

MONUMENT TO WYATT.

Monument to Raise a Memorial to the First Confederate Soldier Killed in the Civil War.

Selma, June 13.—There was a called meeting of the Henry L. Wyatt Chapter of the U. D. C. at this place today, which was attended by a large and enthusiastic crowd of members and visitors. The president, Mrs. R. A. Ashworth, stated that the object of the meeting was to decide on some plan of action leading to the erection of a suitable monument to the memory of private Henry L. Wyatt, who was the first Confederate soldier killed in the Civil War. In discussing this subject she read an article written by Mr. John A. Mitchener, of this place, and the comment on same by different newspapers of the state. Mr. Mitchener having been invited to attend the meeting, was asked for an expression on the subject, which he did, discussing especially the plan of action in raising the money, interesting other chapters, also pledging the first five dollars with his personal aid. It was moved and carried that this chapter pledge to raise not less than one hundred and fifty dollars, and that an appeal be made to all chapters of sons and daughters and every camp of Confederate veterans in this State to take prompt action in this matter, and to ask everybody to give something for this cause. A special committee of three was appointed to solicit funds and to solicit cooperation, support and influence of other like organizations of this State as well as all patriotic citizens of the State. The meeting was full of interest and enthusiasm, and it was decided to raise the money at once and have the monument unveiled on the tenth of next June, the forty-seventh anniversary of his death.

"The Massachusetts legislature is completing a revision of the Sunday laws. The Boston Post notes that in this legislative work, venerable traditions are rudely shaken up. For about 300 years, or ever since civil government began in New England, the first day of the week has been called 'The Lord's Day.' Even in the latest revision of the laws, which was made in 1902, only five years ago, there is no mention of 'Sunday.' It is always 'The Lord's Day,' and it is even declared in a special section that 'The Lord's Day' shall include the time from midnight to midnight. But our Boston namesake declares that the proposed measure starts out with a repudiation of the term. 'Whoever on Sunday' is the opening phrase of the prohibitions in its first section. And it closes with the usual provision that 'all acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.' With the enactment of this bill, the Bay State will part authoritatively from the designation of 'The Lord's Day.' After nearly three centuries it will disappear from the statutes of Massachusetts. There is no doubt that our contemporary speaks by the card when it says that the old designation of the day will not be yielded up without a pang of sentimental regret. To a good many old-fashioned people, 'Sunday' will never be just the same as 'The Lord's Day.'"—Washington Post.

JONES PLEADS GUILTY.

Sentence Will be Passed Later.

In the Federal court at Raleigh, Thursday, Franc H. Jones entered a plea of guilty to the various charges brought against him by the government for robbing the Charlotte National Bank some months ago.

As soon as this plea was made Mr. Jones, accompanied by Mrs. Jones and his attorney, Mr. C. D. Bennett left the court room. The same bond of $10,000 will stand until the joint case against Fonville and Jones is tried. District Attorney Holton stated this morning that he would not pray judgment in the case until the Fonville end of the case has been tried. The joint trial has been set for Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

The following are the counts to which Jones pleaded guilty:

First.—That Franc H. Jones, being teller and assistant cashier of the bank, did take and appropriate to his own use the sum of $41,490, being a part of the reserve fund of the Charlotte National Bank.

Second.—That Franc H. Jones on the 14th of March did make false entries in that he raised a check on the Merchants and Farmers Bank $2,000 and appropriated this sum to his own use.

Third.—That Franc H. Jones did on the 15th of March make false entries in that he raised a check on the Commercial National Bank $2,000 and appropriated the same to his own use.

Fourth.—That Franc H. Jones did on the 11th of March make false entries in that he raised a check on the First National Bank of Charlotte $5,000 and appropriated the same to his own use.

North Carolina Waterways.

Says the Raleigh correspondent to the Charlotte Observer: "It is remarkable, but true that there is a mile of navigable water in North Carolina for every mile of railway now in operation, some 3,500, but of course a great deal of the water is not kept in proper shape. For the failure to properly develop the waterways Senator Simmons most severely arraigned in his speech in the United States Senate, and he said that he and the other members of Congress in this State would demand that something be done. For himself he favored a five-hundred-million dollar bond issue for improvement of waterways Eastern North Carolina has been handicapped for the lack of these facilities."

Hague Peace Conference.

Special to Reflector.

The Hague, June 15.—The second peace conference opened here this afternoon, with a full representation of the nations invited to send delegates. The date was fixed at this day because the government of the Netherlands stated that it could most conveniently entertain the delegates at this season. Baron Rosen was charged with the duty by his government of negotiating for the adherence of the South American States to the conference, and has used freely the machinery of the United States government to bring about a satisfactory result. It is required.

Weather.

Fair and warmer tonight. Sunday fair.

THE MEETING.

Interest Increasing Each Day.

Though rain had preceded in the evening, there was a large congregation in Memorial Baptist church Friday night. The text used by Rev. W. F. Fry was 2 Cor. 5:21 "For he hath made him to be sin for us, who knew us sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in him." The two leading thoughts discussed in the sermon were a sinless one made sin, and sinful man made sinless. Mr. Fry gets stronger hold on the hearts of the people each day, and they gladly to hear his earnest gospel sermons. There were three professions at this service.

There will be services tonight 8:15 and tomorrow at the usual Sunday hours.

Lehman And Hartmann Freed Today.

Special to Reflector.

Jefferson City, Mo. June 15.—Julius Lehman and Emile Hartmann, boodlers in St. Louis, who have been serving sentences in the penitentiary, were freed today. Governor Folk commuted their sentences to four years, Hermann's sentence having been for seven years, and Hartmann's for five years. They were given the benefit of the three-fourths rule so that the actual time served by them is only three years. They received the heaviest sentences meted out to any of the convicted legislators. The court was particularly severe on Lehman because it was at his house in North St. Louis that the "birthday" party was held at which the boodle to be used in connection with the lighting deal was distributed among the members of the House of Delegates combine. Much sympathy was aroused in behalf of Lehman because his wife lost her mind since his incarceration, and the cares of the household fell upon his daughter. This young woman has been untiring in her efforts to obtain her father's release.

And He Found a Quiet Location.

A nervous looking man went into a store the other day and sat down for a half hour or so, when a clerk asked him if there was anything she could do for him. He said no, he didn't want anything.

She went away and he sat an hour longer, when the proprietor went to him and asked if he wanted to be shown anything. "No," said the nervous man, "I just wanted to sit around. My physician has recommended quiet for me, and says above all things I should avoid a crowd. Noticing that you do not advertise in the newspaper, I thought that this would be as quiet a place as I could find, so just dropped in for a few hours of isolation."—Exchange.

QUESTIONS

Mrs. W. G. Williams.

Life, tell me what in thee is best? Why art thou filled with unrest? Why false hope's fill the breast? In thy dream's, art thou free? Is this world but mockery? Life, tell it all to me. Is thy dawnin' always bright? Filled with gleam's of golden light? Ending with the shades of night? Is the future but a dream untrue? Where I must travel on with you? Then, oh, life please lead me through.

A BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATION.

The Prison Gates had Been Opened too Soon.

I once heard from the lips of a beloved pastor, a beautiful illustration. A naturalist one day was studying a cocoon in which a butterfly was struggling to be free. He heard it beating against the sides of the little prison, and his heart went out for the helpless creature. Taking a tiny lancet he cut away the fragile walls, and released the little captive. But to his amazement it was not the beautiful creature he had expected to see. It lay struggling upon the table unable to fly, a helpless unlovely object. In place of the gorgeously covered wings he expected to see were weak, shriveled members. What was the matter with this creature which should have been so fair? The prison gates had been opened too soon; the obstacle had been removed before the struggler had developed sufficiently through the struggling to be ready for its glorious flight into the sunshiny skies and among the perfumed flowers. O God, when the wall's seem to be close about us, when we struggle and agonize to be free, when thou dost not cut away the barriers, is it not because in thy infinite wisdom thou dost see that we are weak and dost want us to become strong? Then, at last, when the struggle is finished, like the butterfly, we may come forth, not perhaps in glorious robes of splendid colors as it is, but in the everlasting robes of the righteous.—Christian Observer

STATE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

What it Stands for and What its Chief Aim.

Time was when the republican party in North Carolina was a power for the good of the state, but not so now. The party does not stand for the application of republican policies to the government of North Carolina; it does not stand for the upholding of the republican national administration by sending republicans to congress. As the party is now constituted in this state, it stands for little more than a pie dispensing machine. Within the ranks are many men of character and ability, but under the present management there is nothing for them to do. There is nothing to demand character and ability. The one thing necessary is pull and favor with those who distribute patronage. Within the last few months we have seen the leaders of the party hurling epithets at each other, intimating that there is something powerfully rotten in Denmark and the Indian territory; we have seen the only republican congressmen dragged through the courts, and later defeated at the polls. We have seen struggle and charge upon charge within the ranks of the party—and for what? Was some fundamental policy of government at stake? Was there a difference of opinion as to a great struggle for supremacy against the opposing party? Was a governorship, a senatorship or the election of any officer at stake? Was there a single thought of changing North Carolina from a democratic to a republican state? No, it was a scramble for the crumbs from the pie counter.—The Tar Heel.

SVLORDAY JUNE 15th 1907.
GREENVILLE GOING FORWARD.

The enterprise and progressive spirit shown by Greenville and Pitt county in the willingness to put $100,000 in the Eastern Carolina Teachers Training school, together with the valuable sites offered for the same, has already brought forth even unexpected results. Never before in the history of the town and county has there been such a prospect of wonderful development.

The United Development Corporation, composed of Richmond and Norfolk capitalists, has already purchased a tract of land in and adjoining the town, and this has been laid off in lots with a park on the river front. After granolithic sidewalks are constructed on this property the lots will be offered for sale. This beautiful property, known as "Greenville Heights," will ere long be dotted with handsome residences.

An enterprise is now being projected that will result in the establishment here of a manufacturing plant costing from $100,000 to $200,000. Subscription lists for stock in this enterprise have already been opened and met with gratifying encouragement.

Northern capitalists are here prospecting with a view of locating yet another large manufacturing enterprise that will mean the investment of thousands and thousands of dollars. Those capitalists express gratification at finding in this community such an abundance of raw material to meet their demands.

And so it goes on, every day bringing brighter and brighter prospects of Greenville's growth and development.

Many a fellow's "call of many friends" to permit his name to be used as a candidate for office, originated in his asking his friends to do the calling.

It would not be wise for those expecting nomination by the next Democratic (State convention) to give up their present business this far ahead. Some of them are not going to land.

The jailer at Greensboro found more than he wanted when he discovered that one of his prisoners, a hobo, had a blooming case of measles. The "measley" possessor of the disease was turned out and told to skip the town in short order.

Those fellows anxious to know if the newly elected board of aldermen have an eye on them, have but two weeks longer to wait before knowing. That is not as bad as those who will have to wait to see what the next State convention will do with them.

What has become of our old friend self-defence?—Charlotte Observer
He has an attack of "brain-storm."

Pitt county has not brought out any candidate for governor, but she is a candidate for that Eastern training school all right.

Whether Mr. Cannon said it or not, makes but little difference. The South has the credit all the same of doing the right thing with the question.

Not one man in ten buys goods entirely on their merits. He goes largely by the reputation of the seller. That is why advertising pays. Sell good merchandise. Keep on telling the world that there's nothing else like it, and in not a long time you'll get a higher price for your wares than your competitor who sells the same quality of merchandise. Tillotson said: "In all the affairs of this world so much reputation in reality is so much power." Reduced to modern business language, the saying means, "Get a name for being a crackerjack in your line and you can fix your own price." It is in getting the initial reputation that the greatest difficulty occurs. In large and small mercantile firms the bottom rungs of the ladder are most crowded. The inefficient, the half-hearted, the "has-beens" and the "never-will-bees" are all at the bottom of the ladder, and until one of the crowd shows that he's made of vastly better stuff than the majority of his comrades he is likely to stay there for a long time indeed.—Merchants Journal.

Haggard Tells Story.

In a letter to the London Times concerning a statement recently made that he was responsible for the land policy of the British government H. Rider Haggard, the well known novelist, tells the following story: "I am reminded of a story of a certain Daniel Lambert of a Boer who, being caught napping by savages, rushed to his horse, exclaiming, 'O Lord, help me mount!' So abundant and vigorous was the heavenly aid vouchsafed that he not only reached the saddle, but flew right over it to the veldt beyond, and as the Zulus came upon a spearhead he was heard to declare reproachfully, 'O Lord, thou hast helped too much!' In like fashion I may say, 'O government, thou hast helped too much!' for I have always aimed not at revolution, but reform."

True Politeness.

"Silent Smith," said a broker, "was a good, kind man, but a busy one, a foe to bores and time-wasters. He used to fish occasionally at Shawnee, and a Shawnee farmer on a junket to the city once made bold to visit him in his New York office. 'Waal, Josh, how'd Silent Smith use ye?' they asked the farmer at the general store on his return. 'Fellers,' said the old man warmly, 'Silent Smith is the perkiest cuss I ever see. I hadn't bin settin' chattrin' with him more'n a quarter of an hour fore he'd told me six times, be gisht' mighty, to come in an' see him agin.'"

A Natural Hothouse.

The most unique hothouse, or greenhouse, in the country perhaps is in the Yellowstone National park, Wyo. It is built over the stream from a geyser, and a current of hot water, nearly at the boiling point, runs through it constantly. The steam that rises from the water keeps the plants moist and warms the air in the house at the same time, the warmth being increased by the sun's rays which come through the glass roof. It is said that lettuce matures in this hothouse within two or three weeks and that other plants grow with like rapidity.

Had the Birth Rate Pat.

"The Scotch," said Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture, "are certainly a witty people. Now, there was a visitor in the little town of Bowdoin who on looking about saw no children, but only grown men and women. He wondered at this, and finally meeting a weakened old man on the street he inquired, 'How often are children born in this town?' 'Only once,' the man replied as he proceeded on his way.—Sunday Evening Post.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Panama Canal—Eric Canal.

Machinery is digging the Panama canal a thousand times quicker than the shovel dug the Erie.

Machinery produces the L & M paint at 50 times less cost for labor, than if made by hand.

The L & M gives the best job in the world, because L & M Zinc hardens L & M. White lead and makes L & M paint wear like iron for 10 to 15 years.

It only requires 4 gallons of this celebrated paint and 3 gallons of Linseed Oil at 60 ct per gallon, to paint a moderate sized house.

A prompt, pleasant, good remedy for coughs and colds, is Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. It is especially recommended for babies and children, but good for every member of the family.
It contains no opiates and does not constipate. Contains honey and tar and tastes nearly as good as maple syrup.
Children like it. Sold by J. L. Wooten's

Bert Barber, of Elton, Wis., says "I have only taken four doses of your

All stomach trouble are quickly relieved by taking a little Kodol after each meal. Kodol goes directly to the seat of the trouble, strengthens the digestive organs, supplies the natural digestive juices and digests what you eat. It is a simple, clean, pure, harmless remedy. Don't neglect your stomach. Take a little Kodol after each meal. I see how good it makes you feel. Money back if it fails. Sold by John L. Wooten.

There is no case of indigestion, no matter how irritable or how obstinate that will not be speedily relieved by the use of Kodol. The main factor in curing the stomach of any disorder is rest, and the only way to get rest is to actually digest the food for the stomach itself.
Kodol will do it. It is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids containing the very same juices found in a healthy stomach. It conforms to the Pure Food and Drugs Law. Sold by John L. Wooten.

Some men are so nice to their wives that it arouses the suspi-cough syrup and is unrivaled for the relief of croup. Drives the cold out through the bowels. Conforms to the make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

The Figures Too High to Suit the Giant's Voice.

It was a little out of the way
church the first Sunday in May, just after the "foot washing" had been observed, which is a custom followed by that particular religious sect of people, that the preacher announced that the congregation would join in singing hymn No. 23,
"My soul, be on thy guard; ten thousand foes," etc.

Jones, a red faced, broad shouldered giant, tried to put on a lot of energy and sing tenor, for this was a special occasion, and he seemed to be the whole church, since he was musical director and the only choir they had, as well as janitor and deacon. In fact, he did everything but preach. Jones rose up and in stentorian tones began to sing in a pitch too high. When he got to the second line ("Ten thousand foes," etc.) it was necessary for his voice to rise beyond his capacity, and he broke down. The congregation began to titter, and a brother in the front row said:

"Pears to me like you're a leetle bit too high."

An old gentleman in his shirt sleeves over in the amen corner rose up with a judicial air and drawled out:

"Spose we just try five thousand."—Judge's Library.

Little Susie's Interruption.

One evening a friend of the family called. Little Susie was looking over a new picture book containing the alphabet and immediately began to ask questions about the letters. Her father said: "Susie, do keep still. Little folks should be seen, not heard."

There was a moment's silence, then, "I just can't tell whether that is an O or a Q," came from the child.

"Susie, didn't I tell you to keep still?"

"Yes, but I can butt in, can't I?"

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart.
Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break, or head off these early colds. That's surely better.
That's why they are called Preventics.
Preventics are Little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child, if there is feverishness, night or day. Herain probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 50 boxes for the pocket, also in 25c boxes of 48
Preventics. Insist on your druggists giving you

THE ANCIENT DO TREE.

Oldest Living Thing of Which Man has a Record.

This tree (the Ficus religiosa) is probably the oldest living thing in the world of which record has been kept by man and, with the possible exception of the sequoia, the oldest of living trees. It was brought from India by the Princess Sanghamita and was planted by King Dewannipya Tissa in 288 B. C. It is therefore 2,195 years old. The preservation of this tree has been an object of reverent solicitude to successive dynasties, and either through superstitious reverence or because of its worthlessness to a plunderer it has been spared amid all the havoc of repeated invasions. As recently as 1739 A. D. it was endowed with lands by Raja Sinah, a Kandian chief.

The tree's age and identity are matters of absolutely faithful record, and when one recalls that in the rigorous climate of northern Germany, in Hildesheim, there grows a rosebush which is a thousand years old it does not seem so remarkable that in the balmy climate of Ceylon this tree should have lived twice as long. It is gnarled and unsymmetrical, because many of its branches have been cut off and sent to distant temples. This tree is a branch of the tree under which Guatama Buddha sat when he attained Nirvana, and Buddhists say the passion through which he passed communicated itself to the tree and caused all the leaves to tremble.

Each of the millions of pilgrims who have toiled along the sacred way which leads to this shrine has hoped to bear away with him a leaf from the sacred tree, and happy is he at whose feet one falls.

The leaves hang on a slender stem and are easily stirred by the slightest breeze, so each petitioner is rewarded for his pilgrimage by feeling that the tree responds to the fervor of his soul, but few take home a leaf. Many bring offerings to the tree, and on a number of the lower leaves are sheets of gold placed there by jewelers and other wealthy worshippers.—Rosalie S. Morton in Century.

Well Paper and the Sick.

"I am glad the walls of my bedroom are not papered," said the invalid. "Nobody but the sick knows how nerve racking it is to lie all day long looking at the wall paper that doesn't match. It matches well enough, you understand, for people who are well. They never would notice where the flowers failed to hitch or the stems met too far down the fraction of an inch, but we notice it and worry over it and cry sometimes because it worries us so. My wall is painted light blue, the color of the skies. It doesn't hurt my eyes at all to look at it. It doesn't worry me. When the curtain is down it is the very softest kind of blue, so gratifying that I fall asleep looking at it. Oh, yes; the only thing to do with the walls of the sickroom is to paint them light blue."—New York Press.

Your Employer Knows You.

Young man, your employer knows what you are doing and just what you are worth. Don't think that you are fooling him. You are fooling yourself, and some of these days when it is too late you will realize the truthfulness of this statement. Of course there are exceptions in all cases; but as a general rule this will apply in the majority of cases. There are cases where an employer will sometimes try to keep an employee down, and if he puts forth an idea will not consider it. That employer is like the clerk who shirks his duty—he is standing in his own light. But let an employee show by his make-up that there is something in him, that he means to be and do something, he need not give any care to his salary being raised or his advancement. And as for good positions, he will not have to seek them. They will seek him. -- Exchange.
