RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Noble Grand, and brothers of Covenant Lodge No. 17, I. O. O. F.: Your committee appointed at a special meeting to draft resolutions expressive of our loss in the death of our Brother Past Grand W. F. Burch—report Whereas, "The white-winged messenger" death, has again poised His wings over our fraternal circle, and taken from us our beloved brother. Therefore be it resolved;

1st. That while we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well, we cannot but deeply deplore the untimely death of Brother Burch. Of his death we may say, paraphrasing terms used a thousand times before, that the suddenness of his passing in the very prime of his manhood, should be a sermon to all of us;—telling us that no man knoweth the day or the hour when his account shall close. Even as we stand on the bank bidding our adieus to our good friend and brother who has so recently passed over to the other side, the spray from the dark river may be falling unnoticed upon our own brows. The passing of a man like this should be a lesson to us all to strive well for humanity while we are here, for at best our days are but a span.

2nd. That we extend to the family of brother Burch our heartfelt sympathy in this hour of bereavement, and assure them that among Odd Fellows they will always find friends.

3rd. That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes, a copy be sent to the family of our diseased brother, and a copy be sent to "The Eastern Reflector", to "King's Weekly", and to "The Orphan Home" with a request to publish.

Respectfully submitted,
D. L. James.
J. J. Cherry.
C. D. Rountree.

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY.

We, the teachers of the infant class of the Methodist Sunday school, tender our deepest sympathy to our dear pastor and his wife in their deep bereavement. We miss our little one from our ranks, but we feel comforted when we think that another flower has been gathered and now blooms in the blessed sunlight of the eternal city. So while we mourn together here and our eyes are bedimmed with tears, we can still be joyous as we wait the resurrection morn when we shall all gather with our loved ones in a blessed peace that passeth understanding.

Ruth has bound us with the invisible cords of love and hope to a higher and better life and she is not dead but lives the perfect life of the redeemed, and with her angel face all wreathed in heavenly grace she beckons to us from the golden shore with such a thought of Ruth can we be sad for long or shall we not just wait and in waiting meet again?

AYDEN ITEMS.

New-y Notes from a Hustling Town.

Ayden, N. C., June 4, 1907.

W. L. Jenkins a prosperous and well to do farmer living just on the edge of Ayden in his experience as a farmer has never bought a pound of lard, a pound of meat, nor has he ever bought hay or fodder, and that he has never purchased a horse, but raises his own team and now has three as pretty working mules as can be found anywhere. He makes all necessary home supplies, his money crop he places in the Ayden bank and always has a nice little catch-me-all on hand to meet any demands and he don't seem to kill himself working either.

W. E. Hooks and W. J. Boyd have gone to Vanceboro on business.

Mr. Whitty came over from New Bern Sunday to see his wife who is here on a visit to her father, W. S. Blount. Mr. Whitty is a very prominent hardware merchant of New Bern.

We regret very much to learn of the sudden and unexpected death of Mr. John Pierce a very prosperous and prominent farmer living just three miles from Ayden. His health has been delicate for sometime but he was seldom confined to the house.

He was in Ayden Monday and we had quite a lengthy conversation with him. Mr. Pierce was our friend and our regard for him was not exceeded by that for any other. He was a gentleman of the old school and always condemned that of the hypocritical character. He admired honor and integrity in every one, and ever, we verily believe adhered to the golden rule "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

All his life he was a sterling Democrat loving its principles and practicing its precepts.

He was a mason in his younger days and will be buried with masonic honors. He was about 70 years of age every year of which was usefully spent and the world was made better for his having lived in it. His neighborhood will miss him, especially the poor, the entire community will miss him for he was a useful man and the need of him will long be felt. We shall miss him for he never came to town that he didn't call to see us and may the words of counsel he gave us do us good. We sympathize with his loved ones and sincerely hope that He who only can may carry comfort to their aching hearts.

M. M. Sauls left Friday afternoon for Richmond to see his family who are there on a visit to the parents of his wife.

Bryant Tripp an old vet has gone to Richmond to meet his old comrades of the 60's.

The commencement at the Free Will Seminary passed off pleasantly. The annual address was fine. The student body all acquitted themselves admirably. The titutation is a credit to Ayden and this whole section of the country. It certainly merits a very large patronage.

Miss Clarence Buhmann after a visit a verbal weeks here to relatives left for her home in Greensboro Saturday.

Mrs. Willie Prince, who has been spending several weeks with her mother, has returned to her home in Pinners Point.

W. J. Jenkins showed us a cabbage taken from his truck farm Saturday that weighed 7 1/2 pounds.

TO WORK WELL DON'T WORRY.

It Adds Years to the Face and Accomplishes Nothing

The thing that kills effective work is worry. Don't worry. The way to kill worry is the way to kill weeds. No two objects can occupy the same space at the same time. If you indulge yourself in worry you fan the worry into a fury.

As a proof that you can experience moments in which worry is absent just mark this present moment. You are thinking about what you are reading, worry is absent, for no two things can occupy the same time.

When you worry everything is distorted. Nothing appears natural. The world looks dark to us. Our friends do not seem near us.

There is no hard luck in the world except sickness. All other so-called hard luck is temporary. If you lose your money, do not worry, make some more. If you lose a friend, do not worry, show him he was mistaken. If you lose an opportunity, do not worry, be ready for the next one.

Life is short. The end of life is death. What's the use of worrying? Worry is like drink, the more you give in to it, the more it fastens on you. Cultivate a cheerful disposition. Mix with people who are cheerful. Learn to look at the bright side of things. Do not allow the garden of your mind to grow up with worry weeds.

Occupation kills worry. If your mind is occupied with uplifting work or brainmaking you can't worry.

Shoe Factory for Arkansas.

Special to Reflector.

Memphis, June 4.—Goodbar & Co. of this city, have organized the Shoe Manufacturing Co., and propose the establishment of a large shoe factory at Mammoth Spring, Ark., a station on the Frisco system about 140 miles from Memphis. A deal has been closed with Memphis capitalists for a building 60 by 300 feet, and it is planned to have the plant in operation about the middle of this month. A representation of the company is now in the East looking after the purchase of the necessary equipment and machinery.

Warships Return to Hampton Roads.

Special to Reflector.

New York, June 4.—Austrian Cruisers Sankt George and Aspern sailed today on their return to Hampton Roads to take part in the review of combined fleets of the United States and foreign countries by the president. Soon after they will return to European waters.

Three That Really Weeps.

Among the historical curiosities to be seen at Chatsworth House, the residence of the Duke of Devonshire, is a willow tree that weeps, very often to the personal discomfort of those beneath it.

To the casual observer it appears just an ordinary willow, but on closer inspection it is seen to be artfully artificial. It is made from a metal to closely resemble a living tree, and each of its branches is covered with innumerable holes. In fact, the whole tree is a monster syringe, being connected to a water main near by.

The key for turning on and off is close at hand, and many a visiting party has enticed beneath its branches by practical jokes.—London Times.

Mrs. George Worthington and Mrs. Jesse Cannon are away on a visit to friends in Goldsboro, Kinston and Morehead City.

THIS JUDGE WASN'T A MASON.

If he had been Distress Signal Would Have Doomed Prison.

Business was dull in the West Side Police Court yesterday afternoon and Magistrate Cornell was telling Magistrate Harris, recently elected, all about the way things are done, when a big policeman pushed a very black man in front of the desk and told a much excited negro woman to step on the bridge.

"Dis gemmen here done come to my house dis noon time an' when he went away dere warn't nothin' tall left of the furniture," said the woman, when she had become sufficiently composed.

While the woman was talking the prisoner was trying to catch the eye of the court, and then he began to give a high sign.

Magistrate Cornell arose from his chair and leaned over the desk.

"Are you a Mason?" he asked the prisoner.

The prisoner grinned and said that he was.

"I thought so," said the Magistrate. "For the last five minutes you have been trying to give me some sort of sign of distress. Now I am not a Mason, and you have made a big mistake. If I were and you tried that game on me I'd send you up to Hart's Island dig graves for a time."—New York Sun.

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY.

Whereas, An All Wise Providence in his dealings with us has seen fit to remove from among us by death the wife of our beloved brother, J. N. Hart, and whereas, we desire to express the feelings which exist in our lodge in respect to this sad event, therefore, resolved

1st. That we the members of Greenville Lodge No. 234 A. F. & A. M., recognize the hand of our Master in the decease of our brother's wife, we know that He doeth all things well and we bow in humble submission to His divine will.

2nd. That we extend to our brother in this, the sorest and saddest affliction of his life, our sincere and heartfelt sympathy and assure him that we realize his loss and as far as we can share his sorrows with him. May the Father of us all give to him and his little ones in this, their hour of bereavement, the comfort and consolation that can come only from Him.

3rd. That these resolutions be spread upon the record of this lodge, a copy be sent to our beloved brother and a copy be sent to The Daily Reflector with the request to publish the same.

Norfolk Conference Held at Cape Henry.

Special to Reflector.

Cape Henry, June 4.—The Methodist Episcopal conference for the Norfolk district convened here today, and will continue in session all the week, adjusting the appointment of preachers for the ensuing year, and attending to all the routine work of the church. The work of the Sunday school, the Epworth league, and education are reviewed, and reports made through regular channels of the work of all the societies of the church. The appointments will be read on the last day of the conference.

Condition and Average.

Washington, D. C. June 4.—The government bureau report issued today, which is the first report of the present season, places the condition of the cotton crop at 70.5. The estimated total acreage is 32,060,000.

LAND ASSESSMENTS.

Difference in Townships Too Great.

As this is the month for listing taxes, and also the year in which a re-assessment of all real estate must be made, the attention of The Reflector has been called to the differences in value of farm lands that have heretofore prevailed in the several townships of Pitt county. We confess some surprise at the showing the figures make, and expect it will also be a revelation to many of our readers.

The assessment of the last four years on farming lands owned by white people, not including any property in the towns, taking each township through has averaged as follows per acre:

Beaver Dam	$7.60
Belvoir	4.54
Bethel	6.62
Carolina	5.32
Chicod	4.95
Contentnea	7.70
Falkland	5.88
Farmville	8.26
Greenville	7.45
Pactolus	5.63
Swift Creek	5.31

These figures represent the assessment per acre of the township taken as a whole, and it shows that there is too much difference between townships. Take Belvoir, the lowest, and Farmville, the highest example—we can see no reason why lands in Belvoir township should be valued at little more than half what they are in Farmville township. There is also too much difference between other townships.

Of course there are individual tracts of land that are worth much more than others should be assessed higher. It is also true that lands lying near a town are worth more than in sections further away and these should be valued accordingly. But the point we are discussing is taking townships as a whole, and the difference between these is too great. There is good land and poor land in every township. It would not be a bad idea for the new assessors of all the townships to come together and equalize this matter.

TOWN FLECTION.

How it Went Monday.

The election for aldermen was held Monday in the several wards of the town. Only the regular nominees were voted for, and the election was very quiet. Not two thirds of the registered votes was polled.

The candidates received the following vote:

First ward, J. S. Mooring, 31.
Second ward, C. S. Carr, 60.
W. A. Bowen, 60.
Third ward, G. H. Woodward
J. P. M. Johnson 30.
Fourth ward, E. G. Flanagan
53, T. R. Moore 53.
Fifth ward, F. J. Forbes 33.

The new board will take charge the first of July.

Rev. H. B. Anderson Dead.

A telegram from Norfolk this afternoon to Mr. D. D. Haskett, announced the death of Rev. H. B. Anderson, a brother of Mrs. Haskett. Mr. Anderson was pastor of the Methodist church at Littleton, but gave up his work recently because of failing health. His father, the late Rev. C. M. Anderson, was once pastor of the church in Greenville.

Did you ever stop to reflect that it was one thing to talk about people and another thing to have people talk about you? If those of us who use our tongues a little too freely, about our neighbors, would stop and reflect about this matter and know the great evil that comes from too much gossip and tattling, we are sure we would call a halt and gossip no more forever.—Gastonia Gazette.

When an obstacle gets in your way, don't waste time and energy in complaining about it. If you can't push it out of your path, get over it, under it or around it anyway you can and leave the obstacle behind you. The second obstacle will not appear half as big if you get past the first, but if you stand, wringing your hands and appealing to every one for help to do what you can do yourself, the first obstacle will look like a mountain after a while. This isn't the case, however, it's only the mountain becoming smaller because of his inactivity.—Merchants Journal

A credit indemnity company has compiled a list of the causes of failure, and it forms an interesting study. First is incompetency, six and a quarter per cent. Then comes inexperience, twenty and five-tenths per cent; lack of capital, thirty-two and nine-tenths; unwise credits, three and four-tenths; speculation, one; neglect of business because of doubtful habits, two and four tenths; personal extravagance, nine-tenths per cent; fraudulent disposition of property, four and four-tenths per cent; disaster, fire, floods, etc., sixteen and eight tenths per cent; failures of others apparently solvent, two and eight-tenths per cent; undue competition, two and five-tenths per cent. The surprise is the low percentage of failure caused by speculation.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves". Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write to-day for sample and free Book. PAISLEY SHAWLS.

How These Once Fashionable Wraps Were Crowded Out.

Has any one ever seen a specimen of the old Paisley shawl nowadays? Yet how much in vogue they used to be!

Paisley has been famous for its textile fabrics as far back as the year 1835, and the industry grew steadily until in 1820 there were as many as 7,000 looms in the town. About the beginning of the last century the weavers commenced to imitate the renowned Kashmir shawls, some of which were brought to western Europe by the French on their return from the campaign in Egypt.

The ill fated Empress Josephine wore one of the Kashmir productions, and the graceful manner in which she did so gave an impetus to the fashion for donning such articles of apparel. There was a demand for something similar. The cost and difficulty of obtaining the real article led to imitations, and Paisley gained the first position by its splendid sample of work.

It was somewhere about the year 1805 that the making of the Paisley shawl was commenced, but in the year 1820 the hand loom was perfected for this kind of manufacture, and it at once achieved such great popularity that the sale increased by leaps and bounds, and in 1834 the output of the Scottish town was valued at $5,000,000 per annum.

The sale continued, with periods of depression resulting from bad times, for some thirty years more, when the vogue began to decline, and the manufacture of this once celebrated shawl entirely ceased in the seventies.

The decline of the old shawl was due to a change of fashion and the attempts to produce a cheap quality. In other words, it became common, and this helped to kill the fashion.

The original Kashmir shawls were rather needlework than textile, and the wonderfully ingenious contrivance by which a clever imitation of them, both in pattern and texture, was produced in so successful a manner did great honor to the skill of the Paisley weavers.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

A Baltimore man had until recently a darky in his employ, about as shiftless and worthless a darky, says he, as ever he came across. One day the employer, his patience exhausted, called Sam into his office and told him to look for another job.

"Will you give me a letter of recommendation?" asked Sam piteously.

Although he felt that he could not conscientiously comply with this request, the Baltimore man's heart was touched by the appeal. So he sat down to his desk to write a non-committal letter of character for the negro. His effort resulted as follows: "This man, Sam Hawkins, has worked for me one week, and I am satisfied."—Harper's Weekly.

Almost Envious.

In 1885 there was a great celebration in London in honor of Dr. Samuel Johnson, and among those in attendance was the Australian cricketer, Bonner, then at the height of his fame. As one of the guests, says the compiler of the "Letters" of the late Dr. George Birkbeck Hill, Bonner's health was proposed. His response was noteworthy.

"After seeing the way in which Dr. Johnson's memory is revered," he said, with great simplicity, "I am not sure that I would not rather have been such a man than have gained my own greatest triumph in cricket."

A Brilliant Pair.

The Count St. Germain, who appeared in Paris in the reign of Louis XV, and pretended to be possessed of the elixir of life, had a valet who was almost as great as his master in the art of lying. Once when the count was describing at a dinner party a circumstance which occurred at the court of "his friend King Richard I. of England" he appealed to his servant for the confirmation of his story, who with the greatest composure replied, "You forget, sir, I have only been 500 years in your service." "True," said his master musingly. "It was a little before your time."

No Cause For Alarm.

The honeymoon had bumped the bumps. "You know, John," said the young wife, "that I used to be your typewriter." "Um—yes," grunted John. "Well," she continued, "I wish you would discharge the girl you have now and hire a man in her place." "Huh!" rejoined hubby. "I hope you don't think I would make a fool of myself twice in the same way."—Chicago News.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

His Modesty Forbade Him to Laugh at His Own Stories.

A certain well known humorist recently attended a banquet, at which he was seated beside a man who seemed to have almost a mania for story telling. He began with the oysters and had at least one story for each course clear down to the Roquefort. The humorist listened in patience, but did not smile or make any comment. Finally the story teller noticed the fact that he was not eliciting any expressions of mirth, and, being one who was not at all afflicted with diffidence, he asked:

"Say, old man, what's the matter with my stories anyhow? You haven't cracked a smile over any of them."

"If I haven't seemed to appreciate your stories you will have to blame my modesty."

"Your modesty? There's nothing about any of the stories I've told that ought to interfere with anybody's modesty. At least I supposed they were clean. If there's a double meaning in any of them, for heaven's sake tell me. I told nearly every one of them to a lot of women the other night."

"There's nothing at all the matter with them. They're good, clean stories. Nevertheless my modesty forbids me to laugh at them. I wrote them."—Chicago News.

The Motor Face.

A few days ago a well known personage was motoring in Derbyshire when a policeman stopped him.

"You'll have to take off that mask," said the officer. "It's frightening every one who sees it."

"But I am not wearing one!" explained the unfortunate offender.—Sketch.

A Long Felt Want.

"What your town needs most," said the traveling man, "is a hotel with all the comforts of home."

"Not much!" interrupted the native who was having trouble with servants. "A home with all the comforts of a hotel is what most of us need."—Philadelphia Press.

Mother—Don't ride away with Mrs. Boreham's umbrella, Bobbie.

Bobbie—Why not, mother? I won't hurt it.

Mother—You might, dear. And anyhow she'll be wanting it directly.—Punch.

Fatal Work.

"Of course," said Rimer, "I only write poetry to kill time, not to sell."

"H'm" remarked the critic musingly as he handed back the manuscript. "If time weren't next to immortal I'm sure you'd be successful."—Pittsburg Post.

Of Course.

"What do you think of the idea of taxing the fortunes of American girls who marry foreign noblemen?"

"What do they propose to do with the money?"

"Keep it away from the noblemen, of course."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Consideration.

"A woman should not be valued alone for her beauty," said the sentimentalist.

"Certainly not," answered the French count. "Sometimes she is to be valued by the amount of alimony she can pay."—Washington Star.

Auto Reversible.

Agent—This is the motor car you want. You never have to crawl under it to put it right.

Customer—You don't?

"No. If the slightest thing goes wrong with the mechanism the car instantly turns upside down."—Tit-Bits.

A Business Paradox.

"Isn't it queer that there are so many bargain sales in umbrellas?"

"Why so?"

"Because, as a rule, they are things of all others to be put up."—Baltimore American.

Not Adapted.

"He certainly is not the man for a missionary to China."

"Why not?"

"Because he makes such dreadful breaks."—Des Moines Register.

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for the very reason mentioned, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must be law to be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

Character Alone Counts in the Long Run.

An Arkansas paper mourns the fact that "the paper that comes square out in the open and supports or opposes any measure treads on toes somewhere and loses money." That is in large measure true, but it is also true that the paper that fears to tread on toes somewhere and is therefore mushy, loses more money. The papers that have strength and influence are those that have the confidence and respect of the people, and confidence and respect are only won by coming "square out in the open" when there is occasion.---Columbia State.

A violin teacher in the Washington College of Music has been dismissed for kissing "one of the prettiest and most talented young ladies in Washington society," a pupil of his. When arraigned before the indignant principal "he fessed right up" to his "crime," declined to repent, and gave the principal to understand that his recollection of the kiss was such that he would repeat the offense if faced by the same irresistible temptation. by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
