Suicide Near Elizabethtown—Postmaster at Leaksville Also Chooses the Dark Route.

Elizabethtown, N. C. Apr. 17.—Silas Norris, a well known citizen of this county, who lived ten miles east of here, committed suicide Wednesday. His wife died about two weeks ago, and it is thought that grief caused his mind to become unbalanced.

Reidsville, N. C. April 17.—This morning Postmaster James D. Martin committed suicide in the rear of the Leaksville post-office, where he had gone to make up the mail for an early morning train. The report of the pistol was heard, but no one knew anything about Mr. Martin's act until some time later, when his body was discovered.

The Moving Picture Show.

This paragraph occurred in our Raleigh special yesterday: "Notice of a fire in Washington, N. C., started from a moving picture show causes Commissioner of Insurance Young to again appeal to the authorities of towns to have close supervision over these places. The highly inflammable character of the celluloid films makes them especially dangerous. He urges ample means of escape in case of fire." These moving picture shows are a beneficence and we don't want to say a word that would discourage attendance upon them. There are seven of them in Charlotte and another about to open, and they afford infinite entertainment, innocent in character, to every variety of the population, from the rich and cultivated to the poor and lowly—not only innocent entertainment to all but instruction, education, to thousands. Not every body can pay a dollar and a half or two dollars for a seat in the Academy of Music; anybody can pay five cents to see a moving picture show. Relatively few of our population ever saw or will ever see for instance, a great city, a battleship; many never saw the sea or the great mountain tops. Without further enumeration, every scene from nature, every phase of life, of human activity, is to be witnessed at the moving picture show and its creator was a benefactor, especially of the humble people, whose horizon is narrow and means of amusement few. It is a pleasure to see them prosper and multiply, especially for the sake of the class to whom even a street car ride means fare both ways and to whom a dime is an object. But the admonition of Insurance Commissioner Young, a care-taking, alert official, challenges attention.—Charlotte Observer.

Gov. Glenn at Ayden.

This was a gala day at Ayden, Governor R. B. Glenn being there to make a speech on prohibition. The people from all sections of surrounding country were there to hear him and gave Ayden the largest crowd in the history of the town. There was a horse-back parade in which were hundreds of riders, and every honor possible was shown the governor.

The midday train was held half an hour at Greenville for the accomodation of a large crowd who went from here to Ayden.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor.

Winterville, N. C. April 18, 1908.

The Aeolian band of Greenville passed through town on their way home yesterday afternoon from Renston. We appreciated several pieces of music which they made.

Miss Novella Bunting went to Greenville Friday evening.

Dr. J. H. Hudson, of Ballard's Cross Roads, was here yesterday. A large number of our people attended the closing of Miss May Brook's school at Renston Friday. They report an excellent speech and a delightful dinner. This community is to be congratulated upon their wide-awake interest in education.

J. E. Greene attended the marriage of J. A. Jarrell to Miss Bessie Pierce, of Grifton, Wednesday night.

Dr. Tyree continues to preach some of the best sermons we ever heard.

There will be Easter services at the Episcopal church at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

A great crowd of our people expect to hear Governor Glenn at Ayden today.

Miss Mollie Bryan came in last night from Gold Point to spend Sunday at home.

Quite a number from here attended the teachers' association at Greenville today.

Rev. N. C. Duncan left today to fill his appointment at Farmville Sunday.

For best fire insurance see M. G. Bryan agent for the Walla Walla company of Greensboro N. C.

Old and Rich Man Indicted for Selling Liquor.

Recently there was found by the grand jury of Richmond county three bills for selling liquor against Dr. J. H. Williamson, one of the wealthiest and oldest citizens of that county. He is nearly eighty years old and for many years occupied a position in the church and is worth a hundred thousand dollars. It is said that he has been selling liquor for years. It is believed that he will be fined heavily or probably imprisoned.

It has not been long since one of the prominent citizens of Hamlet was indicted and convicted in Richmond county Superior court and fined $4,000 for selling liquor.—Ashboro Courier.

At Miss Brooks' School.

The band boys report a big time at the close of Miss May Brooks' school at Renston, Friday, where they went to make music. The commencement was in every way a success, the speech of Prof. Judd much enjoyed and the picnic dinner abundant. On the way back home the band stopped at Winterville and played there half an hour.

With Our Colored People.

Easter day services at the First street Methodist church tomorrow all day, commencing at 5 o'clock a. m. and continuing through the day. Easter brings to our minds the wonderful event in Joseph's garden, the resurrection, the angels, the victory achieved over death, and the conquest over the grave. Therefore the members of this church and Sunday school, will play their part upon this momentous occasion. For indeed Easter is a day of universal rejoicing. At 11 o'clock the pastor will sing his famous solo, subject: Death could not hold Him, with Mrs C. M. Fipes presiding at the organ. Easter sermon by the pastor, subject: "The Empty Sepulchre." At 3 o'clock and at night the members of the Sunday school will entertain you with their sweet Easter music, consisting of solos duets and Easter choruses. Their Easter speeches are fine. The Easter cantata: subject, Easter gladness will come off at night. Mrs. S. J. Walker and Superintendent J. P. Norcott will have charge of the program.

Everybody that can creep, walk or ride should go to some church on Easter day.—White and colored are invited to our church.
R. Henry Sawyer, Jr. Pastor.

Again, No Free Carnival.

The would-be tax dodger was slow to realize that he was left. He had a petition worked up asking the aldermen to let the carnival come to town tax free. The aldermen met Friday afternoon to hear the petition, but there was a counter petition also. Two speeches were made in favor of the carnival and four against it, when one alderman moved to adjourn, his motion was carried, and everybody went home. It is to be hoped the matter is now settled.

Meeting Closed.

The meeting which has been conducted in the Methodist church during the last two weeks by Rev. E. McWhorter, of Warsaw, closed Friday night. The meeting was a blessing to Greenville and its influence for good will be long felt. Mr. McWhorter's sermons were delightful and edifying and a number of persons were led to accept Christ under his preaching. Several gave their names to the pastor signifying their desire to unite with the church.

THE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

HOLDS LAST MONTHLY SESSION OF SCHOOL YEAR.

Prizes Awarded for Historical and Other Papers—Supt. Joyner's Address.

A large number of teachers were present to day at the last session of their association for the year. After the opening exercises the presentation of prizes took place.

The twenty five dollar prize for greatest improvement in school houses and grounds was awarded to the Grifton school with special mention made of the Clay Root school taught by Misses Mary Brown and Martha Baldree. This prize was presented by Prof. G. E. Lineberry and accepted for the school by Miss Lillie Grant.

The "Mary Smith" medal offered by Rev. W. E. Cox was awarded to Miss Laura Cox, of Winterville, with special mention being made of Miss Ethel Carroll's paper. It was presented by Prof. Joyner.

The Arthur medal was given to Miss Bertha Carroll of Winterville, and was presented by Prof. H. B. Smith. The second prize, a gold pen given by The Reflector, was awarded to Miss Annie Whitfield, of Centerville, but as she was not present it was not presented.

The Grimes medal was given to Miss Magdalene Cox, of Winterville and was presented by Senator J. L. Fleming. The second prize a gold pen offered by Mr. A. G. Cox, was awarded to Miss Anna Lawrence, of Winterville, but she was not present for it to be presented.

Then Prof. Ragsdale very fittingly introduced Prof. Joyner, the speaker of the day. This was truly the treat of the year. We will not attempt a report of his speech.

As he told of the need of preparation we only wished that every man, woman, and child in the county could hear him. He showed so clearly that education is no longer a luxury but an absolute necessity.

He then showed how it emancipates people from the severest form of bondage ever known to man, bondage to ignorance, vice, and crime. He showed how the hope of the temperance movement and all other moral issues depended on the school room to aid in making it the greatest success. Teach them to love and cling to higher and nobler things.

"Move out the barroom and bring in the library."
He then very feelingly spoke of a teacher's rewards—consciousness of service well done, human souls lifted to higher and nobler living.

Prof. Joyner spoke as only a man can whose whole life is devoted to the best interest of the boys and girls of the State. No stronger appeal to teachers of Pitt was ever heard or one clothed in more beautiful language.

Prof. Smith and Ragsdale very touchingly spoke their thanks for the work of the teachers during the year and after wishing them a pleasant vacation, urged all to return to their work in this county next year.
It is remarkable and at the same time creditable to that excellent institution, that three out of four of the prizes offered to pupils were won by students of Winterville High school, and the medal offered to teachers was won by a Winterville teacher. The work that school does makes an impress that is for good, and its effects are shown in the standing and record of the pupils. There is not a better school.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

J. N. Hart went to Gatesville today.

Jarvis Sugg, of Washington, is in town.

Rev. W. H. Laughinghouse, of Terboro, was here today.

Miss Abbie Smith went to Washington this morning.

Courtney Mitchell, of Kingston, came over Friday evening.

Miss Sophia Jaryis returned Friday evening from Bethel.

Miss Lizzie Jones left this morning for a visit to Norfolk.

Rev. E. McWhorter, who has been preaching in the Methodist church here for two weeks, left this morning for his home in Warsaw.

At the Churches Tomorrow.

Baptist—Sunday school and Baraca and Philathea classes meet at 9.30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7.45 p. m. Special music.

Christian—Sunday school at 9.45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m., special music has been prepared. At the evening service music will be furnished by the children.

Methodist—Sunday school at 9.30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7.45 p. m. Special music. Reception of members and special Easter offering at the the morning hour.

Died.

Mrs. M. Addie Moore, widow of the late Mr. D. H. Moore, died Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. I. Dudley, in West Greenville, after an illness of about a week. The remains were interred Friday in the family burial ground about 7 miles in the country. Mrs. Moore was 58 years old and leaves two daughters, Mrs. S. I. Dudley, of Greenville and Mrs. G. L. Moore of, Bethel.

Man of Family.

Mr. T. E. Hooker tells us that an old man named Isaac Waters was buried on his farm in Greene county, Friday. The remarkable thing about the man was that he had reached the age of 92 years, 3 months and 15 days, and 120 of his children and grand children attended his funeral.

Feast for Easter.

Today Mr. D. D. Haskett sent us a basket of strawberries of his own raising. They were very fine in size and quality and will afford a feast for Easter Sunday.

Owing to the Woman's Temperance meeting that is to be held Tuesday, the End of The Century Book Club will be postponed until Wednesday the 22nd, at 3:30 p. m. Mrs. L. C. Arthur, Sat. & Mon.

Judging by the character of the concerts given by the singing class from Oxford in the past, you may expect to be highly entertained at the concert to be given in our town on the 29th.

If you want your horse shod phone 115 B and the horse will be set for and returned. 4 17 dtf.

All of those who attended the skating rink last night were elated over the condition of the floor.

The man who is not running for office is the one who can feel best over it.

Every now and then a new candidate comes out for one of the State offices.

If things don't go your way every time how much good do you expect to accomplish by kicking?

Some of the candidates taking half page advertisements in the papers shows that they are after it in a business way.

One of the easiest ways to keep from voting in the elections this year is just to fail to pay your poll tax by May 1st.

It is no worse for the president not to have his way about it than it is for some other folks. No one man is the whole thing, even though he may feel that he is.

State Supt. is Joyner warning commissioners of all the counties that if they fail to levy sufficient taxes to keep the public schools open four months in the year, they are liable to indictment.

We doubt if many of the Southern papers will accept the offer of the American Press Association to furnish a free page every three weeks boosting Johnson for the presidential nomination. Of course Johnson is footing the bill.

Prohibition Bound to Come.

One half of this great Republic of 80,000,000 people have already adopted prohibition laws. The following States with a population of 9,000,000 people have adopted absolute State prohibition, Alabama, Georgia, Kansas, Maine, North Dakota and Oklahoma. There are fourteen other States in which Prohibition campaigns are being waged and which will adopt Prohibition soon; South Carolina, Mississippi, Florida, Connecticut, Vermont, New Hampshire, District of Columbia, Tennessee, Arkansas, Iowa, Michigan, Missouri, Delaware, North Carolina.

Prohibition in less than two years will carry Kentucky, Texas, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Nebraska, Massachusetts, and South Dakota.

The liquor traffic is outlawed in about one-half the counties of the rest of the other States and the war is waged warmer daily. As the people of the United States awaken to the fact that the liquor traffic is the most ruthless and reckless destroyer of property, character and life that exists in our midst.

Hon. Carroll D. Wright, the U. S. Commissioner of Labor, says that "Liquor is the basis of the misery of labor in the United States." The United States spends annually for liquors $1,500,000,000, one-third of all the gold, silver, nickel and copper ever coined by this Government.—Duplin Journal.

ON SIGNAL WATCH.

One of the Experiences Which Enrag a Young Sailor.

In "Three Years Behind the Guns," in St. Nicholas, is recounted one of those experiences on ship board that make a young sailor's heart hot within him:

I was on signal watch on the after bridge. An ordnance officer four feet away stood looking shoreward through his binoculars as the admiral's barge rowed straight for the ship. At the proper moment he commanded, "Bugler, call the guard." Then all the red tape required to get an admiral aboard was unwound. This accomplished, Lieutenant Dorn came at me fairly foaming at the mouth. "What are you doing on the bridge?" he roared.

"I am on signal watch, sir."

"Then why did you not report the admiral's launch coming?"

"Because you saw it, sir."

"Because I saw it! What right have you to say I saw it?"

"I saw you looking at it through your glasses, sir."

"You don't know that I was looking at the admiral's barge. You have no right even to think what I am looking at. Your duty was to have reported to me what you saw coming toward the ship. Failing to do so, you shall answer on Saturday morning. I put you down for carelessness, disobedience, neglect of duty and insolence."

I swallowed my heart and my rage, as I have done many a time and oft since I have worn this uniform, and in fancy I saw myself go down into the brig for thirty days. The brig means handcuffs or ankle irons, a diet of two hard tacks and a tumbler of water three times a day, with full rations every fifth day. I have seen men come out of the brig looking like the end of a forty days' fast in a monastery. I have seen men in for three days wearing double irons. They looked like pirates. Their crime was smoking out of hours.

To return to my own case, on Friday night Lieutenant Dorn sent for me and gave me a kindly talk winding up with the promise that he would make a sailor out of me I was on the shore list for the next morning, but for reasons of my own I carried on the ship. This same officer, noticing me, asked why I was there. I answered:

"Broke, sir."

He told me to go to his room and where to find $10, which I was to take, get ashore as quickly as possible and not to forget to return it on the next pay day.

Awkward For Sanderson.

Sanderson was on a visit to Simpkins, and in due course naturally he was shown the family album.

"Yes," said Simpkins as he turned the leaves, "that's my wife's second cousin's Aunt Susan. Poor old soul! She had the most remarkable nose I ever saw. It was the shape of a note of interrogation. And that's Cousin James, and that's a friend of ours, and that—Ah! Now, who do you think that is?"

"Don't know," said Sanderson.

"Well, that's my wife's first husband, my boy!"

"Great Scott! What a perfectly brainless looking ass! But excuse me, old fellow. I didn't know your wife was a widow when you married her."

"She wasn't," said Simpkins stiffly. "That, sir, is a portrait of myself at the age of twenty."—London Telegraph.

"Mother."

One of the first words that a baby says is mamma or mother, and it is not strange, therefore, to find it one of the first and simplest words in every language. There is no word easier for a child to say than "ma" unless it be "pa." In Hebrew and Arabic mother is "em" and "am." It is "mam" in Welsh and "moder" in Anglo-Saxon. In other languages it is slightly different, but near enough like our own "mother" to make it an almost universal word, so that a child crying in any language could be understood in almost any other language. Here are a few of the names: "Madr" in Persian, "matr" in Sanskrit, "meter" in Greek, "mater" in Latin, "madre" in Spanish, "mere" in French, "moder" in Sweden, "moder" in Danish, "moder" in Dutch, "mutter" in German, "mate" in Russian, "mathair" in Celtic.

Home of the Orange.

Careful research has shown that India was the country from which the orange spread to western Asia and eventually to Europe and the Americas. Oranges are at present found wild in many parts of northern India. Cultivated from a remote period in Hindustan, they were carried to southwestern Asia by the Arabs probably before the close of the ninth century. They spread ultimately through the agency of the same race to Africa, Spain and possibly Sicily, following the tide of Mohammedan conquest.

Deafness Cannot be cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Don't be afraid of imitators. Originality always bears a trade mark.

Kodol for Dyspepsia has helped thousands of people who have had stomach trouble. This is what one man says of it: "E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Gentlemen—In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. I could not digest anything I ate and in the spring of 1902 I bought a bottle of Kodol and the benefit I received from that bottle all the gold in Georgia could not buy. I still use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic. May you live long and prosper. Yours very truly, C. N. Cornell, Roding, Ga., Aug. 27, 1906. Wooten's Drug Store.

Don't be afraid to fight against odds. Most things worth having are hard to get.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup—the cough syrup that tastes nearly as good as maple sugar and which children like so well to take. Unlike nearly all other cough remedies, it does not constipate, but on the other hand it acts promptly yet gently on the bowels, through which the cold is forced out of the system, and at the same time it allays inflammation. Always use Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Don't be afraid of rivals. Things may be crowded below but there is always room on top.

To have perfect health we must have perfect digestion, and it is very important not to permit of any delay the moment the stomach feels out of order. Take something at once that you know will promptly and unfailingly assist digestion. There is nothing better than Kodol for dyspepsia, indigestion, sour stomach, belching of gas and nervous headache. Kodol is a natural digestant and will digest what you eat. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Don't be afraid of censure. We all need toning down as well as toning up.

The kidneys are delicate and sensitive organs and are very likely at any time to get out of order. DeWitt's Kidney and Ladder Pills are prompt and thorough and will in a very short time strengthen the weakened kidneys and allay troubles arising from inflammation of the bladder. Sold by Jno. L. A LESSON IN ECONOMY

A STENOGRAPHER in a prominent business house, who operated a typewriter where the carriage had to be raised to see what was written, wasted eight minutes in one hour in lifting that carriage.

She was employed eight hours per day. On this basis she lost 64 minutes that day.

She would lose in one year of 300 working days 320 hours.

She was paid $2.50 per day for eight hours' work, 35.7 cents per hour.

Her employer, therefore, would have paid her $114.24 in one year, for which he received no equivalent.

There were ten stenographers employed in this office, and if they all lost the same amount of time, he would have paid in one year $1,142.40 for which he enjoyed no benefit.

In ten years he would have paid $11,424.00 for nothing.

Every business man using a typewriter that does not write in sight, but on which you have to raise the carriage to see the writing, is losing money in the same proportion.

WHICH IS BETTER— to have that saving of money in dividends, or pay it out for wasted time?

LITTLE WOODEN BARRELS.

Made by the Millions, Some of Them Tiny Bits of Things.

Among the all but endless variety of things of wood produced in American factories are little wooden barrels. They are turned out of white birch and come in many sizes, from tiny affairs, an inch and a half high, up to barrels ten inches high.

The biggest of them are turned with a hand manipulated tool, but those ranging from six inches downward are turned each with a cutting tool, having an edge so formed that it turns the barrel all at once. They set a block of wood in the lathe and adjust the cutting tool, and it turns the barrel into shape complete as quickly as a man turning with a hand tool could have turned one of the hoops on it, and on the smallest barrels one man can run three or four machines.

These little barrels are sold in the aggregate in great numbers, millions of them yearly. A single tack manufacturing concern buys them in carload lots, 2,000 gross, or 288,000 barrels at a time. Great numbers are used by confectioners, who fill them with candy, and they are used to contain a bottle of perfume.

Many are sold to be given away at fairs or in other ways, being filled with a sample of a staple product of the region, perhaps of flour or it might be of sugar. Many of them are made with a slot cut in one end, or head, through which coins can be dropped, the little barrels in this form being used for savings banks or given out by Sunday school teachers to their pupils to make collections in for some specific purpose. Individual purchasers buy the little barrels to use for button boxes, and great numbers of them are sold for toys.

So in this country there are used millions of them annually, and for all the various uses to which the little barrels are put they are exported in large numbers to countries all over the world.—Washington Post.

An Insignificant Obstruction.

An American who was doing Europe came to the frontier of a petty German state where the officers' sense of dignity was in inverse proportion to the significance of the country. When the train stopped a gold braided officer came to the door of the American's carriage and requested him to go forward to the luggage van that his trunks might be inspected. He had tons of luggage, and they began roughly to handle it. "Here," he said presently—"here, hands off! I didn't come from the United States to be controlled by you. Put those things back. I'll not go through you at all. I'll turn back. I'm in no particular hurry. You're no country. You're only a spot. I'll go around you!" And around he went.—Bellman.

His Singular Infirmary.

"What is your name, little boy?" asked the teacher.
"I'll have to write it for you, ma'am," said the new boy hesitatingly.
"I think not. My hearing is quite good. Your name, please."
"I'd rather not tell you."
"Are you ashamed of your name?"
"No, ma'am, but—"
"Then we will not waste any more time, if you please. I am waiting."
The boy's eyes rolled wildly in their sockets and his face became contorted as he began:
"Kuk - kuk - kuk - kuk - Clarence! That's my first name. The other is Pup-pup-pup-pup-Perkins. I never stutter 'cept when I'm speaking my name, and when I'm nagged like this I'm a whole lot worse, ma'am."—Chicago Tribune.

Land to Spare.

A public dinner in Edinburgh had dwindled away to two guests, an Englishman and a highlander, who were each trying to prove the superiority of their native countries. Of course at an argument of this kind a Scotsman possesses from constant practice overwhelming advantages. The highlander's logic was so good that he beat his opponent on every point. At last the Englishman put in a poser. "You will," he said, "at least admit that England is larger in extent than Scotland?"
"Certainly not," was the confident reply. "You see, sir, ours is a mountainous, yours a flat country. Now, if all our hills were rolled out flat we should beat you by hundreds of square miles!"

Discrimination.

"Your husband squanders lots of money, doesn't he?"
"Yes; lots of it."
"He squandered a dollar on cigars yesterday, did he not?"
"Yes."
"And $100 the day before for a diamond?"
"Oh, that wasn't squandered; that was for me."—Houston Post.

THE ALLIGATOR.

To Students of Animal Habits He Is a Foe Worth Watching.

For the nature student the habits of the alligator hold much interest. To the camera sportsman he presents delightful possibilities, while to the everyday tourist who will really seek him in his home he will give an assortment of sensations more thrilling than could be unearthed in a year of ordinary globe trotting.

Hunt up the haunts of the creature until you find a river that he frequents. Paddle quietly and alone down the stream and up the creeks and branches that enter it till you find on the bank the bed of an alligator with signs of his recent presence. Hide your skiff, sit down on the bed and wait for him to come home. By and by out in the middle of the stream you may see three little black dots—the nose and eyes of your absentee landlord—and soon the whole head, tail and back may appear. He will swim slowly toward you and probably sink gradually beneath the surface before reaching the bank. If he comes on and crawls up on the bank beside you, it will be a high tribute to your coolness and complete control of your nerves, and the incident will make a pleasant place in your memory.

It happened once to me that after long waiting for the return of an alligator upon whose bed I was sitting I discovered that he had not left it, but was lying in the tall grass just behind me, with his big jaws three feet from my face and his ten foot body curved partly around me.

After sitting silently in my skiff for half an hour, wondering why an alligator I had seen didn't show up, I chanced to look down and saw his head resting quietly on the surface of the water within twelve inches of my hand as it lay on the gunwale.

It gives a sensation to be remembered to sit thus, motionless, watching the unwinking eyes of this free, wild, powerful brute fixed gravely on your face, the huge jaws and the little that shows of the long, white teeth within reach of your jaws and teeth.—A. W. Dimock in Harper's.

English Money Lenders.

An English clergyman, being pestered with offers from usurers to advance him sums of money, had the curiosity to answer one by asking on what terms he would loan him £250. By return of post there arrived a letter asking particulars of his rent, life insurance and other intimate matters. To this he made no reply. Then followed a note asking him to call in London on a certain day, to which he sent an answer that he did not intend to call and that the money lender need not trouble himself further in the matter. But the affair was not at an end. Two days later a registered letter arrived, inclosing £250 in notes and a form to be filled up, promising to pay £300 in three months. The clergyman then put the money, the form and the correspondence in the hands of his solicitor, who after three weeks' delay returned the notes to the usurer and got a guinea out of them for his costs.—London Globe.

Imperfectly Equipped.

A story of one McLeish told by the Marchioness of Breadalbane in her book, "The High Tops of Black Mount," does not controvert Dr. Johnson's dictum, "Much may be done with a Scotchman if he be caught young," but qualifies it. McLeish was not young enough when caught.

The Marchioness of Breadalbane, an ardent sportswoman, was accompanied in a deerstalking expedition in one of the great glens of north Britain by McLeish. He had been indulging one day in a long argument in the Gaelic with one of the gillies when there was a deer in prospect. At last, wearied out of all patience, the marchioness said:
"Pray do talk English, McLeish. I cannot understand a word you say in Gaelic."
"It is a pity you had not learnt such a useful thing before taking to the hill," was McLeish's dry response.

A Whimsical Wager.

A young Austrian nobleman who had the reputation of being a brilliant talker made a wager with a club friend that during the first year of his marriage with the daughter of a certain count he would preserve a rigid silence when in her presence and, in fact, would not speak a single word to her. This resolution he faithfully kept; but, owing to the fact that the wager was not made public, some very curious consequences ensued. His wife, believing him to be insane, privately sent a brain specialist to examine the taciturn gentleman. He was on the point of being conveyed to a sanitarium when he disclosed the reason of his behavior. When the year was up he claimed the wager, which was duly paid.

PHOTOGRAPHING ANIMALS.

Some Dangers the Man Behind the Camera Encounters.

Today the camera penetrates everywhere, and sometimes its use is attended with considerable danger and difficulty. Nowhere is this more pronounced than when the camera is brought into use in taking lifelike pictures of wild animals in captivity.

How hazardous this may be is shown by the following incident, which happened not long ago at a big zoological garden abroad: A fine white leopard had been added to the collection, and as soon as it appeared to have settled down the authorities decided to have it photographed. It seemed to be a fairly quiet creature—nervous and timid, to be sure, but without any sign of temper.

When the keeper entered its cage it had taken little notice of him beyond the usual spitting and hissing natural to its kind. The photographer therefore followed the keeper into its cage without apprehension of trouble.

He set up his apparatus, adjusted it, took several pictures of the leopard, and all seemed satisfactory. As he shut up his camera, however, the operator chanced to shuffle his feet once or twice on the floor of the cage.

Like a streak of lightning the leopard, with an ominous snarl, leaped at him, and before he could move the animal was gripping his ankle with his forepaws and furiously biting at his foot. Luckily the keeper and some assistants succeeded in beating off the beast in time to save the photographer's life, but it was a narrow squeak.

At the same zoo some time after when an attempt was made to photograph one of the llamas—an animal generally considered to be a fairly docile creature, with nothing particularly objectionable about it beyond its habit of spitting—the photographer's "subject" revealed its true nature by suddenly making a dash for camera and operator, and before the latter could be rescued he was the recipient of innumerable scratches, cuts and bruises which took some weeks to heal.

It is an open question whether seals and sea lions are vicious or not. They are certainly extremely curious and anxious to find out things for themselves, and a photographer who tried to take a picture of a troupe of performing sea lions had an experience worth recording.

He erected his tripod and camera and was about to make the exposure when one of the sea lions wriggled off his pedestal and made straight for the camera. It was all done so quickly that before the photographer realized it the camera was upset and the sea lion was biting the man's legs and feet pretty sharply.

The trainer got him away, and no serious harm was done, but he explained to the camera man that sea lions often did a little biting just to find out what an object was made of!—Pearson's Weekly.

Clancy's Employer.

Benjamin F. Butler of Massachusetts was a tireless worker when he started on anything. He and his secretary, Clancy, says the Baltimore Sun, oftentimes sat in the library until almost daylight when the general wanted to finish up anything.

During the night sessions of the senate toward a close of congress a senator called on General Butler one morning at 3 o'clock. The same senator called again when the senate adjourned the following morning at daybreak and found the general and Clancy still at work.

"Don't you ever stop?" the senator asked.

"No," General Butler said. "Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do."

"General, I never knew before just who my employer was," Clancy said, bowing.

Placing the Blame.

Counsel (a giant in the world of cross examiners)—You are continually bringing actions, aren't you?

Plaintiff—I have brought a few.

Counsel—You didn't succeed in the last, did you?

Plaintiff—I came out of it all right.

Counsel—Do you mean to say you didn't lose it?

Plaintiff—I did not.

Counsel—You didn't? Remember, sir, you are on your oath.

Plaintiff—I know that.

Counsel—And yet you swear you didn't lose that action?

Plaintiff—I did not. You threw it away for me.—London Scraps.

Her Eloquent Glance.

The plea of a man arrested for swearing at his mother-in-law was that "she commenced with him first."

"Did she swear at you?" asked the judge.

"No, your honor, but she looked it."—St. Louis Republic.

The handling of my loss by you was pleasing to me. Please write a nother policy on my new kiln, and send it to me by return mail.

Yours truly,
(Signed) R. R. Fleming,

Note
This is only one among the many letters I have from satisfied policy holders. My long experience in the business of Fire Insurance has equipped me to handle your loss satisfactorily. Moral—Get the best your money can buy.
