RIGHT VIEW OF STREET PAVING.

CITIZEN AND TAX PAYER GIVES LOGICAL REASONS

Why the Route Should be Through Evans and Ninth Streets Instead of Dickinson Avenue.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:

I see through the columns of your paper that the Board of Aldermen of the town of Greenville have not yet determined whether they will pave Dickinson avenue from Five Points to the A. C. L. depot, or whether they will pave Evans street through Forbestown to Ninth street, and thence up Ninth street to the depot. As a citizen and tax payer of the town of Greenville, I am naturally interested in all matters of public interest relating to the development and welfare of the town.

To my mind there are several reasons why the paving should extend along Evans street to Ninth street and thence to the depot, rather than along Dickinson avenue to the depot.

1st. The paving of Evans and Ninth streets will make a much better appearance than Dickinson avenue, making a very much better effect in appearance by reason of one long straight thoroughfare from the court house to Ninth street.

2nd. Dickinson avenue is not in proper shape to pave. The end near Five Points has no side walk of any consequence, and I am informed that the property owners along Dickinson avenue want an enormous price paid by the town for the right to extend the street and side walks to proper width. I do not think the town should expend thousands of dollars to improve a street that is too narrow and unshapely to make a decent appearance, and I do not think the tax payers of the town should be called upon to pay an enormous price to the property owners along Dickinson avenue for the privilege of making a side walk wide enough for a decent appearance, when the town is greatly enhancing the value of their property by an outlay of thousands of dollars in way of public improvements on Dickinson avenue.

3. In the future Evans and Ninth streets will be more generally used by the public at large than Dickinson avenue. All the tobacco brought to Greenville from all directions on the south side of the river passes down Ninth street, except what comes into Greenville from the Washington road. Now if the greater amount of hauling goes over Ninth street, and in view of the fact that Evans street from Five Points to Ninth street is sufficiently wide to make a handsome appearance than Dickinson avenue, and in view of the fact that it is impossible to get a side walk of reasonable width on Dickinson avenue without incurring considerable expense, it seems to me that the sensible, reasonable, and logical route from Five Points to the depot is along Evans street to Ninth street and thence to the depot rather than down Dickinson avenue. I do not favor taking from property owners of Dickinson avenue their private property at enormous prices in order to lay a foundation for a public improvement that would enhance the value of the property along Dickinson avenue more than the value of the small narrow strip of land necessary to widen the street and side walk to a proper width. Let the paving go down Evans street

EVASIONS OF LAW.

Charged by the State Superintendent Public Instruction.

State Superintendent Joyner is issuing to county superintendents county boards of education, county treasurers, judges, solicitors and clerks of the Superior courts, and mayors of towns and cities, a circular letter containing a compilation of the law in regard to fines, forfeitures and penalties and reports of these required by law of the various officers of the various courts. Under section 5, Article IX of the constitution of North Carolina all fines, forfeitures and penalties are appropriated by the constitution to the public school fund of the county. The Supreme court has decided, in the case of school directors vs. the city of Asheville, that all such fines, forfeitures and penalties imposed by municipal officers for the violation of town or city ordinances, or for any other misdemeanors, belong to the common school fund of the county under this clause of the constitution.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Toleration.

The little I have seen of the world teaches me to look upon the errors of others in sorrow, not in anger. When I take the history of one poor heart that has sinned and suffered and repent to myself the struggles and temptations it has passed through, the brief pulsations of joy, the feverish inequitude of hope fear, the pressure of want, the desertion of friends, I would fain leave the erring soul of my fellow man with Him from whose hand it came.—Longfellow.

Dr. Crawford Dead.

Asheville, N. C. Feb. 21.—Rev. Dr. L. W. Crawford, presiding elder of the Asheville district, and for many years editor of the North Carolina Christian Advocate, died here this afternoon at 12:30 o'clock after an illness of less than two weeks. Dr. Crawford contracted a deep cold while going by private conveyance during inclement weather to fill an appointment in the circuit. Pneumonia developed and Dr. Crawford continued to grow worse until this afternoon when death ensued. Dr. Crawford was admitted to the old North Carolina Conference at Statesville in 1868 and had there fore been in the service for forty years. The remains will be taken to Greensboro for interment tomorrow morning. Mrs. Crawford was with her husband during his illness.

to Ninth street and the public interest of the town will be better served than by going down Dickinson avenue.

A TOUCHING SCENE.

Dave Gregory Gets 12 Years for Patricide.

Charlotte, N. C. Feb. 21.—Dave Gregory was this morning sentenced to serve a term of twelve years in the State penitentiary at Raleigh for the murder of his father, Zeke Gregory, in the northern part of the county, a month ago.

There was a touching scene in the crowded court room when Judge Webb pronounced sentence. The Judge stated that it was one of the saddest acts he had ever been called upon to perform to sentence a son for the killing his father, and that, too, over the most trifling circumstances. Young Gregory was the mainstay of an aged mother and a young wife, both of whom will be left behind.

Judge Webb has stirred up a hornet's nest here by stating in open court that the practice for many years in vogue in Mecklenburg of sending prisoners from the city court and magistrates' courts to the roads to work out fines was not good law. Often a fine of twenty-five dollars imposed by the Recorder has to be worked out, requiring one hundred days, while the court's authority to imprison or sentence to the roads is limited to thirty days.

It is possible that the matter will be investigated, and that hereafter there will be no more prisoners working on the roads fifty and one hundred days in lieu of a fine. A legal limit to such cases is understood to be thirty days, twenty imprisonment, when notice is filed that the defendant is unable to pay a ten or twenty-five dollar fine, and is not worth that amount, then he shall be released at the end of thirty days all told. This will materially reduce the county road force if it is enforced after years of disuse.

AYDEN A GOOD TOWN.

It Has Enticing Business Men—The Editor Visited There Friday.

Ayden is among the good towns in Pitt county and is going ahead at a fast rate. We did not know until seeing it Friday, that it possesses the largest store in the county. It has this distinction in the two-story brick store of the J. R. Smith Co., which contains over 11,000 feet of floor space. Even with so large a store, it requires two or three additional warehouses to hold all the goods carried by this firm.

Ayden has quite a number of substantial merchants who have large stores and carry nice stocks. Several of these are showing that they are out for business by taking advertising space in the Ayden department of the weekly edition of The Reflector that is so well conducted by J. M. Blow.

Speaking of our city schools and the great improvement in the attendance record, the following incident occurred in Superintendent Harper's office this week. The superintendent asked a colored patron of the schools how many children he had in the schools.

"Four, sir."

"How many times do they get tardy in a month?"

"Lord, Boss, I never kept dat stuff in my house even when de dispensary was here, and you know dey kaint git none now!"

The Reflector Improved.

In appearance The Reflector has been doing its own talking lately without any attention being called to it, and there have been many compliments paid it by our subscribers. The improvement has been going on gradually, as in the last month or two the force has put in all spare time overhauling the plant, discarding old material and replacing it with new. Much new material has been purchased for both the newspaper and job printing departments, and with the force of printers we now have the office can turn out work promptly, and as good work as can be had any where.

To Remove Tax on Unstemmed Tobacco.

The committee on ways and means has authorized a favorable report on a bill introduced by Mr. Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, removing the internal revenue tax of six cents a pound on unstemmed tobacco in the natural leaf which has not been manufactured or altered in any manner.

The bill also provides that farmers and growers of tobacco may sell the leaf of their own growth and raising to manufacturers of tobacco, snuff, and cigars without being considered leaf dealers or manufacturers of tobacco and shall not be subject to the dealers and manufacturers tax.

Young Man, Save Your Money.

It is almost impossible for a young man who does not save money to make a business start in the world. Most young men are wishing for better positions and bemoaning the impossibility of doing anything on a small salary. They want to strike out for themselves, they want to go West or South, they want to make money hand over fist—but their ambitions are checked right at the start for the want of a little ready money to begin on.

A young man who has not the stamina and backbone to put aside little temptations and save a portion of his salary each week or each month is not likely to accomplish much in life. If his purpose is not strong enough to enable him to make a few sacrifices for the sake of his ambition he can not expect to be successful ultimately. The history of successful men shows strong purpose and invincible determination.—American Boy.

All may be candidates who want to, but all cannot get office.

The Republican executive committee of Guilford county adopted a resolution endorsing Speaker Cannon for the presidency.

These days you do not hear anybody singing "I was born in old Kentucky." If you meet a fellow now who was born there he is ashamed to own it.

Hon. A. C. Lattimer, one of the United States senators from South Carolina, died in Washington Thursday. He was elected to the senate in 1903, but had previously been a congressman for four terms.

At this late day Russia has condemned to death General Stoessel who was in command of Port Arthur at the time of the surrender to the Japanese. With Russia's reputation for brutality, this harsh sentence upon a great general need not occasion much surprise.

Sticking ordinary pins in some people will not wake them up. It will take hatpins, or maybe dynamite.—New Bern Sun.

What made you spoil that by putting a little thing like dynamite in the same class with pins? If you had said, or maybe a rolling pin, it would have filled the bill exactly.

Advance information of the investigation going on in the government printing office says the report will show a half million dollars deficit in operation. If the government would put out its printing to private establishments, instead of running a big plant in which there is all kinds of graft, it would get its printing done one-third less than it now costs and also save such big deficits.

When a railroad strikes a period of business depression and runs a little behind in operating expenses, there are a lot of figures spread before the public showing how much money it is losing. When the farmer strikes a year of bad crops and does not come out with enough to pay his bills, you do not see any figures nor hear but little said about it. He goes on plowing the next year to make another crop, and tries to forget the failure of the past year.

With every town of any importance having one or more banks, and these banks paying interest on time deposits, we very much doubt the wisdom of the measure now pending in congress to establish postal savings banks. It cannot give the people much better opportunity than they already have for depositing their savings, and as the government proposes to pay only about half as much interest as the banks pay on deposits we fail to see what the advantage will be.

We do not see why so much to do should be made over some of the railroads losing money in their operations just now. The same thing can be said for many other enterprises. There is hardly a business that does not sometime have periods of dullness and depression. There are years in which the merchants make nothing. There are years in which the crops of the farmers fail and they fall behind. There are years in which the practice of professional men falls below a sufficiency to meet their obligations. The newspapers have had years that draw on their "bank reserve" to keep them alive. The manufacturers sometimes do business at a loss. The thing to do is quit scaring the people with panic talk and everybody do his best to make times better.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

A man's digestion has a lot more to do with his morals than his religion.

At times when you don't feel just right, when you have a bad stomach, take something right away that will assist digestion; not something that will stimulate for a time but something that will positively do the very work that the stomach performs under ordinary and normal conditions, something that will make the food digest. To do this you must take a natural digestant like Kodol For Dyspepsia. Kodol is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids with natural digestants and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. Each dose will digest more than 3,000 grains of good food. It is sure to afford prompt relief; it digests what you eat and is pleasant to take. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

An actor isn't always satisfied when he realizes that things are coming his way.

The trouble with most cough remedies is that they constipate. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts gently but promptly on the bowels and at the same time it stops the cough by soothing the throat and lung irritation. Children like it. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

The man who knows enough to attend to his own business knows about all that is worth knowing.

Bert Barber, of Elton, Wis., says: "I have only taken four doses of your Kidney and Bladder Pills and they have done for me more than any other medicine has ever done. I am still taking the pills as I want a perfect cure." Mr. Barber refers to DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. They are sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

A man can be proud of his son for wearing clothes that he himself would die of mortification to be seen in.

DeWitt's Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve is best for cuts, burns, boils, bruises and scratches. It is especially good for piles. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

The average man's idea of a good sermon is one that goes over his head and hits one of his acquaintances.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventives, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these Little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventives contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. A good for feverish children. As a rule, the nicer a girl is to a young man the less she cares about him.

Everything taken into the stomach should be digested fully within a certain time. When you feel that that your stomach is not in good order, the food you have eaten is not being digested, take a good, natural digestant that will do the work, the digestive juices are not doing. The best remedy known today for all stomach troubles is Kodol, which is guaranteed to give prompt relief. It is a natural digestant; it digests what you eat, it is pleasant to take and is sold here by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

How Many Bricks Have You Sent Away?

That sounds like a funny question, addressed to every citizen of this town and community, but it's really a serious one.

Listen: There is now just completed a magnificent building of red brick exterior and concrete interior right in the business heart of one of the biggest of American cities. It occupies a whole block and calls itself in a large lettered sign "The Largest Monolithic Building In the World." It has many floors, with about a hundred acres of floor space. The entrances are of solid marble. The floors are beautifully tiled. Altogether it is a credit to the big city in which it stands. Oh, it's a Jim Dandy!

Now, how many bricks have you sent to the city to go into this big building? Honest, how many?

Of the hundreds of thousands of bricks put into the walls of this building the city where it stands has contributed not a single red brick. Country people, the people of small towns and cities far away from the big metropolis, have sent in the bricks for the construction of this splendid edifice.

You may have sent in a few hods of bricks yourself without knowing it.

Listen: This magnificent structure, which ornaments a city you probably never will see yourself, is built of bricks bought with the dollars of people living in towns just like ours—towns that would like to have some new brick buildings themselves now and then. Every dollar contributed to the city building fund means a nice, hefty hod of bricks for this big, beautiful skyscraper, "largest in the world" of its kind. This building was put up, through the kind donations of their unknown country cousins, by a firm that ran a small store in that city a few years ago.

But this firm conceived the cute idea of having thousands of strangers contribute bricks to build its fine, large, new store.

And the building is a Mail Order Store. See?

TRAINING DIVERS.

The Way Science Helps These Submarine Workers.

The admiralty trains divers, and every British warship carries at least one representative of the craft and frequently more. There are training schools at Portsmouth, Devonport and Sheerness.

One of the difficulties with which divers have to contend is probably not realized by a landsman—namely, that the greater the depth the greater is the pressure of water on the man's body and the greater the labor and exhaustion of working. The naval authorities limit their men to a depth of 120 feet. The greatest depth to which a man has descended is said by Siebe to have been 204 feet, and the pressure at that depth was extraordinary—namely, eighty-eight and one-half pounds to the square inch. One wonders how any human being could stand it. Twelve fathoms, or about seventy feet, would be enough for most men. The ears and nose would probably begin to bleed, and the pressure on the head would be very serious. A practiced diver can of course descend much deeper without such unpleasant sensations.

His dress costs more than £100. It is of tanned twill and rubber and made in one piece, with a big opening at the neck. The helmet is of copper and screws on to the shoulders so tightly that the water cannot penetrate the joint. Air is pumped down to him by a pipe made of canvas and rubber, and outlet valves, which only open outwardly, are placed at convenient places to permit the vitiated air to escape. These valves are extremely important, as by them the diver can regulate his supply of air.

In addition to this pipe the diver has a life line, enabling him to communicate with his assistants above water. This was formerly done by a series of concerted tugs or jerks on the line, but that method has been superseded as a means of communication by the telephone, the wires being conveyed by the life line. He therefore touches the button and talks as if he were in the city.

Another great improvement is the use of the electric lamp, though in some West Indian waters a diver can see clearly for some distance. In other waters, again, the darkness is intense twenty or thirty feet down. The weight of the dress is extraordinary and is necessary to enable the diver to maintain his stability. His helmet weighs considerably over a quarter of a hundred weight, and his boots, taken together, weigh about as much, while if these be not sufficient he claps lead upon his shoulders.—London News.

Getting Off Easy.

A sergeant in one of the Irish infantry regiments has a small but active wife, of whom he stands in considerable awe. One day he lost his temper. The object of his wrath was a dog belonging to the wife of one of his superior officers. The lady overheard some of the statements and took him severely to task.

"You ought to be ashamed to say such things and to lose your temper with an animal," she said, while the big sergeant looked shamefaced and anxious. "I shall report your language."

"To—to her, ma'am?" faltered the penitent soldier.

"To my husband," said the lady haughtily.

"Do so, ma'am," said the culprit cheerfully. "I well deserve it. I was only fearing you meant to tell my wife."

Plant Like a Camel.

The nearest thing to a camel among plants is a curious specimen of the cucumber family which bears the name of the Iberivillea sonorae. This plant, like the camel, is a native of the desert, and it has to go without water longer than the animal. As the rainy season in the desert comes only once a year, nature provides the plant with a reservoir to store up enough moisture to last it between times. The organ in which the water is stored is located at the base of the stem. It is covered with a sort of mackintosh envelope, through which the water can neither escape nor evaporate. This water holder rests on the sand throughout the entire period of drought, but when the rain comes it springs into activity.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Selfishness.

The most selfish man we ever knew never made it pay. He was poor and unsuccessful in every undertaking. The man could have made a success in life had he recognized the rights of others and been less conceited as to his own ability. The longer we live the more we become convinced that decency pays. A little public spirit pays. A little loyalty to your town pays. When a man becomes known as a hog his business suffers.—Atchison Globe.

JASPER WARE.

The Famous Pottery Produced by Josiah Wedgwood.

Wedgwood achieved his great fame as the inventor and producer of jasper ware. This invention was the result of his great love for the classic art and classic history, to which he was introduced by Bentley.

Wedgwood was intent on widening the field of ceramic art and longed to imitate the cameos of Greece and Rome. After years of patient and secret experimenting he produced in 1775 the jasper ware so inseparably connected with his name and through which much of his fortune was acquired.

This ware is of an extremely delicate texture. Its ingredients are sulphate of baryta, carbonate of baryta, clay and flint. In the earlier pieces the entire body was stained with the metallic oxide used for coloring. This is known as "solid jasper." In 1777 in order to secure uniformity and evenness in the coloring of the fields the later forms received merely a wash of the metallic oxide and are distinguished by the term "jasper dip."

Every stage of the process needed the most careful attention. Much depended upon the grinding and mixing of the materials, still more on the firing of the molded objects. The process was apparently simple when it was mastered. The best modelers were employed to make the original wax models, many from life, others from paintings, prints and medals. Clay molds were taken from the wax model and fired.

Into these the plastic clay was pressed. The reliefs obtained therefrom were placed in their colored bases and while still soft were gone over by a modeler, who retouched them when necessary and did a certain amount of the "undercutting" which is so beautiful a feature of all of the jasper ware of Josiah Wedgwood's period. The pieces were then fired.

It was not until 1777 that Wedgwood perfected his process and became absolutely sure of his results. Danger in firing was obliterated and great height in reliefs made possible.—R. T. H. Halsey in Scribner's.

Captain Cook's Shilling.

Young James Cook, destined later to become England's greatest navigator, was at seventeen placed on probation in the shop of a small tradesman at Staithes, near Whitby. Seeing a new shilling in the till, the lad took it out, replacing it by one of his own. The master, missing the bright shilling, searched Cook's box and found it there, sent for a constable and for Cook's father and charged the boy with theft. The boy declared his innocence and explained. The master expressed his regret, and although Cook's father and the master both pressed him to stay, his reply was: "No, father, I can't. Once a thief, always a thief. I must go." And he then went to Whitby and was there apprenticed to the sea.—"Captain James Cook."

Safeguarding the Prisoners.

After the battle of Ramillies had been won by the great Duke of Marlborough, Lord John Hay, who commanded a regiment of Scotch dragoons when the regiment of foot called the king's, consisting of 1,200 men, submitted to him and surrendered their arms and colors, ordered, to prevent their running away and the necessity of setting a strong guard over them, that every man should cut a piece out of the waistband of his breeches, which obliged them to hold them up with one hand, and in that posture they marched with a guard of only twenty-five dragoons and a sergeant. Charles XII. did something like this by the Muscovites after the battle of Narva.

A Ready Retort.

An Irishman walking in one of the streets of Dublin saw a man leading a dog on the opposite side of the street. He got rather interested in the dog, and, crossing the street, he touched the man on the shoulder and said, "Would ye mind telling me the breed of that dog?"

The man, who happened to be in a bad temper, turned round and, looking at the Irishman, said, "Yes; it's between a monkey and an Irishman."

"Shure," said Pat, "it's related to both of us."—Illustrated Bits.

Saved Walking.

Some years ago there lived in Perth, Scotland, a man of convivial habits, well known by his Christian name, Jamie. One dark night an acquaintance found Jamie lying at the foot of an outside stair.

"Is that you, Jamie?" asked the acquaintance in a voice of the greatest astonishment.

"Aye, it's me," replied Jamie in a tone of complete resignation.

"Have you fa'en doon the stair?" was the next question.

"Aye, I fell doon, but I was comin' doon, whether or no."

Chemists' Show Bottles.

Formerly apothecaries used a red light as a sign of their trade. Now, it happened one night that a druggist, finding himself without the necessary red light, made shift with a bottle of red liquid placed in the window with a candle behind it. The effect was so good that he put a similar decoration in another window. The sign was excellent—so excellent that a rival apothecary tried to improve upon it for his own benefit. His idea was to place a bottle of yellow liquid beside the red one, and then he surpassed his former effort by adding a bottle containing green to the other two. The red, yellow and green made a fine show, and every druggist in the town followed in the wake of their more enterprising rivals. In course of time the bottles were replaced by the magnificent colored vases which are now a familiar sign everywhere.—London Chronicle.

Couldn't Stand It.

A Cuban official tells this tale of a certain Cuban millionaire:

"An unfortunate man once obtained access to this millionaire and started to lay before him his woes. He depicted his wretched poverty in most vivid colors. Indeed, so graphic was the man's sad story that the millionaire felt himself affected as he had never been before. With tears in his eyes he summoned his servant and in a quavering voice said:

"John, put this poor fellow out. He is breaking my heart."—Everybody's.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas. M. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225 00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350 00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest.
