News Notes From a Hustling Town Briefly Told

Ayden N. C. Oct. 18, 1907.

Mrs. Reuben Wall, a very estimable lady and the wife of a prosperous farmer living near here, died yesterday and will be buried today.

H. D. Lilly, of Maple Cypress, father of our townsman, F. Lilly, has been here during the week selling cotton on our market.

Anyone wishing to know the whereabouts of Fon Jenkins we are requested to state he is at the exposition, provided he hasn't been lost.

There is much complaint at the arrival of the Daily Reflector at this office. Sometimes every other night at others even later. [Things have been against us this week, Bud Joe—Ed.]

Raymond Turnage has been to Kinston.

B. F. Nunn and family went up the road Tuesday.

Mrs. Ed. Garris returned Wednesday from a visit to Kinston.

Don't forget the 4 Pickerts Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, 21, 22 and 23 in the Opera House. If you want a nice time go.

The Woman's Missionary Society will meet in the Methodist church next Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Everybody invited to attend.

G. W. Cox, of Greenville, was here Wednesday.

The Pythian banquet Wednesday evening was a delightful affair. After pleasant exercises in their hall they repaired to Hotel Blount where oysters were served in different forms and other delicacies were served.

'Tis really amusing as well as interesting at times, on our cotton market, to note the intensity with which each buyer seems imbued with his purpose to obtain the fleecy staple. Indeed it is a striking illustration of the scenes on the cotton exchange on Wall street. We have just simply got the hustlers and they are getting the cotton, for they pay the stuff that brings it.

Mrs. Agnes Blount and Miss Lee Nichols spent Thursday in Greenville.

Don't forget the 4 Pickerts, 21, 22 and 23.

James Harris from over the river was here last Saturday.

Elder T. E. Peden has returned from Nashville.

Miss Dora Hobstetter, who has been here on a visit to her parents has returned to her duties in Robt. Bruce Hospital, in Kinston.

Dr. C. A. Reddick, a practical dentist, of whom we wrote sometime since, is now located in Ayden and ready for the practice of his profession.

Illness of Dwight Ware.

Rev. W. R. Ware, pastor of Central Methodist church in Monroe, and who is well known in this city, is now in Baltimore consulting physicians regarding the condition of his little son, Dwight, who is a great sufferer with rheumatism. The little boy is seven years old and until last winter was unusually robust. During the winter he was attacked with rheumatism in an acute form, and no treatment has given him any permanent relief. His father has taken him to Johns Hopkins Hospital in the hope that the physicians there can give the little fellow relief. — Charlotte Chronicle.

Can't be Bought.

A large number of crooks have been caught up with in late months. Grafters big and little have been dragged into the limelight, and the pessimist would declare the country is rapidly going to the how wows, and the honest man is a relic of by-gone days.

Such, however, is not the case. True, more men have been caught up with of late than ever before in the length of time, but it is because the public has determined that only honest men shall hold places of distinction. Were there no sentiment against corruption and crookedness, the grafter would still be feeding from the pail of the honest man.

The country is being purified. Sentiment is changing. To be popular with his countrymen, to hold the respect of his neighbors and acquaintances a man must today be a man; a man of integrity; of honesty and of principle.

The same applies to the news paper. One often hears it insinuated that such and such a paper, because of certain policies it chooses to follow, is subsidized. The charge is usually slanderous and false.

Simply because one man is caught in a crooked game, defrauding his fellows, does not mean that all men are dishonest. And the same thing is equally true of newspapers. The fact that one will accept a subsidy from a trust does not signify that all papers are bidding for bribes.

Society is getting better each day, despite the fact that a casual glance at the number of scoundrels being caught daily, would point to general corruption. And newspapers are also becoming purer and better. Charlotte News.

His Conscience Hurts.

Last year one Chas. Chandler sued the town of Salem, alleging that he fell over an obstruction on the sidewalk and injured his eyesight. He got judgment for $200. Chandler is now living in Marion and it seems he has "got religion." Anyway the authorities of Salem last week received the following letter, addressed "To the Mayor and Committees of Salem."

"Kind Sirs: I am the fellow that brought the suit against the town of Salem for having the side walk blocked at Mr. Casey's."

"My friends, I want to beg your pardon for any mistake I made with you and am willing to make any thing straight as God may lead. May God help us and in His own time. My friends, I have seen some mistakes that I have made in regard to this matter so I beg of you to pardon and forgive me for mistakes."

"May God keep and bless us all. We are living in the last days. Be ready and watching for his coming."

"Let me hear from you soon. God bless and save the town of Salem. John. 3, 16."

Mr. Chandler didn't send any money and the practical Salem mayor wrote him that if he wanted to reimburse the town he could return such amount as the Lord directed. The beneficiaries of the damage suit industry had better sit up and take notice of this brand of religion. If it spreads it will interfere with their business. — Statesville Landmark.

WILL CONSTRUCT NEW RAILROAD

Line to Operate From Hamilton to Rocky Mount, Via Tarboro.

Dr. J. A. McLeay, Atlanta, Ga., is the promoter of a new railroad from Hamilton, Martin county, to Rocky Mount by the way of Tarboro. Dr. McLeay has corresponded with Gilliam & Gilliam, attorneys, concerning the preliminary arrangements of securing a charter and to have towns along the proposed line vote on bonuses.

Hamilton is located on the Roanoke river, and water transportation for freight could easily be secured to Norfolk. Rocky Mount, the other terminus of the line, is the division point of the Atlantic Coast Line.

The proposed line would traverse a country void of railroads and develop that section. Several construction companies are bidding for the contract.

Dr. McLeay and a party of those interested in the project will visit Tarboro within the next few weeks, when they expect to secure a charter. — Tarboro Advocate.

Resolutions of Sympathy.

Whereas, Our Supreme Ruler has seen fit to remove from our midst, our beloved companion, J. L. Sugg, we his co-workers of Greenville Chapter No. 50, R. A. M. who so keenly realize the loss of such an excellent man from among us, desire to express the sadness and sorrow over the loss of one who has endeared himself to us so much, therefore:

Resolved 1st That while we, the members of our Chapter, bow in humble submission to the will of our Supreme Ruler who doeth all things well, still the fond recollections of the past, when our companion, the just and upright, honest, Christian gentleman that he was, shall ever linger in our bosoms.

Resolved 2nd. That we extend to the wife and family of our departed companion our heartfelt sympathy in their sad hour of grief and point them to the Supreme Ruler of the universe, who hath said "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God," the one who has promised to be a father to the fatherless and husband to the widow.

Resolved 3rd. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our deceased companion, a copy sent to The Daily Reflector for publication and a copy be spread upon our record.

Sunday School Rally.

Next Sunday will be rally day of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Sunday school. An excellent program has been arranged for the exercises, and a cordial invitation to be present is extended to all. Go out and make it a big day.

Boll Weevil in Pender.

The Pender Chronicle has received several cotton bolls that have been attacked by the boll weevil. These came from the farm of Mr. J. F. Johnson about eight miles west of Burgaw. It is greatly to be regretted that this pest has made its appearance in Pender, and if there is any way to kill it out, it ought to be applied at once, says the Chronicle.

J. E. Wirslow has received a car load of horses and mules and can make it to your interest to see him. Read his large advertisement.

John Charles McNeill Has Passed Away.

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 17.—John Charles McNeill, of the Charlotte Observer staff, died at his home near Laurinburg this afternoon, after a brief illness following a year of failing health. Mr. McNeill was a writer of exceptional ability and was just preparing a book of his own poems and writings for publication at the time of his death. He won the Patterson cup for the best piece of creative literature the first year the cup was offered to North Carolina competitors. He also published his book, "Songs Merry and Sad." Mr. McNeill was at his desk on the Observer on the 10th instant.

Marrying a Girl "With Money."

When Mr. Blank was thinking of marrying a girl "with money" a friend advised against it, according to the New York Times. "My boy," he said, "before I was married my wife inherited $500 from her grandfather. The whole town knew it. When I built a store they smiled."

"His wife's money," they said. "When I built a house the same smile went round."

"His wife's money." "After awhile I took stock in the new gas and electric company."

"Ah!" said the treasurer, "I see you are investing some of your wife's money."

"All my life that poor little $500 has received the credit for everything I have been able to achieve."

As a matter of fact my wife spent the money the day she got it for a diamond ring and a piano. She lost the ring a week later, I guess some of the neighbors wished heartily that she would lose the piano."—Exchange.

Runaway Locomotive.

Wilson, N. C., Oct. 17.—At 8:30 this evening, upon the arrival of the fair special from Raleigh on the Norfolk & Southern Railroad, a negro climbed into the cab of a detached locomotive and opened the throttle. The big engine took the road creating a state of alarm, in view of the uncertainty in the mind of spectators as to what other trains might be on the track.

Another locomotive was manned and started after the runaway, and after an exciting chase of five miles succeeded in overhauling it and bringing it back.

There was no damage done, but the excursion train, which was scheduled to go east immediately upon its arrival here, was delayed an hour and a half.

The Best Paper for Family Reading.

The contents of The Youth's Companion are chosen with a view to the interest of all tastes and ages. The father, as well as the son, enjoys the tales of adventure; the mother renews her girlhood in the stories for girls, while the paper always abounds in stories, long and short, which may be read aloud in the most varied family group to the keen pleasure of all.

Full illustrated announcement of The Companion for 1908 will be sent to any address free with sample copies of the paper.

New subscribers who send $1.75 at once for 1908 will receive free all the remaining issues of 1907, besides the gift of The Companion's Four-Leaf Hanging Calendar for 1908, in full color.

The Youth's Companion, 144 Berkeley Street, Boston, Mass.

Fear of Fear.

Fear causes more injury to the world than all the earthquakes, accidents, fires and wars put together. Our worries are much more dreadful than our actual experiences.

Fear is the one thing that the financial world most fears. Panic is an acute manifestation of fear, and there is nothing from which the financial world suffers more than from the fear of panic.

A lively sense of danger is wholesome, but a constant dread that something is going to happen is paralyzing to enterprise, and debasing to the ambition of man.—Wall Street Journal.

The candidates were the busiest people at the fairs, trying to get around and shake hands with everybody.

The fairs that had Mr. Bryan as a drawing card no doubt got the worth of their money, judging from the crowds that attended.

The president's dogs have jumped a bear, but that was all. Bruin went on about his business in the tall timber.

One Dr. Andrews wants the newspaper men hung. If he could get his wish we would like to know who would be left to print his obituary.

Cotton mills help the farmer by giving them a better price for their cotton. They also help the community in which they are located by increasing the number of wage earners who in turn make more business for the merchants. These are points Greenville has not taken hold of yet.

If The Reflector saved you anything by warning you not to take any surplus money to the fair for the pick pockets to get, you might show your appreciation by bringing in part of the savings and swap it for a subscription receipt.

The question in the controversy at Wake Forest College seems to be whether the faculty or the students shall direct the policy of the college. We take it that public sentiment is on the side of the faculty.

Since Judge Boyd has decided that a convicted man is not a competent witness, the Raleigh Times might afford to shut up talking about other folks.

CONDENSED STORIES.

Story of the New York Lobby and an Honest Legislator.

Gene Wood, chief of the Albany lobbyists, told the other day what he regarded as a good joke on "Honest Dan" Bradley, a former Brooklyn senator. Senator Bradley abhorred lobbyists and side stepped every bill that had any semblance of graft connected with it; hence his sobriquet. A corporation measure was up for vote in the senate, and rumor had it that $5,000 per vote was being paid to place it on the statute books. Bradley heard of the bribery and, meeting some of the corporation lobbyists in the corridor, shook his fist in their faces and shouted:

"I might have supported this bill, but you cannot get my vote now!"

"But the corporations opposing the bill are paying $5,000 to those who vote against it," said the lobbyists. "You'll get $5,000 either way."

"Then I'll stay out of the senate chamber when the bill comes up for action," snapped the senator as he strode away.

True to his word, Senator Bradley left the senate chamber, and during his absence the bill was beaten. Bradley congratulated himself on his escape from suspicion of having accepted a bribe. He went back to his desk and there found an envelope. It contained $500.

"What's this for?" he asked of his neighboring senators.

"That's what the corporations paid for those who stayed out while the vote was being taken on that bill."—New York American.

They Walked Back.

Admiral Schley was talking about war and peace at Port Deposit, Md.

"War must still go on," he said.

"Mankind is not yet highly enough developed to be peaceful. Yet I am in favor of peace societies and peace congresses, for these things help the cause of peace along. They bring the day of universal peace a little nearer."

The admiral mused a little; then he resumed:

"Yes, we will have universal peace some day, for we all love it in our hearts. The bravest fighters in their hearts love peace with incredible devotion—with devotion as incredible as that which the pigeons of Newark had for their home."

"There was a Newark man who kept pigeons. One day he sold a half dozen birds to a Philadelphian. But the pigeons loved their former home, and the first time they were let out they flew straight back to it, covering the fifty miles in no time."

"The Philadelphian got them again, and this time he clipped their wings so that they could not fly, but he left their hutch open, and they disappeared. Nothing was seen of them for some days. Then, thin and dusty and footsore, they limped slowly into the old home in Newark."

"They had walked the whole way back."

Tribute to the Ad.

The late William Johnson of Brooklyn, the owner of Printers' Ink, was for many years a leading light of the advertising business. An advertisement writer said of him the other day:

"Mr. Johnson had a stock of advertising stories on the tip of his tongue. He used to tell them to young solicitors. He claimed that they were useful in getting business."

"One of his favorite stories was about two little children. They came to their mother one evening and asked if they might play store."

"Yes," said the mother, "but you must remember that the baby is asleep. Play store if you like, but don't make a noise. Play quietly."

"All right, mother," said the older child. "We'll pretend we don't advertise."

SWIFT ANIMALS.

A Comparison of the Speed of the Fastest Runners.

The speed of the coyote is great and has often been the subject of comment, but I think it has been overrated, says Ernest Thompson Seton in Success. After collecting data of various kinds, such as actual known records of dogs and horses, also the comparative records of dogs and hares, of horses and foxes and wolves and hounds and automobiles, I have attempted a scale of comparative speeds:

Blooded race horse covers a mile	In about	1 m. 40 s.
Frog horned antelope	1 m. 50 s.
First class greyhound	2 m. 0 s.
Jack rabbit	2 m. 10 s.
Common fox	2 m. 20 s.
Northern coyote	2 m. 30 s.
Foxhound	2 m. 40 s.
American gray wolf	3 m. 0 s.

Many hunters would set the kit fox or swift above the greyhound, especially for a short race, but I have had no personal experience with the species in a chase. The little prairie cottontail can, I believe, get away from the swift in a hundred yard dash. They cannot keep it up for long, but their initial velocity is incredible and baffles the eye. Not a leg, not a rabbit is to be seen—nothing but a white streak across the prairie, till it promptly disappears in some burrow.

What actually counts in the race is, as usual, the trifle more speed that each animal can command.

For example, the gray wolf makes 650 yards to the minute and the coyote about 700. But those fifty yards make all the difference between living and dying. That fifty yards' margin is probably the foothold on which the whole coyote race has been built up.

It is a well known principle that the special development of an animal is its most variable part. Thus the peculiar bell in the throat of a moose varies enormously, the bill of the long billed curlew, the neck feather of the ruff, the spots of the ocelot, the white bands of the skunk, the horns of the elk, are so varied that rarely two are found just alike. Speed is one of the peculiarities of the coyote, as it is of the greyhound, and we must therefore look for great variations of rate. I have selected an average for my calculations, but there are occasional individuals, coyotes of rare gifts, whose speed and endurance would put them very near the top of our scale.

At an Evening Party.

It is scarcely to be wondered at that the ambitions of the amateur vocalist generally wither up like summer flowers in wintry blasts. That is Jenkins' opinion, and the reason thereof is because a little while ago he was requested to sing at a house where the oldest daughter was slowly recovering from a nervous breakdown. The invalid was the only one present who could play, and Jenkins troled forth Tosti's "Goodbye" with all the requisite sadness and final impassioned fervor.

He finished. There was a little rustle of applause, and her mother's voice filled the awkward pause.

"There," she said, "that shows Gertie's getting better. Three months ago she'd never 'ave been able to stand that right in her ear hole, as you might say."—London Answers.

Getting an Extra Ration.

Medical Officer (going his rounds)—Well, Murphy, how are you this morning?

Private M.—Much better, sir.

M. O.—Is your appetite good?

Private M.—Yes, sir.

M. O.—Are you getting enough to eat?

Private M.—No, sir.

M. O.—What would you like in addition to your present diet?

Private M.—Another pound of bread, sir.

M. O.—That I cannot give you, as the regulations do not admit of a soldier receiving a double ration of bread in one day.

Private M. (after a moment's hesitation)—Could you not let me have the extra pound and mark it down as bread poultice?

He got it.—London Telegraph.

The Gypsies.

Gypsies first appeared in Europe about 600 years ago. They were supposed to have come from Egypt and were called Egyptians, from which fact comes their name. Now it has been proved conclusively from their peculiar language that they actually came from northern India. They first appeared in Turkey and Greece, later finding their way into the Balkan states and Hungary. From these latter countries they spread throughout Europe. Small and dark, nomadic in their habits and many of them "pettily thieving," to quote Robert Louis Stevenson, they have never amalgamated with the people among whom they dwell. However, they are credited with many good qualities by persons who have studied them sympathetically.—London News.

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "Empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas. M. Stoff, and if business is allowed to resume, the heavy term home as a "son-in-law" for "hanging out place." I still call Greenville my home, and while I had to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225.00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350.00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage.
Very respt.,
G. G. Fineman,
Box 325 Greenville, N. C.
