

A NEW DEPARTMENT FOR STUDY OF INJURIOUS INSECTS.

Entomologist Appointed For Agr. College Experiment Station.

Farmers, fruit growers, truck gradeners, and in fact all who are interested in agriculture in North Carolina should be interested to learn that the A. & M. college and Experiment Station has established a new department for the teaching and study of insects. This is not a new line of work for the State, as the State Entomologist of the Department of Agriculture at Raleigh has, for a number of years, conducted the work of the inspection of orchards and nurseries, and undertaken investigation and control of certain injurious insect pests. There must be, however, many problems that the State Entomologist has not, and may not, be able to undertake.

The new Entomologist, R. I. Smith, at the A. & M. college and Experiment Station at West Raleigh comes from Georgia where he held the position of State Entomologist for a number of years. In that position he was enabled to gain a wide experience in the control of injurious insects of the Southern States.

In taking up the work in North Carolina the Entomologist desires to obtain the cooperation of the farmers and fruit growers of the State. Letters and correspondence are the best means to this important end, and it is his earnest desire that everyone will feel free to write for information. Specimens of insects, their eggs or cocoons, together with samples of the work of injurious forms should be sent with the letters. Insects should always be sent separately in a tight wooden or tin box plainly labelled with the name and address of the sender.

Experimental work looking toward the control of some important insect pests will be taken up by the entomologist, and letters from farmers and others over the State about the principal insects will greatly aid him in selecting lines of work that will be of greatest benefit.

The State Experiment Station work in all its branches, is for the benefit of the citizens of North Carolina. This is perhaps particularly true with investigations of injurious insects. Statistics show that insects destroy about 10 per cent. of all agricultural products each year. Hence very little thought is needed to make one realize the importance of insect control.

Insects injuring household goods, stored products such as corn and small grains, garden, field crop, and fruit tree pests, all help to cause the annual loss. Most crops for this year are practically beyond damage from insects for this year, except perhaps cotton and some late garden crops. During the past summer, however, much injury has no doubt been caused by various insects of the farm and orchard.

Letters concerning such damage will be welcomed by the entomologist. Furthermore in many cases he may be able to suggest methods for preventing the re-appearance and damage from such insects next year.

All citizens of North Carolina should grasp this opportunity of getting information and assistance entirely free of cost. All packages should be addressed to:

R. I. SMITH, Entomologist, Agr. Experiment Station, West Raleigh, N. C.

TRAINS TO RALEIGH FAIR.

Over Norfolk & Southern Railway.

The Norfolk & Southern railway will operate two trains each day, 16th and 17th, over this division of their road to the Raleigh fair.

One train leaves Washington at 7 a. m. and will only stop at Chocowinity and Greenville. This train leaves Greenville at 7:55 a. m. and the fare is $3.25 including admission to fair grounds, arrives Raleigh 11:20 a. m. Returning leaves Raleigh 5:30 p. m.

Another train leaves New Bern at 6:30 a. m. and after passing Chocowinity will make stops at Bryan, Grimesland, Simpson, Arthur and Farnville, reaching Raleigh at noon. Returning leaves Raleigh at 6 p. m.

Parties can go 16th and return 17th if desired, but tickets are not good for return after 17th. Those going from Greenville must take the 7:55 trail, as the other train will not stop here.

Leave Your Money Home.

Those who contemplate going to the State fair this week should only take along what money is necessary for the trip. Don't carry a lot of money just because you have it. The fair is going to be infested with professional pick pockets. They did a flourishing business at the Winston fair last week, and there will be plenty of victims at Raleigh if they have the money in their pockets.

Dobbin & Ferrall's Invitation.

Dobbin & Ferrall, Raleigh's leading dry good merchants, invite all visitors to the State fair this week to call at their store. You will find the invitation printed elsewhere in this paper. A visit to their store will be interesting, for they carry a stock that is unsurpassed in the State.

Clerk Superior Court.

Press Breaks.

Just after the printing of Saturday's edition of The Reflector had been started, the breaking of a rod in the press put it out of commission for the time. But for the kindness of Mr. Henry T. King in permitting the use of his press and helping us with the work the paper could not have been sent out Saturday evening, as it was too late in the day to get the broken rod repaired in time.

MOVEMENTS OF THE PEOPLE.

Those Who Come and Go—Some Know You—Some You Know.

Mrs. J. J. Laughinhouse returned Sunday evening from Raleigh.

Mrs. Wade Anderson, of Wilson, is visiting her sister, Mrs. H. L. Carr.

Dr. W. H. Bagwell returned Sunday evening from Baltimore and Norfolk.

District Attorney Harry Skinner left this morning for Elizabeth City.

Mrs. Harry Skinner went to Norfolk today.

Charles Skinner went to Scotland Neck today.

W. H. Kilpatrick went to Oak City today.

P. T. Anthony went to Robertsonville today.

Marriage Licenses.

Opera House Tonight.

Those favorites, the Four Pickerts, arrived today and will begin their three nights engagement in the opera house tonight. The opening play will be "Pawn Ticket 210."

The Electric Theatre opens tonight at 7:30, which gives plenty of time to see the moving picture show before going to the opera house.

A MODEL FARMER.

Mr. J. E. Speight Farms Right.

Pitt county ought to have more farmers like Mr. J. B. Speight, of Contentnea township. He farms not on the extensive but on the intensive plan. One of his ideas is not so many acres, but do plenty of work on every acre planted and make each acre produce what it ought to. This year he planted a total of only 42 acres and on those he and his two sons, with an occasional hired hand, worked four teams. Only about 10 acres to the team may look like small farming to some people, but Mr. Speight will make more on his 42 acres this year than many 100 acre farms have made. He says his idea for next year is to plant only 8 acres to the team.

Mr. Speight uses improved machinery and believes in cultivating thoroughly and the cleanliness and improved condition of his farm shows the wisdom of his method. He is also careful as to the quality of his crops, especially as to cotton. He plants cotton known as Speight's prolific, a variety improved by himself, and it is superior both in staple and productiveness. On 14 1/2 acres this year he expects to get above 18 bales, though the season has been very adverse. He also finds ready sale at good price for all the seed coming out of his cotton.

Weather.

Fair tonight and Tuesday, frost tonight, warmer Tuesday.

Solves the Labor Question.

What State has the best cotton pickers? A Newberry, South Carolina, correspondent of the Columbia State says that this record will take the cake:

Mr. Graham, aged 43, in two days picked 423 pounds; Mrs. Graham, aged 33, besides doing the cooking for the family, picked 277 pounds; Wilbur Graham, aged 16, picked 457 pounds; Loney Graham, aged 14, picked 591 pounds; Clarence Graham, aged 12, picked 310 pounds; O. C. Graham, aged 10, picked 225 pounds. Who can beat it?—Raleigh News and Observer.

This is one man who has solved the labor question. With a family who can pick cotton like that he need not care anything about outside help.

Mr. George Smith, of Livermore, Ky., was shot this morning, carries a victory cut out from a tree in Westmoreland county, Virginia, and presented to Jefferson Davis by a merchant. Mr. Davis gave the cane to Mr. Smith. It bears the inscription, "To Jefferson Davis, patriot, statesman, and conqueror of his country." Another such cane is carried by Mr. John M. Campbell, the Washington lawyer. His father the Hon. James Campbell, and Jefferson Davis were members of Pierce's Cabinet, and Mr. Davis presented Mr. Campbell a cane on March 4, 1853, which the father always carried, and which the son is now proud to carry. The cane, a hickory one, bears the inscription, "Jefferson Davis to his friend James Campbell, March 4, 1853."

Going to the Fair.

If everybody goes who has expressed an intention of doing so, the State fair at Raleigh will largely depopulate this section on Wednesday and Thursday. Hon. W. J. Bryan will speak there Thursday.

A Marvel of Surgery.

A marvel of surgery was shown to the French Academy of Medicine by Dr. Delair recently. A patient had lost his chin, part of his lower jaw, his lip, a portion of his tongue and his nose owing to the explosion of a gun which he was firing. An apparatus of four pieces has been made for him, which makes all possible his loss practically invisible. The chin and lower lip, with a plate held on them, are made of gutta serena rubber, the necessary teeth, nose and jaw have been supplied, and the patient can himself remove and replace the apparatus, which weighs only a trifle.

The Richest Indian.

Pahomataha, former chief of the Osages, is said to be the richest Indian in the world. His wealth is estimated at $2,000,000 and that of his family, consisting, besides himself, of three wives and seventeen children, at $10,000,000. The riches of these aborigines are the result of the discovery of oil and gas on their lands. The old chief's monthly income from oil and gas royalties alone is $30,000. He lives in a miserable log hut eighteen miles from Tulsa, I. T., and derives no real benefit from his large revenue.—Argonaut.

A Lobster Monstrosity.

Charles A. Chase of Bath captured a freak in the lobster line not long ago while fishing ten miles east of Seeguin. He hauled in a lobster which measured thirty-two inches and weighed thirteen pounds. The shell was covered with barnacles and was judged by old fishermen to be at least ten years old. It was the largest lobster caught in that vicinity for many years.—Kennebec Journal.

Miss Blanch Pickert with Four Pickert's Company. Begins three nights engagement in Masonic Temple Opera House Monday, 14th.

Octogenarian Celebrates Birthday.

Mrs. Martha A. Tucker, who lives at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. J. B. Speight, in Contentnea township, celebrated her 82nd anniversary on Sunday. Mrs. Tucker is widow of the late Mr. Frank Tucker. One of her brothers now living in Texas is 84 years old. She is remarkably well preserved, and yet very active for a woman of such advanced age.

In honor of Mrs. Tucker's birthday an elegant dinner was served at the home of Mr. Speight. Besides Mr. Speight's family and Mrs. Tucker there were present Mr. and Mrs. G. F. McLawhorn, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McLawhorn, Mrs. Robert Baldree, Miss Mary Kittrell, Messrs. J. H. Kittrell, J. L. Wooten and D. J. Whichard.

Federal Judge Pritchard says the books of the Southern railway cannot be examined further back than two years. Too much was being brought to light from the books.

We wonder if the Winston negro dropping dead at the sight of a telegram which a messenger boy was about to deliver to her, will be a cause to "sue the company." In these days of flimsy excuse for suits against corporations it would be no surprise.

Not only on the question of temperance, but we believe that the Western part of our State is outrunning the East in a strong and earnest educational spirit. Not too fast, Brother Johnson. Just take a run down to Pitt county if you want to see what a strong and earnest educational spirit looks like.

The Cox Mill correspondent of the Greenville Reflector writes that paper:

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough - even from a simple cold only - you should always heat, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now - a little late though - Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for this very reason mothers and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels - and none in the medicine, else it must be law on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop packages with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding by local applications, "asi they" cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

We will give One hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. GENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves - the inside nerves - mean Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves". Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write to-day for sample and free Book. We believe that they will give you every satisfaction and trust that you will recommend them to your friends. Kindly send the amount, 6 marks, by postoffice order."
The professor replied: "I have the honor to remit to you three dissertations, which will no doubt afford you the utmost satisfaction. Should you wish for more, I am at your command. The cost is 3 marks each."
By return of post came the reply: "Be good enough to return the cigars. We send herewith the cost of carriage and package. We are returning your dissertations."

On the Wrong Man.
Bret Harte was so frequently complimented on being the author of "Little Breeces" that he was almost sorry it was ever written, as was Secretary John Hay, who would prefer his fame to rest on more ambitious work. A gushing lady who prided herself upon her literary tastes said to him once: "Mr. Harte, I am so delighted to meet you. I have read everything you ever wrote, but of all your dialect verse there is none that compares with your 'Little Breeces.'" "I quite agree with you, madam," said Mr. Harte, "but you have put the little breeches on the wrong man."—Harrisburg Telegraph.

To Easyman's Discomfiture.
Mrs. Scraphard (after a tilt in which Mr. was not without honors)—Mrs. Easyman, across the way, has got a bargain of a husband.
Mrs. Scraphard—So? Well, then, Mrs. Easyman is proving to the world that there is at least one woman who can drive a bargain.—Norristown Times.

A Curious Stage Custom.
It is not generally known that the last three or four words of a new dramatic production are never spoken during the period of the rehearsal of the piece. Most frequently they are never written by the author.
The superstition of the theatrical world is that it would be certain to bring bad luck to the piece if the last words were pronounced on the stage before the first night. But a play must have an end, and it should be known to all present that it is at an end, the actor or actress entrusted with the last lines usually interpolates a word or two. For instance, the actor would say, "My dear girl, my dear boy, kneel before me, that I may forgive you and bless you with—a farthing cake."—London Globe.

Accommodating.
"I shall refuse to pay for attendance," said an irate tourist who had been staying at an old-fashioned country hotel and had just been presented with his bill. "Why, the bells in the rooms are a perfect disgrace. Not one of them would ring! Everything I wanted I had to fetch myself. I must have spent some hours tugging at those bell pulls."
"It's true we have charged for attendance," said the proprietor, "but we can change that and charge you for a physical culture course."—London Graphic.

The Family Enjoyed It.
When the minister, who was a bachelor, had been helped to Mrs. Porter's biscuits for the third time he looked across the table at him, staring at him with round, wondering eyes.
"I don't often have a better supper as this, my dear," he said, his most propitiatory tone.
Rhoda's face dimpled.
"We don't, always," she said, her clear little voice. "I'm glad you came."—Youth's Companion.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

Art of Conversation as Carried on by Two Individuals.
She—I saw you on Desbrosses street this morning.
He—You saw me on Desbrosses street this morning?
"Yes, I saw you on Desbrosses street this morning."
"Who? Me?"
"Yes, you."
"On Desbrosses street?"
"Yes, sir; on Desbrosses street."
"This morning?"
"This very morning."
"Oh, come now! Do you mean to say you saw me on Desbrosses street?"
"Te he! Yes, I did."
"You did?"
"I certainly did see you on Desbrosses street."
"Go way! You didn't see me on Desbrosses street, did you?"
"Te he! Why, of course I saw you on Desbrosses street."
"You ain't fooling me, are you?"
"Of course I ain't. I saw you this morning."
"You saw me?"
"I saw you."
"On Desbrosses street?"
"On Desbrosses street."
"This morning?"
"This very morning."
"Well, well!"
"It's an honest fact. I saw you on Desbrosses street this very morning."
"Well, maybe you did."
"Of course I did."
"Maybe you did. I was on Desbrosses street this morning."—Will S. Adkins in Puck.

Information From Headquarters.
The barber, who had received a hastily written scrawl, brought it to the landlord.
"I can't read this, Mr. Hickman," he said. "Can you make it out?"
"I guess I can, Mr. De Lick," answered the landlord. "I made it out an hour or two ago. It's your bill."—Chicago Tribune.

Wireless From the Orient.
"Our country will be completely tied down by the conditions you would impose," protested the Moroccan diplomat.
"Yet why should you object to being Morocco bound?" argued the French plenipotentiary.—Kansas City Times.

Insult Plus Injury.
"Oh, you can laugh all you want to," said Green, with a show of impatience, "but I'm not as big a fool as you think I am."
"Well," rejoined Brown, "to tell you the truth, I didn't believe it could be possible."—Detroit Tribune.

More Misrepresentation.
"Bliggins is always telling something that his small boy said."
"Yes," answered the politician; "Bliggins isn't the first man to distort the facts when he gives out an interview."—Washington Star.

Within the Limit.
Redd—I see the blood thrown out by the heart travels seven miles in an hour.
Greene—That's all right. That's under the speed limit.—Yonkers Statesman.

Cutting Both Ways.
She (trying to make him jealous)—Isn't it odd that every man has a different way of proposing?
He (ditto)—Yes, and to a different girl each time.—Baltimore American.

No Postponement.
"George, dear, I'm afraid our wedding will have to be postponed."
"Impossible, darling. My creditors won't stand it."—Illustrated Bits.

The Canary Retorts.
Said the bullfrog to the canary, "I may not sing so grand, but I'm worth far more than you are—a greenback—understand!"
"That may be," said the canary, "but of all frog tribe you're the jack; you are only a common greenback—while I'm a yellowback."—Chicago News.

FIRST GLOVE WEARERS.

Gauntlets of Ancient Hunters—Saints Who Wore Gloves.

Not only on account of the intrinsic beauty of many specimens that have been preserved, but also because of the symbolism connected with them, gloves will ever have a special interest for the student of the past.

That they were worn at a very early period there is no doubt, though exactly when they first came into use it is impossible to say, for there are no actual references to them in early Greek or Roman MSS. The first mention of gloves is in the "Odyssey," in which it is stated that Laertes, the father of Ulysses, wore them on his hunting expeditions to protect his hands from the thorns, and in his "Cyropaedia" Xenophon reproaches the Persians for their effeminacy in covering their hands.

Both in the east and west the glove when once adopted soon became of importance as the recognized symbol of the transfer of property, the seller of land giving the purchaser a glove as a token of possession, for which reason it is generally supposed that in the much quoted passage in Ruth iv, verse 7, "To confirm all things a man plucked off his shoe and gave it to his neighbor," the word shoe should have been translated glove.

In Christian iconography a glove was very early associated with certain saints, notably with St. Front, who is said to have left his glove behind him after attending the funeral of St. Martha, the sister of Lazarus, and with St. Cesarius, bishop of Arles, who is credited with having sent his glove full of air to a district in his diocese suffering from a protracted calm.

A glove worn on the left hand by a saint is a token of noble birth, probably because the falcon was carried on the left wrist, and as early as the third century A. D. gloves were given by the emperor to bishops on their investiture. St. Ambrose of Milan, who died in 398, is represented in a painting now in the sacristy of the Cathedral of Aix-la-Chapelle wearing gloves on the back of which a star is embroidered. Gloves are among the emblems of St. Amadeus of Savoy, whose sister is supposed to have given him a glove she had received from the Blessed Virgin, and the story goes that St. David of Sweden when his sight was failing him from old age hung his gloves on a sunbeam, taking it for a cord.

As is well known, the throwing down of a glove was in feudal times a challenge to single combat and the picking up of that glove an acceptance of the defiance, a fact skillfully turned to account by Browning in his beautiful poem "The Glove," in which he makes the heroine dash down her glove at the feet of the lion, only to have it flung back in her face by her lover.

Knights used to wear a lady's glove in their helmets as a token that they would defend her cause against all comers, and to this day a special significance attaches to the gift of a pair of gloves from a man to a woman. The custom of taking off the right hand glove before shaking hands with a lady is probably a survival of the days of chivalry, as is also the presentation of a pair of white gloves to a judge when there are no cases to be tried at an assize as well as to the giving of black gloves to mourners at a funeral.—Mrs. Arthur Bell in Collecting.

Knotty Problem.
She was a passenger on the search for information, and as she was pretty her quest was not in vain.

"Captain," she said, "how fast can your steamer go?"
"Well," replied the man with the ornate cap, "last night we made about twenty knots an hour."
"Twenty knots!" she repeated blankly. "And what did you do with them all?"

The captain's face was one of those pictures that tell a story, but he answered promptly:
"Threw them overboard."
"Oh, fancy that, now!" she said. "What a waste of time! I thought you made the poor dear sailors untie all those knots the next day!"

Dutiful Son.
The MacTavish family were enjoying their Sabbath dinner after their five mile tramp home from the kirk, and they eagerly watched Mr. MacTavish carving the fowl, none so eagerly, however, as the dog, for that intelligent animal never took its eyes off the luscious bird. The dissection was proceeding apace when suddenly the knife of the carver slipped and sent a fragment of poultry rolling on the floor.
"Mighty me!" cried MacTavish. "The leg! Ma ain favorite bit! The dog'll get it!"
"Now, father," said the youngest offspring of the plan MacTavish; "he'll no get it. I've putten me foot upon't!"—Dundee Advertiser.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

The Truth About the Famous Basilisk of Ancient Times.

According to the ancient writers, says the Chicago News, the basilisk—sometimes called cockatrice—was a monster to be greatly dreaded. Its breath filled the air with a deadly poison and burned up vegetation, and the glance of its eye was fatal to both man and beast. The only creature that could face it and live, they said, was the cock, and travelers were advised to take loud crowing cocks with them as a protection against the monster. So much for superstition. As a matter of fact, the basilisk is a harmless lizard, living a quiet life in the woods and feeding on insects. Its appearance, however, is formidable, and it is this perhaps that gave it a bad name. It grows to a length of from twenty-five to thirty inches, including its tail, which is much longer than its body. Rising from its head and inclining backward is a broad winglike expansion, which gives it some resemblance to the flying lizard. The crest of this expansion is formed somewhat like a crown, and that gave the basilisk its name, which is from the Greek word meaning "king."

How to Remember Things.
You have all heard of tying a string around your fingers to make you remember something. And you have also heard perhaps of the man who had to tie a string around another finger to make him remember what the first string was for. But it seems that there is a better plan than that, and if you have a grandmother, and if she happens to have false teeth, you might try it with her. The editor gets the suggestion from a boy whose notions are nothing if not original. He has a grandmother, who unfortunately forgot to bring him one time a present that she had been promising, and it was then that he made the original suggestion. He told her he did not believe in the string-tying plan, but she would be sure to remember his present if she would put her false teeth in upside down.—Chicago News.

The Rhyming Game.
The game of rhyming is never old, and for rainy days there is nothing like it. There are so many topics which can be jingled into funny rhymes if the rhymers have ingenuity.

The fun consists in the head person starting the first line. The person next must give the rhyming line before a given number of seconds have passed. Usually one minute is the allotted time. Then if he is not ready any one in the company may call it out and change places.

In this way a number of clever rhymes may be forthcoming, and the game may be kept up till the ingenuity of the players is exhausted.

Conundrums.
When does a son not take after his father? When his father leaves him nothing to take.

Why are cowardly soldiers like tallow candles? Because when exposed to the fire they run.

What was it a blind man took at breakfast which restored his sight? He took a cup and saw, sir (saucer).

Why is an egg like a colt? Because it isn't fit for use till it's broken.

About Flag Signals.
The flags to be hoisted at one time in signaling at sea never exceed four. It is an interesting arithmetical fact that, with eighteen various colored flags, and never more than four at a time, no fewer than 78,642 signals may be given.

An Inscription Puzzle.

The above is a copy of the inscription on a stone erected at a crossroads. It is supposed to be the tombstone of a gypsy. It is plain English. Can you read it?

The Singing Lesson.
You pretty, pretty pussy,
With your coat of soft, warm fur,
How loudly you are singing
Your song of "Pur, pur, pur!"
I will stroke you very gently
When you sit upon my knee,
And you shall never, never know
What cross words are from me.
Now, off you go, poor pussy,
With your coat of silky fur,
To teach your baby kittens
Your song of "Pur, pur, pur!"

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas.
M. Steff, and if bachelors are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a
"hanging out place" I still call Greenville home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of Box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225 00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350 00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years.
Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' preference and interest as well as my firm's interests. Grateful of past patronage. Very respt.,
