

POSTPONED TO JANUARY 30.

Petition for Prohibition Election Goes Over to That Date—New Aldermen Elected.

The board of aldermen met in adjourned session Thursday night to take up business left over from the regular meeting. All six of the members of the board were present, there being two vacancies.

Alderman Flanagan moved that the first business be election to fill vacancies in the first and fifth wards caused by the members in said wards changing residence to another ward.

F. C. Harding was placed in nomination for alderman of the first ward and under a suspension of rules was unanimously elected by acclamation.

A. M. Mosely was placed in nomination for alderman of the fifth ward and under a suspension of rules was unanimously elected by acclamation.

Both these gentlemen were sent for to be notified of their election and requested to come to the meeting, but neither of them could be found.

The consideration of the petition for an election on the question of prohibition was then taken up. Alderman Flanagan moved that final action on the petition be postponed until January 30th. He said he had talked with several well known prohibitionists who advised that it is best to wait until that time to see what action the legislature will take, so that if an election is held in Greenville it may be legal.

Mr. G. E. Harris for the petitioners stated the he wished to protest against the board making any further postponement of the matter. The people had signed and presented the petition in good faith, and he saw no need of the aldermen trying to evade their duty. He was here to do his duty by protesting against any such action as further postponement.

Alderman Moore said he fully agreed with Mr. Harris and thought it an injustice to the people of the town not to call the election as petitioned for.

Mr. E. B. Ficklen for the petitioners also spoke in protest of postponing, and said he wanted to ask some questions. Has the petition been checked over by the board of aldermen?

"It has," answered Alderman Bowen.

"Then how many names of qualified voters does it contain?" asked the speaker.

"A sufficient number to call the election" again answered the alderman.

"Then you should go ahead and call the election," added Mr. Ficklen.

Mr. E. H. Shelburn, another of the petitioners also spoke and said if the petition had sufficient names to call the election the duty of the board of aldermen was to call it.

Some one then stated that Rev. M. T. Plyler's name had been mentioned by Aldermen Flanagan in making his motion as one to whom he had talked about postponing until the 30th, and Mr. Plyler being present was called on to make a statement.

Mr. Plyler said that personally he is for prohibition and always has been. He favors prohibition in Greenville and he favors it in North Carolina. If it comes to a vote in Greenville he will vote for it; if it comes to a vote in North Carolina he will vote for it. While there is a division of opinion among people as to what is the best thing to do, for himself he can see no harm to come to the petition or to the election in Greenville to wait a few days to see what the legislature does and get all the light possible on the situation. He believes the board of aldermen is composed of gentlemen of honor and that it is their purpose to act honorably by the petitioners. What is the best thing to do is a question. He was just from Raleigh, and even the legislature does not know just what it is going to do, therefore he could see no injury to the cause for the board to postpone a few days to see what the legislature will do.

"What good do you think can come from waiting a week?" interrupted Mr. Harris.

To this Mr. Plyler replied that to wait a few days we can get more intelligence and know whether an election in Greenville can be legally held.

Mayor Wooten then explained that the board was acting and intended to act in absolute fairness with the petition and was in no way trying to beat around calling the election. To wait until the 30th to see what the legislature does will be ample time to call an election if one can be held at a time that will not come in conflict with a date set by the legislature for a State election.

"Then why can't you call the election to-night, and if the date set by the legislature conflicts with it let the Greenville election go by default?" interrupted Mr. Ficklen.

The mayor replied that to do this would be an illegal act. That if an election is called and registrars and poll holders appointed therefor, such election must be held or the registrars and poll holders are subject to indictment for failure to hold it.

Alderman Flanagan called for the question and his motion was adopted by a vote of 5 to 1.

The board discussed at some length the matter of street paving and several letters from other towns were read. While it is the wish of the board to begin paving as early as possible, nothing definite was done beyond discussing plans.

Alderman Woodward read a letter from the State insurance commissioner calling attention to the law regarding the selection of trustees of the firemen's relief fund in towns having a fire department, such board of trustees to consist of five persons, two to be chosen by the aldermen, two by the fire department and one by the insurance commissioner. On motion J. L. Little and D. J. Whichard were elected trustees on the part of the board of aldermen.

Adjournment was then had until the 30th.

Attention Firemen.

There will be a called meeting of Hope Fire Company at 7 o'clock, tonight in the mayor's office. All members should be present, as there is business of importance to come before the meeting.

J. C. Tyson, Foreman.

Play Postponed.

For several reasons the repetition of the play, "Young Mrs. Winthrop," announced for tonight, has been postponed to one night next week, exact date to be stated later. Those who have purchased tickets for tonight can return them or hold them until next week as they prefer. The play will be given next week and all who attend will enjoy it.

AN UNKIND CUT.

Judge Parker Comes Back at Bayan.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Ex-Chief Judge Alton B. Parker, of the Court of Appeals, who was Democratic candidate in 1904 for president of the United States, was in Albany today in attendance upon the court. His attention was called to an extract from the speech of William J. Bryan before the Democratic members of the Kentucky legislature yesterday, in which Mr. Bryan was quoted as saying that in 1904 he "took his medicine in Parker. Parker was the man above all others I did not want."

"What a pity," said Judge Parker, "that Mr. Bryan failed to be equally frank in 1903. Had he done so the situation of the party would be vastly better than it is. There were but few Democrats in that year, who thought it wise to have a third term candidate. But every many of sense knew that unless a man could be found who would receive Mr. Bryan's support, his warm personal following would seek revenge for the defeats of 1896 and 1900."

"So statesmen, politicians and interested citizens sought diligently to find some one that he would support. To some at least he said he would bolt Ex-President Cleveland, Governor Hill, Senator Gorman and Judge Gray but that it would be hard to oppose Parker as Parker had supported him."

"This attitude induced the impression among many that my nomination would be as acceptable to Mr. Bryan as any except his own. That impression led to pressure upon me from many quarters to change my plans for life. And it contributed in no small measure to the movement which led to the control of the convention."

"Subsequent events showed that Mr. Bryan had not been entirely open with those who had consulted him, for when to his surprise delegates began to be elected favorable to my nomination—when indeed the tide had grown too strong to be breast, he started out on his famous tour of denunciation. The dragon's teeth which he then sowed yielded an abundant harvest—aye, all that he could wish."

"But it would have been very much better for the party had he said in 1903, before sentiment had crystallized as he says now: 'Parker is the man above all others that I do not want.'"

The Country Editor.

The editor of the country paper ought to know just what suits each individual reader of his paper, and if in doubt his editorials should be sent to each subscriber for approval before they appear in print. An editor of a country newspaper has plenty of time to do this, for the only work he has to do is to hunt up news items, set type, build the fire, sweep the office, clean rollers, hustle for advertisements, fold and mail papers, run a free information bureau, talk to visitors, distribute type, read proofs and mark the errors, dodge the bill collectors, take abuse for failing to mention the name of some visitor he didn't know was in town, write up all the social events which he is not invited to attend, and get cussed should he dare to expect any one to pay for the paper. Yes, the country editor's pathway is indeed strewn with roses. — Ex.

Mr. Lovit Hines.

The regular schedule on the Snow Hill-Kinston R. R. goes into effect today, (Thursday) by which the train leaves Snow Hill early in the morning time enough to catch the early train from Goldsboro, and will leave Kinston after the mail train from Goldsboro passes in the afternoon. The first regular schedule of the Snow Hill-Kinston train goes into effect on the birthday of Mr. Lovit Hines, president of the Hines Bros. Lumber Co., builders of the road. Snow Hill should and does appreciate the efforts of Mr. Hines. He has been the only railroad builder, so far in the history of the many efforts to secure a railroad built for Snow Hill, who has lived up to every promise made to our people. He came here several months ago and stated that if the people of Snow Hill would comply with certain conditions, the most lenient and reasonable yet offered our town, that he would build a railroad here. Our people met the conditions and Mr. Hines has built the road. May he see many returns of this day and may he be the mover in the inauguration of yet other enterprises which augur so well for his State and section. — Snow Hill Standard Laconic.

ATTEMPTED BKACKMAIL.

Negro Preacher Bound to Federal Court on Serious Charge.

On Thursday John W. Hinnant, a colored preacher, was given a preliminary hearing on the charge of wrong use of the mails, before U. S. Commissioner H. T. King, and was held under bond for appearance at Federal court. Being unable to give the required bond the negro was committed to jail.

The charge against Hinnant is a very serious one. — Mr. William McArthur, who lives in Beaver Dam township on one of the rural mail routes, was troubled over finding anonymous threatening notes in his mail box. These notes demanded $500 from Mr. McArthur, the writer saying he needed that much money, and the demand was accompanied with the threat that failure to get the money would be followed by trouble.

Mr. McArthur became alarmed over the threat and reported the matter to Mr. W. C. Hines and asked if the proper course would not be to put a detective on the case. Mr. Hines took charge of it himself and was not long in locating the guilty party.

At the preliminary trial Hinnant admitted that he had put the notes in Mr. McArthur's mail box.

Mr. J. White Dead.

The announcement this morning that Mr. Jonathan White had passed away at his home in West Greenville, at a little before 4 o'clock, brought sadness to all who heard it. He was an upright man, a good citizen, and was esteemed by every one.

Mr. White was born in Hertford county in 1851, making him in his 57th year at the time of death. He moved to Greenville in 1881 and made his residence here since that time. His genial manner and kindness of heart won him a host of friends. He was a consistent member of the Methodist church and a prominent Odd Fellow.

He was married in December, 1871, and is survived by his widow and six children. The latter are Mrs. D. D. Overton, Mrs. E. H. Foley, Miss Lollie White, Messrs. Milton, John and Harry White.

The funeral service will be held at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Jarvis Memorial church, the remains leaving the residence at 2.30. The interment will be in Cherry Hill cemetery with the honors of the Odd Fellows fraternity.

WHO'S WHO AND WHY

Who made the best crop in Pitt County during the year 1907

EVERYBODY admits that this has been a bad crop year and as a whole it has been, but some planters had bounteous yields in return for their labours.

Why because they used Cotton Seed Meal as a Fertilizer.

DR. BONSTEEL of the Bureau of Soils of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in his address to the planters of Pitt county strongly advised its use, stating that as a fertilizer stable manure was the best adapted to our soil and the next best was cotton seed meal.

WINTERVILLE MEAL IS THE BEST OF THE "NEXT BEST" IF you did not use it last year inquire of someone who did and you will try it in 1908.

WE will buy your cotton seed and sell you meal at reasonable prices, or we will exchange Meal for Seed on a liberal basis delivering the meal at any railroad station in the county.

TOMATO BISQUE.

Tribute to This Culinary Triumph and Gastronomic Joy.

Very often when a person sits down to a dinner he is confronted by the alternative—consomme or puree. The former is a clear liquid supposed to represent the strength of some meat, and the latter is the infusion into a cream of the virtue of some vegetable. The former is really the dinner soup and the latter a lunch affair, and when a person makes his choice upon these considerations he leaves out the question of merit altogether.

But what we want to select out of all the category of soups, consomme or puree, is that form of the latter known as tomato bisque and boost it up on the pinnacle of glory as the divinest revelation of the culinary art. You say it is not entitled to such superlative adulation, but did you ever taste it at its best—that delicious blend of tomato and cream, with an alkaline trace in it and a faraway suggestion of mace and onion and bay leaf, all put into a harmony as delicate as a dream of a loved one?

There is nothing in all the kitchen joys that more completely employs the soul of good things than the puree, whether it is of celery or corn or tomato, for there is no combination over which the graces of the cook can more happily hover than over this viand. We spoke of the tomato bisque. When you put your spoon in it, it blushes up at you as if it were a kindred spirit, and isn't it—a symphony in which all nature joins, where one feels the ruddy glow of the sunset, the cream of the clover, the sunshine of the tropics and the gurgle of the brooks? All there? Yes, sure, to the soul that discriminates and eats with grace. Anyhow, one will be able to say—take away the roasts, the entrees, the salads—this is the climax, this is the answer to my prayer.—Ohio State Journal.

Whenever you feel that your stomach has gone a little wrong, or when you feel that it is not in good order as is evidenced by mean headaches nervousness, bad breath, and belching, take something at times, and especially after your meals until relief is afforded. There is nothing better offered the public today for stomach troubles, dyspepsia, indigestion, etc than Kodol. This is a scientific preparation of natural digestions, combined with vegetable acids and it contains the same juices found in every healthy stomach. Kodol is guaranteed to give relief. It is pleasant to take; it will make you feel fine by digesting what you eat. Sold by John L. Wooten, druggist.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.
It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.
For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and yellow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

How Many Bricks Have You Sent Away?

That sounds like a funny question, addressed to every citizen of this town and community, but it's really a serious one.

Listen: There is now just completed a magnificent building of red brick exterior and concrete interior right in the business heart of one of the biggest of American cities. It occupies a whole block and calls itself in a large lettered sign "The Largest Monolithic Building In the World." It has many floors, with about a hundred acres of floor space. The entrances are of solid marble. The floors are beautifully tiled.

Altogether it is a credit to the big city in which it stands. Oh, it's a Jim Dandy!

Now, how many bricks have you sent to the city to go into this big building? Honest, how many?

Of the hundreds of thousands of bricks put into the walls of this building the city where it stands has contributed not a single red brick. Country people, the people of small towns and cities far away from the big metropolis, have sent in the bricks for the construction of this splendid edifice.

You may have sent in a few hods of bricks yourself without knowing it.

Listen: This magnificent structure, which ornaments a city you probably never will see yourself, is built of bricks bought with the dollars of people living in towns just like ours—towns that would like to have some new brick buildings themselves now and then. Every dollar contributed to the city building fund means a nice, hefty hod of bricks for this big, beautiful skyscraper, "largest in the world" of its kind. This building was put up, through the kind donations of their unknown country cousins, by a firm that ran a small store in that city a few years ago.

But this firm conceived the cute idea of having thousands of strangers contribute bricks to build its fine, large, new store.

And the building is a Mail Order Store. See?

The Holidays Have Passed and all are down to business again.

WHAT A WATT IS.

The Electrical Unit and Its Equivalent in Horsepower.

In the electrical world one hears and reads a great deal about "watts." The current is measured by watts, the machinery is rated by watts and lamps burn by watts. To the ordinary layman all this talk of watts is mystifying.

The man to whom we owe the idea of the horsepower was a Scottish inventor, James Watt, and when the electric unit involving the idea of working capacity came to be formulated the name of Watt was chosen to indicate this unit, just as that of Volta has given us the term volt and Faraday the farad.

Watt considered that, taking the average, a London dray horse was capable of doing the work of lifting 33,000 pounds through one foot of gravity. The introduction of this time limit, the minute, gave the unit of power, or rate of performing work. This or its equivalent has ever since been called a horsepower.

The electrical unit called the watt is capable of being represented in terms of the horsepower, and in that form it is perhaps more intelligible to those who are familiar with mechanical rather than with electrical expressions. The electrical watt is the product of volts multiplied by amperes, where the volt is the unit of electrical pressure, and the ampere is the unit of measuring the density, or volume, of an electrical current.

Careful experiments have demonstrated that 746 watts per second are equal to 550 foot pounds per second, or, to state the equation in its usual form, 746 watts equal one horsepower.

The form in which electrical power generally is sold is computed on the basis of kilowatt hours. The prefix kilo comes from the Greek chilioi, 1,000. A kilowatt, written also k. w., is therefore 1,000 watts. The kilowatt hour is the performance, or work, at such a rate that 1,000 watts per second shall be delivered continuously for one hour.

The kilowatt hour has a special interest for the man who has his office or house lighted by electric lamps, because the kilowatt hour is the unit upon which the power and light companies base their charges. —Electrical Review.

Garrulous Blind People.

"I'll never buy any writing paper of that man again," said the little suburban matron after she had carefully helped the blind man down the steps. "I'm very sorry for him and want to help him out, but he has absolutely no consideration for my time. He begins to talk the minute he gets into the house, and he talks and talks and then talks some more. Generally he takes up at least an hour and a half. He isn't talking up his goods—oh, no, indeed! He just indulges in general conversation about everything, from the weather to the methods now used in the public schools. Every time I feel an impulse to shut him off I think: 'Poor fellow! He's blind.' And I let him go on until he runs down of his own accord.

"I'm beginning to think it is true of all blind people—that they are tremendous talkers. Once in awhile I employ a blind piano tuner, and I have to go out or he'd talk so much that he'd never get the piano tuned."—New York Press.

Dickens Was Annoyed.

Dickens' relations with the city fathers were not always happy. On one occasion he came up from Broadstairs to attend a Mansion House dinner which the lord mayor of that day had taken into his head to give to the representatives of "literature and art." The worthy chief magistrate meant well, but his words of welcome to his guests were not wholly complimentary. He conveyed the idea that he and his fellow aldermen were accustomed to having princes, dukes and ministers to dine, but that it was, of course, delightful to see gentlemen of another sort. His general tone, according to Forster, was this: "What could possibly be pleasanter than for people satiated with greatness to get for awhile by way of change into the butler's pantry?" Dickens was annoyed.—London Tatler.

English Manners.

Is it no longer possible to be a "gentleman" or a "lady" now that nearly all the rules which regulated the conduct of these characters are disregarded? The "gentleman" and "ladies" formed on the old pattern are armed with rapiers, those on the new with explosives. It is impossible for the former to face the latter without being destroyed. That appears to have been fully recognized, and the characters are generally being remodeled to suit the circumstances of the time. The few remaining "gentlemen" and "ladies" of the old style are regarded as "museum pieces," interesting, but of no practical value to themselves or to others.—London Truth.

PTOMAINE POISONING.

Treatment to Give While Waiting For the Physician.

Food poisoning is uncommon if we consider the number of persons who eat more or less heartily from two to four times a day. Yet it occurs with more frequency than is ordinarily supposed, the symptoms in the majority of cases being very slight and the poison being thrown off by a single attack of vomiting or a slight diarrhea.

Even in cases of severe and widespread poisoning, such as are mentioned occasionally in the papers as occurring at picnics or church festivals from the eating of sandwiches or ice cream, the number of fatal cases is small.

The greatest mortality is from mussel and mushroom poisoning and also from sausage poisoning, the number of fatal cases in epidemics of this sort being sometimes as high as 30 per cent.

The first thing to do in case of food poisoning, if seen early enough, is to get rid of the offending material. Vomiting may be induced, if it has not already occurred through nature's effort to cure, by a drink of mustard and water or tepid salt and water or by tickling the back of the throat with a feather or a rod of paper.

As soon as the stomach has been emptied, or immediately if the patient is not seen until some time after the meal of poisonous material, the bowels should be moved by salts and by an enema. If diarrhea is present and excessive a single dose of salts may be given and after that remedies tending to quiet the action of the bowels.

No food should be given, but the patient may be allowed plenty of water, and at the same time free perspiration is induced by hot bottles or hot bricks in the bed, in which he lies covered with several blankets. In short, the treatment is directed to the removal from the system as rapidly as possible of the poisonous matters.

Of course these directions for treatment are for the guidance of the family of the sufferer while waiting for the physician, for so serious a condition as food poisoning calls for the doctor's care just as soon as it can be secured.

Collapse is to be treated by warmth, by rubbing of the extremities and by stimulation. Very strong black coffee, as hot as it can be drunk, is an excellent stimulant of the heart in these cases, and one or two small cups may render great service.—Youth's Companion.

Waiters' Tips in Paris.

The old familiar problem of how much to tip the waiter at a restaurant has puzzled most people at one time or another, so possibly the following system of reckoning the amount, which is practiced by a good many experienced Parisians, may be found useful.

The principle is to reckon a penny a head for each person in the party plus a penny for every shilling in the bill. Of course if the party dines very economically the waiter will not come off very well. But it is found in Paris that a tip calculated on this basis works out very well in the majority of cases.

For dinner in a private room the same scale holds good, except that twopence per head is paid for each member of the party. The extra length of the bill in this case insures the waiter his additional pour boire.—London Modern Society.

Stronger Than His Oath.

They were cross examining in a Chicago court a bookmaker who had been caught in the toils for playing some other game than his own. The third assistant district attorney was intent upon a conviction, however, and was doing his best, none too successfully, to shake the testimony of the defendant.

"You're sure of that?" he yelled as the bookmaker stuck to an assertion that did not suit the case of the state.

"Sure! I am certain," came the answer.

"You remember that you are under oath?"

"I do that."

"And you'd swear to this statement of yours?"

"Swear to it? Why, Mr. Lawyer and judge, your honor, I'd bet a hundred on it any day."—Saturday Evening Post.

A Whistler Snub.

Walter Crane gives a characteristic anecdote of Whistler, the painter. The "Butterfly," as Whistler was called, was not inclined to be cordial when, disguised as a Spanish cavalier in black, with a big sombrero, at a fancy dress ball he found himself alongside of Mr. Crane as Cimabue, all in white. Crane says, "I had met him previously at one of his own private views and said to him by way of greeting that I thought I had had the pleasure of meeting him before, but he only said dryly, 'Very likely,' and we didn't get any further."

The finest coffee substitute ever made, has recently been produced by J. E. Hooper, of Racine, Wis. You don't have to boil it twenty or thirty minutes. "Made in a minute," says the doctor. "Health coffee" is really the best coffee imitation ever yet produced. Not a grain of real coffee in it either. Health coffee imitation is made from pure toasted cereals or grains, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—were he to unknowingly drink it for coffee. J. E. Hooper & Co.

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas. M. Stieff, and if bachelors are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a "hanging out place" I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225.00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350.00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage. Very respt., G. G. Fineman, Box 325 Greenville, N. C.

TO MY PATRONS

Ladies and gentlemen, I wish to announce that I am now situated in new quarters, and am prepared to accommodate my customers with more neatness, and promptness, than heretofore being in a more convenient place and having better light. Thanking you for past patronage and wishing a liberal continuance of same, I am as ever, yours to serve. FRANK HOPKINS, Ladies and Gents Tailor 409 Fourth, st. opposite Marble yard.

What About Christmas?

With the compliments of the season to all our readers we ask you the question of the hour

WHAT ABOUT CHRISTMAS

The children are asking it with wondering and hopeful expectations of what Santa Claus is likely to bring them.

The older people are asking it, not so much in speculation regarding the remembrance that Christmas will bring to them, but rather as an inquiry as to how they are to provide suitable and satisfactory presents for relatives and friends without too heavy a drain upon their time and purse.

May we help you to solve the problem and put you in the way of doing your Christmas shopping with pleasure satisfaction and economy?

We offer the advantage of selection that can only be found in a very extensive showing of first class goods. We take pleasure in pleasing customers and will do all in our power to help you to just the right article at the right price, so that you may leave our store glad that you came, and perfectly satisfied with your purchases in every respect.

We extend to all a cordial invitation to call and see our line of

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lunghealing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's cough cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, snuochloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb". Always demand Dr. Shoop's cough cure. Bryans Drug Store.

CONSIDERATION! After considering what we and our Creditors think best, and they say the only wise thing to do with this combined gigantic stock of high-grade merchandise is to sell and satisfy our creditors, the best way possible, as we have no ready cash to keep them quiet, we must listen to them, have this sale, and throw this immense stock on the market. We must take their advice, mark it down like they say, so we can raise a few dollars to send them so that every time the train blows our color won't change, knowing that as soon as the mail is handed to us we will open a after where some house writes like this: "You must pay this bill at once."
