WILMINGTON PEACE CONGRESS.

Great Gathering to Be Held First Week in May.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Arrangements have been completed for the holding of an arbitration and peace congress at Wilmington, N. C., the first week in May. The congress will occur on the first anniversary of the North Carolina Peace Society, organized immediately after and as a result of the great national peace congress held at New York last year. The purpose of the congress is to spread among the people accurate knowledge of the progressive proposals approved by the second Hague conference, and to popularize the ideas which the American group of the inter-parliamentary union desires to propose at the approaching inter-parliamentary conference to be held at Berlin next August.

Senators Simmons and Overman and Representative Small, of the North Carolina delegation at Washington, are honorary presidents of the North Carolina Peace society and they will take a prominent part in the proposed congress. Several other senators and members of the house have consented to assist them, notable among these being Senator McCreary, of Kentucky, author of the resolution, unanimously approved by Congress in 1888, upon which the union of American republics is found, and Representative Bartholdt, of St. Louis, Mo. president of the arbitration group in Congress.

Big Car Plant Burned.

High Point, Feb. 9.—The biggest fire in the history of the city in dollars and cents occurred here last night when the main plant of the Southern Car Company was destroyed by fire, together with all machinery.

The loss is between $80,000 and $100,000 and covered by only one third insurance. There were twenty-three cars worth several thousand dollars each almost ready to go out, and these were also destroyed. The origin of fire is unknown, but it is believed to have started in the cabinet room. The plant is located almost a mile from the business section of the city, and by the time the fire companies arrived the mammoth building was on fire all over and there was no chance to save it.

Farmers Advised to Sell Their Tobacco.

At the regular meeting of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade held on the 10th inst., a resolution was passed asking farmers to bring in their tobacco, if possible, before March 1st. This action was taken by the board in order to give farmers who have tobacco to sell the opportunity of getting the full benefit of the competition now existing while all the buyers are on and buying. When the sales get very light some of the buyers will likely close down and get off the market to save expenses. This will, of course, weaken competition and farmers will do well to heed this suggestion from the Board of Trade.

Listen!

Good intentions do not pass as legal tender with the grocer or dry goods man, nor are they a very practical solace to the widow and orphans of the man who "fully intended" to insure his life.

MILLION A MONTH.

Southern Railway Clears More Than That.

New York, Feb. 10.—The report in detail of the revenues and expenses of the Southern Railway Company, as reported to the Interstate Commerce Commission, for the month of December and six months ending December 31st, 1907, is as follows:
Total for freight revenue, passenger revenue, all other revenue from transportation and revenue from operation other than transportation for December, $4,192,348.

Total revenue from the same sources for July 1, to December 31st, $29,349,802. Maintenance of way and structures, maintenance of equipment, traffic, transportation and general expenses for December $3,233,726. Total expenses from July 1, to December 31st, $22,065,904.

Net operating revenues, $958,622; $7,283,897. Taxes, $193,700; $1,050,907. Operating incomes, $764,921; $6,232,989.

Kill Out The Bugs.

As soon as farmers have sold all their tobacco they should thoroughly clean out their packhouses and white wash them on the inside. This is a safeguard against tobacco bugs that breed in trash left in packhouses. Where these bugs appear they cause damage to tobacco

An Automatic Store.

Probably Richmond county has had the cheapest store that ever was operated anywhere. It was run by Solomon Barney, many years before the Civil War. He lived about ten miles from Augusta, on the Louisville road, where he had a shop in which he made metal buckets and measures. The Louisville plank road had just been built, passing through his farm, at a place nearly a quarter of a mile distant from his house and shop. As nearly all the travel was diverted to the new road, and having many customers in Burke and Jefferson counties, to facilitate trade he built a small store house on the plank road, which, by an intervening piece of woodland, was out of sight of his house, and stood all alone, with no other house in sight. In this he placed a stock of well buckets and measures, with the price marked on each, and a cash-box with a slot in the top. A notice posted in the store requested customers to take what goods they chose and deposit the price marked thereon in the cash-box. Every morning he would open the store and every evening he would lock it up and also empty the cash-box. So satisfactory did he find this business that he enlarged it, and put in a stock of goods ordinarily kept in a small country store, all done up in convenient parcels with the price marked on each.

For quite a while he operated his store in this manner. He paid no rent, he paid no clerk hire, he had no advertising expense. His store was operated as cheaply as it could possibly be done, and yet he was compelled to abandon the business finally because it did not pay. And the man who advertises most liberally, who, with almost seeming recklessness, takes on expenses which this good old man sought to avoid, makes money where the old man, with all his economizing and avoiding of expenses, failed.—Augusta (Ga.) Herald.

Postoffice Busy.

Postmaster Flanagan says his force is handling the additional mail service to Greenville all right. They know how to hustle over there on his corner. Gambling.

According to Judge Wentworth of the superior court of Boston, whist is a game of chance and all persons running whist clubs, whether for churches, charitable or other institutions, where prizes are given are guilty of gambling. This was his decision last week, and under it he found guilty six women who arranged a charity party in connection with the said society of the Main Street Baptist church, in Boston, and fined them $50 each. The women made about $200 by the party. They charged a dollar admission and gave out three prizes. This will be a severe blow to the women, many of whom will hold that if their little card games are to be broken up life will be deprived of one of its chief pleasures.

Pretty tough on the fair gamblers, to be sure; but then where are you going to draw the line? Is it not all a piece off the same block?—Exchange.

Carolina Congressmen Laughed.

Members of Congress from North Carolina simply laughed today when the President's denial of the use of federal patronage to line up delegates at the national convention was brought to their attention. Mr. Roosevelt may be ignorant of what his subordinates are doing, but any man with two grains of sense knows that all federal appointments in North Carolina have been made with the view of keeping the State Republican organization in control of the party machinery. Time and again members of congress have gone to the Postoffice department to ask for the appointment of a fourth class postmaster unanimously endorsed by the people of the community in which the applicant lived. Invariably such application has been turned down and the man recommended by the State organization appointed despite the protest of the people of the community interested. The opposition to the Republican organization inside the party has had equally as little voice in patronage matters. Mr. Roosevelt has yet to consider the application of a North Carolina Democrat in connection with federal patronage.—Washington Cor. Raleigh News and Observer.

NORTH CAROLINA BUILDING.

Judge Waddill Puts State in Position to Sell the Building.

The Asheville Gazette-News has the following:

"George S. Powell, president of the North Carolina Jamestown Exposition Commission, has received a message from Harry St. George Tucker, counsel for the receivers of the exposition, stating that Judge Waddill, in the United States District court, has made an order clearing the title to the lands on which buildings now stand, so that the State is now in position to sell the property."

"This simply means that the North Carolina building will be saved. The State was more fortunate than other States in that the rights had been secured by thoughtfulness of Mr. Powell. Under the plan on which the State buildings were erected options or rights to the States to acquire the land on which buildings were placed, were given. Mr. Powell had that of North Carolina duly registered, but it was the only State which took this action, and when in the closing days of the exposition creditors secured attachments and judgments it became a grave question at least as to whether the rights of others had not taken precedence to those of the States."

Greenville Third Again.

Greenville again holds third place in the leaf tobacco markets of the State. In the sales for January reported to the State department of agriculture the three highest markets are as follows: Winston 1,536,304, Wilson 1,138,355, Greenville 816,690.

Prepared to Smoke.

Mr. H. Bently Harris discovered that The Reflector man likes a good smoke, and he brought us a box of elegant tobacco and a new clay pipe with reed root stem. The combination makes a smoke right.

Negro Cremated.

New Bern, N. C., Feb. 10.—Fire destroyed two houses occupied by negroes at 1:30 o'clock this morning and damaged another. In one of the houses two families, U. W. Chapman and William O'Brien, lived. Chapman's family escaped without injury but O'Brien, in endeavoring to save some of his household goods, was overcome by the flames and smoke and perished. His body, almost entirely consumed, was found in the ruins. The loss was $3,000; the insurance small.

Notice to Water Consumers.

On account of not being able to run a sufficient quantity of water through our filter to meet the demands and to furnish a sufficient supply for the town's use just at this time, we have been forced to connect our coagulating basin with our reservoir and have forced some water through a siphon which has been mixed with our filtered supply. We are giving this information in order that any one using the city water for drinking purposes may boil the same if they desire to do so. However, we feel that it is perfectly safe to use the water just as it is.

THE GRAPE BLACK ROT.

Now Is the Time of the Year to Prevent the Disease.

C. D. Williams, Director of the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station, has issued Bulletin No. 17 on "The Grape Black Rot." He says:

This disease prevails in all parts of North Carolina. In most sections of the State it is so bad that the grape crop is practically ruined unless measures be taken to prevent the disease.

The black rot is easily recognized from its most conspicuous characters, blackening, drying, and final shrivelling of the grapes in the clusters. Often all of them shrivel and dry in this way. Though the disease is seldom noticed until the grape is badly shrivelled, it may be seen earlier, as a brown or black spot on the berry. Before its appearance upon the fruit at all, it may be found as brown spots one eight to one-half inch in diameter, on the leaves or twigs. Very close examination of the diseased spots on twigs, leaves or fruit, reveals the presence of very small pustules in great numbers.

These pustules are the fruiting bodies of the fungus which is the cause of the black rot, and from these pustules issue immense numbers of spores which serve to spread the disease.

This disease can be prevented. If you saw black rot on your grapes last year, it will almost certainly be there again this year, unless you take steps to prevent it. Prevention is simple and sure. It consists in spraying your vines with the Bordeaux mixture, consisting of six pounds of blue-stone, four pounds of lime and fifty gallons of water. The first application, killing the spots that are wintering on the bark and trellis, should be made before the buds open; the second immediately before the blossoms appear; the third, just after blossoming; the fourth and fifth at intervals of ten to fourteen days thereafter.

The cost of six spraying for an acre of grapes is about fifteen dollars, including material and labor. The grapes saved will in value far exceed this cost.

Now is the time of year to get your spray pump ready if you have one; to buy one if you need to; to prepare for the spraying needed during the coming spring.

If you need further information regarding spraying mixtures, how to prepare them, spraying pumps, where to buy them, and what crops and when to spray, write to the North Carolina Experiment Station, West Raleigh, N. C., for Bulletin 93, "Spraying Mixtures and Machinery, When and How to Spray."

Others of the Sick.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hooker are both quite sick.

Mrs. H. W. Whedbee has been quite sick several days.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hooker, who was very sick last week, is improving.

Miss Ruth Barden is recovering from a recent sickness that for a time gave her friends uneasiness.

Old Time Fiddlers.

The attraction at the opera house on the 24th is the Old Time Fiddlers Convention under the management of Profs. C. Z. Whitaker and J. T. Rotan. There will be old time fiddling, banjo picking, flat foot and double shuffle dancing. The contest will be open to every fiddler, banjo picker and dancer in the State. The convention will be great.

The ground hog may be laughing at what he has done, but the folks are not.

President Roosevelt is out in a long letter denying the charge that he is aiding Secretary Taft's nomination for the presidency by giving out offices.

We are very anxious to see street paving begin, but as long as the water and light plant is not up to the needs of the town that deficiency should be remedied first. One thing complete is better than two half done.

Already there are improvements in sight that will call for an expenditure of a quarter million dollars in Greenville this year. The man who will keep on talking hard times and panic in the face of such a prospect as this should consult a doctor and take something.

With the electric light plant already loaded and other people waiting to get service, and the water plant not able to supply the demand, it looks like there must be some speedy remedy, else the reputation of the town will suffer.

Liquor dealers of Wilmington are trying to organize other liquor dealers in the State, principally those of Salisbury and Winston, into an association to try to defeat prohibition in the State in the coming election. It would be more dollars in their pockets to plan to get in some other business, for prohibition is going to win, and their liquor selling come to an end.

Charlotte must certainly do something to confine those purse snatchers before the meeting of the press convention in that city. It will never do for the boys to be in danger of losing their wad while doing the Queen City. Bob Phillips got touched at the Raleigh fair, and another experience along that line might bring forth a squib in the New Bern Sun reading "What this country needs is money."

Greenville business men cannot make business by merely waiting for whatever may come along. Trade is something to be coaxed, and except under extraordinary conditions it has to be reached out after. These extraordinary conditions are not here, and business is not going to break its neck trying to get here unsolicited. This town has every opportunity for doing business, but the opportunities should be used. With every town competing strongly with every other town in this hustling age, those that make no effort to secure business cannot expect to be in the lead. Get a hustle on and let people know that your town is alive, and that it is the place for them to do business

At times when you don't feel just right, when you have a bad stomach, take something right away that will assist digestion: not something that will stimulate for a time but something that will positively do the very work that the stomach performs under ordinary and normal conditions, something that will make the food digest. To do this you must take a natural digestant like Kodol For Dyspepsia. Kodol is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids with natural digestants and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. Each dose will digest more than 3,000 grains of good food. It is sure to afford prompt relief: it digests what you eat and is pleasant to take. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Many a man doesn't do anything worth while because he thinks it isn't worth while.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "Empire" of Pitt, that I am still connected with the firm of Chas. M. Stieff, and if bachelors are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a "hanging out place" I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been retted during the summer months; others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225.00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350.00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage. Very respt., G. C. Fineman, Box 325 Greenville, N. C.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break, or head of these early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics. Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too, if you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child, if there is feverishness, night or day. Herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 5c boxes for the pocket, also in 25c boxes of 48 Preventics. Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio., by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c. per bottle.

A Fable of the Future.

In 1920 A. D. the Stingiest Man in Stringtown carted his Household Goods to the Depot and bought a ticket for Millionville, the Metropolis.

"Why are you moving to Millionville?" inquired a Citizen.

"To save postage," replied the Stingiest Man. Whereat the Citizen marveled mightily.

Now, be it known that the Stingiest Man in Stringtown was wise in his Day and Generation, for along back in 1907 A. D. or thereabout it became the Settled Habit of the Stringtown people to purchase Large Sheets of Little Stickers bearing portraits of G. Washington, B. Franklin, W. McKinley and other Late Illustrious Ones, which Specimens of Art they straightway stuck on envelopes and sent to a Large and Luring Mail Order Concern in Millionville. Wherefore it came about that the Seven Stores in Stringtown Shut up Shop, one after the other, until along in 1919 A. D. the Stingiest Man found it incumbent upon him to begin purchasing these Small Specimens of Art to present to the Maw of the Monster in Millionville, and the Aforesaid was Simply too Stingy to stand for the Same.

AN IMPRESSIVE MOMENT.

When the Ship's Bell Tolls at Night in Midocean.

The party was made up of travel lovers, and the conversation turned on impressive experiences. One spoke of standing at twilight among the ruins of the great temple at Karnak, another of a visit to the Acropolis by moonlight and a third of his first glimpse of rock bound Bethlehem, with the tender spring sunshine falling on the historic walls. The fourth member of the group paused a moment before making his contribution to the observations.

"The experience in travel which affected me—or shall I say affects me—the most," he said, "does not come strictly in the class of those of which you speak. It is not a view in any place, with all the associations that such a vista may summon up. Indeed, there is no place to it, except the general place that we call the ocean. But it is of impressions that we are talking, and my most vivid impression in all my journeyings is connected with an incident of shipboard life, an incident that constantly repeats itself and always, I hope, with deeper meaning. You see now why I speak of it in the present instead of the past, because any one who goes down to the sea in ships can appreciate it if he is so disposed.

"After nightfall let the seafarer go forward. If you haven't a companion who understands things you had better go by yourself. Let your thoughts dwell on the deep, on the remoteness of all else from the little world comprised within your vessel. Think of her sure progress across the dark wastes to her destination. Think perhaps of the lands you are to see or of those left behind. And, so musing, wait till the hour is sounded on the ship's bells and the voice of the lookout falls upon your ears with its 'All's well!'

"I care not what the language—the chord that it strikes in the mind is instantly comprehended. That's a moment when, if you are with one who can truly be called a friend, hands seek each other, and a pressure tells that two spirits on life's sea have knowledge in their common thankfulness for benefits received, in their hopes of what the future may hold and in their memories of the past of a mutuality of interest—a brotherhood, if you may so call it—that knits heart to heart and makes each heart the stronger.

"If you are alone at such a time you cannot fail to summon to you at least one spiritual presence, and who knows that the bond of sympathy you feel under such circumstances is not fully as enduring as when clasp answers clasp in recognition of the message of the time honored words?"

A silence fell upon the men. At last one spoke—the one who had talked of Karnak at twilight. "I think you're right," he said simply, and the other two nodded.—New York Press.

It Reminded Him.

The sick tragedian lay on his couch, staring with widely opened eyes into vacancy. The doctor who had been summoned first had just arrived, and while he was removing his gloves the second doctor came into the room.

"He mutters," said the first. "His mind wanders."

"N-no, I think not," replied the attendant, bending over the patient. "He spoke quite slowly and distinctly."

"What did he say?" inquired the second.

"He said, 'One woe doth tread upon another's heels, so fast they follow!'

Abacadabra.

It is said that Abacadabra was an Assyrian deity, but all that is known definitely of the word is that it was used as a charm. A Latin writer recommended the use of the word as a remedy for toothache. The word was written on parchment in the following form and hung around the neck:

ABRACADABRA

Flowers and Weeds.

The pretty teacher was trying to explain the difference between good conduct and bad. "Good actions," she explained, "are the lovely flowers. Bad ones are the weeds. Now can any little boy or girl tell me the difference between flowers and weeds? What are flowers? What are weeds?"

"Weeds," said Walter, who had been struggling with the sorrel in his mother's garden, "are the plants that want to grow, and flowers are the ones that don't."

PAGANINI'S BURIALS.

Remarkable Wanderings of the Famous Musician's Remains.

Paganini died at Nice in 1840, and, although he made confession, he did not receive the sacrament for medical reasons, which the doctor stated in writing. The bishop refused Christian burial to the body, and the son appealed to the Nice tribunal, which upheld the bishop, but a further appeal was made to Rome. During this delay the body, incompletely embalmed, was deposited at the hospital. From thence the coffin was removed to a lazaretto at Villefranche.

After a month the authorities there determined to get rid of it and deposited it by the side of a stream formed by the refuse coming from an oil mill. After some days the Comte de Cessoles, a friend of Paganini, decided to remove the body, which he did by night, having it carried along the seashore in a storm to the Cape St. Hospice.

Here it was buried and remained for two years, when the great violinist's son determined to take his father's body to Genoa to be buried there. The ship, however, was refused admittance at this place, as it had come originally from Marseilles, where there was cholera, so the body was put into a hole in the rock of a tiny uninhabited island near Cannes.

Five years later the body was taken to Gajona, near Parma, and buried there on Paganini's own property. This was in 1845. In 1853 it was exhumed and re-embalmed. In 1876, thirty-six years after the musician's death, the papal court authorized burial in a church at Parma with Christian rites. Twice again was the body exhumed, apparently out of curiosity, and finally a pane of glass was put into the coffin to render visible the face, which had been preserved.—London Spectator.

Leather Furniture.

A never failing method which may be resorted to for the cleaning of leather furniture is the following: Dip a soft woolen cloth in boiling milk and wipe the leather with this, rubbing gently until all the dirt is removed. Wipe dry with a soft flannel. When the leather is clean go over the surface with a piece of flannel on which is spread a tiny bit of prepared wax, about as large as a pea for the surface of a chair. The wax must be spread on the cloth as thin as possible. After the waxing go over the leather with a clean soft flannel, rubbing briskly, but not too hard. Here is the rule for preparing the wax: Put four ounces of beeswax, cut in small bits, in a bowl, place the bowl in a pan of hot water on the back of the stove. When the wax is quite soft take from the fire and beat into it half a cupful of turpentine and one tablespoonful of paraffin oil. If the wax gets cold before ready for use, place it in a pan of hot water for a few minutes.

How Silver Mines Form.

The process by which nature forms her silver mines is very interesting. It must be remembered that the earth's crust is full of water, which percolates everywhere through the rocks, making solutions of elements obtained from them. These solutions take up small particles of precious metal which they find here and there. Sometimes the solutions in question are hot, the water having got so far down as to be set boiling by the internal heat of the globe. Then they rush upward, picking up the bits of metal as they go. Naturally heat assists the performance of this operation. Now and then the streams thus formed, perpetually flowing hither and thither below the ground, pass through cracks or cavities in the rocks, where they deposit their loads of silver.

Nature the Artisan.

As a weaver nature produces fine work. Certain tree barks and leaves furnish excellent cloth—as, for instance, the famous tapa cloth used in the south sea islands. Nature is a glassmaker too. By discharging her lightning into beds of quartz sand she forms exquisite little pipes of glass. She makes valuable rope of various kinds in the shape of tropical vines and creepers, and she is even a lacemaker, as witness the lace trees of the West Indies.

New Style of Paper.

"Right in the middle of a story my paper gave out," said a newspaper woman, "and I sent in haste to the local stationer's around the corner. I wrote a note as follows: 'Please send a pad of yellow paper, 8 by 10, unlined preferable.'"

"The maid brought back the pad, on the wrapping of which the proprietor had written: 'Hope this will do. It is yellow and unlined, but we are all out of preferable.'"—New York Press.

All the Gold IN GEORGIA Could not Buy-

Roding, Ga. August 27, 1906. Messrs. E. G. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ills.

Gentlemen:— In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. Some physicians told me it was Dyspepsia, some Consumption of the Lungs, others said consumption of the Bowels. One physician said I would not live until Spring, and for four long years I existed on a little boiled milk, soda biscuits, doctors' prescriptions and Dyspepsia remedies that flooded the market. I could not digest anything I ate, and in the Spring 1902 I picked up one of your Almanacs as a poor emaciated Dyspepsia wreck will grasp at anything, and that Almanac happened to be my life saver. I bought a fifty cent bottle of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and the benefit I received from that bottle ALL THE GOLD IN GEORGIA COULD NOT BUY. I kept on taking it and in two months I went back to my work, as a machinist, and in three months I was well and hearty. I still use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic. May you live long and prosper. Yours very truly, G. N. CORNELL.

A RIVAL OF WHISTLER.

The Russian Wolkoff's Attempted Imitation of the Pastels.

One evening there was a convivial gathering of men from many different nations seated about a table in an open court of the Bauer Grunwald, a well known Venetian restaurant. The conversation, I believe, was in English, and the subject of Whistler's pastels was brought up by one of his enthusiastic American admirers. A Russian named Wolkoff was flippant and depreciating, ridiculing them as works of art, jeeringly saying that he was willing to bet that he could make half a dozen pastels as good as Whistler's, and, if they were mixed with his, nobody could tell them apart. The American was surprised at this attitude and remarked:

"I'll bet a champagne dinner for all present that you can't."

"All right, I'll take your bet and prove what I say, but I will make one condition only, and it must be agreed upon by all present: I must be permitted to see Whistler's pastels before I begin."

"I will agree to that and arrange a day when you can see them."

All this was unknown to Whistler, who was innocent of the reason for the call of his Russian guest. He received him charmingly and showed him all his pastels. These he pinned on large cardboards, carefully, almost ceremoniously, and placed them before him upon a chair that served as an easel. This was the usual way he exhibited his pastels or etchings at home. The Russian was not heard from for six weeks. Then the committee in charge was informed that he could not go on because he found it impossible to purchase in Venice the peculiar brilliant pastels with which Whistler obtained his effects.

The American would not let him slip through in that way, so he managed to make it possible for his Russian friend to select numerous small pieces from Whistler's own pastel boxes. He selected all he wanted or thought he needed for the easy task of making a Whistler pastel and after this exceptional accommodation returned to his work, saying he would be ready for the jury in a week.

How or by whom the six jurors were selected I do not know, but I remember that two strangers, an Austrian and a Dutchman, were among them. Spain was represented by Martin Rico, England by Henry Woods, R. A., and America by Frank Duveneck and myself. By this time Whistler knew the wager. The jury met in a house on the Riva not far from the Casa Jankovitz, near enough for him to bring his pastels conveniently. The meeting was a very long room facing the lagoons. The American who had accepted the wager was not there. Wolkoff was at home, sick in bed. Whistler was in the darkest and farthest corner, with his back to the company and his pastels on a long table. I was selected to bring each exhibit from Whistler's hands and place it on a high backed chair.

It was an extraordinary position in which Whistler was placed and a veritable ordeal which he faced. He was serious and wore a troubled look, the truth being that he was nervous at the possibility that the jury might let one of the Russian's pastels slip by as one of his own. I am glad to say, however, that whenever a Wolkoff appeared it was instantly received with groans and shouts of "Take it away!" Not for one moment was there the least doubt or a dissenting voice.—Otto Bacher in Century.

Kept Him Posted.

Some years ago a railway porter wrote to Admiral Beresford of the British navy saying, "Our home has been blessed with twins, and I write to ask your lordship if you will ask the Princess of Wales if we may call the little girl Princess of Wales Brown and the little boy Lord Charles Beresford Brown." Lord Charles procured the necessary permission from the princess and sent it, together with his own. A month later came the following from the same man: "My lord, I am happy to inform you that Lord Charles Beresford Brown is well and hearty and that Princess of Wales Brown died this morning."

A Compliment.

The heavy villain of the barnstorming aggregation stalked into the workshop of the village editor.

"What did you mean by referring to me as a 'mighty' in your write-up of the performance last night?" he roared.

"I meant," answered the local molder of opinion, "that you were entirely too great for the company you were with."

And the heavy villain, being a stranger to the ways of village editors, believed him.—Kansas City Independent.
