APPLE GROWING IN THE WEST.

It Will Soon Be One of the Big Industries of the West.

The apple industry is steadily growing in the piedmont and mountain section of the State. A correspondent writing from Mt. Airy says that the apple business in this section and in the face of the Blue Ridge is soon to be one of the best paying industries yet undertaken by the people. In a few years those engaged in the raising of winter apples will reap a harvest of large proportions. Thousands of acres of mountains are already planted in superior varieties of the very finest fruits and these great orchards are already coming in. People in the middle and eastern portions of the State as well as the many counties in the southern portion have no conception of the immensity of the apple business in that region. Drays today are hauling carloads of fine Buckinghams and other kinds of apples to the depot there, and the shipping business has scarcely begun.—Raleigh News and Observer.

DOINGS AROUND FARMVILLE.

Farmville N. C. Sept. 11, 1907.

The past week was an ideal one for our farmers who report the best crop of fodder saved in several years. Peanuts, sweet potatoes and rutabagas are looking fine. Cotton is opening slowly, tobacco seems to be selling very satisfactory, in fact business in general seems to be steadily on the boom.

The health of our community is exceptionally good, so our physicians report and it is whispered that the chimes of wedding bells will soon be tolling.

Farmville graded school will open next Monday, the 16th, with Prof. E. M. Rollins of Raleigh, as principal, who seems to be one of the cleverest gentlemen that has located in our town recently. He will move his family here in a few weeks. The other departments will be in charge of Misses Ada Tyson and Agness Moore, of Farmville, Annie Perkins, of Greenville, and Miss Anderson, of Virginia. The building and grounds have been emodded and put in tiptop shape, so the many students may enjoy the best results for the next eight months of learning.

We learn that G. M. Massem has taken charge of the Snow Hill branch of the R. & R. R. and work will be pushed forward as fast as possible for the completion.

Miss Mary Louise Worsley went to Tarboro Monday to accept a position as stenographer with J. A. Weddell & Co.

Miss Maud Beatty, of Tarboro, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Blanche Worsley.

Misses Vernessa and Mary Smith and Lucile Cobb have returned to Greenville after spending several pleasant days with friends and relatives here.

Among the many that have left during the past week for the exposition were Henry Harris and wife, John King Jr., and wife, of Falkland township, J. M. Parker and wife, ex-sheriff Edwards and many others, of Snow Hill. May be we will all get there some time.

Come on With Your Guess.

Remember you cannot make a guess for the Parker Fountain Pen at Reflector Book Store after Sept. 20th. Come on with your guess. Anybody who wants to do so, whether in town or country, can take a guess. See the announcement on third page.

Signs of Long Life.

"In the medical world," said a well known veteran doctor of Tioga yesterday, "it is a generally accepted fact that every person bears physical indications of his prospects of a long or short life. A long lived person maybe distinguished from a short-lived person at sight. In many instances a physician may look at the hand of a patient and tell whether he or she will live or not. The primary conditions of longevity are that the heart, lungs and digestive organs as well as the brain should be large. If these organs are large the trunk will be long and the limbs comparatively short. The person will appear tall in sitting and short in standing. The hand will have a long and somewhat heavy palm and short fingers. The brain will be deeply seated, as shown by the office of the ear being low. The blue or brown hazel eye, as showing an intermission of temperament, is a favorable indication. The nostrils, if large, open and free, indicate large lungs. A pinched and half-closed nostril indicates small or weak lungs. These are generous points of distinction, but, of course, subject to the usual individual exception."—Philadelphia Record.

Cut Out Dead-Beats.

Merchants in Durham and in Concord have adopted the plan of selling their accounts against non-paying customers at public auction. The threat to sell his account at auction might move some old dead beat to action, but some of them simply have no pride of character, no regard for an honest name and nothing short of a shotgun with a man who means business behind it will get a move on them. The business life of the South has been cursed with the dead-beat. He eats the grocers' stuff, wears the dry goods merchants' cloths, takes the doctors' medicine, the lawyers' advice and the editors' paper, all of which he gets for nothing, the dead-beat does. On the books of the business men of this country are multiplied thousands of dollars' worth of accounts uncollected and uncollectable.

The man who is not able to pay, who gets into hard lines through no fault of his own, who hits the rough places hard and falls, deserves all sympathy and the old world, rough as it is always, has a helping hand for the straight and honest man who "gets up against it," but we are writing these few lines not about the unfortunate, honest man, but against the pesky old dead-beat, the fellow who lives better than does the hardworking man whose bread he eats. He is the fellow that we are saying these things about, and right here we feel the need of some sound, emphatic words, regular "hoss words." Newspaper words that the women and children are supposed to read are not equal to the occasion when something is to be said about that parasite on the business body—the dead-beat. He has robbed honest men of what is justly due them too long. Put him in disrepute. Close your church doors against him when he applies for membership, make him a social outcast, deny him a place at the political pie counter and let him die without benefit of clergy and he buried without ceremony, and the memory of him be blotted out, for he has been and is the curse of the business life of this our good country.—Exchange.

The Negro Went Back.

An interesting incident in Stuyvesant Fish's career as president of the Illinois Central Railroad is being told in Wall street. Mr. Fish got a job for a young negro as porter in one of the pullman cars. The porter, on a trip over an Eastern road, threatened to thrash a man who was annoying a girl passenger. The girl was traveling alone, and the man had been drinking. The offensive passenger was a near relative of one of the officers of the road, and a few days after the incident the porter was discharged by the Pullman company. The young negro wrote to Mr. Fish to let him know that he hadn't lost his job through any fault of his own. Mr. Fish then wrote a letter to Robert T. Lincoln, president of the Pullman Company, explaining the circumstances and notifying him that unless the negro was reinstated within a certain number of hours the Pullman service on the Illinois Central would be terminated. The negro went back.—New York Press.

BROUGHT BACK TO LIFE.

Electrocuted, He Was Restored.

That Mr. Puck Ballance, who is employed at the electric light and water works station, is still numbered among the living is due to the presence of mind and prompt "first aid to the injured" by Mr. Matthew McDaniel, who also is employed at the station.

Mr. Ballance was fairly and surely electrocuted Sunday night, and was as completely dead when Mr. McDaniel reached him as any one that was ever ferried across the river Styx to the unknown beyond.

Follows the remarkable story:

Mr. Ballance and McDaniel were both at the station and Mr. McDaniel stepped out of the back door for a drink of water, and while there noticed a flash in the station. He hastened into the building, knowing something was wrong, and found Ballance lying on the floor, dead, and his body rigid. With a knowledge of the action following an electric shock Mr. McDaniel quickly pried open Mr. Ballance's mouth and inserted his hand to pull back the tongue of the electrocuted man, which was away down his throat. After several unsuccessful attempts he finally got the tongue back to its proper place, and by other restorative methods succeeded in relieving "suspended animation," and in a short while brought Mr. Ballance back to the land of the living and a full realization of his narrow escape.

With returned consciousness Mr. Ballance told how it happened, which was in this way: As Mr. McDaniel stepped out of the door he noted the fact that the regulator was showing trouble along the line, in fact a wire was grounded, and stepped up to adjust the trouble. As he did so his toe launched against the part of the dynamo that deals out the deadly lightning, and he received a shock. This caused him to throw his hands forward, and both caught the regulator. He knew nothing else, as he was knocked to the floor dead, and but for timely assistance of Mr. McDaniel would have remained so. The machine was carrying a voltage of 6,000, and 1,500 is sufficient to produce death.—Durham Sun.

Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves". Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. GENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn boys grown back to flesh again. That is impossible, but I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend Kodol is not only a perfect digestant, but it is a reconstructive, tissue building tonic as well. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Palpitation of the Heart and Constipation. You will like it.

FLAG AND NATION.

The National Salute and the Salute to the Union.

The question as to why the national salute consisted of twenty-one guns was put to me of the classes at Washington preparing young men for the entrance examinations for West Point and Annapolis, and, strange to say, not one of the embryonic generals or admirals "hit the nail on the head."

The "coach," who knows American history away down underneath, furnished the information that the national salute, which is the international salute—that is, the salute given to the national flag—is fixed by army regulations at twenty-one guns, and that the number appears to have been in conformity to the custom of foreign nations at the time when the number was so fixed.

The first record of a national salute is in the army regulations of 1812, which was in conformity to the number of states comprising the Union, then eighteen, but in 1813 a new regulation was made fixing the number at twenty-one, which was at that date the number of states in the Union, and which was at the same time in accordance with the king's regulations (Great Britain), which fixed twenty-one guns to be fired as a salute on the anniversary days of the birth, accession and coronation of the king, the birth of the queen, the restoration of Charles II. and the gunpowder treason.

At that date the national salute in France was also fixed at twenty-one guns, to be fired only on Corpus Christi day and on the king's birthday.

It is proper to remark, however, that the national salute of twenty-one guns at the present time appears to be peculiar to the United States and Great Britain, inasmuch as the national salute of France is 101 guns, of Germany 33 guns, and that the superlative salute in the United States is that on the Fourth of July of one gun for each state in the Union, and it is called the salute to the Union.—Washington Post.

A Touch of Nature.

"When I hear a child crying like that," said the sleepless woman as they sat still and listened, "I wish I could too. Hear the sobs, the shrieks! There is probably nothing the matter with her. She has lost her doll or her toe hurts. That's all, but she'll feel a whole lot better when she lets up. If I could scream and cry like that for awhile at night when I wake up, I believe I could go right back to sleep again."—New York Press.
