GOT THE MONEY BACK.

A Clever Bit of Detective Work.

A day or two ago a Mrs. Everett was on the way from her home to Greenville, and on the road lost her purse, containing $57.27, out of the buggy. She came some distance before missing the purse and turned back to look for it. Meeting two colored men who had come along the road behind her, she asked them about the purse. They said they saw another colored man pick it up, but refused to tell who he was. The lady came on to town and was telling the matter to Mr. W. C. Hines, who said if she would point out the two colored men she met in the road he thought her money could be recovered.

The negroes were pointed out to Mr. Hines and when he interrogated them they also told him of seeing another man pick up the purse in the road, but still refused to give his name. Mr. Hines told them he would have a warrant issued for them and make them tell. The man tried to slip out of town before the warrant was obtained, but was kept under surveillance, and when taken in custody they not only told the name of the finder of the purse but went with Mr. Hines to his house. All the money was recovered and the lady was very much delighted.

Turned Over in the Mud.

Today a colored man was driving out Dickinson avenue with a cart on which were several large baskets full of cotton seed and one of the baskets fell off in the mud. He tried to gather up the seed but there was too much mud and a quantity of them were lost. They may help the "paving" a little.

Mouth Already Watering.

Policeman George Clark says there is a 'possum in fattening for The Reflector. That's good! If we can scare up a yam potato to go along with it by the time the 'possum is ready, there will be a feast right.

The Coming Winter.

Those who foretell the weather do not seem to agree as to what the coming winter will be. The Winston Sentinel says that the local weather prophets are coming up with the predictions of a mild winter, giving all the numerous signs. On the other hand, Amos Mayer, a farmer of Berks county, Pa., who pins his faith to the goose bone, says: "December will be a cold month, with an occasional snow storm. January will be a month of snow, hail and an occasional cold spell. The dark colors on the end of the breast bone indicate that February will be a very cold month, and there will be several blizzards. At one particular part of the bone it is almost black, which means that we will have lots of snow and sleet. The cold weather will continue into March, and we will have a very late spring.

Just Turned Over.

Dr. Laughinghouse's closed cab took a side swipe at the mud Tuesday, by the driver making too short a turn with the vehicle. No damage was done.

The best of plans fall out and the best of friends get married.

Trade Report.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 13, 1907. Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond Va., and vicinity:

There is little change in the condition of the market for dry goods and kindred lines. Orders for immediate shipment are small. Dealers in toys and holiday goods are having excellent season and in some instances are from two to three weeks behind in shipment. Orders for produce and provisions show a decline, although prices are lower generally in this line. Offerings of tobacco on the Richmond market are considerably behind the average at this season, but for what has been sold prices show a better average than last year. Manufacturers of tobacco are working at full capacity, in most instances the old crop is well used up. Small quantities of cotton are being marketed, this is believed due to the lateness of the crop and scarcity of currency. Prices continue good. In Richmond the bankers have been able to care for their regular patrons while in some smaller centers scarcity of currency has retarded generally trading. Collections are not good.

Horn in a Tree 133 Years Old.

A sheep's horn that was imbedded in a tree 133 years ago is the curiosity that Jason Elder, a forest ranger living at Paisley, Oreg., has delivered to his superior, Supervisor Ingram, at Lakeview. While rambling in the woods in 1888 Elder came across a yellow pine tree in the base of which was imbedded the horn of a mountain sheep. He did not then have time to make a thorough examination, but since becoming forest ranger he had occasion to go to the vicinity and he cut the tree down. He took a section of the trunk containing the horn to Lakeview.

The horn was a little to one side of the centre of the tree and ran in a circular direction. It was not curled as are the horns of mountain sheep at this day, but was almost straight. Counting the rings of growth, the tree was shown to be 213 years old. Outside the horn were 183 rings, indicating the number of years that had elapsed since the mountain sheep was caught and held fast by the yellow pine. The horn was soaked with pitch. It is ten inches in diameter at the base and protruded from the tree about six inches. The length of the horn is 30 inches.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Cotton Warehouses.

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 11.—President C. C. Moore, of the North Carolina Division of the Southern Cotton Association, reports that twenty-two warehouses and holding companies have been organized, and committees are working on thirty-five more in the State as a result of twelve months' work. New warehouses at Burgaw, Wallace, Faison, Mount Olive, Maysville, Pollocksville and Trenton have just been organized. The president is now on a tour of every county growing cotton in this State to encourage the farmers to build warehouses and hold their cotton.

James A. Cobb, a negro, has been appointed special assistant United States Attorney for the District of Columbia.

Weather.

Fair tonight with heavy frost or freezing temperature. Friday fair.

$25,000,000 Mortgage.

Register of Deeds R. Williams is recording in his office an instrument of unusual size, both as to the number of words it contained and the amount involved. It is a mortgage for $25,000,000, and is given by the Norfolk & Southern Railway Company to the Trust Company of America, of New York, trustee. The instrument contains approximately 30,000 words and has to be recorded in every county through which the Norfolk & Southern railroad passes.

The Men Helped.

Some of the good ladies of the Episcopal church tell us The Reflector gave them more credit than they are entitled to in saying they had purchased a lot for a church rectory. The lot has been purchased, but the men helped pay for it and are entitled to part of the credit.

Rapid Progress on the Panama Canal.

It is stated that at the rate of progress in digging the Panama canal made in October the excavation will be completed in fifty three months, or four years and five months, and that the construction of the great locks rather than the excavation of the canal will control the date of completion. This is astonishing progress. The lowest estimate made, before the work was begun, for its completion, was nine years, and few accepted this figure, it being generally thought that fifteen years was a more probable one. But the canal is to be dug. All doubt on that point has been removed.—Charlotte Observer.

Five Lives Lost in Hotel.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 12.—Flames sweeping through the servants' rooms on the fifth floor of the Hotel Garde this morning burned to death four employees while a fifth man was killed while using the rope of the fire escape.

Four other employees were slightly injured. None of the guests were seriously hurt, although many of them made hasty exits through the dense smoke by means of the stair case and fire escapes.

Church Improvements.

The Memorial Baptist church is taking steps to have the Sunday school room remodeled and several new class rooms built. This step is necessary to meet the large growth of the school, which has been quite remarkable the past year. The ladies of the church are also planning to install a steam heating plant.

STATE NEWS.

Some boys near Black Creek were playing with a rifle when one of them shot a little child in the eye, causing instant death.

Mrs. Nathan Holleman, of Apex, was run over and killed by a freight train on the Seaboard Air Line Tuesday morning.

Sixty bales of cotton on the freight platform of the Atlantic Coast Line, at Battleboro, were burned Sunday morning. The fire was caused by sparks from a passing engine.

"So disastrous are the greater number of those marriages," says the Houston Post: "that average people have come to regard an American girl who marries a titled foreigner as a fool. We do not pretend to offer a plan that might discourage these foolish alliances, but if, as Mr. Clews says, the withdrawal of these millions annually affects our great business enterprises, then surely Mr. Roosevelt can find a remedy. Mr. Roosevelt has tackled almost every problem except this and we do not doubt he can solve this one if he ever decides to give it his attention."

California's Greatest Gold Discovery

Probably the greatest strike of gold in the history of California was made today at the gravel diggings of the Prevolcanic Channel Gold Mining Company, 18 miles east of this city, on the American river and near the Lake Tahoe State road. As soon as the news of the strike reached this place there was a stampede for the district. Men went out in buggies, on horse back, and in wagons to stake out claims.

The mine in which the discovery was made is owned by local people and San Francisco capitalists. For many years it has been known that great deposits of gravel existed under the lava formation that caps the eastern part of the county. Prospectors have spent years in trying to locate the pay streak, but the lead was not heretofore found. A drift was cut across the channel for twenty feet and fabulously rich deposits uncovered. The gold is coarse channel nuggets, weighing from one to sixteen ounces, and was found in great quantities.—Placerville Dispatch to San Francisco Chronicle.

Beautiful Mixed Metaphor.

I think your readers may be interested in a mixed metaphor which recently appeared in the Egyptian Standard, the paper of Mustapha Kamel Pasha. That paper says that if the Whig element were dropped out of the cabinet "a truly liberal wind might become the guiding light of the foreign office, and the introduction of a home rule bill for Ireland might mean the beginning of justice for Egypt." I think the idea of a wind being a guiding light is an example of mixed metaphor which it will be hard to beat.—Letter in London Spectator.

He Waited.

Frau Mommson, widow of the Roman historian, bore the great historian sixteen children, of whom twelve, six sons and six daughters, are still living. Mommson himself was so self centered and engrossed with his ideas that he often passed his offspring in the street without recognizing them. One day a servant burst into the study of the great man with the announcement of the birth of his fourteenth. "It is a boy, Herr Professor." The professor turned, annoyed. "Tell him to wait," he replied.

Queer Specimen of Cabbage.

Samuel A. Mitchell was walking through the vegetable garden of Mrs. John Beck, one mile north of town, last Sunday when he came across a peculiar growth in the shape of a cabbage. It was discovered by accident. The long leaves covered the head, but Mr. Mitchell, in passing through the patch, happened to lift them, presenting the unusual spectacle. It is, in effect, some ten or twelve small heads grown together as one large cabbage. It is solid in appearance, but it would take an expert at first glance to tell what it is. The first thought is that some disciple of Burbank has been experimenting cross-breeding and has produced something abnormal. Charles N. Hinchliff has added it to his display of fruits and vegetables.—Colfax, Wash., Dispatch.

I asked her hand, she said to me, Think you that I your wife would be, Your health is gone, your system wrong, Go drink some Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, Wooten's Drug Store.

Nell—"That girl is so full of airs as to be positively tiresome." Belle—"Yes, she reminds me of an overworked phonograph."

The Michigan University professor who wants Roosevelt elected king should be bored for the simples.

The way eggs are soaring in price predicts a scarcity of Thanksgiving cake, and only the fellow with plenty of "script" can prepare to indulge in Christmas eggnog.

Since the money panic came along most people seem to have reached the conclusion that the newspaper man has no needs. We would not care if they changed their minds in this particular and would pass some "script" this way once in a while.

The country has had financial panics before and readily overcame them. The same may be expected of the present trouble. What is needed most is for people to keep their heads and not try to destroy confidence. Do not make matters worse by hiding your money, but turn it loose in the ordinary channels of business.

Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, is reported as saying that President Roosevelt will not accept a third term, and that Speaker Cannon will be the Republican nominee for President. He also says that Mr. Bryan will be the Democratic nominee without a doubt and declares the latter to be "the greatest living Democrat and the proper man to entrust with the affairs of our government."

A State convention of Tennessee Democrats held at Nashville, Tuesday, inaugurated a movement looking to the nomination of a Southern man as the Democratic candidate for president in 1908. It remains to be seen what support other States give this movement. But from past experiences it looks like the party could do as well with a Southern man as its candidate as with one from some other section.

The Wilson Times on Monday had quite a lengthy account of the reception accorded the Raleigh delegation in that town as they passed through that morning en route to Washington. We heard people on the train say that there were six Wilson people at the depot when the special train pulled in. Col. Fred Olds in his letter to the Charlotte Observer, after speaking of the handsome showing Greenville and Farmville made, adds "There was no reception given them at Wilson." There now!

The Enterprise says a Newton cow met her death in a peculiar manner a few days ago. She wedged her mouth into a 4-pound tomato can for a little brain that had been left in it. The can stuck so tight that she could not get it off and she was smothered to death.

CAUTIONS.

National guard officers throughout the state are enjoying a good little story at the expense of one of their number who has climbed rather high on the ladder of political preferment. He is a careful and deeply considerate man, cautious in everything he does and says and dislikes to make a positive statement. Nearly every declaration he makes is qualified in some way. Recently he was elected to a higher office and had to undergo an examination as to his tactical knowledge. The examination was conducted by Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart and several other general officers. "At what distance is deployment made in approaching an enemy's position?" he was asked. "About 2,000 yards," he answered. And so it went, every answer instead of stating anything positively being qualified by the word about, seeming to indicate a lack of certain knowledge, although as a matter of fact the answers were correct. Becoming annoyed by the frequent repetition of the "about so far," General Stewart looked up and said, "Can you tell me of any place in the regulations where the word about is used?" After a few moments of deep pondering the officer replied: "Yes, sir. It occurs in the command 'About face!'" General Stewart was forced to join the laugh, and the story spread throughout the guard.—Philadelphia Record.

A German View of Our Pie. The Berliner Tageblatt in a recent number of its illustrated supplement has a picture showing "the finish in an American pie eating contest." A Dresden paper in commenting on the scene says: "Pie is a purely American product. It is not Kuchen, pastete or stolle, but all three in one. Pie cannot be described. It must be seen, and it cannot be understood until it has been eaten. It varies in size from four to fifteen inches in diameter, and its upper and lower crusts are filled with fruit jams and with pastes which have no other use. Pie is as essential to an American dinner as bread is to ours, and in one part of the United States known as the pie belt it is eaten at every meal. All Americans agree that pie is indigestible, but this does not affect the consumption, and, although it is made in every household, there are large bakeries in every city where only pies are produced."

Chinese Justice. Wrongdoers in China bring misfortune on all their relatives. Not long ago a man murdered Governor An Min of Anhui. The murderer himself was caught and beheaded, and now the law demands that his female relatives be sold into slavery, that his male relatives sixteen years old and above be decapitated and that his male relatives younger than that be compelled to serve in the imperial palace. The ancestral graves of the rebel are also to suffer. The tombs are to be razed and despoiled and the bones and dust within scattered to the four winds. It is hoped, however, that the authorities will not exact the full penalty of the law.

The Kaiser's Useless Arm. Emperor William's recent horseback accident is by no means his first experience of the kind, though the greatest care is taken by the master of the horse (oberstallmeister) to provide the emperor with the safest mounts, which are trained to be as easy and docile as a circus steed. The reason is that the Kaiser has no power whatever in his left or bridle arm, and that when he is leading past a regiment with drawn sword he has practically no means of controlling his charger. His majesty looks as if he were holding the reins with his left hand, but this is mere appearance.

A Beethoven Manuscript. Among life's largest ironies is the fact that often befalls the manuscript of a genius, says the Delinicator. Of no one is this truer than of Beethoven. When this greatest of composers was alive he was incessantly in financial difficulty. After his death all his manuscripts were sold at auction—over 200 of them there were, yet they brought hardly $300. This would be at the rate of about $2.50 apiece. The other day the manuscript of his G major sonata for violin and piano, written in 1812, was sold by a man in Leipzig to a man in Florence for $10,300.

A Cool One. Senator Albert J. Hopkins was praising in Aurora, Ill., the imperishable coolness of a young Chicago politician. "The boy reminds me," said Senator Hopkins, "of one of the great Diarrheal's colleagues." "This man in the course of his maiden speech in parliament paused to yawn." "He'll do," said Diarrheal, chuckling.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they never reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional treatment. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound in your ears, which is usually attended by imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; and cases of this kind are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a general ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the irritable nerves—mean Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or made nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy, even claims to treat the "irritable nerves". Also for bloating, indigestion, bad breath or complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write to me for sample and free Book. There is no such thing as indigestion, no matter how irritable or how obstinate that will not be speedily relieved by the use of Kodol. The main factor in curing the stomach of any disorder is rest, and the only way to get rest is to actually digest the food for the stomach itself. Kodol will do it. It is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids containing the very same juices found in the stomach. It conforms to the Pure Food and Drugs Law. Sold by John L. Wooten

A DRAMATIC EXPERIENCE. ALL THOUGHT THE SAME.

It Had to Do With the Rescue of Nordenskjold. Most dramatic in its experience of all the 1901 expeditions, hardly surpassed by any crossing either circle, was that of the Swedes under Nordenskjold, says H. L. Bridgman in the Outing Magazine. Landed at Snow hill, on Seymour island, Nordenskjold and his party bade goodby to Captain Larsen and the Antarctic, built them a house and settled down to scientific work for the summer and, as it turned out, for the winter. Larsen's instructions were to refit at the Falkland islands to give the zoologists of the party a chance at Tierra del Fuego and to come back to Snow hill in the summer of 1902.

That summer and the next winter passed, and Nordenskjold and his companions saw nothing of Larsen or of the Antarctic. One day they saw coming over the ice and rocks two objects which every one at first asserted were emperor penguins, but on coming nearer proved to be Duse and Anderson, who, landed the year before by Larsen and cut off by open water from their proposed journey overland to Snow hill, had spent nine months in a hut built of the stones which they could collect and subsisting on the scanty supplies left with them, but chiefly on the penguins and seals they had been able to kill. Men were never more warmly welcomed than these two, wintering unknown within twenty miles of comrades and headquarters.

Finally, as hope was almost departing and the summer drawing fast to a close, one fine day Captain Irizar, commander of the cruiser dispatched by Argentine, called at Snow hill and bade Nordenskjold and his reunited party make ready to leave for home. The welcome summons was, of course, willingly obeyed, but "if Larsen were only here," said the released and relieved Swedes. And the very next day whom did they see tramping across the ice but Larsen and five sturdy sailors from Paulet's island, where they had wintered after the Antarctic had been crushed and sunk by the ice, following a gallant fight of weeks to keep her afloat and bring off the party from the rocks of Snow hill.

The world rejoiced at Nordenskjold's rescue, and the more when the scientific results of his long isolation were found to be of the highest importance.

George Grossmith's Autograph.

A good tale is told of George Grossmith and the signing of his name. The proprietor of a certain hotel where "Gee-Gee" was staying during one of his recital tours brought in a volume containing the autographs of distinguished visitors and begged that Grossmith would write a few words beyond the bare record of his stay. The ex-Savoyard turned over the leaves to see what friend had preceded him there and saw a signature which gave him an idea. It was that of Mrs. Alice Shaw, the well known "siffusee," and in the book was recorded this reason for her whistling: "I whistle because I must." The opening was too good to be neglected, and it was not many seconds before the book received this addition: "I sing because I can't."—George Grossmith.—London Standard.

Roughing It.

On one occasion Archbishop Temple was welcomed and entertained overnight by a clergyman during the absence of that clergyman's wife. On leaving the host politely expressed the hope that when next his lordship honored the house Mrs. Temple would accompany him. "No, thanks," the archbishop laconically replied; "Mrs. Temple doesn't like roughing it." The clergyman's feelings were deeply hurt, for the visit had meant some expense and much anxiety to him. He unburdened his soul to his wife on her return. "Why, my dear," she exclaimed, "you didn't surely put the bishop in the pink bedroom, did you?" He did. "Oh, then that's it! I put all the plate in the bed!"—London Outlook.

A Tender Hearted Girl.

Softer than swansdown was her heart—more tender than spring tints in the sky. She could not bear to give pain to any living thing. As she walked through the woods such was his love that he went first and brushed away the spider webs with his face.

"See!"

"See!" he cried, pointing to a forest giant. "See!" And on it she saw a graven heart with their names cut inside it. "Oh, cruel, cruel!" she wept. "Our engagement is broken. I would not marry a monster who thus inflicts pain on me!" "What?" he cried. "What have I done that is so cruel?" "You have cut a live oak tree!"—Pearson's Weekly.

P. A. B. Widener tells this story on himself. It is the custom of one of the railway boards of directors of which he is a member to pay each director who attends a board meeting $20, and the money due the absentees is divided among those present.

On one blizzard day when the board was scheduled to meet Mr. Widener figured that the snow and cold would keep the other members away from the meeting, and he determined to attend and thus secure the fees of all the absentees as well as his own fee. Not that Mr. Widener needed the money, but he chuckled as he thought of the joke he would have on his fellow directors. So he put up with the inconveniences and dangers of the storm and made his way to the board's meeting place. His amazement was complete when he entered the room and found that every other member had preceded him. The intended joke was too good, and he frankly told of his purpose in turning out on such a wretched and death inviting day.

The other board members laughed heartily, and before many minutes had elapsed all had confessed that they were present as a result of the same mental figuring. Each had thought as Mr. Widener had—that he would capture his own and all his fellow members' fees. But each had to be satisfied with the usual $20.—Philadelphia Record.

Shaw's Splendid Dinner.

George Bernard Shaw, critic, dramatist and novelist, asserts that he has no more home instinct than a milk can at a railway station. He admits, however, that he has an address at 10 Adelphi terrace, London. "These chambers," he explains, "constitute the real center of my domesticity, because my wife lives there. My official residence, qualifying me as a vestryman, is in Fitzroy square. My mother lives there. I live nowhere." He says that any place that will hold a bed and a writing table is as characteristic of him as any other. At one of the Socialist conferences when the delegates assembled after lunch the well known writer came in, rubbing his hands and giving thanks for the splendid dinner he had just had. Some one asked him what he had for dinner. "Ah," replied Mr. Shaw, with all the serenity of a well fed man, "I've had seven bananas!"

Comet Superstitions.

Has this year's comet affected the weather? A century ago the answer would have been yes. Thus to the charge of the comet of 1811 were laid the facts not only of the excellent vintage and abundant crops of that year, but also that wasps were then few and flies blind and that a shoemaker's wife in London had four children at a birth. Besides such calamities as invasions, pestilences and the like, the comets of various years were considered responsible for many minor tragedies, including the destruction of a church clock by a meteoric stone, a fit of sneezing that became prevalent in Germany and in 1668 an epidemic among cats in Westminster.—Chicago News.

A Famous Brigand.

Servia's most famous brigand, Karajitch, has been shot near his hut on the summit of Mount Kaeni. He had fourteen murders, two abductions and countless robberies to his account. Deeply devoted to his mother, he supplied all her wants from the day she was stricken with paralysis. He told her recently that he would not let himself be caught until his head was rated at $2,500 instead of $500. Further, he promised her that he would endeavor to be taken in some poor man's cabin rather than let the "man hunters" (police) get the reward. He was, however, unable to carry out his good intentions.

Marie Corelli and Marriage.

Marie Corelli, the famous writer, is greatly annoyed by a little story now going the rounds of the press. The form it generally takes is this: "She was asked the other day why she does not marry. She replied: 'I have three pets at home which together answer the same purpose. I have a dog which growls all the morning, a parrot which swears all the afternoon and a cat which stays out at night.'" Miss Corelli possesses neither a dog nor a parrot nor a cat, and she has never yet met any one bold enough to ask her why she is unmarried.—Chicago News.

He Didn't Vote.

There is a little story going round the house of commons about a certain member who abstained from voting on the deceased wife's sister bill. Questioned by one of his friends as to the reason for his abstention, he replied, "Well, my dear fellow, it's just like this—my wife has a sister."—John Bull.

CONDENSED STORIES.

Examples of the Keen Wit of the Late William M. Everts. The Hon. William M. Everts, secretary of state during President Hayes' administration, was celebrated not only as a statesman and a lawyer, but also as a great wit. On one occasion he was at a large stag dinner given by Edward Potter in New York. The five Potter brothers were among the numerous dinner guests. Toward the end of the dinner Mr. Everts was called on for a speech, to which he responded: "As I look around this table I am reminded of a story of a young Presbyterian divine, recently licensed to preach, who was holding his first service.

"In leading the first prayer the nervous young clergyman began: "We thank thee, O Lord"— He stopped, cleared his throat and then went on:

"We thank thee, O Lord— "Again he paused and then in desperation said:

"We thank thee, O Lord, that thou art the clay and we are the Potter's."

The guests were convulsed, and his speech was an instantaneous hit, although none but Mr. Everts would have dared to do it.

On one of his trips abroad Mr. Everts landed at Liverpool. The steamer was proceeding slowly up the river to the wharf, and Mr. Everts was standing on deck looking meditatively at the muddy waters of the Mersey.

Suddenly he turned to his companion and, with a quizzical gleam in his eye, said:

"Evidently the quality of Mercy is not strained."—Washington Post.

The Mirage of Marriage.

Miss Marie Cahill chose the chorus girls for her new play, "Marrying Mary," by measurement. The Bertillon system was employed.

"By this excellent system of measurement," said Miss Cahill the other day, "one gets in a chorus girl the real thing. Mirage is avoided. You know what a mirage is? Quite sure? Well, at any rate, I'll point out its meaning to you with a story:

"A boy looked up from his book one night.

"Father," he said, "what is a mirage?"

"The father answered glibly from behind his paper:

"The union of a man and woman till death or the law them do part."

"But," said the boy, "that's marriage, ain't it?"

"Same thing, sonny; it's the same thing," replied the father. "A man imagines he sees wonders and delights where there is nothing. Fight sky of 'em both, my boy."

On the Links.

Eben M. Byers, Pittsburg's famous golfer, was talking at a dinner about dawdling players.

"Nothing is more vexatious," Mr. Byers said, "than to follow one of these dawdlers over a course. They all should be served as a bow legged chap was the other day.

"He was playing at Englewood. His play was as slow as it was poor. Setting his warped legs wide apart, he would miss the easiest ball three or four times and running. He was standing half a dozen good, break players, but this he didn't seem to mind at all.

"Finally one man, having drawn very near, lost patience and with a certain sent his ball flying directly between the slow player's bow-legs.

"The slow player jumped back in a great fright. Then he yelled angrily:

"Say, do you call that golf?"

"No," said the other, "but I call it pretty good croquet."

SUCCESSFUL LITTLE MEN.

An Ambassador Who Was Only Sixteen Inches In Height. Don't be ashamed of being small of stature. The finest brains are often found in the heads of little men. Alexander, Napoleon, Uladislav, Cubitalis, the pygmy king of Poland; Characus, the wisest counselor that was about Saladin, the great conqueror of the east; Marius, Maximus, Marcus Tullius and, to drop down to this day and generation, Alexander H. Stephens, Stephen A. Douglas, Jay Gould, Samuel Spencer and a host of others, all were small men. Yet, as they say in the Bowery, they got there.

Alypius of Alexander, a most excellent logician and philosopher, was only one foot and five inches in height. Augustus Caesar exhibited in his plays one Lucius, a young man born of honest parents, who was only twenty-three inches high and weighed seventeen pounds. Yet he had a strong tenor voice and could sing like a nightingale. In the time of Theodosius there was a pygmy in Egypt so small of body that he resembled a partridge. Yet he exercised all the functions of a man and could sing merrily. He lived to be twenty-two. Julia, niece of Emperor Augustus, had a dwarfish fellow of the name of Canopus, to whom she was much devoted. He was twenty-eight inches high. Andromeda, a freed maid of Julia, was of the same height.

Just about 100 years ago in Wurttemberg at the nuptials of the Duke of Bavaria a great pie was set upon the table. On being opened out stepped a dwarf, armed cap-a-pie, girt with a sword and having a spear in his hand. He walked around the table in a swashbuckler style, sword drawn, and caused the greatest amusement and interest.

There was a little fellow in Italy who was carried around in a parrot's cage and exhibited for money, says the New York Press. He was only thirteen inches high. A Frenchman of Limesin, with a formal beard, was also shown in a cage for money. He was about fifteen inches high. At the end of the cage was a little hutch, into which he retired. When the house was full he stepped forth and played a tune on an instrument.

Going away back without sitting down, Jeffrey Hudson was the wonder of his age. His father was a butcher, stout and of good height, and his mother was a large woman. At the age of eight he was sixteen inches in height. The Duchess of Buckingham adopted him. She clothed him always in satin. At a royal feast he was served in a cold pie, walking forth in complete armor. Being presented to Queen Henrietta Maria, he afforded much amusement. The king had a gigantic porter, William Evans. In a masked ball at court Evans hauled out of one pocket a long loaf of bread and out of the other little Jeffrey. This dwarf was employed on a delicate mission to France as ambassador. On his way home he was captured by a Flemish pirate. His captivity is the subject of a poem by Sir William Davenport, entitled "Jeffreidos." He lived to be sixty years of age.

A Swindle.

Richard Mansfield once hired a private secretary, but was compelled to discharge him because he could not spell and was otherwise rather lame in the matter of education. When the young man had received the notice of his dismissal he went to the actor and asked for an explanation.

"The fact is," he was told, "your education is too meager for the requirements of the position."

Greatly offended, the ex-secretary exclaimed, "Why, sir, my parents spent $5,000 on my education!"

"Then, my dear boy," said the actor, "I would advise them to institute proceedings for the recovery of the money. They were swindled."—Boston Transcript.

Lightning and Thunder.

Lightning is kindled in the thunderstorm by raising tracks of material substance scattered along its path into a state of sparking incandescence. The ordinary electric spark and the lightning are in this respect the same. The sound known as thunder is caused by the electric outburst of the cloud. The flash and the sound originate simultaneously, but the flash travels to the eye in an instant, while the sound is transmitted to the ear so sluggishly that it is some few seconds behind time.—New York American.

Not His Affinity.

The lank, long haired young man looked dreamily at the charming girl on whom he was endeavoring to make a favorable impression. "Did you ever long for death?" he asked in a low and moving tone. "Whose?" inquired the charming but practical young person.—Youth's Companion.

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas. M. Steff, and if bachelors are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a "hanging out place," I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225.00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350.00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is fully guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interests as well as my firm's interests. Grateful of past patronage.
