WAKE UP, GREENVILLE.

And Join Washington in Establishing a Boat Line.

Editor Reflector:

Greenville should wake up, and join Washington in establishing a boat line for the transportation of freight.

I was asked by one of the chamber of commerce committee to express my views in regard to the business men of Greenville and Washington organizing a company and establishing a boat line from Norfolk to Washington and Greenville for the purpose of transporting their freights. I have often remarked that it was a great mistake for the business men of Greenville and Washington to allow the water facilities for transporting freight to go down the river, and allow the railroads to reap their profits by advancing freight rates from 50 to 75 percent.

Before the Norfolk & Southern Railroad Co. purchased the Old Dominion Steamship Co's. inter-Chan Tar and Pamlico rivers the freight boats off, and the freight rates were 5 cents. Now they are 75 cents per ton. The rate on all other goods has increased proportionately. Now you business men see what an injustice you are doing yourselves and your business to allow such a state of affairs to exist. Don't be blind to the true condition of facts. Open your eyes and see yourself as the railroads see you—in the pen without nerve to get out.

Deduct the old water freight rates from the present railroad freight rates and you will clearly see that the difference in amount of money saved on goods shipped to Greenville or Washington will be more than the cost of operating an independent boat line from Norfolk to these towns. In addition the company would, by having the co-operation of its stockholders and the business men of the towns, be able to declare a handsome dividend annually, giving a profit on the investment besides saving thousands of dollars in freights to shippers.

Now, Greenville, what will you do? Sit still and allow the Atlantic Coast Line and the Norfolk & Southern Railway to dig down in your pockets and take the profits of your business, or will you organize a company, establish a boat line, freight your own goods and dictate your own charges?
Ola Forbes.

Claim and Delivery Papers.

"I have been called upon today to issue five claim and delivery papers, and one ejectment paper," remarked a Charlotte magistrate this morning. The significance of this, according to the magistrate, is that many people are in such straits financially that they are unable to meet mortgages due on personal property, on which they have borrowed money, and hence they are brought to the pass of having to surrender the goods. "They have called the recent money tightness a rich man's panic," remarked the justice, "but I think it has hit the poor man just as hard—if not harder—than anybody else."—Charlotte Observer.

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas. M. Stieff, and if bachelors are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a "hanging out place" I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225 00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350 00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage. Very resp.,
G. G. Fineman,
Box 325 Greenville, N. C.

"SURVIVORS OF MARLBORO GUARDS."

Editor Reflector.

I thank you for the publication in your paper of a communication I addressed you in reference to the Marlboro Guards.

In that communication I referred to the small remnant of that company who are still living, and as I am probably the only person in possession of their names, I kindly ask you to publish them, as many friends in the Farmville section, and probably, elsewhere, may wish to know who are the survivors.

Robt. W. Joyner, Mac. G. Ernul, John A. Lang, David Crawford, Caleb Cannon, John Kilpatrick, Frank M. Kilpatrick, William Kilpatrick, Jesse McGowan, Major Smith, Stanley Parker, Washington Jones, Kruce Hinson, Richard Harris, Frank Nobles.

This company, as I have already stated, was in the 27th, Regt. N. C. Troops, commanded by Col. John R. Cooke. Later he was promoted to brigadier general, but he retained his old regiment in his brigade during the whole war. His father was an officer in the federal army of high rank, and his son was born in camp and a soldier from his youth up.

The officer as well as the rank and file were greatly attached to him, and loved and admired him both as a man and soldier. After the war he located in Richmond, died there a few years ago, and is buried in Hollywood cemetery, the prettiest and most fashionable cemetery in the city. Near by are the graves of Jefferson Davis, Fitz Hugh Lee and many distinguished soldiers and statesmen. The widow of Gen. Cooke, now somewhat advanced in years, still resides here and has a comfortable home given her by her husband's father. Her oldest son John, named after his father, is a private soldier in the federal army stationed in the Philippine Islands. The other children, who are grown, all married and settled around her, all in a prosperous condition.

For the gratification of many old soldiers in Pitt I kindly ask you to publish the following letter. As soon as I was informed of the number of her residence, I addressed her a note to call to see her and the following is her reply. Robt. W. Joyner.

Dec. 26th.

Dear Capt. Joyner,

I received your letter this a. m. and hasten to reply to it. I will be pleased to have you call on me. During the reunion last June I had a good many of the old soldiers in my husband's command, to call to see me, and I and my children were pleased to meet them.

My husband was a man who seemed to retain the admiration of those who served under him. I have a large family of eight children, five of them now married, and I often wish General Cooke could have lived to see them all grown and settled in life. I think the hardships of war and camp life, and then the desperate struggle to make a living after the war, undermined his health, he never saw a well day after the unveiling of the Lee statue in which he took a most active part. You must call when you can and will always find a cordial welcome.

Hoping you have had a pleasant Christmas,

I am yours sincerely,
Mrs. John R. Cooke.

A Temptation.

The busy man, who reaches Saturday night exhausted in body and mind, is assailed at certain seasons by a temptation which masquerades in the garb of an angel of light. "The office will be very quiet to day. The shop undisturbed; my thoughts are on my business anyway; why should I not go there on Sunday morning, write my letters, look over my ledger and put things in good shape for a new beginning on Monday?"

This temptation wears an air of virtue. The man would not be in his pew, it is true, but he would not be on his wheel, nor taking any pleasure, and he would be out of sight of his neighbors. So that he fancies, he would not offend their sentiments of right in the matter of Sabbath keeping. Nevertheless, this is a temptation to be strenuously resisted. No law of the Decalogue is more gracious on the human side than the never repealed fourth commandment. All through the Mosaic economy, like a silver thread, runs the fine and kind meaning and thought of God, in provision for a seventh day resting from toil. When we set out to be wiser than the Lord, and insist on working the entire seven days without a break, we seriously impair our vitality and run the risk of shortening our lives. They who wish to live long and retain vigor of mind and body, should keep holy the Sabbath day and enjoy its blessed rest from care and from ordinary avocations.

It was a very pleasant occasion for all those who took part in it.

Value of Local Banks.

If you are not going to have any immediate use for your money a bank is the place to keep it—just any bank that has for its officers good business men. When money is represented by bank certificate it is "working" for its owner. It is also working for the general prosperity of the country. But when it is "laid away in a napkin" it is not doing the owner any good and is hindering the prosperity of the country to that extent. Therefore, any man who keeps his money in idleness is unconsciously working against the interests of the country as a whole, and incidentally against his own interest. If every man who accumulates money should take it out of circulation by hoarding it there would be continuous stagnation and panic and the country could not make any material progress.

Local banks have contributed more to the general prosperity of the South than any other agency. Every local bank that is established becomes a means of bringing out idle money and putting it to work. They have also educated the people in modern business methods. There are hundreds of farmers in this county that have used banks so long for the deposits that they would be about as much lost without banks as the business men would be—Marshville Our Home.

Modern Methods of Communication are Citifying the Country.

The new direct means of communication with the city has quickened on the farm the sense of needed improvements that the outside world has acquired, says the Delineator for January. And if there is not a mortgage written over the doorway of the home to the exclusion of all expenditure, the farmhouse, in the year when the crops are good, now gets a bathroom instead of an organ or a new plush upholstered furniture set for the parlor. In the cities it is an adjunct of modern living that has made the humblest tenement dweller a sharer in the luxury of the Caesars. One of the gifts that inventive genius has bestowed on mortals, is the enameled iron fixtures of a hundred dollar bathroom offering all of cleanliness and comfort that more money can command.

SATURDAY JAN. 11th 1908

When the State gets rid of whiskey the cigarette should not be long following.

W. T. Dortch, of Goldsboro, is the latest addition to the ranks of gubernatorial candidates.

The small amount of money showing itself would indicate that some people are hoarding it.

Two court houses in this State have recently been destroyed by fire, Rutherford and Swain counties being the sufferers.

From the way Judge Webb is dealing with illegal sellers of whiskey in Durham, prohibition will be likely to prohibit in that city. Judge Webb is holding court there and a number of persons were convicted of operating blind tigers. He gave them all terms on the roads, asserting that those who sell whiskey in prohibition towns should be given greater punishment than a fine

A matter the extra session of the legislature might profitably give attention to after getting through with the rate compromise would be the selection of an additional Superior court judge. The State needs an extra judge who could hold the special terms of court that are called, and to take the place of any judge who might be prevented by sickness from holding a regular term.

So alarmed are the saloon keepers of the country becoming over the prospects of losing their business, that those in Baltimore have united to help enforce the Sunday closing law. That is a step a little in advance of the Louisville "Model License League." This makes the people think it would have been wiser on the part of saloon keepers to have paid more attention to law and order before public sentiment was so aroused against them. They are too late in making up their minds to try to be good, and the edict of the public is that they must go.

The question of water transportation to Greenville is one our business people should not let rest until such transportation is secured. This is the only means of putting a check on the exorbitant freight rate charges the railroads make. The chamber of commerce at its last meeting started the agitation for a boat line, and elsewhere in today's paper is a strong communication on the subject. If our people could not help themselves they would have to submit to the combination of rates by the railroads, but as it is the river offers the advantage of showing their independence if they will use the opportunity.

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pang of this deplorable disease.
In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. These sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help.
