PROHIBITION CAMPAIGN IS HERE. OPENS AT WINTERVILLE AND REEDY BRANCH.

Dr. J. M. Parrott of Kinston In Two Excellent Addresses Declares for Prohibition and its Influences.

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock as heretofore announced a prohibition rally of all the Sunday schools of the town was held in the auditorium of Winterville High School. The large hall was filled, and after several selections of temperance songs by the choir, Rev. C. W. Blanchard, of Raleigh conducted, the devotional services.

Then Rev. T. H. King very fittingly introduced Dr. J. M. Parrott as speaker of the occasion. The doctor was feeling well and in one of the most convincing and argumentative speeches ever delivered here, he held his audience at his own will. He took up the arguments offered against prohibition and answered them in such a strong manner that any rational man could plainly see their fallacy.

He mentioned (1.) Freedom. Some argue that any man has the right to do as he pleases, that it is no body else's business what he follows. Why does the law forbid men from carrying pistols? Because it means harm to some one else. Why does the law stop the rum seller? Because his business is not confined to himself. It means injury to others. Citizenship is growing higher. Alcohol lowers citizenship, therefore it should be stopped.

(2nd.) The Doctors and Druggists No fear of doctors need be anticipated for the doctors of our state today are among its most highly honored citizens. Out of the seven state medical examiners, five are officers of the church, and two of them are trustees of Wake Forest College. Only the other day the board rescinded the license of a doctor for misdemeanor in our state, thus showing the high toned sentiment among the profession. Even if the doctors should all become rascals and write prescriptions where there is no necessity, every druggist must produce an open record of every prescription filled subject to the examination of the public. The doctor in Charlotte who is reported to have filled so many prescriptions has no standing in the profession.

(3rd) That Prohibition will not prohibit. Murders occur almost every day some where in the state. Why not do away with criminal law? If prohibition does not prohibit, why are the whiskey drummers scared? A gentlemen visited Vanceboro last Saturday and saw a great number of drunk men, while on the Saturday before that, he was at Oriental a dry town and every man he saw was cool sober. It will prohibit if it is supported by a clean and decent public sentiment.

(4) What is the effect on business? Where is the merchant that it will hurt when the money that is turned loose in the barrooms for liquor comes to them for food and clothes? Where is the manufacturer that it will hurt when the more goods are consumed the greater will be the demand? The poorest section in North Carolina today is the section comprising Edgecombe, Pitt, Martin, Beaufort, Greene. Not because the soil is poor, nor that the people are not good people, but because nearly all the barrooms in the State are located in these counties. Even with the excellent educational system that is in these counties, they are many years behind the piedmont section in general development. Compare Mecklenburg county with one of these in wealth and general development.

(5th.) The effect on schools. Take Winterville High School, Buies' Creek Academy and Mars Hill. What schools are doing better work than these and yet they are not supported by whiskey money, besides scores of others in the state. We pay in North Carolina from two to five dollars to run our courts to one dollar to run our schools. North Carolina pays twenty million dollars per year for whiskey while she pays the sum of two and one half million dollars for education. Maine has prohibition and she has one of the finest educational systems in the United States and not a penny of it comes from whiskey. If all our educational revenue came from whiskey, we could not afford to do otherwise than cut it off, for it will never do to educate our children on blood money. The rural districts of our state have made wonderful advancement since liquor has been removed from them.

In the afternoon he made another strong speech at Reedy Branch church to a large audience. Ex-Governor Jarvis was present and introduced him.

The governor is chairman of the prohibition forces in Pitt. Under his management we may expect to see things hum for the next month and a half. We hope that Dr. Parrott may be secured to make several other addresses in the county like those he made here Sunday.

Orphans' Concert Tour.

We have been informed that the Oxford Orphan Asylum singing class of 1908 begins its tour of the eastern section of our State on April 14. This first tour will close about June 20. Near the last of July the western will begin.

The noble institution represented by this class is rightly held in high esteem by the people of North Carolina. It is now caring for 315 of the homeless, orphan children of the State. These children are being trained for useful lives.

Since its establishment in 1872 about 2,450 girls and boys have received its benefits.

The concerts are in themselves attractive indeed. The program this year will certainly be one of the best ever rendered.

We bespeak for this most worthy enterprise the even increased support of all of our people.

Series of Meetings.

A protracted meeting will begin next Sunday in Jarvis Memorial church. Preparatory to this meeting the women of the church will observe this as a week of prayer, holding a service at 4 o'clock each afternoon at the following places: Tuesday with Mrs. E. A. Moyer, Jr., Wednesday with Mrs. J. B. Cherry, Thursday with Mrs. R. M. Hearne, Friday with Mrs. Wiley Brown. There will also be prayer meetings by the congregation in the church on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights at 7.30. The pastor extends an invitation to all Christians in the community to participate in the meetings.

Sunday was almost a summer day.

MISS A. M. PERKINS DEAD.

A Sweet Christian Life Exchanges
Earth for Heaven.

Sunday morning about 7 o'clock the spirit of Miss A. M. Perkins took its flight from earth to heaven. In the death of this good woman, possibly one who would be declared by all the sweetest Christian character in the community, passed away. And it seems so fitting that a life like she spent on earth should appear in the presence of her risen Savior on a beautiful Sabbath morning.

Miss Perkins was only a few weeks less than 80 years of age. For 56 of these years she had been a member of the Baptist church, and her chief joy was devotion to the church and her Master's service. Even after being deprived by affliction of the privilege of attending church, her sick room was almost a place of worship, for to be in her presence and hear her speak of Christ's goodness and love was an inspiration. She was constantly like one standing on the threshold of glory, only waiting the summons to bid adieu to the scenes of earth and cross over the river to be in the home of the redeemed.

About 15 years ago she fell on a frozen sidewalk and sustained a broken hip, never walking a step afterward. The suffering through the years following this accident was borne with patience and without murmur. No storm of trial, no tempest of sorrow, no pain, no suffering could weaken her faith in Christ, for she was as one whose hand rested in His and could say "I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day."

She leaves one brother, Mr. J. J. Perkins, quite a number of relatives and a great host of friends. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. E. Ayscue in Memorial Baptist church at 4 o'clock this afternoon, interment following in Cherry Hill cemetery. The pall bearers were:

Active—Messrs. J. S. Smith, J. C. Tyson, R. A. Tyson, W. H. Ragsdale, D. J. Whichard, R. C. Flanagan, J. L. Starkey, D. L. James. Honorary—Messrs. J. J. Cherry, W. H. Bagwell, C. D. Rountree, G. F. Evans, L. W. Lawrence, T. R. Moore.

Roll of Honor.

The honor roll of district number 7, Contentnea township, for the five months term ending March the 28th is as follows.

1st grade, Lucy Moore, Jesse Baker, Joe Baker, Walter Loftin and Ryan Ellis.
2nd grade, Bessie Branch, Sudie Baker and Emma Loftin.
3rd grade, Mabel Moore, Dollie Worthington, Ruby Worthington, Lauria Ellis and Dewey Harrington.
3th grade, Stella Harrington, Vermella Worthington, Lloyd Ellis and Sammie Worthington.
5th grade, Lottie Ellis, Rosa Branch, Hennie Tucker and Bobbie Harris.

Lottie Ellis made the highest average. Delia Smith, Teacher.

All those who will join the drum corps are requested to meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the office of Maj. H. Harding. The drums have arrived and it is desired to organize and begin practice at once.

Rev C. M. Anderson Dead.

Mrs D. D. Haskett received a telegram Sunday morning bearing the sad intelligence of the death of her father, which sad event occurred Saturday night at 8.30 o'clock in Morganton.

Mr. Anderson was quite ill with grippe in December and on the first day of the new year Mrs. Haskett was called to his bedside. She remained with him three weeks. During this time he recovered somewhat, and continued to improve until a few days ago he took cold, which resulted in pneumonia. The Rev. Charles Moorman Anderson was a member of the Western N. C. conference M. E. church, South. He preached more than twenty-five years, but about twenty-five years ago while stationed in Greenville he contracted sciatica. Since that time he has been on the superannuated list of the conference. He was in his eightieth year.

Mr Anderson leaves 3 children, Mrs. Haskett, of Greenville; John L. Anderson and Mrs. Giliam, of Morganton, his oldest son, Rev. H. B. Anderson having passed away a year ago.

SPECIAL SONG SERVICE.

Large Congregation in Jarvis Memorial Church.

The usual preaching service was varied in Jarvis Memorial church, Sunday night, and there was a special song service by the choir that was a delight to the very large congregation. Good music is a helpful part of the worship, it is inspiring, uplifting, and that the people appreciate it is shown in larger attendance than ordinarily when it is known good music may be expected.

Those who went out Sunday night expecting much were not in the least disappointed, for the choir never did better work than at this service. It clearly shows that Greenville has good musical talent, and that Miss Gaston, who has charge of the Methodist choir, is a skilled instructor.

The following program was rendered, and each selection was so excellent that we do not select any of them for special comment:

Organ Voluntary.
Anthem—"Bless the Lord."
Hymn 57.
Prayer and Response.

Solo—"Dream of Paradise"—Miss Helen Forbes.

Scripture Lesson.
Gloria Patria.
Anthem—"King of Love."
Hymn 50.

Solo—"I heard the Voice of Jesus."—Mrs. Cherry.
Trio—"God is Love."
Anthem—"My Dear Redeemer"

Quartet—"Protect us through the Night."
Offertory.
Anthem—"As Mount Zion."

Hymn 38.
Doxology.
Benediction.

Miss Gaston was also to have sung a solo, but during the service Mrs. Warren, who was to play her accompaniment, was taken sick and had to leave the church, necessitating the omission of this solo which all regretted.

Two Boys Saved From Drowning.

Saturday afternoon two little sons of Mrs. Magzie Hammond went down about the river to play. One of them while wading in the edge of the swollen stream stepped in water over his head and could not get out. His brother went to the rescue, but he likewise found the water too deep and got in beyond his depth and could neither get himself out nor save his brother. Mr. Milton White happened to be passing and seeing that both boys were about to drown he jumped in the river and saved them.

If all attempts at bomb throwing could end like the one in New York, Saturday, it might put a stop to this anarchistic practice. A lot of unemployed foreigners were holding a meeting in that city and the meeting developed into a riot. The bomb exploded in the hand of the would-be assassin, severely wounding him and several of his companions.

RANDOM REFLECTIONS.

(By a Contributor.)

St. Patrick is gradually becoming Americanized.

A Western bishop advised old maids to "pray for husbands." Whose husbands?

Taft laughed when he met Hughes in New York. However, he who laughs last, laughs best.

Australia wants President Roosevelt to visit that country. Everybody wants to see the "big stick".

New York clerks don't mind bidding for a million dollars worth of bonds on the security of a postage stamp and a package of nerve.

The Chicago boy, who sentenced a boy to the navy was almost as bad as Gov. Jeff Davis, who released a negro from the Arkansas penitentiary and sentenced him to Boston for life.

Senator Foraker fears that in the near future he will have to resume saying "May it please the court." And all because he refused to say "May it please the president and his friends."

The Atlanta Georgian has become unduly excited over the report that the Philippines have a tribe of wild men who are poets. Possibly they are merely wild because their manuscripts are continually rejected. We have some of those in this country, too.

FISH THAT GLOW.

Some Deep Sea Creatures Able to Shed a Phosphorescent Light.

The inhabitants of the ocean vary in many respects, according to the depth at which they live, but most of all in their powers of vision. Fish that live at very great depths have either no eyes at all or enormously big ones. There are two methods of getting about in the gloomiest abysses—by delicate organs of touch and by sight—that collect the few rays of light due to phosphorescence or other accidental sources.

The fish which live near the top of the ocean have smaller eyes than those say eighty fathoms down. One hundred and twenty fathoms deeper, where daylight disappears, the eyes are bigger still. Beyond the depth of 200 fathoms small eyes prevail, with long feelers to supplement them.

At this depth, in fact, sight is practically useless. In the greatest abysses the fish are usually blind, feeling their way about solely by means of their sensitive bodies. Some indeed show signs externally of having once possessed eyes, but that is all.

In others—the oldest and most confirmed abysmal species—the eye has disappeared altogether externally, though traces of it are still to be recognized, embedded deeply in the tissues of the head.

Many deep sea fish have a curious system of hollows in the skull or about the body which hold a kind of phosphorescent slime. Others have round or oval shining opalescent spots, placed on the head or along the body or tail.

All of them are abundantly supplied with nerves, and they are apparently organs for the production of phosphorescent light. If so, such a fish must swim about surrounded by a faint glow, somewhat like that thrown by luminous paint.

One scientist even suggests that these fish may have the power of directing their rays in any direction, like a searchlight.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Devonshire Joke.

A few days ago a Devonshire showman played a practical joke at Barnstable. As the country folk passed his tent they were interested at seeing the following notice: "Come and see the musical dog; admission twopenny." Naturally a good many people paid their twopenny and entered the tent, which was empty save for a big dog wearing a large metal collar, but no "musical dog" was visible. At last impatience mastered curiosity, and one of the audience asked the showman when the performance was going to begin. He seemed much surprised at the question and made for the tent door. Once there and in easy reach of the open ground, he pointed to the dog in the tent, saying: "Why, that's the musical dog. Can't you see the brass band around his neck?"

Peace on Earth.

Have you ever thought seriously of the meaning of that blessing given to the peacemakers? People are always expecting to get peace in heaven. But you know whatever peace they get there will be ready made. Whatever making of peace they can be blessed for must be on the earth here; not the taking of arms against, but the building of nests amid its "sea of troubles" (like the halcyons).

Difficult enough, you think? Perhaps so, but I do not see that any of us try. We complain of the want of many things—we want votes, we want liberty, we want amusement, we want money. Which of us feels or knows that he wants peace?—John Ruskin.

Astonishing Information.

Two men wrote to the editor of a correspondence column of a magazine, Mr. A. asking what to do for teething babies and Mr. C. asking how to get rid of grasshoppers. The editor in answering got the names mixed, so the man asking about babies got the reply:

"If you want to get rid of the little pests cover them up with grass and set fire to it."

And the one who asked about the grasshoppers got the reply:

"If they are teething, give them a warm bath and rub their gums with boneset every day."—Judge's Library.

Easy Practicing.

Mrs. Fizzletop has been making an earnest effort to induce her son Johnny to learn to play the piano. A few days ago Mrs. Fizzletop called upstairs:

"Why aren't you practicing your piece, Johnny?"

"I am."

"You are not. You haven't touched the piano for the last half hour."

"I've been practicing all the same. There are pauses in the march, and I am practicing them over and over until I know them perfectly."—Pearson's Weekly.

LONDON RESTAURANTS.

The Way They Compare With Eating Places in New York.

Money for money, London is far ahead of New York (it is out of sight ahead of Paris) as a middle class dining place. With the half guinea ordinaries no parallel can be instituted. Our prices do not go that high. The seven and six ordinaries we can meet on even terms. — I think that we can give them odds.

But I know of only one restaurant in New York where for 75 cents (the test is not quite accurate) can be had a dinner fairly comparable in quality with the three and six dinners which may be had at a round score of restaurants in London, and even in our dreams of avarice we never get along here to anything that will class with the dinners to be had at half a dozen queer little cribs in Soho for 18 pence; though I will admit that if you are a lusty eater you may have to eat two of those eighteen penny dinners at one sitting really to get your fill.

Wine is not included in these lower prices—in the higher prices it sometimes is, and you drink it at your peril! But even in Soho, if you are careful, and at pretty much all the three and six ordinaries by exercising no more than a reasonable discretion you can get an unpretentious sound wine for a price in keeping with the price of the food.

It is no wonder that all London crowds nightly into this gay, bright region, where it can eat and drink so pleasantly and so cheaply and where it can have, at least in the case of those who continue the economies of Soho and accept the hard benches of the upper circle, a satisfying 3 or 4 shillings' worth of the play.—Thomas A. Janvier in Harper's Magazine.

In Childish Eyes.

The vagueness of the young with respect to the age of their elders is pleasantly illustrated by the early history of a nobleman who once represented a division of Manchester in the English parliament. His mother had a maid who seemed to childish eyes extremely old. The children of the family longed to know her age, but were much too well bred to ask a question which they felt would be painful, so they sought to attain the desired end by a system of ingenious traps. The boy chanced in a lucky hour to find in his "Book of Useful Knowledge" the tradition that the aloe flowers blossomed only once in 100 years. He instantly saw his opportunity and accosting the maid with winning air and wheedling accent, asked inquiringly, "Susan, have you often seen the aloe flower?" — London Mail.

Natural.

There is a stalwart negro in a town of Alabama whose naturally fine singing voice is the feature of the local colored church choir. On one occasion when the singer was suffering from a protracted illness one of the deacons called to ascertain how the patient was "gittin' on."

"He's got an awful bad cough jest now," explained the singer's wife, with a most mournful sigh.

"Well, dat's too bad; dat's too bad!" exclaimed the deacon, casting about for some means of consolation. Then a happy thought struck him. "Come to think of it," he added, "it ain't no wonder, wif dat strong voice he was pressin' on his lungs. He's shore due to have a cough now an' then, ain't he?" — Harper's Weekly.

No Reply.

A curious person of a certain town who loved to find out everything about the new residents espied the son of a new neighbor one morning in a doctor's office.

"Good morning," he said. "Little boy, what is your name?"

"Same as dad's," was the quick reply.

"Of course, I know, little boy, but what is you dad's name, dear?"

"Same as mine, sir."

Still he persisted, "I mean what do they say when they call you to breakfast?"

"They don't never call me. I allus gets there first. See?" — Ladies' Home Journal.

The Graveyard of Great Lakes.

The great basin between the Rocky mountains and the Sierra Nevadas is the burial ground of a multitude of dead lakes. Buried with them are the skeletons of creatures that lived upon the earth and in its vanished waters long before man came into the world. Rivers still flow down to the dry edge of these one time great reservoirs and are licked up by evaporation and the chinook winds. Of all the lakes that once lay there only Great Salt Lake, Lake Tahoe and Bear Lake are left. The Southern Pacific rolls for 165 miles across the bed of what was once Lake Lahontan.

THE FOOD QUESTION.

Never Eat Quite as Much as You Think You Want.

The Romans said, "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow you die." And their banquets quite equaled those of the American millionaire of this twentieth century. They ate, and the Roman empire died. But we of America choose to live and to live long and to live well. And so the maxim of today is, "Eat less and be merry anyhow."

Why eat less? Simply because as a nation we eat too much. Thirty years ago 50 per cent of the diet was meat. Today it has diminished to one-third.

"Never eat quite as much as you think you want" is the continual advice of a learned physician to the young man who would gladly be a Roman if he could.

More and more among leaders in life is the question of nutrition receiving attention. Rheumatic people learn to do away with a meat diet absolutely. So great is the relief that sweets and other questionable but much liked articles of diet soon follow. And, while the prohibition and restrictions sound hard of practice, persons do it daily and always say that they don't care. Oddly, it is the women who are the more likely to complain in the beginning.

It may seem a long stretch to say the food question can affect international politics. Yet because the laboring classes of other nations eat less their living is cheaper and they work without sacrifice for a lower wage than our republican born men.

The American laborer is fond of things fried and of pies. He eats heavily during the noon hour, not stopping to realize that he has fed his furnace with noncombustible stuff that brings unnecessary effort upon the digestive system. The foreigner at his side eats more sensibly—somehow the older nations have learned and not taught—and the foreigner is more "fit," more contented. He is teachable, and his work is good. He costs less money, and therefore the international problem. — Philadelphia North American.

He Would Spoil the Piny.

The christening of the bairn has been an event in the life of many a fond father, but it seldom happens that the bairn plays a conscious part. A clerical friend told me of an exception the other day.

A son was born to a seafaring member of his congregation while he was in foreign parts, and at his request baptism was delayed till he could return to stand sponsor for his child.

He did not return till the boy was two years old, and for that reason the ceremony took place in the vestry. All went well until the sprinkling took place, when the father noticed the minister sprinkle more than his face.

He convulsed the company by saying in a hoarse whisper:

"Thou'lt catch it, my man! That was a clean piny this morning." — London Tit-Bits.

Odious Comparisons.

"Ask me anything else you like," said the brown eyed girl, "but don't ask me if I think that girl across the hall is pretty. I can't tell you. I have been asked that before, and I've honestly tried to tell, but always I got myself into a scrape.

"The trouble is the girl looks like me. If I say she is pretty, then other people who notice the resemblance—and everybody is sure to notice it—get down on me. They say: 'Oh, the conceited thing! What an obvious way of praising herself!' If I say she isn't pretty the girl across the hall hears about it and abuses me for a spiteful, envious wretch. Of course I really do think—but, no, it's no use to ask me, for never again can I be induced to say what I think." — New York Press.

No Use For Them.

An old North sea skipper who was asked to buy a number of life belts for his vessel's use waxed eloquent in the sublimity of his contempt. "Take 'em away!" said the old "salt." "Don't let me see such longshore rubbish on my decks. I don't want no life belts, nor no smelling salts, nor no eau de cologne, nor no feeding bottles or fans aboard of me. Them as sails in my ship has got to stick to her as I do, and if she goes down, why, I expects them in duty bound to go along with her." — Pearson's Weekly.

The Story of a Picture.

It is said that a French painter one day visited the Salon in Paris in company with a friend who was a member of the committee of selection and who had been instrumental in securing the acceptance of the painter's work. When the artist came near his picture he exclaimed: "Good gracious! You are exhibiting my picture the wrong side up!" "Hush!" was the reply. "The committee refused it the other way." — London Express.

Where Four States Meet.

It is odd to reflect that it is possible for one to be in four states at the same time. Yet there is one such spot in the United States. Glancing at a map of the United States, one finds an intersection between two straight lines, where Colorado, Utah, New Mexico and Arizona meet. The place is not often visited, as it is not easily reached. The stone erected by government surveyors is on the top of a spur in the Carrizo mountains. The nearest railway town is Mancos, Colo., nearly a hundred miles from the "four corners." The region about was once densely populated by cliff dwellers, but there are now no human beings within miles. Some years ago the Indians destroyed the boundary shaft. It was not replaced until 1904, probably because a long time elapsed before the authorities knew the old one had been wrecked.

Pretty Green.

The conductor had every appearance of being new to the business. The car was well filled with a matinee crowd, and among the passengers was a flashily dressed individual escorting two overdressed young women. The conductor entered, stood before the trio and asked for the fares. The man handed him a dime and a nickel, whereupon the conductor asked:

"Three?"

"No; four," said the sporty chap, smiling.

Four fares were promptly registered, and the green conductor seemed at a loss to know what the passengers were laughing at.—New York Times.

Forks in England.

The enormous ruffs so much in favor in later Tudor times are responsible for the introduction of forks in England. The difficulty of reaching one's mouth when so adorned must have impressed itself very forcibly on everyone, and so the invention of some means of prolonging the reach became an imperative necessity, and thus, as demand usually creates supply, forks came into existence.—Captain G. A. Hope in Grand Magazine.

A Precaution.

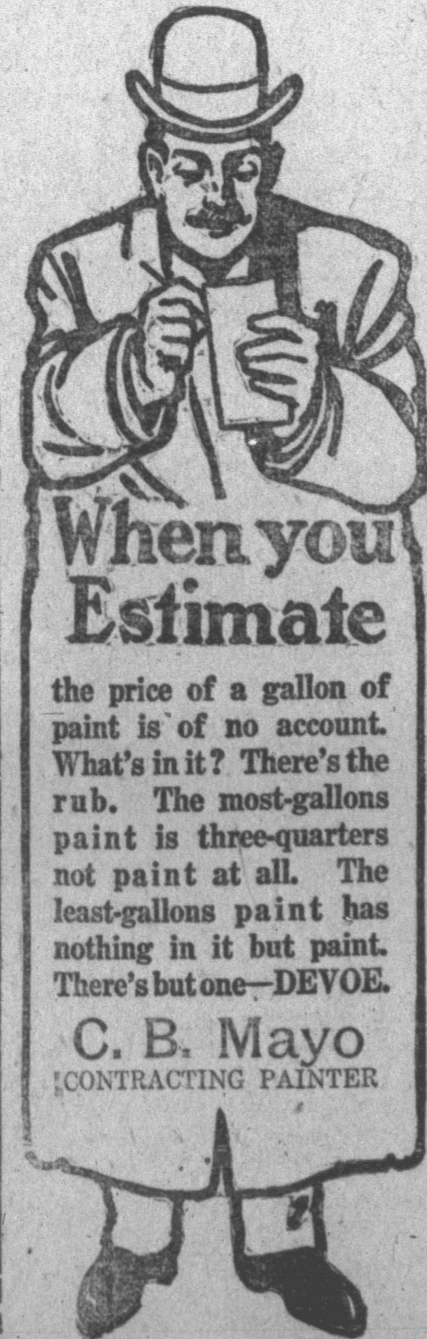

"Good!" exclaimed a Welsh hotel proprietor as a departing guest prepared to photograph the establishment. "I rejoice to see that you take with you one little memento of your visit. It shows you have been happy here. Is it not so?"

"Not exactly," was the morose answer. "I'm taking it to prevent any chance of my making a mistake and coming here again."—London Express.

Our Opening will be held next door to Sam'l T. White on Thursday and Friday, April 2nd and 3rd, where we will have the most exquisite designs in millinery ever displayed in this city.

the price of a gallon of paint is of no account. What's in it? There's the rub. The most-gallons paint is three-quarters not paint at all. The least-gallons paint has nothing in it but paint. There's but one—DEVOE.

DOING THEIR DUTY

Scores of Greenville Readers Are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty.

When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick.

Backache and many kidney ills follow; Urinary trouble, diabetes.

Doan's kidney Pills cure them all.

J. Frank Powell, living in West Tarboro, N. C., says: "I suffered a severe attack of la grippe which left my kidneys in a disordered condition. Standing on my feet so much during the day greatly aggravated the pains in my back, and frequently I was forced to sit down to relieve my trouble. A dull aching across the small of my back kept me in almost constant misery and when ever I attempted to stoop or lift anything sharp shooting pains would dart through my loins. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave me relief in a short time. I have not suffered from backache since, and my kidneys have been regular in action. I am pleased to recommend this excellent remedy to other sufferers."

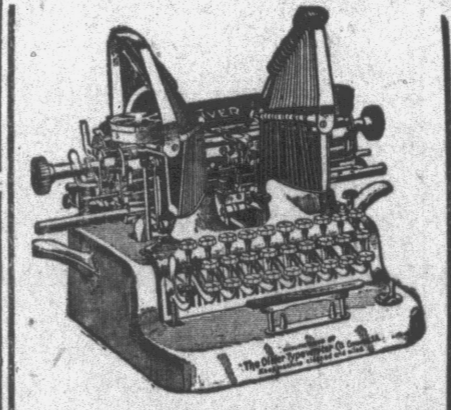

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents.
