FOUND IN THE WOODS.

Unable to Talk or Make Her Identity Known.

Elizabeth City, N. C., Sept. 23.—News from Camden County has just been received in this city of the finding on Sunday in the section of that county known as "Thoroughfare" Island, a young white woman who, on account of starvation and exposure, is now in a most pitiable plight, having so lost her mind that she is unable to either talk or make her identity known. The story of her finding was brought to this place today by a reliable person who had been in that county, and is as follows:

During the last several days residents residing near this Island have been hearing a peculiar cry, which resembled that of a panther more than a human, and Sunday a party started out to investigate. Armed with guns and axes the men searched the entire territory, which is about six acres in size, but nothing was seen of the "thing" which had had been making the peculiar noise. About this time someone suggested to set up a yell, which suggestion was acted upon, and in a few seconds a response was heard in the distance. The men then divided themselves so as to form a circle and the spot from which the noise came was closed in.

Preparing to fire upon the object, which all hands thought to be a panther, the men dashed upon the poor demented creature lying upon the ground, with only a scant supply of clothing. An attempt was made to hold a conversation with her, but only a few moments sufficed to impress upon the men that reason had vanished. The woman was then carried to the home of a physician residing at Indian town, near the woods from which she had been rescued, where everything is being done to restore her mind. Those who have seen her are unable to identify who she is. The noise which caused the search had been heard about ten days.

Some are of the opinion that the woman had been carried to this lonely spot for the purpose of doing away with her. It is reported that she appears to be about eighteen years old and is rather good-looking.

Bad Debt Collection Agencies Needed in Every County.

There ought to be more "bad debt collection agencies" established. There should be at least one in every county to get after the dead beats and give them the publicity that their "business" deserves. There isn't a dead beat on earth who wants his business advertised. To give him publicity hurts his business, but when you hurt his business you benefit in the same proportion legitimate business interests and help to bring about conditions under which no margin is needed for loss on the "sick ducks" known as dead beats, and the honest man who pays his debts would therefore not be required to pay profit enough on his purchases to pay the accounts of the dead beats. Bad debts should be collected, if possible, but if they can't be collected they should be sold at public auction, after being advertised in such a way as to give the dead beats the kind of publicity that they deserve. We are glad to note that the press and business men of this State are getting right square in behind the dead beats and are making them squirm as the light is turned on and their "business" exposed.—Marshville Home.

The Passing of the Telegraph Strike.

The utter futility of the telegraph strike movement should be apparent to all thinking persons engaged therein. No candid mind, it would seem, can reject the conclusion of its ephemeric nature. When at length in the returning light of reason and the evolution of common sense, this view of the situation dawns upon the mind of the men and women who are now but juggling with existence itself, the folly of longer maintaining the grotesque attitude assumed in their relations with the telegraph companies will undoubtedly stand forth in such a sense of discouraging perspective as to make those compromised feel like the proverbial "thirty cents." No "bill of rights" is involved in this struggle. A species of self-deception to employ no harsher term, has actuated those who have abandoned their keys, as well as the chiefs and managers who also, more to their discredit, have proved false in their relations with employing interests. The awakening will be a sad one; it is already beginning to show baneful results in suicidal mania, and here and there, suffering and misery, bound to become intensified as time progresses and the gaunt form of hunger and want draws remorsefully nearer and nearer.

While it must be said that the rank and file in going on strike broke away from all restraint, thus showing inadequacy in the strength, power and discipline of the organization to hold its membership in control, without which its usefulness is rendered nugatory and unavailing, at the same time the action of the leaders has been one given to duplicity and falsity of statement. It is time that a few facts regarding the telegraphic situation were plainly spoken so that the striking employees, as well as the general public may arrive at a correct estimate of the condition of affairs.

It has been claimed that ninety-five per cent of the operating forces of the two telegraph companies went out and are still on strike, and that in consequence the service is so crippled as to be unable to handle its business. This is not true, and those who originally made and are reiterating this statement, as it appears from day to day in the daily press, know perfectly well that it is spurious and given out with deliberate intent to deceive; to mislead not only the strikers themselves, and thereby cause them to keep up their courage, but also to lead the public to believe that the strike reflects practically a unanimous expression of feeling among telegraphers, and that the companies have been given such a staggering blow, that recovery, under the circumstances, is doubtful.

The facts are that when the walkout occurred the places of many of the strikers were filled at once, temporarily of course by officials of the companies, most of whom are expert telegraphers, and who did excellent service at the key from which they graduated, for several days, following the outbreak. This experience, demonstrating the capacity of telegraph officials to successfully meet an emergency, was witnessed not alone here in New York, but everywhere throughout the country in all of the cities and towns wherever such procedure became necessary. These able, willing and zealous workers, aided by the active efforts of the large body of operators who remained loyal, those who represent the solid reserve strength of the companies under all circumstances and conditions, constituted such an inviolable working force as to prove conclusively that fifty conscientious men at the key could perform the work of seventy-five or even one hundred average members of the force, such as were employed previous to the strike, who were not imbued with the same motives for well doing. Only one conclusion can be deduced from these facts and that is the spirit of unionism was being felt in the operating room in opposition to the best interests of the telegraph companies which gave its members employment and paid them their wages. In other words, experience has proved that the existence of unionism so far as the telegraph is concerned is an element of disloyalty, finding expression both in sentiment and in action, and that its presence and teachings must be forever banished from the telegraphic ranks.—Telegraph Age.

MOVEMENTS OF THE PEOPLE.

Those Who Come and Go—Some Know You—Some You Know.

Miss Nannie Wilson left this morning for Panacea Springs.

Mr. McG. Erul is having additional rooms built to his residence on Dickinson avenue.

L. A. Sugg, Jr., who had been spending a few days here, left this morning for Waycross, Ga.

Mrs. G. B. King and children, of Washington City, who have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. King, left this morning.

Three Campaigns for President.

Mr. Bryan, it is reported, will in a few days announce his willingness to be the Democratic candidate for President in 1908. If Mr. Bryan takes a stand, his hold upon the party in most of the sections of the country will be such as to make it exceedingly difficult to organize a successful movement against him.

If Mr. Bryan runs for President in 1908, it will be his third contest for that office. He will then be the fourth man to make three campaigns for the presidency. His predecessors in that distinction were Jackson, who ran three times, being elected twice and once defeated; Van Buren who ran three times, was elected once and defeated twice; and, Cleveland, who ran three times, was elected twice and defeated once. Clay ran twice, being defeated both times, and was a candidate before nominating conventions in other years, and Blaine made two or three unsuccessful efforts for the nomination, but only one actual campaign before the people.

If Mr. Bryan should be nominated next year he would be the only person in the political history of the country to have been nominated for President for the third time after having been defeated in two elections.—Wall Street Journal.

Strays Taken Up.

I have at my home on Pitt street, 3 cattle that strayed into my lot on the night of Friday Aug. 16 1907 which I've had advertised since that time. The owner having not called for them I shall offer them at public auction at the court house door on Wednesday, Oct. 9th, 1907, owners can recover same by calling for them and paying feeding expenses, etc. H. C. Foreman, Sept 18, 1907.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes from a Rustling Town Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C. September 24, 1907.

The bridge down near the residence of Mr. Sherrod Moore is in a deplorable condition. Should anyone fall in the hole on the side walk they would receive serious injury, if not be fatally hurt. We call attention of our city fathers to the fact.

There are many strangers, both young ladies and young men, attending the various schools of our town.

We have heard nothing from the electric light commission. How about it, brethren?

Mrs. W. J. Hemby received a phone message Sunday from Farmville announcing the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. Florence Burnette, of that place.

J. W. Alexander, our chief, went to Kinston Monday after a prisoner for our constable who was somewhat indisposed.

The firm of Kittrell & Taylor, now doing a mercantile business in Winterville, have made arrangements to move here October 1st. They have rented one of the large stores in the Smith brick block.

Out of 41 business houses in the town of Ayden there is not one vacant. The cry is for more.

Ayden has one of the best paying banks in the State. Watch its reports as published in the Ayden department of The Reflector.

There were very many people from the country to attend services in the Free Will Baptist church last Sabbath.

The washing machine business seems to be demanding no little concern among many of our neighbors and friends.

Since the stock law has been in vogue our streets present a much cleaner appearance.

The graded school opened yesterday with all the teachers present and a large enrollment of students.

Miss Sallie Dixon and Master Jack Holton, from near Ridge Spring, left here on the train Monday to spend the day in Greenville.

Many of our people are attending court this week.

S. M. Smith and son, of Fort Farmwell, have been visiting the family of J. A. Harrington.

Mrs. B. F. Manning and children are visiting relatives in Craven county.

W. E. Hooks has just returned from a prolonged visit to Raleigh.

Our cotton market is getting to be a little lively. Upward of one hundred bales were sold here during the past week and they brought fair prices, too.

Miss Eugene Morrison, of Hyde county, was here on a short visit to friends. She formerly conducted a millinery store in Ayden.

Fon Jenkins and J. W. Taylor are a pair. What one can't tell, the other won't.

We feel just as if our best girl had gone back on us, or else that we have gone back on her. It's a case of jim-jams bad. That's what's the matter with these items.—[Nothing wrong with the items. Must be your gizzard.—Ed.]

OPERA HOUSE.

"The Girl of the Sunny South."

In the craze for sensationalism, modern dramatic authors proceed to extremes and produce scenes that are repulsive to even the most sensational loving theatre goer. This is amply proven by the fact that plays which depend entirely upon incidents of this class are being rapidly withdrawn from the stage through want of patronage. In the successful comedy-drama "The Girl of the Sunny South" morbid sensationalism is happily not in existence, and its place is taken by a stirring story of heart interest, brimful of comedy and bright specialties. From the rise of the curtain, which starts with the old quaint melodies of the South, the merriment commences with a constant stream of mirth, music and interesting dialogue, continues until the concluding scene. The cast is a capable one and is headed by the clever comedienne Corinne Runkel. Special scenic effects which depict life in the Old South are carried and serve to give atmosphere to that of romances. At the Opera House Friday night, Sept. 27.

There is joy indescribable in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Garden over the arrival of a son this morning.

The Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company's two houses, the "Gum" and the Star, are leading the entire market both in size of sales and prices obtained.

Those people who favor the Clayton gentleman for Governor can blow their own horns with grace and ease. The mountain people can look upon a Craig and rejoice in the beauty of manliness. The Rockingham section may hope to Reid their title clear to a candidate; but we folks in this belt desire to establish a Kitchen—clean and wholesome—which is essential to every well-regulated household. The Democratic household, in North Carolina, needs just such a Kitchen, to cook the Republican's goose.—Durham Sun.

Open Friday Night.

The theatrical season will open in Masonic Temple opera house on Friday night, 27th, with "The Girl of the Sunny South," a thrilling and amusing drama. The opening should be greeted by a large audience. Seats will go on sale Thursday at Reflector Book Store.

We are now enrolling music pupils. Persons interested would do well to see Supt. H. B. Smith at an early date. 5 Swks

Admiral Dewey expresses opposition to the United States parting with the Philippines. After the admiral's noted fight and victory in Manila bay he naturally feels a personal interest over there, but this country made a bad bargain when it secured possession, or rather title, to the islands.

His friends throughout the country are much concerned over the reported condition of the health of ex President Grover Cleveland. If these reports are true, disease is making such rapid inroads on his constitution as to cause apprehensions that the end is not far distant. Without exception he is America's greatest living man.

On Sunday the Wilmington Morning Star celebrated its fortieth anniversary. Mr. W. H. Bernard has been at the helm through all these years, and both he and the paper have had a remarkable career. The editor and the Star are both proud of its age, as they have a right to be, as well as for the splendid record of usefulness the paper has made. It is the oldest daily paper in the State.

HOW THEY DINED.

Methods of the English at Table in the Seventeenth Century.

The old English had three meals a day, of which the chief meal was taken when the work of the day was finished. The first meal was at 9 o'clock, dinner was about 3 o'clock, and supper was taken just before bedtime. The Normans dined at the old English breakfast time of a little later and supped at 7 p. m. In Tudor times the higher classes dined at 11 and supped at 5 o'clock but the merchants seldom ate their meals before 12 and 6 o'clock. The chief meals, dinner and supper, were taken in the hall by the old English and the Normans for the parlor did not come until the reign of Elizabeth. The fast did not become a regular until quite lately, and in the Oxford Dictionary as the date of the invention in which the word "occure" became the seventeenth century, for Pepys his draft of half wine or a dram place of a day, and my LW. both the and Carving was then a fine art. The guest brought his own knife and spoon, for the small fork was not introduced into England until Thomas Corbete of Odoome published his "Crudities" in 1611. Pepys took his spoon and fork with him to the lord mayor's feast in 1663. The absence of forks led to much stress being laid upon the act of washing the hands before and after meals and to the rule that the left hand alone should be dipped into the common dish, the right hand being occupied with the knife.

The perfect dinner at the best time of English cookery consisted of three courses, each complete in itself, and terminated by a subtlety or device, the whole being rounded off with hippocras, after which the guests retired into another room, where pastry, sweetmeats and fruit were served with the choicer wines. The English were essentially meat eaters, and it was not until the time of the Commonwealth that pudding attained its extraordinary popularity. Indeed the first mention of the buckfeast at St. Bartholomew's hospital did not occur until 1740, and in 1712 is an item of 5 shillings for ice.—London Times.

When They Know It All. The proud father includes among his boasts the following school essay of his young hopeful: "A horse gets up by giving a sudden jump to its front legs and then gets on its hind legs. A cow drinks by putting its mouth in the bucket and sucks the water. A duck picks up the food by its bill, then throws his head back. Maple leaves begin to bloom about the 1st of May. A locomotive while going around a corner bends very much to the inside. A passenger train when about to stop the wheels of the locomotive stop revolving and slides along the tracks. A locomotive has to be very much heavier than the train to overcome the weight of the train against it. Because when a body gets a-moving it has a tendency to keep moving."—New York Post.

Amateur Doctors. There was an ominous stillness in the house as the great physician entered and made his way to his patient's room. Hastily he made his examination, his eyes showing the deep sympathy he felt. "Madam," he said, "I am indeed sorry to see you in such a condition as this. What has happened? Have you been run over by a motor car?" With infinite difficulty and obvious pain the patient roused herself, and the white lips slowly moved. "No, doctor," she moaned, "but I fainted in church and was brought to by some friends who have been to studying first aid to the injured." Then the great physician took out his notebook and entered the case in the "very serious" column.—London Telegraph.

Had Something Else. An old darky in Richmond once experienced considerable difficulty in securing the sum due him from a prominent business man whose stable the negro had whitewashed. One afternoon as the old darky came painfully up the walk toward the house the master thereof called to him from the porch: "What's the matter, Mose? Got the gout?" "No, sah," came in respectful tones from Mose. "Ps got de bill tones from Mose." Exchange.

CHANCE IN LIFE.

An incident in the life of a man. It showing on what a slender thread fate may hang. To a New York newspaper one day, a western millionaire said: "So far from feeling blue, as more like a yellow streak I one day about twenty years ago in San Francisco.

"I stood outside of a restaurant without a dime, but was indulging in an optical feast, gazing at the display of good things, garnished and altogether lovely, in the window of that food shop. The song, rather, its refrain, 'Thou Art So Near and Yet So Far,' was whispered to me by the gaunt brownie of hunger. Then a prosperous looking man who was flipping a half dollar in his hand dropped the coin, which tinkled through an iron grate and fell into the cellar below.

"The man gave an almost unconcerned glance in the direction the coin had gone and then walked away, humming a popular tune. "I was determined to have that coin. The occasion was one of those frequently spoken of as a 'ground hog case.' I was out of meat, also bread, and needed that half dollar in my business.

"I spoke to the proprietor of the place, told him that I had dropped a five dollar goldpiece through the grate and asked if I might go and retrieve it. "Certainly," he said, and he gave me a hatchet with which I might remove a wooden bar that had been nailed across a door leading from the basement to the opening under the grate. "There was much litter and dust down there, and, scratching for the coin, I found many others that I been lost in a similar way. Thus I cleaned up $8 from the prospect hole. That amount supplied me with a place in which I could exercise my ablebodied appetite. It also gave me the entry to a clean shirt and a proportionate supply of self and self reliance. I visited the influence and affluence that men do not meet in the immediate neighborhood and I have not been seriously since that date. Thus you may thread off a chance in life."

He Wasn't Afraid. Little Tom and his younger sister were going to bed without a light. "No, my son," replied the mother, "the lady should always take the lead." "I thought so," said Tommy dolefully; "go ahead, Sue."—Pearson's Weekly.

Angelic Bore. Not one man in 500 pictures his future wife in the surroundings of the ordinary girl. Where is the Adam who dreams of meeting his Eve, in short of skirt and strong of arm, in the hockey field or striding over the turf with a golf ball or plunging madly after a tennis ball? On the contrary, he pictures her clad in "something soft and clinging," a being more angel than woman, who as a daily companion would undoubtedly prove the most withering bore a man could be cursed with.—London Thron.

The vacation we miss is the one we would have enjoyed the most.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased part of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional means. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. GENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

FREAKS OF SPORT.

How the Geese Beat the Turkeys in a Ten Mile Race.

The history of sport is made fascinating by many strange incidents. From the days when John Mytton accepted a dare to hunt over frozen fields in his nightclothes at midnight up to the last election the annals of wagers are full of the most extraordinary incidents.

No more curious examples of one of these side issues of sport can be found than is offered by a match made when George IV. was still Prince of Wales. The match was a famous one in its day from its exceptional nature, the parties engaged in it and the unexpected denouement. The Hon. George Hanger, afterward Lord Coleraine, was one of the celebrated and eccentric personages of the day. At one of the gay parties at Carleton House Mr. Hanger was led, in the course of the conversation, to declare that a turkey could travel faster than a goose. The Prince of Wales, who had great confidence in his judgment as to all matters of "wind, limb and speed," agreed with him in this declaration. A Mr. Berkeley differed from them, and a match was at once arranged. Twenty turkeys were entered against twenty geese. The distance to be traveled was ten miles. The race was for £500. Indeed, the confidence in the turkeys was so great that odds of 2 to 1 were offered—and taken—that these birds would win. The prince at once arranged to have twenty of the finest and gamest turkeys collected. At the time and place appointed he met Mr. Berkeley with his entries of geese. The race began. From the start there was every indication that the turkeys would come in winners "hands down" or wings down. They tripped onward at a brisk pace, which the geese, with their heavier waddle, were not able to equal. Indeed, at the end of three hours the turkeys were leading by two miles. But night was falling. As the light grew less the turkeys displayed signs of uneasiness. They began to look at the trees that appeared by the wayside and edged toward them.

The prince, with a pole to which was fastened a piece of red cloth, did what he could to urge them forward. First one escaped and, raising itself to a pendant limb, settled itself down comfortably. This one was no sooner dislodged than another established itself in a like manner. Barley scattered along the road did not aid in the least. The turkeys had concluded that it was time to turn in, and turn in or turn out they did. In a few minutes all of the twenty were roosting in trees, from which it was impossible to drive them. Meanwhile the geese came lumbering on. They slowly passed their slumbering competitors. The race finished with the geese first and the turkeys "nowhere."—George Hibbard in Metropolitan Magazine.

The Nose Lasts Longest.

Bone and cartilage enter so largely into the structure of the nose and determine its characteristics that it undergoes little perceptible change, as a rule, with the lapse of years. The brow becomes wrinkled, and crow's feet gather round the eyes, which themselves gradually grow dim as time rolls on. Cheeks lose the bloom which cosmetics cannot replace and lips their fullness and color. The chin, dimpled in youth, develops angularities or globularities, as the case may be, and the eyebrows become heavy with the crop of many years' growth. The nose shows no mark comparable to these familiar facial indications of the approach of old age and practically enjoys immunity from the ravages which time makes on the other features of the face. Next to the nose, probably the ears, as a rule, show the fewest and least obvious signs of old age.

Waters of the Oceans.

The oceans occupy three-fourths of the surface of the earth. A mile down in the sea the water has a pressure of a ton to every square inch. If a box six feet deep was filled with sea water, which was then allowed to evaporate, there would be two inches of salt left in the bottom of the box. Taking the average depth of the ocean to be three miles, there would be a layer of salt 440 feet thick covering the bottom in case all the water should evaporate. In many places, especially in the far north, the water freezes from the bottom upward.

Reason For His Absence.

"I never see Crockett down here any more," said the artist as he took a seat in the most comfortable chair. "Why is it? It used to be that I never came down but Crockett was here. If he wasn't actually here, a knock at the door, and Crockett."

"He came down not long ago," she exclaimed, "and said he was awfully hard up. I offered him a five, and he took it. That's why"—New York Press.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never, when your lungs are coughed—even from a simple cold—should you always heat, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stuporifying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label. If poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for the very reason others, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must be law to be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated. ### TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Ches. M. Stieff, and if business are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a "hanging out place," I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225.00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350.00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage. Very resp.,
