WILLIAM HENRY WHITE.

A Good Citizen and Upright Man Called from Earth.

Mr W. H. White, whose death occurred Thursday afternoon, removes from earth a good man and useful citizen, and brings sadness to many hearts. He was a son of Capt. and Mrs. C. A. White, and in the 40th year of his age.

Mr. White was a man who made and held many friends. His loyalty to his family and friends was characteristic of his nature, and he was ready at all times to show his interest in and attachment to them. As a business man he was very successful. For some years he was a prominent merchant here, but being afflicted with asthma he quit the mercantile business a few years ago and engaged in farming, finding out door life and exercise more beneficial to his health. During the winters he engaged in the sale of horses, having an interest in a large business of that kind.

For two years he was treasurer of the town, and conducted the office with utmost fidelity, having the fullest confidence of every one.

His last sickness was only of about a week's duration. He had an attack of what was pronounced kidney colic, and while he suffered much from this there was no alarm about his condition until Monday night when he became paralyzed in the right side and sank into unconsciousness from which he never rallied.

In February, 1892, Mr. White married Miss Hattie Syllivant, of Greene county, and soon after marriage built a splendid home on Dickinson avenue. Besides the wife and aged parents, he is survived by four brothers, Messrs. C. F., S. T., J. B., and R. C. White, and one sister, Mrs. J. L. Fleming. Many expressions of sympathy have gone to these in their sorrow.

As Mr. R. C. White, who is en route home from Fort Williams, Maine, cannot reach here until tonight, the funeral will not take place until Saturday at 12.30 o'clock. Service will be held at the residence, interment in Cherry Hill cemetery.

Resolutions of Respect.

Grimesland, N. C., Nov. 26. Whereas the Great Spirit has, in His infinite wisdom, taken from our tribe our Brother J. J. Laughinghouse, Jr., who was a faithful follower of the Trail.

Therefore, resolved by Shawnee Tribe, No 62 Improved order of Red Men, that we extend to the family and friends of Brother Laughinghouse our deepest sympathy in the loss of one so loved by them, and while we bow in humble submission to the will of the Great Spirit, we share with them the mingled sadness and sorrow that his young and robust life could not be spared to us longer.

Resolved, further, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of Brother Laughinghouse, and a copy be sent to the Reflector with request to publish same.

JUST A SHOE BUTTONEP.

But it Helps a Man Get Home,

Deputy Sheriff S. I. Dudley, who had been to Raleigh to carry a patient to the State hospital, got back home at 10 o'clock Thursday night and had a somewhat novel experience on the return trip. He left Raleigh on the Norfolk & Southern train, expecting to reach home in the afternoon. At Zebulon, a station 35 miles from the capital, there was a stop for dinner. It seems that Mr. Dudley kept his feet under the table most too long, for when he walked out of the hotel he saw the train puffing away down the road.

He thought the "jig was up" with him so far as getting home any time that day was concerned but remembering hearing before leaving Raleigh that some officers of the road were to pass by on a motor car some time during the afternoon, he decided to watch for this car in the hope of getting a ride on it. So he went out in the snow and sat down on the track to watch and wait. It was a "cold berth," but he had no idea of taking chances at letting the car run by while he was going to a fire to thaw out, so he stuck to his post.

After waiting about two hours, Mr. Dudley saw the motor car pull in sight running very slowly. He waved it down, explained his dilemma to the officers on board, and asked permission to come to Greenville with them. The officers expressed themselves as sorry at having to deny the request, but the car was already so disabled it would hardly run and could not increase its load. Mr. Dudley at first thought this was "the blow that killed father," but soon recovered from the shock and asked to be shown the trouble with the car. The officers, glad at the possibility of getting the trouble remedied, began showing him over the working parts of the car. It was found that a key had been lost which left the running gear so it would slip. Examining the hole where the key belonged, Mr. Dudley dived down in his pocket and brought out a shoe buttoner, remarking "I think we can fix it with this."

And sure enough the buttoner did the work. The hook of it was broken off, the straight part driven in where the key belonged and the job was done. They all got aboard and the car came whizzing along, reaching Greenville at 10 o'clock. Mr. Dudley was glad enough to get home, and his wife was equally glad, for she had been uneasy since the evening train came in without him with no explanation of his delay.

Weather.

Fair and not quite so cold tonight and Saturday.

Attention Masons.

A QUIET HOME WEDDING.

Miss Maggie Smith Becomes the bride of Mr. A. O. Clark.

In the early morning hours of November 27th, 1907, at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Smith, of Black Jack, N. C., a quiet home wedding was solemnized.

It was the occasion when Mr. A. O. Clark, of Grimesland, and Miss Smith to the hymenial altar and there pledged their vows to each other. Rev. B. E. Stanfield, of Ayden, pastor of the Methodist church, officiated in the presence of a few friends.

Both the bride and groom are very popular young people and enjoy the esteem and confidence of a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Mr. Clark is the popular and efficient book-keeper for the firm of J. O. Proctor & Bro., of Grimesland, and has won an enjoyable reputation by his steady and quiet disposition and habits, and above all, by his fidelity to truth. Miss Smith, the bride, is a very beautiful and attractive young lady, who is very popular in her community. Her amiable habits and bright, sunny disposition has won for her a large circle of friends.

Immediately after the marriage the bride and groom drove over to Washington and there boarded the N. & S. train for Norfolk and other points.

May happiness and success crown their lives. X

Trad. Report.

Frederick's Saturday will say for Richmond Va. and vicinity: As usual at this season little is being done in the wholesale dry goods line. Manufacturers and wholesalers of shoes and rubber goods continue to receive satisfactory orders for spring shipment. The local tobacco market is more active, offerings are larger than at any previous time this season and satisfactory prices are being received for all grades. In southern Virginia and North Carolina peanuts are lower than at a comparative period of last year, while cotton in most cases is higher. Lumber continues less active, but prices have been comparatively well maintained by curtailment of production. Produce and provisions are in fair demand, and dealers look for better conditions in this line as the holiday season approaches. The supply of money in banks is greater than for some time past and merchants obtain accommodations with greater ease. Business conditions generally, have a brighter outlook. Retail trade shows improvement. Collections show improvement, though they continue slow.

"Along the Kennebec"

Though the weather was not at all favorable, a fair sized audience witnessed "Along the Kennebec" in the opera house, Thursday night, and the play was very enjoyable. The company carries a splendid band.

FRIDAY, DEC., 6th. 1907

One thousand bills introduced in a day in congress, which was the record Wednesday, looks like some of the members would do something if they could. But most of those bills will never see daylight.

While the supreme court of the State reversed the action of Judge B. F. Long in the matter of fining the Southern Railway $30,000 for selling tickets at a rate higher than that prescribed by the legislature, the court held that the Federal courts have no authority for enjoining the State from prosecuting violations of the law. So it seems the size of the fine Judge Long imposed is really the only point on which he was reversed.

Summary of President's Message Succinctly Told in Paragraphs.

The annual message of President Theodore Roosevelt, read before the joint session of both houses of the Sixtieth United States congress, contains thirty thousand words.

The president recommends federal licenses or national charters for corporations.

He recommends that any revision of the tariff be postponed at least until after the election.

He proposes that the congress appropriate money necessary to defray the expenses of the leading national parties in presidential elections.

Of most vital importance from the viewpoint of the President is the recent financial depression or stringency, pointing to the moral lesson of purgation of dishonest business methods.

The author of the message urges prompt action as to a definite currency plan, though the minutia of the proposition receives no tangible suggestion from the president.

Relative to the currency plan, however, the president suggests that it must be of sufficient elasticity to enable its speedy retirement after the financial stringency be passed.

The president follows his previous declarations as to railroads and corporations, advocating all the publicity possible in regard to the inside workings of giant corporations throughout the country.

He emphatically urged federal incorporation or conditional licenses, which, together with a wholesome governmental supervision, he believes would prevent a great deal of dishonesty which has been prevalent in the past in the various channels of business and trade.

The present tariff system, the president says, is responsible for the excellent balance which prevails between our expenditures and income, pointing with pride to the yearly average of $31,000,000.

He is of the opinion that the tariff system should be given careful scrutiny to prevent any tendency to growing abuses in the administration of this important feature of the government.

The president is heartily in favor of an income tax, though he says he speaks with reverence due to the contrary decision of the United States Supreme court on the subject.

It is the opinion of the president that recent prosecutions have successfully denied the old reasons given that it had been impossible to punish dishonesty where the guilty were men of great wealth.

In discussing railroad accidents the president declares that more people are being killed on the great steam highways of the country than are claimed in the wars of the world. He urges that the federal government investigate railroad accidents.

The lessons learned from his recent journey down the Mississippi river are pointed to as being reason enough for the country to pay particular attention to the development of its interior waterways.

Employers' liability, western land frauds, savings bank system and many other matters of especial interest to the public welfare are dealt with at considerable length in the message. Of more than passing interest is his recommendation that fourth class postmasters be placed under civil service.

Citizenship to the people of Porto Rico is suggested; an ocean mail subsidy to the far east is discussed at length; The Hague conference is reviewed along with the announcement that the exposition in Japan in 1912 will afford the United States a magnificent opportunity which he hopes to see improved; the tariff agreement, recently extended by Germany, is made subject of serious remarks.

BADLY MIXED UP.

Abram Brown, of Winterton, N. One bottle did me more good than all the five doctors prescribed." Guaranteed for blood poison, weakness and all stomach, liver and kidney complaints, by Jno. L. Wooten, druggist. 50c.

There is no great pain in having singing in the next flat when you are away from yours.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidney nerves get weak, then the organs always fail. Don't drug the stomach, nor stimulate the liver or Kidneys. That is simply a makeshift. Get a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is prepared expressly for these weak insides. Strengthen these nerves, build them up with Dr. Shoop's Restorative—tablets or liquid—and see how quickly help will come. Free sample test sent on request by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Your health is surely worth this simple test.

CONDENSED STORIES.

Presented Another Card, but No Harm Came of the Blunder.

It is always well to look at your visiting card before you send it in. A personal friend of Stuyvesant Fish, who is also a personal friend of E. H. Harriman and has managed to steer a middle course during the war between the two men, received a Harriman visiting card in the natural course of social relations at a time when the warfare was at its height. He never knew just how it happened, but several days later, desiring to see Mr. Fish on a business matter, he called at the latter's house and handed the butler a card from his cardcase.

A few minutes later Mr. Fish appeared at the head of the stairway and peered over the rail. Apparently satisfied at what he saw below, he started down slowly. Halfway down he stopped again and with a puzzled expression on his face studied the visitor's card intently. Then he proceeded the rest of the way.

His face was still screwed up in a doubtful way when he reached the drawing room, and it was in an awkward, hesitating way, holding the card in one hand, that he advanced the other to his friend.

"Ned," said he, "I think there must be some mistake here."

"Where?" asked the friend.

"What is it? What do you mean?"

"This," said Mr. Fish, handing over the card.

His friend took it and glanced at the face. It bore the name of E. H. Harriman.—New York American.

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas. M. Stieff, and if bachelors are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a "hanging out place" I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225.00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350.00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage.
Very respt.,

Missed Fire.

Mark Twain at a publishers' dinner in New York talked of his reporting days in Virginia City.

"We were trying a horse thief one day," he said, "and all of a sudden the big, burly scoundrel pulled off his boot and threw it at the judge. It was a heavy boot too. It was studded with hobnails."

"I am still rather proud of the way I wrote up that little incident, doing it neatly and at the same time getting back on a rival reporter whom I disliked. I got it all in one paragraph—something like this:

"Suddenly the blackguardly thief, pulling off his boot, hurled it with all his might straight at the judge's head. This desperate act might have been attended with most disastrous consequences, but fortunately the missile only struck a reporter, so that no harm was done."

Salary Not Considered.

Senator Frank B. Brandegee and ex-Governor Bulkeley were discussing with a Hartford editor a certain Connecticut candidate for political honors.

"He is sure to fail," said Senator Brandegee. "He is beginning his campaign with the most compromising and absurd speeches. He reminds me of the man who wanted to be a trolley car conductor."

"This man looked hearty, polite and intelligent, and the manager at the car barns seemed to think well of him. After a number of questions the manager said:

"Well, what pay do you desire?"

"The applicant gave a loud laugh. Then he dug the manager in the ribs and said:

"Oh, never mind about the pay, boss. Just give me the job, and I'll have a car of my own in a week or two."

A Pardonable Fault.

Dr. Edward Everett Hale, discussing a rather finicky attack that had been made on certain recent statements, smiled and said:

"But who or what is blameless? It is like the case of the Scottish hen.

"An old Scottish woman wished to sell a hen to a neighbor.

"But tell me," the neighbor said, "is she a thegither a guid bird? Has she got nae fauts, nae fauts at all?"

"Aweel, Margot," the other old woman admitted, "she has got one faut. She will lay on the Lord's day."

A Chain of Post Cards.

Post cards, both domestic and foreign, are so plentiful and so beautiful at present that thousands of boys and girls are finding ways of preserving them. Most of them use an album for this purpose, but it is said that a post card chain is preferable in every way. Punch a hole through each corner of the cards, string them on two ribbons, putting the ribbons through the upper holes from the under side and then across the ends of the cards and down through the lower holes. String on as many cards as you please, one above the other, like the links of a chain. Tie the two ribbons together at each end and hang the chain on the wall or finish with a bow of ribbon at each corner of the first and last card and fold in book form.

How to Make a Soft Ball.

Cut two rounds or circles of firm pasteboard or cardboard; then cut a round out in the center of each exactly alike and cut through the two sides of the rings so formed. Example: Select wool of brilliant colors and wind it closely over the cardboard ring till the center hole is filled up. Then take a very sharp pair of scissors and cut through the wool the whole way round the edge of the ring. Insert a strong piece of string between the cardboard rings and tie the wool with it as tightly as you can draw the string. Then slip out the paper rings by pulling them apart at the cut. Clip your ball evenly all over.

The Daisy and Dandy.

"Don't you think I'm pretty?" asked the daisy of the dandelion. "Yes; you look just like a fancy poached egg," said the dandelion.

Compensation.

Medicine is bad, but still I have fun when I am ill. Uncle comes and with him brings such a lot of toys and things. Doctors cannot always tell what will make a fellow well. Uncle says, and he thinks toys often cure sick little boys. So he brings me jumping jacks, Soldiers, horses, railroad tracks, Noah's arks and games and drums—Oh, it's gay when uncle comes! —St. Nicholas.

TO THE PUBLIC.

On Monday night some one tampered with one of the arc lights on Bonner's lane, causing the light and wire to drop to the ground. It would be certain death to any person or animal to come in contact with one of these wires. While this is very dangerous from this standpoint, it also caused damage to the light plant to the amount in dollars and cents somewhere between $50.00 and $100.00. We hereby offer a reward of $25.00 to any person or persons who will report to us the person tampering with the lights of the town with sufficient evidence to convict the same. We wish to give fair warning that we have several parties acting as private detectives and we hope the next occurrence will be seen by some of our employers.
