Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor

Rev. B. E. Stanfield filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church Sunday morning and night. His work on this circuit will soon close, this being his fourth year. We regret to see him leave. The work under his care has made steady progress. There was no building here when he came to this circuit and now his congregational worships in one of the best churches in town.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Tyson from the country, were here Wednesday to visit their son and daughter, who are in school.

M. B. Munford, of Ayden was here Saturday evening.

A. B. Litchfield, of Plymouth, spent Sunday here with his many friends. He is an old pupil of W. H. S. and now holds a prominent position in the bank of Plymouth.

G. Tucker & Co. have purchased the stock of goods owned by H. L. Johnson and will continue the business in the same store. We regret to see Mr. Johnson go out of business, as he is one of our cleverest and best business men.

Several of our people went to Hancock's Sunday to hear Rev. Mr. Hassell, from Martin county. He is reported to have preached an excellent sermon on the divinity of Christ.

J. E. Greene spent Sunday night in Grifton with relatives. Dr. J. H. Hudson left Tuesday morning for the exposition. He was accompanied by H. B. McLawhorn, who went to the bedside of his brother, Charlie, who is sick.

Our business men not only take cashier's checks, but they offer one per cent. premium on them. A ten dollar check is worth $10.10.

Afflicted Family.
On Nov. 14th the angel of the Lord entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bailey and took away their beloved son, J. T. Bailey, aged 17.

On October 26th they lost one of their daughters, Mrs. Bryan, of Grindool, aged 24. She left a husband and two children. Another member of the family is very low with typhoid fever. The parents have our greatest sympathy.

Important Meeting.
The Ladies Aid Society of the Christian church will meet Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. E. G. Flanagan. Every member is urged to be present. Business of importance to be attended to. This meeting was to have been held Monday afternoon but the rain prevented it.

For Sale.
Corn meal, cracked corn, hay, cotton seed meal and hulls, and coal, at the gin on corner of Fifth and Cotanch streets, near market house.

For Rent.
The store and one warehouse at present occupied by F. V. Johnston will be for rent Jan. 1st.

Warning.
All persons are hereby warned under penalty of the law, not to hunt or in any way trespass upon my lands known as the Wilson and Perkins farms north of the river. C. T. Munford 30 dt

Purchased by Moseley Bros.

I wish to state to the friends and patrons of my late husband, that I have sold to Mess. Moseley Bros. all the business held by him in the following companies, namely:

The Continental, the London Assurance Corporation, the Williamsburg City and Providence Washington Insurance Companies. I do most respectfully ask a continuance of this business with Mess. Moseley Bros., who will gladly furnish any information desired relative to same.

Very respectfully,
Mrs. J. L. Sugg.

Boke His Buggy.

In driving up the street early Tuesday night, Mr. Frank Stokes made a short turn at the corner of Evans and Third streets, and ran into the iron corner post. The front wheel of the buggy that struck the post was broken in pieces.

Marriage Tomorrow.

All interest is centered at Cotandale, where at noon tomorrow will take place the marriage of Mr. Douglas B. Wesson, of Massachusetts, and Miss Elba B. Cotten, daughter, of Col. and Mrs. R. R. Cotten.

Sunbeams

The Sunbeams Society of the Memorial Baptist Sunday school is looking forward with much pleasure to a meeting to be held at M. S. B. E. Parham's at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The Great Organ Recital

In the Methodist church Tuesday night next will appeal to all that is noble and good in those who hear it. The program has a variety and a sweep that will bring out the tone and volume of the organ in its lowest and sweetest notes and in its most powerful and thrilling parts. Another stop and more than thirty additional pipes have been added to the organ since the recital in March last. It has recently been tuned and it now may be called a superb instrument.

Mr. Freeman is easily one of the first organists of the country. With a beautiful church, a superb instrument, an inspiring program, a magnificent audience and a great organist, those who fail to attend will miss a treat.

In addition to the great organ recital some beautiful anthems and solos will be rendered by a well trained choir and cultured voices. We expect to see the church packed with Greenville's appreciative people.

OLD INSCRIPTION.

Found on Tombstone in Edenton Cemetery.

A gentleman visiting in the historic town of Edenton went to the cemetery there, and becoming interested in inscriptions on the old tombs, copied some of them and sent them to The Reflector. One reads:

"In memory of late merchant of this town who departed this life Sept. 8th, 1799, aged about 50 years."

Quite a long inscription read as follows:

"Sacred to the memory of Ma'achi Haughton, counsellor and attorney at law, Edenton, N. C. Born 10th Dec. 1790, died 24th Sept. 1849. A wit's a feather, a chief a rod; an honest man the noblest work of God. Adorned with the virtues of prudence, integrity and truth, an affectionate husband, indulgent father, kind master, sincere friend, universally respected and esteemed." The inscription closing with a Latin benediction.

AYDEN ITEMS

News Notes From a Hustling Town Briefly Told

Ayden, N. C., Nov. 20, 1907. Dr. R. J. Eckles and W. J. Fair, of Atlantic City, N. J., who have been visiting C. A. Fair, left for their home Sunday morning.

Mrs. M. L. Cox, of Winterville, is here on a visit to friends.

Mrs. A. W. Ange, of Winterville, spent from Saturday until Monday with relatives in Ayden. Auction sales in Ayden are becoming to be an every Saturday occurrence.

There will be many changes in and around Ayden next year. There is a constant hue and cry for more houses.

If a prominent young business merchant of Ayden should at an early date bring to his home from a sister town a blushing maiden fair, don't be surprised, for there is something in the air.

Game Warden, W. C. Hines, was here from Greenville Saturday.

J. H. Cobb and son, of Standard, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Miss Myrtle Purris, of Richmond, after several pleasant weeks spent here with friends, left for her home Monday. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. M. M. Sauls and Miss Purris Sauls who will spend a couple of weeks with her.

Harry Weiklee, Esq., of Greenville, was here Monday on professional business in a magistrate's court.

Blaze in Cotton Samples.

Tuesday night about 9 o'clock a gentleman was coming out of the office of Speight & Co., near Five Points, and struck a match on the door facing to light a cigarette. Instantly a flame of fire flashed over a large pile of cotton samples in the front window, supposed to be caused by a part of the match head flying in the cotton. There was some lively hustling on the part of those present to get the burning cotton out of the building and prevent a fire.

Gov. Glenn Coming.

The coming of Gov. R. B. Glenn to Greenville next Sunday and the two addresses he will deliver in Jarvis Memorial church will be an occasion of interest to our people. Every person who can do so should be out to hear the governor that day.

Prohibition Election.

Grifton is thoroughly aroused over the prohibition election to be held in that town next Tuesday. There will be speaking every night this week and Governor Glenn will be present and speak next Monday afternoon.

Died.

A telegram from Rocky Mount, Tuesday afternoon, announced the death of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Renfrew, formerly of Greenville. This is the second child they have lost since residing in that town.

Two Hunters Arrested.

Game Warden W. C. Hines had two non-residents arrested at Ayden, a few days ago, for hunting without first having obtained the prescribed license. With a warden in the county now people should be careful how they violate the game laws.

MOVEMENTS OF THE PEOPLE.

Those Who Come and Go—Some You Know Some Know You

W. H. Dail, Jr., went to Kingston today.

Miss Lottie Skinner went to Rocky Mount today.

Mrs. F. G. Whaley, of Shelders, is visiting friends here.

Miss Clara Jolly, of Ayden, came up this morning to visit Miss Lelia Tripp.

Miss Mary Higgs returned Tuesday evening for Washington.

Mrs. Alice Harper returned Tuesday evening from a visit to Farmville.

Mrs. C. B. Whichard and two little girls went to Rocky Mount today.

Mrs. Hannis T. Latham, of Washington, came in today to visit her parents, Major and Mrs. H. Harding.

Homicide and Attempted Suicide—(Other Farmville News.)

Farmville, N. C. Nov. 19 1907.

Walter Farmer, col, near Toddy, on Mr. B. F. Tugwell's farm, shot and killed his wife about 9 o'clock last night and then tried to end his own life by shooting himself. He aimed too low and instead of putting the load in his brain he got it in and under the chin. He was brought to Farmville and Dr. C. C. Joyner treated the wound, which, he says, would prove fatal. The cause of the deed was jealousy, Farmer's wife being too intimate with another man. It seems that the two men had an altercation last Sunday. Walter shot at the other man twice but did not get him.

W. W. Owens died last night at his home, near Fountain. Mr. Owens was a well-to-do farmer and was about 50 years of age. He leaves a wife and several children.

Miss Kinnon, the trained nurse who had been with Mrs. W. B. Burnette for six weeks, left for Washington last Saturday. Mrs. Burnette considered out of all danger, we are glad to note.

Rat Rountree and Mack Hearne, of Greenville, spent Sunday with W. M. Wilkinson, who is still quite sick.

The financial panic does not seem to diminish business much in our town.

The ladies of the M. E. church gave an apron party and oyster supper last Friday night for the benefit of the parsonage. Quite a large crowd of young people were present and the occasion was very much enjoyed by all. The proceeds amounted to $41. Miss Mary Farmer, of Wilson, is visiting Mrs. F. M. Davis.

NOTICE.

F. G. James, Attorney.

Missionary Society.

There will be a prayer service held at the residence of Mrs. Joe Dixon on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This service is one of the series led during the week of prayer and was postponed on account of the inclement weather.

Weather.

Rain and warmer tonight. Thursday rain.

SMALL FIRE IN STORE.

Stock Ruined and Building Damaged.

A little before 4 o'clock this morning there was a clanging of bells and shooting of guns to break the slumber of Greenville's sleeping citizens and warn them that there was fire. Those who were aroused hurriedly turned out of warm beds, rubbed their sleepy eyes, and went to hunt for the fire.

In was in the store of Sifax Fleming, colored, who ran a small grocery business in a building belonging to Wiley Norcott, colored, on Evans street, a short distance from the court house. The building was all ablaze inside when firemen and citizens arrived, and it was seen that quick work must be done, as the location in a range of dilapidated frame shacks offered an inviting place for a big fire.

Lines of hose from the two nearest hydrants put such volumes of water into the burning building that the fire was soon extinguished.

Fleming's stock is a total loss, there hardly being an article in the store that was not touched by the fire, and he had no insurance. Norcott had only $100 insurance on the building, but that will not cover the damage.

It is not known how the fire started, but from its location when first seen it must have caught in some rubbish near the stove.

The timely discovery of the fire was fortunate, as had it gained much headway it would have been hard to stop among the old buildings.

Mr. J. B. Cherry was first to discover it. He had passed a restless night, and as he could not sleep he got up, dressed and came uptown about 3:30 o'clock. He detected an odor of smoke as he walked up the street, which grew stronger as he neared the court house. While stopping at the fountain on the square to get a drink of water, his dog ran across to the building and commenced barking. Mr. Cherry then saw the fire and gave the alarm.

A Woman Coal Miner.
Margaret Peterman of Peterman's coal mine, near Stoytown, Somerset county, can mine coal and outfit two men. She mined two loads of coal for Joseph Koonz and George Wagner, the condition being that they should load the coal in a mine car and run it out of the mine. The second car jumped the track, and the two men were unable to lift it back on the track. Miss Peterman made a wager with the men that she could lift the car on the track herself. She lifted the car on the track unassisted, and now Mr. Koonz and Mr. Wagner say they will back her against any girl in Somerset or Cambria county in a weight lifting match.—Philadelphia Record.

WARNING.

All persons are hereby warned, under penalty of the law, not to hunt or in any way trespass upon any of my lands near the town of Greenville, either the farm on South side of the river or the low grounds on north side of the river.
Frank Johnston.

Run Them to Skin and Bone.
A New Yorker who sometimes varies his horseback riding by taking trips through the rail fence belt of Long Island noticed on one such trip a farmer sitting dejectedly on one such fence. At the farmer's feet was a litter of little pigs so thin they gave the impression of having but one dimension.
"What happened the squealers?" the rider asked.
The farmer beckoned him to come close, then hoarsely whispered: "Lost my voice. Them was the fattest pigs I ever seen. I used to come out and call 'em to me and feed 'em three times a day. Lost my voice and had to call 'em to grab by tapping with my stick on the fence. See? Now the darn woodpeckers is driving them pigs crazy."—New York Sun.

With Legs of Interest.
There is a police court magistrate of St. Louis who frequently evinces a pretty wit in dealing with fresh or notorious offenders.
"To one defendant brought before him not long ago his honor put the question, 'What occupation?'"
"Nothing much at present," flippantly responded the prisoner; "just circulation in round, judge."

Retired from circulation for thirty days.—Harpers Weekly.

DO YOU READ THE LABELS?

The hardships imposed on manufacturers of articles of food by the recently enacted food laws was the subject of discussion recently in a small circle. Two of the men present were manufacturers who objected strenuously to the descriptive label. One of the party contended that consumers seldom read the labels, and in order to demonstrate his contention he had some labels printed and, taking a groceryman into his confidence, sent to consumers of the "particular" class some strangely marked delicacies. One bottle bore on its face in bold type: "This catchup is made from turnips and potatoes, but is well colored and properly seasoned." Pickles were marked, "These pickles were colored with paris green," and olive oil was sent out with this label: "This pure olive oil is really the product of the cotton plant, but we warrant it strictly pure." Over the label on a glass of jelly this label was pasted: "This is make believe delicious apple jelly." "It was an expensive experiment," said the man who practiced the deception, "but it proved my assertion. The grocer told me that not one of the people whom he had served knew what was printed on the labels."—New York Tribune.

Imprisonment For Debt.
In spite of the reform worked very largely through Charles Dickens' picture in the debtors' prison in "Pickwick Papers," it is said that imprisonment for debt is largely on the increase in England. A parliamentary return just issued shows that last year 11,986 debtors were imprisoned in England and Wales. In 1905 the number was 11,405, so that there was an increase of over 500 last year, although the number of complaints was less than in 1905. The house of commons during the recent session passed a resolution that the power of committing to prison for nonpayment of debt ought to be restricted, and the house of lords upon the second reading of the lord chancellor's county court bill expressed a strong opinion in favor of restriction of this sort of power.

The Steam Turbine.
The steam turbine in its most effective form consists of a long series of rings of moving blades, between which are rings of fixed blades, which serve as guides to deliver the steam with the proper direction and velocity against the moving blades. The latter are mounted on a revolving drum, which is put in rapid rotation by the force of the steam. As the steam passes through the turbine it falls in pressure by a long series of steps, each small, so that all of its energy may be utilized.—New York American.

Musical Sarcasm.
Richter, the famous conductor, can be stern at times, and he also knows the value of satire. During the rehearsal of a certain musical festival the distinguished conductor was disturbed by some one in the hall beating time on the floor. Richter endured it for some time and then, turning round, requested the offender in his broken English to desist. "You see," he explained, with a smile, "when I am conducting I cannot always keep time with your foot."—London Standard.

A Chorister at Eighty-one.
At the age of eighty-one James Pollitt is still a chorister at Newton Heath. When eight years of age he became an alto boy at Culcheth Old school, Newton Heath, and with the exception of one year spent at Accrington he has continued to attend the church at the Sunday services, the festivals and week night rehearsals.—London Mail.

A Mansfield Story.
A famous American singer, now resident in London, was at one time a member of the late Richard Mansfield's company. "One red hot day in New York," she says, "we had been rehearsing all the afternoon until we were nearly melted—all except Mansfield, who looked as cool as an ice cream soda. It must have been a greasy looking lot that was summoned to the greenroom at the close of the rehearsal. Mansfield, it seemed, had something to say to us. It was as follows:
"I wish to inform you that I object to perspiration. I must request you hereafter to refrain from perspiring. I absolutely forbid it. That is all."

When Oklahoma Blushed.
Here is the way Champ Clark of Missouri talks about Oklahoma to her blushing face: "The garden of the gods; a marvel of human industry, a colossal and enduring monument to the American love of home; a model, progressive commonwealth, the last to be carved from the magnificent empire which Jefferson bought from Napoleon for a song—an empire greater in possibilities than that over which the mad Macedonian waved his ever-advancing banner or over which the Roman eagles flew when the seven hilled city was mistress of the world."—Kansas City Times.

Making a Choice.
"The people and the corporations," said Senator La Follette in Madison the other day, "remind me of a woman and her little boy. There were a very large chicken and a very small duck on the table, and the woman, pausing with the carving knife raised, said, 'Johnny, which will you take, chicken or duck?' 'Duck,' piped Johnny. But the mother shook her head. 'No, Johnny,' she said in a firm, yet kindly voice, 'you can't have duck, my dear. Take your choice, darling; take your choice, but you can't have duck.'"

THE CENSOR IN RUSSIA.

Newspaper workers in Russia are now in a worse plight than ever before. The conservative Voice of Moscow says of the recent order: "It establishes a new censorate far more severe than the old. The former censorate was administered by a committee of censors and a department of the press. The present censorate is administered only by policemen. And naturally the present censorate deals out severer punishments than did the old. Formerly the censor could only obliterate an article or seize one edition of a paper. Now he can fine the writer and the editor 3,000 rubles ($1,500). Formerly an editor could complain to the department of the press of a censor's action. Now there is no appeal against the policeman's fiat. This means that in the days when it was impossible to use the word 'constitution' the liberty of the press was nevertheless greater than it is now."

Cigar Delays a Train.
A Montmartre tradesman delayed railway traffic for twenty minutes at a suburban station recently because the officials would not add a smoking carriage to the train on which he was about to return to Paris. The occupants of a non-smoking compartment objected to the tradesman's cigar, so the tradesman, still puffing his cigar, lay down on the line in front of the engine. He announced that he would remain there until he had finished smoking. Various officials were summoned to argue with him, and finally, when the train had been delayed twenty minutes and the irate passengers demanded that it proceed regardless of the tradesman, the latter was forcibly removed and arrested.—Paris Dispatch in London Express.

Beauty and Marriage.
The examination craze has reached heights of imbecility which its most ardent initiators could hardly have dreamed of, but if the maidens of Great Britain have to pass an examination before they can become eligible for the honor of a man's hand we fancy we should range ourselves on the side of the angels and appose the plan with all possible vigor. The plain fact is that the prettiest girls are notoriously the stupidest, and if none but the ugly girls could get married, whatever result their ability might have on the nature of the infant, it would not take long before there were no types of British beauty left to lighten the burden of a drab world.—London Medical Press.

Woman an Expert on Shades.
When Miss R. L. Hoy was being examined as to her fitness for a position as telegraph operator, Division Operator Johnson asked the color of a piece of ribbon.
"That is corise," said Miss Hoy. "I just bought a hat of that color, trimmed with a veil of crushed violet."
"What's this?"
"That is Alice blue."
Johnson recovered slowly, but was game for another effort.
"What would you call this?" he asked.
"Nile green."
"And all these years we thought they were red, blue and green," he sighed.—Reading (Pa.) Cor. Toledo News-Bee.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

An Amusing Variation of the Old Bean Bag Game.

The usual game of bean bags played with a board is too well known to need description, but there is a variation of the game which will prove a welcome diversion for a rainy day in the nursery.

The first requirement is that of an ordinary iron hoop, which should not be less than fourteen inches across. This should be covered with two shades of ribbon in contrasting colors, there being wound round and round the hoop, finishing the latter with a bow and a loop with which to hang up the hoop. A small bell must be fastened beneath the bow, so that it will hang free in the center, while four bags made of ordinary calico, two of them four inches square and two five inches square, should be filled with beans or peas and provided with a knot of ribbon carried out in the colors of the ribbons on the hoop.

The game consists in throwing the bags through the hoop so as to avoid hitting the bell. If a player succeeds in this with one of the smaller bags it counts five and if with one of the larger ten, while if the bell is hit at all five is taken from the score.

The Cat Tigg.
This is a game for out of doors. When all are ready to begin they cry out, "The last perched is cat," at which every player tries to get a perch—that is, to get his feet off the ground. They may stand on a piece of wood or a stone, sit on the fence or a gate or in fact do anything so long as their feet are off the ground. The last perched is the cat.

The other players beckon to one another, changing places by signal or going to new perches, and the cat has to try to touch them before they have perched themselves. If the cat should succeed in touching any one while off his perch the player touched becomes cat. He cannot touch the old cat until the latter has been perched once.

A Sugar Pine Forest.
It is said that the greatest known forest of sugar pine lies along the backbone of the Cascade mountains, in southern Oregon. The giant trees of the forest tower 200 and 300 feet in height and are excelled only by the great redwoods of California. In point of value the sugar pine is equal to any of the marketable trees of the west, except the redwood. In lightness, durability and strength it is superior to the celebrated and almost extinct white pine of the eastern states.

The Giantsess.
The introduction of a giantsess will provide an amusing incident at a young folks' party. It is very easy to do. A tall boy or girl is dressed in a long skirt. He or she holds an umbrella partially opened as high over his or her head as possible. Over this umbrella place a large shawl, as shown in the picture. At the top point of the umbrella attach a ball, on which place a bonnet and thick veil. A good effect is produced by holding the umbrella not so high when entering the room. After you have been announced to the assembled company gradually raise it until you have stretched your arms up to make the giantsess overreach the highest picture in the room. When the giantsess bows she looks as funny as when she stalks around at full height.

A Queer Musician.
If any boy or girl who has a garden and is not afraid of creeping, crawling things will take a snail and place it on an ordinary pane of glass he or she will hear something amusing when the snail begins to crawl.

How Many Miles to Babylon?
How many miles to Babylon?
Threescore miles and ten.
Can I get there by sundelight?
Yes, and back again.

How shall I go to Babylon?
Who will tell me true?
Oh, there are trains and there are boats,
And automobiles too.

and one may ride a bicycle
Or go in a balloon,
Or one may travel on his feet,
And get there 'most as soon.

But trains go off the track, and boats
And boats go down below,
And automobiles go to smash
In ways that none may know.

And tires of bicycles go pop,
Balloons will go and balk,
So, taking all in all, I think
I'd were you'd walk.

CONDENSED STORIES.

Senator Tillman spoke of the negro problem in San Francisco not long ago. The Call of that city tells an incident of the senator's lecture. Tillman had announced his intention of proving that the negro was not the equal of the white man and asked any one in the audience who held the colored man to be the equal of the white to stand up. In the rear of the hall a man arose.

"I will prove to you," said Tillman, "that you yourself do not believe the negro to be the equal of the white man. First let me ask you if you are a man of family."

"I am," answered the man from the rear of the hall.

"Have you a daughter?" asked the senator.

"I have," was the reply.

"Now, let me ask you," continued Tillman, "would you allow her to marry a nigger?"

"A negro man, yes, but not a negro scoundrel," was the reply.

The senator started in amazement at the unexpected answer when suddenly some one in the audience cried out, "It's a negro you're talking to!"

Tillman finally discovered that it was in truth a negro, and he called out to the man that if he had had his specs with him he would have known his kind.—Chicago Post.

Judge Macked a Billboard.
Justice John W. Linck of Tacoma, Wash., recently gave proof of his interest in civic improvement when he set an example to other advocates of the city beautiful by chopping down a high billboard planted upon his property. The story of Justice Linck's work was told by himself. Said he:
"What do you think I did in the other day? I got a hatchet, and, going to my property, I found an excellent form of exercise in chopping down a large newly painted billboard put up without my permission."
"My objection to the billboard, however, was not that it had been erected without permission or upon my lot. My objection was to the thing itself as a nuisance which, being upon my property, I had a right to destroy. I did it all myself. It was a stiff job, but finally it fell to the ground."
"I have a suspicion," concluded the justice, "that the billboard agency will not erect any more signs upon my property."—Brooklyn Eagle.

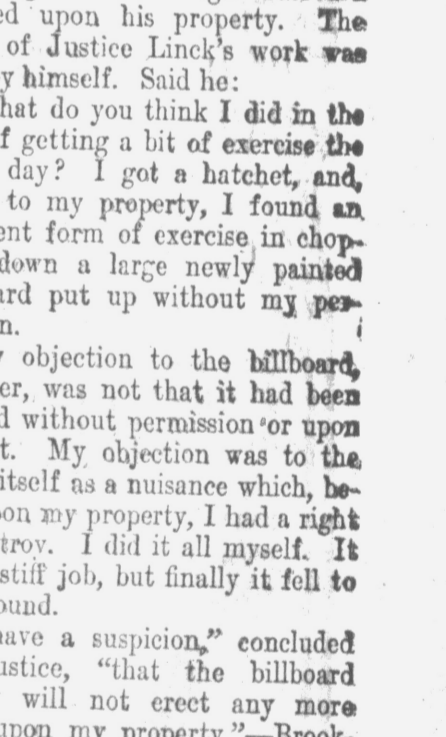

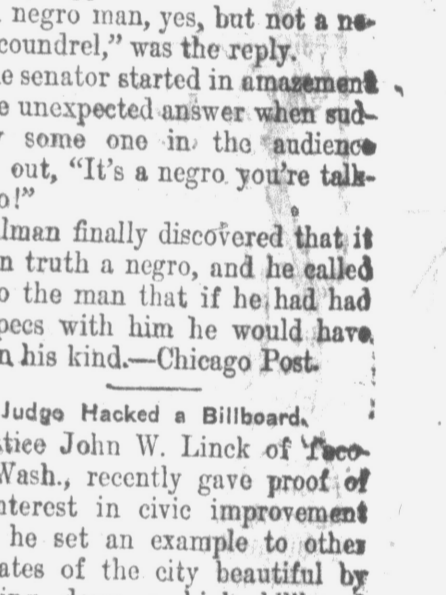

His Hamlike Honesty.
Mrs. M. G. Quackenbush, whom Attorney General Bonaparte has made one of his special assistants in the campaign against the trusts, is a New York lawyer.

Mrs. Quackenbush has the faculty of underscoring a remark with an appropriate fable. Thus, discussing the other day the character of a certain notorious millionaire, she said: "I suppose there is some honesty in the man, but it is hard to find. It reminds me of the railway ham sandwich."
"A man, you know, paused bitterly in the consumption of a very hard, dry railway ham sandwich and said to the maid behind the bar: 'I don't see no ham in this!'"
"Oh, you ain't come to it yet," said the maid, with a smile.
"A minute or two passed. The man's jaws worked gloomily. Then they stopped again, and he said: 'I don't see no ham yet, young woman.'"
"Oh," she replied, "you've gone and bit over it now."

No Cause For Worry.
Mrs. DeStyle—Oh, doctor, you must do something to get me on my feet. This is my "at home" day.
Dr. Cubebs—Don't worry, madam. You'll be at home all week.

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "emphre" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas. M. Stieff, and if bachelors are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a "hanging out place" I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225 00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350 00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage. Very respt.,

G. G. Fineman,
