings, including dividends received during 1906, were $128,994, after deducting expenses of management; interest paid on 5 percent gold bonds $375,000 leaving the company to secure from other sources in order to meet its first charges, $247,000.

Iowa Legislature Adjournment.

Special to Reflector.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 20.—The indications are that the legislature will adjourn the first week in April, though if the primary bill gets out of the way the adjournment may occur today. As the two-cent fare bill is passed, there is nothing important to wait for.

Tom Harris Will Be Hanged Today.

Special to Reflector.

Columbia, S. C. March 29.—Tom Harris, the North Carolinian who confessed to the murder of Mrs. Hortensia Morgan will be hanged today. It is the first hanging that has ever occurred in Cherokee county.

Army and Navy.

A Methodist negro exhorter shouted: "Come up an' jine de army of de Lord." "Ise done jined," replied one of the congregation. "Whar'd you jine?" asked the exhorter. "In der Baptis'." "Why, chile," said the exhorter, "yoh ain't in de army: yoh's in the navy."—Harper's Weekly.

Feast of Passover.

Special to Reflector.

New York, March 29.—All the Hebrew citizens of New York City, as well as in all quarters of the globe where their wandering feet have trod, are celebrating tonight the great feast of the passover with the Seder or opening festivity. Great ceremony attends the feast of tonight, which has been preceded by the cleansing of homes, storing away the ordinary table and kitchen utensils, so that the ones dedicated to the passover service may not be contaminated. There are hundreds of quaint observances in connection with the festival commemorative of "The deliverance of Israel's firstborn, from the judgment wrought on those of the Egyptians and the wondrous deliverance and liberation of the Hebrews from the bondage of the Egyptians. But the best known feature of the week is the unleavened bread—matsoth—the baking of which has kept hundreds of people employed for many months in about forty bakeries in this city. One baker of the city said that "his concern worked six months every year to produce what his customers require within a week."

Outlook Encouraging in Continental Trade.

Special to Reflector.

London, March 29.—The course of events has amply confirmed the reports of the past few weeks as to the strengthening of the markets throughout the Continent, and while spot supplies have been freely taken by spinners and combers, the future market has responded to the general movement by sharp upward turns. It is undeniable that, so far from slackening—as was thought at one time—the textile department of continental trade has made distinct progress during the current year and the outlook may be called entirely encouraging with out any exception or qualification apart from the too ready participation of the speculative element pure and simple. The main factor of the week has been in Belgium, Plate Wool sale at Antwerp, which resulted in practically the bulk of the offerings, 6,600 bales, being sold, either at full auction values, or at a shade better privately. In consequence stocks are relatively low, especially as the arrivals are already engaged for direct transit.

Thaw Pleases His Lawyer.

Special to Reflector.

New York, March 29.—Thaw's counsel are expressing much delight with the clear answers he is giving to questions asked him in the examination before the lunacy commission. They believe the commission will render its decision tomorrow and pronounce him sane.

Tornado Sweeps Town.

Special to Reflector.

Fort Worth, Texas, March 29.—The town of Mariette, in Indian Territory, has been swept by a severe tornado that worked great damage to property and killed many people.

C. D. Morton, one of The Reflector force, left this morning for Jacksonville to spend a few days with his parents.

AYDEN ITEMS.

News Not From a Hasting Town
Ayden, N. C., Mar. 29th.

Monday nearly all day fearful forest fires were raging in the woods just south of Ayden. We really think smoke was the densest, blackest, we ever saw. At times the scenery was perfectly grand, at the same time appalling to behold. We have heard of no damage only to the timber in its path.

Dr. Ricks, of Shelmerdine, spent a few hours here Wednesday.

On jumping from a moving train one day this week Ed Garis came near losing his life by being violently thrown to the ground and almost under the car.

Had he been killed or seriously injured no doubt some one would have wanted heavy damages. It is a bad rule that won't apply both ways.

W. S. Blount, of Grifton, was here Wednesday.

The Rhodes Comedy Company gave two entertainments here during the week, to fair sized audiences. Their contortionist, Martin Charlie Rhodes is truly wonderful and to see him perform is fully worth the price charged.

We want everybody to closely watch the Ayden department during the next month. Our best and most progressive merchants are going to have something to say and you must read it.

W. H. Bulmann went up the road yesterday.

Miss Thelma Edmundson, of Conee, who has been on an extended visit to her aunt, Mrs. Burton, here, returned to her home Monday.

Miss Stella Lupton, Winterville, after a pleasant visit to Miss Emmie McLaWhorn, left for her home Tuesday.

There is much talk concerning the chiming of marriage bells very soon.

J. A. Hobstetter and wife have left for their home in Ohio. Mr. Hobstetter has been here for several months taking a special course in Theology at the Seminary. He and his wife are very pleasant people and much liked by those of our people so fortunate as to meet them. Such people are always missed in any community.

Mrs. R. C. Pender, who has been visiting the family of her brother, J. E. Brown, left for her home at Tunis, Tuesday.

Out two miles in the country Monday night the old homestead of Henry Harrington was entirely destroyed by fire. No one knows how the fire originated. The loss was about $700 covered with $300 insurance.

Mrs. B. F. Early has returned home and reports the condition of Mrs. Flynn very much improved.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS.

Cleanings Over The State.

Elizabeth City had a big fire Wednesday morning in which several stores were destroyed.

The negro Tom Walker, on trial at Fayetteville for the murder of two policemen, has been convicted and sentenced to be hanged on April 15th.

Jesse Payden, a 11-year old boy of High Point, jumped off a moving train and was knocked down by a car passing on another track. The wheels of the car run across his neck completely cutting his head off.

The markets are taking Easter holiday until Monday.

GILMORE SISTERS, WITH JOHNNY WISE.

Stick to the Farm.

That is the advice given by Judge R. T. Bennett, in The Wadesboro Messenger and Intelligencer, to the young men of the country. Conditions have changed for the better and it can no longer be said that there is no opportunity for the young man to make a living on the farm. Judge Bennett tells of it in his characteristically entertaining way. I predict for the farmers during the next ten years," he says, "a period of unmatched prosperity. The enormous output of gold has depreciated that metal 30 per cent. since 1896. By this, I mean it takes 30 per cent less of the 45 leading products of our industrial life to buy ten dollars of gold than in 1906. Moreover, we have learned so rapidly to this time the sobering lesson of farm life that a youth born and reared upon a farm should resolve never to go more than one mile from a cow's tail." He says further:

"It will stagger the farmer of 1907 that we ever lingered about wheat sowing.

"The strong, sensible young man, who gives patient and sedulous attention to his work, will save in ten years a down-setting reasonably assurance against old age. All agencies close to the farm point precisely to success."

Judge Bennett deprecates the passing of the negro and would rather have him than "the volcanic stuff from the basin of the Mediterranean and the footholds of Vesuvius," but we agree with him, even in spite of the graduality shifting class of labor, that there are now great possibilities in farming and greater possibilities yet in store. Judge Bennett calls the farm the "golden nursery," and the young men would do well to follow his advice and foster it.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Mr. W. E. Mewborn, traveling salesman from this city was painfully though not seriously hurt in an accident on the A. C. L. train at Tarboro Wednesday and is forced to lay off duty for awhile on account of it. His injuries are contusions on the left hand and a lame leg. Kinston Free Press.

THE MARCH MIRROR.

Look in and See Whose Face is There

G. G. Fineman returned Thursday evening from Norfolk.

Miss Lee Brown came home from school in Raleigh, Thursday evening to spend Easter.

Ames Brown came home Thursday evening from the university at Chapel Hill to spend Easter.

Miss Mattie Abram, of Rocky Mount, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. S. M. Schultz, returned home this morning, accompanied by Mrs. Schultz.

On Easter Day.

Easter is a day of memories. It leads the thoughtful soul back to the empty sepulcher in which tender and loving hands had laid the blessed body of our holy Redeemer. It leads also, many of our souls back to the day when we stood by open graves and committed earth to earth, laying to rest loved ones who had gone away from our homes to the Father's home on high. Memories tender, pure, and holy fill our hearts on Easter day.

But it is also a day of prophecy. We see the grass springing up; we see the swelling buds on the trees; we see even in the very cemeteries, the early flowers lifting their fragrant spikes of bloom toward the sky. The warm rays of the sun have called them from their winter's sleep. So on Easter day we may look forward to the time when the Savior shall awaken and call forth to new life those whom we in faith have laid to rest. Yes, Easter is the day of hope; the day when faith feels a new to us asserts itself, and we lay hold on triumph; when the immortal within things not seen with a firmer grasp.

To all believers Easter is a day of gladness, faith and hope. But to those especially who, since last Easter day, have laid loved ones to rest the message of the day

Set Up a Howl.

A young married couple on Main street caused quite a commotion the other night and aroused the whole household. The young wife was awakened by her better half grabbing her hair and giving it a terrific pull which made it appear that he had either gone daft or had become a second Blue Beard. She set up a howl and called for help. Other members of the family rushed to her rescue, but before they could take steps to release the grip the sleeping spouse had on the good wife's hair he awoke. He explained that he had been chasing a pig; that the pig ran in a hole and he grabbed him by the tail and was pulling with all his might to keep his pigship from escaping. It was a plausible explanation, but it is said the young wife is not so sure about it being a true one. She has been having visions of Blue Beard ever since the occurrence.—Reidsville Review.

Weather.

Fair—tonight and Saturday.

should come with comforting and sustaining power. Christ is risen, [and we, too, shall rise. The night of death shall pass away and the eternal morning shall dawn. The "lively hope" will not be put to shame. He who restored to the widow of Nain her only son, and who reunited the broken family at Bethany, shall also bring together once more the hearts that loved each other in the Lord here on earth. He lives today, and from his shining throne looks down in love and mercy on his sorrowing children on earth. Over that love no change can come.—Selected.

CURIOSITY.

In Its Proper Sphere It Is a Noble and Serviceable Quality.

Upon the higher level curiosity is a noble and serviceable quality, without which no great thing can be done in science or literature. It was intellectual curiosity which sustained a man like Darwin in his long and patient labors. He was determined to find out the how of the universe, and he had all the instinct of a curious person for the gathering and arrangement of details. He was forever observing and tracing and detecting and overlooking.

Renan's biographer tells us that to the last he was still questioning the universe, still asking what was the meaning of things and how they came to pass. Without curiosity the scholar would lose half his interest and the thinker would fall by the way. It is this instinct which makes a man wish to get at the bottom of things. If it be the affairs of his neighbor, it is base; if it be the affairs of the world, it is great. When curiosity dies within a man achievement is hopeless and hope itself is dead.

Curiosity may be a valuable asset in the equipment of a professional man. Without it the parish clergyman never will have an intimate knowledge of the affairs of his people, for he never will take the trouble to learn them. What he is told he almost certainly will forget, while a touch of curiosity will store up every piece of information and watch every passing incident and catch hold of every suggestion in conversation.

By and by the history of every one, old and young, will be in the man's possession. Of course, if he be an ignoble man, then his knowledge will be intolerable; if he be a sympathetic man, it will be most valuable.

In the same way a physician or a lawyer will be greatly helped by a legitimate and regulated curiosity about his fellow creatures. And it must be said that if curiosity of one kind makes a man detestable curiosity of another kind makes him most popular.—Jan Maclaren (Rev. John Watson).

Snakes.

The popular idea that all snakes hiss is incorrect when anacondas are in question, if we may believe a close observer of the serpent family. The sound they make is more like a growl than a hiss and has been well described by a traveler as a "low, roaring noise." Their powers of deglutition are sufficiently wonderful to make exaggeration unnecessary, credible witnesses testifying to the fact that one has been known to swallow a horse, while bullocks are not infrequently attacked also. Few nonscientific readers, by the way, are aware that not only do the jaw hinges of the boa tribe become dislocated in the act of swallowing a large animal, subsequently resuming their proper position by means of the elastic connecting tendons, but that the skull bones separate centrally, so the whole constitutes a sort of quadrangular orifice with apparently indefinite powers of expansion.

The Tailor Bird.

Sewing seems so ingenious an art that it must be reserved for the human species alone. Yet the tailor bird, the Orthotomus longicauda, and other species possess the elements of it. They place their nests in a large leaf, which they prepare to this end. With their beaks they pierce two rows of holes along the two edges of the leaf. They then pass a stout thread from one side to the other alternately. With this leaf, at first flat, they form a horn, in which they weave their nest with cotton or hair. These labors of weaving and sewing are preceded by the spinning of the thread. The bird makes it itself by twisting in its beak spiders' webs, bits of cotton and the little ends of wool.

Where Rain Never Falls.

Peru has hundreds of square miles along its coast of rainless country. In this tract rain is never known to fall from one century's end to another. Yet the region is not entirely barren of vegetation. Some parts of it indeed are comparatively fertile. This is due to the extraordinary fogs known as "garuas." They prevail every night from May to October after a summer that is sultry and extend up to a level of 1,200 feet above the sea. Above 1,200 feet rain falls.

THE BOOMERANG.

Even the Australians Know Little About Its Mysteries.

"The Australian boomerang," said a collector of queer weapons, "is formed of a bent stick, one side rounded, the other flat. The Australians make it from boughs of acacia perdula or from some tree of similar growth, giving to the green wood the desired curvature in the fire. It is necessary to choose a very hard, strong and heavy wood, and the best plan is to cut a piece from a natural bend or root of a tree and to let the curve of the boomerang follow the grain of the wood.

"One hardly ever sees two boomerangs of the same shape, for they vary from a slight curve to nearly a right angle. They differ also in length from fifteen inches to three and a half feet and in breadth from two to three inches. They should be about three-eighths of an inch thick, tapering toward the ends, which may be either round or pointed, while the edge must be sharpened all around. One side must be convex, the other flat, the sharpness of the edge along the convexity of the curve varying in different boomerangs.

"When thrown the boomerang travels forward for some distance and then generally returns in an ellipse to within a few paces of the thrower. If the boomerang strikes its mark it falls to the ground. In throwing it must be grasped at one end, stretched back behind the shoulder and then brought rapidly forward above the head, the inside of the curve facing the direction in which it is thrown.

"It may either be hurled upward into the air or downward, so as to strike the ground at some distance from the thrower. In the first case it flies from a rotary motion, as its shape would indicate, and after ascending to a great height it suddenly returns in an elliptical orbit to a spot near its starting point. When thrown downward to the ground it rebounds in a straight line, pursuing a ricochet motion until it strikes the object at which it is cast.

"To throw the Australian boomerang in such a way as to make sure of its doing exactly what one wants is one of the most difficult feats in the world. Alfred W. Howitt, who has seen the natives of Victoria practicing with the boomerang, mentioned that he questioned some blacks as to whether they thought it was possible to throw it so as to insure its returning to the hand of the thrower. Seven said no and characterized the statement as fet bolan—i. e., a falsehood. The eighth said he once made a boomerang that when thrown on a calm day with great care would gyrate around and around until it descended to the ground not far from him, moving as slowly as a leaf falling from a tree, and that he once ran forward and nearly caught it. He said also 'no kurni (black fellow) can catch a wulkan when he is flying—he would cut his hands open.' The throwing of boomerangs has always been carried on in the open air, and no Australian native has ever attempted to use them in a building.—Exchange.

What Puzzled Him.

It is said of the Marquis of Townsend that when a young man and engaged in battle he saw a drummer at his side killed by a cannon ball, which scattered his brains in every direction. His eyes were at once fixed on the ghastly object, which seemed to engross his thoughts. A superior officer observing him, supposed he was intimidated by the sight and addressed him in a manner to cheer his spirits. "Oh," said the young marquis, with calmness, but severity, "I am not frightened. I am only puzzled to make out how any man with such a quantity of brains ever came to be here!"

His Peers.

A distinguished lawyer of Indiana when a struggling young attorney had a client whose mental soundness was questioned. There was a lunacy inquiry, and the client was adjudged insane. The squire asked the lawyer:
"Do you wish to appeal this case which has been decided by a jury of your client's peers?"
"No," replied the young lawyer. "Since your honor says that the jurymen are his peers, I think we will let it go at that."—New York Sun.

A LIQUID COLD CURE AND LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP

The Red Clover Blossom and the Honey Bee on Every Bottle.

"A Cold or a Cough nearly always produces constipation—the water all runs to the eyes, nose and throat instead of passing out of the system through the liver and kidneys. For the want of moisture the bowels become dry and hard." Nearly all other cough cures are constipating, especially those containing Opates. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar moves the bowels, contains no Opates.

KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE HONEY AND TAR

Relieves Colds by working them out of the system through a copious action of the bowels.

Relieves Coughs by cleansing and strengthening the mucous membranes of the throat, chest, lungs and bronchial tubes.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

About That Home

Do You Contemplate

Owning One?

If so the first thing to consider is a good lot in a desirable location and you cannot be better suited in a lot than the

Sam White Property.

No proper lot surpasses this for a desirable home. Lots can be bought there now at reasonable prices and on easy terms. There is every indication that property around Genville is going to be higher, and the longer you defer buying the lot the higher it will cost.

This property is located only 15 minutes walk from the business part of the town. See Sam White and let him explain prices and terms.

Going to Wilmington.

Greenville is going to lose one of her best young men, and while we regret to see him leave we are always glad to see our boys climbing higher in the business world. Mr. T. J. Moore, who for two years has faithfully filled a responsible position with the Greenville Banking and Trust Company here, has received and accepted a very fine offer to take a position with the Murchison National Bank at Wilmington. He will leave for Wilmington Sunday to begin the duties of his new position on April 1st. It is not too much to say that the Wilmington bank could not have employed a better young man than Tom Moore.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Garton on Monday afternoon April 1st at 4 o'clock. Important business.

These Hecting Americans.

At a recent gathering in Baltimore two men from different sections of the country were discussing the capabilities of "nervous, restless Americans" for being most slow and deliberate. The Marylander claimed the palm for slowness for the inhabitants of the Eastern Shore of his state.

"It is a saying hereabouts," said he, "that if oysters had been created with legs the people of the Eastern Shore would all have starved to death."

"The folks around Mount Monadnock have a saying that beats yours," remarked a Vermont man. "Of one man up there it used to be observed that if you were to give Hiram Higgins forty yards start stock still would catch him!"—Harper's Weekly.

A Verbal Puzzle.

"Lieutenant colonel" is probably the worst verbal puzzle that confronts the child," says a writer. "Our pronunciation is a heritage from the sixteenth century spelling 'coronel,' which represented the Spanish form, wherein the change of 'l' to 'r' was linguistically natural, though popular etymology wrongly connected the word with 'corona,' a crown. It is really from the Italian 'colonna,' a column, the 'compagnia colonella' having been the first company of an infantry regiment, the little column which the 'colonel' led. In the seventeenth century 'colonel' had three syllables, as in Milton's line 'captain or colonel, or knight in arms,' but in Johnson's time the common pronunciation was 'col'nel."

Boys' Four Seasons.

"Spring, summer, autumn and winter, these are the four seasons as the man sees them," said a schoolteacher a few days ago. "The boy has another way of dividing the year, however, and when he does not watch the seasons of his year on a calendar above his desk he never forgets them. His division is marbles, ball, shinney and skating. Marbles come in place of spring, baseball in summer, shinney in the fall and skating in the winter. You can tell what season it is by watching a group of boys at play just as well as by an almanac."—Kansas City Star

Own a HOME

INVEST IN REAL ESTATE
AND YOUR MONEY IS SAFE.

I have several houses and lots for sale at very low prices and reasonable terms, one-fourth cash and from one to two years on balance.

You can borrow money from the Home Building and Loan Association to pay for this property and your rents from same will pay the Building and Loan. This is a fine investment for any one who wishes to make any money out of real estate or own a home.

This property is situated in the town of Greenville and on one of the most desirable streets.

Lumber is very high now and you can buy a home already built cheaper than you can build one.
