DR. HALE'S ATTACK.

On Extra Session of the General Assembly.

Wilmington, N. C., Jan. 23.—In a column devoted to prohibition which leads in a local paper, Rev. Fred D. Hale, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church here, member of the State committee and recognized leader of the Wilmington Anti-Saloon forces, this afternoon attacks the present session of the General Assembly for its action at the caucus, in the matter of a State prohibition law, reviewing the entire history of the government in this State and declaring that "the strength and diplomacy of the liquor forces through the present liquor controlled Legislature was displaced before the General Assembly met for business."

He condemns legislators for making prohibition a purely political and party issue, when it is a great moral question, and says the Republican members, nearly all of whom are for prohibition, ought justly to have been allowed a voice in the matter.

Reviewing the caucus of the House behind closed doors with a strong committee from the prohibition forces on the outside clamoring for the privilege merely to be heard and retire, Dr. Hale asks: "Who, before, ever heard of a Democratic caucus uncontrolled by liquor interest refusing to allow a petition to be offered to them, an appeal from their fellow Democrats?"

The decision to leave the matter to the people is declared by Dr. Hale to be just what the liquor side wanted. Referring to the future and admonishing the temperance forces to gird up their loins and prepare for the fray, Dr. Hale says: "The bill has to make its way through a liquor controlled Legislature with power to weaken it by exceptions and exceptions. The danger is that a law will be passed that will not make prohibition prohibit, as in the case in other so-called prohibition States."

Dr. Hale concludes his article with the exclamation: "Rocky road ahead for prohibition."

Married.

News comes from Richmond that Mr. Oscar Hooker, formerly of Greenville, but now of Richmond, was married in that city Wednesday evening to Miss Katie Braver.

Making it Ridiculous.

Everybody recognizes alcohol as a valuable medicine and nobody wishes to limit its proper use as a medicine. In the first draft of the State Prohibition bill presented to the General Assembly provision was made yesterday that physicians could prescribe intoxicants for their patients—a very proper and very necessary provision. When it came up for consideration by the House Committee an amendment was carried to permit dentists also to give prescriptions for alcohol. That was hardly necessary but there will be occasional cases where dentists will need to have stimulants for their patients. Then it was proposed and by a small margin carried to permit veterinary surgeons to prescribe whiskey. These surgeons who treat horses and other animals hold a high and important place and no reflection is intended upon their honorable profession when we say this amendment would make the bill ridiculous and was a curious amendment.

If veterinary surgeons treated men, this right ought to be given to them, but horses do not go to their surgeons and ask them to give them a prescription of liquor and they do not need it when tapering off.

The men who asked the Legislature to enact a State Prohibition law wish a measure that means what it says and unless a proper bill is passed it would be better that the matter should drop where it is and an appeal be made to Caesar.

The First In America.

The first Life Insurance Company organized in America is The Mutual Life of New York, which was organized in 1852, and has had steady growth for sixty-six years. Notwithstanding wars and epidemics, it now has assets aggregating $500,000,000. It issues all forms of life policies, at lowest rates consistent with safety, pays high annual dividends, thus reducing premiums every year. Its cash and loan values are very liberal, all death claims, and matured endowments paid promptly.

I have been with this company for five years and have written over $200,000, and not one dissatisfied policyholder that I know of.

Thanking my friends for the patronage I have received, I beg to say I am still with The Old Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York.

WINTERVILLE DOTS

Notes from our Husling Neighbor.

Winterville, N. C., Jan. 25.

F. C. Harding, of Greenville, was here yesterday on business connected with his profession.

Miss Gussie Lawrence, from near Grifton, spent Thursday night here visiting her many school mates at the girls dormitory.

Joseph Williams, of Greenville, has charge of the stock of goods of B. F. Manning & Co.

We notice the material on the ground for a residence to be built by J. K. Barnhill out near the oil mill. Mr. Barnhill has also bought other lots near this one.

Mrs. Taylor returned to Ayden after having spent some time with relatives here.

Rev. T. H. King, formerly of LaGrange, has moved into one of the houses owned by R. H. Hunsucker. We are glad indeed to welcome him and his family to our town.

The market here which is run by B. A. Highsmith has been moved into larger quarters just back of Harrington, Barber & Co's. store. This is much more convenient than before. Mr. Highsmith makes an excellent market man, and now with a fine baby boy at his home, we may expect even better service than ever.

A hedge has recently been planted around the campus of Winterville High school, and now the raising of a large United State flag is the next thing to happen in the near future.

Miss Annie R. Barnes, one of the teachers of Ayden graded school, spent yesterday afternoon with Miss Laura Cox, who has been very sick, but we are glad to report that she is much improved, and hopes to return to her work Monday.

Misses Annie Stallings and Sue Mattocks went to Greenville today.

It will be recalled that about a year ago there was considerable discussion as to whether the U. S. Cruiser North Carolina should be christened with water or wine. While it was being discussed a Virginia contemporary suggested that the Tar Heel State's namesakes should be christened with turpentine. This suggestion The Record heartily endorsed and made the further suggestion that if the ceremony should be held at the opposite end from that upon which christenings generally take place, we would guarantee that the North Carolina would be the fastest vessel in the Navy. But neither suggestion was christened on the bow with water, and just what we expected has taken place. The vessel has recently gone through her official test and failed to make the contract speed of 22 knots. All of which goes to show that The Record generally knows what it is talking about—Greenboro Record.

Funeral Tomorrow.

The funeral of Mr. Jonathan White, who died Friday morning, will take place Sunday afternoon. Remains will leave the residence at 2:30, services in Jarvis Memorial church at 3, by Rev. M. T. Plyler, interment by the Odd Fellows in Cherry Hill cemetery. The pall bearers are Messrs. A. C. Holloman, D. D. Haskett, J. S. Congleton, S. T. Hooker, W. B. Wilson, Wiley Brown, D. L. James, J. C. Tyson, E. A. Moyer, Jr., D. W. Hardee, A. B. Ellington and T. R. Moore.

Notice to Voters of the Town.

That no person may be taken by surprise, it is my purpose to give notice that the following paper will be circulated during the coming week and presented to the board of aldermen on Thursday night Jan. 30th, 1908.

F. M. Wooten.

Owing to the fact that the General Assembly of North Carolina at its special session of 1908, now sitting has called a general election to be held sometime in Aug. 1908, for purpose of voting on the question of prohibition for the entire State and that two elections on the same question being held within a few months is contrary to public policy and against the best interests of the community. And for the above reason we the undersigned petitioners withdraw our names from and direct your body to erase and remove therefrom our names signed to a certain petition requesting your body to call an election on the question of prohibition for the town of Greenville, and is now pending before your body.

Stroke Resembling Apoplexy Affects Hon. Don Gilliam.

Hqn. Donnell Gilliam, of Tarboro, one of the most prominent attorneys of the State, a former member of the State Senate of North Carolina, and a leading Democratic politician, is ill in Rex Hospital from an attack supposed to be apoplexy.

Mr. Gilliam's illness was only made manifest yesterday afternoon on the street when he fell about half past twelve o'clock in the fall there being inflicted a severe gash on the left temple and above the left eye. He was in such a serious condition while lying in the street that it was feared that he would die there.

He was taken to the Rex Hospital for treatment.

All during the afternoon the report was that he was still in a semi-conscious condition which was regarded as being very serious, and there was felt the gravest apprehension by his many friends.

Mr. Gilliam's many friends will feel greatly relieved to know that his condition is greatly improved and that the prospects are that he will be able to be up at an early date if there is no set back from present conditions, which are reported as favorable by his physicians.—Raleigh News and Observer.—25th.

STOP AND THINK.

All Follies Are Not Committed in Print.

A Colorado woman was burned to death the other day.

She came in from the garden and saw her house on fire. "Oh," she cried, "the china! And into the burning house she ran, and before any one could get to her she was dead—all for the sake of a few dishes.

Don't be too quick to say how foolish this Colorado woman was. Stop and think a minute—isn't it possible that you're doing something just as foolish this very minute?

What do you think of a man who sacrifices his health and his peace of mind and his good conscience just for the sake of a few not over clean dollars that he can't take with him when he dies?

What do you think of a woman who is so crazy to get into society that she neglects her children, snubs her husband and forgets all her old friends—just for the sake of a smile from some rich nobody who wouldn't cross the street to help her if she lay dying?

What do you think of a girl who will let her mother stay alone day after day doing the work of the household while she trapes the streets with a lot of little feather-head gigglers who wouldn't stop giggling for five minutes if they found her lying dead in the road?

What do you think of a young man who will break his mother's heart and turn his father's hair white just to have some scheming cynic clap you on the back and call him a good fellow?

What do you think of a full grown man who will desert a good woman and pour his heart out to a rag and a bone and a hank of hair who's only making a fool of him for her own amusement?

I saw a woman spoil a $20 dress the other day fighting to get to a 10 cent bargain counter. I've seen a man give $10 worth of worry to a lost $2 bill.

I know a woman whose new shoes pinch her toe so that she can't take a step without making a face.

Why doesn't she throw the shoe away?

Why she just paid $4 for them—so she'll suffer $50 worth of misery and think she's being economical.

All the follies are not committed in print, are they?

Tax Notice.

Taxes for the year 1907 are long past due. All persons delinquent are notified to come forward and pay promptly, as the law requires me to settle with the State treasurer in January.

ing the prohibition law apply to his famous contention, granting that he did make a mistake?—

WHO'S WHO AND WHY

Who made the best crop in Pitt County during the year 1907

EVERYBODY admits that this has been a bad crop year and as a whole it has been, but some planters had bounteous yields in return for their labours.

Why because they used Cotton Seed Meal as a Fertilizer.

DR. BONSTEEL of the Bureau of Soils of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in his address to the planters of Pitt county strongly advised its use, stating that as a fertilizer stable manure was the best adapted to our soil and the next best was cotton seed meal.

WINTERVILLE MEAL IS THE BEST OF THE "NEXT BEST"

IF you did not use it last year inquire of someone who did and you will try it in 1908.

WE will buy your cotton seed and sell you meal at reasonable prices, or we will exchange Meal for Seed on a liberal basis delivering the meal at any railroad station in the county.

SACKS furnished to seed shippers upon request.

WRITE or telephone us at once how many seed you have, what station you can ship from and whether you wish to sell for cash or exchange for meal. All enquiries will have prompt attention —tens of centuries old—that have trees in the western woods—trees that are still standing in perfect

Teddy Bear's New Year Resolutions.

RESOLVED— That throughout this year 1908 I will try to be good and do good; that I will try to help myself and help others; that I will stand by the old town and the home people and help to boom the burg.

RESOLVED— That from January to December, inclusive, I will quit dissipating—quit dissipating my dollars by taking them out of circulation here around home and sending them to the big cities to buy the things that I can buy and ought to buy right here in town.

RESOLVED— That I will stop smoking—stop smoking pipe dream dope suggesting big bargains to be had, unsight unseen, from the gigantic stores in the gigantic cities, and go around among the stores here at home looking for bargains that are there to be seen with the naked eye.

RESOLVED— That I will patronize, by preference, the stores that advertise in the home paper and therefore have enterprise enough to tell the people what they've got in stock.
(Signed) TEDDY BEAR.

Br'er Rabbit: "Say, Teddy, that last resolution is the goods, all right."

TO CUT UP DIDOS.

Some Speculation as to the Origin of the Phrase.

The phrase "kick up didos"—for the plural is formed either with or without the "e"—is allowable. It occurs, for example, in Quiller Couch's "Delectable Duchy," but the more common form is "to cut" or "to cut up didos." The word is a dictionary one. Dr. Murray says that it is "United States slang." He defines it as a prank, a caper, a disturbance, a row, a shindy. He quotes, as the earliest use in English literature, this sentence from "Sam Slick in England" (1843-4): "Then Italian singers recitin' their jabber and cuttin' didoes at a private concert." He says that the origin of the word is uncertain.

But Haliburton used the term in "The Clockmaker" in 1835, and Professor Joseph Wright in his "English Dialect Dictionary" says that the term is known in Ireland, Kent, Isle of Wight, Cornwall and also in the United States. Haliburton used it with reference to a Nova Scotian: "I met a man this mornin' from Halifax, a real conceited lookin' critter, all shines and didoes." Professor Wright gives as the first definition a disturbance, noise, fuss, as in the speech heard on the Isle of Wight, "He kicked up a middlen dido about it;" then plural—tricks, antics, eccentric feats—as in Kent, "Dreckley ye be backturned, there he be, a-cutting all manner o' didos," and, lastly, a plaything; also used as a term to denote articles which do not give satisfaction to the owner, as trimming on a dress or bonnet.

Yet the learned Professor Wright does not venture to explain the derivation of the word; he does not suggest a possible derivation. Did the term come from the fuss made by Queen Dido after the pious Aeneas left her? An obsolete word "dido"—a thrice told tale may have been originally "a tale of Dido." Tait in his "Quaternios" speaks of a Didonian curve, with reference to the story of Dido, who bargained for as much land as could be covered with a hide and then cut the hide into a long and narrow strip. Why not say glibly that "to cut up didos" is to cut up as Dido did? Let us honor the name of that noble dame in every way.—Boston Transcript.

One Kind of Economy.

"Some people have queer ideas of economy, don't they?" said a Wall street man. "The other day I was waiting with a man on an L' station to go downtown. He saw a friend on the opposite platform and called over to him to come across and go down with him to his office on a matter of business. The man said he would, and after asking the ticket chopper to pass the word over that his fare was paid he handed out a cigar to the chopper and came over to our side. He was greeted with a laugh by the man who had called to him and naturally asked what it was for. 'Didn't you give that ticket chopper a fifteen cent cigar?' asked the friend. The man admitted that he gave the kind he usually smoked. 'Well,' said the other, 'why didn't you just come across without saying anything about it, pay your fare and save a dime?' The man rubbed his chin and looked serious. He had become so accustomed to tipping everybody for any sort of favor that he never thought of the other plan."—New York Press.

On the Map.

Two women chanced to meet on a street car in Chicago. "Why, how do you do, Mrs. Thompson?" exclaimed one of them. "I called at your house one day last week, and there was nobody at home."

"We've moved, Mrs. Giles," said the other. "Didn't you know that?"

"No. When did you move?"

"About two weeks ago. We got tired of living in all the noise and bustle, and we went away out in the suburbs."

"What direction?"

"Northwest."

"And where are you located now?"

"It's a new neighborhood, Mrs. Giles, and I can't describe it exactly, but if I had a map of the city here I could show you. We live just about half an inch outside of the city limits."—Exchange.

The Face and the Emotions.

Habitual worry shows itself in the action of the facial nerve—the nerve of expression, as anatomists call it—producing lines which in course of time become permanent. The same is true of many other emotions and states of mind, and those which are dominant in the life of the individual will ere long produce permanent changes in the face. The secret of the beauty which age cannot wither is to possess a beautiful mind. Chin straps and depilatories and electricity and massage and cosmetics are poor makeshifts compared with this.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A DREAMING MATCH.

The Indian Did Pretty Well, but the White Man Did Better.

Among the famous Indian traders of the past was George Galphin, whose trading station at Silver Bluff, S. C., was frequented by Indians from far and near. In "Bench and Bar of South Carolina" a characteristic anecdote is related of Mr. Galphin and an Indian chief.

Chief Mogoloch from beyond the Savannah river spent the night at Mr. Galphin's. In the morning the Indian said, "Me dream last night."

"Ah!" said Galphin. "What did my red brother dream?"

"Me dream you give me fine big rifle," in Galphin's possession at the time.

The trader instantly passed the rifle to the chief, saying, "If you dreamed it, you must have it."

Next morning Galphin said to the chief, "I dreamed last night."

"What you dream?" asked Mogoloch.

"I dreamed you gave me the Chickasaw stallion," which the chief was then riding.

"If you dream you, you must have um," said the chief, and the horse was straightway transferred to the trader.

The next morning the Indian remarked, "I dream last night."

"What did my red brother dream?" was the inquiry.

"I dream," answered Mogoloch, "you gave me red coat you wear and much calico."

"If you dreamed it, you must have it," said Galphin, and the Indian received the red coat and calico.

Next morning it was Galphin's turn. He said to the chief, "I dreamed last night."

"What you dream?" was Mogoloch's inquiry.

"I dreamed," replied Galphin, "you gave me ten miles of land around the Ogeechee old town."

"Wugh!" said the Indian. "If you dream, you must have um, but I dream with you no more."

The Impossible Truth.

In one of Silas Hocking's novels there is an irresistible scene which some of the critics condemned as too absurdly impossible. A farmer and his pretty but strong minded wife arrive for service, put up their horse and cart at the village inn, then take their places in their pew, bringing in their whip with them. During the sermon the farmer, rendered drowsy by the heat and the after effects of a heavy week's work, nods and finally falls asleep. His wife quietly reaches out for the whip in the corner of the pew, picks it up and gives him a regular dealer's cut across the ear with the lash, with a supremely funny tableau for sequel. That was what the critics declared to be an impossible situation. As a fact, the present writer heard the whole story from Mr. Hocking's lips. It actually happened before his eyes, and he was the preacher. The heroine of the story is still alive on her farm near Boston, Lincolnshire.—St. James' Gazette.

Old French Dial Ring.

"A dial ring," said the curio dealer—"a French dial ring of the eighteenth century. You can tell the time with it."

The ring, of gold, was beautifully chased, and where the stone sparkles usually there was set a tiny sundial.

"All you have to do," said the dealer, "is to stand in the right way, holding the dial so that the sun strikes it, and a tiny shadow will tell you the hour. Such a ring," he concluded, "is more a curio than an accurate timepiece. It is only good in the locality it is made for, and even there, unless it is set toward the right point of the compass, it will be several hours out of the way."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Unobliging Moon.

As illustrating the care with which preparations should be made for night marches, Brigadier General Sir Henry Rawlinson, speaking at the Royal United Service institution, said they should always consult an almanac and not be "sold," as on one occasion in South Africa, when the force was directed to march at 9:30 p. m., when the moon rose. The army waited in vain for the moon to rise, and some considerable delay and confusion occurred when it was discovered that on that particular night there was a total eclipse.—London Mail.

Only One End.

A young couple had been married by a Quaker, and after the ceremony he remarked to the husband: "Friend, thou art at the end of thy troubles."

A few weeks after the man came to the good minister boiling with rage, having found his wife to be a regular vixen, and said:

"I thought you told me I was at the end of my troubles?"

"So I did, friend, but I did not say which end," replied the Quaker.

The finest coffee Substitute ever made, has recently been produced by Dr. Shoop, of Racine, Wis. You don't have to boil it twenty or thirty minutes. "Made in a minute" says the doctor. "Health coffee" is really the closest coffee imitation ever yet produced. Not a grain of real coffee in it either. Health coffee imitation is made from pure toasted cereals or grains, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—were he to unknowingly drink it for coffee. F. E. Hooker & Co.

An upstir is one who means well enough, but he says and does things in a way that is decidedly offensive.
