There will be a meeting of the trustees of the East Carolina Teachers' Training School at Greenville, N. C., Tuesday, March 10th, 1908 at 12 M.

This is the first meeting of the board and it is earnestly desired that every member of the board shall be present and shall come prepared to remain two days if necessary.

This meeting will be for the purpose of organization and for the consideration of the preliminary matters necessary to determine the number, location and character of the buildings to be erected. J. Y. Joyner,
Chairman Ex officio Board of Trustees.

Raleigh, N. C., March 2, 1908. 33 5td.

Something to Think About.

We read in the Southern Cultivator last week the following statement by a Georgia farmer:

"If you find a farmer, in any section, who has made it a habit to grow plenty of corn, as a rule you will find one who lends money, if not, you will certainly find a man, who has the confidence of his merchants and bankers, and who can always get any help he needs."

We have thought about this statement much and have concluded the Georgia farmer has stated a truth. We cannot think of a single farmer of our acquaintance who grows plenty of corn for home use and some to sell who is not in easy circumstances and most of them are money lenders. This is something our farmers should think about, in making preparations for this year's crop. —Rich Square Times.

Who Are Drunkards?

Young men did you ever think who drunkards are? Drunkards are drinking young men grown up. If then, there were no drinking young men there would be no drunkards. But where do the drinking young men come from? Why, of course they come from the children. If all the children were pledged against the use of everything that can intoxicate, there would be no drinking young men, and consequently no drunkards. Remember that drunkards are drinking young men grown up, and these drinking young men are unpledged children grown into young men. Let us look well after the children.—Ex.

School Requires Punctuality.

Pupils of the colored graded school, who work in service are permitted to enter the school at 9:30 and 11 o'clock. Others must be on time. The roaming of colored children through the streets is not due to any laxity of school rules—but a neglect on the part of parents to see that they are punctual, in their attendance at school.

The spirit, of this, is to cultivate strict punctuality to duty. C. M. Epps.

Died.

Mrs. W. W. Thomas died early Monday night at her home near Stokes. She leaves a husband, two daughters and one son.

DOING HIM INJURY.

Whether in Malice or Prank is Not Known.

Somebody with a disposition to cause him injury, or in what they think is fun, has been playing some ugly tricks on Mr. S. J. Nobles, the barter. Not long ago some one cut the pipe that feeds the lamps in his shop which caused the lights to go out while his place was full of customers. The pipe was repaired and not much more was thought of it for the time being. But on Monday he went to his gas tank in the rear of his shop to draw some out to lend a neighbor, when it was found that a hole had been punched in the tank and all the gas gone. Mr. Nobles would like to discover the parties inflicting such injuries upon him.

FARMVILLE ITEMS.

Farmville, N. C., March 3, 1908.

The East Carolina Train made its first regular trip to Hookerton yesterday, and the schedule has been changed so we will have only one mail each day, instead of two-mails, on Tuesday's Thursdays, and Saturdays.

The farmers in this section of the county are getting busy, and every indication points to a good crop.

Cox's Mill, N. C. March 2nd.

Our farmers are making good use of this fine weather at work.

The Judge's Turney.

During the civil war in the United States, especially during the last years, the Southerners were often in sore straits for supplies of all kinds. During this period a Southern judge was rather surprised to find a turkey on his table, stuffed according to the best rules of the art, says The Dundee Advertiser.

As the judge had no turkeys in his poultry yard, and he knew the sum he had given to the cook for house hold expenses did not run to a turkey, he called the sable servant and asked for an explanation. "Why, massa," said Sambo, "it is like this: That turkey had been roosting three nights on our fence, and last night I grabbed him for the rent of the fence."

It is not on record whether the judge was satisfied with this explanation.

Bishop Duncan Dead.

Charlotte, N. C., March 2.—News reached here today of the death of Bishop William Wallace Duncan, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, at his home in Spartanburg. Bishop Duncan had been desperately ill for three weeks, and his death was expected. He was a native of Virginia, but later moved to Spartanburg when he was raised to the office of bishop. He died this morning at 10 o'clock surrounded by the members of his family. The interment will in all probability be in Spartanburg, where the funeral takes place Tuesday morning.

4000 Thrown Out of Work by Tampa Fire.

Tampa, Fla., March 2.—The total loss sustained by yesterday's fire is today estimated at $800,000, the buildings burned being mostly cigar factories and residences of men employed in them. One thousand persons are homeless and four thousand, dependent on the factories for employment are out of work. The fire raged for four hours, fanned by high northeast winds, the local fire department being almost helpless to check its progress.

Four Insane Men Out.

Charlotte, N. C., March 2.—Four patients confined in the ward for the violently insane at the Western Hospital, at Morganton, escaped tonight by wrenching the iron bars from a window in the ward. The patients are all men. Warnings have been sent through the country. A posse of ten men has thus far failed to apprehend them.

The Acme Theatre will have a fine program tonight.

NOVEL METHOD OF COLLECTING.

Asheville Merchants to Adopt an Effective Way of Collecting From Hard Customers.

Asheville merchants, according to reports, have adopted a novel method of collecting accounts from delinquent debtors. Here is what the Asheville Citizen of several days ago said: "Persons who persistently refuse to pay their bills to grocermen or who have made it a habit to trade first with one grocery and then another without expectation of paying for what they got are soon to be made painfully aware that there is such a thing as retribution.

"Asheville grocers are to employ a man to collect these bills and in a way that will perhaps be 'fetching' even though the man's costume may not be fetching. A hazardous man, well insured and dressed in a suit of violet red with a red hat and other articles of dress so colored that a blind man would fear them is to be sent forth to call on said delinquents and suggest a payment. If this be denied him he will take the refusal good naturedly and kindly agree to call again, and this he will do.

"Of course, whenever the man calls the neighbors and passers by will be made aware some bad pay customers live there and it is believed that this notoriety will be a powerful incentive to payment. It will naturally be embarrassing to have a person so attired hanging about the premises, especially if some social function be going on.

A Wilkes Man's Remarkable Dogs.

Uncle Israel Miller was in town last week and the subject of dogs came up. Uncle Israel states that he has raised some remarkable canines down at his place. He now has one that is good for snakes only. He will track up snakes, yelping on the trail as if running a rabbit. When he "trees" a snake he bays until some one comes to kill it. A few years ago Uncle Israel had a fish dog which would go along the river bank and tree fish, and if he could charm the fish to stillness he would dive in and get them. Our recollection is that Judge Henderson purchased the dog for the purpose of supplying the town with fish, but the dog refused to work, and Uncle Israel explained it by saying, "You couldn't expect a dog to be any account after he had taken up with these lazy trifling town fellows"—Wilkesboro Chronicle.

Not Coming Back.

Miss Birdie McKinney, one of the teachers of the graded school who was recently called to her home in Reidsville by the sickness of her parents, and whose mother died after she reached home, has notified Superintendent Smith that she cannot return to Greenville to complete the session. Miss McKinney is an excellent teacher and all interested in the school regret that she cannot return.

Notice.

Persons who owe the town of Greenville for taxes for the year 1907 are notified that unless they pay by the 15th of March costs will be added.

All persons keeping dogs in town are notified to list and pay taxes on same, or such owners will be subject to indictment.

J. C. Tyson, Tax Collector, 3-2-2td.

W. H. Harrington and H. L. Coward were here Friday on business.

Mrs. Nora Davenport returned to home near Kinston yesterday.

Politics are being a little discussed now, especially the merits and demerits of the various candidates are being prolifically handled.

There was a good shipment of cotton from this point yesterday.

Our merchants had a fine day Saturday. There was a large crowd in town and trade was splendid. There is lots of money in the old land yet.

The Grifton people say there is on excursion from there to this point every Saturday and the railroad doesn't give any cut rates either. Bad! Too Bad!! We don't complain, though.

We are indebted to our friend, J. J. Hines, for a delightful ride Sunday afternoon behind the pony. It was a treat.

Many of our citizens were very much surprised to hear of the death of Mrs. Walter Barfield in Greenville yesterday. This is Mrs. Barfield's old home and she has many warm friends and relatives here who are grieved on account of her death.

Miss Annie Dudley left yesterday for the northern markets to purchase the spring millinery for Mrs. Forrest.

L. H. Witherington was in Greenville Monday.

Attempts to Assassinate Chicago's Chief of Police.

Chicago, Ill., March 2.—Chief of Police George M. Shippy, his son Harry, and his driver, James Foley, were wounded by an anarchist who attempted to assassinate the police official in the hall of the latter's residence, 31 Lincoln court, shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. The desperate struggle, in which Mrs. Shippy and her daughter, Georgietta, joined, was terminated when the chief drew his own revolver and killed his assailant. Attempts to identify the dead man have thus far resulted in failure.

Mail Pouches Cut at University Station

Durham, N. C. March 2.—The depot at University Station was broken into and robbed last night and at the same time a number of mail pouches that were being held there to be sent to Chapel Hill were cut open and robbed. It is not known at this time just how much the robber or robbers secured.

I desire to announce to the public that I have purchased and now have installed in my Barber Shop, a new and improved Electric Vibrating Massage Machine, the first ever installed in Greenville. This machine is for the use of my patrons; and is a very valuable addition to the equipment of Modern Barber Shop. Which Way.

The question oftenest asked is which way will the paving go from Five Points? One fellow gave a wise look and said it will go straight up. But he is like the rest of us, don't know.

Lets get busy and pave something.

We think that Judge Adams is going to come clear of the charge.

Even if winter does come again, a few days without fire saves that much fuel.

From now until Easter the local editor will have to work hard for news items—It is Lent, you know.

Compare the picture of Taft with those of some of the early presidents and see if you believe the theory of evolution.

The business man who makes no effort to get business has little right to complain if he sees the business that ought to come his way going somewhere else.

Representative George L. Morton, of New Hanover county, is leading the anti-prohibition forces in the State. His talent might well be used in a better cause.

Along with the public building that Greenville is going to get why not make an effort to get a Carnegie library. With the Graded school, the Eastern Training school, and a general reading public, we need a good library.

The Waynesville Courier in speaking of the snows yet to come before winter is over, said twenty eight more are due as "there were forty-three foggy mornings in August." We thought it was prohibition territory up that way.

Cotton mills are now going up in parts of the State. Did you ever think of the fact that Pitt, one of the largest counties in the State, full of energetic citizens, a cotton growing county, has no cotton mill? If they pay in other sections one will pay here.

It is bad policy and bad psychology for a merchant to tell his customer that trade is dull. People love to trade in a store where there is something doing, and a man is likely to lose his customer when he suggests to him that it is dull around his store.

In the Outlook of last week Mr. Carnegie had an article entitled "The worst banking system in the world." He points out the fact that other nations, especially England and France, can even pass through revolutions without materially changing their money values. But the American banking system makes values always uncertain.

If a man's system is run down he would be thought unwise if he cut off all aids to restoration instead of consulting a doctor and taking something to build himself up. The same thing is true of business. When business is slack and run down it is unwise to cut off the means of helping it instead of using a vigorous advertising tonic to build it up. The advertising columns of a newspaper are always a good business thermometer and indicate where the business is going.

Street paving always brings up the question of whether or not shade trees should be sacrificed. Nothing adds more to the beauty and comfort of a southern town than many well-developed shade trees. Sometimes the small town thoughtlessly destroys its trees, and then after it becomes a city it would willingly give thousands of dollars for what it once wasted. Imagine Greenville with a population of 25,000 (and at the present rate it will soon reach that) without her shade trees.

How's This.

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol For Dyspepsia: "E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sirs—I have suffered more than twenty years from indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of corn bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 25 lbs; in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time, when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and I was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping that humanity will be benefited. Yours very truly, Jake C. Moore, Atlanta, Aug. 10, 1904." Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Back talk will seldom get a fellow to the front.

Mr. John Riha, of Vining, Ia., says, "I have been selling DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for about a year and they give better satisfaction than any pill I ever sold. There are a dozen people here who have used them and they give perfect satisfaction in every case. I have used them myself with fine results." Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Getting Even.

On one occasion visitors to a merry-go-round on a vacant lot in the outskirts of Philadelphia were very much touched by the melancholy demeanor of a long, lean, lank individual who despite the fact that he was apparently suffering greatly persisted in riding repeatedly. At last some one said to him sympathetically:

"You appear to be in great distress."

"Yes," replied the man on the merry-go-round. "This continual riding around and around makes me seasick."

"Well, then, why don't you quit riding?" asked the inquisitive questioner.

"I can't help it," replied the poor man. "The man who runs this merry-go-round owes me money, and the only way I can collect it is by taking it out in rides."

Mistletoe.

On account of its connection with heathen rite and legend the mistletoe was early banished from the churches. Clergymen have in former times been known to forbid its use among the Christmas decorations, regarding it as too tainted with superstitions to fitly ornament the house of God, and from use as an architectural decoration it has been rigorously excluded. Perhaps the only known instance of its use is in Bristol cathedral, where sprays of mistletoe, with leaves and berries, fill the spandrels of one of the remarkable tombs.—London Mail.

The Wary Editor.

The musician was visibly annoyed. "But, hang it all," he said, "I told your reporter three or four times over that the violin I used was a genuine Stradivarius, and here in his report this morning there's not a word, not a word."

With a scornful laugh the editor replied: "That is as it should be, sir. When Mr. Stradivarius gets his fiddle advertised in this paper under $2 a line you come around and Tet me know."—Southwestern-er's Book.

A Pen Point.

The pen would not write. "Shall I get you another, sir?" the secretary asked.

"No," said the millionaire. "I'll show you something valuable now."

And he held the pen over the lamp a moment, then dipped it in cold water, and lo—it wrote as well as when new.

"That treatment rejuvenates old pens without fail," said the millionaire. "Remember it, and it will save you money."—Exchange.

A Bad Mix.

Mr. Gladstone, speaking of Mr. Parnell on one occasion, made use of the oft quoted phrase "Marching through rapine to the dismemberment of the empire." On the same day there was a horse race in which the winners were respectively Veracity, Tyrone and Lobster. These facts were cabled to New Zealand together in the usual shorthand style of the cable. The result was that next day the New Zealand papers contained the following extraordinary paragraph: "Mr. Gladstone denounced Mr. Parnell as marching through rapine to the dismemberment of the empire and said that the Irish leader had the veracity of a Tyrone lobster."

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

During the month of March the subscription list of The Daily Reflector will be revised so as to comply with the law of the Government Postoffice Department which goes in effect April 1st. Under this law daily newspapers cannot be sent to subscribers who do not renew within 3 months after date to which their subscription is paid. To send it more than 3 months longer than it is paid for will require a 1-cent stamp on each paper.

Therefore we ask every subscriber to The Daily Reflector who owes for 3 months or longer, to send a remittance at once so we can keep your name on our list. The publisher can have no choice in this but will have to comply with the law.

If subscribers prefer to remit for three months at the time it is all right, but in that case they will have to pay every 3 months, or they can pay as many months at the time as they like so as to save the trouble of remitting oftener.

We hope every subscriber will attend to this promptly as we had rather not drop a single name from our list. But bear in mind that The Daily Reflector cannot be mailed after April 1st to any person who owes for 3 months or longer.

Are You a Trust Buster?

Hey—You!
Yes, YOU'RE the man we mean.

You're always talking about the harm the trusts are doing. The country's going to the demnition bowwows, you say, because of the uncurbed trusts. Rich growing richer, poor getting poorer. Used to be that a poor man could go into business for himself in a modest way and make a good living. Now he must become a clerk or a roustabout or a hodcarrier for some corporation—some combination that has grown to be a Goliath of bigness, that has devoured the fat of the land and is still gourmandizing upon it, till there's not a scrap of bone left for the under dog.

That's your line of talk. You're still handing it out, and you're proud of it.

Well, now, let's see: Are YOU a trust buster YOURSELF?

Didn't we see you stalk up to the postoffice just now and mail a letter with the address of a city Mail Order Store on the envelope? Hey? Didn't we?

Don't you know that the Mail Order Store is a trust—one of the most dangerous in the crowd? Don't you know that it is secretly and silently and slyly closing the doors of opportunity to the young men in country towns and small cities like ours? Don't you know that the Mail Order Trust is collecting the patronage of town and country people by the mail route, thereby cutting down the patronage of the smaller merchant, the local man who is trying to build up a modest, independent, antitrust business?

Hey?

Didn't that ever occur to you?

N. B. (which means note well): Why don't you trade at home instead of helping to build up a trust that hurts your home place?

THE ROMAN SENATE.

It Was Purely Executive, With No Authority to Make Laws.

The senate of Rome, which was an ancient institution, said to have been established by Romulus himself, was a purely executive body, having no authority whatever to make laws. The senate of the United States is almost purely legislative in its functions, having no power to make appointments outside of the body itself, but only to agree to those made by the president. And this is largely a formality, as it is regarded as a very discourteous thing to refuse to confirm a presidential appointment.

The Roman senate as instituted by Romulus consisted of 100 members. An additional hundred were added when the Sabines migrated from Rome. The first Tarquin increased the number of senators first to 300, at which number it continued for a long time. Julius Caesar increased the number of senators first to 700 and afterward to 900 members. Augustus at first added another hundred, making an even 1,000, but afterward reduced the number to 600.

Senators were supposed to be men of special merit. They were at first selected by the monarch, but the duty was afterward intrusted to the consuls and latterly to the censors. No man was eligible to the office who had not been previously knighted and who had held the inferior offices of questor, tribune of the people, edile, praetor and consul.

The senate met regularly on the 1st of January and also on extraordinary occasions when called together by the consuls, tribunes of the emperor.

A Roman senator during the early days of the republic made a virtue of poverty and gloried in the simple life. But when wealth, vice and corruption became more common it was decreed that no man could be a senator whose wealth amounted to less than 80,000 sesterces, or about $35,000, because, it was argued, he could not support the dignity of the office on a less amount. Therefore when a senator's fortune was reduced below this sum he was dropped from the rolls. Under such an arrangement in this country a man like the late Senator Hoar, who lived in a boarding house, would not be eligible.—Punxsutawney (Pa.) Spirit.

A Wise Guy.

In a New York street a wagon loaded with lamp globes collided with a truck, and many of the globes were smashed. Considerable sympathy was felt for the driver as he gazed ruefully at the shattered fragments. A benevolent looking old gentleman eyed him compassionately. "My poor man," he said, "I suppose you will have to make good this loss out of your own pocket." "Yep," was the melancholy reply. "Well, well," said the philanthropic old gentleman, "hold out your hat. Here's a quarter for you, and I dare say some of these other people will give you a helping hand too." The driver held out his hat, and several persons hastened to drop coins in it. At last, when the contributors had ceased, he emptied the contents of his hat into his pocket; then, pointing to the retreating figure of the philanthropist who had started the collection, he observed: "Say, maybe he ain't the wise guy! That's me boss!"

A Point of Interest.

In a certain county of Arkansas a man named Walters was put on trial for stealing a watch. The evidence had been very conflicting, and as the jury retired the judge remarked suavely that if he could afford any assistance in the way of smoothing out possible difficulties he should be most happy to do so. Eleven of the jurors had filed out of the box, but the twelfth remained, and there was on his countenance an expression indicating great perplexity.

"Is there any question you'd like to ask me before you retire?" asked his honor, observing the juror's hesitancy.

The man's face brightened. "Yes, your honor," he replied eagerly. "I'd like to know, your honor, whether the prisoner really stole the watch."—Harper's Weekly.

The Crooked Genesee.

Do you ever stop to think what a crooked old river the Genesee is? It is said that by way of the river it is twenty-eight miles from Genesee to Mount Morris against six miles by the road. It runs along the west side of the valley until it nearly strikes Piffard, then crosses the valley to Genesee, runs on the east side about a mile and a half, then turns and runs back again nearly to the village of Piffard. The two points at Piffard are only about half a mile apart, but to follow the course of the river from one point to the other a person would travel from five to six miles. It is a crooked stream, all right enough.—Livingston Democrat.

PERFUMES.

How the Dainty Odors Are Coaxed From Freshly Picked Flowers.

Glass sheets held by frames a few inches apart are smeared rather thickly with lard, and between these sheets the freshly picked blossoms are scattered, touching the frames, but not being pressed by them. In one day the oil of the flowers exudes, and the lard absorbs the precious drops. If the flowers are plentiful, they may be changed as often as every six hours and in the case of jonquils thirty times. Jasmine is usually changed eighty times before the layers of lard are entirely saturated. When the lard has absorbed as much oil as possible from the flowers, it is melted and dissolved in purified alcohol made from grain. When this mixture is filtered, the concentrated extract may be redissolved in spirits, diluted or mixed with other oils, according to the strength or quality desired.

Attar of roses and neroli, the base of eau de cologne, are made by a different method. The perfume may be extracted by an ordinary process of distillation if a very even heat is maintained, but the usual method is the bain marie. A large kettle of lard is immersed in a tub of water at the boiling point until the grease reaches a uniform temperature and is entirely melted. Into this warm lard the petals of orange blossoms or of roses are thrown. The petals remain a day or less in this bath, and then the inodorous wilted flowers are removed and fresh ones submerged until the mixture attains the desired strength. The women beat the mixture into a cream. After the pomade is made the oil may be shipped in this state or distilled and sold in its concentrated form as attar of roses or neroli or diluted to the strength of "perfume" or eau de cologne.

Twenty thousand pounds of rose petals are required to make one pound of attar of roses, valued at about $200. A thousand pounds approximately of the petals of the flower of the bitter orange are necessary to make a pound of neroli, valued at $20 on an average.—Jane Rosamond White in World Today.

He Wanted a Smoko.

An old Welsh preacher in his eightieth year, who was an inveterate smoker, was one day driving out with his servant, also noted for the quantity of tobacco he consumed.

Suddenly the trap overturned, with the old man underneath, the groom having succeeded in jumping on to the hedge.

A crowd of men by whom the old man was almost worshiped at once rushed to the spot and proceeded to raise the capsized vehicle, believing that the old gentleman was seriously hurt, if not killed.

They had raised one side of the trap when he thrust his head from beneath and addressed his servant: "George, have you got a light?"—London Tit-Bits.

As Many Bald Women as Men.

"Why is it men get bald and women don't?"

At this question the hairdresser laughed.

"My dear sir," he said, "there are quite as many bald women as men—in fact, I incline to believe that there are more."

He pointed to the switches, curls, fronts, fringes and complete female wigs in his window.

"Why would those things exist if women didn't get bald?" he said. "The hairdresser puts in all his spare time in making false hair contrivances, and nine out of ten of them are made for woman. Well, woman wouldn't wear them if she didn't need them, would she?"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Savage Proverbs.

"The proverbs of the savages of Africa are interesting," said an ethnologist. "They are full of color. Here are a few from the Basutos, the Yorubas, the Wolofs and the Pashtos:

"Cross the river before you abuse the crocodile."

"He who unjustly spears another knives himself."

"The mud hippopotamus does not bring forth the gazelle."

"One head impaled on the gatepost is more valuable than six on the shoulders of enemies."

"Kraals built in a day are mud ruins in a week."

The Dragon and the Goddess.

A woman was at a dinner party with an eminent Chinese philosopher when she said: "May I ask why you attach so much importance to the dragon in your country? You know there is no such creature, don't you? You have never seen one, have you?" "My dear madam," graciously answered the great Chinaman, "why do you attach so much importance to the Goddess of Liberty on your coins? You know there is no such lady, don't you? You have never seen her, have you?"

Almost a Lie.

"Good bordig," said the boarder with a bad cold.

"What!" cried the other boarders in surprise and also in unison as they desisted from their burned oatmeal.

Clearing his throat and blowing his nose vigorously, the boarder with the bad cold explained somewhat wearily that he had merely attempted to pass the time of day.

Whereupon the other boarders apologized, saying: "We thought you said 'good boarding.'"

A Hungarian Bull.

It is a mistake to suppose that only Irish members in the British house of commons perpetrate bulls. It was a representative in the Hungarian diet who when hated Austria tried to interfere in local Magyar affairs declaimed passionately, "Gentlemen, the apple of discord has been thrown into our midst, and if it be not nipped in the bud it will burst into a conflagration that will deluge the world."

IN A NEW LIGHT.

How a Different Point of View May Change the Whole Aspect.

Discontent or satisfaction with an subject often depends entirely on the way in which it is regarded. A difference in the point of view changes the whole aspect. This truth is well illustrated by a pleasing little incident of Robert Dale Owen's childhood, told by himself in "Threading My Way."

Near the isolated country seat where I spent my boyhood there was a footbridge but little more than a mile away. For the first ten years of my life I was forbidden to cross it, and until then I never walked on the turnpike road.

One day father told William and me that he would take us to walk over the bridge and to the other side of the river. This was blissful news.

He conducted us by a winding country road up the opposite bank of the stream. Suddenly the view called out my youthful admiration. Across the river appeared a large house standing in beautiful grounds not very distinctly seen through the trees. Spacious gardens were surrounded by walls, there was a large greenhouse, and beyond stretched a meadow.

"Oh," I exclaimed, "what a beautiful house, papa! Don't I wish I could live there! What a time we could have!"

My father smiled. "We are going to live there, my son," he said.

"Truly, papa?"

"Yes."

"Oh, I am so glad! There must be plenty of nuts there."

"You have never seen the house before?" asked father.

"Of course not. We have never been here before."

"True. Take a good look at the grounds. What do you think of them?"

I did so and announced they were much larger and finer than ours.

"My child," said father, "you are doing what much wiser and older people have done before. You are looking from a distance at a beautiful place with envious eyes. It is a very pretty place. It is Boxfield, your own home, where you have lived all your life."

Cayenne Pepper For Mice.

Cayenne pepper sprinkled freely in cupboards and shelves which mice are known to frequent will aid considerably in preventing them from spoiling garments, shoe leather, papers, etc. Lumps of camphor placed among clothes are also most useful as a means of scaring away mice, while books, especially when these are put away in shelves or boxes, should always be protected from possible depredations by interspersing the layers of books with small camphor bags.
