FARMERS URGED TO HOLD.

Harvie Jordan Says Depression is Temporary and Artificial—Mr. Moore Adds a Few Words of Advice.

A telegram which will be of interest to the cotton growers of this section has been received by Mr. C. C. Moore from President Harvie Jordan, of the Southern Cotton Association:

"Encourage owners of cotton to hold. Get local bankers' cooperation. Depression artificial and temporary."

In accordance with this, Mr. Moore is mailing to the farmers in this section the following letter:

"From all over the cotton belt information comes that members of the Cotton Association are holding their cotton and as far as possible are buying the lint and rent cotton produced on their lands."

"The appeal is made to all cotton owners to likewise hold their cotton from a depressed market."

"Thousands of dollars are being daily to the South business interest by the sale of cotton on this unwarranted decline in price."

"The executive committee of the local county cotton association, the banks and merchants will give assistance to all worthy men who need financial help and who will hold to their cotton."

"The same depression that has caused the decline in price of cotton, also caused depression in price of yarns from Southern mills. Let all interests work together, hold cotton from the market, and force both raw cotton and cotton yarn prices to advance to their commercial value."—Charlotte Observer.

A Word Personal.

There have recently been so many heavy burdens on the editor of The Reflector, even outside of the running expenses of the office, that he has been hard pressed to get sufficient money to meet demands. We have had no opportunity to make up accounts and do any soliciting for collections, (as we have been hardly able to do the work necessary to getting out the paper. Under these circumstances it would be a great help if those owing us would come in promptly and settle or send the money to us. We would like to collect as much as possible in the next few days to meet some pressing demands, and hope every one owing us that reads this will not wait to be asked again. A little promptness right now will be a great help to us. Your account may be small, but several such accounts put together will help us meet larger ones. Don't wait, friends. It is only what you already owe us that we are asking for, and that should be paid.

The building and loan associations are home building, but their ability to build is limited by the quantity of stock taken. The more stock taken, the more persons can own and build their homes. Nearly everyone of us can help along this line and do so at a profit, six per cent compound interest.—Tarboro Southerner.

Revival This Week.

At the Free Will Baptist church in South Greenville Rev. Mr. Windham, of Ayden, will conduct a meeting through this week. Services will be held each night at 7:30 o'clock. Everybody invited.

PROCLAMATION IS ISSUED.

Observance of Thanksgiving.

Washington, Oct. 23.—President Roosevelt today issued his Thanksgiving Proclamation, through the Secretary of State, naming the last Thursday in November, the 23th.

The proclamation follows: "Once again the season of the year has come when, in accordance with the custom of our forefathers for generations past, the President appoints a day as the special occasion for all our people to give praise and thanksgiving to God."

"During the past year we have been free from famine, from pestilence, from war. We are at peace with all the rest of mankind. Our natural resources are at least as great as those of any other nation. We believe that the ability to develop and take advantage of these resources the average man of this nation has at least as high as the average man of a foreigner. Nowhere else in the world is there such an opportunity for a free people to develop to the fullest extent all its powers of body, of mind and of that which stands above both body and mind—character."

"Much has been given us from on high and much will rightly be expected of us in return. Let our care the talents have been entrusted; and we are to be equander and waste them; nor yet if we hide them in a napkin; for they must be fruitful in our hands. Ever throughout the ages, at all times and among all peoples, prosperity has been brought with danger, and it behooves us to beseech the Giver of all things that we may not fall into love of ease and of luxury; that we may not lose our sense of moral responsibility; that we may not forget our duty to God and to our neighbor."

"A great democracy like ours, a democracy based upon the principles of orderly liberty, can be perpetuated only if in the heart of the ordinary citizen there dwells a keen sense of righteousness and justice. We should earnestly pray that this spirit of righteousness and justice may grow ever greater in the hearts of all of us and that our souls may be inclined evermore both toward the virtues that tell for gentleness and tenderness, and for loving kindness and forbearance one with another and toward those no less necessary virtues that make our manliness and rugged hardihood—for without these qualities neither nation or individual can rise to the level of greatness."

"Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, do set apart (Thursday, the 23th day of November,) as a day of general thanksgiving and prayer, and on that day I recommend that the people shall cease from daily work and, in their homes or in their churches, meet devoutly to thank the Almighty for the many and great blessings they have received in the past, and to pray that they may be given the strength so to order their lives as to deserve a continuation of these blessings in the future."

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed."

"Done at the City of Washington this the 25th day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and seven, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and thirty-second.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

"By the President: Elihu Root, Secretary of State."

Something in That.

The Citawba County News says: "The Charlotte Observer and The Lexington Dispatch have been discussing the merits of carrying an Irish potato in the pocket for curing rheumatism, and a nutmeg for curing neuralgia. How about brimstone tied in a rag and worn around the neck to keep off itch?"

Don't know. The Observer classes it with the madstone, et al. It occurs to us, however, that anybody who could stand to wear a souvenir of perdition around his neck needn't fear the 'tch."

Temp. range: Lee's.

Miss Elizabeth Moore, State organizer of the W. C. T. U. spent yesterday and this morning here. At 4 o'clock Sunday she delivered a splendid temp. range address in the Methodist church. This morning she visited the graded school, and talked a short while to the children. Both addresses were good and will no doubt strengthen the temp. range sentiment in the town and community.

The next lecturer will be R. L. Davis, State organizer of the Anti-Saloon League. He will be here Wednesday night and it is expected that a large crowd will hear him.

MOVEMENTS OF THE PEOPLE.

Those Who Come and Go—Some Know You—Some You Know.

Charles Skinner went to Kelford today.

J. T. Meadows went to Weldon today.

Mrs. F. G. James has returned from New York.

Ex-Gov. and Mrs. T. J. Jarvis have returned from Norfolk.

J. G. Bowling and P. T. Anthony went to Robersonville today.

Mrs. Hannis Latham, of Washington, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Harding.

A. J. Moore spent Sunday in Washington.

Clarence Barnhill spent Sunday in Bethel.

Mrs. M. T. Plyler and children have returned from a visit to her parents at Gatesville.

Danger of Imitation.

In the Baptist church Sunday night Rev. J. E. Ayacue preached an excellent sermon on the danger of imitation that was most timely. He pointed out the danger to people in trying to imitate their neighbors, never having a decision of their own but always waiting to see what their neighbors do and be governed accordingly. The present day evil in the social realm, that makes one watch what others do and then try to surpass it, was especially warned against, owing to the danger of making one live beyond his income and lead to dishonesty.

It would be profitable to Greenville if that sermon could be repeated several times over.

Weather.

Fair and much colder tonight with heavy frost: Tuesday fair.

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY IN ANSON.

Wadesboro, October 26.—News reached here this morning of probably the greatest tragedy that ever occurred in this county, which took place last night in Gullodge township, in which a mother was shot down like a dog by her son.

Ellis Hightower, a well-known young white man, went to the home of his mother, who lives about twelve miles from here, last night about 9 o'clock. He had been drinking freely and was in a semi-delirious condition. While sitting on the porch with his sister and his mother, the latter told him how she loved him. Finally he went to sleep and his mother spoke to arouse him. Starting up he asked, "Who are you?" and fired a .38-calibre ball through his mother's heart. She said, "Ellis, you have killed me," and died.

The son, who had murdered her, sat by her side until the doctor came, having in the meantime thrown his pistol away. This morning he went to his home three miles away and cut his throat with a razor and died in a few hours.

Hightower loved his mother and seemed to have done the awful deed he did accidentally being so under the influence of liquor that he did not know what he was doing. He was 34 years of age and is survived by wife and four children. He had been a hard drinker and a noted whiskey dealer.

Notice of Sale.

The undersigned Administratrix will on Monday, Nov. 11th 1907 at 11 o'clock A. M. sell for cash at the residence of the late Murphey Leggett, in Carolina township, the following described personal property, to wit: One mule, a lot of farming implements, crops, lumber and various other articles on the farm.

This the 26th day of October 1907. Sarah E. Leggett, Administratrix.

COOL AND NERVY.

The Russkoje Slowa tells the following story about Professor Kowalewski: "The doctor was seated in his consultation room in a mountain resort where he practices his profession several months every year. The last patient admitted was a burly man, who sat quietly in the chair opposite the doctor's desk until the latter looked up and asked, 'What can I do for you?' The man drew a paper out of his pocket and handed it to the professor, who read, 'I want 3,000 rubles.' After a pause of a few minutes the written request was laid on the desk, and the doctor said, 'I have no money, but if I had I would not give it to you.' 'We shall see,' said the alleged patient, drawing from the same pocket a large revolver. 'So we shall,' said the doctor, pointing a weapon of equal size at the intruder. So they sat several minutes, when the burly man lowered his weapon, saying, 'I shall not harm you,' and passed out through the waiting room into the street. Professor Kowalewski said he would have followed the man if his revolver had been loaded."

How the Emperor's Cook Came.

Although the emperor of Austria, who has just entered upon his seventy-eighth year, is an extremely frugal eater, he pays his cook, Perski, £2,000 a year for providing elaborate meals for his court, his household and his guests. This same Perski was formerly cook to Count Rheingau, and many years ago when the emperor was dining with his subject he was immensely struck by the way a certain boar's head was cooked and desired that the artist should be complimented. Two days afterward a huge packing case arrived at Schonbrunn, with Count Rheingau's compliments. On being opened the packing case was found to contain Perski, the cook, in good health, although rather breathless. The emperor accepted the gift and installed Perski as his principal cook.—London Times.

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

Suggestions as to the Care of the Wardrobe—Helpful Hints.

Wishing to give the wardrobe proper care, do not forget to look every day at the binding of skirts, at the buttons on boots, at veil and gloves. Indeed one must glance at all that has unceasing wear. A fresh binding sometimes will alter the entire appearance of a girl, making her look neat and dainty where before the ragged edges of her skirt suggested that she was at once untidy and ignorant. Sturdy fluff is inexcusable. Fluff that has become worn and ragged when it cannot be replaced should be removed and something simpler substituted for it. Tears, worn places and rips never are seen on the well bred girl, for from her early youth she has learned how to wield her needle well and mend her belongings with as much daintiness as she embroidered.

When a Child Has Convulsions.

The first thing to do after sending for the doctor when a child has convulsions is to plunge the little one up to the neck in a bath of hot water, but remember that the water must not be too hot. Test it with your elbow, which is not as hard as your hand. When the heat is right for your elbow it will not hurt the child. The child's head should be sponged also with cold water. As soon as the little one is able to swallow give a small dose of castor oil. This helps to remove blood pressure from the brain.

Diphtheria Cure.

At the first indications of diphtheria in the throat of a child make the room close. Take a tin cup and put into it a quantity of tar and turpentine, equal parts. Then hold the cup over a fire, so as to fill the room with fumes. The little patient on inhaling the fumes will cough up and spit out all the membranous matter and the diphtheria will pass out. The fumes of the tar and turpentine loosen the matter in the throat and thus afford the relief that has baffled the skill of physicians.

Boiled Ribs of Beef.

Take the middle of the flat ribs of beef, stew until the meat is tender and the bones slip out easily, using just water enough to cover the meat, to which a bouquet of sweet herbs has been added. Take up the meat and herbs. Set the liquor away to cool, remove the fat. Add to this gravy diced carrots, turnips, celery and six small onions. Cook until tender. Thicken the gravy with a little flour, put the beef back into it to warm and serve.

The Forestry Idea.

The opening of a forestry school in South Africa a year ago marked another advance in the propagation of the forestry idea. The school was established by the government of the Cape of Good Hope at Tokai, Cape Colony, to train men for the government forestry service in the several South African provinces. The course covers two years, the first year at the South African college and the second year at the Forestry school at Tokai, on a long established estate, where there are extensive forest lands and a great variety of trees in all stages of development.

Little Lord Fauntleroy.

When Vivian Burnett entered Harvard his hazing consisted of an enforced impersonation of Little Lord Fauntleroy, the famous book hero, for whom he had served as a model to his mother, Frances Hodgson Burnett. Attired in a suit of velvet knickerbockers, with a broad ruffled collar and wearing a wig of long golden curls, he was compelled to roam about the campus, to the great delight of his fellow students. There is little trace of Lord Fauntleroy in the serious faced man of today. He lives in a handsomely appointed studio in New York.

A Difficult Roll Call.

The professor of English in one of our western colleges was noted for being very absentminded. It was his custom to call the roll each morning before the lecture. One morning after calling a name to which there was no response he looked up, and, peering over his spectacles, he asked sharply: "Who is the absent boy in the vacant chair I see before me?"—Lippincott's.

RANDOM REFLECTIONS.

By a Contributor

Evidently, the average cane-brake bear would rather be considered a live mollicoddle than a hero.

It is to be hoped that the automatic typewriter which is now being perfected will be able to spell correctly.

At least, the president may depend upon the staunch support of Senator Foraker in his effort to prevent a Roosevelt stampede
in the next Republican convention.

erals in Macon, Ga., hereafter will very few editors want to see

We have imagined the stuff to eat they sell in hotels and restaurants along with the route of the Panama canal might be pretty bad, but we never suspected it was so bad that they printed the bills of fare in French almost exclusively.

better, in spite of the disagreements of his three doctors, he may conclude that it is all due to the luck supposed to dwell in odd

NOT A CRIMINAL.

No Was Only Serving Ten Years For Just "Quarreling."

The standard of morals is not the same all the world over. In Montenegro, for example, conduct is seen from another point of view than among ourselves. This lends interest to a report in "The Land of the Black Mountain" as to crime in that little out of the way country of Europe. The author visited the only prison of the land.

Only three men were chained,
and of these one remained moodily seated, staring on the ground before him. He formed such a contrast to his fellow prisoners' smiling faces that we observed him more closely and noticed that his clothes were such as the officials and better class wear.

"Who is he?" I asked.
"A government clerk convicted of embezzlement," was the answer.
"Six weeks in chains is his sentence."

"And what have the other criminals done?" was our next query.

"Oh, they have mostly quarreled among themselves. They are not criminals. We have very few thieves and robbers in Montenegro. This youth," went on our informant, pointing to a young man with a pleasant face and who grinned with joy as he noticed the attention with which we favored him, "has a ten years' sentence for quarreling."

"But, 'quarreling,'" we repeated,
"is it punishable to quarrel?"

"Yes. Too many lives are lost,"
was the laconic reply.

"Oh," we exclaimed, a light breaking in upon us, "you mean murder! They are all murderers?"

"We have no murderers," came the indignant response. "Our land is as safe from murder as any other in the world. No one kills to rob or steal in Montenegro. But we just quarrel among ourselves. We are hot blooded and shoot quickly, that is all."

The English Habit.

The man from London paused in front of the little shop and read and reread the mysterious sign that was suspended from the wall. It read:
"Englishmen will please not stand over this grating while talking."

The more the Londoner read the sign the more he was mystified.

Finally he summoned up his courage and entered the shop.

"Good afternoon," he greeted politely. "Could you tell me why you have that sign out there which reads, 'Englishmen will please not stand over this grating while talking?'"

"I can, sir," replied the shopkeeper.

"And why, my good man?"

"Well, you see, if they stood there talking they would drop their hats, and the porter would have to lose time going down in the basement
looking for them."

And the man from London walked away after remarking that America was a "bloomin' queer country"
—Brooklyn Citizen.

It Did Not Fit Him.

The Hartwells were entertaining
a distant relative, a man of ponderous physical attainments, who weighed nearly 300 pounds. On the morning after his arrival he came down to breakfast rather late and looking as if he had not had a good night's rest.

"You are not feeling well this morning, are you, Mr. Barnes?" asked his host, with some anxiety.

"Oh, it's nothing serious," said the guest. "I have caught a little cold, that is all."

"Papa," whispered Bobby, the youngest member of the family, loudly enough to be heard by the visitor, "how can a man as big as he is have a little cold?" — Youth's Companion.

It Wouldn't Work.

The wise old doctor was impressing upon his little patient the essentiality of mastication.

"My lad," he advised, "no matter what you eat, always chew each mouthful thirty times."

But Jimmy shook his head significantly. "That wouldn't do at our house, doctor."

"And why not, my son?"

"Because I'd always be hungry.
The rest of the kids would clean the table off before I got through with that one mouthful."—Kansas City Independent.

Harking Back.

Mrs. Acklins—I don't want to be impertinent, but how old are you anyway? Some of the ladies were discussing your age at the club the other day, and several of them claimed that you were at least thirty-five, but I insisted that you were not more than thirty-three.

Mrs. Biswick—I'm glad you were so kind. Of course you didn't mention the fact that you were ready to leave the grammar grade when I was in the primary class at school,
did you?

Cough Caution

Never, positively never, clean your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupifying poison. It strangles how something finally even about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label."
If poisons are in your cough mixture, Good!
Very good! It is better for the very reason, mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's label—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know is best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance, then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear.
There is only one way to cure deafness,
and that is by constitutional remedies.
Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result,
and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is not inflamed but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's

Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr.
Shoop's Restorative has made its fame.
No other remedy even claims to treat
the "inside nerves". Also for bloating, flatulency, bad breath or constipation, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

It is the only one of its kind in the matter how irritably or how obstinately that will not be possibly relieved by the use of Kodel. The main reason is, of course, the stomach's condition is not the only way to get rest, it is to actually digest the food for the stomach itself.
Kodel will do it. It is a scientific pre-

the very best of nature's food health

CHARITY NATURALLY PAINFUL

General Booth, the head of the Salvation Army, was discussing the antisuicide bureaus that his church has opened.

"Kindness and charity," he said, "are factors of these bureaus. The charity will be of the right kind, I trust. There are, you know, two kinds of charity, and too much of it is like the barber's."

"There was a poor deacon in Warwick who had no money and needed to be shaved, and he went from barber to barber, but none of them, despite his holy office, was willing to shave him for nothing."

"In the end, though, he found a barber who on hearing his tale said gruffly:

"Sit down there in that chair."

"And this barber shaved him. But the razor he used! Dear me! Its dull edge and the nicks in it! Under the operation the tears flowed in rivulets down the poor deacon's cheeks."

"Suddenly the barber's dog in the adjacent room set up a terrific howling."

"Be still, there!" cried the barber, and he muttered anxiously, "What can they be doing to him?"

"Alas," said the deacon, "I shouldn't wonder if some one was shaving him out of charity."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Lord Mayor a Drummer.

When the present lord mayor of London, Sir William Treloar, president of the London branch of the United Kingdom Commercial Travelers' association, attended the annual dinner of that organization he told a story of his early traveling life.

"Forty years ago," he said, "I called on an upholsterer in Southampton, whose daughter, a very nice looking girl, rang the bell for her father. As soon, however, as she recognized the visitor she gently called up the stairs:

"You need not come down, pa. It's only a drummer."

"When she returned to the shop the girl remarked, with a pleasant smile, 'I took you for a gentleman.'"

"I apologized," added the story teller, "and expressed my regret that my appearance should have deceived her, and so we became excellent friends."—London Strand.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

The Quarrel of Dandy and Laddie and What Came of It.

Dandy and Laddie were collie dogs and brothers, and they were owned by brothers, too, farmers up in New Hampshire. The farms adjoined, and the farmers pastured their stock in common. The dogs visited each other frequently and were great friends. One day when Laddie was gnawing bone at Dandy's a pet kitten belonging to Dandy's family came near, and Laddie snapped at her. Dandy instantly flew at his throat, and they had a hot fight before they could be separated.

It is said that neither dog ever crossed the boundary line between the two farms after that. Laddie daily drove his flock of sheep down the lane until he reached the dividing wall, where Dandy solemnly took charge and drove them to pasture. At night Dandy brought back the sheep, and Laddie would be waiting for them at the regular place. Not once after their fight did they take the slightest notice of each other.—Chicago News.

An Interesting Experiment.

Water is composed of two elements, oxygen and hydrogen, and those two elements unite when the flame of the candle gives off its hydrogen into the oxygen of the air. You may prove this by a simple experiment. Hold a cool and perfectly dry tumbler over a burning candle, and the inner surface of the tumbler will soon become dimmed with moisture. Presently little drops of water will collect on it, and if it were possible to keep the tumbler cool all the time you might get enough water to fill another tumbler. This seems like a magician's trick, but it is a simple law of nature. The vapor given off in the burning is condensed into water by contact with the cool glass.

Bo to a Goose.

It is sometimes said of a timid person, "He looks as if he couldn't say Bo to a goosa." Did you ever hear how the expression originated? It may be found perhaps in the story of Bo, a great captain and a fierce one, who was son to Odin in the mythology of the north. His name was used by his soldiers to frighten the enemy. They tell a good story of Ben Jonson, the poet, in connection with the "Bo" saying. He was introduced to a Lord Somebody or other, and the nobleman was so much surprised at the homely appearance of the poet that he said: "What, are you Ben Jonson? You look as if you could not say Bo to a goosa!" "Bo!" said Jonson, making a bow to his lordship.

A Rainy Day.

The Weight of Air.

The scientists tell us that atmospheric pressure at sea level is fifteen pounds to the square inch. Estimating that the earth's atmosphere extends forty-eight miles up into space—and it may extend a good deal higher than that—each square inch of that air, reaching from the earth's surface to the top of the atmosphere, weighs therefore about fifteen pounds. Now, if we could gather up all that atmosphere and put it into a gigantic balance, we should have to put into the opposite scale a solid globe of lead sixty miles in diameter to equalize the weight. Air is not so light as some persons think it is, you see.—Chicago News.

The Rainbow Road.

We followed the Rainbow road When the storm had crumbled by. The rainbow stood by the big east wood, With its top against the sky. Dot and the dog and I (The dog with the curly tail), And a spade to dig for our treasure big, A spade and a new tin pail. Dot was the company, I in command, And the dog went along to guard the band.

The colors came down to the ground, Somebody told us so. And somebody told how a pot of gold Was hid at the end of the bow. We hurried along, a-row, Ready to seek and find. I led the lot and next came Dot, With the curly tailed dog behind. Dot was a girl, and so, in case Of danger, I gave her the safest place.

Oh, we were almost there, And we would have been rich, no doubt, But the wind came by with a dreadful cry, And the beautiful bow went out. When we turned to look about The great black dark had come. We ran so fast that Dot was lost, And the dog was the first one home. And the rainbows came and the rainbows go. But Dot and the dog and I—we know! —Youth's Companion.

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

Suggestions as to the Care of the Wardrobe—Helpful Hints.

Wishing to give the wardrobe proper care, do not forget to look every day at the binding of skirts, at the buttons on boots, at veil and gloves. Indeed one must glance at all that has unceasing wear. A fresh binding sometimes will alter the entire appearance of a girl, making her look neat and dainty where before the ragged edges of her skirt suggested that she was at once untidy and ignorant. Shabby finery is inexorable. Chiffon that has become worn and ragged when it cannot be replaced should be removed and something simpler substituted for it. Tears, worn places and rips never are seen on the well bred girl, for from her early youth she has learned how to wield her needle well and mend her belongings with as much daintiness as she embroiders.

For a useful floor polish take two ounces of white and yellow wax, an ounce of white soap and a quart of boiling water. Shred the soap and the wax and melt them in a saucepan with the water over the fire. Mix by stirring and pour into a jar or bottle until wanted for use.

Apply with a woolen rag or a piece of flannel, then rub with another flannel and polish well until all stickiness is removed.

For Spongy Gums.

Sometimes there is a sort of spongy softness about the gums, very unpleasant. For this rub them several times daily with a mixture of half an ounce of Peruvian bark with six grams each of powdered ratanhia and chlorate of potash. A little soft brush dipped in pure lemon juice and applied to the gums where they are soft or slightly ulcerated will sometimes effect a cure.

For Sunburn.

Mix buttermilk with enough talcum powder to make a paste and spread it on the face when retiring. Another homemade remedy is to rub the skin thoroughly with the inner side of the rind of a freshly pared cucumber, and still another is baking soda—sovereign healer of all burns—either made into a solution for washing or applied in hot compresses.

Smothered Bread.

Dip thick slices of bread in milk, just enough to moisten, then fry in a little butter and lard. While this is cooking, fry in another spider, closely covered, a lot of sliced onions. Let the onions be cooking before starting the bread. When both are done, heap the onions on the bread. See that they are well seasoned and serve piping hot.

Glycerin In Cookery.

Good cooks know the value of a few drops of glycerin added to the flour in cake making, in the proportion of a teaspoonful to every pound of flour. This makes the cake light and feathery. Three teaspoonfuls to every pound of fruit in making preserves prevents the fermentation of the sugar and obviates all danger of crystallization.

To Whiten the Hands.

A whitening paste for the hands is made by mixing fine oatmeal with honey and sweet almond oil. First cleanse the hands thoroughly, using almond meal in place of soap; rinse on big gloves with finger tips and palms cut off and out. The astringent only helps to contract flabby skin. The flesh food should be used freely with massage for lines around the eyes.

TO MY FRIENDS.

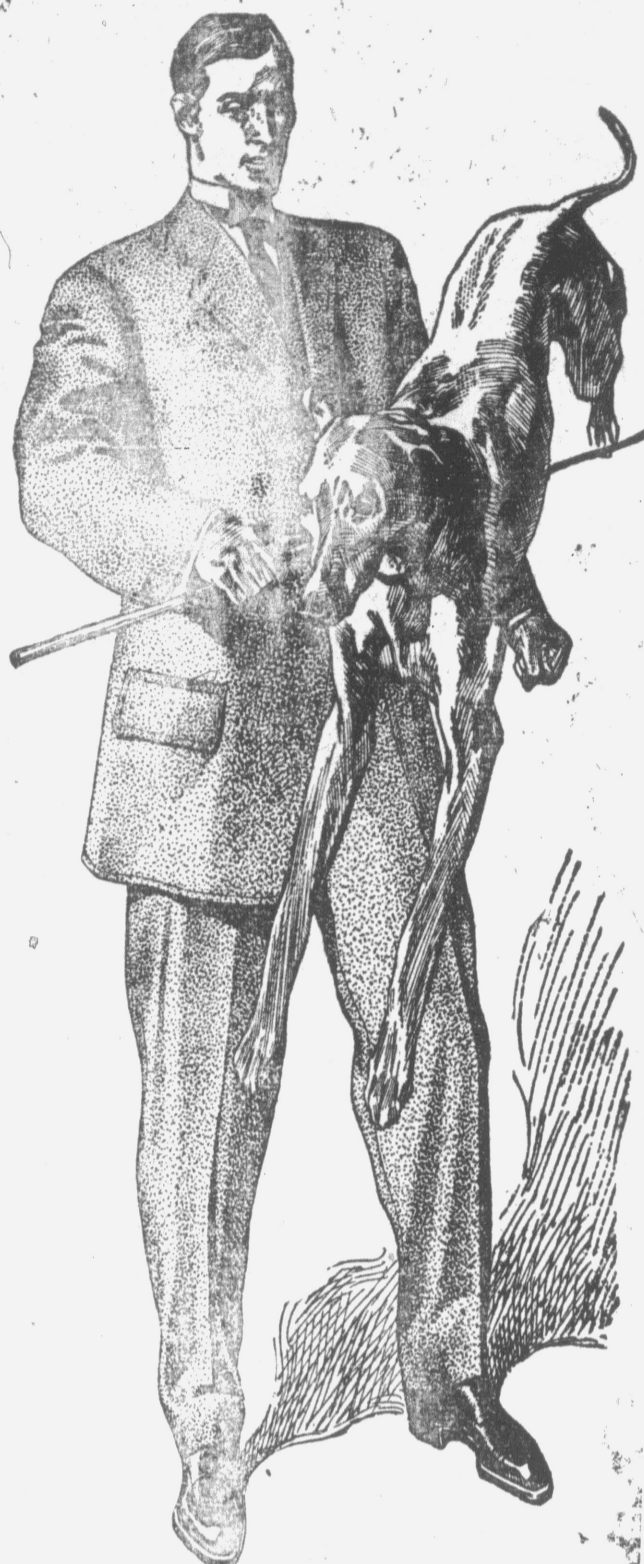

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Char. M. Steff, and if each long are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a "hanging out place" I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225.00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350.00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage. Very respt., G. G. Fineman, Box 325 Greenville, N. C.
