A VANDERBILT LAY SERMON.

Sense and Nonsense, Wise and Other, wise, from Our Grifton Correspondent.

Mr. Editor:—Great Jeru-salem! How happy I am this day of our Lord, Nov., 1907! I did think I would "die the death of the righteous" and quit my foolishness; but will the will is strong the "flesh" is. So, now, look here, I tell you! While I feel that on my journey home, I come to the conclusion that I am glad to make it a long journey instead of a short one. I'm having too much fun these days now to want to kick off this mortal coil. It would look too selfish on my part to do so while old Grifton is having such a good time in more ways than one. "For instance," take the whiskey agitation that is going on in our town, now, and I don't think any one here wants to leave before the agony is all over.

This is strange logic, for a man to want to travel a long road instead of a short one, and to continue a life in the throes of continual agony; but there is where the fun comes in. It is funny to see so many "street" lawyers expatiating upon the merits and demerits of the local option Watts liquor law. Some of them say "Thus and So," and some say "So and Thus," and I tell you it is enuf to make the cussin' man cuss to see how much fuss is being made by some of them who don't know what they think they know. Some say "We haven't got no town government," and some say we have; and I am almost come to the konklusion that it may or may not be so.

You see the pint, Mr. Editor, with Vanderbilt. He is not looking for trouble. But if "wust comes to wust," he will be on the right side without fail. Some say that I've got to make a speech before the meeting closes. If I must, I must. But look here, let me tell you the truf! If they draw me out I shall take up both sides and argify from both standpoints. While I give myself the benefit of argify for pro-hi-bi-tion I was always willing to "give the devil his due," and say what good we can get out of his business, too.

But look here! Let me tell you something I liked to forgot. We had quite a Battle in town last night and the argument run all the way from the top of heaven to the bottom of hell, and spread itself all the way from "Bowling giggles" to "F... green" in favor of prohibition. Dr. Battle, of Kinston, with us, and from his view of things, as expressed in a very arly manner for an hour or more, whiskey had to stand from under his sledge-hammer blows.

But look here, let me tell you! Our old friend and statesman, Hon. T. J. Jarvis, on Sunday night last, in his usual genial and happy style, gave us the most practical view of the situation of any we have had yet. Time and space forbid my giving any elaborate view of his speech. It is "enuf sed" to tell you he was here and covered the whole thing. So long.

Now, Mr. Editor, I must say something for the ladies. They attend all the meetings and lend their presence, their melodious voices in good music and their lovely smiles as a token of the good will on all these occasions. They are always to be found as sentinels at the forks of the roads through life to guide men in the right direction. It looks to me like she thinks it her duty to do this as a repentance on her part for getting Adam into trouble about an apple. If so she can do nothing better than to see that her influence should be used for the benefit of man in every way she can to make it pleasant for him here, as some of us can't expect the minister. Angels to see the fevered brow, or cool the parched lips in the world to come. What, bless our dear hearts, are the lives of the town doing? I are going to give us an historical entertainment at the graded school house on the evening of the 27th to raise funds to furnish a library in the school. So you come, Bro. Ragsdale, and all feller sitisens that take an interest in the better education of the little ones of our land. Amen.

Vanderbilt.

With a cotton crop fully two million bales smaller than that of 1906 there is no reason why the farmers should not receive a better price for the staple. The demand for cotton constantly increases with the growth of population and the advance of civilization, and the claim that there is more than needed is either pure fiction or the wily talk of the cotton gambler, whose interest it is to keep down prices until the crop is out of the hands of the producers. Unless all reports are false the farmer now has the whip hand of the speculators and he should keep it and get full value for his cotton, or else know the reason why.

Near Titusville, Pa., early Thursday morning, five children of Thomas M. Zuver, an oil producer, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the residence. Zuver and his wife and baby escaped but two sons were terribly burned. Added to the calamity, was the death of Mrs. Zuver's mother in Indiana. Her remains were taken to Titusville Friday and the funerals of six members of the family were held simultaneously.

Literary men are coming to the front, it seems, from the way recent elections have gone. Toledo, Ohio, has a mayor who is a novelist, while the executive of San Francisco is a poet. Milwaukee, however, claims to have all rivals "beaten a block" in the "boy mayor" has been selected to go into vaudeville.

The cotton crop of 1907, according to the estimate of the Southern States Commissioners of Agriculture and Agricultural Workers, at their recent session at Columbia, S. C., is 11,412,829 bales. This is 2,026,905 bales less than the crop of 1906.

$5.00 Reward.

I will give the above reward for information leading to the conviction of the party or parties who secured without my knowledge or consent a quantity of envelopes bearing the address of J. M. Moore & Bro. and used the same for the purpose of circulating an anonymous pamphlet. As the father of J. M. Moore, deceased, I denounce the party who stole these envelopes, and take his method of informing the public that neither I nor any member of my family knew of the use of the envelopes for the infamous purpose of circulating an anonymous communication. J. R. Moore.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

Notes From Our Hurling Neighbor

Heber Mc-Lawhorn and Dr. J. H. Hudson returned from the exposition Wednesday evening. J. F. Barwick and Mr. Edwards, of Ayden, were here Friday evening.

Miss Laura Cox came in from Ayden yesterday afternoon to spend Sunday.

R. T. Evans, our excellent photographer, of Greenville, spent Friday here doing some work for Winterville high school.

T. L. Bland, of Rocky Mount, spent Thursday night here with his sister, Mrs. Chas. Aldridge.

Postoffice Inspector Alberton was here yesterday in the interest of the department.

Mrs. C. L. Patrick, of Ayden, spent Thursday here visiting relatives.

The Winterville Produce Company has just been organized. They will handle hay, grain, cotton seed, hulls, etc. They will be found next door to the postoffice. This is a long needed department in our business. It is hard for our merchants to keep up with too many lines, and this will relieve them of this.

R. T. Cox and W. A. McLawhorn went to Greenville Friday evening.

Prof. Freeman.

Prof. W. H. Freeman came in on the noon train from Washington, D. C., and will be in town for several days. He is such a genial and delightful gentleman that the many friends he made when here in March will be glad to greet him once more and enjoy his music. While here Prof. Freeman will be the guest of Mrs. J. B. Cherry.

"Young Mrs. Wintrop"

Will be rendered in the Masonic opera house on Thursday (Thanksgiving) evening, November 28th. The play is filled with thrilling incidents from beginning to end. It is a story of fashionable life in New York and abounds in mingled pathos and humor. It has been carefully gotten up by our best talent and deserves a full house. Let every one who possibly can turn out.

The Great Organ Recital.

We again call the attention of our readers to the organ recital and musical in the Methodist church Monday evening. The time has been changed from Tuesday to Monday evening.

These recitals are uplifting, entertaining and helpful in their influence. One of the primary objects of these recitals is to assemble the people together in an evening of genuine pleasure and improvement. We are sure that anything which tends to improve the taste and tone of our people and to inspire within them noble thoughts and higher ideals and aspirations, will receive a generous response. That the music, instrumental and vocal, at this organ recital and musical will tend to have that effect no one can doubt.

We shall, therefore, expect that all places of business will be closed by half past seven o'clock and that by eight o'clock the people will assemble to hear and enjoy.

The Cape Fear Lumber Company, of Wilmington, has made a 25 per cent cut in the wages of its employees.

SERVICES TOMORROW.

Episcopal Church.

Service with sermon and a celebration of the Holy Communion at 11 a. m. No night service.

Baptist.

Sunday school, Baraca and Philathea classes meet at 9:30. No preaching service.

Christian.

Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m. No night service.

Methodist.

Services will be held at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Governor R. B. Glenn will speak at both services. At the evening hour his subject will be Temperance.

The offerings at both the morning and evening service will be for the benefit of the orphans. Let all come prepared to make a contribution at this Thanksgiving season.

The Sunday School meets at 9:30 and will also remember the orphanage.

Special music will be rendered during the day. Miss Gaston has been busy with the choir rehearsals for several weeks. Prof. H. H. Freeman, who gives the organ recital Monday night, will preside at the organ.

Broke Down Twice.

The party who came up from Washington with Capt. O. L. Forbes yesterday afternoon had quite an exciting time. The Eagle, Capt. Forbes' launch, was not in running order and another boat was used for the trip. The start from Washington was made all right and things moved on nicely until Pactolus landing was reached when the machinery suddenly stopped. An investigation showed that the gasoline tank was entirely empty. Being unable to run without fuel the boat tied up for an hour and a half, when Mr. R. L. Johnson fortunately came along and loaned them some oil. Running was resumed without further incident until the party came in sight of the wharf at Greenville, when the oil gave out again and they were "hung-up" at the big rock. Mr. Johnson again came to the rescue and towed the party home. The boat was due to arrive here at 4:45 o'clock, but did not get in until 8.

Governor Glenn Arrives this Evening.

Governor Glenn, who has an engagement to speak in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church on Sunday, comes in on the evening train and is to be the guest of Governor T. J. Jarvis. He comes in from Washington, D. C., where he spoke last night before the International meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association. He goes over to Grifton Monday to make the final speech in the campaign on for prohibition over there. Greenville feels honored in having the State's chief executive speak to her citizens on those high, moral themes that make for higher citizenship and a general moral uplift.

New Rector Coming.

The Wilmington Star of Friday says: It is announced that the Rev. W. E. Cox, of Greenville, N. C., who recently accepted a call to the rectorship of St. John's parish, in this city, will arrive in time to conduct the services the first Sunday in December. He will occupy the rectory on Red Cross street early in the new year, bringing his bride to Wilmington at that time.

MOVEMENTS OF THE PEOPLE.

Those Who Come and Go—Some You Know Some Know You

B. F. Patrick spent yesterday in Washington.

Miss Fannie Moore returned Friday evening from a visit to Norfolk.

Mrs. I. M. Reams, of Durham, came in Friday evening to visit Mrs. B. E. Parham.

A. F. Kennedy returned last night from business trip to Washington, Plymouth, Edenton and other points.

R. L. Johnson spent yesterday down the river hunting, returning last night with a good kill of squirrels.

Our business people have always shown that they are ready to show their appreciation of, and to encourage, whatever tends to uplift and improve the taste and tone of the community. So we are not surprised to learn that a movement is on foot to close all places of business Monday evening and give those who labor and toil an opportunity to attend the organ recital. We are sure it will be helpful to the young men and young ladies who serve their employers and that it will be appreciated by them.

The Jacksonville, Florida, Times-Union thinks it would be "queer conditions of affairs, wouldn't it, with Roosevelt running on Bryan's platform and Bryan running on Roosevelt's record?" Come to think of it, yes, we believe it would.

The sheriff of Harnett county was the first to make full settlement of taxes with the State treasurer this year, Johnston county held this distinction several years, but the honor now goes to Harnett.

The Taft boom, in the estimate of the Washington City Herald, "could hardly be flatter if the gentleman had stepped upon it himself." It must be "shore" flat.

The Baltimore American declares that the simplified spelling issue has been revived. We supposed that it had received its knock-out blow when the president went back on it.

A Monroe county farmer, says the Kansas City Journal, offers a good farm hand $30 a month this winter, or for a year, a cottage home, rent free, all the milk he can use and his wood.

For Sale.

Corn meal, cracked corn, hay, cotton seed meal and hulls, and coal, at the gin on corner of Fifth and Cotanch streets, near market house.

W. B. Higson.

For Rent.

The store and one warehouse at present occupied by F. V. Johnston will be for rent Jan. 1st.

J. A. Andrews.

Warning.

All persons are hereby warned under penalty of the law, not to hunt or in any way trespass upon my lands known as the Wilson and Perkins farms, north of the river. C. T. Munford 20 dt

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas.
M. Stieff, and if bachelors are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a
"hanging out place" I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me
within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists
at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225 00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350 00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years.
Those interested in a school piano
or in a good slightly used piano
for the home, should write me at once and will profit
by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage. Very resp't.
