Fifteen-Year Old Girl Kills Herself—Colored People at Fayetteville Take Collections for Murdered Police's Widow and Children

Kinston, N. C., Feb. 27.—Miss Nellie Fields, the 15 year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Fields, committed suicide about 10 o'clock by shooting herself with a pistol, at their home on Peyton Avenue. Several weeks ago the young girl contracted the grip and had an unusually severe attack, having been confined to her bed ever since. For several days she had been despondent and depressed but no one suspected that she was contemplating self-destruction.

Fayetteville, N. C., Feb. 27. The colored people of this city lead by Prof. E. E. Smith, T. H. McNeil, Dr. B. H. Henderson and Dr. T. M. McChor, are raising a fund for the relief of the family of late Chief Benton.

The colored churches of the city will be given an opportunity on Sunday to subscribe for this fund.

W. H. Smith went to Greenville today.

Prof. Lineberry returned from his old home where he attended the funeral of his mother last Monday.

Wm. Carroll, who for the past several years had been doing a mercantile business in Kinston, has recently moved to his farm near here.

Beginning with Ash Wednesday, March 4th, and continuing through Lent, there will be services at the Episcopal church every Wednesday and Friday evening at five o'clock. Everybody is cordially invited to attend these services which will consist of evening prayer and five minutes talks.

A Tribute to Solomon.

"Thar never was a boy born into the world that don't have to have the hickory put to him more than once, and the oftener the better," said Mr. Billy Sanders. "You may think my talk is harsh, but the more I love a boy, the more I want to see him come under some strong an' heavy hand, bekaze I know it's his only salvation. You may look back on all the youngsters you've know'd an' you'll find that we aint got any more wisdom than Solomon, ef as much. He tore the bottom out of the basket in a mighty few words. 'Spar' the rod an' spile the child.' Ef he'd a' never said nothin' else, them seven words would 'a' made him the wisest man the world ever seed. No newspaper paragrapher has ever beat it yit. Ef brevity's the sole of whiteleather, your Uncle Solomon has got it down mighty fine; ef he aint, you may call me Mabel, an' print in the paper that I've done gone an' eloped wif a college fiddler named Clarence Raymond."—Joel Chandler Harris in Uncle Remus's Magazine for March.

"THE RIVALS."

A Play that Pleased the Audience—A Credit to Mr. I. L. Potter.

The University Dramatic Club presented "The Rivals" in the opera house here Thursday night, and gave an entertainment that well pleased the audience. The young men had been well trained for their parts and filled them to perfection. The acting of Messrs. Reeves, Wardlaw, Smith, Parker and Eagles was especially good. The comedy was delightful and the entire show came fully up to expectation. The show and the young men presenting it reflect credit upon Mr. I. L. Potter, and also upon the University which they represent.

At the Churches Tomorrow.

The public has a cordial invitation to attend these services:

Baptist—Sunday school, Baraca and Philathea classes meet at 9:30 a. m.

"Jesus Paid it All."

By an oversight of our mailing clerk, a certain professional man of this city was allowed to "run behind" six months on his subscription to The Headlight. Upon discovery, the bill of 50 cents was presented to him but he refused to pay, and did not want the paper any longer. Sunday, two weeks ago, we happened to step into a certain church in the city and our debtor's melodious voice rang out loud and clear in a soul stirring song, "Jesus Paid It All." We might have been mistaken but his earnestness impressed us. The next day we sent him a receipt in full, begging his pardon for not knowing he had made an assignment of his liabilities to the Lord.—Goldsboro Headlight.

Stick to Your Home Banks.

The country banks are almost without exception all sound because they are honestly managed and farmers should stand by them in these tight times. Money in your bank is far safer than in hiding places on the farm. The flurry will be over in a few weeks and if our deposits have remained normal we will find that our loyalty to put it on purely selfish grounds if no other will be appreciated and doubtless remembered by our bankers in future transactions.—Ex.

DEATH OF MRS. M. T. HAMBRICK.

Spring Hope, N. C., Feb. 27.

Dear Editor:

Please allow me space in your paper to state that my wife's mother, Mrs. M. T. Hambrick, died in the parsonage at Spring Hope, N. C. Feb. 19th, 1908, at 11:30 p. m.

She had been in declining health for several months, and gradually grew weaker until the end came. She did not seem to suffer much pain, but general debility was the cause of her death. To her death had no horrors, nor was she afraid, for she had been a faithful and consecrated follower of Christ for a long number of years. Like St. Paul she knew whom she had believed, and was persuaded that she was able to keep all she had committed unto Him.

She was seventy five years old the 28th of last December, and leaves two sons and one daughter, and two brothers with a host of friends to mourn her departure. But our loss is her gain.

Yours Truly,
B. E. Stanfield.

Baseball.

Some of the baseball enthusiasts here have received invitations to attend a meeting in Wilson on March 10th, looking to the formation of a league to be composed of six cities in the eastern part of the State. There may be some representatives to go up to the meeting, but it is The Reflector's opinion that during the coming summer Greenville is going to be too much occupied with training school buildings, steel bridges, street paving, and other things in that line, to take much interest in baseball.

BOYS WANTED—YOURS, ANYBODY'S

THE WAY THE SALOONS ADVERTISE.

They Need New Customers and They Must Have Somebody's Boys—How About Yours?

It only takes 500 bright, smart American boys to supply the liquor traffic daily.

As saw mills cannot run without logs and grist mills without corn neither can the liquor traffic run without boys—our boys.

Knowing this The Opelika Saloon proprietors advertised as follows:

BOYS WANTED.

100 Boys for New Customers Most of our Old Customers are rapidly dropping out.

10 committed suicide last week; 20 are in jail—8 are in the chain gang.

15 were sent to the poorhouse—one was hanged.

3 were sent to the insane asylum.

Most of the balance ain't worth fooling with—they've got no money.

We are obliged to have new customers—fresh young blood.

Or we will have to shut up shop.

Don't make any difference whose boy you are—we need you. You will be welcome.

If you once get started with us we guarantee to hold you. Our goods are sure.

Come early—stay late.

OPELIKA SALOON,
Proprietors.

Also appreciating this fact that boys were so absolutely necessary to the saloon business in Ohio the following extract is from a speech of one of the officers of the Ohio State Liquor Dealers' Association who advocated the best plan of making the liquor traffic the most successful.

OUR BOYS.

"It will appear from these facts, gentlemen, that the success of our business is dependent largely upon the creation of an appetite for drink. Men who drink liquor, like others, will die, and if there is no new appetite created our counters will be empty as will be our money drawers. Our children will go hungry, or we must change our business to something more remunerative. The open field for the creation of this appetite among boys. After men are grown and their habits are formed they rarely change in this regard. It will be needful, therefore, that missionary work be done among the boys, and I make the suggestion, gentlemen, that nickels expended in treats to the boys now will return in dollars to your tills after the appetites have been formed. Above all things, create appetites."

So the great necessity of our fine young boys for the liquor traffic is self evident and the fathers of our boys will see to it that the liquor traffic shall consume no more of our boys than possible.

Instead of foreign immigration we need our own American boys at home as upright and honorable citizens to make our Nation, State and County great.

New Church Pews.

The Christian church has purchased handsome circular pews, and they are now being put in place of the chairs that have been used since the church was built. The pews will add much to the interior appearance of the church.

THE WANDERING BOY.

"What's to Hinder Pa From Gwine out Arter the Youngster wif a Rawhide."

When ma comes home from her club an' pa gits in fresh from his'n, or sets behind his paper readin' the gamblin' market reports, a great hue an' cry is set up about our wanderin' boy to-night, warranted to smoke a package of cigarettes ever fifteen minits. What's to be done? Why, pa heaves a sigh like a belows'd hos', an' ma hums a tune betwixt her snifles. Now, what's to hender pa from gwine out arter the youngster wif a rawhide, an' yankin' him hom, an' teachin' him a lesson that he'll never forgit as long as he lives? Mention it to 'em, an' you're a cruel monster. What! raise whales on the beautiful an' tender skin of our darlin' boy! Why, you're too old-fashioned for to live. What's the State but to be a parent to our darlin' child? Can't it pass laws to perfect him from whiskey an' tobacco? An' then it's hocracy for ever'thing but the right thing!

Now, I ain't got nothin in the worl' ag'in prohibition or the anti cigarette law, when the State has a law on its books, I'm for it ef it's good, bad or indifferent. But what I say is that sech laws don't go to the root of the matter; they don't kill what you might call the family boll weevil. The trouble, whe thar's any, is to be found right in the home that the wanderin' boy strays from, an' I say that thar oughter be a law perfectin' children from weak-minded parents. Ever' man an' 'oman that's got a boy child should be made to toe the mark an' raise the'r children right. It may be a hard thing to do, but thar aint no secret about it; it may take up a good deal of the'r time an' attention, but what are they here for? That's what I want to know.—Joel Chandler Harris, in Uncle Remus's Magazine for March.

FIVE QUESTIONS—ONE ANSWER.

Mrs. V. C. Euwer in Facts For Every-one.

Is it right to license men to sell that which will make a man drunk, and then punish the man for being drunk?

Is it right to license a man to make paupers and then tax sober men to take care of them?

Is it right to license saloons to teach vice, and then tax people for schools to teach virtue?

Is it right to devise revenue out of a traffic which no decent man defends?

Is it right to build churches to save men, and at the same time license shops that destroy them?

I am only one.

But I am one.

I cannot do everything.

But I can do something.

What I can do, I ought to do.

And by the grace of God I will do.

Drum Corps.

A movement is on foot to organize a drum corps here to make music for the Confederate veterans at their annual meetings and reunions. It will take about $50 to get the necessary outfit and this amount should be readily subscribed. The old soldiers are fast passing away and we should do everything possible to fill with pleasure the few years remaining to them. Maj. H. Harding will receive contributions for the drum corps.

Paving the Streets.

Some know it is best to pave Evans and Ninth streets. Some know it is best to pave Dickinsons avenue. And yet they don't know that a man's breath and his liabilities do not end at the same time. That a life insurance policy is a will that no lawyer can set aside, that neighborly sympathy for a widow and children is good; but the Mutual Life Insurance Company's check is better to pay off a mortgage with. That if it is "Nip and Tuck" to support the children while the father is living "Tuck" will have the best of it when the widow has it to do. That we only live one day at a time. That The Mutual Life, of New York, was organized in Feb. 1842 and issues all forms of policies. Assets over $500,000,000.

Mr. Kitchen has returned to Washington to see what congress is doing.

Running for governor is a free for all race, but it should be kept in mind that only one can win.

While the women cannot vote for prohibition, they can get men enough to vote that way to greatly help the majority.

The movement has started in Washington City to put a tax on cats, and the proposition is making the fur fly.

When people talk like the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, and back it up with the money, it should appeal to the Board of Aldermen for careful consideration.

A month ago Greenville had some warm advocates of prohibition from whom nothing is heard now. If they are prohibitionists still they ought to be at work for it.

The Statesville Landmark has been looking up the Sunday laws in this State, and according to what the Code says a great many things done on Sunday are a violation of the law.

The congregations at the country meeting houses on preaching days is made somewhat larger now by the presence of the candidates who drive out to shake hands and inquire after the general health of the community.

One thing to consider in regard to street paving, is whether the only object is to get a short cut to the depot, or to do what is best for the whole town by getting as much paving done as possible for approximately the same money.

The head engineer in charge of the construction of the Panama canal says it will be completed so ships can pass through in the year 1915. That is helpful, after all. Come to think about it Jacob had to serve twice that long for Rachael and thought he had a good bargain then.

March is the pruning month for newspaper subscription lists. The Reflector has tried to notify all its readers, and will keep doing so this month, that the new postal regulation goes into effect on the first of April, after which time daily papers that are more than three months due and weekly papers that are more than twelve months due cannot be sent through the mail without postage at the rate of one cent each being paid on them. Of course under this law the paper cannot be sent longer than the required time. Now, reader, lets reason together a little: Are you going to force us to stop sending you The Reflector just because you wont pay a small subscription bill? We hope you will not do that. Stop right now and send a remittance for what you owe The Reflector.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c. per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

At times when you don't feel just right, when you have a bad stomach, take something right away that will assist digestion; not something that will stimulate for a time but something that will positively do the very work that the stomach performs under ordinary and normal conditions, something that will make the food digest. To do this you must take a natural digestant like Kodol For Dyspepsia. Kodol is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids with natural digestants and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. Each dose will digest more than 3,000 grains of good food. It is sure to afford prompt relief; it digests what you eat and is pleasant to take. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

A wise man always pretends to take the advice his wife hands him.

Everything taken into the stomach should be digested fully within a certain time. When you feel that that your stomach is not in good order, the food you have eaten is not being digested, take a good, natural digestant that will do the work, the digestive juices are not doing. The best remedy known today for all stomach troubles is Kodol, which is guaranteed to give prompt relief. It is a natural digestant; it digests what you eat, it is pleasant to take and is sold here by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Among the other trusts we have mistrusts and distrusts.

IT DOES THE BUSINESS

Mr. E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Maine, says of Bucklen's Arnica Salve "It does the business; I have used it for piles and it cured them. Used it for lapped hands and it cured them. Applied it to an old sore and it healed it without leaving a scar behind." 25c at J. L. Wooten's drug store.

The trouble with most cough remedies is that they constipate. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts gently but promptly on the bowels and at the same time it stops the cough by soothing the throat and lung irritation. Children like it. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

To enhance her beauty a woman's veil is seldom unavailing.

Bert Farber, of Elton, Wis., says: "I have only taken four doses of your Kidney and Bladder Pills and they have done for me more than any other medicine has ever done. I am still taking the pills as I want a perfect cure." Mr. Barber refers to DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. They are sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Brides of the Tehukchis.

The male brides are the pride and wonder of a far Asian people called the Tehukchis. When the new woman receives a "call" here, she becomes a female suffragist. When a new man there rejoices in the like distinction, he becomes a bride. He renounces the garments of his sex and assumes the raiment proper to his new condition. He lets his hair grow and cultivates the gentle airs of housewifery. Soon he takes a lady for husband. She assumes the attire for which he has no further use and goes out to hew wood and draw water, while he stays at home and does the cooking and mending. Thus it is not uncommon to see a handsome, strapping bride, fully whiskered and mustached, shyly stitching skins, while the female husband, a sturdy little woman, severely male in attire, does the navying out in the world.—London Standard.

Gathering Knowledge.

"It seems to me," said Mrs. Wakeman, pausing on the sidewalk to let the grade pupils, just released from bondage, rush by, "that school must be more interesting than it was in my time. The children acquire so much general knowledge nowadays—so much that is useful." "They do," agreed Mrs. Northrop promptly. "Now, here comes little Johnny Greenfield. We'll ask what he learned. Here, Johnny! Tell us what your lesson was about today." "About octagons," replied blushing Johnny. "And what," pursued Mrs. Wakeman, "is an octagon?" "It's a many sided animal," piped the lad, "that grabs you when you go in swimming." — Youth's Companion.

How Many Bricks Have You Sent Away?

That sounds like a funny question, addressed to every citizen of this town and community, but it's really a serious one.

Listen: There is now just completed a magnificent building of red brick exterior and concrete interior right in the business heart of one of the biggest of American cities. It occupies a whole block and calls itself in a large lettered sign "The Largest Monolithic Building In the World." It has many floors, with about a hundred acres of floor space. The entrances are of solid marble. The floors are beautifully tiled. Altogether it is a credit to the big city in which it stands. Oh, it's a Jim Dandy!

Now, how many bricks have you sent to the city to go into this big building? Honest, how many?

Of the hundreds of thousands of bricks put into the walls of this building the city where it stands has contributed not a single red brick. Country people, the people of small towns and cities far away from the big metropolis, have sent in the bricks for the construction of this splendid edifice.

You may have sent in a few hods of bricks yourself without knowing it.

Listen: This magnificent structure, which ornaments a city you probably never will see yourself, is built of bricks bought with the dollars of people living in towns just like ours—towns that would like to have some new brick buildings themselves now and then. Every dollar contributed to the city building fund means a nice, hefty hod of bricks for this big, beautiful skyscraper, "largest in the world" of its kind. This building was put up, through the kind donations of their unknown country cousins, by a firm that ran a small store in that city a few years ago.

But this firm conceived the cute idea of having thousands of strangers contribute bricks to build its fine, large, new store.

And the building is a Mail Order Store. See?

A YOUTHFUL HERO.

How Major Croghan Won Fame in the War of 1812.

Only a few names escape oblivion, but Aug. 2, 1812, insured lasting fame for Major George Croghan. Ninety-three years later, on Aug. 2, 1906, the remains of this youthful hero were reinterred on the site of his great victory.

During the war of 1812 Croghan, a handsome, spirited Kentuckian, was sent by General Harrison to take command of a poor little stockade, Fort Stephenson, at Lower Sandusky, now Fremont, O. The place was important only because it guarded the approach to Harrison's headquarters and stores up the Sandusky river.

On the morning of Aug. 1 General Proctor, the British commander, with 500 regulars, veteran troops who had served under Wellington on the peninsula, sailed up the river in gunboats of Commodore Barclay's fleet and landed cannon and howitzers, with which they began to bombard the fort. Meanwhile Tecumseh, with 700 Indians, swarmed through the woods and began the attack from the opposite side. To one of a less sanguine temperament or of less courage than the young commander the situation must have seemed hopeless. But Croghan not only showed confidence himself, but inspired it in those under him.

Croghan had 160 men and one small cannon, which he moved about from place to place to induce the belief that he had several guns. Late in the afternoon of the 2d the enemy made a united assault. So valiantly and effectively was it repulsed that the whole British and Indian force made a precipitate retreat into Canada.

"It will not be the least of General Proctor's mortifications," wrote Harrison, "to know that he has been baffled by a youth who has just passed his twenty-first year. He is, however, a hero worthy of his gallant uncle, General George Rogers Clark."

Croghan himself wrote just before the battle: "The enemy are not far distant. I expect an attack. I will defend this post to the last extremity. I have just sent away the women and children with the sick of the garrison, that I may be able to act without incumbrance. Be satisfied I shall, I hope, do my duty. The example set me by my Revolutionary kindred is before me. Let me die rather than prove unworthy of their name."

The battle of Fort Stephenson was the first really brilliant effort of the war of 1812. General Sherman said it was "the necessary precursor to Perry's victory on the lake and Harrison's triumphant victory at the Thames, which assured to our immediate ancestors the mastery of the great west, and from that day to this the west has been the bulwark of the nation."

For his exploit Croghan was brevetted lieutenant colonel by the president of the United States, and congress awarded him a gold medal.—Youth's Companion.

Queer Eyes.

Nature makes some strange provisions for fish that have to feel or see their way at great depths. Deep soundings in the Caribbean sea bring up really uncanny specimens of this kind. Among them is a fish that has two convex lenses in place of eyes. These lenses are very bright, of a golden hue and gleam in the sunlight. Another fish, a large one, has eyes that grow on stems sticking out several inches from the head. Another has an eye on a stem about half a yard long. The stem is flexible and may be waved in any direction. Some of the Caribbean sea fishes have eyes that shine like lanterns.

A Question of Names.

On one occasion a bishop who prided himself on never forgetting either the name or face of any clergyman in his diocese happened to be traveling somewhere by rail when at a certain station a clergyman got into the same carriage in which the bishop was.

The bishop recognized the man's face, but could not remember his name, and, not wishing to acknowledge his forgetfulness, leaned forward and, with a charming smile, said:

"Excuse me for forgetting, but how do you spell your name?"

"J-o-n-e-s, my lord," was the reply.—Illustrated Bits.

A Lot of Failures.

There is a lot of humor and, besides, a splendid moral for the young business man in a verdict that was rendered by a coroner's jury.

"We, the jury, find from the physician's statement that the deceased came to his death from heart failure, superinduced by business failure, which was caused by speculative failure, which was in turn the result of failure to look ahead."—Kansas City Independent.

THE PARALYTIC DODGE.

Effective Cure For an Impostor in an English Prison.

Paralysis is often imitated by beggars and so closely that there is no detecting the impostor. A fellow is directed how to hang his wrist loosely down, dropping the fingers of one hand, and to drag the limbs in such a manner as to imitate a paralytic stroke to the life. He is drilled up to the proper business mark by marching him around the beggars' kitchen for hours at a stretch and night after night. This is continued until the patient can bear a sudden and unexpected prick with a needle or even the touch of a red-hot iron without relapsing into his normal attitude.

Not many years ago one of these mock paralytics, who was accustomed to throw off his seeming infirmity and play the burglar by way of change, was caught in the very act of breaking into a house and committed for trial. Here he got up such a semblance of hopeless paralysis as deceived everybody. When the trial came on he was carried into the court on a stretcher and laid at full length in the dock. Everybody, including the judge and jury, commiserated the case, and he escaped with one year's imprisonment instead of a long term of penal servitude.

The doctor of the prison to which the convict was next transferred felt sure that the whole thing was a sham and tried all the ordinary methods of detection, including a liberal use of the galvanic battery, but without effect. At length a great heap of damp straw was collected in the jail yard, and the scoundrel, still stretched on his pallet, which he never quitted, was placed thereon. The straw was fired on all sides, throwing out a little flame and dense volumes of choking smoke. This did the business, and quickly too. In less than a minute the paralytic astonished everybody but the doctor by bouncing out of the straw with the agility of a deer.

"The game is up!" he exclaimed, with a laugh, when he had done coughing, adding in a tone of triumph, "Anyhow, I have cheated the law out of six years!"

The torture such people inflict on themselves for weeks and months at a time and voluntarily is simply incredible.—Pearson's Weekly.

"Annie Laurie."

William Douglas, whose love ballad, "Annie Laurie," has become one of the famous lyrics of the world, wooed, but did not win, Annie Laurie. The real Annie Laurie gave "her promise true" to Douglas, but wedded another, a wealthier suitor, Fergusson of Craigdarroch. Douglas, who was ready to "lay me doon and dee," went to the wars and when he came back married also and left a goodly crop of heirs. The tender melody that has won the hearts of people the world over was set to the words many years after by Lady John Scott. Annie Laurie was born Dec. 16, 1682, at the home of her father, Stephen Laurie, at Maxwellton, Scotland, an old-fashioned stone mansion fortress that had once been the castle of the earls of Glencairn.

Dodging the Rules.

After being conducted through an old church by the verger a visitor was so pleased with the official's courtesy and information that he insisted on giving him half a crown. The man shook his head sadly. "Thank you, sir," he said, "but it's quite against the rules."

"I am sorry for that," said the visitor, about to return the half crown to his pocket.

"But," added the verger, "if I were to find a coin lying on the floor it would not be against the rules for me to pick it up!"—London Express.

The Crab as a Fisherman.

The crab sometimes catches a fish, and it catches it without hook and line. It lies in wait, perhaps in some creek, with its claws extended in front and open. Perhaps a school of killies comes along, and it may be that a killie on the outskirts of the school may swim unsuspectingly along through the clear water between the upper and lower parts of one of the motionless open claws of the crab. When it is well within them the claw suddenly snaps together, and that particular little killie goes no farther.

Settled Him.

To some pungent remarks of a professional brother a western lawyer began his reply as follows:

"May it please this court, resting upon the couch of republican equality as I do, covered with the blanket of constitutional panoply as I am and protected by the aegis of American liberty as I feel myself to be, I despise the buzzing of the professional insect who has just sat down and defied his attempt to penetrate with his puny sting the intricacies of my impervious covering."

Festival of the Dolls.

A curious custom of the Japanese is that of the observance of a certain day in April of each year called dolls' day, or the festival of the dolls.

On this day all the girls and women array themselves in gaudy attire, and the mother of each household adorns the family room in gay colors. Then the little girls dress all their dolls, old and new, in their best Sunday clothes and prop them up about the walls. In the afternoon a great feast is prepared, ostensibly for the benefit of the dolls, though the repast is actually consumed by the grown folks in the evening. Japan is the only country that has such a festivity.

A Lawyer's Retort.

A lawyer in Washington was telling some colleagues of neat retorts he had heard in court when he was reminded of the interchange of compliments between a western judge and a sharp-tongued attorney from Chicago. The judge, a quick tempered man, had had several "run ins" with counsel when suddenly he observed, "I can teach you law, Mr. Perkins, but I cannot teach you manners." "That is true, your honor," retorted the Chicago lawyer.

The Perambulator.

There is no perambulator in the sense of baby carriage in Todd's edition of Johnson (1827), and the earliest quotation Dr. Murray's dictionary gives for the word is from a letter of Miss Yonge's in 1857. But the baby carriage seems to have annexed the name of an earlier invention. From the end of the seventeenth century until well into the nineteenth a "perambulator" was a machine for measuring distances by road and settling disputes—for instance, as to hackney carriage fares. It consisted of a wheel eight feet and a quarter in circumference, trundled with a handle and fitted with clockwork and a dial. Probably this machine took its name from the "perambulators"—men who took part in the official "perambulations" or beatings of parish bounds.
