SCHOOL SUPTS. AND PRINCIPALS OF EASTERN N. C. HOLD MEETING HERE.

Ex-Governor Jarvis Addressed the Body at this Morning Meeting—Meeting Helpful to Educators.

In the office of Superintendent Smith, of the Greenville graded schools, there was held Friday night one of the most important meetings of educators that has ever met in Eastern North Carolina. The superintendents present were: Chas. L. Coon, Wilson; W. V. Boyle, Rocky Mount school; H. B. Craven, New Bern schools; Harry Howell, Washington schools; J. I. White, Aulander schools; Z. D. McWhorter, Mt. Olive schools; Jno. D. Everett, Robersonville school; W. H. Ragsdale, Pitt county schools; H. B. Smith, Greenville schools; E. M. Rollins, Farmville school; W. H. Cole, Grifton school; L. C. Borden, Kinston school; H. H. McLean, principal of Washington schools; Fred Archer, principal Wilson schools; N. W. Walker of the department of pedagogy, University of North Carolina.

The meeting was presided over by H. B. Smith, and was somewhat informal in its nature. Reports were given by each man present, and by means of many questions asked by the different men present, the best of every school represented was fully explained. No little good will undoubtedly come from these reports, as it brought out and set in bold relief the best that the eastern towns and cities have.

The question that seemed uppermost in the minds of the masters was the States' high school system. Prof. Walker, of the University, spoke at some length on the subject, explaining the entrance requirements of the University, and especially the new unit system, as prepared by the Carnegie Foundation for the Betterment of Teaching.

Some opposition was expressed to raising the entrance requirements of the University and the colleges. The superintendents expressed themselves as feeling confident that they were carrying the boys of their schools just as far as their equipment, money and teaching force would permit. They assured Mr. Walker that it would never do for the University and the colleges to make the entrance requirements too advanced, as the people are not willing to be forced to graduate their boys at the graded schools, then be forced to send them to a private high school to prepare them for college entrance.

The morning session began at 9 o'clock. Supt. J. A. McArthur of Ayden was the only recruit to the list of attendants.

The first speaker was Ex-Gov. Jarvis, who spoke on the Eastern Training School. Gov. Jarvis reminded the superintendents and principals that in the lively contest among the towns the State Board of Education had established the school at Greenville. That it is the purpose of the Board of Trustees to erect beautiful and substantial buildings of the best type. He expressed his strong faith in the future of the school, saying that it has a great work to do for the State, and especially for Eastern North Carolina.

The next speaker was Prof. E. C. Brooks of Trinity college, editor of the North Carolina Journal of Education. Mr. Brooks is always an interesting speaker, and his talk was closely listened to this morning. He pointed out the fact that the course of study, so troublesome to many schools, is really an easy matter after all. That all courses except a commercial course is now recognized and accepted by the colleges and the University.

Mr. Coon of Wilson discoursed the schools for the colored race. He said emphatically that the best school for the negro race is a school that will bring them upon a higher and a better plane of existence. Cooking, sewing, housework, in fact a miniature home would be one of the best things for them.

Many practical problems were dealt with, and the meeting has been a highly interesting and most successful one.

The last session was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The visitors will leave on the afternoon trains for their homes.

DEATH OF MR. B. M. WILLIAMS.

Falkland, N. C., Mar. 19, 1908.

To the Editor:

Our entire community was greatly shocked with sudden death of Ben May (usually called Mabe) Williams.

He was a devoted member of the society of Red Men, and attended the lodge at Falkland on the night of the 12th. He held one of the most important offices. During the meeting he delivered an address which was greatly complimented by the members.

After the adjournment, and whilst the brethren were still congratulating him for his eloquent speech, he was stricken with paralysis, or apoplexy. They could not get an immediate physician, there not being one at Falkland now. His brother-members did all they could for him. He considerably rallied, and became cheerful. They took him home, but alas! at 3 a. m., on Friday the 13th of March, he had another attack, and passed away as softly and as gently as an infant sleeping in its mother's arms.

His body was taken in charge by the Red Men and was buried in the old Williams grave yard on the evening of the 14th.

We never heard more sorrow expressed at the death of a young man. There was a large gathering at the funeral, many said the largest that ever assembled in Falkland township on a similar occasion.

There was also a large attendance of colored people, who seemed deeply impressed.

He was in his 34th year, the youngest of the family, and of the family and with the family, the most beloved.

He leaves four brothers and three sisters, besides his aged father.

His life was gentle, clean and smooth, possessing the retiring diffidence and shrinking modesty of a girl, together with industrious and social habits.

He was kind and forgiving, and scrupulously exact and conscientious in all of his dealings.

He died without an enemy, and without a stain or blemish upon his name. A Friend.

With Our Colored People.

THREE TRAINS TIED UP.

Engine of Log Train Breaks Down and Blocks Track.

There was more trouble Friday afternoon down near the log deck on the Atlantic Coast Line. The log train run out of the siding to the main track below the deck, and as the engine was on a trestle both drive wheels broke and there was a complete blocking of the track. The north bound passenger train due here at 4.21 could not get by and had to stop at the trestle. The south bound train at 6 o'clock met with no better success and had to stop this side. It was late in the night before the track was cleared so trains could pass, and the snow storm gave the crews something disagreeable to work in.

Notice to Material Men.

I wish to call attention of those who may desire to bid for the contract to furnish all or any part of the material for the construction of the building of the East Carolina Training School to the estimate of the quantity and kind of material required sent me by the architects of the work.

PRICK—At least 2,000,000, same should be three fourths hard. One fourth of the brick should be uniform in color, and free from defects impairing their durability and strength and suitable for outside exposed surfaces.

FRAMING LUMBER—Between 250,000 and 300,000 feet of rough framing sizes to be 2"x4", 2"x6", 2"x8", 2"x10", 2"x12" and in lengths of from ten to sixteen feet. Then there will be some pieces 2"x14" as long as 25 feet, but not many.

SHEATHING—There will be in the neighborhood of 100,000 feet of sheathing, same to be surfaced one side, and to be 3" thick (uniform thickness) same to be 6" and 8" wide and lengths from ten feet and over. To be used for rough floors and roof sheathing.

FLOORING—You might also look out for 100,000 feet of first class pine flooring, same should not be over 2 1/2" face, tongue and grooved and 7-8" thick.

SAND—You will want at least 2000 yards of good sharp sand for mortars and plasters.

LATHS, LIME AND CEMENTS—Lime, laths and cements will be by the car load in bags and barrels. Good Virginia or Alabama lime. Cements to be Old Dominion, Atlas, Lehigh, Alpha, Giant or Whitehall.

I trust those who desire to become bidders will remember that this is a cash transaction and that the material is to go into public buildings dedicated to the sacred cause of education, and that they will not try to see how much money they can make out of it but that they try to see how low they can furnish the material and make a reasonable profit out of it.

Thos. J. Jarvis, Ch. Ex. Com.

Social Meeting of Ladies' Aid.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Christian church will hold a social meeting at the residence of Mrs. R. W. King, Tuesday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. Refreshments will be served. Ten cents admission will be charged. All the members of the church and the public are cordially invited. 3 21 2td

Small Wreck.

Thursday afternoon the mixed west bound Norfolk and Southern train had a small wreck near Saratoga. A car loaded with oyster shells was turned over and demolished, blocking the track for sometime.

TRULY A BEAUTIFUL SNOW.

In This Particular it has Not Been Surpassed.

Toward the decline of the day Friday the cold rain turned into sleet, then changed to snow and by night the flakes were falling thick and fast. Notwithstanding the general wetness the rain had left, there was just about the right temperature for the snow to stick, and it clung to trees, wires, fences, houses and everything else on which it fell. Through most of the night it kept snowing.

It was such a beautiful picture that many ventured out to view it under the rays of the electric lights. That was indeed pretty, but not surpassing the scene of splendor under the bright morning sun. It has been the general expression of all that they never saw a more beautiful snow than this.

The snow fall was about 4 inches, and the bright sun today melted it rapidly.

Handsome Sunday School Rooms.

For the last two months the first story of the Memorial Baptist church building has been undergoing an entire remodeling for use of the Sunday school. The work has been completed, and the arrangement for Sunday school work is excellent. Eight new class rooms were constructed, all so fitted with folding and sliding doors as to enable them being thrown into one large auditorium. The workmanship and finish are beautiful. The new apartments will be used for the first time at the anniversary service on Sunday.

False Alarm.

Friday afternoon a burning chimney in South Greenville caused some one to phone to central asking that a fire alarm be given. This threw the town into a bit of unnecessary excitement and sent the firemen and citizens hurrying out through the rain to find out there was no fire.

SATURDAY, MARCH 21, 1908

You can usually count on March doing the unexpected.

Now you can listen out for what has happened to the fruit crop.

The New Bern Sun might include snow balls in its "next stop" list.

This snow right in the midst of our spring weather is a most unwelcome visitor.

Greensboro has been caught napping again, and this time by a female shop lifter.

Hon. B. F. Aycock, of Wayne county, is a candidate for corporation commissioner.

Those who had begun bragging about their early gardens will now keep quiet for a time.

Isn't it too bad? Just as the acquaintance of the coal man had been cut here comes a snow.

If the blizzard nips some of the large crop of budding candidates it may not be such a great calamity.

Mr. Lacy says the statement of Capt. Ashe, that he will not be a candidate for re-election as State treasurer, is a mistake.

Jumping from barefeet one day to sleet the next shows what the ground-hog can do when he takes a notion to root up the weather.

The way candidates for the same offices are fighting and saying things about each other is mean. And the voters are taking account of these things.

A coal bill amounting to $1.88 was the subject of litigation in Mecklenburg county that occupied half a day of the court and enlisted the best efforts of several lawyers.

Some of the doctors are now digging up history to find out what George Washington died of. After they get through with this they might go back a little further and see if they can tell what took Methuselah off.

Some people talk by means of gestures more forcibly than they do through words.—Mt. Olive Tribune.

Yes, one gesture that hands over a dollar is far more effective than a dozen promises to pay by word of mouth.

An article headed "East Carolina Training School" that appeared on first page of Thursday's Reflector was taken from the Scotland Neck Commonwealth and should have been credited to that paper. The proper credit was written on the copy, but the printers overlooked it.

Hard words seldom make an impression on soft people.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsp Notes from a Hustling Town, Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., Mar. 20, 1908
 Capt. D. G. Berry is attending court at Greenville this week as a juror.

Mrs. A. R. Holton and son Jack, were in Ayden Tuesday.

J. R. Smith and Robert Davis went to Snow Hill yesterday.

Wednesday evening Mrs. Trotman, mother of Mrs. D. G. Berry, who is 72 years of age had the misfortune to fall and break her right hip. Mrs. Trotman is not only a very aged lady but has been quite an invalid for some time. Everyone sympathizes with her and sincerely wish her a speedy recovery.

Mumps is now the prevailing epidemic.

There will be services in nearly all the churches next Sunday.

Miss Winnie Burney, from near Centerville is spending the week with Mrs. W. B. Quinerly. Mr. Quinerly is down on one of his farms rusticiating.

Gardening seems to be the order of the day.

The closing exercises of the colored school at this place under the charge of Rev. J. T. Floyd are now in progress and seem to be of much interest to our colored friends.

There have been some 20 or 25 bales of cotton sold on the market here this week. Mr. Jesse Hart sold 15 bales in one lot.

Vogue of Old Novels.

It is not uncommon to hear elderly people lament that no one now reads the books which were popular in their young days, and they will probably add that no living writer can for a moment compare with the generation of authors that has passed away, by which they generally mean Dickens, Thackeray, George Eliot, Bulwer, Trollope, Bronte, Hawthorne, etc. We have, however, every now and then a report from librarians of large libraries which goes far to disprove the correctness of the complaints of these "old souls" since they show that many of the authors named are still in great demand by the public and hold their own very well alongside of the books which are in favor for the moment, and it was not a little surprising to find that in a table based on those reports "David Copperfield" headed the list with a percentage of 92 and that "Ivanhoe" followed closely with 88.—Charleston News and Courier.

Illustrious Bachelors.

Among the illustrious of the land who passed through life in single blessedness may be mentioned Sir Isaac Newton, Thomas Hobbes, author of the "Leviathan," Adam Smith, the father of political economy; Chamfort, the greatest of French talkers; Gassendi, Galileo, Descartes, Locke, Spinoga, Kant, Bishop Butler, the author of the "Analogy," Bayle, Leibnitz, Hume, Gibbon, Macaulay, Buckle, Pitt, Charles James Fox, Leonardo da Vinci, Raphael, Michael Angelo, Sir Joshua Reynolds, the artist Turner, Handel, Beethoven, Rossini, Mendelssohn and Meyerbeer.

A Servian Custom.

A traveler through Servia will often notice dolls hung up inside the cottage windows. His first idea is one of surprise that the children should so often choose this particular spot to store their toys, but presently he learns that the dolls are put up as a sign to announce to wayfarers that a marriageable daughter dwells in the house. The idea is to remind acquaintances from other villages who may have forgotten her existence. This custom is naturally confined to peasants, but nearly every house has a wreath of corn ears hung up on the outer wall. This wreath is brought back from the harvest festival, and there is a superstition that if it be stolen a daughter of the house will shortly be married. Where this is particularly desired care is taken to suspend the wreath well within reach of possible marauders.

Not True Love.

Grace (to her bosom friend, who is caressing a bear eyed poodle)—I hear your engagement with Fred has been broken off.
 Bertha (with a sigh)—Yes, I found that his love for me was not the deep, true love which nothing on earth can change, so I was compelled to let him go.
 Grace—Why, how did you find it out?
 Bertha—Easily enough. He got so angry every time poor Flossie bit him.—London Mail.

A Perverted Inscription.

At Magus Muir, near St. Andrews, is a monument to Archbishop Sharp, marking the spot where he was slain—a saevus inimicus. Some descendant of the covenanters objected to the inscription and chipped off the top bars of the E, making the inimicus "salvis," which, in view of the failure to bring them to justice, is not far from the truth.

It will be readily seen that "Slain by 'cruel' enemies," as the original inscription implied, bears a very different meaning from the perverted reading, which may be translated, "Slain by 'uninjured' enemies."

Thought He Was Home.

A German merchant's wife complained to a friend recently: "If only my husband were not so absentminded! The other day when we were dining at a restaurant the waiter brought him some bad fish, and all of a sudden Fritz threw the whole thing, fish, plate, bread, all at my head. I was ashamed!"—London Scraps.

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol For Dyspepsia: "E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sirs—I have suffered more than twenty years from indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of corn bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 25 lbs; in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time, when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and I was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping that humanity will be benefitted. Yours very truly, Jake C. Moore, Atlanta, Aug. 10, 1914." Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.
