LEAP YEAR VALENTINE PARTY. BOYS ESCORTED BY YOUNG LADIES GREAT FUN

The Girls Around Sixteen Entertain
Most Delightfully.

The boys must certainly go about some if they have any idea of keeping pace with the girls, for the latter have put themselves far in the lead as entertainers.

A bunch of the sixteeners, and Greenville has the sweetest and prettiest lot of them in the world, decided that they would take advantage of leap year and do the honors in an entertainment. They planned for some weeks, and the outcome of it was a Valentine party which they gave Friday night.

Mrs. R. L. Smith kindly tendered her elegant new home to the girls as the place for holding their party, which offer was gladly accepted. Two days before the party the boys who were to be guests received two red hearts bearing the invitation. These read:

On Valentine's night at half past eight, the girls of Greenville would like to relate
To the boys of the town the mystery of hearts,
And we would like for you to take part.

From then on the boys were all expectant while the girls were busy with preparation. The home of Mrs. Smith, already beautiful was transformed by artistic decorations until it was indeed a dream of love. The hall was rich in potted plants. The parlor was decorated with pink draperies, and hearts were everywhere. The library in red, festoons extending from the electric chandelier to the corners of the room, with hearts and roses in profusion. The dining room was in pink and white with ropes of hearts extending from the chandelier to the table. The entire decorations were artistically planned.

As the girls with their escorts arrived they were charmingly welcomed at the door by Miss Mary Smith. In the hall fruit punch was served by Miss Susie Warren and Frank Brown. The first contest of the evening was guessing riddles. There was much good guessing and in the drawing which followed Miss Hennie Whichard got the lucky number, 13, and was awarded the prize, a pair of cuff buttons, which she presented to Percy Forbes.

The boys were then invited to the upper hall where bows and arrows were given them with which to shoot at a row of hearts suspended across the end of the hall. On the back of each heart was the name of a girl whom the boy whose arrow pierced the heart was to have as a partner for supper.

When the couples repaired to the dining room they were served with Fussell's block cream, cake and bonbons, by Mrs. Smith and Misses Mary Smith, Lillian Carr and Margaret Blow.

After supper there were progressive proposals, the couples sitting around the room and the girls having to do the proposing, the amusing feature being progressing from one boy to another. The prize for the best proposal, a stick pin was won by Miss Mary Shelburn who presented it to Norman Warren.

It was a happy gathering of young folks, and not until a late hour did their merriment and pleasure come to an end. Those giving the party were Misses Mary Smith, Jamie Bryan, Susie Warren, Hennie Whichard, Mattie Moye King, Lillian Burch, Mary Shelburn, Lillian Carr, Lucille Cobb, Minnie Best Dail, Lillie Tucker, Essie Ellington, Margaret Blow, Estelle Greene and Ethel Skinner.

The boys present were Carl Wilson, Percy Forbes, Charles Haskett, Tom Dupree, Lee Shelburn, Charlie Horne, Blount Pearce, Oscar Greene, Alex Blow, Royce Tucker, Bascom Wilson, Frank Brown, Luther Bowling, Thurman Moore, Norman Warren, Jesse Harrington, George Prichard and David Watson.

The guests of honor were Misses Lillie Bennett and Edith Payne.

THE INDEPENDENT FARMER.

Will Not Sell Cotton Until He Gets Ready.

A Georgia correspondent of a New York cotton brokerage firm who was evidently prodded about his slowness in buying cotton wrote to his house, under date of February 4th:

"Not a bale of cotton has been sold here in ten days. None offered at any price. The farmers in Georgia don't give a —. All the banks in New York may fail, all the factories in Manchester may close down, but they are 'fixed' this season for a long 'siege' plenty of corn, meat and a bank account. I never dreamed of such indifference among farmers as now exists. Futures may go lower, but no real cotton is to be had under 12½ cents. I've tried to buy 100 bales of spots around 12 cents here, but there was nothing doing. No good cotton to be had under 12½ cents to 13 cents—very few bales at that."

Cotton buyers in any part of North Carolina will say that the same conditions prevail here. On a northbound train on the Southern, one day last week, was a cotton man from Charlotte bound for Greensboro with samples. At Salisbury a cotton man got on with samples. He also, was bound for Greenboro. They had low grade cotton which they wanted to sell at their own price. Both agreed that white cotton was not to be obtained. There is plenty of it—but it is not on the market.

The farmers have it stored in warehouses, or under shelter at their homes and are going about their business until a price comes along that suits them. The Georgia man in a brief paragraph, has told the whole story of the prosperous conditions prevailing in the South. What he says of Georgia is true of every cotton growing State. The farmer, for once, is certainly in position to keep his cotton until he gets what he wants for it.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Young Man Injured by Train.

Mr. J. S. Buck, an employe of Atlantic Coast Line, at South Rocky Mount, was caught between the engine and a car while coupling, and his leg horribly mashed. His leg was caught between the cylinder of the shifter and the car and the flesh was torn from the bone from the knee to his body, nearly all of it, though the bones were not fractured. He was taken to the A. C. L. Relief Hospital and up to the present the limb has not been amputated, but this will very probably have to be done. Mr. Buck is a young man whose home is at Winterville, and his father and brother came from that place Sunday to be with him.—Rocky Mount Record.

HAS THE RIGHT RING.

Wake County Doctors Against Illegal Prescriptions.

The Wake County Medical Society at its meeting yesterday passed resolutions with reference to the duty of the medical profession in communities that have voted prohibition that deserve to be widely read. They will meet the approval of every man in the profession worthy of his high calling and of the public. The resolutions were proposed by Dr. A. W. Knox, one of the State's first physicians and surgeons, whose sense of civic duty is as high as his professional skill. They met the unanimous approval of every member of the society and are practical and meet the need. The doctors pledge themselves "both as an organization and as individuals to promote by every means in our power the honest execution of the prohibition law with the purpose of making it effective and successful."

The resolutions express faith that most physicians will "live up to this high principle of action" stated in the resolutions printed elsewhere, and add this wise resolution:

"Resolved, That we deem it unprofessional and dishonorable conduct, for physicians either to sell or to give prescriptions for whiskey or other intoxicants, to be used as a beverage merely; and further, that, in our opinion, such giving of whiskey prescriptions, if satisfactorily proved, should be valid ground for revoking the license of any physician who may be guilty of the same."

It is a matter for congratulation that Wake has a medical society composed of men who take this proper view of their duty as physicians and as citizens. The public has every confidence that nearly all will live up to the resolutions adopted. Not the least gratifying clause in the resolutions is that if any licensed physician should violate the rule and thus violate the law, it "should be valid ground for revoking the license." That shows the real spirit of the society.—News and Observer.

BOYS AND YARD FENCES.

The Two Do Not Mix Well Together On Valentine Night.

"You folks that don't have fences around your yards are in the best luck," remarked a man, who had been around this morning nailing palings on his fence. One thing the boys just seem bent on doing when they carry valentines, is tearing palings off of fences and we never could see where there was any fun in it. Again, the folks who have to nail on palings might save themselves that trouble if they would not have fences around their front yards. Lots in town look much better, and certainly are cheaper to keep up, if there is no fence in front of them.

With Our Colored People.

There will be special service at First Street Methodist church tomorrow at 9 and 11 a. m. and at 3 and 7:30 p. m. The occasion being the celebration of Joseph Chas. Price's birthday. It will be remembered that Rev. J. C. Price, A. M. D. D., was a well known temperance orator and educator. He lived not for himself but for others. Zion's church, our race, North Carolina, the United States and the civilized world, should be proud of this great colored man. All denominations are called upon to join in this grand celebration. Dr. Price was the first colored preacher to stand in the pulpit of Henry Ward Beecher. He was most liberally assisted by the good white people of this state and country and by the queen of England in the establishment of Livingston's college.

Rev. R. Henry Sawyer, Jr., Pastor.

Raised a Racket.

What a noise the boys made carrying around valentines Friday night. Some of them had clubs almost as large as themselves with which to bang on porches. Every nervous person especially is glad valentine time is past.

Date Changed.

A telegram received from Congressman John H. Small today states that owing to a change of plans he cannot address the Chamber of Commerce of Greenville next Tuesday night, as had been announced, but would come a later date in the near future.

MRS. R. J. COBB ENTERTAINS.

Mrs. Alfred Settle Dockery Guest of Honor.

Reported for Reflector.

The handsome residence of Mr. R. J. Cobb, on Fifth street, was the scene of a beautiful entertainment on St. Valentine's eve, given in honor of Mrs. Alfred Settle Dockery (nee Miss Mary Ledbetter) who is the guest of Miss Irma Cobb.

At the entrance to the massive hall which was tastefully decorated in potted plants, Mrs. R. J. Cobb, elegantly gowned in emerald green satin and Duchess lace, graciously received the many callers who, in spite of the stormy evening, called to pay their respects.

Miss Irma Cobb, gracefully attired in a princess gown of white net over taffeta, as hostess and Mrs. Dockery in her superb wedding dress, presented a lovely picture as the two, close friends of school days, served punch from glistening cut glass bowls in the cross hall. The color scheme here was in red and white carnations under a wedding bell, this being Mrs. Dockery's first visit here since her marriage, and the coming guests laughingly sent congratulation to Mr. Dockery after some eighteen months of wedded life and extended to the young wife hearty good wishes and happy union together.

Six handed euchree was played by a number of guests in the parlor, the prize being unique and especially appropriate to the occasion, Mrs. Dockery, as guest of honor, receiving, two pictures, "Cupid Asleep" and "Cupid Awake", while the first prize for the successful player was a lovely volume of "Cupid's Original Letters" exquisitely bound in white leather, for which Miss Mary Latta, Raleigh, and Miss Nell Skinner did the cutting, Miss Skinner being the successful contestant. Mrs. Stuart Carr won the consolation prize, a heart shaped box filled with bonbons.

The dining room was in keeping with the other features of the entertainment, salted almonds being served in heart shaped cups, sandwiches cut after the same fashion with a ruby heart in the center, and the cheese straws tied with love knots of red ribbon.

The evening was one of unusual enjoyment, and many good wishes were extended to Mr and Mrs. Cobb and the young people as the guests were leaving at midnight.

NEGRO PRISONER SHOT JAILER. MILITIA CALLED OUT TO PREVENT LYNCHING.

People Much Excited and Wrought Up
But No Attempt at Lynching.

Plymouth, N. C., Feb. 14.—Late yesterday evening the report of a pistol was heard three times in the jail. People attracted by the reports rushed to the scene. From within they heard Policeman W. R. White, who is also jailer, call for help, saying, "I am shot." Men rushed into the jail yard and found Mr. White, leaning against a post, pistol in hand, holding John Moore at bay in one corner of the stockade. "Kill the black villain," came from several, and the negro rushed back into the jail, where he was soon found by Sheriff Jackson who had rushed to the scene.

Mr. White was removed to Dr. Disosway's office, where it was found that only a deep flesh wound had been made in the back of the head. The wound was dressed and Mr. White returned to the jail.

The facts as told are these: Mr. White went to lock Moore in his cell for the night as usual. As they started down stairs, Mr. White two steps ahead, the negro fired and as Mr. White fell backwards, the negro jumped on him, and in the scuffle that followed, both gained the yard, and here Mr. White shot the negro twice, when in came the people to the rescue.

The negro is in jail for house breaking, having broken into the store of Mr. T. J. Gaylord before Christmas. His object must have been to murder the jailer and escape. Where he got the pistol and what he did with it is a mystery. Had it not been for the cool heads and careful protection given by the mayor and Sheriff Jackson, he would have been riddled with bullets in his cell, and if Policeman White's wounds had been serious no doubt some would have lost their temper to that extent that would have meant the end of John Moore.

It is gratifying that our people controlled themselves on this occasion. This morning the negro claims that he did not shoot Mr. White, but struck him with a big lock, but people in the vicinity are sure they heard three shots fired, and Mr. White only fired two, one taking effect in the back, the other in the groin, from the effects of which the negro is suffering very much. As a precaution in case an attempt was made to lynch the prisoner, a detachment of the military company was kept on guard last night.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor.

Winterville, N. C. Feb 15, 1908. Miss Laura Salsbury left Friday evening to spend Sunday with her parents at Hassell.

The Vance literary society gave one of the finest debates of the season last night. The query was, "Resolved, That tobacco is a greater evil than whiskey." Both the affirmative and negative were ably represented.

There will be regular services at the Baptist church Sunday. We are glad to hear that Thomas Buck, who was hurt at Rocky Mount stands a fair chance of recovery now.

The Philo-Altean instead of the regular literary programme last night gave a valentine party to its members, which was very much enjoyed.

Miss Eva Woolard was called to her home near Stokes this morning on account of the sickness of her father.

What Champ Clark said about the president was a plenty.

The more it is probed the worse that A. & M. college hazing episode looks.

Isn't this a peculiar world? Folks just don't care at all now if they lose their grip.

We thought Mr. Hearst had retired, but it seems that he is yet on the list of standing candidates.

A Buncombe county Holiness preacher has been indicted for bigamy, the charge against him being that he has three wives. He scoffs at the charge, at least the triplicate part of it, averring that he has only two wives.

Wilmington liquor dealers are expending their energy in the wrong direction in fighting prohibition. They had better make up their minds to get in some other business.

Some fellow has secured a patent for making paper out of sawdust. As the latter is somewhat a plentiful article its utilization ought to give the paper trust a whack.

A Mississippi crowd went to lynch a man and he killed four of them and wounded ten others before being shot to death himself. That kind of medicine ought to be given to college hazers.

Wake county schools have been shortened six weeks because of the absence of dispensary money, and now you may hear anti-prohibitionists shouting for joy. But if schools cannot be run without whiskey money then we had better let the schools go.

Representative Morton, of New Hanover, might help himself in public estimation by imitating the example of the ground hog-go in his hole and keep quiet. He has already said more than there was any need of saying.

The municipal health authorities of San Francisco are making war on rats. A bounty of fifty cents on females and twenty five cents on males is paid for killing the rodents. The Chinese inhabitants of the city ought to get busy.

Every business man in the community should be present at the Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday night to hear Congressman John H. Small's address. You owe it to yourself and to your community to show an interest in matters that pertain to the public good.

At times when you don't feel just right, when you have a bad stomach, take something right away that will assist digestion; not something that will stimulate for a time but something that will positively do the very work that the stomach performs under ordinary and normal conditions, something that will make the food digest. To do this you must take a natural digestant like Kodol For Dyspepsia. Kodol is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids with natural digestants and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. Each dose will digest more than 3,000 grains of good food. It is sure to afford prompt relief; it digests what you eat and is pleasant to take. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else. It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting and complete cures were ever to be had. For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c. per bottle.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Everything taken into the stomach should be digested fully within a certain time. When you feel that that your stomach is hot in good order, the food you have eaten is not being digested, take a good, natural digestant that will do the work, the digestive juices are not doing. The best remedy known today for all stomach troubles is Kodol, which is guaranteed to give prompt relief. It is a natural digestant; it digests what you eat, it is pleasant to take and is sold here by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

When a man encourages a bunko game he nearly loses faith in human nature instead of losing faith in his own judgment.

A weak Stomach, means weak Stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. It's aptly that sick ones continue to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves, not the organs themselves, need this help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative has, and is promptly helping so many sick ones. It goes directly to the cause of these diseases. Test this vital truth, and see. Bryan's Drug Store

IT DOES THE BUSINESS
Mr. E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Maine, says of Bucklen's Arnica Salve "It does the business; I have used it for piles and it cured them. Used it for chapped hands and it cured them. Applied it to an old sore and it healed it without leaving a scar behind." 25c at J. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Is a man justified in telling a few white lies in order to make his wife happy?

"Health coffee" is really the closest coffee in imitation ever yet produced. This, the finest coffee Substitute ever made, has recently been produced by Dr. Shoop, of Racine, Wis. Not a grain of real coffee in it. Health coffee is made from pure toasted cereals, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—who might drink it for coffee. No twenty or thirty minutes boiling. "Made in a minute" says the doctor. T. E. Hooker & Co.

What Is the First Law of Nature?

"Self preservation is the first law of nature," answers Johnny Jones.

Correct, Johnny. Go right up to the head of the class. This law applies to a community as well as to an individual. Under the severe operation of this law a town that does not take care of itself, that does not look after its own interests first, that does not look out for Number One, soon falls into a bad way.

That's just as sure as shootin'. It's the law.

We must obey the law or take the consequences. If we in this town and community do not work together for our own good, the mutual good of all of us, in all lines of business, we have only ourselves to blame if the place slides down the inclined plane instead of climbing the golden ladder of prosperity and progress.

For instance, if we do our retail trading with big city stores that have no interest in us except to get our money and keep it, local trade must suffer and shrink, town property values and farm land values must decrease—and there you are!

Johnny Jones, who knows the law, is a wise lad, but how about his papa and mamma?

Do they obey the first law as applied to the old home place? If they don't, Johnny may have to apply the law to himself when he grows up. He may have to go to the city to make a living.

Let's all think it over.

FIRELESS COOKING.

How the Hunters of the Northwest Forests Prepare Food.

Fireless cookers have been in use since remote times among the guides, hunters and trappers of the northwest, and some of them have become so adept that they can prepare unusually tempting meals.

On many of the best known portages, says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, the guides set up the tents on the old camping places because there they find the half frozen stones needed to construct the oven.

On top of these they build a fire, and when the stones are red hot the Indians set them up in the form of a covered box, inside of which has been placed the saddle of venison, a pair of partridges or perhaps a bear's ham. Instead of the heavy felt of the German contrivance they cover it all over with thick moss, the green side in, over which is piled soil if it may be had conveniently.

The next morning the roast is certain of being cooked to a delicious turn. It has either been spit-roasted on a clean wand of birch, which imparts no ill flavor to the meat, or else a grill of sticks has been laid across the oven, upon which its contents have rested.

Sometimes the easier plan is adopted of allowing a sharp pointed stick to project through from the outside at one corner, the outer end being firmly stuck into the ground. In any case the object is to keep the joint from touching the sides of the oven, which are seldom very clean.

Beyond the preparation of the oven and the building of the fire required to heat the stones, this method of cooking requires only little attention. The meat being properly placed in the improvised oven, it is allowed to remain there until its presence is desired at the table. There is no possibility of the meat having been overdone. Many hours are required to cook the meat, but after that it is a matter of small moment if it is left to the action of the heat a few additional hours. The chances are that when the meat is taken from the oven it will be found done to a turn, and it will be voted by those who have partaken to be the finest, juiciest piece of meat ever encountered.

While it is a fact that the meat cooked in this manner is particularly well flavored, its toothsome qualities are in a great measure due to the seasoning secrets of the cooks. Men who go into this country on hunting expeditions rarely ask their cook guides about their methods of cooking further than what is to be seen, for they would get little satisfaction. There are certain secrets relative to the use of herbs and some other tricks which are handed down from one generation to another and which will never get outside of the family. Sometimes a guide will get more of a reputation for his cooking than for his knowledge of the country, and his services will be in special demand by those excursionists who are wont to give some attention to the creature comforts on these hunting expeditions. These hunters guard their culinary secrets jealously and hand them down only to their successors along the line.

Discriminating.

Next to a difference of taste in jokes an incompatibility of musical appreciation is surely the greatest strain upon the affections. Here is a story to prove it. It is the story of a musical daughter and an unmusical mother. The daughter is barely more than three years old, but she has already shown every sign of the keenest musical liking. The mother, on the contrary, can hardly turn a tune. The other evening the mother wanted the daughter to go to bed. The daughter didn't want to go. "Come, Ethel," said the mother by way of final persuasion, "if you'll go to bed like a good girl, I'll undress you and sing you to sleep myself." "Oh, no, mamma," the daughter hastened to add. "You can undress me if you like, but please let nurse do the singing."

From a Fresh Mind.

Albert is five years old. The other day he overheard somebody referring to his mother as a woman. Albert took exception to the remark.

"My mother is a lady," he said. "But what is the difference?" was asked.

After a few seconds of hard thinking the child replied:

"A woman talks too much; a lady doesn't."—Chicago Tribune.

Carrying It Along.

An elderly and most respectable looking man was recently brought before a magistrate, says the London Telegraph, charged with unbecoming and hilarious conduct. When he was asked what he had to say for himself, he mumbled something about "doing as the Romans do."

"Very good," returned the magistrate. "Continue to do as the Romans do. Pay 7s. 6d!"

A BALLOON IN THE AIR.

The Delicate Balance of the Gigantic Bag of Gas.

It is while discharging ballast to enter the higher altitudes that you get your first idea of the hair trigger balance of the giant contrivance keeping you afloat. Your pilot takes a small wooden scoop, no larger than an ordinary sized soup ladle, digs into one of the sand bags and scatters a single "shovelful" overboard. Up darts your balloon—100, 200, 300 feet. An ordinary sized bottle of beer spilled overboard lightens the balloon enough to send it up 250 feet, and if you happen to be over a vacant field where you can drop the bottle yourself without risk of killing any one the release of this weight will send you up another 300 feet. So delicately poised is your balloon once it has struck its balance that you could push it up or pull it down from 300 to 400 feet with strength equal to that of your little finger.

When a mere cloud passes between you and the sun, causing instant contraction of the gas in the balloon, the envelope becomes baggy and flaccid at once, and you begin to fall, sometimes at the rate of a thousand feet a minute, although you have no warning of this other than the statoscope and no sensation except the thrill as you see the alarming rapidity with which the earth comes nearer to you. Three or four scoopfuls of sand may be necessary to sacrifice before you again strike your balance, and the next moment the sun darts from behind the cloud, warms the balloon, and the envelope tautens almost with a bang, and you go kiting upward under your lightened load until you are obliged to open the escape valve to let out gas to prevent going up above your original level. Then it is that you begin to understand why the bugbear of the aeronaut is alternate cloud and sunshine, why he prefers sailing during the night and why, if he does sail throughout the day, he mounts high above the clouds in continuous sunshine, where the volume of gas in the balloon remains constant.—A. W. Rolker in American Magazine.

Monotonous Scenery.

Mrs. Grimes, the landlady, was trying to find out the nature of her new boarder's occupation. First she asked him if he was in business. He told her that he was not. Then she suggested that possibly he was a salesman.

"No, I'm not a salesman exactly."

"Traveling man?"

"Yes, I am a sort of traveling man."

"Make regular trips, I suppose."

"Very regular."

"Well, I should think you'd like that. There's some variety about it."

"There isn't much variety about my trips. They're always through the same territory."

"That gets kind o' tiresome, does it?"

"Very."

"Still, if business is good and you make plenty of sales?"

"But I don't make any sales. The fact is, Mrs. Grimes, I am a conductor."

"A conductor? On what railroad?"

"I'm the conductor of an elevator in a big department store."

"Oh!"—Youth's Companion.

She Listened.

Miss C.'s portrait hung on the wall at the exhibition. Miss C. hung around her portrait. Miss C. had lips that an able-bodied man would walk five miles to kiss. Her eyes were twin stars. Upon her forehead hung two beautiful curls, twin curls. Miss C. was delightful to behold. She was immersed in the study of her catalogue. Of course she was not there to listen to the comments.

"Beautiful picture, isn't it?"

"Yes. I wonder if it's true to life."

"I don't know. It's awfully pretty anyway."

"It is pretty. The features are perfect, but I don't think she looks very intelligent."

Miss C., with a crimson face, slapped her book shut and walked away.

A Comparison.

A New York lawyer was cross questioning a negro witness in one of the justice courts and was getting along fairly well until he asked the witness what his occupation was. "It's a carpenter, sah." "What kind of a carpenter?" "They calls me a jackleg carpenter, sah." "What is a jackleg carpenter?" "He is a carpenter who is not a first class carpenter, sah." "Well, explain fully what you understand a jackleg carpenter to be," insisted the lawyer. "Boss, I declare I dunno how to 'splain any mo' 'cept to say hit am jes the same diffrunce 'twixt you and er first class lawyer."

Old Coins.

Mr. W. S. Belcher, of Pactolus, showed us two old coins which he said belonged to a colored woman in his neighborhood. One was a piece of Spanish money, a quarter of a dollar, bearing date of 1775, the lettering on it being very distinct. The other was a United States copper cent, the larger size, and is dated 1838.

Recalled to Duty.

One word to the purpose will often turn the tide on the field of battle. At the affair of Friedland General Rapp became aware that one of his regiments had been thrown into disorder by the galling fire of the enemy's artillery. He rushed at once into the midst of the fugitives.

"Who are you?" he cried. "The Seventy-first regiment," answered a voice. "What!" exclaimed the general. "The Seventy-first regiment, and you give away a single step?"

The suggestion of personal responsibility and of past achievement was too much. The ranks formed again on the instant, they marched upon the guns by which they had been assailed and in a few minutes had possession of them.

A Question In Grammar.

The superintendent of a school in Vermont when making the rounds of his schools put the following question to a scholar:

"How do you parse 'Mary milked the cow?'"

Pupil—Cow is a noun, feminine gender, singular number, third person and stands for Mary.

"Stands for Mary!" exclaimed the superintendent. "How do you make that out?"

"Because," replied the pupil, "if the cow didn't stand for Mary, how could Mary milk her?"

A Waste of Good English.

Bobby's mother was often distressed by her small son's lapses from correct speech, all the more because his reports from school were always so good.

"Bobby," she said plaintively one day, "why do you keep telling Major to 'set up' when you know 'sit up' is what you should say?"

"Oh, well, mother," Bobby answered hastily, "of course I have lots of grammar, but I don't like to waste it on Major when he doesn't know the difference, being a dog."

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas. M. Stieff, and if bachelors are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a "hanging out place" I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225 00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350 00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage. Very respt., G. G. Fineman, Box 325 Greenville, N. C.

CONSIDERATION! After considering what we and our Creditors think best, and they say the only wise thing to do with this combined gigantic stock of high-grade merchandise is to sell and satisfy our creditors, the best way possible, as we have no ready cash to keep them quiet, we must listen to them, have this sale, and throw this immense stock on the market.
