

BALDREE-SPIVEY.

Deaf Mute Marriage at Kenly.

In the Baptist church at Kenly, Wednesday afternoon, Mr. E. A. Baldree, of Winterville, this county and Miss Lula Spivey, daughter of Mr. A. G. Spivey, of Kenly, were married. Both the young people are deaf mutes and Prof. John E. Ray, principal of the school for the deaf at Raleigh, acted as interpreter for the ceremony, Rev. T. H. King being the officiating minister. Mr. and Mrs. Baldree came to Winterville on the evening train and a reception was held at his home.

Mr. Baldree is an industrious man who in spite of his deprivation of hearing and speaking has made a success in life. He is held in high esteem. His bride is an attractive and intelligent young woman. They have our best wishes in their married life.

Sparrow Built Nest of Greenbacks.

William McGrath, of Belleville, N. J., walked into his bed room several days ago and saw a sparrow fly from the top of a clothes closet out through an open window. There was a green piece of paper in the bird's bill, and McGrath at once thought of a roll of money he had left in the closet. He found that many of the bills had been stripped from the roll. He decided to watch and see if the bird came back. The window was left open, and yesterday McGrath saw a sparrow fly into the room. He waited a few minutes and it came out again and went to a house about a block away, flying in the eaves.

McGrath obtained a ladder, got permission from the occupant of the house to climb up to the eaves and was rewarded by finding a nest made of greenbacks and straw. There were $5, $2, and $1 bills there, aggregating about $15 but in pieces. McGrath is now trying to piece the bills together. New York World.

The Wilmington postal clerk who was arrested last week for stealing a registered package containing $10,000 had always, it is said, borne an excellent character and his habits were good. He had recently married and had decided to give up his position and engage in other business. It is also said that he was in fair circumstances, or at least was in no strain for money. The only explanation is that in a moment of weakness he could not resist the temptation to take the money. All the money was recovered except about $500 and this has been made good. Under the circumstances it is unlikely that the young man will be severely punished. But it wants to be remembered that if he escapes all punishment his reputation is blasted. All his life it will be remembered that he did this thing, and it will be remembered against those who come after him, and thus the innocent of unborn generations will be made to suffer. Why is it that we cannot always remember that a good character is worth more than all else in this world, and that our wrong doing concerns not us alone but that innocent people are made to suffer by it? --Statesville Landmark.

THE ADVERTISEMENT OF COMMUNITIES.

It is only recently that the advertising idea of making known the resources and possibilities of a town, city or state, has become a regular thing, not incidental. It is not the new town, unknown to even map makers that today is prominent in advertising itself. The large cities are in the advertising field, to attract new men and new business. A short time ago, Boston entered upon an advertising campaign by making appropriation for this matter. In the state of Washington a bill was introduced for an appropriation in the legislature for $150,000, for the purpose of advertising that state. These are but single instances. There are many others, and each new advertiser means that other cities and states must enter upon a campaign of advertising, or be like the merchant who thinks his goods will sell themselves, without advertising, they will be behind in the struggle of progress.

Outside of the advertising campaign, two things may be undertaken by every community, which will prove of great value, as advertising the benefits that the people of a community enjoy. The first is a low tax rate, which is really based upon the second, namely a good administration, with men of wisdom and experience in charge of the community's interests, as officials, mayor, aldermen and the heads of departments. It is the well managed municipality that becomes known to outsiders, attracts men and capital. And it will be found that the municipality which is wisely and economically administered, is the one that will spend money to advertise itself. It has the goods to advertise, and wants the public to know it. --Newbern Journal.

Press and Pulpit Both in Whitewashing Business.

A preacher came at a newspaper man in this way: "You editors do not tell the truth. If you did you could not live; your paper would be a failure." The editor replied: "You are right, and the minister who will at all times and under all circumstances tell the whole truth about those members alive or dead will not occupy his pulpit more than one Sunday and then he will find it necessary to leave town in a hurry. The press and pulpit go hand in hand with whitewash brushes and pleasant words, magnifying little virtues into big ones. The pulpit, the pen and the gravestone are the great salt making triumvirate." And the great minister turned away looking very thoughtful, while the editor turned to his work, and told of the unsurpassing beauty of the bride, while in fact she was as homely as a mud fence. --Exchange.

Various functions, including his speech, will occupy the time from 11 a. m. until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Some time between the latter hour and 8 o'clock there will be a reception to the governors of states, diplomats and other guests. At 8 o'clock the president will be the guest at dinner of Harry St. George Tucker, head of the exposition company, at his home in Norfolk, following which the Mayflower, with Mr. Roosevelt and his family aboard, will return to Washington.

Public Debate by Virginia and Chapel Hill.

Special to Reflector.

Chapel Hill, N. C., April 25. Debate between Chapel Hill and Virginia tonight, the subject is that the street railroad systems throughout the United States should be owned and operated by the municipal government. Carolina's representatives have much training in debates, both having represented the college in other intercollegiate debates, and their side of the subject, the affirmative, will be ably upheld. Carolina has three intercollegiate debates this spring, Virginia, George Washington, and strange to say, all the debates are to be on the same subject.

Glass Factories Close.

Special to Reflector.

Hertford City, Ind., April 25. -- As a result of a cut in prices by the American Window Glass Company, which uses machines, every window glass factory in the country, with the possible exception of one non union plant at Lancaster, Ohio, close today. The National Breakerage Company, representing the output of ninety per cent. of the hand-blown plants, refused to meet the cut.

Lost Right Arm.

Mr. J. H. Woolard, of Carolina township, lost his right arm Wednesday. He was at work about his saw mill and in some way fell on the log carriage, and his arm coming in contact with the saw was cut off just above the elbow. Mr. Woolard is about 60 years old and the lost of his right arm is most unfortunate. He has the sympathy of a host of friends in his misfortune.

A new and serious charge is brought against the increased cost of living by Bishop Lawrence, of the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts. It is that much of the immorality of the day is caused by the difficulty of meeting expenses. Young men and young women, he says, do wrong because it affords them practically the only means of procuring what they regard as the necessities of life. "Prosperity," therefore, is not without its dark side. -- Savannah News.

We all admit that telephones are a great convenience, yet they occasionally make a man feel like breaking the third commandment. Some times on a busy day when work is rushing and your 'phone rings twenty-eight times and only two rings are of any importance, the other twenty-six being calls from some one wanting to speak to your help, the inquiry being "Is Miss in?" This takes two from their work twenty-six times, and some one has to pay for all that lost time in addition to the annoyance. It doesn't look just right, now does it? During working hours, 'phones in business houses, at least, should be used for business only. -- Castonia Gazette.

As many times as the fruit has been killed this spring, according to reports, it must have as many lives as a cat.

The Tarboro Southerner tells of a man in that town being wired from Greensboro to go there to bid on a lot of 1,000 bales of cotton, and refers to it as evidence of Tarboro's reputation as a cotton market. It strikes us that in this case Greensboro was the market.

The case of the father near Lynchburg, Va., who learning that a young man had drugged his daughter and assaulted her while in that condition, and who shot the young man dead on first sight, is one to which the "unwritten law" should apply. No jury should ever convict him for avenging such a wrong.

One important thing for every voter to consider in connection with the Eastern training school is that the school is going to be located somewhere. That much is a settled fact. And it matters not where it may go, it is also a certainty that every man in Pitt county must pay his part of the tax to maintain the school. This being so, it is the part of wisdom for every man to do his utmost to locate this school in Pitt county.

The people of the county owe it to themselves to turn out and hear the speeches on the bond issue and training school. Those who want information on the subject can get it by hearing the speeches. There is no question that voting the bonds to secure the training school will be the best day's work Pitt county has ever done. If viewed from a financial standpoint only, the county could not make a better investment. But that is a small consideration compared with the advantage it will be to the county educationally. Pitt county cannot afford to miss the opportunity to get this school.

There are people who will throw a slur at churches and religion because a good man sometimes falls into crime. These same critics do not consider the number of men who live upright lives and never fall.

Two cases recently occurring in this State—Jones, the Charlotte bank cashier and Nelson, the Wilmington postal clerk—were men formerly of good character and it is said of both that they stood high socially and were prominent in church work in their respective towns. Because these two men went wrong is no more reflection upon the churches of which they were communicants than upon the entire social circles of the towns in which they lived. Of course it is regrettable when a former good man goes wrong, but all good men are not condemned for it. By the same reasoning if a member of a church falls it is no occasion for a slur at the church or the cause of religion. The large number whom the influence of the church helps to lead upright lives should be the criterion, and not the occasional one who falls.

The Charlotte Chronicle says there are ten murder cases on the docket of Mecklenburg Superior court. Mecklenburg has long been noted for intelligence, morality and religion, but we do not believe that Madison, Mitchell, or even Wilson county, the latter being conspicuous for lawlessness, can surpass Mecklenburg in the matter of homicide cases. It is fair to say, however, that of the ten cases nine are against colored men for slaying members of their own race. The too handy pistol, whiskey (even in prohibition Mecklenburg), and a general disregard of the law, superinduced through lack of fear of punishment, is probably responsible for this epidemic of homicides. It might be added that this absence of fear of punishment is superinduced by the too prevalent custom of excusing and glorifying criminals and the gushing pleas of mercy regardless of common sense and sound reasoning.—Statesville Landmark.

For years Dr. Shoop has fought against the use of opium, chloroform or other unsafe ingredients commonly found in cough remedies. A LITTLE NONSENSE.

Why the Stranger Followed the Nervous Man.

A nervous man on his lonely homeward way heard the echoing of following footsteps, and dim visions of hooligans, blackmailers and garroters coursed through his brain. The faster he walked the more the man behind increased his speed, and, though the nervous one took the most roundabout and devious course he could devise, still his tracker followed. At last he turned into a churchyard.

"If he follows me here," he mused, "there can be no doubt about his intentions."

The man behind did follow, and, quivering with rage and fear, the nervous one turned and confronted him. "What the dickens do you want?" he queried. "Why are you following me?"

"Do you always go home like this," said the stranger, "or are you giving yourself a treat tonight? I am going up to Mr. Brown's, and the porter at the station told me to follow you, as you lived next door. Excuse me asking, but are you going home at all tonight?"

Not in His Class.
Toto, who had a bad report on his arithmetic, went with his father to see some performing dogs.

"See, Toto," said papa, "how well that little dog counts. Aren't you ashamed of yourself?"

"Yes, papa, but now ask him some question in geography."—Nos Loisirs.

BUTTON MAD.

The Height of the Craze in the Time of Louis XIV.

The oldest buttons at present in the museums and among the collections are the gold buttons discovered at M'cenae at the time of the excavations undertaken by Dr. Schliemann and also those found in the tomb of Childeric I. The latter were exhibited at the Louvre in the Musee des Souverains. They are made of gold and of colored glass, imitating garnet. Buttons detached from copes and religious garments of the middle ages and of the renaissance have also been discovered.

But the richest things of the kind beyond a doubt are those that were worn by Louis XIV. M. Maze-Sencier in the "Register of Diamonds and Presents to the King," at present preserved in the ministry of foreign affairs, gives an official account of the buttons of that pompous sovereign. It is as follows:

"Feb. 3, 1685.—Montarcy presented to the king eighty diamond buttons, valued at 180,030 livres.

"May 7, 1685.—Made and delivered by Sieur Bose six diamond buttons, 30,000 livres.

"July 26, 1685.—Handed over by Montarcy to the Marquis de Seignelay for the king seventy-five diamond buttons, 586,703 livres.

"Aug. 1, 1685.—Two diamond buttons, 67,866 livres.

"Aug. 16, 1685.—Three diamond buttons, 69,660 livres.

"Dec. 20, 1685.—Four diamond buttons, 83,775 livres."

Another item in the same year: "July 26, 1685.—Furnished by Montarcy for the king's vest, forty-eight gold buttons, each set with a diamond, and ninety-six clasps, forty-eight of which were composed of five diamonds each and forty-eight of one diamond each, 185,123 livres.

"Also 384 clasps for the doublet of the king, 162 of which were formed of five diamonds each and 162 of one diamond each, 1,006,345 livres.

"In addition there were seven ornamental clasps of three diamonds each, 201,270 livres.

"Sundry presents, thirty-three ornamental clasps, 574,366 livres."

That foots up a total of about 3,000,000 livres for the buttons of the "great king" for the single year 1685. The preceding year Louis XIV. received a lot of buttons that were valued at 1,071,000 livres. In these enumerations there is no mention of the diamonds for the shoes, the garters, the cuffs and the hats of the monarch.

We are obliged to admit, with our coats and overcoats garnished with miserable little cloth and bone affairs, we cut a poor figure in the fancy button business compared to the dudes of the days of Louis XIV. —Paris Figaro.

Where Brides Are Hungry.

How would a bride in this country care to fast on her wedding day until after the sacred ceremony, and this after enduring the hardships of a farewell party given the day before? Yet this is what a Russian girl is supposed to do. As the marriage, to be fashionable, should not occur until evening, it may easily be imagined in what an exhausted state she is to commence her new period of life. Besides bridesmaids, there are bridesmen, these latter being obliged to present the bridesmaids with sweetmeats. A personage follows the procession bearing an elegantly mounted picture of Christ in gold and silver, which is stationed against the altar. The bridesmaids do not all dress alike, and their number is unlimited.—London Answers.

His Way of Pairing.

A number of years ago at a small town in Maine an important local election was to take place, and there was strong rivalry between the Republicans and Democrats. Old Hiram Morse, the blacksmith, was a strong Democrat, but many of the farmers were Republicans. On the morning of the election a farmer came to have his horse shod. The blacksmith said to him: "We're both busy. You're a Republican, and I'm a Democrat. Let's pair off. We'll neither of us vote, and it will amount to the same as if both went to the polls." This was agreed upon. After election it was found out that Morse had paired off with five Republican farmers.

Mean.

A lady was reproaching a bachelor friend for never having married when her husband, a little bored perhaps, said gruffly:

"He says he could have cut me out and married you if he had wanted to."

The lady started.

"Indeed!" she cried. "Why didn't he do it, then?"

"He says he owed me a grudge," the husband explained, with a shuckle.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.
