HAPPENINGS IN NORTH CAROLINA

SHORT ITEMS OF EVENTS ABOUT THE STATE.

Greensboro Girl Burned to Death—Buster Brown Troup Poisoned by Drinking Milk.

Greensboro, N. C., April 11.—Miss Mamie Coble, 13 years of age, the daughter of Mrs. Flora Coble, was burned to death at her home near Climax Thursday afternoon.

Mattie Whitfield, a colored woman living at Hillsdale, while burning brush in her garden yesterday caught her dress on fire and was burned to death.

Asheville, N. C., April 11.—The members of the Buster Brown, theatrical company were poisoned last night at Spartanburg, S. C., by drinking milk. The company arrived here today on a special train and the sick were taken immediately to the Biltmore hospital. Most of the members recovered this afternoon, but a number of chous girls are still violently ill and were unable to take part in the play tonight.

Queer Case of Trespass.

An unusual case of trespass was tried before Squire Harris Tuesday, in Rocky Mount in which the defendant is a young man who works at the A. C. L. shops at South Rocky Mount, and the trespass consisted in his going to the home of his sweetheart after being forbidden by the father, who objected to his suit for the young lady's hand. Mr. B. F. Weaver, father of the young lady, was prosecutor and the defendant was Willie Joyner. There was no bitterness on the part of the prosecutor, the action being brought in the court rather to show the ardent young suitor that he must respect the father's wishes in the matter. Judgment was suspended on the payment of the cost, but the young man was warned that a fine of $25 would be imposed if he repeated his visit.—Tarboro Leader.

The Meeting.

The meeting conducted by Rev. E. McWhorter in the Methodist church will continue through this week, services being held twice each day. All the services Sunday were largely attended and there was much interest. Mr. McWhorter is a plain Gospel preacher and his sermons are delightful. Those who stay away from the meeting are missing much.

Excursion to Carnival.

Gas boat Eagle will leave wharf at Greenville Wednesday at 4 p. m., sharp, for Washington to take those desiring to attend the carnival. Returning leaves Washington at 12 o'clock, home trip by moonlight. Mrs. R. Greene will act as chaperone for the occasion. Fare for round trip $1.00. A pleasant trip guaranteed. 4-13 2td

Service in Episcopal Church.

Rev. Mr. Griffith will conduct divine services with sermon at the Episcopal church tomorrow (Tuesday) morning at 10 o'clock and in the afternoon at 4 o'clock. The afternoon service will be for the benefit of the children especially to which service all the children of the town are invited, as well as the parents.

Greenville Encampment meets tonight. A full attendance desired.

FIRE IN WOODS.

Reflects Light in Town and Causes Alarm.

There was considerable fire Saturday night in a strip of woods about a mile south west of the town limits. The wind was blowing considerably and for a time the fire threatened to do some damage. W. H. Dail's brick plant, the Greenville Lumber & Veneer Co's plant and the log deck of the Beaufort County Lumber Company, all being in that vicinity. Something like fifty cords of wood Mr. Dail had cut for use at his brick yard was burned and some others lost smaller quantities of wood.

It is said that the way the fire got started in the strip of woods was by a colored man burning off a plat for a potato patch and from this the high wind took sparks to the woods.

A very foolish thing about this woods fire is that some one seeing a light from it caused an alarm to be turned in that for a time threw the whole town into excitement.

Robert L. Little for Register of Deeds.

Editor Reflector:

As the time for nominating candidates for the different county offices is not far distant, we wish to place before the Democratic party of Pitt county, for register of deeds, Mr. Robert L. Little, of Greenville township. He is a young man of energy and ability, and thoroughly qualified to fill the office. He is a man of high moral character, and a hard worker for the Democratic party, and no man in the county will add more strength to the ticket.

The party will make no mistake in honoring him with the nomination. A Democrat.

Office in Wilmington.

Mr. J. Benjamin Higgs, of Greenville, N. C., spent several days in the city this week with a view of opening an office here, for which he has arranged. Mr. Higgs is an extensive merchandise broker and manufacturer's and distributing agent in Eastern Carolina with home office at Greenville and branches at Tarboro and Wilmington. He has some of the largest and most exclusive accounts in the South and makes a specialty of carload lots. He is welcomed to the business community of Wilmington.—Wilmington Star.

Moonshiner Arrested.

A man named John Brinson, for whom revenue officers have been on the lookout for more than a year, was arrested near Ayden Saturday night and was brought here Sunday to be placed in jail. A moonshine still which Brinson was charged with operating, was destroyed by officers late in the fall of 1906, but he made his escape at the time and continued to evade the officers until his arrest Saturday night.

MARRIAGE ON A SMALL SALARY

It Means Premature Old Age for the Woman.

Aside from all theories, all ideality upon the subject, marrying on a small salary has but little poetry in it, says The Designer for May. The fret and strain of keeping within bounds, the needs of the children as they appear within the circle, the pressure of care, of planning to make an inelastic income expand to dimensions it was never intended to reach, are the "little daily dyings of self" that bring the lines of premature age upon the fairest face and ruffle the sweetest temper. There is but one thing that can compensate for fading youth, beauty, and social ambition for which the restricted income is responsible, and that is mutual love—the love that works out in the world for the love at home, and the love at home that works beneath the roof tree because it is worked for, lived for and hoped for above all other women.

Saved by a Laugh.

A professional nurse at Leeds, England, was remarkably successful in the care of patients suffering from smallpox, diphtheria or pneumonia. In fact, she had never lost a patient with one of these complaints. Not long ago, however, she had a pneumonia case which was given up by the physician, much to the nurse's chagrin.

"He can't live through the night," said the doctor.

Sure enough, when the nurse went to give the sick man his medicine he only shook his head. The distracted nurse saw her proud record about to be broken, and she urged the patient to take his dose.

"No use," he murmured.

"Well, sir," said the nurse in despair, "you've got to take it! And if you die I'll kill you!"

Whereupon the patient began to laugh, took his medicine and got well.

An Interested Question.

The young wife of a prominent New York physician teaches a Sunday school class of small boys. One Sunday not long ago, after she had finished telling them the story of Joseph and his coat of many colors, she said:

"Is there any question you would like to ask me before we go on with the catechism?"

"Yes'm," answered little Sammy Eastwood.

"Well, what is it, Sammy?"

"Will you give me a ride in your automobile?"

The question was not answered then, but, as a matter of record, Sammy got the ride.—New York Times.

The Phrase "The Devil to Pay."

"There'll be the devil to pay" is not a very uncommon phrase in the vocabulary of some, occasionally with the addition of "and no pitch hot," which points to the origination of the saying. It is a nautical one, with but little reference to his satanic majesty, coming straight from the shipyard. In talking a ship's deck—that is, in filling the seams between the planks with oakum and afterward pouring pitch over the oakum—the outside seam, being very difficult to work, came to be known as the devil. The technical term for pouring in the pitch was "paying," which makes the whole matter clear.

A Fiji Rainfall.

The astonishing effects sometimes produced by cloudbursts are well known, but not many trustworthy records of the depth of the rainfall during such occurrences exist. The following instance, therefore, possesses much interest: On one occasion during a thunderstorm in the Fiji islands the measured depth of the rainfall in a gauge elevated twenty-five feet above the ground was three feet and one inch. The rain continued thirteen hours, and, owing to unmeasured overflow, the total amount remains unknown, but it is estimated to have been not less than forty-one inches.—Youth's Companion.

QUESTIONS TO ADVANCEMENT.

The Parent Should Never Ignore the Children's "Why?"

It is nothing short of a criminal to turn a deaf ear to the questions of a young child. As it climbs up in its mother's lap, or throws its arms around her neck, its lips invariably frame the same word, the eternal question, "Why?" There is no doubt whatever that according to the quality of her answers will the development of her child progress, says The Designer. With every question that comes from its troubled little heart satisfactorily answered, the child takes a very decided step onward into life. A careless, hurried, untrue answer causes it to fall back baffled and distrustful to a step below the period of mental growth which prompted it to speak.

As children advance, their spirits put forth sturdy shoots toward life, their only true teacher; who stand as go-betweens, have the very serious duty of raining this spiritual output, of helping them to right understanding of themselves, and of showing them how best to utilize the superabundance of energy which is their most beautiful gift.

To-Night.

The Tisdale Amusement Company will present their initial performance at the new "Dixie Theatre" formerly the Acme. The building has been entirely redecorated, remodelled and equipped with the most approved appliances, being the tenth moving picture theatre which the Tisdale Amusement Company has put in operation.

The program which will be presented will be changed entirely every day, the most expensive and beautifully hand colored films will be shown and the latest and most popular New York song successes. The pictures and songs are the same used throughout the famous "Dixie" circuit in Eastern North Carolina. The best and only the best.

We are better prepared to give complete satisfaction, and will spare no pains or expense to keep before the recreation loving people of Greenville, a performance at all times clean, entertaining and strictly high grade.

Special courtesy will be shown to ladies and children, and the patronage of the better element is solicited.

The performance begins tonight at 7:30 and is as follows:

"The Story of the Italian Brigands," showing great daring and bravery.

"Good Luck for the Coming Year," a new year's episode.

"Animated Portrait." This is supremely funny.

"The One legged Man." See what the cripple does.

Mr. Harper will sing—"Sweet Adeline" assisted by beautifully colored slides.

Remember we are here to cater to the best element with the best line of pictures obtainable, and your patronage is solicited.

Admission 5c and 10c. Come and stay as long as you please.

No waits, no delays, continuous. Dixie opens tonight at 7:30 p. m.

Up to Him.

"Look here, my lady," exclaimed the thrifty man to his extravagant wife, "you're carrying too much sail!"

"Why should that worry you?" she retorted.

"Because I have to, raise the wind, that's why!"—Philadelphia Press.

GREENVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

MONDAY, APRIL 13, 1908.

If Senator Elkins is tired of it so soon he should not have started it.

The Bakersville editor might at least write back and say he had done nothing wrong.

As Mme. Gould and Prince de Sagan have taken their departure they may be forgotten for a time.

The Durham Herald has all along been up with the times, but Saturday it got exactly a week ahead.

We hope Olenison college will not turn around and smooth the thing over as quick as the A. & M. college did.

Candidates, or their friends for them, are at mighty small business when they start false reports about their competitors.

Let the candidates, and the voters likewise, bear in mind that the prohibition election comes off first and interest in that should not be side-tracked for office seeking.

A man who was arrested in the city of Charlotte on the charge of vagrancy was able to put up a cash bond of $100. Doesn't look like a man with that much cash in his pocket, if it got there honestly, should be a vagrant.

The Reflector has been called down again, a close observer saying we are off in saying the offices of sheriff and treasurer came in the lead with candidates. It is said there are equally as many out for register of deeds and every mother's son of them is a voter. There will be enough candidates for every office to give fit the liveliest nominating convention it has had in years.

RANDOM REFLECTIONS.

(By a Contributor.)

There are nearly enough Populists left to make a national convention.

President Castro's chip on his shoulder is getting bigger than the shoulder.

Farmer Harrison hopes to harvest quite a good crop of spring railroads.

It doesn't listen to Uncle Sam, Venezuela is going to get hit right on her castro.

The Populist nomination is only enough to enable Tom Watson to crawl for president.

The trouble wagon might as well trot along behind Senator Jeff Davis wherever he goes.

A Carnegie medal for bravery should be awarded to that Arkansas legislator who dared to fire Senator Jeff Davis $25 for disorderly conduct.

Mme. Anna Gould must be a believer in the old adage, "If you don't at first succeed, try, try again," until you get a good count. They are all alike, Anna.

POINTED SKULLS.

Admired by Some Tribes, Which Secure Them by Head Binding.

The egg-shaped heads of some of the natives of Malekula, in the Hebrides, were once thought to be naturally conical. For that reason scientific men decided that the Malekulans were in the lowest rung of the human ladder.

Later it was found that the conical heads were produced as the Christian women distorted their feet by binding them in infancy. The egg-shaped head is still fashionable in Malekula, where some extraordinary results are achieved.

"A conical head," says a writer in the National Geographic Magazine, "retreats from the forehead in such a manner that one is amazed to know the owner of this remarkable profile preserves his or her proper senses, such as they are. I could not hear, however, that the custom was supposed to affect the intellect in any way."

"The conical shape is produced by winding strong sinnet cord spirally about the heads of young babies and tightening the coils from time to time. A piece of plaited mat is first put on the head and the cord is coiled over this, so as to give it a good purchase. The crown of the head is left to develop in the upward and backward fashion that is so much admired."

"One fears the poor babies suffer very much from the process. The child I saw was fretful and crying and looked as if it were constantly in pain. But the mother, forgetting for the moment her fear of the strange white woman, showed it to me quite proudly, pointing out the cords with a smile."

"She had a normally shaped head herself, and it seemed that she had suffered by her parents' neglect of this important matter, for she was married to a man who was of no particular account. A young girl who was standing beside her had evidently had a more careful mother, for her head was almost sugar loaf shaped. It is interesting to know that this well brought up young woman had married a chief."

Poetry, Painting and Furniture.

Rossetti insisted on everybody painting. Books, he said, were "no use to a painter except to prop up models upon in difficult positions, and then they might be very useful." "If any man has any poetry in him," was another saying of Rossetti's, "he should paint, for it has all been said and written, and they have scarcely begun to paint it." A saying, by the way, which may be found also in the third volume of "Modern Painters." Morris obeyed the master and took to painting. Even when Morris took to making furniture that craft was at first regarded under Rossetti's influence as merely a means of providing spaces for pictorial decoration. Morris built some enormous chairs, "such as Barbarossa might have sat in," said Rossetti, who proceeded to paint their backs with subjects from Morris' poems.

Testimony of Eyewitnesses.

"While I was out west," said the man in the mackintosh, "I saw snow-drifts more than 600 feet high."

"I don't doubt it," replied the man with the cinnamon beard. "When I was out there I saw drifts that couldn't have been less than 900 feet deep."

"If you hadn't been in such a hurry to tell a bigger lie than you thought I could tell," rejoined the man in the mackintosh, "I would have explained that the drifts I saw were 600 feet up on the side of a mountain."

"That's all right," said the other. "The drifts I saw were at the bottom of a 900 foot gorge."—Chicago Tribune.

Pig Bone Bracelets.

The natives of the New Hebrides islands, in the Pacific ocean, raise pigs for bracelets. The upper canine teeth of the pigs are removed, and that gives the lower tusks a chance to grow as much as they wish. The lower teeth grow and, finding no resistance, attain a good length. The teeth grow in a spiral, and the tip often lies beside the root of the tooth. Very rarely the point grows into the root of the tooth and makes a complete circle. A complete pig tooth bracelet is a very valuable jewel, which is worn around the wrist or attached to a string around the throat.

What He Should Say.

The south Washington colored preacher paused after a long and rather dry theological discourse on the subject "The Way of the Transgressor is Hard" and after mopping his brow exclaimed:

"Now that I have pointed out to you sin and its penalty, what more shall I say, brethren?"

A tired and drowsy colored lad in a front pew, who was rubbing his eyes vigorously, sang out:

"Please say 'Amen,' mister, and let us go home."—Washington Star.

Apparatus by Custom.

It's strange what tricks even tutored nerves will play. The strongest man will wilt into an unconscious heap under the vaccination lance or be reduced to abject faintness by the sight of dentists' implements. The Earl of Malmesbury in his memoirs tells a little incident illustrative of this fact:

A sad accident happened this afternoon to one of the keepers, who blew off two fingers of his right hand in loading a gun. The fingers had to be immediately amputated. All the gentlemen stood around to witness the operation and to encourage the man, who showed great pluck. It was curious that every one bore the sight calmly but Lord Raglan, who had seen 100 battles. He fainted and had to retire. In action he is known to be remarkable for his unmoved sang froid.

Burnand's Wit.

F. C. Burnand, the English humorist, when preparing in his youth to enter the priesthood was ordered by the novice master at his college to clean the windows. He humbly consented to do so if the master would give him a lesson in the art, but directly the man got outside the window on to the ledge Burnand fastened the catch and left him out there. For this Dr. (afterward Cardinal) Manning severely rated the novice, telling him that he would make a better shoemaker than priest.

"Well, you leave me, at any rate, the cure of soles," is said to have been the witty reply.

Deafness Cannot be cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. C. ENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

MAN'S MOOD FOR SONG.

It Asserts Itself in Almost Every Phase of Life.

Sailors sing. They have a song for work and songs for every part of their work, and they have songs of reminiscence and of tragedy and many farcical songs, some brutal songs, songs of repose and songs in which is packed the desire for a distant home. Soldiers also sing, at least in those armies where soldiers are still soldiers. And the line, which is the core and body of any army, is the most singing of them all. Those men who marched behind Caesar in his triumph sang a song, and the words of it still remain (so I am told). The armies of Louis XIV. and of Napoleon, of the republic and even of Algiers made songs of their own which have passed into the great treasury of European letters.

They sang in that march which led men to the assault at Hastings, for it was written by those who saw the column of knights advancing to the foot of the hill that Taillefer was chosen for his great voice and rode before the host, tossing his sword into the air and catching it again by the hilt, a difficult thing to do, and singing of Charlemagne and of the vassals who had died under Roncesvalles.

Song also illuminates and strengthens and vivifies all common life, and on this account what is left of our peasantry have harvest songs, and there are songs for moving and songs for the midwinter rest, and there is even a song in the south of England for the gathering of honey.

Indeed, all men sing at their labor or would so sing did not dead convention forbid them. You will say there are exceptions, as lawyers, usurers and others. But there are no exceptions to this rule where all the man is working and is working well and is producing and is not ashamed. Rowers sing, and their song is called a barcarole, and even men holding the tiller who have nothing to do but hold it tend to sing a song. And I will swear to this—that I have heard stokers when they were hard pressed starting a sort of crooning chorus together, which shows that there is hope for us all.—H. Beloe in London Post.

His Amendment.

A good many years ago it is said that a bill was reported in the New York assembly entitled "An act for the preservation of the heath hen and other game." The speaker, a very shortsighted man and nothing of a sportsman, after a squinting look at the paper, read, "An act for the preservation of the heathen and other game."

He was apparently unconscious of his blunder and of the ripple of merriment which was running through the house until an honest member from the north, who had suffered considerably by the deprivations of a frontier tribe, but who had one of the kindest hearts in the whole assembly, proposed a half groaning amendment:

"Including Indians, gentlemen, for I shouldn't want 'em left out, in spite of everything they've done to me!"

Showed Keen Appreciation.

"I stood on the brink of the Grand Canyon of Arizona," relates a local railroad man. "I stood almost spellbound, for when you gaze into that vast canyon you feel as if you were almost in the presence of the Almighty. It's so vast that it frightens you. Just while I was in that mood a party of women came from the big hotel and paused to look into the canyon. 'Oh,' spoke up one shrilly to another one, 'but weren't those pancakes we had for breakfast about the best you ever ate?'"

"I hastened away," says the railroad man, "before I heard any more."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Smallest Bone in the Human Body.

The smallest bones in the human body are to be found in the ear. The smallest of these is known by the anatomical name of stapes. It has a head, neck and two haunches and is shaped not unlike a stirrup iron. The full extent of its dimensions does not exceed that of a pea and is frequently smaller. By some authorities it has been named the lenticular bone, from the idea that its shape and appearance resemble that of a lens. It is situated within the drum of the ear.

It Was a Booby Prize.

A woman fell from a ferryboat crossing over to Camden, and a poor Irishman sprang over and rescued her. When she was safely landed on the deck her husband, who had been a calm spectator of the accident, handed the brave fellow a quarter.

Some of the bystanders expressing their indignation, Pat said: "Arrah, don't blame the gentleman—he knows best. Perhaps if I hadn't saved her he'd have given me a dollar."—Philadelphia Ledger.

EXPLOSIVES.

Dangerous Substances That Are in Almost Constant Use.

Among the many things in almost constant use are some that are more or less dangerous from their explosive properties, properties often entirely unknown to their users.

For examples, chloride of potash lozenges if accidentally brought in contact with an unlighted phosphorous match are dangerous. Bicarbonate of potash if mixed with subnitrate of bismuth, the latter a remedy for indigestion, will explode.

Tincture of iron and dilute aqua regia when mixed, as they often are in medicine, throw off a highly explosive gas, which has frequently shattered the bottle in which the mixture was kept.

One often finds bottles of medicine in which the cork has not been tightly pushed minus the latter or has had a cork pop out of a bottle while held in one's hands without any attempt to remove it on the part of the holder. This always shows that gas is forcing the cork out.

Danger in combs. Every now and then one reads of celluloid articles, from fancy hair coiffure combs down, catching fire and serious burns or accidents resulting.

It would seem that every one should by this time know that celluloid contains in its composition gun cotton and also camphor, both highly inflammable. No woman wearing celluloid combs or hair ornaments should place her head near an uncovered gas jet or other unprotected light, as celluloid catches fire so quickly and burns so rapidly that it would hardly be possible to avoid serious burns.—St. Louis Republic.

TRAVELERS ABROAD.

A Document That Should Be Carried in One's Pocketbook.

Replying to an inquiry about the disposition of the body of an American dying in London, our consul general offers some advice to citizens of this country traveling abroad. He says: "If a citizen of the United States is traveling abroad unaccompanied it would be well for him to carry in his satchel or pocketbook written instructions as to what he desires should be done in the event of anything happening to him. The envelope containing such instructions should be headed, 'Instructions in the event of my death.' Inclosed he should give his home address or the address of a friend in the United States, so that communication could be made, or the address of any friend or business connection on this side could be mentioned with the same object and for the purpose of obtaining necessary funds. I have been informed on credible authority that a person has no legal right to control the disposition of his remains, although I have no doubt relatives or friends would respect the wishes of the deceased. In the event of the death in this country of a person domiciled in the United States at any of the hotels an undertaker is at once called in and the remains removed therefrom, provided always the deceased has had proper medical attendance and that the doctor attending gives a certificate of death. If the death is sudden, the coroner of the district is at once notified and an inquest is held, the body in the meantime being removed to a public mortuary pending result of the inquest. If the verdict of death from natural causes be rendered, the coroner signs an order and gives it to the representative of the deceased, who instructs the undertaker what to do. The transportation of the remains is in the hands of the friends or the representative of the deceased and is not controlled by any local or government authority."

Economy.

A commercial traveler, having got settlement of a long standing account with a shopkeeper, invited him out to dine.

"Na, na," said the tradesman; "I'll ne'er gang to an inn, but just tell me how muckle it would cost ye to gi'e me my dinner."

"Oh," said the traveler, "perhaps 3 shillings or 4 shillings."

"Very well, then," replied the economist; "gi'e me the 4 shillings, an' I'll be just as well pleased as if I'd got the dinner."—Dundee Advertiser.

ACT QUICKLY

Delay Has Been Dangerous in Greenville

Do the right thing at the right time. Act quickly in times of danger. Backache is kidney danger. Doan's Kidney Pills act quickly. Cure all distressing, dangerous kidney ills.

Plenty of evidence to prove this. Abraham Light, Furniture Dealer, residing on St. Patrick St., Tarboro, N. C., says: "My wife has used Doan's Kidney Pills with excellent results. When she began using them she complained of dull nagging backaches and pains through her kidneys. The recreations did not act properly and caused her great annoyance. After using Doan's Kidney Pills the pains in her back and legs ceased, and the annoyance which arose from the kidney troubles entirely disappeared. Doan's Kidney Pills proved of far more value to her than any remedy previously used and she is glad to speak in their favor."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMullen Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A LESSON IN ECONOMY

A STENOGRAPHER in a prominent business house, who operated a typewriter where the carriage had to be raised to see what was written, wasted eight minutes in one hour in lifting that carriage.

She was employed eight hours per day. On this basis she lost 64 minutes that day.

She would lose in one year of 300 working days 320 hours.

She was paid $2.50 per day for eight hours' work, 35.7 cents per hour.

Her employer, therefore, would have paid her $114.24 in one year, for which he received no equivalent.

There were ten stenographers employed in this office, and if they all lost the same amount of time, he would have paid in one year $1,142.40 for which he enjoyed no benefit.

In ten years he would have paid $11,424.00 for nothing.

Every business man using a typewriter that does not write in sight, but on which you have to raise the carriage to see the writing, is losing money in the same proportion.

WHICH IS BETTER—
to have that saving of money in dividends, or pay it out for wasted time?

THE MAGIC PAINTING

When the Room Was Darkened the Cow Went to Sleep.

IT WAS A VERY SIMPLE TRICK

How the Transformation Was Effected and How Some Other Seemingly Wonderful Effects May Be Produced by the Aid of Chemicals.

The Chinese Emperor Tai Tsung possessed among other treasures a picture known as a magic painting. It represented a pastoral scene with a cow standing in a field and mountains beyond. When the picture was shown to strangers or guests and they admired it, the emperor would say:

"Yes, this is a remarkable painting. The cow, as you see, is standing, but if the room was darkened the cow would think it night and would lie down."

Then the emperor would order the room to be darkened, and the cow would be seen to be lying down, apparently asleep.

The picture was a water color, over which was painted in colorless phosphorescent paint a similar picture representing the cow lying down. In the light the standing animal was seen, but at night or in a darkened room only the phosphorescent picture was visible. So the magic picture was, after all, a very simple trick.

A Dresden chemist named Schade discovered a method of imitating it which can be accomplished as follows:

First paint in ordinary colors the picture of the cow standing. Then melt some Zanzibar copal over a charcoal fire and dissolve fifteen parts of it in sixty parts of French oil of turpentine. Filter this and mix with twenty-five parts of pure linseed oil which has been previously heated and cooled.

Now take forty parts of the varnish so obtained and mix with six parts of prepared calcium carbonate, twelve parts of prepared white zinc sulphide and thirty-six parts of luminous calcium sulphide, all of which can be obtained from any chemist.

This emulsion should be ground very fine in a color mill. The result will be white luminous paint, which should be used to paint the cow lying down.

Many seemingly wonderful tricks can be performed with the use of a few simple chemicals. One of them is the ball of fire. Take for this barium sulphate (BP) one part, magnesium carbonate (CP) one part, gum tragacanth q. s. This should be mixed and rolled into marbles and kept at a red heat for about an hour, then allowed to cool slowly and placed in a glass stoppered bottle. A few hours before using place in the sun, and the marbles at once become luminous.

At the entertainment ordinary marbles are passed among the audience, one or more of the luminous marbles being concealed in the hand. The exhibitor then takes a marble from someone in the audience, holds it between his thumb and forefinger, blows upon it and asks to have the lights turned down. As this is done he substitutes the luminous marble, and the mysterious light is seen. This is handed around and changes again as the light is turned on, when the magician presents to the audience several of the ordinary marbles as souvenirs.

Another trick is very effective. Take two small bunches of artificial flowers. Brush one over with glue or mullage and powder it with the dust from one of the marbles described. They place in the sun. When taken into a darkened room, luminous flowers are seen. The magician exhibits the flowers that have not been prepared and shows that there is nothing peculiar about them. Then as the light is turned down he substitutes the concealed bunch, blows upon the flowers and, presto, displays to the astonished observers a luminous bunch, each flower of which stands out as if at white heat.

Luminous letters can be written and exhibited in the dark to the wonder of the audience. Luminous ink is made by placing a piece of phosphorus about the size of a pea in a test tube with a little olive oil. Place the tube in a water bath until the oil becomes heated and the phosphorus liquid. Shake well and pour into a bottle with a glass stopper. Admit air just previous to using it, and the fluid will become luminous tracery in the dark.

Water can be rendered luminous in a very simple manner. Dissolve a small piece of phosphorus in ether for several days in a glass stoppered bottle. In this place a lump of sugar, then drop the sugar in water, which will at once become luminous.

Luminous paints can be made any color—green, yellow, violet or blue—and if applied to various objects make a wonderful display at night.

Odd Names of Maryland Farms. The curious names given to tracts of land by the owners in olden times are illustrated in a conveyance recorded in Liber W. G. No. 00, folio 57. It was executed in 1790 and conveyed from Joshua Stevenson to Richard Gettings five tracts of land in Baltimore county, the consideration being £200. The name of each tract and its dimensions are as follows: My Sweet Girl, My Friend and Pitcher, 82 acres; Here Is Life Without Care and Love Without Fear, 41½ acres; The Unexpected Discovery, 262 acres; Hug Me Sung, 15 acres, and Stevenson's Cow Pasture With Little I am Content, 22 acres.—Baltimore Sun.

There is one good thing about the gas bill. It is a monthly lesson in punctuality.—Washington Times.

All the Gold IN GEORGIA Could not Buy-

Roding, Ga. August 27, 1906.
Messrs. E. G. DAWITT & Co.,
Chicago, Ills.

Gentlemen:—
In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. Some physicians told me it was Dyspepsia, some Consumption of the Lungs, others said consumption of the Bowels. One physician said I would not live until Spring, and for four long years I existed on a little boiled milk, soda biscuits, doctors' prescriptions and Dyspepsia remedies that flooded the market. I could not digest anything I ate, and in the Spring 1903 I picked up one of your Almanacs as a poor emaciated Dyspepsia wreck will grasp at anything, and that Almanac happened to be my life savor. I bought a fifty cent bottle of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and the benefit I received from that bottle ALL THE GOLD IN GEORGIA COULD NOT BUY. I kept on taking it and in two months I went back to my work, as a machinist, and in three months I was well and hearty. I still use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic.
May you live long and prosper.
Yours very truly,

To Whom It May Concern.

THE maintenance of any business is dependent upon the masses and not the minority. Therefore, Merchant, in order for you to be abreast with those who do the buying you must constantly keep before them the articles you have for sale and the bargains you wish to offer them. The Correct way for you to do this is to begin advertising your business at once. In this way your business is almost hourly before some one who is thinking of purchasing some of the products you have to offer for their consideration. Let us do your advertising then you receive the benefits.
