AEOLIAN BAND CONCERT.

Plays for Large Crowd on Court House Lawn.

Everything was going one way Saturday afternoon, and that way was around the court house lawn. The Aeolian band went there at 3:30 o'clock to give an open air concert, and a great crowd gathered around to hear the new organization make music. The teachers, the town people, the country people, all were there swelling the number to a multitude. The band boys put up their best effort and made music that brought them applause. It was the second time the band has played in public, and under the direction of Prof. Bailey good progress is being made. The band has good talent in it, and if the boys just stick there is no reason Greenville should not have as good a band as there is in the State.

Now why not build a band stand at some good place where concerts can be given frequently during the coming summer.

Mail on Norfolk & Southern.

Today the Norfolk & Southern train began carrying mail, and it is going to be very convenient for the towns along the road. Raleigh and Greensboro morning papers will now reach here by 10 o'clock, and mail leaving Greenville at 6:40 p. m. will get to Raleigh before bed time.

Instead of pouch mail on these trains, as was first intended, regular railway mail clerks have been put on. Mr. T. P. Elam, of Richmond, chief clerk of the railway mail service, was with the first clerk that went through his morning.

Notice to Water Consumers.

On account of not being able to run a sufficient quantity of water through our filter to meet the demands and to furnish a sufficient supply for the town's use just at this time, we have been forced to connect our coagulating basin with our reservoir and have forced some water through a siphon which has been mixed with our filtered supply. We are giving this information in order that any one using the city water for drinking purposes may boil the same if they desire to do so. However, we feel that it is perfectly safe to use the water just as it is.

A Big Reception for the Schubert Company.

For sweet singing, pure fun, and lots of both see the Schubert Symphony Club tomorrow night. Tickets on sale now at Reflector Book Store.

The sale so far has taken up a large scope on the seat board, and if you want a seat don't wait longer.

The temperance wave has struck the whole country and the voice of the man who cries out for "personal liberty" and warns against "sumptuary legislation" winding up with the statement that "prohibition will not prohibit," is drowned in the clamor of the great public for a prohibition law. The fact of the matter is liquor has dug too many graves for people to tolerate small objections.—Charity and Children.

Dropped Dead.

Charles Jones, a colored man of this town, returned on the Saturday afternoon A. C. L. train from Kinston where he had been to the hospital for treatment. Leaving the depot he stopped in at the store of Mr. C. C. Parkerson. A few minutes after entering the store he was suddenly stricken and died before assistance could reach him.

DRUMMERS SHOULD LOOKOUT.

Or They May Help to Build County Roads.

Wherever local prohibition has been established in North Carolina, there has been much soliciting of orders for whiskey to be shipped in such prohibited territory by express. The recent extra session of the legislature recognizing the evil of this passed a law to prevent such soliciting. The law reads:

An act to prevent traveling salesmen from soliciting orders or proposals for the purchase of intoxicating liquors in prohibition territory in North Carolina. The general assembly of North Carolina do enact:

Section 1. That it shall be unlawful for any person, for himself or as an agent or traveling salesman for any person, firm or corporation, to solicit orders or proposals of purchase by the jug or bottle or other wise of intoxicating liquors within the borders of any or all counties, townships, precincts, towns and cities in the state of North Carolina, wherein prohibition prevails or the sale of intoxicating liquors is prohibited by law. Provided, that this section shall not be construed to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors in less than five gallon packages to all parties or persons who are duly authorized by law, to sell intoxicating liquors.

Section 2 That any person violating any of the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned or both in the discretion of the court.

Section 3 That act this shall be in force from and after its ratification.

In the general assembly read three times and ratified this the 1st day of February 1908.

WORK IS PUSHING AHEAD.

If you don't believe something is going on in the vicinity of the light and water plant, take a walk there and you will see. Contractor E. A. Kline is "moving dirt" in constructing the roadway from Third street to the plant. And just across the railroad much preparation is going for the plant of the Cabinet Veneer Co. The whole ravine between the cemetery and railroad has been cleared, much of the hill has been cut down and filled in the low place next to the river, making a nice, level site for the plant. A side track has been built, the large boilers have been unloaded and material for the buildings is being placed on the site. Things are going to be busy in that quarter.

"The True Office of Advertising."

"The advertiser who ceases to strive for future business when he finds it necessary to enlarge his credit to pay maturing bills shows by that act that he has not yet conceived the true office of advertising," says Profitable Advertising.

Numerous as are the remedies proposed by the financial experts to restore business to its normal condition, confidence is a prime ingredient of all of them. Nothing so surely begets confidence as aggressive advertising. Suspended animation on the part of the business man at a time when he most needs the aid of publicity just as surely breeds distrust.—Philadelphia Record.

PITT TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

Saturday's Meeting Was Large and Interesting.

Pitt County Teachers' Association held one of its largest and most interesting meetings on Saturday.

President H. B. Smith called the meeting to order at 10:45 and the opening exercises were conducted by Rev. M. T. Plyler.

The secretary, Miss Boushall, read the proceedings of the last meeting.

The first paper was read by Miss Lily B. Grant on "Some Difficulties Encountered in Intermediate Grades". Her paper was exceedingly practical and helpful.

The next address was by Rev. T. H. King on "The Teacher's helpfulness to the community in which he works." Mr. King treated his subject under four heads—social intellectual, moral and religious—and under each of these the opportunity and responsibility of the teacher was emphasized.

Miss Annie Perkins read an interesting and instructive paper on "Literature in the Primary Grades." She held the closest attention of the audience from the first, her paper being a valuable production.

General suggestions on the work was led by Prof. McArthur. He suggested among other things that the association have an address in the afternoon of the next meeting by some distinguished speaker.

The association regretted the absence of Prof. Martin, of Bethel, on account of sickness.

After helpful remarks by President Smith and Prof. Ragsdale, the meeting adjourned. It was announced that Superintendent Joyner will make an address before the association at the April meeting.

Several visitors were present and the meeting was an exceedingly enjoyable one.

How He Hit His Rival.

A pessimistic young doctor publicly deplored the impossibility of getting rich and the difficulty of earning a decent living in the medical profession without incessantly burning the candle at both ends.

"Stuff and rubbish, my lad!" a boastful old doctor cried. "There's as much money to be made now in spite of competition as ever there was. Take my case, for instance. I've lots of patients, and I'm making money quick. But do I look overworked? Do I ever seem pressed for time? Have I not always plenty of leisure?"

"You certainly take life easily," the pessimistic young doctor replied smoothly.

Then the company smiled, and the boastful doctor fell into a train of thought.—London Express.

Seacoast and Civilization.

It is an odd theory, yet no doubt the correct one, that the coast area of Europe has probably had more to do with the commercial and social supremacy of that continent than any other cause. Investigation will show that Europe has a mile of coast for every 164 square miles of its land area, while the Americas, which rightly come next, have 359 square miles of land to every mile of coast. Asia has 376 miles and Africa 530 square miles to each mile of coast. The low order of culture still prevailing on the dark continent, though its history is as old as that of any other portion of the world, is almost indisputable evidence of the correctness of this theory.

MISS BENNETT GETS UMBRELLA.

Her Vote Some Over 1000 Ahead of All Other Contestants.

The standing of the votes for the gold headed umbrella to be presented by the Aeolian band to the most popular school teacher in the county, took a sudden change a short while before the contest closed Saturday afternoon. Miss May Brooks had been leading the vote, and Saturday her number went up to 4500. Friends of Miss Bennett were busy in the meantime, and a short while before the contest closed 3300 more votes were cast for her which run her total up to 5589, and she was awarded the handsome umbrella.

The band was so pleased with the large vote Miss Brooks had received that it was decided to present her a five pound box of Huyler's candy. The band also volunteered to furnish music for her school when the commencement takes place.

The voting contest has been very interesting and it netted a good sum for the band.

Don't Let Fear Ruin Business.

Of what earthly use is a soldier who drops his musket and takes to his heels at the first onslaught of the enemy? Where would a nation end with an army of such soldiers? Where a business?

At present this country stands face to face with a most absurd enemy, who came like a bolt from a clear sky and wholly without cause.

The enemy is Fear.

Are you a good fighter or are you a coward? Are you going to lay down arms before this imaginary, fictitious apparition, or are you going to "march breast forward" and help break down this fear in the minds of your customers?

There is no reason why merchants or any one else should be alarmed. The backbone and foundation of this nation is its integrity and natural resources which are in most superb condition. In fact, the land "flows with milk and honey." The only trouble is that the people (some of them) are scared stiff.

And about what? Absolutely nothing. It's just like a cry of fire in an opera house where no fire exists.

Fear is no person, place nor thing. It has no actual cause—no real power. In the presence of confidence it becomes absolute nothingness and vanishes as darkness before the light.

When a snag is blown out of a river by dynamite the noise creates excitement, but the snag being removed leaves the river clear. Several snags are being removed from the "financial river," but the explosions should cause no alarm. With the snags removed this country's prosperity will flow on greater and more powerful than ever.

Which side are you fighting on—fear or confidence? Every word you speak, every thought you think, has power for good or evil. Think it over and be an optimist.—Ernest Keith Heil way, in Chicago Tribune

MONDAY, FEB. 10th. 1908

A new outbreak of hazing has occurred at the A. & M. College and President Winston should get busy again.

Secretary Taft has selected a manager of his campaign for the presidential nomination. Said manager will have a large job on his hands.

Raleigh has opened the ball with a young men's Republican club which is said to have one hundred members. We doubt if places at the pie counter can be found for so many from one town.

You only have to look at that recent State convention in Florida to see what a mess the Republicans can make. The negro is yet in it in that State and has to be reckoned with.

Some people say prohibition will not prohibit, but if the idea of Judge Boyd to hold the buyer equally guilty as the seller becomes general, as it ought to do, it will put a different aspect on the situation.

As against Speaker Justice who has his legislative career and connection with the railroad rate case in his favor, and Mr. Woodard who is a long time politician with experience, we can't see that a young fellow like Mr. Clement stands much chance of shaking down the attorney general plum.

Frazier Jones, the Greensboro negro who has been under death sentence more than a year for murdering his wife, was to have been hanged Saturday but was not. All preparations had been made for the execution and the condemned man had told everybody goodbye, when almost at the last moment a message from the governor granted a reprieve for ten days. He has been reprieved several times and it is now believed he will not be hanged at all, but sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

The Greensboro Record says "The trouble with the South, which is not to be denied, is that we do not keep a representative in congress; when we have a good one he will grow with age." The Charlotte Chronicle commenting on this says "The North and New England have long recognized the value of keeping an influential congressman in office and has profited by it, while the South by frequent changes, has lost by it." The people of the first North Carolina district should make a note of this and keep the fact in mind that we have a congressman who is growing in influence and bringing things to pass for his district.

At times when you don't feel just right, when you have a bad stomach, take something right away that will assist digestion: not something that will stimulate for a time but something that will positively do the very work that the stomach performs under ordinary and normal conditions, something that will make the food digest. To do this you must take a natural digestant like Kodol For Dyspepsia. Kodol is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids with natural digestants and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. Each dose will digest more than 3,000 grains of good food. It is sure to afford prompt relief; it digests what you eat and is pleasant to take. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

It takes a dry-goods-box philosopher to make a set speech.

The trouble with most cough remedies is that they constipate. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts gently but promptly on the bowels and at the same time it stops the cough by soothing the throat and lung irritation. Children like it. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

You can't borrow happiness, but it's different with trouble.

Bert Barber, of Elton, Wis., says: "I have only taken four doses of your Kidney and Bladder Pills and they have done for me more than any other medicine has ever done. I am still taking the pills as I want a perfect cure." Mr. Barber refers to DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. They are sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

No, Alonzo, it isn't polite to hit a man when he has you down.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket boxes 5 cents. Sold by Bryan's Drug Store.

Instead of regretting yesterday get busy and do something today.

If you have Catarrh, rid yourself of this repulsive disease. Ask Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis., to mail you free, a trial box of his Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. A simple, single test, will surely tell you a Catarrh truth, well worth your knowing. Write to-day. Don't suffer longer. Bryan's Drug Store.

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas. M. Steiff, and if bachelors are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a "hanging out place" I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225.00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350.00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage. Very respt.,

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain in connection, pain in blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and it proves it by his created a little pink tablet. This tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—takes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Given though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 30 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Brise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c. per bottle.

Cheer up! In less than five months it will be the Fourth of July.

Now the ice man looks you straight in the face and says I told you so.

Everything taken into the stomach should be digested fully within a certain time. When you feel that that your stomach is not in good order, the food you have eaten is not being digested, take a good, natural digestant that will do the work, the digestive juices are not doing. The best remedy known today for all stomach troubles is Kodol, which is guaranteed to give prompt relief. It is a natural digestant; it digests what you eat, it is pleasant to take and is sold here by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

There are a few buildings which the Kentucky night riders have overlooked.

A weak Stomach, means weak Stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. It's a pity that sick ones continue to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves, not the organs themselves, need this help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative has, and is promptly helping so many sick ones. It goes directly to the cause of these diseases. Test this vital truth, and see. Bryan's Drug Store

How Many Bricks Have You Sent Away?

That sounds like a funny question, addressed to every citizen of this town and community, but it's really a serious one.

Listen: There is now just completed a magnificent building of red brick exterior and concrete interior right in the business heart of one of the biggest of American cities. It occupies a whole block and calls itself in a large lettered sign "The Largest Monolithic Building In the World." It has many floors, with about a hundred acres of floor space. The entrances are of solid marble. The floors are beautifully tiled.

Altogether it is a credit to the big city in which it stands. Oh, it's a Jim Dandy!

Now, how many bricks have you sent to the city to go into this big building? Honest, how many?

Of the hundreds of thousands of bricks put into the walls of this building the city where it stands has contributed not a single red brick. Country people, the people of small towns and cities far away from the big metropolis, have sent in the bricks for the construction of this splendid edifice.

You may have sent in a few hods of bricks yourself without knowing it.

Listen: This magnificent structure, which ornaments a city you probably never will see yourself, is built of bricks bought with the dollars of people living in towns just like ours—towns that would like to have some new brick buildings themselves now and then. Every dollar contributed to the city building fund means a nice, hefty hod of bricks for this big, beautiful skyscraper, "largest in the world" of its kind. This building was put up, through the kind donations of their unknown country cousins, by a firm that ran a small store in that city a few years ago.

But this firm conceived the cute idea of having thousands of strangers contribute bricks to build its fine, large, new store.

And the building is a Mail Order Store. See?

CONJUNCTIVITIS.

Causes and Treatment of This Ailment of the Eyes.

Conjunctivitis is an inflammation of the conjunctiva, or mucous membrane covering the front surface of the eyeball and lining the lids.

It may be of any degree of severity and due to many causes, varying from the mildest form of irritation up through pink eye to the most violent inflammation, resulting sometimes, through extension to the deeper structures, in destruction of the eye.

In the simple form of acute conjunctivitis the eyes are bloodshot, the membrane lining the lids is red, the edges of the lids are reddened and swollen, and there is a sticky, more or less yellow, secretion, which quickly dries and gums the lids together. The eyes burn and smart and are very sensitive to the light. There is often a feeling as if a hair or a grain of sand were in the eye.

Bacteria of some sort are almost always to be found on microscopical examination of the secretion, but it does not follow that conjunctivitis necessarily results from contagion. Bacteria are almost always present in the folds of the conjunctiva and await a lowered resistance of the membranes, resulting perhaps from dazzling light, irritation from dust or cinders or eye strain in order to take on renewed growth and excite the membrane to disease.

Recurring attacks of conjunctivitis, accompanied perhaps with an occasional sty, almost surely result from eye strain and are to be prevented only by the wearing of proper glasses.

A mild attack of acute conjunctivitis will usually get well of itself in the course of a few days, but if neglected it might go on to a more severe form of inflammation, causing suffering and serious inconvenience, and it may be even endangering the sight.

The subject of this trouble should stay in a room, not dark, but with the light dimmed a little, and if he is obliged to go out he should wear colored glasses while the inflammation lasts. The eyes should never be bandaged.

The utmost cleanliness should be observed. The eyes should be bathed several times daily in boiled water containing a little table salt or in a solution of boric acid. If the lids are hot and swollen much, relief may be obtained by the application of small squares of linen kept while not in use on a lump of ice and frequently changed when they begin to grow warm.

This treatment will usually suffice for the ordinary case of conjunctivitis, but if a cure does not take place in a day or two the physician should be consulted, for delays in eye troubles may be dangerous.—Youth's Companion.

Wanted the Clocks Wound.

A woman who had put her furniture in storage surprised the warehouse superintendent by making a queer request.

"Here are six clocks," she said. "I didn't pack them up because I want them to be kept running all the time. Will you see that they are wound regularly? Nothing spoils a good clock so effectually as uselessness. The works get clogged with dust when lying idle and seldom run well afterward. If you will set these clocks out on a bench and send somebody in to wind them every week, I'll be much obliged."

Even to a warehouse manager who had been asked to perform many a strange task in his time that seemed a peculiar stipulation, but he promised to see that the clocks were wound.—New York Press.

Some Temperatures.

The Quaker's habit of calm sometimes deceives onlookers as to his real feelings. There was an occasion on which Mrs. Abigail Gray's peaceful countenance aroused resentment in the heart of her niece, one of "the world's people."

"I don't see how you could sit there, Aunt Abigail, and hear that man talk and never look as if you cared," she said tearfully, referring to a late interview with an unprincipled shopkeeper. "There I was boiling, and not even so much as one of your cap ruffles stirred."

"If thee could have seen far enough below the cap ruffles," replied Mrs. Gray sedately, "thee would have seen that I was boiling also, but without steam, my child."

The Scallop.

The scallop can anchor itself as well as any ship. It never fails to drop its anchor on the approach of rough weather. The scallop, lying in its bed of shoal water, foresees a storm in true sailor fashion and at once puts out a tough and elastic little cable from a point near its hinge. This cable it fastens firmly to the nearest rock. It is then secure in the vilest weather. He who wades through scallop haunted shoals as a storm approaches may see the tiny shellfish mooring themselves on all sides with silent bustle.

A SNAKE INCIDENT.

The Boy Was Scared, but Had No Reason For Fright.

I stooped low to pass under an overhanging limb and found that I had planted my feet on either side of an ugly looking blacksnake about five feet long, says a writer in Forest and Stream. I knew instantly that the snake was harmless, but a crouching tiger, famished and ferocious, could not have startled me more.

The path was on a steep hillside, sheer ascent and descent on each side, the boy was behind me, and the head and most of the snake's body in front, so straight up was my only line of retreat, and to the very best of my ability I pursued it. I will not attempt to state how high I jumped, nor will I stand for the boy's statement that it was "most out of sight," but I can truthfully say that I jumped just as high as I could and stayed up as long as I could.

The snake sprang into the air at the same time—not trying to strike, but evidently surprised and startled—and when compelled to return to the earth we were about in our original positions. Without a moment's hesitation I jumped again, as did the snake.

With the next jump I combined a kick, which landed and spoiled the snake's jump, and, coming down just right, set my heel with full weight upon it, causing it to thrash about desperately for an instant and then beat a hasty retreat. Straight down the path toward the boy it went with wide sweeps. I could not shoot it without endangering him and could only call out reassuringly: "Stand still. It won't hurt you."

The distance was not over twenty-five feet, and it took but an instant for the snake to cover it. I hoped it would turn aside from the path before reaching the boy, but apparently it had no such intention.

Just as it reached the little fellow—standing wide-eyed and motionless—it swerved very slightly to one side. But the quarters were too close. With a yell all out of proportion to his size the boy sprang for a sapling growing near at hand and ran up it like a squirrel. As his feet cleared the path I sent a load of shot into the snake, raking it fore and aft, and, although I deprecate the killing of all harmless serpents, I have not yet felt regret for this one.

A Hard Head.

When Farragut ran the gantlet of Forts Jackson and St. Philip, below New Orleans, the little gunboat Cayuga went in the lead and was everywhere in the thick of the fighting. A colored boy of the crew was passing powder when a spent grape-shot struck a casting near him, shattered and flew in many directions. One piece hit him on the thickest part of his forehead, says the author of "A Sailor of Fortune," and dropped to the deck.

He picked it up nonchalantly, put it in his pocket and kept at work.

When the fight was over and the members of the crew were bragging this boy, who was not over fourteen, stepped up to some of them and pulled the grape-shot from his pocket.

"You hush!" he said to the boasters. "Dat shot done hit me on de haid an' broke in two! Dere's de shot an' dere's de place it hit me. You can see foh youse'f."—Youth's Companion.

Bungled Flattery.

When Sir Edwin Landseer, the world famous painter of animals, visited the royal court at Lisbon, the old king of Portugal greeted him with the salutation: "Ah, Sir Edwin, I am glad to see you! I am so fond of beasts!"

But for bungled flattery this does not begin to compare with the remark of an unlucky admirer of the great French actress, Mme. St. Denis. Her performance of Zara had just been greeted with enthusiastic applause, and as she stepped from the stage she said, "To act that well a woman should be young and handsome." "Ah, no, madame!" exclaimed the unfortunate man in his anxiety to pay the highest compliment possible. "You are convincing proof to the contrary!"

Ungrateful.

A lawyer brought a suit against a rich corporation for a man of good standing in the community. In the course of his argument he declared in a loud voice for the purpose of gaining the sympathy of the jury: "Gentlemen of the jury, who are the parties to this important litigation? Why, on the one side there is a powerful corporation, with an overflowing treasury, and on the other side there is my poor, simple, uneducated client." "Did you win your suit?" inquired a friend of the plaintiff a few days after. "Yes," was the reply. "I won my suit, but I shall never employ that lawyer again. He called me a fool, and the jury believed it."

WHAT ABOUT CHRISTMAS

The children are asking it with wondering and hopeful expectations of what Santa Claus is likely to bring them.

The older people are asking it, not so much in speculation regarding the remembrance that Christmas will bring to them, but rather as an inquiry as to how they are to provide suitable and satisfactory presents for relatives and friends without too heavy a drain upon their time and purse.

May we help you to solve the problem and put you in the way of doing your Christmas shopping with pleasure satisfaction and economy?

We offer the advantage of selection that can only be found in a very extensive showing of first class goods. We take pleasure in pleasing customers and will do all in our power to help you to just the right article at the right price, so that you may leave our store glad that you came, and perfectly satisfied with your purchases in every respect.

BIRD MIGRATION.

How Do the Flocks Accomplish Their Annual Flights?

Bird migration remains a puzzle to the naturalists. The feathered travelers are known to leave their southern habitats at the end of the rainy season and to gather in vast flocks at regular meeting places. Not all the migratory birds, by the way, migrate. In many or most of the species there are individuals who rest and mate in their winter homes, letting the flocks of their kind depart. But most of them mysteriously draw together at one place and time and rise high in the air, where they can be seen moving like a swift dark cloud, making for the north.

Some of our North American birds winter as far south as Central and even South America. They are observed to take certain routes in their annual journey. The long, narrow Pacific slope is one of these aerial ways, another lies across the Texas plain and northward to the Missouri valley, and a third passes over the Antilles and Florida and forks in central Alabama to the west and east of the first walls of the Appalachians. The westward way leads to the eastern Mississippi and the great lake basins, the eastward fliers skirt the coast midlands and pass after leaving some of their number along the way into the Hudson valley, their gateway to New England and the north. These routes all furnish rest and water and avoid ocean stretches, great mountain heights and head winds.

But how do the birds concert their meeting? How do they direct their flight? Do they await the south wind to blow them north as fast again as they can fly? What tells them east and west and the location of the faroff places to which they are bound? How long do they take to cover the zone from the tropics to the cold north? How many birds pass in those great clouds of migrants which farmers in certain regions can see during half the spring? Why do they travel such enormous distances, passing over in certain instances regions that seem quite as well suited for their habitat as are the places where they finally decide to settle?

All the mysteries of the air have not yet been solved by the naturalists, nor are all of them likely to be solved very soon.—Scrap Book.

Festival of the Dolls.

A curious custom of the Japanese is that of the observance of a certain day in April of each year called dolls' day, or the festival of the dolls.

On this day all the girls and women array themselves in gaudy attire, and the mother of each household adorns the family room in gay colors. Then the little girls dress all their dolls, old and new, in their best Sunday clothes and prop them up about the walls. In the afternoon a great feast is prepared, ostensibly for the benefit of the dolls, though the repast is actually consumed by the grown folks in the evening. Japan is the only country that has such a festivity.

A Lawyer's Retort.

A lawyer in Washington was telling some colleagues of neat retorts he had heard in court when he was reminded of the interchange of compliments between a western judge and a sharp-tongued attorney from Chicago. The judge, a quick tempered man, had had several "run ins" with counsel when suddenly he observed, "I can teach you law, Mr. Perkins, but I cannot teach you manners." "That is true, your honor," retorted the Chicago lawyer.

QUEER ACTIONS OF WATCH.

In Some Way Timepieces Are Influenced by Wearers.

"It does not look reasonable to believe that the personality of the wearer would have anything to do with the running of a watch," said a watchmaker, "but I recently had an experience which satisfied me that in some mysterious way the watch and its owner become in part at least identified.

"An engineer employed in a large manufacturing establishment bought a watch from me about three years ago. It was a good watch, too, and he paid a high price—more, indeed, than a man in his line could have been expected to pay. Three months after he brought back the watch, saying that it would not keep time. I gave him another, put the watch in my drawer and regulated and set it after I had looked it over, and for three weeks that watch didn't vary ten seconds a day. I returned it when the engineer called, and in less than a month he came back again with the same complaint. I examined most carefully every part of the mechanism. Everything was right, and the watch kept excellent time, and yet a few weeks later here it was again, the engineer as mad as a wet hen and intimating that I had sold him a bad watch.

"I was completely puzzled by the antics of the watch, for I knew the man well enough to be convinced that he would not complain without cause, so I suspected that there must be something in the way he handled or wore the watch that made the trouble. He told me that his brother was night engineer in the establishment where he worked by day. They lived in the same room. Each had paid half the price of the watch, and each carried it, one by day and the other by night. I didn't see that that would make any difference in the running of the watch, but as I couldn't find anything the matter with it I gave him a cheap watch and told him to wear the good watch himself or let his brother wear it, no matter which.

"Six months after I met the engineer and asked him about the watch. It ran all right, he said, ever since his brother quit wearing it. It then asked him to let his brother wear it for a few months, and after a little irregularity at first the watch still kept good time. Of course, one case like that doesn't prove anything, but I have heard of others, so am more than half convinced that in some queer way a watch is influenced by the wearer."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Modified His Remark.

From the Georgia legislature of the days before the war comes a story of the effect of parliamentary procedure. James Hamilton Cooper was speaking and made a remarkable statement of fact. A modest legislator exclaimed half under his breath, "Whew, what a thundering lie!" Cooper suspended his speech, having overheard the remark, and challenged the offender to a duel. A court of honor was arranged, which resulted in Cooper giving permission to the luckless wight to modify his remark. The correction was made in this manner: "Mr. Speaker, in an inadvertent moment I referred to a remark made by the honorable gentleman as a 'thundering lie.' I desire to withdraw that statement and in lieu thereof will say, 'It is a fulminating enlargement of elongated veracity.'" Thus sugar coated the speech gave no occasion for a duel.
