A SPLENDID SHOWING.

Made in Building and Loan Annual Statement.

In our advertising columns will be found the annual statement of The Home Building & Loan Association for the year 1907. People familiar with the working of building and loan associations will be impressed with the fine showing of this statement. The Home Building & Loan Association will not be two years old until May, therefore the statement made covers its business for only twenty months. That it could make loans above $31,000 in that time gives an idea of the good it is doing in helping people build homes. In the three months since the period covered by the statement several thousand dollars more have been loaned to share holders. It is an institution of which Greenville should feel proud.

"Prohibition" Fifty Years Ago and Today.

This is not the first wave of prohibition that has swept over the country. Fifty-four years ago there was one that swept over the northern States with as great violence as the one that is now passing over the South. Then Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Delaware, Michigan, Indiana, and Iowa, by acts of their legislatures, forbade the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage. Nine northern States went "dry" in a single year, the year 1855.

The liquor men, dazed and frightened at the revolution, set themselves desperately to resist it: By one pretense or another there was widespread nullification of prohibition. One State after another receded from its radical action, until nearly all adopted the system of license. So that, up to a year ago, of the eighteen States that had tried the experiment of prohibition only three,—Maine, Kansas, and North Dakota,—remained in the ranks, they having adopted constitutional prohibition.

Will the present prohibition legislation be ephemeral like that of half century ago or will it be permanent? There is every reason to believe that it will be permanent. There were more elements of permanency in the earlier movement than appeared on the surface; for during all the years that the states were falling out of the prohibitory column the people were steadily removing the saloon by "local option," till at the time there were but three prohibition States left the liquor traffic had been abolished from two-thirds of the territory occupied by one-half of the population of the United States. Of the 36,000,000 people who have expelled the saloon only 10,000,000 have done so by State prohibitory laws, and 26,000 have effected the removal by local option.—From "The Nation's Anti-Drink Crusade," by Ferdinand Cowie Iglehart, in the American Review of Reviews for April.

Ingletarre Butter.

Thursday Messrs. O. L. Joyner and E. N. Sikes sent down a quantity of fresh butter from the dairy they have established at Ingletarre, and had it placed at the store of T. E. Hooker & Co. for samples of it to be distributed to those wishing to try it. The samples were made in 2-ounce moulds, the butter being as rich and nice as we ever saw. We are sure there will be a ready demand for all the butter the dairy can furnish.

Passing of the Written Manuscript.

The typewriter is greatly harming the business of manuscript collecting, for in the future there will be no more manuscript, everything being typewritten, says the New York Press. Of the authors whose manuscript will ultimately be worth collecting, all, with hardly an exception, use the typewriter. Mr. Howells, Mr. Kipling, Joseph Conrad, H. G. Wells, Bernard Shaw, Mary Wilkins Freeman, Mark Twain—these authors' manuscripts would a century hence be of great value, but they will leave no manuscript behind them. Some collectors propose to regard typewritten copy as manuscript, and to collect it accordingly. But they are in the minority. Their opponents point out that the typewritten matter may not even have been typed by the author himself, but by his secretary or wife, so that it has really no greater value than so much printing.

Boxes Closed.

Many patrons of the local post-office found their boxes closed today through failure to pay the box rent in advance as the regulations require. There were 85 of the boxes thus closed, the largest number ever noted at the beginning of a quarter. The failure to pay was due mainly to the oversight or neglect of the renters, but that does not relieve "Uncle Sam" from the necessity of complying with postal regulations. There was a hustling to get receipts today when the "closed" stared through the front of the boxes.

Died.

Mrs. M. A. Gay, aged 78 years, died Wednesday morning at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. R. R. Fleming, in Pactolus. The burial took place Thursday morning.

WITH THE ALDERMAN.

Business of the Regular Meeting—Another Resignation.

The board of aldermen met in regular monthly session Thursday night, six of the members being present.

There were no reports of interest from any of the standing committees of the boards.

The street committee was instructed to investigate and remedy the drain in front of the lots of J. B. White and O. W. Harrington, on Greene street, about which complaint had been previously made.

The Norfolk & Southern railway was granted permission to run a track across Dickinson avenue from their depot to the building being erected by F. V. Johnston.

The water and light commission recommended that a light be placed at the Norfolk & Southern railroad crossing on Ninth street.

J. I. Baker was granted license to conduct a market in Perkins-town.

The report of the different officers for the past month were presented and approved.

The treasurer was instructed to transfer $1,988.84 to the sewerage fund and $25 to the colored cemetery fund, balance due out of the general fund.

Alderman Johnston was appointed to get some one to put the steam fire engine in good order.

J. S. Corbett was released from poll taxes for the year 1907.

A communication was read from O. E. Warren offering to take charge of the cemetery and keep it in thorough condition during the summer months for $25 per month, and referred to the cemetery committee.

Alderman G. J. Woodward tendered his resignation as one of the members of the board for the third ward. The resignation was accepted and E. B. Higgs was elected to succeed him.

A resolution was offered and adopted ordering that members who absent themselves from regular or special meetings of the board shall be sent for by an officer and attendance enforced.

The treasurer was instructed to pay orders signed by Alderman W. A. Bowen for street accounts.

Accounts were presented and ordered paid amounting to $882.30.

Bank of Robersonville Pays 10 Per cent. Dividend.

Mr. J. W. Ferrell, one of the directors of the Bank of Robersonville went to Robersonville Thursday to attend a meeting of the board of directors. He tells us that the stockholders were paid a cash dividend of 10 percent. The bank is two years old, and while this is the first dividend it has declared, more than $6,000 has been placed to the surplus. It is a splendid showing for a young institution in time of money panic.

Dr. Parrott at Elm Grove.

We are glad to announce that Dr. James M. Parrott of Kinston will speak on Prohibition at Elm Grove Church near Mr. R. H. Garris at 3:30 p. m., second Sunday in April it being Sunday April 12th 1908.

We hear Dr. Parrott's address at Winterville and at Reedy Branch spoken of very highly and we are sure he will have a great crowd to hear him at Elm Grove.

It almost felt this morning like winter was coming back.

Passenger Pinned Under Wreckage Orders His Leg Amputated.

St. Louis, Mo., April 2.—Pinned under wreckage caused by a rear-end collision on the Burlington Railroad today and with steam from a broken engine pipe pouring into his face Horace A. McKittrick, a stock breeder of Brookfield, Mo., directed the amputation of his leg and furnished a dull jack knife with which the work was done. The rough operation was performed by Rev. R. C. Allen, of Grove City, Pa., but it failed of its purpose, McKittrick dying later at a hospital. Four others were injured in the wreck, which occurred near Spanish Lake, where a passenger train crashed into the rear end of a freight train.

Low Rates and Mlage Books v a Seaboard Commencing April 1st.

On April the 1st the Seaboard Air Line railway will put on sale intrastate rates in the State of North Carolina at rate of 2-1-2 cents per mile, and as soon thereafter as possible will issue tariffs governing interstate rates to all points south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers on basis of 2-1-2 cents per mile, it being understood, however, that the R. F. and P. will continue the use of the $3.50 rate between Richmond, Va., and Washington, D. C.

Nash County Youth Meets Death in a Run-Away.

Wilson, N. C., April 2.—News reached Wilson this afternoon that early this morning in Nash county, near Hillardston, Mr. Russell Williams, the sixteen-year-old son of Mr. James A. Williams, ex-deputy sheriff of Nash county, met a horrible death. He was driving a pair of young mules hitched to a wagon when they became unmanageable, running away throwing him out and killing him almost instantly.

Her Turn Would Come.

It is the custom in all parts of Scotland to send invitations when a death occurs in a family to all the neighbors to attend the funeral. A rather grim story once arose out of this. A neighbor had been omitted by the bereaved family in the usual invitations, a feud having arisen between them. On the day of the funeral, while the people were assembling, the slighted old woman stood at her door watching the gathering. At last, unable to bear up any longer under her resentment, she exclaimed:

"Aweel, aweel, we'll hae a corpse o' oor ain in oor ain hoose some day, and syne we'll see wha'll be in-veetit!"—Scottish Nights.

Practical Answers.

An answer given in one of the Cambridge local examinations was particularly bright. The question was in mechanics and was, "Why will a pin not balance on its point?" The reply was: "First, because a point, being that which has no magnitude, cannot stand upon what does not exist; second, it will if you stick it in."

"The people of Herculaneum and Pompeii died from an eruption," was the answer to a question concerning the deaths from the great eruption of Vesuvius in A. D. 79, and an eminently practical answer to a question as to where Magna Charta was signed was, "At the bottom."—London Standard.

If the new hats are dreams to the ladies, the bills may be night mares to the men.

If the paper trust can be beaten the publishers will certainly have something to be thankful for.

Mme. Gould will likely do as she pleases about it, but her first court experience ought to be a sufficient lesson.

The expense they are going to in opening headquarters and employing managers makes it look like the winking candidate will pay for all he gets.

Even some of the Republicans are seeking to gain popular favor by advocating tariff reform. The reform must come about sometime, but we can hardly look for it from the Republicans.

An Englishman claims to have invented an electric cannon that will throw a projectile 800 miles. If his claim comes true, we will all have to take to the woods in case of war with the new guns in use. The flying machine will have to hurry up as a means of safety.

Those anti-prohibitionists who think the farmers as a rule are going to vote with them, will discover their mistake when the ballots are cast and counted on the 26th of May. The farmers of North Carolina are as good as any people in the world; they love their homes, they love their families, they love sobriety and morality, and they are going to vote for prohibition and thus help rid their State of the evils of the liquor traffic.

It really looks as if President Finley has got the better of the argument with Governor Glenn over the new regulation governing the use of mileage books. At any rate President Finley agrees that if after giving it a fair trial it shall be found that the public suffers too great inconvenience thereby, he will take steps to have the rule changed. While it is more than likely, as Governor Glenn says, the public will be inconvenienced, yet for the sake of letting the controversy over the rate matter have a rest and giving business a chance to improve once more, there might be no harm in doing as President Finley suggests and give the matter a fair trial. Less agitation and more business is a crying need now.

The Supreme Court decides in the case of Editor King, of Greenville, who sold his editorial columns to the Norfolk & Southern Railway and who sued it for the contract price, that the transaction is void because contrary to public policy and based on improper consideration, and that there is a distinct difference between advertising and editorial. Chief Justice Clark delivered the opinion.—Raleigh cor, Charlotte Observer.

UP IN A BALLOON.

The Exhilaration That Comes With a Trip Through the Air.

Floating softly up into the blue ocean of air, watching the earth sink slowly away beneath us and fade and change quietly to an immense map spread before our wondering eyes—such are the first impressions of balloon voyagers. The noisy shouts of those who come to wish us "Bon voyage!" become fainter and fainter until absolute quiet reigns about us. It is so still that the ticking of the clock in the barograph is heard noisily counting the seconds as it traces the line of our upward flight across the sheet.

Meanwhile the earth map down below us stretches out larger and larger, but its details are fading and becoming blurred. High hills have changed to flat surfaces. A river winds and bends its way through the duller colors like a tangled ribbon of silver. A small lake sparkles in the sunshine, giving life and fire to the sober shades about it. A railway train creeps slowly along, its trail of smoke streaming back over it. But as we look it suddenly disappears from sight, apparently swallowed up before our eyes. Then we realize that it has plunged into the tunnel through a hill which to us seems only a flat surface. Now it appears again, coming out on the other side.

So the wonderful scenes come and go, ever changing, but ever grand and inspiring—scenes that come back to us real and vivid, that we may live them over again in later days. The cloud effects are at times the most beautiful of all. After having sailed up through these into the dazzling sunlight we see the snowy billows just below our ear, the shadow of our balloon falling upon their white surface. This shadow is often surrounded by a halo of rainbow colors of rare beauty. At such times one has the feeling of having left the earth completely and to have reached some other planet. The white masses just below seem to be quite solid and look as though one might step out of the balloon and take a stroll over them if one only had snowshoes. The air is wonderfully clear and pure and gives one a feeling of exhilaration much greater than that enjoyed in mountain climbing.—Henry B. Hersey in Century.

Where Soldiers Must Swim.

In the Dutch army a man must be able to swim as well as to fight. Moreover, if he is in the cavalry he must have a horse which will take a river as easily as a hunter takes a fence. Swimming maneuvers are part of the regular drill there. Collapsible canvas boats manned by a few oarsmen lead the horses so that they do not attempt to land on stone quays and other difficult points. The men swim across with their horses and on them. They do it in swimming costume and in all the accoutrements of war. There are few nautical emergencies in which the Dutch army is not prepared. Some of the officers have even reached a degree of proficiency that not only their horses and kit cross the river with them, but their pet dogs sit upon their shoulders and are borne over almost without getting wet.—Stray Stories.

Something For Her Neck.

A ludicrous story is told of a young Japanese engineering apprentice in connection with the Christmas custom of kissing. He was serving his time in the north of England and was astonished when a waitress at the dining rooms which he regularly frequented kissed him under the mistletoe. On its being explained to him that a present was expected in return, he suggested a pair of gloves. The damsel, however, had heard that he was immensely wealthy and gently hinted that something for her neck would be more acceptable. When the present arrived next day she conjured up visions of a pearl necklace as she tremblingly undid the parcel. Then was disclosed to her disappointed gaze a Jap's idea of "something for her neck." It took the shape of a bar of soap!—London Standard.

John Smith.

Transferred to other languages, the plain name "John Smith" seems to climb the ladder of respectability. In Latin it is Johannes Smithus; the Italians smooth it off into Giovanni Smithi; the Spaniards render it Juan Smithu; the Dutchman adopts it as Hans Schmid; the French flatten it into Jean Smeets; the Russian turns it into Jonleff Sniftowski; at Canton John Smith becomes Jahon Shimmit; the Icelanders say he is Jon Smithson; among the Pascoraras he becomes Tom Qa Smitin; in Poland he is known as Ivan Schmittweicki; among the Welsh mountains they call him Jhon Schmid; at Mexico his name is written Jontli P'Smitri; in Greece he turns to Ion Sinikton, and in Turkey he is almost lost in Yoc Seef.

Kodol for Dyspepsia has helped thousands of people who have had stomach trouble. This is what one man says of it: "E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Gentlemen—In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. I could not digest anything I ate and in the spring of 1902 I bought a bottle of Kodol and the benefit I received from that bottle all the gold in Georgia could not buy. I still use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic. May you live long and prosper. Yours very truly, C. N. Cornell, Roding, Ga., Aug. 27, 1906. A man can reform from almost any vice but being a politician.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup—the cough syrup that tastes nearly as good as maple sugar and which children like so well to take. Unlike nearly all other cough remedies, it does not constipate, but on the other hand it acts promptly yet gently on the bowels, through which the cold is forced out of the system, and at the same time it always inflammation. Always use Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

The experience you buy is never marketable at one cent on the dollar.

To have perfect health we must have perfect digestion, and it is very important not to permit of any delay the moment the stomach feels out of order. Take something at once that you know will promptly and unfailingly assist digestion. There is nothing better than Kodol for dyspepsia, indigestion, sour stomach, belching of gas and nervous headache. Kodol is a natural digestant and will digest what you eat. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

When a woman has a sense of humor, it's just another of her arts of deception.

The kidneys are delicate and sensitive organs and are very likely at any time to get out of order. DeWitt's Kidney and Ladder Pills are prompt and thorough and will in a very short time strengthen the weakened kidneys and allay troubles arising from inflammation of the bladder. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

With Knife and Fork.

In the middle ages people knew not knives and forks, but ate with nature's implements—their fingers. Later they held the bread or meat in a napkin in their left hands and cut off pieces with a dagger held in the right hand, the food being carried to the mouth on the knife, even in the most polite society. The next development was to have a special eating knife instead of using the dagger, which might have been used for the dispatch of an enemy. Each person kept an eating knife, and when he was invited out to dinner he brought his knife along with him. Forks were used in Venice in 997, but it was not till 1608 that a Venetian traveler, one Thomas Coryate, introduced them into Britain.—London Standard.

Navy Is Never Done.

A navy, like a railroad, is never done. There never comes the grateful moment when the work can be said to be finished and the sole task left to be discharged is that of operation. As the roadbed, track, equipment of a railroad must be constantly maintained and improved, so if there is to be any navy at all equipment must be constantly improved and brought up to date, even under the policy of "replacement and repair."—Boston Transcript.

Royal Crowns.

Royal crowns have tended to become lighter. Thus, one made in the middle ages weighed over seven pounds, that of George IV. weighed five and one-half pounds, while Queen Victoria's crown, containing the great ruby which belonged to the Black Prince, weighed three and one-quarter pounds.

A THING OF THE NIGHT

The Dark and Deadly Mission of the Modern Torpedo.

ALMOST HUMAN IN ACTION.

It Starts Itself, Regulates Its Speed and Depth and Steers Itself to Its Unsuspecting Prey—Diabolical in Its Dogged Determination.

Unseen and unheard, the torpedo is a thing of the night. The gun announces its presence with thunder and flame, but the torpedo steals silently from the side of an unseen craft, and only those who released its deadly energy know that the missile is on its way.

Look at it lying upon the deck, the burnished body glittering in the sun. It is hard to believe that an object only sixteen feet long and weighing 1,200 pounds contains sufficient locked up force to sink a battleship of many thousand tons displacement and cause the loss of hundreds of lives and millions of dollars.

And yet there is a suggestion of tremendous force about the cigar shaped body that looks so threateningly solid and strong. Indeed, the torpedo at once attracts and repels the observer, having much the same effect as a beautiful snake.

Deadly as are its powers, a child could prepare the weapon for its murderous task. Nowadays simplicity is synonymous with implements of war, and man's ingenuity has made it as easy to kill our fellow men as to shell the proverbial peas. So everything about the torpedo works automatically.

Unlike other marvels of machinery, it is not even necessary to press the button. The torpedo presses the button for itself. From the moment it enters the sea it is freed from human interference. It sets itself in motion, regulates its own depth below the surface and even steers itself with a certainty that is almost human.

You can see the steering as you stand upon the deck by watching the double line of bubbles which mark its course, bending first this way and then that, but soon steadying into an unswerving line straight to the distant target.

There is something diabolical in the dogged determination with which this mass of metal refuses to be diverted from its goal.

The little rudders in the tail are always working, keeping the head pointing on its path. One might well imagine that a diminutive man were secreted within those shining walls, so accurately is the missile steered.

Strange as it may seem, this devilish ingenuity, for it is nothing else, owes its being to a child's toy. Think of the incongruity! The most deadly weapon the mind of man has ever conceived owes its practical existence to a "magic top," primarily designed to amuse children.

But such is the case, for here again we find the wonderful gyroscope using its well nigh human intelligence for a sinister purpose.

This terrible ingenuity, however, has one great advantage, and that is in a peaceful direction. Practice can be carried out effectively and without danger. For this purpose the "war head" containing the charge is replaced by a "dummy" filled with wood to bring it up to the exact weight.

Three buoys are usually moored a mile or so away as a target, and the torpedo seems to spring from the vessel like a living thing, eager to reach the center buoy.

Two rows of bubbles streak from the ship in an ever lengthening line. The center buoy heaves slightly as they pass, and several hundred yards farther on the bubbles suddenly cease as a silver head protrudes for a moment from the sea.

Then, with engines at rest, the shining body heaves gently up and down, consciously waiting, as it seems, for the boat to tow it back to the ship. More than this, lest it should be overlooked in a heavy sea, the torpedo breathes a spiral of smoke and flame into the air to show the seekers its whereabouts.

Harmless, as we see, in practice, but think of its powers in war—deadly certainty of action, human intelligence added to superhuman powers working in secret! At any moment a veritable "bolt from the blue" may shatter a great battleship from stem to stern.

Imagine the terrible uncertainty of it all—night following night of anxious watching, long hours passed peering into the darkness to see if a black craft is lurking in the shadows! Every speck dancing before tired eyes constitutes a menace to the weary brains behind.

And then when fears are lulled, since the danger never comes and vigilance is relaxed, a gentle heaving, the prelude to a deafening roar, and the splitting of steel plates and the rushing of water, a brilliant flare in the darkness, the cries of men on the verge of death, and the work is done.

Afterward silence, while the mantle of night closes round again, and under its welcome screen a tiny craft steams in search of another prey, leaving behind only a few floating sparks to mark the last resting place of a mighty battleship and 800 human beings.

Imagine this, and you will know the tremendous moral force locked up within those burnished walls.—Exchange.

It is frequently necessary to repeat a self-evident truth a great many times in order to get it believed.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A USEFUL BUSYBODY.

It Tells Philadelphians Who Is at the Front Door.

If you were to ask the average person what a busybody is the reply would probably be "one who does not mind his or her business." Such a definition would be laughed at in Philadelphia. A "busybody" in Philadelphia is an inanimate object which reveals animate objects. Nowhere in the country are busybodies employed so extensively as in the Quaker City. They are to be found on almost every house, at least on every house of any pretensions.

Unless you have lived in Philadelphia such an explanation would not prove satisfactory, however. A busybody is composed of three pieces of mirror set at three different angles, so that the light reflected from either one of the two angles is reflected into the glass set at the third or opposing angle. The three glasses are arranged on a piece of iron rod so bent and fastened to the lintel of the window in the second story of the building that any person on the second floor of the building can by looking into the topmost piece of glass see what is going on in the street below or who or what may be passing up and down the street without opening the window to look out. The mirrors take the place of bay windows.

The primary object in setting up a busybody is to see who is at the front door or who may be approaching from either side of the building to the door. The topmost piece of glass is tilted so that it will show the front doorstep. One piece of glass is set at an angle to catch a reflection of all that is going on at the right side of the street and another to reflect the approach to the left.

In Philadelphia, where ninety-nine out of every hundred houses are built out to the sidewalk and all houses are built in a line, busybodies become great time savers for housekeepers. If undesirable callers come to the front door the busybody gives timely notice of their approach, and the person sought need not be at home. By keeping an eye on the busybody the woman at her sewing machine can detect the caller the moment he comes within range of the mirrors, and plenty of time is given for prinking.

The busybody is useless on a house which has its front covered with a porch or which sets back from the street.—New York Tribune.

Out of His Line.

Mrs. Chugwater—Josiah, lay down your paper a minute.

Mr. Chugwater—Well?

"If a bolt of lightning should start to travel round the globe from—Josiah!"

"Well?"

"Lay your paper down just a minute and listen. If a bolt of lightning should start to travel round the globe from east to west and another should start and travel from west to east—the way the earth revolves, you know—would there be any difference in the—Josiah!"

"Well?"

"I say would there be any difference in speed? Which bolt of lightning would get around the earth first?"

(Picking up his paper again) "Samantha, do you take me for a lightning calculator?"—Chicago Tribune.

The Chewers.

"Tobacco isn't the only thing chewed," said the cigar store man. "I wish it was. In the far east they chew the betel. They wrap the nut in a bit of leaf, and for seasoning they add a little lime. It's a tart tasting chew, not bad, and it has, like tobacco, a soothing effect. Coffee experts and dealers chew coffee beans, and tea dealers chew tea. Very exhilarating, both chews, but ruinous to the nerves and digestion. Jockeys and trainers chew oats, hay, straw—anything horse. Horse feed makes a cheap and harmless chew. In the spice trade the hands often get the habit of chewing ginger or cinnamon or a clove, but spices are bad for the teeth. Seamstresses chew bits of thread, and athletes chew gum."

Vegetable Ivory.

The plant yielding the vegetable ivory is known to botanists as Phytelphas macrocarpa. It is a native of South America, found chiefly along the Magdalena river, in Colombia. It is a stemless, palmlike plant, the top of which is crowned with from twelve to twenty very long leaves. The fruit consists of a conglomerated head in six or seven sections, the whole being inclosed in a woody covering, forming altogether a globe as large as a man's head. A single plant sometimes bears six or eight of these heads, each weighing from twenty to twenty-five pounds. When young they contain a milklike fluid, which with age hardens until it becomes valuable as a substitute for real ivory.

Deafness Cannot be cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

INFLUENZA.

The Various Forms and Treatment of This Infectious Disease.

Influenza is an exceedingly infectious disease, often confounded with a common cold, but really an entirely different affair. It attacks young adults more frequently than the very old or children, but no age is exempt, especially during severe and widespread epidemics.

An attack confers immunity for a variable period, from a few months to a year, but after that there appears to be an increased susceptibility. Many persons suffer from the disease every year.

Influenza prevails chiefly in late autumn and winter, although epidemics may occur in the summer, especially if the season is cold and wet. The disease assumes one of three special forms, called from the parts chiefly affected the respiratory, the digestive and the nervous. In each case the onset is sudden, with a chill, headache and mental depression, muscular pains, dizziness and high fever. Sometimes there are premonitory symptoms for a day or two, such as lassitude, mental torpor, dull headache and pains in the arms and legs. Soon after the onset catarrhal symptoms—sneezing, running at the nose and watering of the eyes—make their appearance. In the respiratory form these increase in severity, and there are also a cough and shortness of breath. It is not uncommon for this form to develop into pneumonia.

In the digestive form the most prominent symptoms are nausea and vomiting or diarrhea and severe abdominal pains, the first two indicating involvement of the stomach, the second two that the intestines are involved. Sometimes all are present at once, indicating a very severe attack.

In the nervous form the headache is usually intense, and the muscular and neuralgic pains are very severe. Depression, both physical and mental, is a prominent symptom, the despondency often passing into real melancholia and sometimes leading to suicide. Insomnia is a common symptom both during the attack and following it.

Convalescence is tedious, the body regaining its strength very slowly and the mind throwing off its depression only after weeks or months.

The most important part of the treatment is absolute rest in bed. The sickroom is to be if possible on the sunny side of the house, with windows kept open both day and night. The patient should be protected by light but warm bedclothes and by a silk nightcap. The diet should be greatly restricted, especially while the fever lasts, but water should be drunk in abundance. The medicinal treatment naturally varies with the form which the disease assumes and the parts which it attacks.—Youth's Companion.
