

LOG TRAIN WRECKED.

Seven Cars Piled in Heap.

Monday afternoon there was a wreck at the log deck, a mile below the depot, at the point where the Beaufort County Lumber Co. intersects and transfers to the Atlantic Coast Lin. An empty log train had just come in and in stopping for a loaded train to come out from the deck to the siding did not quite clear the switch. Just before the loaded train reached the switch the engineer was warned of danger behind. Emergency brakes were applied, but the train parted and two or three cars loaded with logs crashed into the empty cars at the switch.

The collision piled up seven cars in a heap and almost demolished them. The wreck blocked the main line so that trains could not pass. The north bound passenger train from Kinston came up to the wreck and took a siding, and the south bound freight train was at the depot here. The engine of the log train went to work on one end of the wreck and the engine of the freight train on the other, and in two hours the logs and broken cars were cleared from the track. No damage of consequence was done to the track and trains could pass as soon as the wreckage was removed.

A number of people went to the wreck and lent a hand toward clearing the track. Capt. J. S. Barr, of the waiting passenger train, was almost a genius in dissecting the work.

Did Jonah Swallow the Whale?

The Statesville Landmark and various correspondents have been devoting much time to a research of the Bible in a theological discussion provoked by a sceptical doubt as to whether a real whale swallowed Jonah. We have never doubted the literal statement of the Scriptures, but if we had entertained any sceptical views the following poem from Frank L. Stanton would settle the matter for all time and we commend it to the Landmark and its contributors--

"De whale dat swallered Jonah--
Does you know de reason why?
Jonah wuz a fisherman in de time gone by.
He tell sich tale erbout de whale,
De whale he say for sho,
Fust chance he git he'll swaller him,
Ep den he'd talk no mo'!
En w'en he swallered him--oh, my!
He riz up fum de sea
En lef' him on de lan' en say:
'You mos' too much fer me!'"

Position in Life.

It is not every man who knows his position in life. Some aspire to govern who are only able to serve, and in rare cases we find those serving who are well qualified to govern or lead. A man who can direct and who is yet content to follow the leadership of others is doing himself, his family and his associates a great wrong in remaining in obscurity. On the other hand, a man who cannot direct and who aspires to the management of affairs is doing the business community a great wrong on account of the cost of his experiments and the loss from plans which miscarry.

HANDSOME YACHT.

Launching of Capt. Ola Forbes' Boat.

The yacht Eagle, Capt. Ola Forbes, of Greenville, owner, was launched on the afternoon of the 7th of May from Pell & Wade's ship yard. This is the nicest boat that has ever been turned out by this excellent firm of builders and contractors, and they have the reputation from Maine to Florida, of doing first class work. This yacht is 65 feet long, 13½ feet beam, and is twin screw, with 40 horse power engines. When the inside work is completed she will indeed be a thing of beauty and without question the handsomest boat ever built in the State. Capt. Forbes informs us that this yacht will be in service as a passenger boat, plying between Norfolk and the exposition ground during the exposition, making regular trips from the Anhauser Bush wharf, Norfolk, to said grounds. It was a sight to see this boat taking the water gracefully, with the owner in the bow, waving an American flag. Capt. Forbes is a clever gentleman and we are sure that those who patronize this boat will never regret it. Mr. Forbes would be glad for all North Carolinians attending the exposition to come and look at and over this yacht while at Norfolk and see what work can be turned out by a Morehead City Tar Heel.—Morehead City Coaster.

Contentment.

All of us, however poor and afflicted, have blessings which we forget to number; we can always find someone who has less of earth's good things than we have.

The old man's answer to his complaining wife, in this little clipping from The Interior, shows that he had the secret of true contentment. "It ain't hard to be contented with things we have," said the woman dolefully. "I'm contented with the things I haven't that's so tryin'."

"I don't know about that; I don't know," said Uncle Sam. "When we begin to look at the things our neighbors have and we haven't, we always pick out just the things we want. They live in a nice house, we say, and we have only a little one. They have money, and we need to count every penny. They have an easy life, and we have to work. We never say: They had the typhoid fever, but it did not come to us. They have a son in the insane asylum, but our brains are sound. Staggering feet go into their grand door, but nothing worse than tired ones come home to ours at night. You see when we begin to call Providence to account for the things that don't come to us, it's only fair to take in all kinds of things."

Harrisburg Couldn't Accommodate Both Legislature and the Elks.

Special to Reflector, Harrisburg, May 14th.—The convention of the Pennsylvania State Association of Elks was to have convened here today, but the date has been postponed until June. The reason is, that the Legislature is still in session, and this uses up all the hotel accommodations that would be necessary for the caring for the Elks, who required a great many rooms. The Knights of the Golden Eagle are also here, still more restricting the supply of accommodations.

PARKER PENS IN DEMAND.

Railroad Employes Recognize Their Merits.

We have known for years that the Parker fountain pen was the best made, but had no idea that railroad employes appreciated them so highly. Recently a shipment of about three dozen of these excellent pens, with some inks and other goods, was made from the factory at Janesville, Wis. for the Reflector Book Store, and when that shipment reached Greenville there were exactly two pens left, all the others having been extracted from the box in transit. Doubtless the railroad employes who got them had heard the praises of the Parker fountain pen, and wanted to join in the song--when they get off to themselves where no one can hear them. The circumstances under which they procured the pens forestalls the hope of getting a testimonial of their merits, but they have got a good thing.

Sure Way to Get Bait.

The boy wanted some worms for bait, he had selected a promising spot, a shady and low-lying dell, but through he had been digging now for fifteen minutes not a single worm had his spade turned up.

"Here, sonny," said an old angler, "take this chunk of soap and make me a quart or two of soapsuds."

The boy brought the suds, the old man sprinkled them over the ground and then he in turn began to dig. It was amazing. Here where the boy before had not found a single worm the old man now discovered them in dozens.

"You can find worms 'most anywhere, sonny," said the old man, "if you wet the ground with soapsuds first. The soapsuds draws them, the same as molasses draws flies. A weak mixture of blue vitriol and water will do the same thing also.—Minneapolis Journal.

Indexing the Records.

Some interesting work is now in progress in the register of deeds' office in making a new index of the county records. Register of Deeds Williams has procured the best system of indexing that could be found and Messrs. G. J. Woodard and W. L. Hall are assisting in the work. The old records are carefully searched for arranging the index, and as all entries are checked over three times it looks almost impossible to make an error. The new index will be valuable to the county.

Odd Fellows Meet in Decatur.

Special to Reflector, Decatur, Ala., May 14.—The Grand Lodge of the Independent order of Odd Fellows meet in this city today. They will stay for three days. The attendance is about six hundred. In many respects this will be the most important meeting in many years, as many new laws are expected to be enacted.

A Call Meeting.

The woman's foreign missionary society of the Methodist church will have a call meeting in the ladies parlor tomorrow, (Wednesday) afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. All ladies of the church are earnestly requested to be present as the final arrangements for the missionary conference will be made.

PROGRAM.

Commemoration of Graded School.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:

I wish to remind the people of Greenville once more that our closing exercises will take place in the Masonic opera house next Thursday evening, Friday afternoon and Friday evening.

The following is the programme for Thursday evening:

Birds of Summer Time, Chorus

The Owl and the Brownies, First Grade.

Kindergarten Games, First Grade.

Drill, Sixteen girls.

Violin Solo, "Gnomemarsch" Rehfeld, Mr. Royce E. Tucker.

Vacation, Chorus.

Debate, Query, Resolved That Foreign immigration would be beneficial to North Carolina.

Affirmative--Conrad Lanier, Alfred Schultz, Harry White.

Negative--Ben Taylor, Charles Haskett, Jas. L. Evans.

Duet, After the Charge, Egglemann, Misses Patrick and Carr.

A medal will be awarded to the debater who, in the judgment of a competent committee, renders the best debate.

On Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the music classes of Mrs. T. E. Hooker and Miss Bessie Patrick will give a joint musical recital. A splendid program has been arranged, and a treat is in store for all who attend the recital. It is not often that the people of Greenville have such an opportunity to hear good music.

On Friday evening, the following programme will be rendered: Ho, for Carolina, Chorus.

Essay, Chas. Duncan McIver, Miss May Schultz.

Gondola Song, Frederic Lohe, Miss Carrie Gay.

Essay, Not for Self Alone, Miss Abbie Smith.

Duet, Walzer, Erik Meyer Helmund, Misses Gay and Critcher.

Annual Address: Lieut. Gov. Francis D. Winston.

Piano Solo, Clover Bloom, Stutz, Miss Pattie Wooten.

Presentation of Diplomas.

Hon. Thos. J. Jarvis, America Chorus.

To all these exercises the people of Greenville have a most cordial invitation. If you come we shall do our best to give you a good seat. All three of the programmes are enjoyable and I trust the people will come out and enjoy them.

Nothing is truer than the injunction "Be sure your sins will find you out." Jones could not stand the strain, so came in and surrendered.

If Charlotte don't make her people stop using money that does not belong to them, she will lose rank as having the largest population of any town in the State.

Raleigh is making extensive preparation for the unveiling on the 20th of the monument to Worth Bagley, the first American to be killed in the war with Spain. It will be a memorable occasion.

The formal announcement has been made of the candidacy of Hon. Locke Craig, of Asheville, for the Democratic nomination for governor in the next campaign. The Asheville Citizen says Mr. Craig "is well qualified for the high office and would make a governor that the State would be proud of."

RANDOM REFLECTIONS.

By a Contributor.

"Riding on the cowcatcher of a locomotive will cure consumption" says a Russian doctor. Rest and quiet is secured if the patient falls off while the train is running at full speed.

Hot weather has not yet come. No one is over anxious for its advent, but the statement that the watermelon crop amounts to 124,000,000 will make the ultimate prospect a great deal more bearable.

A tailor at one of the Lake Michigan Chataqua resorts has offered to give Taft a suit of clothes if he will be one of the attractions at the Chataqua this summer. This is a liberal offer, when one considers the amount of cloth.

A few towns in the State elected local tickets without opposition, and all was unity and harmony. If every neighbor were to keep his chickens tied up so they couldn't scratch up their neighbors' gardens we would have more harmony, or words to that effect --Wilmington Star.

Thomas Dixon said in his Norfolk speech that "The ships that landed at Jamestown brought with them the negro slaves." Some ships did, but not those whose landing is being commemorated by the exposition. It was a Dutch vessel that in 1620 brought the first cargo of human chattels to Virginia, and the Colony protested then and thereafter against the burden of slavery. --Norfolk Virginia Pilot.

It is said that Mrs. Thaw has been compelled to curtail her benefactions on account of the enormous expense entailed on her by her son's trial. This is one of those illustrations, always occurring in real life, which dispose of the amiable theory of a weak sinner's being nobody's enemy but his own. Wrongdoing invariably commands a heavy price, and it is not the guilty exclusively who are called upon to pay it. --Baltimore American

All 'Ceptin'.

Old Susan was working a block away from her home, and, being urged to stay to do some extra work, she called to her daughter, who was playing in front of her house. All in one breath, without pause or stop, she shouted in a high key:

"Liza-you-Liza-go-down-dar-to-my-house-and-go-in-de-front-do'-and-go-back-to-de-kitchen-and-shut-de-do'-and-thumbbolt-it-and-set-a-cheer-agin-it-and-come-out-and-lock-de-front-do'-and-hang-de-key-whar-I-a-l-l-u-s-hangs-it-and-teck-Mary-Jane-down-dar-to-Mis'-Brown's-and-tell-Mis'-Brown-ter-keep-her-tell-I-comes-you-heah-what-I-say-you Liza?"

"Yassum, I heered ev'ry ting you sade 'ceptin' thunderbolt de kitchen do."--The Delineator for June.

A Pious Reason.

"Shure and you have turned ver industrious lately, Mr. Finnigan," said Mr. Flaherty.

"That I have," replied Mr. Finnigan. "I was up before the magistrate last week for assaulting Cassidy, and the magistrate said that if I came back on the same charge he would fine me $10."

"Did he, though?" said Mr. Flaherty. "And so you're working hard so as to keep your hands off Cassidy?"

"No, bedad, I'm not," said Finnigan. "I'm working hard to make up the $10 for the fine."--London Tatler.

The Collegian's Retort.

Members of a class in Cambridge had been rather flippant in regard to some pompous authority, and a fellow was eulogizing him. Said he:

"You are probably ignorant, young gentlemen, that the venerable person of whom you have been speaking with such levity is one of the profoundest scholars of our age--indeed, it may be doubted whether any man of our age has bathed more deeply in the sacred fountains of antiquity."

"Or come up drier, sir," was the reply of the undergraduate. "Recollections of Aubrey de Vere."

It's a pleasure to tell our readers about a Cough Cure like Dr. Shoop's. For years Dr. Shoop has fought against the use of opium, chloroform or other unsafe ingredients commonly found in cough remedies. Dr. Shoop, it seems has welcomed the Pure Food Drug Law recently enacted, for he has worked along similar lines for many years. For nearly 20 years Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure containers have had a warning printed on them against opium and other narcotic poisons. He has thus made it possible for mothers to protect their children by simply insisting on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by Wooten's Drug Store.

Panama Canal--Erie Canal.
Machinery is digging the Panama canal a thousand times quicker than the shovel dug the Erie.
Machinery produces the L & M paint at 50 times less cost for labor, than if made by hand.
The L & M. gives the best job in the world, because L & M. Zinc hardens L & M. White lead and makes L & M. paint wear like iron for 10 to 15 years. It only requires 4 gallons of this celebrated paint and 3 gallons of Linseed Oil at 60 cts per gallon, to paint a moderate sized house.
If any defect exists in L & M. Paint, will repaint house for nothing.

GODPARENTS.

Origin of the Custom of Having Sponsors at Baptism.

The names of godfather and godmother are from the Anglo-Saxon, and they are applied to those who act and speak for a child in the rite of Christian baptism. The Latin name for the same office—sponsor—having been incorporated in the English language, is even more often used than the Saxon appellatives. It signifies a bondsman or surety.

The first appointment of sponsors in the early church occurred about 154 A. D., and the selection was the act of a Roman bishop, whose object was to provide for the Christian upbringing of a child, both of whose parents had perished in persecution. From that time on the custom of having sponsors at the baptism of children grew on the plea that their parents might be cut off by some fierce attack on the small company of Christian believers, until it came to be retained after the period of persecution as a part of the baptismal rite.

A rule adopted by a church council in 813 A. D., forbidding parents to act as sponsors for a child is supposed to have for its purpose the securing for a child a Christian guardian should one or both of the parents die, for it was held that the parents were, per se, the child's natural sponsors and bound, by their very act of bringing him to the baptismal font, to rear him in the faith.

Another church rule adopted by the council of Trent in 1545, limiting the number of sponsors to two for each child, is said to have owed its origin to the fact that the choice of sponsors had come to be made largely to secure gifts and favors, a dozen or more friends, present or absent, being recorded as sponsors in many instances, a custom that simply converted the office into a farce.

The duties of a sponsor as defined in the church catechism are to pledge the child to—first, a renunciation of the evil works of the world, the flesh and the devil; second, belief in the Christian faith, and, third, to a life lived in accordance with God's holy will and commandments. An active interest in the child's Christian welfare was at one time expected of its godparents, but little is looked for now beyond a kindly interest, more or less perfunctory, in his (or her) well being.—Housekeeper.

Secret of Happiness.

We each of us possess within ourselves the true source of happiness. Enjoyment is contained in our imagination, not in the book we read; in our appreciation of beauty, not in the picture; our musical culture, not in the instrument played. Our enjoyment of nature does not depend upon the charm of our surroundings, but upon ourselves. Some men will find more joy in the prairie than others in the Alps; some more joy in the desert than others in the flowers and forests of fertile lands. Is it the rich, the powerful, the popular that obtain the greatest happiness? We look about us and we know that this is not true, though we act as if it were. Blessed are the poor in spirit. This we know is true, though we act as if it were not. No one is truly happy who has not happiness as a well of water springing up within himself into everlasting life.

Answers.

Two young society women were in an outbound Sutter street car. It stopped at Leavenworth.

"Oh, there come Tom and Ed! I guess they've had luncheon at the Palace. They've got on the front end. I don't want to speak to Ed. What can I do if he should come back this way?"

"Hyde!" shouted the conductor as the car sped along.

"What's the matter? Don't you like him any more?"

"I never did, but I expected he'd ask me to the auto show, and he pretended he wasn't going, and I just knew he'd be there. What do you suppose he was doing by his lonesome?"

"Larkin!" yelled the conductor, loud above the down grade whir of wheels.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Heating Water in a Paper Bag.

"I had no hot water for shaving at the little country hotel and accordingly heated some in a paper bag."

"Heated water in a paper bag?"

"Sure!"

"How can that be done?"

"You take a stout paper bag—or an envelope will do as well—fill it with water and hold it over a gas flame or a lamp. The water heats readily. The paper doesn't burn because it is wet, and wet paper is a singularly tough and noncombustible substance.

"Many and many a time have I heated over the gas jet an envelope or a paper bag of hot water for my shaving, and not once have I had an accident."

SEA SUPERSTITIONS.

Signs and Tokens That Sway the Men Who Work Aboard Ship.

There is a general idea that the sailor labors under more than the one pet superstition popular tradition assigns to each individual. Mr. J. D. J. Kelley, although he declares that "tars" are no more superstitious than any of their equals in training and opportunities, cites in "The Ship's Company" many of the signs and tokens in which those "who go down to the sea in ships" put their faith.

In the past superstition was a part of every ship. It entered into its keel, climbed to its flags, ran at its launching, controlled its crew and cargo, evoked portents and governed its ventures and arrivals.

A bit of stolen wood was always mortised into the keel to make a ship sail fast. A silver coin was placed in the mainmast step to insure lucky ventures. The modern christening by the wine bottle arose from the ancient libations poured on the deck by priests.

On a sailing ship lawyers, women and the clergy are looked upon with disfavor, as they are supposed to bring ill luck. Every black cat that comes on board "carries a gale in her tail." Whistling is much against the prophecies of sea life. If one whistles for a breeze he is only too apt to bring a tornado.

Ship bells are blessed; and to this day, if a mistake is made in striking one, it is immediately struck backward to break the spell. The belief in the desertion of a sinking ship by rats is founded on reason, for rats like to be dry footed, and when a vessel is unsafe it becomes leaky under deck and too wet for the creatures' comfort.

Figureheads were first images of gods, then of saints and sea heroes. Chinese junks bear two glaring eyes on their bows, for: "No have two eyes, how can see? No see, how can go?"

Caustic Judge Hawkins.

Judge Hawkins once had to sentence an old swindler and gave him seven years. The man in the dock squirmed and whined, "Oh, my Lord, I'll never live half the time!" Hawkins took another look at him and answered, "I don't think it is at all desirable that you should."

The formality of asking a newly convicted prisoner if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him brought another characteristic retort from the judge. A prisoner in these circumstances usually either says nothing or curses at large in his rage, but one of them struck a theatrical posture and with his right hand in the air shouted: "May the Almighty strike me dead if I don't speak the truth! I am innocent of this crime!" Judge Hawkins said nothing for about a minute, when, after glancing at the clock, he fulminated in his most impressive tones, "Since the Almighty has not thought fit to intervene, I will now proceed to pass sentence." — Westminster Gazette.

A Neglected Shoe.

"I was telling a friend of mine the other day," said the broker, "about a fellow I know of who lost one of his hands when he was a boy. He is quite a bit of a 'dandy' and visits a manicure regularly twice a week. Every new place he goes into he has a terrible scrap with the proprietor trying to get half rates.

"I have always considered the joke a pretty good one, but the friend I was telling it to went me one better. He came back at me with the story of a chap who has only one leg and never gets but one of his shoes shined. He wears a cork leg, and beyond a slight limp no one would ever know of his affliction. It is a mystery to all his friends why he never has the shoe on the artificial foot polished." — New York Globe.

No Growing Pains.

An eminent specialist claims that there is no such thing as "growing pains." We have been taught that when a child has stinging pains in the limbs, shoulders or other parts of the body it is an indication that the body is growing, and therefore most parents welcome the news of such suffering in children. The physician referred to above claims that growing pains are muscular rheumatism and should have immediate attention. Something is wrong, and steps should be taken at once to learn why the child's blood is not in perfect condition.—Health.

He Knew.

She was a Sunday school teacher, and of course she tried to make everything good. She spied a lot of urchins going bathing one Sunday afternoon, and so she tackled them.

"Do you know where little boys go to who bathe on Sunday?" said she.

"Yes," said one little arab, blacker than all the rest. "It's farther up the canal side. But you can't go. Girls ain't allowed." — Strand Magazine.

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart.

Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else. It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had. For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.

The Bishop and the Tramp.
 The experiences of Bishop Talbot, long the "Cowboy Bishop" but now bishop of central Pennsylvania, have been many and varied, and his book, recently published, "My people of the plains," gives a fascinating picture of life in the earlier days of the west.

Miners, cowboys—all loved him, and they still tell a host of stories about him.
 "Once while the bishop of Wyoming and Idaho, he went to St. Paul to attend a meeting of dignitaries of the church. There one noon, on the porch of the hotel, a tramp approached a group of bishops and asked for aid.

"No," one of the churchmen replied, "I don't think we can do anything. But down there is the youngest bishop of us all," (pointing to Bishop Talbot,) and he's a very generous man."

The tramp went to Bishop Talbot and the others watched with interest. They saw a look of surprise come over the tramp's face—they saw that the bishop was talking eagerly, earnestly—they saw the tramp look perturbed—but they finally saw that something passed from hand to hand.

The tramp tried to get away without speaking to those of the group, but the former spokesman called to him.

"Well did you get something from our young brother?"

The tramp grinned sheepishly. "No. I gave him a dollar for his blamed new cathedral at Laramie!"

Reads His Own Epitaph.
 Richard Bartholdt, congressman from Missouri, is one of the few men who already have bronze tablets erected to their memory. The house in which he was born in Germany is marked with a tablet showing the interesting events in the life of the doctor, together with a statement to the effect that he went to America and there became famous, becoming a member of the national lawmaking body and a prominent figure in the worldwide movement looking toward disarmament and universal peace.
