THE NEW MILL.

An Enterprise That Will Help the Community.

Due to the energy and public spirit of Governor Jarvis Mess. R. J. Cobb, O. L. Joyner, and other prominent citizens of Greenville, this city has obtained the new plant of the Cabinet Veneer Company, who will build their mill at the site between the A. C. L. tracks and the cemetery fronting on Tar river, formerly owned by Mr. C. D. Rountree.

As the company has acquired external timber holdings on Tar river, this site is admirably located, their logs coming in by river, or by rail.

A sawmill will form a part of the plant, which will be much appreciated in Greenville for local use.

The veneer plant will be equipped with most modern labor saving plans to produce fine furniture veneers from oak and gum, such as is used by High Point, N. C., and Northern furniture makers, in thickness from 1-32 up to 3-16.

No basket veneers will be made.

The owners of this plant are practical and experienced men thoroughly versed in it, and in the manufacture of built up veneers into panels, which will also be made.

About 100 hands will be employed and it will be of great benefit to the whole country, to have a river and rail mill, furnishing a cash market for logs from all points.

Hitherto owners of live timber have had to sell at Washington, N. C., 25 miles from here.

This enterprise deserves the cordial support of this section and no man should obtain or sell his timber of any kind without consulting them and giving them a chance.

Let our timber be manufactured at home. A large force is at work grading the site which has been rapidly cleared of its timber.

The company will have the finest site in this section, with a large natural pond of several acres, made by filling up the river edge, and damming the creek now running through the ravine, whose sides will make the walls of the pond.

They have come here on strict business principles without asking bonus or gift, and the fact that Mr. R. J. Cobb is an officer and a director will at once give the enterprise public confidence.

Band Meeting.

A meeting was held last night for the purpose of organizing a brass band. The meeting was called at 7:30 o'clock with a large attendance. A temporary chairman was elected and the names of those who wished to become members were taken down. Several committees were appointed for the purpose of securing a proper instructor and getting the instruments of the Osceola Band. A temporary list of the instrumentation was taken down and is:

Kinchen Cobb, Jimmie Rivers, Will Cherrv, B flat cornets; D. C. James, clarinet; Richard Randolph, Blount Pearce, trombones; J. E. Stokes, Harry Moore tenors; W. F. Patrick, J. H. B. Moore, Leon Smith, altos; Percy Forbes, snare drum; Roy Hearne, tuba; Walter Johnston, baritone. There will be a special call meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Purchased by Moseley Bros.

I wish to state to the friends and patrons of my late husband, that I have sold to Mess. Moseley Bros. all the business held by him in the following companies, namely:

The Continental, The London Assurance Corporation, The Williamsburg City and Providence Washington Insurance Companies.

I do most respectfully ask a continuance of this business with Mess. Moseley Bros., who will gladly furnish any information desired relative to same.

Very respectfully,
Mrs. J. L. Sugg.

Rolling Thunder, a full blooded Sioux Indian, and a direct descendant of the famous Indian warrior, Sitting Bull, will be in the city with the Daniel Boone Company, which plays here Tuesday, November 26. This gentleman is a graduate of Yale, where he graduated with high honors. After leaving Yale he returned to the reservation, preferring to be among his own people and near relatives. Rolling Thunder has an elegant flow of the English language, and is today the only full blooded Indian playing with any dramatic company. His interpretation of the great chief, "Little Bear," is a rare piece of acting and when bedecked in full war regalia, his appearance is most picturesque and striking. The blanket and head dress were given to him by his uncle and were worn by the famous Sitting Bull himself. Rolling Thunder has been offered a handsome sum several times for this dress, but no offer has ever tempted him to part with so valuable a relic. It was with great difficulty that the management induced Rolling Thunder to accept an engagement, but he at last consented, and has received many flattering press notices for his excellent work.

To one who knew Greenville in the old days and who has not seen it in a number of years, the improvements and changes are more noticeable than to those who have remained here and seen the work go on day by day. There is no gainsaying the fact that the town has improved in every respect. It has broadened, widened and gone out—faster even, than its own people are aware of. Those who have helped to make the town what it is have no reason to be ashamed of their work, or to be discouraged over the progress made. Of course the town isn't full grown yet. It never will reach a state of perfect completeness, and there's still room for widening out and building up. Therefore let all who are interested in the town—and surely all are interested—take courage, draw a good long breath, and pull together for further progress.

The fact that Taft is coming home on the Rainbow indicates that the secretary is still hopeful of winning.

Colored Man Again.

John Hall, the colored man mentioned some weeks ago as making fine tobacco sales, had another large lot on the market Wednesday. He sold 1300 pounds at the Farmers warehouse branch of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company for $233, an average of nearly $18. John is an industrious farmer.

Foxhall, at Star warehouse branch of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company, had the season's record breaking prices on Wednesday. He made several averages as high as $25.

Weather.

Fair in western, rain in eastern portion tonight, slightly colder. Friday fair.

In discussing the new ten dollar gold piece a good many newspaper men are talking of a subject they know nothing whatever about.

One advantage about not holding the offices is that the Democrats can charge up about all the rascality in public life to the Republicans, and there's a plenty.

Talk about having a string to the third term refusal, some people act as though the president had tied a Brooklyn bridge cable to the end of it.

A farmer poet recently died worth $430,000. This proves that writing poetry does not really interfere with successful farming.

Japan will hold a national exposition in 1912. This is regarded as a sign of a long peace, we suppose on the ground that afterwards she will be too much impoverished to think of war.

WESSON-COTTEN.

North and South Join Hands and Hearts.

At one o'clock this afternoon, at Cottendale, the charming country home of Col. and Mrs. R. R. Cotten, their youngest daughter, Miss Elba Brown Cotten, was given in marriage to Mr. Douglas Bertram Wesson, of Springfield, Mass., Rev. W. E. Cox, of Greenville, being the officiating clergyman.

The day was ideal and the arrangements for the marriage were beautifully planned. A chapel—erected on the lawn for the ceremony—was trimmed in white and decorated with cedar, evergreens and potted plants.

Special guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Wesson, parents of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. William C. Taylor.

The maid of honor was Miss Eleanor Wesson, sister of the bridegroom, and the best man Mr. Flynt Lincoln, both of Springfield, Mass.

The bridesmaids were, Misses Annie Gray Nash, Tarboro; Gertrude Sullivan, Birmingham, Ala.; Janie Murray, Columbia, S. C.; Kathleen McDonnell, Baltimore, Md.; Ma J. Stearnes, Newport News, Va.; Julia Worth, Wilmington, N. C.; Edna Howarth, Philadelphia; Rena Clark, Tarboro; Louise Schoff, Philadelphia; Margaret Skinner, Greenville; Bernice Boyer Dayton, O.; Margaret Elliott, Washington, D. C.

Dames of honor: Mrs. Julian Timberlake, Raleigh; Mrs. Russell Wiggin, Boston; both sisters of the bride.

Flower girl Miss Agnes Cotten, Timberlake, Raleigh; niece of the bride.

Ushers: Lieut. Bruce Cotten, U. S. A.; Harold Schoff, Philadelphia; Russell Wiggin, Boston; Julian Timberlake, Raleigh; Preston Cotten, Norfolk; Julian Timberlake, Jr., Raleigh; F. M. Wooten, Greenville.

The bride's gown was white chiffon, embroidered in white morning glories, on satin panels, trimmed in white applique lace, that was an heirloom of her grandmother. She carried a snowier bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The gown of the maid of honor was white dotted chiffon, trimmed in gold and cut mother of pearl, and she carried pink roses.

The gowns of the dames of honor—Mrs. Timberlake white Irish lace and diamonds; Mrs. Wiggin in her wedding dress of white satin, embroidered in pearls. They carried roses.

The bridesmaids were all dressed in white and carried pink roses and maidenhair ferns.

The gown of Mrs. Wesson, mother of the bridegroom, was green chiffon with emeralds, Mrs. Taylor's gown was green chiffon, trimmed in pale blue cloth. Mrs. Cotten, mother of the bride was gowned in white crepe de chine.

A dinner party was given Wednesday night by Mr. and Mrs. Cotten at which there were forty-two covers. This was also the anniversary of the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Wiggin. Numerous toasts were offered by the guests to the bride of a year ago and the bride of today. Crocchia's Italian band furnished music at the dinner party and marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesson came to Greenville this afternoon and leave on the six o'clock train for an extended southern tour, after which they will be at home at Longmeadow, Mass.

Another Peabody Grant.

Announcement is made that at the next meeting of the trustees of the Peabody fund, to be held within a month, a grant of a million dollars will be made for the establishment of a teachers' college in connection with the Peabody Normal school at Nashville.

This grant to the Nashville college, it is explained, has been delayed because of the technical differences between the trustees, on the one hand, and the state of Tennessee and the city of Nashville, on the other, but through the good offices of Richard A. Olney and Joseph H. Choate these differences have now been settled, and the grant will be made.

This is a magnificent gift and comes to supplement the magnificent benefactions of the great philanthropist whose legacy has done so much for the cause of education in the south. The fund he left for the furtherance of education in the south has been well and wisely administered and thousands of teachers have prepared themselves for a life of usefulness through the kindness of George Peabody.

Students of education have long since learned that there can be no efficient system of training the youthful mind which not linked with the education of the teacher for the work in hand. Pedagogy is increasingly recognized as one of the most complex and far-reaching of all sciences, and the need for scientific training on the part of those who are to "pour the fresh instruction over the mind" is being more freely recognized.

Nashville is already a great educational center, and there is no invidious desire on the part of any of the cities of the south to minimize her good fortune. It is a source of genuine satisfaction to the entire south that she is to get this million dollar grant, and we feel sure that it will result in great good to the cause of education everywhere.

The Deep Waterways Conference, to promote the scheme for a great internal waterway navigation from Cape Cod, Maine, to Beaufort Inlet, N. C., is now in session at Philadelphia. Five hundred delegates from Maine to California are in attendance, including senators, congressmen and other representative men from all the States along the Atlantic ocean. Great enthusiasm is manifested over the scheme.

All persons are hereby warned, under penalty of the law, not to hunt or in any way trespass upon any of my lands near the town of Greenville, either the farm on South side of the river or the low grounds on north side of the river. Frank Johnston.

Run Them to Skin and Bone.

A New Yorker who sometimes varies his horseback riding by taking trips through the rail fence belt of Long Island noticed on one such trip a farmer sitting dejectedly on one such fence. At the farmer's feet was a litter of little pigs so thin they gave the impression of having but one dimension. "What happened the squealers?" the rider asked.

With Loss of Interest.

There is a police court magistrate of St. Louis who frequently evinces a pretty wit in dealing with fresh or feigning offenders. To one vagrant brought before him not long ago his honor put the question, "What occupation?" "Nothin' much at present," slipperily responded the prisoner; "just curculatin' round, judge." "Retired from circulation for thirty days," dryly observed his honor to the clerk of the court.—Harper's Weekly.

JAIL GRAFT IN GERMANY.

In Cologne, Germany, at a recent court trial it was asserted that as soon as a well dressed prisoner appeared in the prison he was beset with attentions from the warders, all eager for his patronage. Their object was to act as middlemen between him and his relatives. They would convey letters, money and food, and for these services they received their reward from the relatives of the prisoners. They placed food and letters in their boots or under the mattress, but it was in money matters that they developed those practices which finally got them into trouble. The money given to them for the prisoners found its way not to those for whom it was intended, but into the warder's pockets. One poor girl, whose lover was in jail, they swindled out of her last mark. These jailers were in the habit of having jollifications with the prisoners. One warder was so friendly with a prisoner that he used to occupy his cell at night and send the prisoner out to mount guard dressed in warder's uniform.

Whistler's Grave.

Whistler is buried not in Chiswick churchyard, where Hogarth lies, but in the cemetery that adjoins it. No stone marks the grave of the artist, which is almost hidden by carefully trained flowers. A little fence of wooden trellis protects it, and over fence and grave trailing ivy, geraniums and honeysuckle grow luxuriantly. The grave is beside the high wall of the cemetery and partly sheltered by a wild plum tree, overgrown just now by creepers that have sprung up close to the boundary. Beyond the wall rise ancient yew trees and the more ancient gray tower of Chiswick church, but modernity asserts itself in the incessant rattling and hammering from the torpedo boat works, whose long ranges of black buildings separate these peaceful acres from the adjacent river.—London Post.

Milk in the Slot Machines.

Penny-in-the-slot milk delivery machines are a feature at the stores of a large dairy company in London. From the door of each of these establishments protrude a brass spout and a handle. There are also the customary slot and a notice stating that only pennies can be used. All that purchasers have to do is to put in their pennies, turn the handle and hold their jugs to receive the half pint of milk which is thus released from a twenty quart tank. If they need a pint of milk the performance must be gone through a second time.

Doused the Minister.

M. Forrer, the Swiss war minister, had an unpleasant experience near Soleure. He was motoring into the town just at the time the local firemen were at practice. The firemen had barred a portion of the roads temporarily, but M. Forrer's chauffeur paid no attention to their signals to stop. The officer in charge of the firemen promptly ordered his men to turn their hose on the offending motorist. This was done, and M. Forrer and his companions, two staff officers, were soaked to the skin before the car stopped and their identity was disclosed.

Milk With Sediment.

The United States department of agriculture warns the public not to patronize at any price a dealer whose milk after standing for more than two hours reveals a visible sediment at the bottom of the bottle. "This," says the bulletin in question, "is evidence of dirty habits, extremely suggestive of danger and entirely preventable by clean, decent methods without greatly increasing the cost." The public is further advised to subject all milk to home pasteurization by bringing it to the boiling point and afterward cooling it upon ice.

Brief Advice.

At a dinner given in his honor in New York not long ago Clyde Fitch told of the advice he once gave to an aspiring novelist who worried him with his books. It appears that the embryo Fielding was better qualified to sell shoes than write novels. One day he came to Mr. Fitch in a great state of mind. He declared: "No one will read my manuscripts. There is a conspiracy of silence against me." "Join it," advised Mr. Fitch.—Saturday Evening Post.

Only a Yorkver.

There lives on a Yorkshire moor, in England, an old lady who remembers Charlotte Bronte in youth. She was a servant in a family to which Charlotte was governess. "Miss Bronte was nobbut the governess," she says. "But what was Miss Bronte like?" she was asked, "for she wrote some famous stories." "Eh," replies the old lady, "I never heard tell as she'd done owt to mak' folk talk. She wor nobbut the governess."

FEEDING THE PYTHON.

The Journal of the Royal Microscopical Society, describing a visit to Hagenbeck's zoo, says: "A specimen of python reticulata, about twenty-five feet in length, swallowed on June 7, 1906, a swan weighing eighteen pounds and two days later a roebuck of sixty-seven pounds. Another swallowed within two days two roebucks of twenty-eight and thirty-nine pounds and soon thereafter a chamois of seventy-one pounds. In two and a half hours only the hind quarters and the limbs of the prey were visible. When a flashlight photograph was suddenly taken the python disgorged its booty in the space of half a minute. A Sokolowsky reports on the same subject: In a few days a weight of eighty-four pounds was swallowed; 138 pounds in nine days. The pharynx can be dilated to a width of one millimeter forty to forty-five centimeters. A goat of eighty-four pounds in weight was engulfed and took nine days to digest. After a meal the pythons remain inert in the water. The appetite for a second meal a few days after the first is remarkable. On the other hand, two specimens remained from spring to November without eating at all and yet persisted in good condition."

He Finally Got In.

Strangers who try to get into the British house of commons by the members' entrance must be smart if they deceive the policemen who jealously guard the gates. Rufus Isaacs, M. P., relates how he found "bobby" too sharp for him when, as a young lawyer, he once marched boldly through the yard with the idea of reaching the floor of the house. He succeeded in getting past the policeman on duty, who, however, detected him a second or two later and, overtaking him, confronted him with the question, "Excuse me, sir, but are you a member?" "Not yet," was the reply, "but I am going to be soon." "I hope you will, sir," said the policeman, "but meanwhile would you mind going around the other way?" "That 'meanwhile,'" adds Mr. Isaacs, "lasted twelve years."

The Dinner Muldoon Serves.

A certain Gotham dining establishment features what it claims to be a replica of the spread regularly served at the White Plains "gym," made famous by the recent medic ball test taken by Secretary of State Elihu Root. Boasting the caption "Muldoon's Vegetable Dinner," the course in detail consists of fried sweet potato, eggplant, succotash, stewed tomatoes, cauliflower, bread and butter. It is said that when the sponsor of this meal bearing his name was a member of the "finest" and was jocularly known as "Muldoon, the Solid Man," he adhered to the regimen above described.—New York Press.

Depth of Death Valley.

The recent operations of the geological survey in Death valley have shown that the depth of that remarkable depression is less than has hitherto been supposed. The lowest point is 276 feet instead of 450 feet below sea level. Both the highest and the lowest points of dry land in the United States, excepting Alaska, lie in southern California and only seventy-five miles apart. The first is Mount Whitney, 14,500 feet high, and the second is Death valley. Before the Salton sink was flooded it contained the lowest point of dry land, 287 feet below sea level.—Youth's Companion.

Basket Willow.

A bulletin of the American Forestry association says: "A truly infant industry in this country is the growing of basket willow. This is one kind of tree which can easily be grown in time to meet the demand. Osiers for making baskets have all been imported heretofore from Europe, but experiments by the forest service show that they can be grown successfully in this country as a farm crop. The manufacture of baskets is by no means so large as it might be, and the increasing scarcity of wood for boxes may cause a greater demand hereafter for baskets."

Resolutions of The Hague Conference.

First.—There shall be no more war. Second.—If a war breaks out explosive bullets must not be used. Third.—If explosive bullets are going to be used notices to be given beforehand. Fourth.—If no such notice is given all previous declarations exchanged by the two belligerents are to be considered null and void.—Humoristic Blatter.

British Pluck.

About 60,000 persons assembled at the Crystal palace recently on the occasion of the brass band contest. This does not look as if we are becoming a nation of cowards, as is sometimes alleged.—Punch.

CONDENSED STORIES.

How a Chinese Diplomat Squelched an Impolite Congressman.

Wu Ting Fang, the new Chinese minister, is receiving ample warning that his sharp tongue may be curbed to the advantage of his country. The Chinese minister left many enemies behind when he quit his post here, and his return will find most of them implacable. More than one American statesman found that he could not have fun with Wu and escape unharmed.

A diplomat is supposed to smooth things over, but Wu could not resist a challenge to a verbal passage at arms. Once at a little poker fiesta at the home of a senator in which Wu sat a certain representative from the west, known for his incurable habit of "busting out" with observations that were better suppressed, leaned over to Wu and said something to about the following effect:

"Mr. Wu, I hear that there's a movement in China looking to the abolition of the pigtails you fellows wear. What do you wear the fool things for anyway?"

"Why," inquired Wu, peering at the margins of the cards that had just been served to him, "do you wear your fool mustache?"

"Oh," replied the representative, "I've got an impossible mouth."

"Er—so I should suppose from some of your remarks," observed Wu calmly, tossing some chips to the center to open the jackpot.

When Wu comes back he probably will hold his tongue. But then, too, it is certain he will not be given so many openings for withering retorts. Our politicians have learned better.—Kansas City Star.

One Voyage Enough.

The affable Captain Dugge of the Hamburg-American liner Prince Oscar was commiserating with a seasick passenger. "Seasickness, sir," said the captain, "is a very nasty thing. Some people's sufferings, though, are far more atrocious than yours. I once carried a Philadelphian who suffered dreadfully."

"At the height of his seasickness this poor Philadelphian beckoned his wife to his bedside and said in a weak voice:

"Jonny, my will is in the Commercial Trust company's care. Everything is left to you, dear. My various stocks you will find in my safe deposit box."

"The man paused and sighed; then he said serenely: "And Jenny, bury me on the other side. I can't stand this trip again, alive or dead."

A Nice Nature Story.

John Lever, the animal expert and nature writer of the Philadelphia zoo, was talking the other day about a wolf that ate six litters of her own cubs.

"She reminds me," he said, "of a reminder I overheard the other day. A mother came here with two cubs of her girls, and every now and then she would stop and fire off at the youngsters a few questions—nature questions, you know. In the lion house he said:

"Who can tell me what a ruminating animal is?" "I know, sir," said the little girl. "She is one that chews her cubs."

Conried's Compliment. An actor told a grace story about Heinrich Conried. "At a reception," he said, "the loss of the various senses was discussed, and a young woman, a grand opera singer of considerable beauty, said to Mr. Conried: "Which would you rather be, deaf or blind?" "Smiling and bowing gallantly, the great manager answered: "Deaf, madam, when I am looking at you and blind when I hear you sing."—Washington Star.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

The Game of Widdy Widdy Way Is Fine Outdoor Sport.

The game widdy widdy way is an outdoor game for boys. It is sometimes known as warning. A home is marked out against a wall. One of the players is chosen to be the he and begins the game by taking his place in the home. As soon as he is ready he clasps his hands together, kicks the wall, shouts "Warning!" and starts in pursuit of the other players. He must not unclasp his hands. If he does he cannot touch any player till he has gone home and started afresh. If he can be caught as he returns he must give the one who caught him a pickaback home.

As soon as he touches a player the two rush home to avoid giving pickabacks. After joining hands, kicking the wall and shouting "Warning!" as before, the two start together in pursuit of the others. In this way the game goes on, player after player getting caught and having to join the chain. The players who are free try to break the chain without being touched in order to get a ride home and to put off the time when they must themselves be caught, for as soon as the chain is broken the players composing it must run home.

If the playground is small it is best to arrange for a widdy of six—that is, when six are caught they must go out in pursuit together, but the next one caught must start a fresh widdy. This prevents the chain getting so long as to stretch right across the ground and make dodging impossible.

Game of Fruit Basket.

This game may be played either with chairs or benches if chairs are not convenient. Arrange an even number, say fourteen chairs in two parallel lines, seven in a line. Fourteen girls are seated in these chairs, and the fifteenth odd one stands between the rows, carrying a covered basket. She walks up and down swinging it. She stops suddenly before the first and says:

"I've been in the garden this morning gathering currants." As she says the name of the fruit the first girl must cry:

"Currants, currants, currants!" before the odd girl says it again, and this is repeated down the lines, changing the name of the fruit each time. At the first failure every one jumps up and changes her seat, and in the confusion the odd girl must try to get a seat, there being one, of course, always left to take her place, and so it goes on.

Optical Illusions.

Rapid rotation of Fig. 1 is said to affect every pair of eyes somewhat differently. This is due to differences of focus in the individual eye. Rotation of Fig. 2 should impart a springlike effect to the design. If the impression be unmodified by rotation there must be some eccentricity of vision.

Conundrums.

Who dares to sit before the queen with his hat on? The coachman. When is a doctor most annoyed? When he is out of patients. Why is a defeated army like wool? Because it is worsted. What relation is a doctor to a doorstep? A step farther. Who was the first person in history who had a bang on the forehead? Goliath.

Game of Alphabet.

Here is a pretty game, called alphabet, for the little ones: What letter is a vegetable? P. An insect? B. A clew? Q. A sheep? U. Part of a house? L. A large body of water? C. A bird? J. A direction of oxen? O. A beverage? T. A verb of debt? O.

The Other Indian.

Two Indians, one large and the other small, were walking through the street of the Indian village. The large Indian addressed the smaller one, saying, "You are my son, yet I am not your father." Who was the larger Indian? The smaller Indian's mother.

The Right Way.

Endeavor to be in reality that which you wish others to think you are.

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas. M. Stieff, and if bachelors are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a "hanging out place" I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225.00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350.00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage. Very resp't.
