JONES HAS SENTENCE COMMUTED.

The Negro Was Under Sentence of Death at Greensboro.

Governor Glenn yesterday commuted the death sentence of Frazier Jones, the Guilford county wife-murderer, to life imprisonment, upon the investigation that had been made since he granted a reprieve of ten days to Jones last Friday at 11:30 o'clock, just half an hour before the negro's soul was to have been sent into eternity from the gallows.

There was some criticism of the Governor following upon the announcement that he had respited the negro ten days, but this ended when it was understood that the reprieve had been granted at the request of Solicitor Brooks and when the principal prosecuting witness in the trial made a statement for the consideration of the Governor to the effect that Jones' wife was a woman whose character was questionable, and whose conduct, inspiring the passion of jealousy in the breast of the negro, caused him to commit the crime without premeditation.

The Governor's statement in granting the commutation is as follows:

"The defendant was under sentence of death for murder in the first degree and application to commute sentence to life imprisonment was filed before me, with affidavits and testimonials as to character; also counter affidavits and testimonials filed contradicting the allegations in the petition. Neither the trial judge nor solicitor would recommend the commutation, and after a full and fair investigation I declined to interfere with the sentence. On Friday evening before the execution was to take place on Saturday, some of the best men in Guilford county, among whom were lawyers, doctors, ministers and business men importuned me to commute the sentence. I got in communication with Solicitor Brooks, as I have to look largely to the legal officers for my information. At first he declined to make any recommendation. On Saturday he phoned me asking for respite of ten days to give him an opportunity to examine more thoroughly into the case. In the interest of human life, and desiring to make no mistake in so important a matter as that of life and death, without any intention of putting the responsibility on Mr. Brooks, but in order to get his aid, I respited the defendant until February 18th. Since the respite and after examining new testimony and affidavits, both Judge Moore, the trial judge, and Solicitor Brooks, recommend unconditionally the commutation. In addition to this the strongest witness in the case, on whose testimony the defendant was convicted principally, has come forward and of his own accord made affidavit, showing the character of the deceased and that the killing grew out of the passion engendered by jealousy; that it was sudden and not premeditated. With the lights before them, the jury did right and the sentence was just. With the evidence before me at the first hearing, I know I was right in refusing to commute the sentence, but now that the judge and solicitor in the light of new facts presented recommend it, and the strongest State witness has furnished affidavit that leaves doubt on the mind as to whether the killing was premeditated, while still believing the defen-dent very guilty, but there being grave doubt as to the degree of his guilt, in the interest of human life I commute his sentence from death to life imprisonment at hard labor in the State prison, believing that under the circumstance it is best to make a mistake, if any, on the side of mercy than to too rigidly enforce justice."—Raleigh News and Observer.

How People Love to be Humbugged.

A few days ago a neatly dressed stranger came to town and going to the pastor of one of the churches, wanted to borrow $5 to pay his fare to some station north of here. Not getting the money, he visited a well-known wholesale grocery store and bought a dozen cakes of soap for fifty cents. He soon disappeared, and the gentleman who sold him the soap, thought no more of the matter until he went home for dinner. Just as he was leaving for his office, his good wife remarked, "Oh, I forgot to show you what a bargain I purchased this morning. Here is some of the best soap I have seen. It is worth 25 cents a cake but I bought three cakes for 50 cents." The merchant simply remarked that he supposed it was good soap as he had sold it for such that morning.—Wadesboro Ansonian.

Yes, We Are Restless.

"We are a restless people," observes the Sedwick (Kan.) Pantagraph. "Every thin person longs to be fat. Every fat person wants to grow thin. Every town man longs for the time when he can retire to the quiet of the country, and every farmer hopes to some day quit work and move to town where he can take life easy. Country newspaper men would like to try their hand on a city daily. The fellows on the big dailies dream of a time when they can own a paper of their own. In youth we long for maturity. In age we yearn for the happy days of childhood. There is no excuse for it other than that we all seem to be built that way. The grass seems to be just a little bit greener and thriftier most any direction from the place you occupy right now. Contentment is as near to happiness as you can get in this world."

Why His Marriage Failed:

He did all the courting before marriage.
He never talked over his affairs with his wife.
He thought of his wife only as a cheap housekeeper.
He never dreamed that a wife deserved praise or compliments.
He thought his wife had a very easy time.
He married an ideal, and was disappointed to find it had flaws.
He paid no attention to his personal appearance after marriage.
He treated his wife as he would not have dared to treat another woman.

Will Address Chamber of Commerce.

On Tuesday night, 18th, Congressman John H. Small will address the Chamber of Commerce of Greenville on the subject of water transportation, a matter that this section is much interested in. Every business man of the community should be present and hear Mr. Small. He is taking active interest in water transportation and will give the people information that will be helpful to them.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Fennell, who were visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. A. White, left Thursday for their home in Wilmington.

J. Dewine, of Suffolk, who has been here negotiating with the town for paving brick, left this morning.

Wrather.

Rain tonight, warmer in the interior. Saturday generally fair with colder in western portion.

Real Farming.

The Scottish Chief, published at Maxton, tells about a farmer in that section who made 14 bales of cotton on 8 acres of land, each bale weighing on an average 514 pounds. Now that is real farming.

Go Pay Your Taxes.

Those who have not paid their taxes for last year should be hunting up the collector. It is getting near the time when the property of delinquents will be advertised. Sheriff Tucker is giving his last notice to those who have not paid.

Don't Keep Waiting.

We had rather not have to refer to it so often, but it is necessary to again remind those subscribers to The Reflector who have not responded to statements sent them, that the paper can not be sent to them much longer unless they pay what they owe us. Every one who has not done so should call and settle or send a remittance without waiting to be reminded of it again.

The Cotton Tax May be Refunded.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Southern congressmen have begun a concerted movement to procure legislation to refund the sixty-eight million dollars of cotton tax collected during the civil war, alleged to have been illegally collected. The bill decided on at the conference last night provides for payment from the national treasury direct to holders of cotton tax certificates with any court of claim adjudication.

Acme Theatre Tonight.

Owing to the rain last night the Acme Theatre did not give the program announced, but gave a free show of good pictures. The program intended for last night will be given tonight.

Wood's Seed Catalogue.

We have received T. W. Wood & Sons' Seed Catalogue, for 1908. It is one of the handsomest and most complete of seed catalogues. This catalogue is particularly valuable in the information that it gives about southern seeds and southern crops, and should be in the hands of all our gardeners and farmers. It will be mailed free, upon request to T. W. Wood & Sons, Richmond, Va.

Names of Our Presidents.

Eight of the country's presidents have had three-syllable names, thirteen have had two-syllable names, four have had one-syllable names. Of the four monosyllable presidents, two—Grant and Hayes—were born in Ohio. The other Ohio-born presidents were Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, and McKinley. Of the citizens on the Republican side of the road who have been talked of for the presidency of late, three—Taft, Hughes, and Knox—have one-syllable names. That's unusual, not to say unprecedented. Two other monosyllable citizens—Shaw and Crane—have been more or less mentioned. Fairbanks and Cannon are in the two-syllable class; LaFollette and Foraker are in the class of the "also left."—Hartford Courant.

Trade Report.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 13, 1908. Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond, Va. and vicinity:—While depression continues in most lines of trade, there are evidences of improvement and the general tone is better than it has been for several weeks. Jobbers of dry goods, notions, shoes, hats and kindred lines are receiving orders of fair volume, but report a continuance of slow and unsatisfactory collections. In sheet metal and mill supplies there is an increased demand and sales show improvement in this line and collections are satisfactory. Receipts of produce increased, the demand in that line is better than for some weeks past and prices are fair. Manufacturers of trunks and bags report improvement in sales. Offerings of loose tobacco were greater than last week and the satisfactory prices heretofore noted are maintained. In paints and oils the volume of business shows gradual increase. Lumber continues dull and there have been no resummptions of importance among the mills. Retail trade is at the point of dullness usual at the end of a season and clearance sales, which stimulated it for a time, are about over. Money is in fair demand and the supply is ample.

AYDDN ITEMS.

News Notes From a Hustling Town, Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., Feb. 14th 1908. Mrs. Geo. Tucker, of Whitaker, who has been visiting relatives here returned home Tuesday.

Capt. George Cooper, who has been in the employ of the Ayden Lumber Co. for several years, has taken a position as salesman with J. R. Smith Co.

W. O. Bilbro, one of our best citizens, left with his family last week to make his home at Middlesex, N. C., where he will engage in mercantile business. The style of the firm will be Jackson & Bilbro. Mr. Bilbro is an honest, upright young man, and has the pluck and energy so essential to success.

Mrs. Ed Worthington is confined to her bed with rheumatism. The school house near Macedonia, in Swift Creek township was consumed by fire Wednesday afternoon. The origin of the fire was incendiary and if rumors are true it is indeed a most unfortunate affair.

Len Tripp, a lad about 15 years of age, while playing base ball out at the graded school grounds Wednesday, fell and broke the large bone of his left leg just below the knee. He is getting along now very nicely.

H. A. White, of Greenville, has been here this week on business.

D. G. Gibb, who has been paying an extended visit to New York has returned home.

J. T. Smith, Sr., an old resident of Ayden, has bought a nice farm near Middlesex and moved his family there where he will engage in farming.

W. F. Hart and R. W. Smith put in their new seine at Pitch Kettle yesterday and we expect to hear big things from them before the season closes.

Miss Moseley, of Kinston, has been here visiting her sister, Mrs. J. R. Turnage.

Mrs. Walter Hook, of Kenly, came Wednesday to spend several days with her husband here.

Our friend Mitchell, of New Bern, is in town.
J. H. Coward from the University, has been home on a visit for a few days.

NEGRO NEAR BEING LYNCHED.

Plymouth Constable Shot by Negro—Citizens Infuriated.

Governor Glenn last night received an urgent telegram from the sheriff of Washington county asking permission to call out the militia to protect a negro from lynching by an infuriated citizenry. The negro had shot the town constable.

The telegram to the Governor, by Sheriff W. J. Jackson, dated Plymouth, was as follows:

"Grave danger of lynching caused by negro shooting town constable. Please put National Guard, marine corps, here at my disposal. Wire at once."

Governor Glenn's answer was as follows:

"Order out State militia subject to your commands. Convey prisoner to place of safety. Allow no lynching."—Raleigh News & Observer.

No Credence Given to The Suggestion.

Members of the North Carolina delegation were very much interested today in the letter written by Representative W. W. Kitchin, in which he asked that the Fifth Congressional District Convention be held after the Democratic State Convention. The suggestion that Mr. Kitchin wrote this letter with the view of capturing the nomination for Congress in the event that he fails of the gubernatorial nomination, received no credence here. People who have talked with the Congressman from the Fifth district have been impressed with the fact that he has every confidence in the successful outcome of his candidacy. It is natural for a candidate to feel this way, and the same thing is probably true of the state of mind of the other gentlemen in the race. Mr. Kitchin has burned his Congressional bridges behind him, and it is only just to him to say that he has no ambitions in this direction. He will stand or fall upon his contest for governorship.—Washington Cor. Raleigh News and Observer.

Last Round for Taxes.

I will make the last visit over the county to collect taxes due for the year 1907 at the following times and places:

Falkland, Falkland township, Tuesday March 3, 1908.

Farmville, Farmville township, Tuesday March 3.

Bethel, Bethel township, March 3.

Pactolus, Pactolus township, Thursday March 5.

Grimesland, Chicod township, Saturday March 7.

Ayden, Contentnea township, Saturday March 7.

C. D. Smiths' Store, Beaver Dam township, Tuesday Mar. 10.

Bell X Roads, Belvoir township, Tuesday March 10.

Stokes, Carolina township, Saturday March 14.

Grifton, Swift Creek township, Saturday March 14.

All who fail to pay will be advertised and cost added to their taxes. Pay promptly and save cost and trouble.
12 1m L. W. Tucker, Sheriff.

Died.

Mr. C. W. Tayloe, a prominent citizen of Washington and brother of the Drs. Toyloe and Mr. J. F. Toyloe, died in that town this morning of cancer of the throat. He had many friends in Greenville who learn of his death with regret.

If that was the way he intended it, it is hardly fair in Mr. Kitchen to try to keep strings to two offices, so that if he fails to get one he can pull in the other.

The New Bern man who gave a friend a loaded cigar, with the result that the friend was severely injured by the explosion that followed an effort to smoke the cigar, ought to be prosecuted. The act was as much a crime as to send a person an infernal machine.

It comes in bad taste for the faculty to try to create the impression that the recent hazing at the A. & M. college was only an insignificant affair. The people of the State, and those interested in the boys, hold a different view of it. We are glad Governor Glenn has determined that the matter shall be probed to the bottom.

Those Virginia cities that are joining with the railroads in fighting North Carolinas demand for and equality of freight rates, must not appreciate the trade this State gives them. If Lynchburg and some other manufacturing Virginia towns do not mind they will kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

Other business men of Greenville might take a lesson from the Tobacco Board of Trade. If other organizations—for instance the Merchants' Association—were as active as the Tobacco Board of Trade trying to bring business to Greenville, you would see more of it coming here. The tobacco men are organized and work together, and when they act it is with effect. The town owes much to them.

The suggestion of Hon. W. W. Kitchen that the Democratic congressional convention in the Fifth district be deferred until after the State convention is not approved by the candidates for congress in the fifth district.—Raleigh News & Observer.

And you can't blame them, for they no doubt think that if Mr. Kitchen failed to get the nomination for governor in the State convention, he would again be a candidate in the congressional convention.

The Chamber of Commerce, the Tobacco Board of Trade, the Merchants' Association, and business men generally should come out together to hear the address of Congressman John H. Small, next Tuesday night, on the subject of water transportation. There is nothing like being united on a matter if results are to be accomplished. Greenville has lost in the past by a lack of unity and co-operation among the business people, but now with organization there should be a change in such conditions.

At times when you don't feel just right, when you have a bad stomach, take something right away that will assist digestion; not something that will stimulate for a time but something that will positively do the very work that the stomach performs under ordinary and normal conditions, something that will make the food digest. To do this you must take a natural digestant like Kodol For Dyspepsia. Kodol is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids with natural digestants and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. Each dose will digest more than 3,000 grains of good food. It is sure to afford prompt relief; it digests what you eat and is pleasant to take. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Heart Strength

Heart strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fall, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves. This is why early experts as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c. per bottle. Everything taken into the stomach should be digested fully within a certain time. When you feel that that your stomach is not in good order, the food you have eaten is not being digested, take a good, natural digestant that will do the work, the digestive juices are not doing. The best remedy known today for all stomach troubles is Kodol, which is guaranteed to give prompt relief. It is a natural digestant; it digests what you eat, it is pleasant to take and is sold here by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

"Every man has his place." Excepting always those who give themselves away.

A weak Stomach, means weak Stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. It's a pity that sick ones continue to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves, not the organs themselves, need this help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative has, and is promptly helping so many sick ones. It goes directly to the cause of these diseases. Mr. E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Maine, says of Bucklen's Arnica Salve "It does the business; I have used it for piles and it cured them. Used it for chapped hands and it cured them. Applied it to an old sore and it healed it without leaving a scar behind." 25c at J. L. Wooten's drug store.

"Health coffee" is really the closest coffee imitation ever yet produced. This, the finest coffee substitute ever made, has recently been produced by Dr. Shoop, of Racine, Wis. "Boost the Booster!"

That's the official slogan of a certain town in Arkansas which through boosting itself and boosting its boosters has doubled its population since the 1900 census.

BOOST THE BOOSTER!

The Arkansas town had been quarreling among itself for years, and standing still. It had boosters, but it had others who refused to boost the boosters, refused to stand by them and yell, "Good boy—keep it up!"

BOOST THE BOOSTER!
Finally the town got together with itself, organized a "Boost the Booster Club" and began to boom. Now its principal thoroughfare, which was a streak of mud, is a stretch of asphalt, and it has new buildings to match. Now everybody boosts the booster and booms the boom.

BOOST THE BOOSTER!

This town might take a hint from that one. We have our town boosters—every town has some. But sometimes they get discouraged because of opposition right here in our midst.

BOOST THE BOOSTER!

Cut out the criticism!
Quit the queering!
Boom the Boom!
Then watch the old town perk up and plunge forward. You can see it move.

WHEN YOU BOOST THE BOOSTER YOU BOOM THE BOOM.

PALINDROMES.

Words and Phrases That Spell the Same Backward and Forward.

"There are in the English language certain words and sometimes whole sentences of which the letters composing them, taken either in direct or in reverse order, read the same. Such combinations are called palindromes, a name derived from two Greek words meaning to run again—that is, the letters run or read backward as well as forward.

"When the first man met the first woman—whose name, Eve, by the way, is a palindrome—he may have introduced himself to her thus: 'Madam, I'm Adam.' In this supposed case I assume that he spoke English and not a garden of Edenish dialect, and if my supposition be correct he made use of a palindromic expression.

"Among the simple words of this kind or instances of whole sentences are deed, defied, gog, Hannah, level, minim, redder, nun, repaper, reviver, rotator, sexes, shahs and tat. 'Was it a cat I saw?' is palindromic.

"Barring the spelling the following sentence may be given: 'Lewd did I live & evil I did dwell.' Another example is, 'Desserts I desire not, so long no lost one rise distressed.' It is said that Napoleon was once asked whether he could have invaded England, when he replied, 'Able was I ere I saw Elba.' This is a good specimen of a palindrome, but of course the reply was never made, as he would have answered in French. Here is one in Latin, 'Subi dura a rudibus.' 'Endure hard things from the rude.'

"The following list of five words furnishes a remarkable combination of letters. With one exception they are all Latin words in good repute, and the letters are capable of many regular transformations:

SATOR
ROTAS

"The first letter of each word, read downward from the top of the list, spells the first word, and the second letter of each word, read in the same way, spells the second word, and so on through the list. Beginning at the top each word, read backward, spells the corresponding word in the list under it—that is, the top word spells the bottom word, the second word from the top spells the second word from the bottom, and so on. Again, beginning at the bottom of the list, the last letter of each word, read upward, spells the word at the top, and in the same way the second letter of each word spells the second word from the top, and so on through the list again."

The Infant Terrible.

A Washington heights mother had just sought to punish her youthful son, and the son, to escape, had crawled under a bed, when a woman friend called at the apartment.

"What a lovely place you have here!" the caller remarked. "So pretty and so bright and clean! You must give more personal attention to things than I do."

At this moment the small boy crawled out, scenting safety.

"Say, mamma," was his greeting, "I don't get under any more beds in this house. Look at me. I guess when you sweep you never sweep under there. The dirt's an inch thick."

The caller looked off into space, and the mother exclaimed enthusiastically:

"Oh, let me show you my hat, my dear!"—New York Globe.

Why He Didn't Resign.

Sir William Wightman held office in the old court of queen's bench in London far beyond the prescribed time, and at last, on the eve of the "long vacation," he took a sort of farewell of his brother judges. However, when "the morrow of All Saints" came around he turned up smiling at Westminster hall. "Why, Brother Wightman," said Sir Alexander Cockburn, "you told us that you intended to send in your resignation to the lord chancellor before the end of August." "So I did," said Sir William, "but when I went home and told my wife she said, 'Why, William, what on earth do you think that we can do with you missing about the house all day?' So, you see, I was obliged to come down to court again."

Vallant indeed.

During an invasion panic which spread through England when some French colonels addressed their emperor, Napoleon III., in very fiery terms a certain Yorkshire colonel of volunteers distinguished himself by the following utterance at a local banquet, "Gentlemen, on behalf of my comrades I can assure you that if Napoleon's colonels should land at Spurn the First East York rifles will not be the last to flee," a declaration that remained as a joke against the regiment for many years.

THE REPORTER'S STORY.

A Dream That Might Have Ended In Unconscious Suicide.

"Do you know I came pretty near committing suicide one time, and I wouldn't have known it if I had," remarked the fat scribe as he broke into a conversation of night police reporters at central. At the time the startling affair occurred I was engaged in a sort of day police stunt—that is, the editor kept me on criminal stories as a sort of specialty. An express car holdup came off, and I was sent to report the chase of the bandits. It was a long, hard game.

"One day I got a telegram to come home, and there never was a guy that packed his grip with such joy. I had been gone a month, and what with the life I lived and the excitement of the hunt and all that I was about all in. I had been in the habit of staying up late at night, and I knew I could not sleep comfortably in a berth, so I threw myself down on the long leather seat in the smoking apartment of the Pullman. Travel happened to be light, and I was not bothered.

"I had a revolver with me in my right hip pocket. It hurt me as I rested upon it, and I raised up and took it out of the hip pocket, placing it in the left coat pocket. Then with my overcoat and right arm under my head, I made a try for a little sleep.

"Pretty soon I snoozed off. Then I dreamed. I dreamed that the train was being held up and that three masked men, armed with rifles or shotguns, appeared on the platform of the car. I had got it into my head that the bandits intended to kill me, and in my nightmare I thought I sprang up and tried to barricade the door with chairs and seats. But my efforts were useless. The robbers pushed their way in and jeered me. I heard one of them say: 'Kill him. That's the guy that has been after us.'

"I felt that my hour had come, but something made me want to die game. I reached for my revolver and got it and strove desperately to fire it at the villains. But strangely enough the revolver would not discharge. I pulled and pulled at the trigger, but it was no go.

"Just then there was a crash—I thought I had been made the present of a load of buckshot, but it was simply the porter closing the door—and I awoke, covered with perspiration. I was half dazed, and it took me a moment or two to get my bearings. Then I found I had my revolver in my right hand, and my index finger was gripped around the guard as if it were frozen there, so intense had been the strength I had applied to the weapon. If it had been the trigger instead of the guard—oh, my—

"I then figured it out. I had reached into my left pocket with my right hand, transferred the revolver to my right, which was under my head. The angle of the weapon was directly over my heart when I strove to discharge it. The revolver was a heavy bulldog, and I wouldn't have known what hurt me had it gone off. But some kind of a good fairy saved me."

"That ain't a bad yarn," remarked a listener. "Your friends would have certainly said you had taken the suicide route."

"Sure they would," approved the fat reporter. "All of which goes to show that circumstantial evidence is sometimes a very uncertain quantity."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Vitality of Cats.

It's an old saying that "a cat has nine lives" and, like most old sayings, not supposed to have any truth in it, but from recent investigations it really seems that a cat can hold on to life under circumstances where any other creature would die. A cat's life may be proved to be at the least three times the worth of a dog's. Put a cat and a dog of the same age in a "lethal chamber." The cat will always outlive the dog. On one occasion it was noticed the dog was dead in five minutes and the cat still breathing forty minutes later. A cat has been known to recover after two hours' immersion in cold water, and another came back to life eight hours after apparent death from a dose of prussic acid.—Strand Magazine.

Got the Rest of It Later.

The process of loading a Flat-bush avenue car at the door of a Fulton street department store the other afternoon was delayed for an instant by a woman who dropped a parcel and paused in front of the car step to pick it up. She was tall, angular and wore a heavy veil. "Aw, hurry up, will ye?" said the courteous conductor, addressing himself to her. "We can't wait here all afternoon." The woman said nothing, but passed inside and took her seat. When the conductor came to collect her fare, she lifted her veil and remarked with evident temper: "If I wasn't your wife, I'd report you to the company for being assy."—Brooklyn Eagle.

THIRST PROOF ANIMALS.

Some That Beat the Camel in Getting Along Without Water.

From our childhood picture book days nearly every one of us has cherished the idea that the camel was the beast above all others that could exist for extended periods without drinking. And so few of us have any idea that there are other beasts of the earth quite as capable as the humped quadruped of going for days and weeks without water.

Sheep in the northwestern deserts go from forty to sixty days in winter without drink, grazing on the green, succulent vegetation of that season.

Peccaries in the desert of Sonora live in little dry hills, where there is no natural water for long periods. They cannot possibly find water in fact for months at a time. The only moisture they can obtain comes from roots and the fruits of cacti.

But the most extraordinary case is that of the pocket mouse, one of the common rodents of the desert. This little creature, by the way, has a genuine fur lined pocket on the outside of its cheek. When it is hungry it takes food from this pocket with its paw, just as a man would pull a sandwich from his pocket.

It is said that one of these mice has been kept for three years with no other food than the mixed bird seed of commerce. During this period it had not a taste of either water or green food. Other experiments in this direction have shown, in fact, that these mice in captivity refuse such treats, not seeming to know that water is good to drink. The bird seed put before the mouse referred to contained not more than 10 per cent of moisture, which is less than is necessary for digestion. Stuff so dry as this cannot even be swallowed until it is moistened by saliva, yet this remarkable mouse gave nothing but his time to the interests of science. He suffered nothing in health or spirits during his captivity.—New York Herald.

An Iconoclast.

A story comes from England about a certain colonel in the Royal Horse artillery who had the reputation of lacking imagination, with a care for nothing but his beloved guns. He happened to be visiting Egypt with some friends and naturally went to see the pyramids.

"So these are the pyramids, eh?" he said as he gazed stolidly at them. "Yes," said an enthusiastic friend. "Are they not wonderful, stupendous?"

"Oh, yes," grunted the colonel, "I suppose they're all right in their way."

"I should say they are," returned his friend. "Think of their standing for all these thousands of years!"

"Humph!" said the unimpressed soldier. "Give me a couple of batteries and I'll guarantee to knock them to pieces inside a week."—Canadian Courier.

Tested His Friends.

An Irishman who died in the early part of the nineteenth century in one of the outlying parishes of London undertook to test the devotion of his friends and acquaintances by making out a list of 400 of them, who were requested by written invitation to attend his funeral, which was held at 7 o'clock one cold winter morning in the parish church. Only twenty-nine persons appeared. When his will was opened, it was found that, having no natural heirs, he ordered his fortune to be divided among the persons who attended his funeral.—London Mail.

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas. M. Stieff, and if bachelors are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a "hanging out place" I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225 00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350 00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage. Very respct.,

The Obvious Course.

A reverend gentleman was addressing a Sunday school class not long ago and was trying to enforce the doctrine that when people's hearts were sinful they needed regulating. Taking out his watch and holding it up, he said:

"Now, here is my watch. Suppose it doesn't keep good time—now goes too fast and now too slow—what shall I do with it?"

"Sell it," promptly replied a boy.—Harper's Magazine.
