That Live Town Going Forward.
Bethel, N. C., October 19.

Miss Christine Stancill, one of our graded school teachers, left Friday to spend Sunday with her parents at Hill.

W. R. Britton, of Houston Texas, is visiting relatives here.

D. Mitchel, an eye specialist, of Portsmouth, Va., came here this week and will be located in Bethel a few weeks at least.

Rev. Mr. Martin is conducting a series of meetings at the M. E. church. He is an interesting preacher and has a large crowd every night.

M. O. Blount, who lost his new home last spring by fire, is rapidly rebuilding.

From observation we presume Mr. Sherrod, of Hamilton, spent a few pleasant hours in our town yesterday.

We were glad to see Prof. Raesdale Thursday, if only for a short time. That's right Prof., give us a call when you can.

Miss Mildred Arnold, Blount and Bros' popular milliner, spent Sunday out in the country with Miss Lucy Manning.

Mrs. James Martin and Mitchel and Miss Lucy Manning, Mildred Arnold, Elizabeth Jones, Leolyne Veal and W. H. Woolard made a raid on the grape vine of W. M. Staton Friday evening. They all seemed to enjoy the treat and in their behalf we extend thanks again to Mr. Staton.

To meet the demands of the cotton growers, the gins of the Bethel Mfg. Co. have been running day and night this week and cotton is moving fast. 200 bales were shipped from this point yesterday.

The third annual meeting of the stockholders of the Bethel Banking and Trust Co. was held Tuesday Oct. 15th. For the year just ending the books show a profit of over 23 per cent. $1,000 was placed to the surplus account and the rest left to the credit of undivided profits. The bank has a paid in capital of $5,600 and after being in operation only three years has a surplus of $3,000 and has a deposit of $45,000. The stockholders were well pleased with the showing and the citizens in this section are justly proud of the standing of the institution. At the meeting the following officers were re-elected: M. O. Blount, Pres., J. A. Staton, Vice Pres., and W. H. Woolard, cashier.

Does it Rain Frogs?

Positive evidence is wanting on this all-important subject. The controversy waxes warm. Where are the nature fakers, that they do not arise to explain? If left to the farmers, 99 per cent will answer—"Yes." Most naturalists say "No." Without drawing too fine a distinction, by "frogs" is meant "toads." I have seen the ground, perfectly dry for weeks, with not a toad in sight. Suddenly comes a shower, almost out of a clear sky, all over in ten minutes, leaving millions of little toads hopping around, some so small that four could sit on a copper cent without overcrowding. It is asserted that these toads are buried in the ground in dry weather, and at the first warm rain come forth. Let us have some proof. If it rains pitchforks with saw-leg handles and "blows great guns" why can't it rain toads?—New York Press.

Weather.

Fair tonight and Tuesday. Light frost in exposed places.

Coon Plays the Mischief.

When Mr. L. R. Whichard, of Whichard, went into his store early this morning, he thought from the way goods were scattered around the store that a big robbery had taken place. An investigation showed that the mischief had been done by a raccoon which had been captured a few nights before and placed in a cage in the store. The coon had gnawed out of the cage and taken a foraging trip around the store scattering everything in sight, even going into the post-office and pulling the mail out of the boxes.

Taken—My overcoat from the cool drink stand of Lance Wooten, at Warren's Chapel, 8 miles from Greenville. Coat was a long blue one with collar about 3 inches high. Finder will be awarded $5 if returned same to Charlie Jackson.

Wreck Near Greensboro.

A terrible wreck of a passenger train on the Southern railway occurred near Greensboro Friday night. Four persons were killed and a score seriously injured. Among those killed was Mr. B. Allen Bryant, representative of a Richmond paper house, who was well known to most North Carolina publishers. He was married in Asheville only a month previous to his tragic death. On the 10th inst, Mr. Bryant was in Greenville, this being one of the points he regularly visited, and spent part of the afternoon in The Reflector office. He was an excellent young man.

Visit of Former Pastor.

Dr. L. L. Nash, missionary evangelist of the North Carolina Conference, who some twenty odd years ago was pastor of the Methodist church in Greenville, spent Sunday night and this morning here as the guest of Mrs. C. J. Forbes. He preached Sunday night to a large congregation in Jarvis Memorial church. Dr. Nash's host of friends here were glad to see him.

North Carolina Superior Court

Pitt County Superior Court. Ben Stewart vs. Loula Stewart. The defendant above named will take notice that an action entitled as above has been commenced in the Superior Court of Pitt county to obtain from the said defendant a decree of absolute divorce. And the said defendant will further take notice that she is required to appear at the next term of Superior court of said county to be held on the ninth Monday after the first Monday in September 1907, it being the 4th day of November 1907, at the Court House in said county and in Greenville and answer or demur to the complaint in said action, or the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in said complaint. This the 19th day of October 1907. D. C. Moore, Clerk Superior court

Duck Goes Through Fire.

Just after the firemen had finished putting out the burning timbers at the destruction of the home of Mr. J. A. Wilson in South Greenville, Saturday, some persons walking through the rubbish saw a duck coming from beneath one of the larger timbers under the frame of the house. The duck seemed very little worried from having gone through such a hot experience while the building was burning. Policemen George Clark took charge of the duck.

The weather was a good bit colder this morning.

Postal Telegraph.

The Postal Telegraph Company that has built a line along the new Norfolk & Southern railway, will open an office in Greenville at an early day. Miss Lettie White, of New Bern, who has lately been with the Postal in Savannah, has arrived to take charge of their office here.

The Dead Beat Doesn't Want His Business Advertisement

A man who will make a debt and never pay it, or make an honest effort to pay it, or who will make a debt that he knows he will not be able to pay, is devoid of the sense of moral rectitude and deserves only the contempt of honest men everywhere. From a commercial standpoint a man's reputation for honesty is his most valuable asset, and he cannot be too careful about how he preserves this good name untarnished. For blots upon it are indelible. He may apply a coat of whitewash in the form of an occasional act of spasmodic honesty, but the black stain upon his reputation shows through the white-wash, the white wash soon wears off, leaving him as before its application, a walking advertisement of his own dishonesty.

But the honest public is getting tired of him and is determined that he shall no longer feed upon the fruits of their honest toil. He must work and pay his debts or starve. These collection agencies are organized for the purpose of looking after these leeches. One of the methods (and the most effective one) employed in dealing with this class is to advertise them—hold up their dishonest hide to public gaze—and when one moves away to send his reputation along after him. This method of procedure gets close after them—the dead beat doesn't want his business advertised—and seems productive of better results than any other method that has ever been tried.—Elkin Times.

NEW BRIDGE AT SAME PLACE.

Government Engineer Disapproved Proposed Change.

It was stated sometime ago that the boards of commissioners of Pitt and Lenor counties had jointly let a contract for erecting a steel bridge across the river at Grifton. Some citizens of that town wanted the location of the bridge changed from the present site, and sent a petition to that effect to the war department of the government. Mr. Brown a government engineer, went to Grifton last Friday to investigate the matter and decided against the new site proposed. He said he would recommend the present site or one hundred yards either side of it, but could not recommend a site within five hundred yards of the railroad bridge across the same stream. The impression is that the new bridge will take the site of the old one.

MOVEMENTS OF THE PEOPLE.

Those Who Come and Go—Some You Know—Some You Know.

J. B. Higgs went to Parmele today.

G. G. Fineman went to Rocky Mount today.

Dr. Wade Anderson, of Wilson, spent Sunday with friends here.

Miss Nellie Barnhill returned this morning from a visit to Kinston.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Mundy, of Newark, N. J., came in Saturday evening to visit Mr. and Mrs. Ola Forbes.

Misses Blanche Mayo and Novella Bunting, of Bethel, spent Sunday here with Mrs. J. S. Mooring.

Marriage Licenses.

Register of Deeds P. Williams has issued the following licenses since last report:

WHITE.

Stephen Fulford and Hattie V. Anderson.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

The Shepherd and the Wolf is a Good October Game.

The shepherd stands in a long line, one at the end of each holding each other's dress or coat. The one at the head of the line represents the shepherd. Little followers are the lambs. One or two stand apart from them, and he is the wolf. He prowls stealthily around the flock, and the shepherd calls out, "Who goes around my house this dark night?"

The other answers, "I am the wolf."

The shepherd says, "I beg of you not to hurt my lambs." The wolf then says, "I only wish for one, and I mean to have this little lamb." And he jumps at the last player in the line. The shepherd swings around to save his pet lamb, followed, of course, by the others. The wolf is sly and pretends to turn aside, only watching his opportunity to grab. When he catches the lamb she must try to slip away, and if she succeeds she in turn becomes shepherd. The wolf must then pay a forfeit and relinquish his place to the last lamb in line, taking his place.

Spanish Tag.

Spanish children play a kind of tag which they might have taken from some fairy game book if such a thing existed. One child, chosen by lot, is the moon and must keep within the shadow. The others are the morning stars and are safe only in lighted spaces. The game is for the morning stars to run into the shadow, during the moon, who, if successful in catching one, becomes in turn a morning star and passes out into the light. This, of course, leaves the one caught to act the part of the moon. As the morning stars run in and out of the moon's domain they sing over and over:

O the moon and the morning stars,
O the moon and the morning stars,
Who dares to tread—
Within the shadow?

Poor Wages.

John B. Lennon, treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, delivered recently in Bloomington an address on strikes.

Turning to the amusing features of the strike question, Mr. Lennon said:

"I remember a strike of bobbin boys. These boys conducted their fight well, even brilliantly. Thus the day they turned out they posted in the spinning room of their employer's mill a great placard inscribed with the words:

"The wages of sin is death, but the wages of the bobbin boys is worse."—New York Tribune.

A Famous Pitcher.

Elmer Stricklett, the "spit ball" pitcher, had been listening a long while in a New York club to the boasting of a rival.

"Well," he said, exhausted at last, "you are pretty good, Mike, but out in Mountain View there is a young fellow who can beat you. You'll hear from him next season. His specialty is the slow ball. This young fellow has such a slow ball that when he pitches it and sees that it is going to be hit he can run after it and fetch it back again."—Exchange.

THE SHOEMAKER SAINTS.

Story of the Roman Brothers Who Perished by the Sword.

St. Crispin and his brother, Crispinian (always associated together in the calendar), were two natives of Rome who, having become converts to Christianity, set out for Gaul to preach the faith about the middle of the third century along with St. Quintin and others. The brothers settled at Soissons, where, in imitation of the apostle Paul, they preached publicly in the daytime and worked with their hands at night, earning their own subsistence by making shoes, though nobly born. They supplied the poor at a low price, and a legend tells us that an angel supplied them with leather. The heathen listened to their instructions and were astonished at the charity, disinterestedness, piety and contempt of glory displayed in their lives, and many were converted to the Christian faith.

After they had been thus engaged for several years the Emperor Maximianus Herculeus came into Belgic Gaul, and a complaint was made to him against the brothers. He, desiring to gratify their accusers as well as to indulge his own savage cruelty, gave orders that they should be brought before Rictius Varus, the most implacable enemy of the Christians of that time. The saints bore with patience and constancy the most cruel torments and at length finished their course by being beheaded with the sword about 287 A. D.

According to a Kentish tradition, their remains, being cast into the sea, were washed ashore at Romney marsh. In the sixth century a great church was built in their honor at Soissons, and St. Eligius richly ornamented the shrine.

From their martyrdom to the present time they have been regarded as the patron saints of shoemakers, who were accustomed to honor their day (and are yet in some towns) by great festivity. One special ceremony was a procession of the brethren of the craft with banners and music, while various characters representing King Crispin and his court were sustained by different members.—St. James' Gazette.

The Laurel and the Sunflower.

The laurel and the sunflower have been found, according to Country Life, to be of the greatest use in damp situations. People who live in such spots, especially near undrained land, think there is no help for them but by removal. Successful experiments have shown that it is possible materially to improve the atmosphere in such neighborhoods by the planting of laurels and sunflowers. The former give off an abundance of ozone, while the latter are potent in destroying the malarial conditions. These two, if planted even on the most restricted scale in a garden or any ground close to the house, will be found to increase speedily the dryness and salubrity of the atmosphere.

One Boy Knew.

A teacher tells of an experience he had recently. He was put in charge of a lot of boys one day and was trying to make them understand that all good comes from one source. As an illustration he told them of building a house and putting water pipes with taps in all the rooms, these pipes not being connected with the main in the street. He said to them:

"Suppose I turn on a tap and no water comes, what is the matter?" He naturally supposed that some of the boys would answer that the water was not turned on at the main.

But they didn't. On the contrary, one boy at the foot of the class called out:

"You didn't have your water rate paid!"—London Mail.

Laissez Faire.

"Laissez faire" is a term met with frequently in books on political economy. It is not often used in conversation or in political speeches. It is a term that means to let alone, and among economists it implies that policy which does not disturb the existing order of things, but permits it to develop in its own way, trusting that society will in its own way and in its own time find a proper adjustment and balance for all its troubles.—Washington Street Journal.

The Newest Immigration.

During the half year ending June 30 emigration from Patras, Greece, to the United States has more than doubled.

The number sailing by direct steamers from ports within the district was 9,419 against 3,347 in 1906. The Austro-Americana line steamers of Trieste call every ten days and make the passage to New York in about sixteen days. The Prince line and Fabre line have also frequent direct sailings, and the new steamship Moraitis of the Hellenic Transatlantic company has a further direct service.

There has been a considerable increase in the number of emigrants from Macedonia, Turkish and Black sea ports.

The principal sources of emigration from this region are Greece, Macedonia, Turkey in Asia and the islands of the archipelago. The majority of emigrants go to Massachusetts, Illinois, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada and California.—From a Consular Report.

In the Emperor's Youth.

Francis Joseph, the aged emperor of Austria-Hungary, is the only living sovereign who can boast of having led an army in actual combat with an enemy. It was a few months before the ascension of Francis Joseph in 1848 that he turned the fortunes of the day at the bloody battle of Santa Lucia by a magnificent cavalry charge led in person by the then nineteen-year-old archduke. His dragoons crashed through the squares of the Sardinians and captured the guns which all day long had poured a murderous fire into the Austrian ranks. He escaped without a scratch, though men fell like flies around him.—Providence Journal.

There! Teddy killed a bear.

This week at Charlotte will wind up the fairs. Then there will be something else.

We will all have to apologize for those bear hunting jokes at the president's expense. He kept on until he got the game.

He killed a bear and saved his reputation, the president will have a better feeling for his Thanksgiving proclamation.

It is the duty of the town officials to make no delay in arranging for sufficient water pressure in every part of the town reached by the water mains. The lack of pressure at Saturday's fire was due to some cause that ought to be looked after and remedied as quickly as possible.

RANDOM REFLECTIONS.

By a Contributor

After Mr. Taft gets through reassuring the Filipinos and a few more people who are feeling nervous, he should come home and reassure his campaign managers a bit.

It is hoped the divorce suit against Senator Platt will not divert his mind from official duties, or the Senate may do something his express companies do not like.

Horace Fletcher, the foodist, recommends spaghetti and onions as a steady diet. It might be all right if a man didn't mind losing his family and friends.

A West Virginia man is going to run for governor just to please his young wife, but would he go through every department store in town, to match a ribbon for her? There's the test that makes strong men quail.

Dallas, Tex. has long boasted of a man with a nose five inches long and now Fort Worth comes along with a man whose mouth is so large that he can't keep his false teeth in. Must be the result of putting his foot in it every time he opens his mouth.

After having spent his summer vacation in telling the country of the great work done by Republican liberators in the time when he was "no spring chicken," Uncle Joe Cannon is now preparing for his winter's work of suppressing the house of representatives.

The Boston Herald daily prints a column headed "Queer Things Women are Doing." It must be quite a task to keep the matter boiled down to a single column.

There is still a chance for some statesman to make himself famous by advocating government regulation of baseball grounds.

"Look for the beautiful" advises an exchange. We are doing so, brother. We expect "Beautiful Snow" along almost any day now.

COOL AND NERVY.

The Russkoje Slowa tells the following story about Professor Kowalewski: "The doctor was seated in his consulting room in a mountain resort where he practices his profession several months every year. The last patient admitted was a burly man, who sat quietly in the chair opposite the doctor's desk until the latter looked up and asked, 'What can I do for you?' The man drew a paper out of his pocket and handed it to the professor, who read, 'I want 3,000 rubles.' After a pause of a few minutes the written request was laid on the desk, and the doctor said, 'I have no money, but if I had I would not give it to you.' 'We shall see,' said the alleged patient, drawing from the same pocket a large revolver. 'So we shall,' said the doctor, pointing a weapon of equal size at the intruder. So they sat several minutes, when the burly man lowered his weapon, saying, 'I shall not harm you,' and passed out through the waiting room into the street. Professor Kowalewski said he would have followed the man if his revolver had been loaded."

How the Emperor's Cook Came.

Although the emperor of Austria, who has just entered upon his seventy-eighth year, is an extremely frugal eater, he pays his cook, Perski, £2,000 a year for providing elaborate meals for his court, his household and his guests. This same Perski was formerly cook to Count Rheingaum, and many years ago when the emperor was dining with his subject he was immensely struck by the way a certain boar's head was cooked and desired that the artist should be complimented. Two days afterward a huge packing case arrived at Schonbrunn, with Count Rheingaum's compliments. On being opened the packing case was found to contain Perski, the cook, in good health, although rather breathless. The emperor accepted the gift and installed Perski as his principal cook.—London Tit-Bits.

The Judge and His Title.

Judge George Gray of Delaware at a recent dinner talked of the former American fondness for titles. "Take my own title, the title of judge, for instance," he said. "I was traveling in the country in my youth, and one day at a hotel table there sat beside me a man whom everybody addressed as 'Judge.' "When the judge got up and went away I said to my neighbor on the other side: "Is that gentleman a United States judge or a local judge?" "He's a local judge, sir," was the reply. "He was judge of a horse race last week."

The Forestry Idea.

The opening of a forestry school in South Africa a year ago marked another advance in the propagation of the forestry idea. The school was established by the government of the Cape of Good Hope at Tokai, Cape Colony, to train men for the government forestry service in the several South African provinces. The course covers two years, the first year at the South African college and the second year at the Forestry school at Tokai, on a long established estate, where there are extensive forest lands and a great variety of trees in all stages of development.

Little Lord Fauntleroy.

When Vivian Burnett entered Harvard his hazing consisted of an enforced impersonation of Little Lord Fauntleroy, the famous book hero, for whom he had served as a model to his mother, Frances Hodgson Burnett. Attired in a suit of velvet knickerbockers, with a broad ruffled collar and wearing a wig of long golden curls, he was compelled to roam about the campus, to the great delight of his fellow students. There is little trace of Lord Fauntleroy in the serious faced man of today. He lives in a handsomely appointed studio in New York.

A Difficult Roll Call.

The professor of English in one of our western colleges was noted for being very absentminded. It was his custom to call the roll each morning before the lecture. One morning after calling a name to which there was no response he looked up, and peering over his spectacles, he asked sharply: "Who's the absent boy in the vacant chair I see before me?"—Lippincott's.

Typewriters With Words.

A new typewriter will soon be put on the market which will write a complete word at one stroke. This does not mean that every word in the language will be printed so easily. Only twenty-two short words, most commonly used in correspondence, have been chosen, and they will be indicated on the keyboard like individual letters.—New York Press.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for his very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance, then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. GENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyppepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach serves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or constipation, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write to-day for sample and free Book. All stomach trouble are quickly relieved by taking a little Kodol after each meal. Kodol goes directly to the seat of the trouble, strengthens the digestive organs, supplies the natural digestive juices and digests what you eat. It is a simple, clean, pure, harmless remedy. Don't neglect your stomach. Take a little Kodol after each meal and see how good it makes you feel. Money back if it fails. Sold by John L. Wooten.

You can never make another noise with the cracker that has been exploded.

A prompt, pleasant, good remedy for coughs and colts, is Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. It is especially recommended for babies and children, but good for every member of the family. It contains no opiates and does not constipate. Contains honey and tar and tastes nearly as good as maple syrup. Cauterlikeit. Sold by J. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Get a free sample of Dr. Shoop's "Health Coffee" at our store. If real coffee disturbs your stomach, your heart or kidneys, then try this clever Coffee imitation. Dr. Shoop has closely matched Old Java and Mocha Coffee in flavor and taste, yet it has not a single grain of real coffee in it. Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee Imitation is made from pure toasted grains or cereals, with Malt, Nuts, etc. Made in a minute. Notedious wait. You will surely like it. Sold by T. E. Hooker & Co.

Bert Barber, of Elton, Wis., says "I have only taken four doses of your Kidney and Bladder Pills and they have done for me more than any other medicine has ever done. I am still taking the pills as I want a perfect cure." Mr. Barber refers to DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills, which are unequalled for Backache, weak kidneys, inflammation of the bladder and all urinary troubles. A weeks treatment for 25c. Sold by J. L. Wooten's drug Store.

When you feel the need of a pill take DeWitt's Little Early Riser. Small, safe pill, sure pill. Easy to take, pleasant and effective. Dries away headaches. Sold by John L. Wooten's drug store.

Vigorous Language.

A story is told in the National Magazine of Senator Knute Nelson, who spent some of his early years in a logging camp. He there discovered the necessity of certain emphatic language in order to make mules move. "All varieties" of tongues were in demand in that camp—Scandinavian, German and Italian—but none of the words used seemed to have the explosive force to adjust the tempo of the mule to the desired pace. Along came a strapping Irishman, who used some popular expletives, usually indicated in print by blank, blank, or blank. The mules moved! "There's a language all mules understand," said the Irishman, "and it's not me mother tongue ayther."

Her View.

A laborer in a neighboring city died recently, and the members of the fraternal order in which he held membership called upon his widow to find how they might be of most assistance in her distress. They made all arrangements for the order's attending the funeral, but before settling upon the final details for the obsequies they desired to know if the deceased had any special church affiliation. "Did your husband belong to any church?" was asked. "Wy, no," said the woman in astonishment. "He never done nothing to belong to church fur."—Chicago News.

He Wasn't Afraid.

Little Tommy and his younger sister were going to bed without a light. They had just reached the bottom of the stairs when Tommy, after vainly endeavoring to pierce the darkness, turned around and asked: "Ma, is it polite for a gentleman to precede a lady when they have to walk in single file?"

"No, my son," replied the mother, "the lady should always take the lead."

"I thought so," said Tommy delightedly; "go ahead, Sue."—Pearson's Weekly.

Angelic Bore.

Not one man in 500 pictures his future wife in the surroundings of the ordinary girl. Where is the Adonis who dreams of meeting his Eve, short of skirt and strong of arm, in the hockey field or striding over the turf with a golf ball or plunging madly after a tennis ball? On the contrary, he pictures her clad in "something soft and clinging," a being more angel than woman, who as a daily companion would undoubtedly prove the most withering bore a man could be cursed with.—London Throno.

His Work Tired Carnegie.

Several men achieved great wealth by association in business with Carnegie, among them being Andrew M. Moreland, who at one time acted as secretary and treasurer of the Carnegie company. Prior to this he was auditor of the company, and while acting in this capacity he was summoned one day to consult Mr. Carnegie, who set wine before his guest at dinner.

"No, thank you, I don't drink," said Mr. Moreland.

Later on Mr. Carnegie brought out the cigars.

"No, thank you, I don't smoke," said Mr. Moreland.

Still later in the evening Mr. Carnegie proposed a game of cards.

"No, thank you, I don't play cards," said Mr. Moreland.

Mr. Carnegie looked at his guest. "Tell me why you don't do any of these things," he dryly requested.

"You've kept me working too hard all these years. I've had no time to learn," was the reply.

Mr. Carnegie thought a moment. "Andy," he said, "I'm going to give you a three months' vacation. Now, for heaven's sake, go off somewhere and learn to do something besides work."

A Real Excuse.

H. J. Conway of Chicago, the president of the Retail Clerks' International union, advocated at the recent convention in St. Joseph the same pay for women as for men clerks.

"When women," said Mr. Conway afterward, "do the same work as men they should get the same wages, and any one who argues that this is impossible seems to me at once as ungallant and as illogical as the famous husband of Paint Rock.

"This husband was returning home from market late one Saturday night with his wife. The wife was burdened with a huge market basket, a broom, a kit of mackerel—dear knows what all. As for the man, he carried nothing.

"Coming to a steep hill, the wife paused and said reproachfully: "Jack, if you were a real man, you'd help me carry some of these parcels."

"Jack glared at her in disgust and scorn.

"Aw, how can I?" he growled. "Ain't I got both hands in my pocket?"

CONDENSED STORIES.

How Former Canal Commissioner Shonts Treated a Trifler.

Theodore P. Shonts, former chairman of the isthmian canal commission and now head of the traction syndicate in New York, has all his life been a man of vigorous action. It is related that in his western railroad days a man called at his office and announced to Mr. Shonts that he proposed to give him a good licking.

"All right," replied Shonts. "But wait a minute. Some one might interrupt us."

He rose quietly, locked his office door, arranged the furniture around the wall so as to have a free space in the middle of the room; then with great deliberation he took off his coat and hung it up, removed his collar and cuffs and rolled up his sleeves.

"IF YOU ARE READY, I AM."

"Now," said the railroad man, "if you are ready I am."

The visitor, who had been watching these preparations in open mouthed astonishment, backed off into a corner and stammered that he had changed his mind.

Just as quietly and still smiling, Mr. Shonts unlocked the door, took his visitor by the coat collar, led him out of the room, kicked him once and remarked: "Don't come around again unless you mean business. I'm a busy man."

MAGICAL CURES.

Idols of the Orient Are Appealed to in Case of Sickness.

Of magical methods used to cure disease a writer in the Scientific American says: "Powerful aid is believed to be rendered by the various gods and goddesses in China, India, Java, Korea and other countries in exercising disease. The Hindoo goddess who had a superintending power over smallpox, for example, was approached with solemn ceremonies and presents to propitiate her. She was represented as standing with two uplifted fingers, threatening to strike on the right and left. Before her was a band of the executors of her vengeance, two of them with red grinning masks, black shields and naked scimiters. White lines, like rays, issued from the bodies of the others to indicate infection. On the right was a group of men with spotted bodies afflicted with the malady. Bells were hung at their cinctures, and a few of them waved black feathers. These were preceded by musicians with drums, who supplicated the pity of the furious deity.

"From behind her advanced a bevy of smiling young women, gracefully carrying on their heads baskets with thanksgiving offerings, in gratitude for their lives and beauty having been spared. A little boy with a bell at his girdle conveyed something emblematic of inoculation from the arm of the goddess. By such means and humble intercession the benign goddess gradually stayed her fury, and the diseased were thus made whole or were at least supposed to be cured, which appears to have answered just as well. In Java some idols are provided with bells for calling the attention of the god and goddess to the need of their exercising sacred powers in behalf of the sick and unfortunate.

"Akin to this blind faith is the credulity of some classes of Japanese, whose doctors know very little more of anatomy and physiology than the patients themselves, and for purposes of diagnosis they rely mainly on the pulse. Three pulses are found to be in each wrist, they explain—viz, the heart, controlling the right upper pulse; the lungs, the left upper pulse; the stomach, the right middle pulse; the liver, the left middle pulse; the right kidney, the right lower pulse, and the left kidney, the left lower pulse. Thus by a careful examination of the six pulses the doctor at once discovers what is the matter with the patient and proceeds in his own way to effect a cure.

"In Korea and among the North American Indians images are made out of various materials, each kind having a peculiar power over some special form of disease. Thus the Zuni Indian makes a clay image to represent a mountain lion, and the spirit of that animal, which is the guardian of the northwest and the master of the gods of the hunt, comes to dwell in that object, protecting the owner from injury by accident and helping him to success in the chase. A Korean sorcerer's image, stuffed and covered with buckskin, is used to avert calamity and death."

Mars.

Mars possesses about one-half the earth's diameter and one-seventh its volume. It is some 140,000,000 miles from the sun and consequently at a mean distance of nearly 50,000,000 miles from us. It receives less than one-half the sunlight and heat a square foot that we do, has an atmosphere less dense than ours and possesses water and ice. The planet exhibits two ice caps at its poles and orange and greenish tints between these poles. Those peculiar lines or markings, the "canals," concerning which there has arisen much discussion, form a sort of faint, inexplicable network over the surface of ruddy Mars.

Tramways.

The word tram is derived from a man's name, Outram—Thomas Outram. Outram lived in Derbyshire, England, and in the beginning of the last century he invented a peculiar sort of track that diminished the friction between wheels and roadbeds. These tracks of Outram's, though nothing like a trolley track, were called at first outtramways, then tramways, and when street lines and street cars came into existence they were dubbed respectively tramways and trains.

His Income.

The teacher of a Sunday school class in Wilkesbarre once put the following question to a new scholar: "What did Moses do for a living while he was with Jethro?" There was a long silence, during which the other members of the class took occasion to "size up" the newcomer. The latter, however, was undisturbed. After a long reflection

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "Gem" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of J. H. M. St. John and partners and allowed to return to my home as a synonym for a "hanging out place" I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal card of Box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for concert work, at bare prices.

We also offer a special selection piano for $25.00 fully measuring up in standard to a $300.00 instrument. This piano is specially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is fully guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it and as ever I am always in line of my patrons' protection and interests as well as my firm's. Careful of past patronage. Very respectfully,
G. G. Fireman,
Box 325 Greenville, N. C.
