STATEMENTS AS TO MCLAWHORN.

NEVER ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE—REPORT CORRECTED

Man Murdered at Church Door Had Conducted Himself Well in Williamston.

To the Editor: The people of our town want to correct the statement published in your issue of yesterday in regard to the circumstances connected with the murder of Mr. E. B. McLawhorn here Monday night.

It is untrue that any whiskey bottles were found near the murdered man except an old one which had been seen there before by parties attending Bishop Strange's mission services. Mr. McLawhorn was drinking during the previous week, but had not been drinking any for four days prior to his death. This is corroborated by several besides the writers who saw him within one half hour before he was shot.

Only one shot entered his body, going straight through his heart, base of the left ventricle leaving more burns with his wound, the other two shots being flesh wounds. The ball was taken from the body by Dr. Warren, a thirty-two calibre, and is now in the possession of Sheriff Crawford.

It is untrue that McLawhorn was ever tried for his life. He was a native of Pitt county and nobody there, or his family ever heard such charges before.

There is a general disapproval of such report here. Mr. McLawhorn may have been in difficulties, but nobody here can substantiate such a black record. He has conducted himself as a gentleman, as a resident of this town. He leaves a wife and nine children. We can say that he has four children yet in their minority, who are honorable and useful citizens, two sons, contractors, now completing a $3,500 residence for Mr. Marshall Wilson, planned and built by them alone, one daughter in the enterprise printing office, who is a lady of intelligence and industry, and it is a shame to have such an undeserved record held up to blacken the character of their murdered father.

"THE RIVALS."

At the Opera House Thursday Night.

The Dramatic Club of the University of North Carolina will appear at the opera house Thursday night, February 27th presenting "The Rivals," Richard Brinsley Sheridan's famous old comedy. There are ten characters in the play, and all of the parts, men and women alike, are taken by male students of the University. The performance will be given under the personal direction of Mr. I. L. Potter, the head of the department of public speaking at the University. Mr. Potter is a graduate of the Emerson College of Oratory, Boston, and has done post graduate work at the School of Music and Dramatic Art, London, England.

The costumes are very costly and elaborate. They represent the English dress at the time corresponding to our Colonial period.

"The Rivals" has an interesting history. It was first produced at Convent Garden, London, 1775, and it was a success from the beginning. It made its first appearance in America at the John Street Theatre, New York, 1786, and since that time it has been on the stage almost continuously, played by divers companies.

The linguistic performances of Mistress Malaprop, the comedy of Bob Acres, the fury of old Sir Anthony Absolute, the fighting lust of Sir Lucius O'Trigger, the sentimentalism of Faulkland, and the love affairs of Miss Lydia Languish and Capt. Jack Absolute—not to speak of the guileful sneers of Lucy, the high and mighty airs of Fag, and the devotion of David—have in them so much of human interest that Joseph Jefferson's company a few years ago in one month tour presented "The Rivals" with so much success that the receipts averaged six thousand dollars a performance. The play is now on the road presented by the sons of Joseph Jefferson.

MR. W. R. WILSON ENTERTAINS.

His Friends Spend a Delightful Evening.

Reported for The Reflector.

Mr. Willie Wilson, while home on a vacation from Chapel Hill, entertained a few of his friends, on Saturday evening, at the home of his father, Mr. W. B. Wilson, on Evans street.

The guests were received by the host and Miss Margaret Blow and invited into the library where they were received by Miss Lillian Carr and Bascom Wilson, Miss Mary Shelburn and Thurman Moore.

The guests were highly entertained with vocal and instrumental selections. At a late hour refreshments were served.

Those present were Misses Margaret Blow, Lillian Carr, Mary Shelburn, Lillian Burch, Jamie Bryan, Estelle Greene, Lucille Cobb, Hennie Whichard, Lillie Tucker, and Willie Wilson, Bascom Wilson, Thurman Moore, David Watson, Carl Wilson, Charles Haskett, Tom Dupree, George Prichard, Norman Warren, Percy Forbes, Walter Wilson and Frank Wilson.

Col. James, a Grandfather.

A telegram from New York received by Col. F. G. James, Sunday morning, brought the happy information that he was a grandfather, C. C. Skinner, Jr. having made his arrival in that city Saturday night.

SOME OF THE CANDIDATES FOR '08

FOR SOME OF THE OFFICES THERE ARE AT LEAST FOUR

We Will Have Quite a Number of the "Also Ran" Class After the Election Next Fall.

We might begin this article with a few "meaningless platitudes," but if we should some body would feel hurt. This is an attempt to give the public a list of the announced candidates and probable candidates for the various state offices, and is nothing more.

It might be remarked, however, that some of the men will lose out in the contest. For three of the offices there are at least four candidates and it necessarily follows that all but one man will be in the class of the "also ran."

The convention will be held about June 20. Between now and then lots might be done. Nobody can tell who will be who after the convention, but here are some of the men who are who now:

For Governor there are Ashley Horne, of Clayton, Locke Craig, of Asheville, and W. W. Kitchen, of Roxboro. The name of Col. William T. Dortch, of Goldsboro, has been mentioned, but Col. Dortch has not announced his candidacy.

Superintendent of Public Instruction J. Y. Joyner has no opposition nor has Insurance Commissioner James R. Young.

For Treasurer, Mr. B. R. Lacy, the present incumbent, is opposed by Mr. W. R. Odell, of Concord. Auditor B. F. Dixon also has opposition in the person of Mr. Frank D. Hackett, of Wilkesboro.

Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimms is opposed by Gen. W. P. Roberts, of Gatesville.

For Commissioner of Labor and Printing there are a number. Mr. M. L. Shipman, who has been doing the work of the commissioner, is a candidate, and so are Messrs. W. W. Wilson, Raleigh; W. W. Haywood, Charlotte; L. E. Powers, Rutherfordton; J. B. Sherrill, Concord; T. G. Cobb, Morganton.

Another office that isn't going begging is the office of commissioner of Agriculture. For this there are no less than six aspirants, these being Major W. A. Graham, Lincoln; Col. E. F. McRae, Robeson; C. C. Moore, Charlotte; E. L. Daughtridge, Edgecombe; T. B. Park, Raleigh; R. W. Scott, Alamance.

There are four names mentioned for Attorney General. Mr. Hayden Clement, the present assistant, is a candidate and these others have either announced themselves or their friends have: Mr. John E. Woodard, Wilson; Speaker E. J. Justice, Greensboro, and Ex-Judge B. B. Winborne, Murfreesboro.

There may be other names mentioned, but these are all that we are aware of. There are enough, however, to make the convention as entertaining as a fiddler's contest. —Raleigh Times.

An Excellent Sermon.

While not a Washington birthday discourse, the sermon of Rev. J. E. Ayscue in Memorial Baptist church Sunday morning, was strong in patriotism. He referred to Washington and other statesmen since his time who had become great by their upright Christian lives. He emphasized that no life could be great without truthfulness and honesty, and by way of illustration said it was equally as dishonest for a merchant to give light weight or short measure as it was for a politician to sell his vote. It was a good, practical sermon.

Bellingham was a long suffering man and a patient one. Never had he tried to interrupt the continuous flow of conversation which Mrs. Bellingham provided. At last, however, his nerves gave out, and the doctor was called in.

"He must have sleep and rest," was the doctor's verdict. He looked at Mrs. Bellingham thoughtfully. "Madam, I will send up some sleeping powders which must be used exactly as written on the box. Will you promise to do this, or must I order him to the hospital?"

"I promise," said Mrs. Bellingham readily enough, although wondering why he made so odd a request. She learned when the box came from the druggist's, and she read on the label:

"Sleeping powders, to be taken night and morning—by Mrs. B."

Diagnosed.

Young Featherhead soon after purchasing his elegant new touring car was taken with a swelling on the back of his neck. He went and consulted his physician about it.

"Doctor," he said, "are there such things as automobile diseases?" "It is not unlikely," was the doctor's response. "At least automobile may develop tendencies to disease that lie dormant under ordinary conditions."

"Well, I wish you would look at that spot on the back of my neck and tell me if the excessive use of my motor car has anything to do with it."

The doctor complied. "H'm!" he said gravely. "That looks as if it might be either a carbuncle or an automobile." —Youth's Companion.

The people of Peru could not mistake our battleships for Peruvian barks.

A Kentuckian is in jail in Virginia and prefers staying there to going back to Kentucky.

If the Taft boys do not spike the Cannon in North Carolina it will not be because they do not try.

Congress has given the president a jolt by deciding that the national motto "In God We Trust" must go back on our coins.

No one need take any comfort from the apparent division in Republican ranks in North Carolina. They will all be together when voting time comes.

The Seaboard Air Line is moving to reduce the salaries of employes and to take off some of its trains, but no steps have been taken to cut down the big pay the three receivers of the road are getting.

The farmers and merchants of Mecklenburg county held a meeting in Charlotte, Saturday, to launch the candidacy of Mr. C. C. Moore for commissioner of agriculture. Mr. Moore has certainly done enough for the farmers of the State, and paid his own expenses meanwhile, to be entitled to something.

The farmers who are hauling fertilizers now can tell you some thing about bad roads, but for some reason they are lacking in enthusiasm for better roads. As long as people think time is no object, and that wear and tear on team occasions no loss, they will be content to consume a day going a few miles over bad roads.

Since former Collector E. C. Duncan has got another position and is no longer dependent upon the government pie counter, he is reported to be breaking out of harness and turning against the administration's candidate for the presidential nomination. It is said Duncan will use his influence against Taft in the selection of Eastern North Carolina delegates to the national convention.

Added to his many other good qualities, Governor Glenn has demonstrated that he is a good walker. He started out on a train from Raleigh, Saturday morning, to attend a celebration at Holly Springs. The train had gone only four miles when it was wrecked, and the governor footed the distance back to Raleigh, arriving there none the worse for the tramp.

Candidates Kitchin and Craig both made big speeches at Wadesboro on Saturday, each in his own behalf setting forth his claims for the nomination for governor. Candidate Horne, who had been invited, could not be present in person, but he sent a letter in which he set forth the principles for which he stood. Reports from the Wadesboro meeting say that all three of the candidates have a following in Anson county.

The Charlotte Chronicle gives expression to this very timely admonition:

"The signs multiply that it will be incumbent upon the Democrats of North Carolina to exercise caution and good judgment in the selection of men for office. The time has gone by when the people will vote for anybody just because he is on the ticket. There is a hard fight ahead of the party, and the situation will call for men of well known conservatism. The nomination of representative men will do much toward changing the situation of the party from one of danger to one of safety."

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. At times when you don't feel just right, when you have a bad stomach, take something right away that will assist digestion; not something that will stimulate for a time but something that will positively do the very work that the stomach performs under ordinary and normal conditions, something that will make the food digest. To do this you must take a natural digestant like Kodol For Dyspepsia. Kodol is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids with natural digestants and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. Each dose will digest more than 3,000 grains of good food. It is sure to afford prompt relief; it digests what you eat and is pleasant to take. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Everything taken into the stomach should be digested fully within a certain time. When you feel that that your stomach is not in good order, the food you have eaten is not being digested, take a good, natural digestant that will do the work, the digestive juices are not doing. The best remedy known today for all stomach troubles is Kodol, which is guaranteed to give prompt relief. It is a natural digestant; it digests what you eat, it is pleasant to take and is sold here by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

The Quarter Dollar.

"The quarter dollar," said a numismatist, "should be a very unlucky coin. It is nothing but one mass of thirteens. There are thirteen stars on it, there are thirteen letters in the scroll that the eagle holds in its claws, there are thirteen feathers in the eagle's tail, and there are thirteen feathers in its wing. On the shield there are thirteen parallel lines, thirteen horizontal stripes and thirteen arrowheads. Finally in the words 'Quarter Dollar' there are just thirteen letters." —Exchange.

Brides of the Tchukohs.

The male brides are the pride and wonder of a far Asian people called the Tchukohs. When the new woman receives a "call" here, she becomes a female suffragist. When a new man there rejoices in the like distinction, he becomes a bride. He renounces the garments of his sex and assumes the raiment proper to his new condition. He lets his hair grow and cultivates the gentle arts of housewifery. Soon he takes a lady for husband. She assumes the attire for which he has no further use and goes out to hew wood and draw water, while he stays at home and does the cooking and mending. Thus it is not uncommon to see a handsome, strapping bride, fully whiskered and mustached, shyly stitching skins, while the female husband, a sturdy little woman, severely male in attire, does the navvying out in the world.—London Standard.

"Boost the Booster!"

That's the official slogan of a certain town in Arkansas which through boosting itself and boosting its boosters has doubled its population since the 1900 census.

BOOST THE BOOSTER!

The Arkansas town had been quarreling among itself for years, and standing still. It had boosters, but it had others who refused to boost the boosters, refused to stand by them and yell, "Good boy—keep it up!"

BOOST THE BOOSTER!

Finally the town got together with itself, organized a "Boost the Booster Club" and began to boom. Now its principal thoroughfare, which was a streak of mud, is a stretch of asphalt, and it has new buildings to match. Now everybody boosts the booster and booms the boom.

BOOST THE BOOSTER!

This town might take a hint from that one. We have our town boosters—every town has some. But sometimes they get discouraged because of opposition right here in our midst.

BOOST THE BOOSTER!

Cut out the criticism!
Quit the queering!
Boom the Boom!
Then watch the old town perk up and plunge forward. You can see it move.

WHEN YOU BOOST THE BOOSTER YOU BOOM THE BOOM.

THE FOOD QUESTION.

Never Eat Quite as Much as You Think You Want.

The Romans said, "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow you die." And their banquets quite equaled those of the American millionaire of this twentieth century. They ate, and the Roman empire died. But we of America choose to live and to live long and to live well. And so the maxim of today is, "Eat less and be merry anyhow."

Why eat less? Simply because as a nation we eat too much. Thirty years ago 50 per cent of the diet was meat. Today it has diminished to one-third.

"Never eat quite as much as you think you want" is the continual advice of a learned physician to the young man who would gladly be a Roman if he could.

More and more among leaders in life is the question of nutrition receiving attention. Rheumatic people learn to do away with a meat diet absolutely. So great is the relief that sweets and other questionable but much liked articles of diet soon follow. And, while the prohibition and restrictions sound hard of practice, persons do it daily and always say that they don't care. Oddly, it is the women who are the more likely to complain in the beginning.

It may seem a long stretch to say the food question can affect international politics. Yet because the favoring classes of other nations eat less their living is cheaper and they work without sacrifice for a lower wage than our republican born men.

The American laborer is fond of things fried and of pies. He eats heavily during the noon hour, not stopping to realize that he has fed his furnace with noncombustible stuff that brings unnecessary effort upon the digestive system. The foreigner at his side eats more sensibly—somehow the older nations have learned and not taught—and the foreigner is more "fit," more contented. He is teachable, and his work is good. He costs less money, and therefore the international problem. — Philadelphia North American.

He Would Spoil the Pinny.

The christening of the bairn has been an event in the life of many a fond father, but it seldom happens that the bairn plays a conscientious part. A clerical friend told me of an exception the other day.

A son was born to a seafaring member of his congregation while he was in foreign parts, and at his request baptism was delayed till he could return to stand sponsor for his child.

He did not return till the boy was two years old, and for that reason the ceremony took place in the vestry. All went well until the sprinkling took place, when the father noticed the minister sprinkle more than his face.

He convulsed the company by saying in a hoarse whisper:

"Thou'lt catch it, my man! That was a clean pinny this morning."—London Tit-Bits.

Odious Comparisons.

"Ask me anything else you like," said the brown eyed girl, "but don't ask me if I think that girl across the hall is pretty. I can't tell you. I have been asked that before, and I've honestly tried to tell, but always I got myself into a scrape.

"The trouble is the girl looks like me. If I say she is pretty, then other people who notice the resemblance—and everybody is sure to notice it—get down on me. They say: 'Oh, the conceited thing! What an obvious way of praising herself! If I say she isn't pretty the girl across the hall hears about it and abuses me for a spiteful, envious wretch. Of course I really do think—but, no, it's no use to ask me, for never again can I be induced to say what I think.'"—New York Press.

No Use For Them.

An old North sea skipper who was asked to buy a number of life belts for his vessel's use waxed eloquent in the sublimity of his contempt. "Take 'em away!" said the old "salt." "Don't let me see such longshore rubbish on my decks. I don't want no life belts, nor no smelling salts, nor no eau de cologne, nor no feeding bottles or fans aboard of me. Them as sails in my ship has got to stick to her as I do, and if she goes down, why, I expects them in duty bound to go along with her."—Pearson's Weekly.

The Story of a Picture.

It is said that a French painter one day visited the Salon in Paris in company with a friend who was a member of the committee of selection and who had been instrumental in securing the acceptance of the painter's work. When the artist came near his picture he exclaimed: "Good gracious! You are exhibiting my picture the wrong side up!" "Hush!" was the reply. "The committee refused it the other way."—London Express.

THE PARALYTIC DODGE.

Effective Cure For an Impostor In an English Prison.

Paralysis is often imitated by beggars and so closely that there is no detecting the imposition. A fellow is directed how to hang his wrist loosely down, dropping the fingers of one hand, and to drag the limbs in such a manner as to imitate a paralytic stroke to the life. He is drilled up to the proper business mark by marching him around the beggars' kitchen for hours at a stretch and night after night. This is continued until the patient can bear a sudden and unexpected prick with a needle or even the touch of a red-hot iron without relapsing into his normal attitude.

Not many years ago one of these mock paralytics, who was accustomed to throw off his seeming infirmity and play the burglar by way of change, was caught in the very act of breaking into a house and committed for trial. Here he got up such a semblance of hopeless paralysis as deceived everybody. When the trial came on he was carried into the court on a stretcher and laid at full length in the dock. Everybody, including the judge and jury, commiserated the case, and he escaped with one year's imprisonment instead of a long term of penal servitude.

The doctor of the prison to which the convict was next transferred felt sure that the whole thing was a sham and tried all the ordinary methods of detection, including a liberal use of the galvanic battery, but without effect. At length a great heap of damp straw was collected in the jail yard, and the scoundrel, still stretched on his pallet, which he never quitted, was placed thereon. The straw was fired on all sides, throwing out a little flame and dense volumes of choking smoke. This did the business, and quickly too. In less than a minute the paralytic astonished everybody but the doctor by bouncing out of the straw with the agility of a deer.

"The game is up!" he exclaimed, with a laugh, when he had done coughing, adding in a tone of triumph, "Anyhow, I have cheated the law out of six years!"

The torture such people inflict on themselves for weeks and months at a time and voluntarily is simply incredible.—Pearson's Weekly.

"Annie Laurie."

William Douglas, whose love ballad, "Annie Laurie," has become one of the famous lyrics of the world, wooed, but did not win, Annie Laurie. The real Annie Laurie gave "her promise true" to Douglas, but wedded another, a wealthier suitor, Ferguson of Craigdarroch. Douglas, who was ready to "lay me down and dee," went to the wars and when he came back married also and left a goodly crop of heirs. The tender melody that has won the hearts of people the world over was set to the words many years after by Lady John Scott. Annie Laurie was born Dec. 16, 1682, at the home of her father, Stephen Laurie, at Maxwellton, Scotland, an old-fashioned stone mansion fortress that had once been the castle of the earls of Glencairn.

Dodging the Rules.

After being conducted through an old church by the verger a visitor was so pleased with the official's courtesy and information that he insisted on giving him half a crown. The man shook his head sadly. "Thank you, sir," he said, "but it's quite against the rules."

"I am sorry for that," said the visitor, about to return the half crown to his pocket.

"But," added the verger, "if I were to find a coin lying on the floor it would not be against the rules for me to pick it up!"—London Express.

The Crab as a Fisherman.

The crab sometimes catches a fish, and it catches it without hook and line. It lies in wait, perhaps in some creek, with its claws extended in front and open. Perhaps a school of killies comes along, and it may be that a killie on the outskirts of the school may swim unsuspectingly along through the clear water between the upper and lower parts of one of the motionless open claws of the crab. When it is well within them the claw suddenly snaps together, and that particular little killie goes no farther.

Settled Him.

To some pungent remarks of a professional brother a western lawyer began his reply as follows:

"May it please this court, resting upon the couch of republican equality as I do, covered with the blanket of constitutional panoply as I am and protected by the aegis of American liberty as I feel myself to be, I despise the buzzing of the professional insect who has just set down and defy his attempt to interstrate with his puny sting the interests of my impervious covering."

Double Dutch.

Inveterate Jokist (driving up to country inn, to bucolic native advancing to horse's head)—Rusticus, extricate the quadruped from yonder vehicle, stabulate him, afford him an adequate supply of nutritious aliment, and when the aurora of morn shall illumine the horizon I will truly compensate thee for thy amiable hospitality.

Because Blood Is Red.

"How often we hear the phrase, 'Like waving a red rag before a bull!'" says a naturalist. "Yet how many people know what it means?"

"Why should a bull or any other creature be enraged when a piece of scarlet cloth is flaunted before it? For bulls are not alone in this. Sheep, usually so meek and gentle, will apparently become transported with rage if they see anything of this color. Geese and turkeys are similarly affected, the former even having been known to attack a scarlet clad child.

"But why? Well, the excitement animals display in such circumstances is similar to that caused by the smell of blood. Here is my theory: The color reminds the animals of blood, an association which invariably suggests bodily discomfort and hurt. So they express their terror by the only means they possess."—London Chronicle.

A Fish Marinade.

Before cooking fish French chefs are wont to marinade it by letting it stand six hours in the following mixture: Put in an earthen basin one small sliced white onion, three chopped parsley roots, half a lemon, sliced; two cloves, a crushed bay leaf, half a teaspoonful of ground thyme, one teaspoonful of whole black peppers, one teaspoonful of allspice, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, one tablespoonful of salt and one quart of cold water. Mix all these ingredients together and cover the fish with the mixture. At the end of the six hours remove the fish and drain it. The marinade does not have to be thrown away. It may be used again. Put it in a stone jar and place the jar in a cool place. It will then keep two weeks.

Needles.

Needles were undoubtedly the invention of prehistoric man, as they have been discovered among the oldest remains of human life. Some rude specimens made of horse's bone and evidently intended for sewing skins were found not long since in a cave in France, together with other traces of primitive life. Needles have also been discovered in the oldest Egyptian tombs and among the remains of the lake dwellings of Switzerland. The date of the invention of steel needles is unknown; but, judging from the rich embroidered garments described in ancient record, it would appear that fine needles of steel or some other material were in use at a very early period.

Sauce For the Gander.

A sailor was one day telling a gentleman of the many relations he had lost at sea.

"Well," said the gentleman, "aren't you afraid to go to sea?"

"No, sir," answered the salt. "Did you ever lose any relation at sea?"

"No, my man," answered the gentleman. "All my relations died in bed."

"Then," said the salt, "aren't you afraid to go to bed?"

TO MY FRIENDS.

Having been away for several months I wish to announce to my friends and patrons of the "empire" of Pitt that I am still connected with the firm of Chas. M. Stieff, and if bachelors are allowed to misuse the happy term home as a synonym for a "hanging out place" I still call Greenville my home, and while I intend to be away from Greenville a great deal of my time during this fall a postal care of box 325, Greenville, will reach me within a day or two. We now have a number of slightly used upright pianos, some of which have been rented during the summer months, others which were temporarily used by artists at the exposition and for orchestra work, at bargain prices.

We also offer a special school piano for $225 00 fully measuring up in standard to any $350 00 instrument. This piano is especially built for college and school work for the special price named above and is full guaranteed by my firm for 10 years. Those interested in a school piano or in a good slightly used piano for the home should write me at once and will profit by it, and as ever I am always mindful of my patrons' protection and interest as well as my firm's interest. Grateful of past patronage. Very respt., G. G. Fineman, Box 325 Greenville, N. C.

A Changing View.

When Napoleon I. left Elba the Moniteur, the official organ of the restoration, marked his progress across France with the following amusing remarks:

The cannibal has left his den. The ogre of Corsica has just sailed.

The tiger has arrived at Gap. The monster slept at Grenoble. The tyrant has crossed Lyons. The usurper has been seen at Dijon.

Bonaparte is advancing quickly on Paris, but he will never enter the city.

The emperor has arrived at Fontainebleau.

His imperial majesty made a triumphal entry into the castle of the Tuileries in the midst of his faithful subjects.

WASHINGTONS

Tremendous High-grade Stock of Fine Merchandise Having been brought to Greenville and Placed in C. T. MUNFORD'S big store for a quick sale.

CONSIDERATION! After considering what we and our Creditors think best, and they say the only wise thing to do with this combined gigantic stock of high-grade merchandise is to sell and satisfy our creditors, the best way possible, as we have no ready cash to keep them quiet, we must listen to them, have this sale, and throw this immense stock on the market. We must take their advice, mark it down like they say, so we can raise a few dollars to send them so that every time the train blows our color won't change, knowing that as soon as the mail is handed to us we will open after where some house writes like this: "You must pay this bill at once."
