STATON-WALDROP

A Beautiful Church Wedding in Hendersonville.

Hendersonville, N. C., Jan. 20.—One of the most beautiful weddings that ever occurred in this city was the marriage of Mr. John Arthur Staton, of Bethel, N. C., to Miss Emma Bertha Waldrop, of Hendersonville, in the Methodist church. Rev. Mr. Moore, pastor, officiated, assisted by Rev. Mr. Rowe, of Asheville. The ceremony took place at six o'clock, the church being beautifully lighted and artistically decorated, two lovely arches being in each aisle, and a large flower-designed bell being suspended over the altar where the marriage vows were spoken.

The bride was gowned in a brown traveling suit, wearing hat and gloves to match, and carried a large bouquet of bride's roses. She was given away at the altar by her father, Dr. W. G. Waldrop.

The maid of honor was Miss Lillian Waldrop, sister of the bride, and she carried a handsome bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The bride's maids and ushers were: Miss Verda Waldrop with Mr. Walter Wilson, of Greenville; Miss Mamie Waldrop with Mr. Scoggins, of Richmond, and Miss Lula Waldrop. The bride's maids carried carnations. Little Miss Dorothy Waldrop, aged five years, was flower-maid, and the small brother of the bride carried the ring, the impressive ring ceremony being used.

After the wedding amid many congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Staton took the southbound train for Florida. Upon their return to Bethel they will be given a reception by the father of the groom.

On the evening before the wedding a reception was given at the home of Dr. Waldrop, in honor of Mr. Staton and Miss Waldrop, this being one of the most brilliant social events of the season in Hendersonville.—Raleigh News and Observer.

In Memorians.

Mr. J. F. Joyner, of Farmville, after an illness of only three days, was called to rest January, 18th, 1908, to await with the faithful in paradise the resurrection morning.

Mr. Joyner was fifty three years of age, and a loyal and devoted member of the Episcopal church.

His life as we knew him was an exemplary one, kind and loving in his home, faithful to God, and to his fellowman.

The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Frances Joyner, of Littleton. The great number of sorrowing friends which gathered to pay their last respects attested to the love which they bore him, and the high esteem in which he was held among them. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn his loss. To them we extend our lostfelt sympathies.

Longest Cable Ropeway.

Work is at present in hand on the construction of what is claimed to be the longest cable ropeway in the world. It is being constructed by a German firm, and is intended to connect the collieries of the Societe des Industries Charbonnieres et Miniere de Turkestan, situated about 80 miles from Samarkhan, Russian Turkestan, with the nearest railway station. Hitherto the coal has been transported by camels, the journey, on account of the very hilly district, occupying five days. The new rope way, which will be 54 miles long, is intended to carry from eight to ten million pounds per year, and the trolleys, which will each hold 20 pounds, will travel at a speed of six miles per hour.—Philadelphia Record.

Red Cheeks Without Rouge.

If you want to look very pretty and have red cheeks for a dance, you can do this says The Delineator. Rub cold cream into the face, always with an upward, rotary movement. Wipe that off, rub in more and wipe it off again. Then wash the face with hot water. Then dash cold water over it and dry it thoroughly with a soft towel. To add the final touch take a small piece of ice, cover with a towel and rub gently three or four times over the cheek bones. This gives a color which will last for hours and is really a mild form of a Turkish bath for the face. Many ladies before going to a dinner use leather sponges, rubbing the cheeks first with warm water, then hot water, and dry thoroughly. This gives a lovely color.

State Railway Figures.

Clerk Henry Clay Brown, of the corporation commission, gives out some interesting figures about the railways in the State. The present mileage is 4,106, the increase in twelve months being 148, of this the Norfolk & Southern contributing 97. The earning totalled $28,291,740 of which the Atlantic Coast Line shows $7,254,822; the Seaboard Air Line, $4,079,013; the Southern, $12,617,888; miscellaneous roads, $3,440,206. The taxes paid last year totalled $706,904, of which the Coast Line paid $228,796; the Seaboard Air Line, $122,081; the Southern, $288,542; miscellaneous roads, $67,304.

Those Who Come and Go—Some You Know some know you.

F. G. James went to Raleigh today.

W. H. Cox, of Kinston, was here today.

W. R. Wilson left Tuesday evening for the University at Chapel Hill.

Miss Mabel Barnhill, who had been visiting her parents here, returned to Bethel this morning.

Mrs. W. B. Smith, of New-Bern, came in today to visit her son, F. G. Smith.

Weather.

Showers this afternoon or tonight. Colder in west portion. Thursday fair, colder.

There is much work going on around the Norfolk & Southern depot and it will be an attractive place when completed.

Those getting better can tell the others how it feels.

The warmer days like this are the ones that breed grip.

ELEPHANT TRAVEL.

An Uncomfortable and Perilous Trip in a Howdah.

There were two elephants at our disposal, and myself and the interpreter rode the first, each occupying half of the howdah. The howdah has a peculiar and objectionable habit of nearly succeeding in cutting your legs in two. If you hang your legs outside you may pad the edge as much as you like, but if you are new to the game you will wake in about half an hour from an uneasy doze with the painful conviction that the lower halves of your legs have dropped off.

On squirming up into a position from which you can view the outside world you will see they are still dangling there, but with an irresponsibility which suggests that they have been frayed through to the last shred. Abnormal efforts allow you to drag them safely inside, and you think it will be better in future to keep them there.

The elephant is almost as fine a vehicle to see the surrounding country from as a London bus, and there is a considerable element of excitement in his progression. The elephant I rode had a fatal habit when it came to a river bank or bit of rough ground of looking around and picking out what seemed the worst bit he could see.

Down one side of a river it seemed as if he was engaged in trying to stand on his head, and I could look out of the howdah, although I was lying therein, and observe the fishes darting over the stones in the water just under my lord's noble forehead. More than once on these journeys the beast would patiently slouch through the trees and bushes off the track in search of something edible quite regardless of the fact that the branches threatened to sweep howdah and everything else over the stern.

But one of the most peculiar sensations was when they took it into their heads to have a scratch against the telegraph poles. It would be a wonderful line which could withstand the solid work the elephant expects its posts to carry out, and when the No. 2 beast leaned too hard and the post snapped I could almost see the mild and somewhat indignant surprise reflected from one intelligent face to the other.—Singapore Free Press.

A Parliamentary Stratagem.

It was at an informal session, after one of the regular meetings of a religious convention, that the New Hampshire minister told some of his best stories. "There is one man in our church," he said, "who is as good as gold, but so long winded that he tires everybody out."

"At one time it was suggested by one of the deacons that in order to avoid the extreme length of this good man's remarks at prayer meeting we might make a five minute limit."

WILL VOTE ON PROHIBITION.

Democratic Caucus Decides to Submit Question at Election.

Last night the Democratic caucus of the House and Senate, acting separately, decided to pass a State Prohibition law to become effective when ratified by the vote of a majority of the people of the State.

The Republican members have not held any caucus yet, but it was stated by a leading Republican last night that a majority of the Republicans in the Legislature were in favor of a straight Prohibition law.

The only matters yet to be decided are the character of the bill to be submitted and the time when the vote shall be taken. There was much sentiment expressed last night in favor of an early election, say in May before any primaries are held or political campaign opens. Some suggested August as the time for holding the election. It is the best season if it did not come so near the regular elections. That is a matter that will be settled later.

There are those who preferred a straight Prohibition law or no action but the sentiment in the Legislature was pronounced in opposition to any action without submission to the people of the whole State.

The result came after a long session of both bodies and long debate. The matter of the right sort of a law is now of prime importance. It will be necessary to have the right sort of law.—Raleigh News and Observer.

GO ON WITH ELECTION

And Let Greenville Vote on Prohibition.

Greenville has been moving to have a prohibition election, and a petition to that effect is now in the hands of the aldermen. When the special session of the legislature was called, with the outlook that a State prohibition law would be passed there was a disposition here to see what that body would do, and if the law was passed there would be no need of holding an election here. But the caucus of the legislature decided, instead of passing the law, to submit it to a vote of the people of the State at an election on a date to be later determined upon.

Since the legislature has decided this course Greenville had as well go on and hold a local election on the question. Then if the entire State does not adopt prohibition Greenville can have it anyway.

The petition for the election will be heard by the board of aldermen Thursday night, and the election should be called.

Winterville, N. C.; Jan. 22.

J. E. Greene spent Tuesday night in Grafton visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank James returned to their home near Grindool Tuesday evening. They have our deepest sympathy in the loss of their baby. Funeral services were conducted at the grave in the presence of a large number of friends.

The grip is among our people now but no serious cases have developed yet.

Several more new pupils entered school Monday morning.

WEDNESDAY JAN. 22th, 1908.

Mr. Bryan says he did not say it.

Secretary Cortelyou has explained.

Wilmington asks the legislature to spare the wine.

If they blow up any of Bob Evans' ships he will be cussing mad.

Some of those Kentucky tobacco fellows ought to be put in the pack house.

If reports from Japan are true, that country is not in financial condition now to stir up a racket with any other nation.

When almost the entire State is calling for prohibition, it looks like the decision of the legislature ought to be easy.

You folks get a hump on now, and take advantage of the opportunities to keep Greenville going forward.

When it is remembered what happened to Spain for blowing up the Maine, the other fellows had better be careful how they plot to monkey with Uncle Sam's ships.

You can readily see where the Republicans stand, and they are going to make capital out of it if the special legislature fails to pass a State prohibition law.

The Supreme court of Pennsylvania has declared unconstitutionally the 2 cent passenger fare rate passed by the legislature of that State.

The president has held up the appointment of Wheeler Martin to succeed E. C. Duncan, as collector of the eastern district of North Carolina, and there is a danger of Martin losing the plum.

About the worst thing we have seen mentioned in connection with the Taft boom for president, is that Marion Butler was the original Taft man in North Carolina.

Governor Glenn's message to the special legislature dealt mainly with railroad rates. While this was the only object mentioned in his call, he said if the body wish to consider any other subjects, two he would point out to them as being the election of an extra judge and passing a State prohibition law.

"This is the year to make money if one has the capital and the nerve to back it up," said a business man yesterday. We suppose that what he meant by "nerve" is whether or not a man has the conscience to charge big bonuses for accommodating those who have to borrow money. Some men make money that way, you know.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

WHO'S WHO AND WHY

Who made the best crop in Pitt County during the year 1907

EVERYBODY admits that this has been a bad crop year and as a whole it has been, but some planters had bounteous yields in return for their labours.

Why because they used Cotton Seed Meal as a Fertilizer.

DR. BONSTEEL of the Bureau of Soils of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in his address to the planters of Pitt county strongly advised its use, stating that as a fertilizer stable manure was the best adapted to our soil and the next best was cotton seed meal.

WINTERVILLE MEAL IS THE BEST OF THE "NEXT BEST"

IF you did not use it last year inquire of someone who did and you will try it in 1908.

WE will buy your cotton seed and sell you meal at reasonable prices, or we will exchange Meal for Seed on a liberal basis delivering the meal at any railroad station in the county.

SACKS furnished to seed shippers upon request.

WRITE or telephone us at once how many seed you have, what station you can ship from and whether you wish to sell for cash or exchange for meal. All enquiries will have prompt attention

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.
It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.
For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

What Is the First Law of Nature?

"Self preservation is the first law of nature," answers Johnny Jones.

Correct, Johnny. Go right up to the head of the class. This law applies to a community as well as to an individual. Under the severe operation of this law a town that does not take care of itself, that does not look after its own interests first, that does not look out for Number One, soon falls into a bad way.

That's just as sure as shootin'. It's the law.

We must obey the law or take the consequences. If we in this town and community do not work together for our own good, the mutual good of all of us, in all lines of business, we have only ourselves to blame if the place slides down the inclined plane instead of climbing the golden ladder of prosperity and progress.

For instance, if we do our retail trading with big city stores that have no interest in us except to get our money and keep it, local trade must suffer and shrink, town property values and farm land values must decrease—and there you are!

Johnny Jones, who knows the law, is a wise lad, but how about his papa and mamma?

Do they obey the first law as applied to the old home place? If they don't, Johnny may have to apply the law to himself when he grows up. He may have to go to the city to make a living.

Let's all think it over.

TO CUT UP DIDOS.

Some Speculation as to the Origin of the Phrase.

The phrase "kick up didos"—for the plural is formed either with or without the "e"—is allowable. It occurs, for example, in Quiller Couch's "Delectable Duchy," but the more common form is "to cut" or "to cut up didos." The word is a dictionary one. Dr. Murray says that it is "United States slang." He defines it as a prank, a caper, a disturbance, a row, a shindy. He quotes, as the earliest use in English literature, this sentence from "Sam Slick in England" (1843-4): "Then Italian singers recitin' their jabber and cuttin' didoes at a private concert." He says that the origin of the word is uncertain.

But Haliburton used the term in "The Clockmaker" in 1835, and Professor Joseph Wright in his "English Dialect Dictionary" says that the term is known in Ireland, Kent, Isle of Wight, Cornwall and also in the United States. Haliburton used it with reference to a Nova Scotian: "I met a man this mornin' from Halifax, a real conceited lookin' critter, all shines and didoes." Professor Wright gives as the first definition a disturbance, noise, fuss, as in the speech heard on the Isle of Wight, "He kicked up a middlen dido about it;" then plural—tricks, antics, eccentric feats—as in Kent, "Dreckley ye be bakturnd, there he be, a-cutting all manner o' didos," and, lastly, a plaything; also used as a term to denote articles which do not give satisfaction to the owner, as trimming on a dress or bonnet.

Yet the learned Professor Wright does not venture to explain the derivation of the word; he does not suggest a possible derivation. Did the term come from the fuss made by Queen Dido after the pious Aneas left her? An obsolete word "dido"—a thrice told tale may have been originally "a tale of Dido." Tait in his "Quaternios" speaks of a Didonian curve, with reference to the story of Dido, who bargained for as much land as could be covered with a hide and then cut the hide into a long and narrow strip. Why not say glibly that "to cut up didos" is to cut up as Dido did? Let us honor the name of that noble dame in every way.—Boston Transcript.

One Kind of Economy.

"Some people have queer ideas of economy, don't they?" said a Wall street man. "The other day I was waiting with a man on an 'L' station to go downtown. He saw a friend on the opposite platform and called over to him to come across and go down with him to his office on a matter of business. The man said he would, and after asking the ticket chopper to pass the word over that his fare was paid he handed over a cigar to the chopper and came over to our side. He was greeted with a laugh by the man who had called to him and naturally asked what it was for. 'Didn't you give that ticket chopper a fifteen cent cigar?' asked the friend. The man admitted that he gave the kind he usually smoked. 'Well,' said the other, 'why didn't you just come across without saying anything about it, pay your fare and save a dime?' The man rubbed his chin and looked serious. He had become so accustomed to tipping everybody for any sort of favor that he never thought of the other plan."—New York Press.

On the Map.

Two women chanced to meet on a street car in Chicago. "Why, how do you do, Mrs. Thompson?" exclaimed one of them. "I called at your house one day last week, and there was nobody at home." "We've moved, Mrs. Giles," said the other. "Didn't you know that?" "No. When did you move?" "About two weeks ago. We got tired of living in all the noise and bustle, and we went away out in the suburbs." "What direction?" "Northwest." "And where are you located now?" "It's a new neighborhood, Mrs. Giles, and I can't describe it exactly, but if I had a map of the city here I could show you. We live just about half an inch outside of the city limits."—Exchange.

The Face and the Emotions.

Habitual worry shows itself in the action of the facial nerve—the nerve of expression, as anatomists call it—producing lines which in course of time become permanent. The same is true of many other emotions and states of mind, and those which are dominant in the life of the individual will ere long produce permanent changes in the face. The secret of the beauty which age cannot wither is to possess a beautiful mind. Chin straps and depilatories and electricity and massage and cosmetics are poor makeshifts compared with this.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The finest coffee Substitute ever made, has recently been produced by J. E. Hoop, of Racine, Wis. You don't have to boil it twenty or thirty minutes. "Made in a minute," says the doctor. "Health coffee" is really the easiest coffee imitation ever yet produced. Not a grain of real coffee in it either. Health coffee imitation is made from pure toasted cereals or grains, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—were he to unknowingly drink it for coffee. J. E. Hoop & Co.

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas. M. Stieff, and if bachelors are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a "hanging out place" I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225.00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350.00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage. Very respt., G. G. Fineman, Box 325 Greenville, N. C.

Following Instructions. "Mr. Whittlesey," said the city editor to the new reporter, "there's to be a meeting of the trustees at the public library building this evening at 8 o'clock. You may go and cover it. Make a story of about 400 words out of it."

The new reporter went away on his assignment, and the chief of the local department turned again to his desk, made an entry in the assignment book that lay before him and dismissed the matter from his mind. About 11 o'clock, however, he suddenly called out:

"Where's Whittlesey?" "Here, sir," answered that young man, coming forward.

"I sent you to a board meeting at the public library. Where's your story?"

"It isn't quite finished yet. You told me to make 400 words of it, and I've got only a little over 300 so far."

"What did they do?"

"They met, called the roll and adjourned until next Tuesday evening."—Youth's Companion.

Flat Odors.

"If one could live on odors alone," said Mr. Flatdweller, "it wouldn't cost much to live in a flat.

"For there's no odor of cooking known that you can't smell here. The dumb waiter shafts and the various holes through floors and ceilings for steam and water pipes seem to make the whole building a sort of universal smell conductor in which no cooking odor is lost, in which all odors come to all.

"And so if anybody in the building has roast turkey we know that, but so, alas, do we know it full well if anybody has corned beef and cabbage or onions or fish. There is, indeed, a surfeit of odors, and, as I said, if one could live on odors, what a place this would be to board—such a variety and how cheap!"—New York Sun.

Shrunk.

After a long and wasting illness a north countryman was about to don his clothes for the first time.

"Jock," called his wife from an adjoining room, "hes thau getten all thy claes?"

The good man, with a lively sense of his emaciated condition, replied dryly:

"Aye, Aa's getten me claes reet eneuf, but there's nowt to hang 'm on!"—London Tit-Bits.

Not the Man.

Loafer (saluting perfect stranger)—I remember you, major, when we was in the regiment.

Stranger—What! In the Ninety-ninth?

Loafer—Yus, major.

Stranger—Company A?

Loafer—Yus, major.

Stranger—Always getting drunk?

Loafer—I won't go so far as to deny as I took a drop extry now and then, major.

Stranger—Discharged with ignominy for cowardice?

Loafer—'Ardly that, major, for I allus did my duty.

Stranger—Then you're not the man!—Punch.

Not Her Choice.

An east side resident tells of the following conversation heard at a breakfast table between a mother and a small child. The mother in question was reprimanding her daughter for speaking unkindly of her father.

"You never hear me speak in such a disrespectful manner of your father," she contended.

"Well, mamma, but you choosed him; I didn't."—Portland Oregonian.

His Pretty Visitor.

"Hear about Blenkinsop?"

"What about him?"

"Left his motor in front of his office yesterday, was gone half an hour, and when he returned what do you think he found?"

"Motor disappeared?"

"No, my boy. Jolly pretty girl sitting in it."

"What did Blenkinsop do? Tell her to get out?"

"Not a bit of it! He jumped in and took her home with him."

"Great Scott! What did Mrs. Blenkinsop say?"

"She said, 'I'll call for you again tomorrow, dear.'"—London Scraps.

The Historian's Size.

Macaulay was destitute of bodily accomplishments. He could neither swim nor ride nor drive nor skate nor shoot. But he viewed his deficiencies with indifference touched with humor.

When in attendance at Windsor as a cabinet minister the historian was informed that a horse was at his disposal.

"If her majesty wishes to see me ride," said he, "she must order out an elephant."

WHAT ABOUT CHRISTMAS

The children are asking it with wondering and hopeful expectations of what Santa Claus is likely to bring them.

The older people are asking it, not so much in speculation regarding the remembrance that Christmas will bring to them, but rather as an inquiry as to how they are to provide suitable and satisfactory presents for relatives and friends without too heavy a drain upon their time and purse.

May we help you to solve the problem and put you in the way of doing your Christmas shopping with pleasure satisfaction and economy?

A Servian Custom.

A traveler through Servia will often notice dolls hung up inside the cottage windows. His first idea is one of surprise that the children should so often choose this particular spot to store their toys, but presently he learns that the dolls are put up as a sign to announce to wayfarers that a marriageable daughter dwells in the house. The idea is to remind acquaintances from other villages who may have forgotten her existence. This custom is naturally confined to peasants, but nearly every house has a wreath of corn ears hung up on the outer wall. This wreath is brought back from the harvest festival, and there is a superstition that if it be stolen a daughter of the house will shortly be married. Where this is particularly desired care is taken to suspend the wreath well within reach of possible marauders.

Learning the Business.

"You say in this report of the fire," remarked the editor to the youthful reporter, "that the lurid glare of forked flames shot athwart the dark domed sky." Now, are you quite sure of that?"

"Perfectly, sir," answered the reporter. "I saw it all."

"Did you chance to ascertain the cause of the fire or the time of its inception, the total value of the property destroyed or the amount for which it was or was not insured?"

"No, sir, I cannot say I did."

"Then," concluded the editor, "just watch the lurid glare of forked flames shoot athwart this ink besmeared report."

And they did.

The Changeable Mediterranean.

The colors of the waters of the Mediterranean vary considerably at different seasons of the year and in different localities. During storms and boisterous weather the sea assumes a deep green and sometimes a brownish tint, but when calm and undisturbed it is of a bright deep blue. In the Bosphorus and among the islands of the archipelago the color is of varying tints, in some places being of a liquid blue graduating into a brighter green and in others assuming a blue so deep as almost to approach a purple.

Not True Love.

Grace (to her bosom friend, who is caressing a bear eyed poodle)—I hear your engagement with Fred has been broken off.

Bertha (with a sigh)—Yes, I found that his love for me was not the deep, true love which nothing on earth can change, so I was compelled to let him go.

Grace—Why, how did you find it out?

Bertha—Easily enough. He got so angry every time poor Flossie bit him.—London Mail.

Dramatic.

Just as he clasped the beautiful girl in his great strong arms a strange man came out and stood beside them, looking exceptionally foolish and idiotic, due possibly to his embarrassment.

"Pardon me," he said. "The playwright had more epigrams than he could put in the mouths of his logical characters, and I've dropped in just here to get off a few of them. I'll be as quick as I can. You understand my position, of course?"

"Oh, dear, yes!" they replied as with one voice. "Don't mind us. Go right ahead. Take the center of the stage and talk just as long as you like. We've been in society drama before, you know."—Puck.

Where He Was Lacking.

A man who had served two terms in congress was making a campaign for a third term. In the course of a speech in the town hall at Broom-corn Junction, a village near the farther boundary of his district, he said:

"It is true, fellow citizens, that I have not always been able to do as much as I should like to do in the matter of internal improvements in this district, but I have never lost sight of your interests for a single moment. You have no idea of the obstacles that lie in the way of a congressman who tries to secure appropriations for public buildings, the improvement of navigable streams and the like for the benefit of his constituents, but I want to assure you, fellow citizens, that I have labored constantly in your behalf to the very best of my ability."

"We know it!" shouted an old farmer in the audience. "That's why we want an abler man!"
