GOV. GLENN AT WINTERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL.

Winterville, N. C., Nov. 26.

Monday morning at 10:55 Gov. Glenn, accompanied by Messrs. W. H. Ragsdale and D. J. Wishard arrived from Greenville and in a few moments the large auditorium was filled with students and citizens of the town and community.

After that thrilling song "The Old North State" had been sung by the school, the governor was introduced by Prof. W. H. Ragsdale in his own easy and natural way. He referred to Gov. Glenn as doing more for North Carolina than any other living man and it only takes those who hear him to verify this statement.

The governor was, at his best, and that is enough to say, for the people of North Carolina know the balance. It has been the privilege of the writer to hear some of the leading orators of the United States, including W. J. Bryan, and we have never heard a speaker turn into the hearts of his hearers his words of eloquence clothed in sublimest truth and logic, more deeply than Governor Glenn.

He spoke along the line of inspiring the students to high aims in life, saying that in order that we may attain the greatest success in life, three things must be developed, the body, mind and soul. In order to develop the body proper exercise must be taken. We should not be afraid to help our fathers and mothers in their work when we go to our homes.

The mind is developed by hard study and application. Knowledge must be stored up in order to make new powers.

The soul must be cultivated. It is this that connects us with the Spirit of ruling and guiding it. Queen Victoria, the greatest queen that the world has ever seen, was a devout Christian. Wm. E. Gladstone, the greatest premier of the age, went into his secret chamber three times a day and there communed with his God. The great General Robert E. Lee was a most humble and devout Christian. The men whose lives stand out as great monuments of the ages are those whose lives were in touch with God.

Our grand old State needs men and women whose lives are dominated by two principles, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," and "Love thy neighbor as thyself." Then we should have little need of jails, penitentiaries and asylums.

The State also needs men and women who are willing to do something. All work well done is honorable, even from the humblest boot black to the governor. Our daughters should only consider the young men for husbands who are honorable and who can do something. Dudes should be discarded in every particular. Our young men should seek wives who know how to govern a home and be able to do any kind of work about it. Dudes and butterflies soon die and are forgotten. Men and women are not forgotten.

North Carolina in 1870 was one of the poorest and most illiterate States in the union. Now she stands second in cotton manufacturing, second to the countries of the world in the manufacture of furniture. She is second in the production and manufacture of tobacco. She has a greater diversity of crops than any other State in the union and has water power enough to turn the factory wheels of the world.

The older men must soon pass away, the destiny of the State will be in the hands of its young men and women. Its future depends upon what they are.

One only has to look into the face of Governor Glenn and see the great heart of a man who is willing to stand for truth even in the face of the hardest criticism. The day will be long remembered by the students of Winterville High School and citizens of the town and community. Eternity alone will reveal the estimate of this address.

The governor left immediately for Grifton where he delivered a powerful speech on temperance.

Coming.

Among the most promising attractions offered this season at the Masonic Temple opera house is Dickson & Mustard's production of "Humpty Dumpty" and the "Back Dwarf", with James Bonelli as the star. Mr. Bonelli, who will make his local debut in a sterling capacity on Tuesday night, December 3rd, is an actor of considerable ability. For many years he has been one of the best known and most popular vaudeville performers both in this country and abroad, and has met with great success in such musical comedies and pantomimes as "Devil's Acre" and "Eight Balls" and "Fantasma". Metropolitan critics have praised Mr. Bonelli unstintingly for his droll, eccentric comedy and old melodious work.

Reynold Wolf of the New York Telegraph declares him without a doubt to be the funniest man on the American stage, and many other well known critics have vouch'd for his ability in much the same manner. This company will appear Tuesday night, Dec. 3rd. Prices: 25, 50 and 75 cents.

Forbes-Mayo.

Cards have been received by their friends in Greenville reading as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. John Mayo invite you to be present at the Baptist church Bethel, North Carolina on Wednesday afternoon, December the eleventh. At four o'clock to witness the marriage of their daughter Blanche Caspari to Mr. Fred James Forbes.

Lamp Explodes.

Tuesday night about 9:45 o'clock the explosion of a lamp in the home of Simon Harris, colored, out near the railroad in "Little Washington," caused a fire alarm to be sent in. The only damage was the burning of some bed clothing.

Lost Dog.

Last seen about the 20th of November. Dark liver color, cross between bull and pointer. Liberal reward for return. W. H. Harrington, Greenville, N. C. 26, d-1mo.

Next year is campaign year and there'll be somethin' doin'. Lets get in the procession by having a tip top, sure enough band.

FOR SALE.

Farm of about 26 acres in one mile of Farmville. Small house, stables and barn, and water. Fine land for any crops and good location. Will sell reasonable for cash. Clayton Joyner, R. F. D. Farmville, N. C. 27 1 mo.

BACK HOME AGAIN

And Everything in B. & S. Shop.

The Reflector feels that it is back home once more, in that it is being printed on its own press again. The past month has been one full of troubles and annoyances for the paper. On the 25th of October a roller got out of place in our press and broke the roller carriage and one wheel, putting the press out of use for the time being. A telegram was at once sent to the factory for new parts to be shipped by express, and the order was filled promptly, but the express company lost the shipment (though it was a long box weighing 55 pounds) and kept us in ignorance of the loss for two weeks while the factory was tracing it. Then a duplicate order was sent, and there was some more waiting, the parts finally coming and the press getting in shape for work in exactly a month after the accident.

It was only through the kindness of Mr. H. T. King in permitting us to use his press that the paper could be printed during the month, but having to transfer the forms from one office to the other every day necessitated much extra expense and loss of time, and caused the paper to be too late for mails nearly every day, as well as cutting the weekly edition down to half size. Mail subscribers can now understand why the paper has reached them so irregularly during the month. We are glad the trouble is over and hope there will be no more of it.

It Was Fairly Good.

There was only a small audience in the opera house, Tuesday night, to witness "Daniel Boone on the Trail," but those who attended express themselves as pleased with the play.

Pr. aching at Pactolus.

Rev. W. H. Davis, of Winston, will preach in the Baptist church at Pactolus next Sunday, Dec. 1st, at 11 o'clock a. m.

Seats on Sale.

A large number of seats for "The Young Mrs. Winthrop" in the opera house Thursday night, were sold at Reflector Book Store today. The hours for sale tomorrow will be from 8 to 10 a. m. and 4 to 6 p. m. Those who wait until tomorrow to purchase seats will have to get them during these hours or take chances at the door.

Blind Couple to Wed.

Today Register of Deeds R. Williams issued a marriage license for Mr. J. J. Lassiter, of Boykins, Va., and Miss Pattye Nobles, of this county. What is most remarkable about this is both the parties to the marriage are blind. Miss Nobles is a daughter of Mr. Simon Nobles. She lost the sight of both eyes by an accident when a small child, and notwithstanding this misfortune she is an unusually bright and intelligent woman.

Weather.

Fair tonight and warmer in western portion. Thursday increasing cloudiness with rain in western portion. Warmer in eastern portion.

The tobacco warehouses will have no more sales until next Monday.

The Juniors will go to Shelmerdine Thursday to present a Bible and flag to the public school there.

There will be Thanksgiving services in the Baptist and Episcopal churches in the morning, at the Methodist at 3 o'clock and at the Free Will Baptist church at night.

Rev. T. H. King filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning and night.

STATE NEWS.

Asheville is claiming a population of 26,753, basing its claim upon the figures given by the new city directory just published.

Sherwood Higgs, doing business as Sherwood Higgs & Co., one of the largest dry goods merchants of Raleigh, made an assignment Monday. No estimate is given as to the assets and liabilities.

John A. Oates, owner of the North Carolina Baptist, for several years past published at Fayetteville, has sold the subscription list of that paper, consisting of between 7,500 and 8,000 copies, to the Biblical Recorder at Raleigh. With the next issue the Baptist will suspend publication.

The Southern Savings Bank of Wadesboro, with an authorized capital of $125,000, of which $20,000 is already subscribed, has been chartered. John T. Patrick, W. C. Brock and others, including one hundred and fifty business men and farmers of Anson county, are stockholders and organizers of the new bank.

The Edgecombe Advocate, of Tarboro, has suspended publication. The paper has lost money steadily and the stockholders refused to make further advances to carry it on. The amount invested in the plant for type, presses and equipment is said to be $25,000 in addition to which $1,000 was sunk in the publication of the paper.

After standing for six hours in the middle of the Catawba river at one of the widest places near Great Falls, to which he swam after his boat had capsized in the rapid current, George Garome, a foreman in the employ of the Southern Power Company, was rescued by parties who were attracted by his cries of distress.

Ella Pryor, an 18 year old white girl living with her mother near Gilead church, Mecklenburg county, was shot to death by an unknown party Monday night. A few minutes before the tragedy some one knocked at the door and one of the smaller girls of the family opened it but saw no one. Ella was called by her sister and when she reached the door was fired upon from the road and instantly killed.

MOVEMENTS OF THE PEOPLE.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE.

Baptist.

Services will begin at the Baptist church promptly at 10:30 o'clock. The order of exercises is as follows:

Song—An Endless Alleluia. Lord's Prayer and Gloria. Hymn. Scripture Lesson and Prayer. Hymn. Offering for orphanage. Song—Count Your Blessings Sermon. Anthem—A Song of Thanksgiving. Doxology.

The service will not be long. Come and bring your friends. Remember the Orphans.

Methodist.

A Thanksgiving Service will be held at 10:30 o'clock. Special music has been arranged, and a most cordial invitation is extended all to come out and join in rendering thanks to the giver of all things. Come with an offering for the orphans, and be glad.

There will be no services at the Christian church tomorrow. Rev. D. W. Arnold will preach at the county home at 10:30 o'clock.

Glorious Grifton.

The town of Grifton certainly did herself proud in the prohibition election Tuesday. Out of 58 registered voters 47 votes were cast, every one of them for prohibition. Not a man in the entire town cast a vote for saloons, a record which no other town in the State enjoys. It is certainly a credit to the town and sets a precedent others might follow. The Reflector learns from a reliable source that much credit is due Dr. W. W. Dawson and Mr. G. T. Gardner for this splendid work. The good women of the town also worked nobly for prohibition.

'Possum Caught in Town.

Mr. Ed. Ward caught a 'possum on Third street, the other night and it was a fine one. That 'possum sauntered in to take a view of the town once too often.

$5.00 Reward.

I will give the above reward for information leading to the conviction of the party or parties who secured without my knowledge or consent a quantity of envelopes bearing the address of J. M. Moore & Bro. and used the same for the purpose of circulating an anonymous pamphlet. As the father of J. M. Moore, deceased, I denounce the party who stole these envelopes, and take this method of informing the public that neither I nor any member of my family knew of the use of the envelopes for the infamous purpose of circulating an anonymous communication. J. R. Moore

QUAINT BRITTANY.
Queer Old Superstitions That Survive Among the Natives.

The Brittany folk doubtless hold to more old superstitions and traditions than any other people of the civilized world. They have the greatest faith in divination also. If a Brittany person would know the number of enemies he has he takes twenty-five new cambric needles, places them in a deep platter or dish, being careful to arrange them in such a manner that no two of the needles touch each other, and then pours water over them to the depth of half an inch or so. The number of needles that cross each other during this process designates the number of the experimenter's enemies.

If the Brittany man wishes to know the length of his life he will gather a fresh fig leaf, writing on it with his finger nail the question, "How long shall I live?" Then the leaf is placed on a shelf or in some place where it is safe from hand or wind and allowed to wither up. If this is done rapidly the diviner's life is numbered by days or by weeks, but if the process of withering is a long one the diviner's life is to reach the threescore and ten mark without a doubt.

To cure a child of toothache or the colic in Brittany there is a strange remedy. It is called the "touch of the molefied hand." The "molefied hand" is obtained in this way: Catch a mole and squeeze it to death in the palm of the hand. While the hand is still warm from contact with the tortured animal the magic is worked by placing the palm on the afflicted part of the suffering child.

One of the oddest of Brittany folks' old superstitions is the magic of the "traveler's walking stick." The secret of possessing the much coveted stick is set forth here: "Take a thick, straight branch of elder, extract the pith, then substitute as filling the eyes of a wolf, the tongue and heart of a dog, three green lizards and the hearts of three swallows, all of these having been reduced to powder by the sun as they lay folded between two papers sprinkled heavily with saltpeter. On top of this paper during the drying process place seven leaves of vervain gathered on the eve of St. John the Baptist, together with a stone of divers colors, which is found in the nest of a lapwing." It is said that this oddly prepared stick, by name "the traveler's walking stick," will procure food and lodging wherever its owner desires to stop in his wanderings.—Exchange.

Two Successes.
An honest exchange of compliments is always an agreeable thing. A New England minister recently married had desired one of his neighbors to secure a horse to be driven in the new phaeton which the clergyman had bought with a view to his bride's pleasure.

The minister's wife made her first appearance at church on the Sunday after the wedding and was approved by the entire congregation for her sweet face and simple manner.

The next afternoon the minister took his bride to drive, and, passing his neighbor on the road, he stopped to say pleasantly: "You bought us a very good horse, and we thank you for that, Mr. Wilson."

"You're welcome," said the parishioner, with gravity, "and you've chosen an excellent minister's wife, sir, which is about as difficult. The whole parish thanks you for that."

The Worst Possible.
The actor whose duty it was to play the part of the dashing hero of the melodrama was rather disappointing. He stammered over his lines and sometimes forgot what he ought to say; but, worst of all perhaps, he did not lay his hand on his heart often enough, neither did he roll his eyes like a fish out of water.

These things combined brought him into disfavor with the gallery. Just before the crisis of the play he clasped the heroine to his manly bosom and said: "Sweetheart, keep a brave heart! The worst is yet to come!" Thereupon there came a plaintive appeal from the gallery. "Oh, please, mister," moaned one of the gods, "you ain't a-goin' to sing, are you?"—Liverpool Mercury.

Soiled Ivory.
To clean ivory that has become brown or of a blackish tint dissolve rock alum in rainwater; boil this and keep the ivory in the boiling solution for about an hour, taking it out from time to time and cleaning it with a soft brush; then let it dry in a damp linen rag, when it will be found thoroughly cleaned. Ivory is often bleached by the simple process of dampening it and exposing it to the rays of the sun, a process which must be frequently repeated.

THE SMUGGLER.
He Gives His Friend a Tip on How to Buy Jewels Abroad.

Two millionaires, very smart in their new London lounge suits, stood on the pier awaiting the customs examination of their luggage.

"I thought," the first said cautiously, "of buying my wife a diamond tiara in Paris. It was $20,000. Of course I'd have smuggled it in. But, hang it all, when we men of property try to smuggle in jewels we so frequently get caught. There's my friend, Golde, for instance, he had to pay the government $30,000 last year, let alone the ignominy."

"Golde didn't go about it right," said the other millionaire. "My wife's jewels are worth a quarter of a million. They were all bought abroad, but never a cent of duty has been paid on them."

"No?"

"No. And now I'll tell you where you and men like you make a mistake. You buy your jewels always in one place. You buy them in the Rue de la Paix, in Paris. And you give your name to the jeweler, your hotel address, even your home address. And what is the result? Why, the secret service men are on to you at once. They find out just what you have bought, and on your arrival here in New York a revenue man is waiting for you with a list of all your purchases. Then what a scene! Then how you lie!"

"But surely," said the other, "if you buy jewels to the value of many thousands your French jeweler is not such a fool as to tell a secret service agent about it."

"No, of course not. It is to the jeweler's interest to keep mum. He wants to retain your custom, and he does keep mum. But how about his clerks? Doesn't he employ half a dozen clerks at salaries of $15 a week or so? And can't a secret service agent get next to one of these men? Can't he for 50 or 100 francs find out from the clerk all he wants to know? He can; he does. And it is in that way, through the bribing of underpaid clerks, that so many cases of jewel smuggling are detected."

"How can you smuggle safely, then?"

"By making the jeweler meet you somewhere other than his shop or your hotel, by swearing him to secrecy and by making this secrecy doubly secret by giving him a false name anyway. Then!"

But suddenly a customs officer appeared, and the two millionaires turned to welcome him with childlike and innocent smiles.
