

INCIDENTS AT PANACEA.

A Runaway Marriage and a Drowning Occur There.

In a private letter from Panacea Springs we get an account of two incidents that occurred there recently.

On Sunday evening about six o'clock a runaway couple, accompanied by a minister, drove up to the springs hotel. As no one was about the hotel at the time they drove on to the cottage of Mr. A. F. Kennedy to find witnesses to the marriage. The buggy stopped in front of the cottage, and while the couple remained in the vehicle the ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Nicholson, the witnesses standing near in the road. The couple were Mr. Rufus Marks and Miss Neva Ball, but their place of residence was not stated. After the ceremony they went on their way rejoicing.

On Monday a number of Littleton people went out to the spring for a picnic. Late in the afternoon some young men went swimming in the lake. One of these, Mr. Raymond Clark, while in deep water was either seized with cramp or became frightened and cried for help. Two professors of the high school were sitting on a rock overlooking the lake, but at first thought the boys were only having a frolic. They soon realized however, that young Clark was in distress and hurried down to render assistance. Prof. Beachboard threw off his coat and plunged into the water, thinking it would be an easy matter to save his pupil. He swam out to Clark who was near the boat house, but Clark grasped his arms and rendered him unable to swim. They both sank, when Prof. Browning seeing their predicament sprang in to assist them. He was a good swimmer, but his heavy clothes impeded him, and when he reached the other two Clark grabbed his wrists and almost drowned him.

Freeing himself from Clark the latter sank and did not rise again. Prof. Beachboard was exhausted from his struggle with Clark, and Prof. Browning directed his efforts to save him. With the assistance of those on shore he succeeded in rescuing Prof. Beachboard, but he was in a serious condition and was revived after hard effort.

A party in boats went to search for the body of Clark, several of the men diving to the bottom of the lake in the search. In about two hours the body was found, but by that time all efforts to restore life were vain. It was a distressing occurrence and such a pity that one should drown so near the shore and in sight of good swimmers.

The Bullocks.

The Bullocks gave another entertainment in the opera house Tuesday night. Considering that the company is composed mainly of youths and children it is entitled to better patronage than was received here. The children perform their parts well, and the two young ladies sing excellently.

Remains Taken to Gates.

The remains of Ruth, little daughter of Rev. and Mrs. M. T. Plyler, who died Tuesday, were taken on the morning train to Gates for interment. Rev. Mr. Plyler and Mr. A. B. Ellington accompanied the remains.

A SUMMER'S NIGHT.

(Midnight, May 21st, 1907.) by Mrs. W. G. Williams.

The world is wrapped in slumber
The winds blow soft and light,
Where roses bloom in splendor
'Neath the stars of the summer night.

Dream of a life so beautiful,
Even stern fate cannot fail thee
As the waves ripple o'er the ocean
So passeth life to Eternity.

Entrancing in thy solemn stillness,
My soul thou canst claim as thine,
Together we roam in Elysium
And heed not the passing of time.

The cares of the day are over,
And joys of the future are dawning,
In ecstasy grand castles are builded
That fall with the dawn of the morning.

Peaceful night, wondrously beautiful,
Whispering of love bring thou to me
Thy wind's from the orange grove's blowing,
Night of wonder, my companion thou shall be.

Immense Work to be Done Draining Swamp Lands.

Special to Reflector:

Washington, D. C., May 22—

A general movement is in progress to redeem land from the water by a wholesale drainage of swamp lands, which in the whole country amounts to a very large acreage, it being estimated that over fifty million acres in the United States can be redeemed and made fit for farming. States as large as Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois combined lie today under water, and can be put into tillage by a scientific, thorough drainage system. The swamp lands in the continental United States, east of the Rocky mountains, susceptible of reclamation by drainage, have a total area just about that of the three great middle states named. According to government surveys and estimates there are at least fifty million acres of land which can be drained and made fit for farming at a cost of about $5 per acre. This would increase the value of the drainage districts more than $5,000,000,000, and would add to the crop values of this great nation many millions annually. It is impossible to treat of the subject of the drainage of the wet and overflowed lands of the United States except to discuss it in millions and billions of dollars. So far the government has spent about $35,000,000, in irrigation work, and the people have given unanimous approval to the project.

The Mooney Power.

Jesse James, the noted outlaw's son, is at the age of 30, one of the most talented and respected lawyers of Kansas City.

In a claim case that he recently won Mr. James told an amusing story.

"There was a woman," he said, "whose husband was killed in a railroad accident. The railroad to avoid suit gave her $5,000 damages.

"The sum satisfied the woman, but a month or two afterwards, she read about a man who had lost his leg in the same accident, and behold this man was given by the company damages to the amount of $7,500.

"It made the woman mad. She hastened at once to the office of the railway's claim adjuster. She said bitterly:

"How is this? Here you give a man $7,500 for the loss of his leg, while you only gave me $5,000 for the loss of my husband."

The claim adjuster smiled amiably and said in a soothing voice:

"Madam, the reason is quite plain. The $7,500 won't provide the poor man with a new leg, whereas with your $5,000 you can easily get a new husband and perhaps a better one."—Kansas City Star.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

Notes From our Hustling Neighbor. Winterville, N. C., May 22.

Misses Florence and Rowland Cobb, of Conetoe, are spending some time with Mrs. J. L. Jackson.

Miss Elizabeth Boushall, primary teacher of W. H. S., left Monday morning to visit her sister, Mrs. J. O. Bobbitt, of Shelmerdine. The children are delighted to know that she intends to be with us again next year.

Miss Effie Barker, intermediate teacher, left Sunday morning to be present at the commencement at Oxford Seminary. She also expects to return next year to the delight of her pupils and friends here.

F. F. Cox, who has attended Wake Forest college during the past session is at home for vacation.

Miss Hennie Ragsdale, after spending several days with Miss Mimie Cox, returned to her home in Greenville Monday morning.

F. C. Nye left Tuesday morning to spend a few days with relatives in Roberson county.

The seventh session of Winterville High school has just closed. The closing exercises were among the best in the history of the school. The faculty and trustees feel gratified at the work of this session. The students have all departed to their respective homes and the campus and buildings wear a look of loneliness. We do not fully realize what the students add to the life of the town and community until they are gone.

Prof. G. E. Lineberry returned from Morehead City Monday evening where he filled the appointments of Rev. R. D. Cross Sunday morning and night.

Rev. B. E. Stanfield filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church Sunday evening and at night preaching two most excellent sermons. We regret so much that this is Brother Stanfield's last year on this field.

Miss Lela Roach is spending sometime with Misses Lala and Kate Chapman.

The seasons are delightful for cotton and tobacco.

J. L. Jackson, our efficient cashier of the Bank of Winterville, left Tuesday evening for the Banker's Association which convenes this week at Winston-Salem. On his return he will take in Wake Forest commencement.

Two full blooded Chickasaw Indian girls, now at Sulphur, Indian Territory, have written to the Agricultural and Mechanical College here asking President Winston to aid them in securing as husbands a couple of the college cadets. Those girls are worth from $25,000 to 50,000 each and are well educated and their photographs show them to be good looking. They write Dr. Winston that the educated Chickasaw girls have banded together for the purpose of securing white husbands and prefer students of Agricultural and Mechanical Colleges, who are educated in agriculture and mechanics. This tribe of Indians, next to the Osages, is the richest in the world. No doubt the girls can easily find suitors to their taste.—Raleigh Cor. Charlotte Observer.

R. F. D. Carriers.

On Thursday, May 30th, the Pitt County Association of Rural Free Delivery Carriers will meet in the court house in Greenville. Mr. Fred L. Carr, of Greene county, and others will address the meeting, and a cordial invitation is extended the carriers of neighboring counties and the public to be present.

The people generally should show an interest in the R. F. D. carriers and their meetings. They are the ones who day after day, in all kinds of weather, serve the rural routes and take mail directly to the homes of the people. They are the agents of civilization and enlightenment, the vehicle of communication that brings the people of the country in touch with the world and enables them to enjoy the same advantages as the populous centers.

Encourage the boys with your presence on the 30th and show that you are interested in them. They will appreciate it.

The man with a vegetable patch is a prince these days.

Twenty thousand people attended the unveiling of the Worth Bagley monument in Raleigh Monday. It was a memorable occasion.

The assessors and list takers will soon be at their work, as June is the month in which to list property for taxation. A new re-assessment of all real estate will be made this year.

Every now and then some fellow starts a scare that counterfeit hundred dollar bills, or bills of some other denomination, are in circulation. Most of us need not lose any sleep over it, as there is not much danger of being caught with bills.

The whole State is now looking to Pitt county and talking about it as the proper location for the Eastern training school for teachers. They realize that from the beginning of the agitation Pitt has made a clean, square, earnest contest for it and that this county deserves to have the school. It is evident also that with the educational interest here Pitt county will do more toward making the school a great success than any other location.

If some of those eastern counties would dig down into their pockets just a little deeper they would be able to establish a normal school without the aid or sanction of the State.—Durham Herald.

You overlook the fact that the State's aid and sanction will be the most valuable asset of the school. That is what is wanted to make it go after being established.

THE VANILLA PLANT.

Beans From Which We Get the Popular Flavoring Extract.

The best variety of vanilla comes from vanilla planifolia, which requires a mucky, porous soil. The plant thrives up to a height of about 1,600 feet above sea level, and as its fleshy roots do not penetrate deep into the soil it requires only a proportionately thin layer of soil. The plant bears merchantable fruit in the third year, sometimes even in the second year, which requires from seven to eight months to mature, and the harvest takes place from April to June. Five to seven harvests are made from the same plant before it is exhausted. New plants must not be planted in the same place as the old.

Protection against wind, also shade, is of great importance for the growth of the plant, and therefore the fields must be surrounded by trees and hedges. Grubs and snails are enemies of the vanilla plant. The former eat the roots and the latter the young sprouts and beans. While in the third year only about one-tenth part of the plants blossom, the percentage increases from year to year up to the seventh. The cultivation of vanilla in German East Africa is impeded by the absence of insects which are instrumental in fructifying the vanilla blossoms. Each separate flower has therefore to be fructified by human hands, the cover of the stigma being raised by means of a thin little rod, and the pollen, which is just above the cover, is pressed against the stigma.

When the young beans have grown to the length of a finger they must be closely inspected, and all defective ones must be cut off. The beans mature from seven to eight months after the fructification process. The ripe beans have a yellowish green color.

The way of preparing the beans varies, but an ever increasing temperature is required to dry them and obtain the well known brown black color. In this way the thin skinned bean, with its fine aroma, is produced. If hot water is used for heating the beans they are placed in baskets and immersed in it. The water has a temperature of 80 to 84 degrees Reaumur. Afterward the beans are packed into wooden boxes, which are lined with woolen cloth, and closed. Next day they must have a glassy appearance. They are then again wrapped in dark woolen covers and laid in the sun to dry. If the weather is rainy they must be dried in a dry room at a temperature of 50 degrees Reaumur, but an after drying in an airy room of from two to four weeks is necessary. After that the dry beans are packed in boxes.—New York Herald.

Scheme to Secure Office That Failed to Work Successfully.

A high official of the state department recently following incident that occurred recently: A prominent citizen from a western state, so the story runs, called on the president and submitted an application for a place in the diplomatic service—ambassadorship or ministership preferred.

The president told him that he would have to see Mr. Root about it, that such matters were under his charge.

"I say, Mr. Secretary," said the applicant a little later on calling on

"THERE ARE NO VACANCIES," REPLIED MR. ROOT.

the secretary of state, "the president is very anxious that I should receive a first class diplomatic appointment, and he wants you to find a place for me."

"There are no vacancies," replied Mr. Root, "but of course if the president desires your appointment he can create one."

An hour or so later the man stood before Mr. Roosevelt again.

"Mr. President," he said, "Mr. Root wants to appoint me very much, and he said if you would only say the word he would do so."

According to state department advices, the man has not as yet received appointment. — Washington Post.

Juvenile Ambition.

Mrs. M. G. Black of Gardiner, Ore., who has received one of the last awards of the Carnegie hero fund for saving three young girls from drowning, was talking about bravery the other day.

"Do I think that bravery, heroism, can be cultivated? Yes," she said. "In a sense I do. Heroism is unselfishness carried to its highest point, and children can certainly be trained to be unselfish."

"There is only one way to teach them that, though, and that is the way of kindness. Beat and bully children, and they won't grow up unselfish, but the opposite."

She smiled. "I knew a little boy," she said. "Once at an Easter party I had a long conversation with him."

"And," I said as I helped him decorate a pink egg, "what are you going to do when you grow up?"

"Looking up from the egg with a frown, he answered: "Whip papa."

Disraeli's Auctentness.

Disraeli and Bishop Wilberforce had something in common in their infallible alertness in a difficult situation: "How's the old complaint?" Dizzy would ask of a man whom he did not remember. The bishop was just as clever in meeting a hostile archdeacon. "I have not the smallest recollection of him," he said when the implacable one was pointed out, but he walked up to the archdeacon and regretted that he had not an earlier opportunity for a chat. "I need not ask how you are after all these years. Do you still ride your gray mare?" he added. "Yes, my lord. How good of you to remember her!" was the answer of the archdeacon, surprised into good humor. "Then you did remember him after all?" asked a friend. "Not a bit of it," was the answer. "I saw the gray hairs on his coat, and I chanced the sex." — Bellman.

The Bright Side.

W. J. Oliver, the lowest bidder for the construction of the Panama canal, said of a contract that a friend had lost:

"Oh, well; there's a bright side to everything. Had you got this contract you might have lost money on it. All things have their bright side. It is like the case of the rejected suitor."

"Oh, Mabel," the youth moaned, burying his face in his hands after his rejection, "make it easier for me to bear, can't you, dear?"

"Yes, Will," Mabel gently answered. "I snore terribly."

VANITY OF THE GREAT.

A Woman's Indictment of Macaulay's Vanity.

"Vanity," said the husband as his wife tried on her new outfit before the cheval glass, "vanity, the curse of little minds."

But the lady, who was literary, ran for her notebook.

"Vanity is the sign of a little mind, is it?" she cried. "Well, listen to this. This is from Gibbon's diary."

And she read:

"I am the greatest historian that ever lived. No one can equal me in this direction."

"Or this," she went on, "from a letter that John Ruskin wrote to Alexander Mitchell:

"What in the devil's name have you to do with either Mr. Gladstone or Mr. Disraeli? You are students at the university and have no more business with politics than you have with rat-catching. Had you ever read ten words of mine (with understanding) you would have known that I care no more for Mr. Disraeli or Mr. Gladstone than for two old bagpipes with the drones going by steam, but that, with Carlyle, I stand, we two alone in England, for God and the queen."

"Or this, from Victor Hugo's famous letter to Bismarck:

"The giant greets the giant, the foe the foe, the friend the friend. I hate thee furiously, because thou hast humbled France. I love thee because I am greater than thou art. Thou wert silent when the bell in the tower of my fame struck my eightieth year. I speak when the stolen clock on my writing table unwillingly announces to thee that thou hast entered the seventies. I am eighty. Nay, I am eight and thou art seven, and mankind is the cipher behind each of us. Were we allied as one man history would cease. Thou art the body, I am the soul; thou art the cloud, I am the lightning; thou art the might, I am the fame. Who is greater, victor or vanquished? Neither. The poet is greater than either, for he celebrates both."

Closing her notebook, the lady returned to the mirror.

"Don't talk to me about vanity after that," she said. — Cincinnati Enquirer.

Considerable Difference.

The young man had gone to Greenby for the summer for the purpose of securing piano pupils. When at last he gave a "recital" in the town hall he sent tickets to the Greenby Clarion, the editor of which promised him a good notice.

At the close of the recital the editor sought the musician and said cordially:

"Such an exhibition as you've given is enough to whet the ambition of all our young folks, and I shall say so in my notice."

The musician thanked him; but, owing to a slight mistake on the part of the typesetter, he found it hard to be as grateful the next day when he read:

"Such an exhibition as this young man who has come among us gave this afternoon was enough to whet the ambition of every boy and girl in town." — Youth's Companion.

Easy Enough.

A noted mathematician, considered by many a wonder, stopped at a hotel in a small town in Missouri. As usual in such places there were a number of drummers on hand. There was also a meeting of some medical men at the place, who used the hotel as headquarters. One of the doctors thought it would be quite a joke to tell the mathematician that some of the M. D.'s had concluded to kidnap him and take out his brains to learn how it was he was so good in mathematics. He was then asked by them what he was going to do about it. He replied, "Why, I shall simply go on without brains, just as you doctors are doing."

The Three R's.

Sir William Curtis, Bart., who was lord mayor of London in 1795, is generally credited with the authorship of the popular expression, "The three R's—readin', ritin' and rithmetic." It was upon the occasion of a city dinner at the time when Dr. Bell and the Quaker Lancaster were pleading in behalf of increased educational facilities for the poor that Sir William Curtis rose and in a jesting manner offered the toast, "The three R's." The phrase caught the public fancy at once.

Not Remembered.

Uncle Johnny Major was an absentminded southern gentleman. One day Mose opened the big gate when his master drove to church and was uncertain whether to close the gate or leave it open, so he cried out as Uncle Johnny drove through, "Massa, mus' I shet de gate?" In the village church five miles away pastor and people were astonished when Uncle Johnny, halfway down the aisle, halted with sudden recollection, half turned and said, "Yes, Mose, shut the gate!"

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart.

Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.

NOTICE.

The people of the town and county, having voted in favor of issuing bonds to secure the location of the Eastern Training School in or near the town of Greenville, now becomes necessary to take up the question of securing a proper site for the same.

The State Board of Education is charged by law with selecting and determining this site, and that Board has said that they will not consider a site that contains less than twenty-five (25) acres.

The undersigned committee, therefore beg all persons having a suitable site, to submit to this committee sealed proposals for a site of not less than 25 acres, to be made upon blanks which anyone can obtain for that purpose by applying to A. L. Blow Secretary Committee. It is hoped that those offering sites will exercise all possible liberality in the location, price, etc., and they are requested to give a general description of the site in filling up the blanks.

The bids or offers for site should be handed to A. L. Blow Secty before 6:00 p. m. on Friday the 24th instant. After the bids are in the persons making them will be expected to put their offers in legal forms by giving to the State Board of Education an option on such site conditioned in accordance with the offer, and also, upon the location of the school by State Board on site so offered. Any person or persons may make any number of different propositions, provided the site offered contained not less than twenty five acres.

This committee wishes to emphasize the fact that the acceptance or rejection of any proposed site, rests solely with the State Board of Education, and all sites offered of twenty five acres or more will be submitted to them, and that this committee is simply taking this action for the purpose of getting the matter in proper shape for the consideration of the State Board of Education.

Respectfully,
Thomas J. Jarvis,
H. A. White,
J. L. Wooten,
A. L. Blow,

A farmer had a houseful of visitors and one morning was busily engaged in killing chickens for dinner. Just as he was about to decapitate an old black hen the house was discovered to be on fire, and a scene of confusion ensued. The farmer rushed hither and thither, holding the hen under his arm and doing nothing whatever toward putting out the flames. At length his wife caught sight of him as he was pacing about and indignantly asked why he was not fighting the flames. "Why, Maria," he exclaimed, "how can I do anything? Ain't I holdin' the old black hen?"

Much Cimpler.

At a country fair a man went up to a tent where some clk were on exhibition and stared wistfully up at the sign.

"I'd like to go in there," he said to the keeper, "but it would be mean to go in without my family, and I cannot afford to pay for my wife and seventeen children."

The keeper stared at him in astonishment. "Are all those your children?" he gasped.

"Every one," said the man. "You wait a minute," said the keeper. "I'm going to bring the clk out and let them see you all."
