FARMERS' CONSOLIDATED TOBACCO CO.

FIFTH ANNUAL MEETING OF STOCK HOLDERS.

Large Cash Dividend Paid Besides Creating Surplus Fund—The Organization Growing in Merited Popularity.

Today in the Star warehouse the stockholders of the Farmers' Consolidated Tobacco Company met in fifth annual session with a very large attendance. Mr. O. L. Joyner, president of the company, presented his report for the past year which showed the business of the organization to be in strong and healthy condition, with interest in it constantly increasing and farmers becoming more and more impressed with its advantages.

A cash dividend of 10 1/2 per cent was paid to all stockholders, besides a reserve of 7 1/2 per cent, carried over as a surplus for building improvements and to further enlarge the field of operations. This made the total net earnings for the year 24 per cent on the outstanding stock. This handsome profit was made notwithstanding the fact that there was a considerable increase in stock over the previous year, and the further fact that much additional expense was incurred by reason of the bitter and vigorous fight made against the company last fall.

It is well remembered that during last fall a number of anonymous pamphlets were circulated which were filled with malicious misrepresentations of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company, yet so far as lessening the esteem of the public in the company is concerned they fell far short of their intent as the result has fully shown. In the meantime the company was doubling its efforts to advance the price of tobacco, and the result was that for the first time since tobacco culture was started in Eastern North Carolina the price of tobacco on the Greenville market remained higher than cotton through the whole season. This was due to the methods and system of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company, and every monthly report issued by the secretary of the Tobacco Board of Trade showed that this company was getting considerably higher prices for tobacco than any other warehouses.

For four years the company operated only on the Greenville market, its idea being to first demonstrate at home what the farmers could accomplish by organizing and conducting a warehouse business of their own. Last year the first step was made in reaching out to broader territory when two warehouses on the Robersonville market were leased, options to purchase being taken at the same time. This extension of operations proved so satisfactory that before the options expired the directors met and ordered the purchase of the Robersonville property. For the next season the two warehouses at Robersonville will be joined together and run as one, thus saving the expense of one warehouse force.

The company has also decided to still further broaden its operations the next season, and to that end has secured two warehouses in Kinston and one in Wilson. Thoroughly competent men have been secured at all the houses. The enlarged business requiring more attention by someone thoroughly familiar with the operations of the com-

AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Splendid Program Rendered at Both Services on Easter Day.

Those who did not attend services at the Christian church Sunday morning missed a rare treat. The pastor preached an excellent sermon and a fine program of music was given. The regular choir was greatly assisted by Mrs. Kline, Miss Bennett and Mr. Meredith, also Mrs. Cary Mayo, first violin; Mr. Royce Tucker, second violin; Mr. L. D. Wade, clarinet; Prof. Baily, trombone.

Following is the program rendered.

Organ voluntary—Miss Minnie Tunstall.

Prayer.

Response—"Father of Heaven" F. G. Handel.

Anthem—"Hallelujah; Christ is Risen" arranged from Handel's celebrated "Hallelujah chorus."

Reading.

Hymn Anthem—"Christ the Lord is Risen," Danks.

Prayer.

Response—"Thy Peace O Lord," Thayer.

Offering.

Duet—"In the Breaking of the Bread"—Barri, Mrs. Travis E. Hooker and Miss Bennett.

Sermon.

Hymn—"Christ the Lord is Risen Today."

Gloria Patri.

At night Easter exercises were held by the children, a program consisting of songs and recitations was very nicely rendered.

pany, Mr. Joyner will have general oversight of the entire business. Capt. J. R. Hutchings, a veteran warehouseman of many years experience, will have charge of the "Gum" warehouse in Greenville. Mr. W. T. Lipscomb, well known here as an expert warehouseman, will have charge of the warehouse at Wilson, and men equally capable will be in charge at Kinston.

The farmers of Wilson and Lenoir counties are to be congratulated that the benefits of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company are to be extended to them. Just as has been the experience of the farmers of Pitt and Martin counties, they will find it greatly to their advantage to co-operate with the company.

The Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company is not an organization to work against any other interests, but is simply an organization of farmers to conduct a warehouse business for the sale of one of their chief products and to distribute the profit of the business among themselves. How well it is succeeding is shown in the fact that in five years the original stockholders have received dividends amounting to 11 3/4 per cent. Thus they have been more than paid back every dollar they invested in the organization. And the property owned by the company today is worth 25 per cent more than was paid for it. This result challenges any other business to make a better showing.

All the old officers of the company were re-elected, as follows: O. L. Joyner, president; J. J. Laughinghouse, vice president; W. H. Dail, Jr., secretary; R. J. Cobb, treasurer.

RETURNS MINUS BOTH LEGS.

Most Notorious Chicken Thief in Wake County Who Escaped From Roads.

Raleigh, N. C., April 18.—Henry Bryant, the most notorious chicken thief ever in Wake county, who was sentenced to two years and a half in 1906 escaped from the roads March 2nd. He was granted a pardon by Gov. Glenn some days ago, about fourteen days after he escaped, the Governor not knowing of his escape. His pardon was revoked as soon as the governor learned that he had escaped.

Bryant has returned to Raleigh but is minus both legs. He was run over by a freight train near Roanoke, Va. whence he had fled, over a month ago. His brother in law named Ed. Hester informed the sheriff Sears today of the negroes' return and wants the county to take charge of him. Bryant several years ago had a large cave near Raleigh in which he kept hundreds of stolen chickens.

Rev. R. C. Jackson.

We are requested to announce that the Rev. R. C. Jackson, an able and highly esteemed Free Will Baptist minister, will speak on prohibition at the following times and places.

May's Chapel, Monday night April 27, at 8 p. m.

Marlboro church, Tuesday night April 28, at 8 o'clock.

Fountain, Wednesday night April 29, at 8 o'clock.

King's X Roads, Thursday night April 30, at 8 o'clock.

Shivers school house, near Steven Wooten's Friday night May 1st.

Gum Swamp church, Saturday night and Sunday, May 2 and 3.

Mr. Jackson is one of the leading ministers in his church. He is greatly esteemed and beloved by all who know him and it is hoped that the people, in the communities where he speaks, will do themselves the honor to go out to hear him. They will go away from the service better men and women rejoicing that he came into their communities. 4-20 8td and w.

Eleven persons united with the Methodist church, Sunday morning, as a result of the recent protracted meeting. So many standing around the altar being received into the church made an impressive scene.

PITT COUNTY SUPERIOR COURT.

APRIL TERM BEGAN THIS MORNING AT 10:00

Judge W. R. Allen Presiding and Hon. C. L. Abernethy Prosecuting for State—Jurors Drawn.

The April term of Pitt Superior court began today with Judge W. R. Allen presiding and Solicitor C. L. Abernethy prosecuting for the State. The grand jury selected for the term was as follows: R. L. Little foreman, J. A. Adams, J. T. Bundy, J. R. Pippin, Josephus Cox, J. A. Teel, Jos. Tripp, H. R. Bullock, J. S. Warren, A. M. Mosley, E. B. Garris, J. W. Burney, Charles McLawhorn, J. R. Dozier, J. B. Nelson, W. C. Joyner, O. E. Warren, H. B. Whitford.

While Judge Allen was charging the grand jury, one of them, Mr. W. J. Evans, was taken sick and had to be excused and another summoned in his place. After the jury had retired it was found that two men named Richard Worthington were on the jury when only one by that name had been summoned. They returned to the court room and the foreman reported this to the judge when both the men by the same name were excused and others drawn in their places.

Her Obscure Role.

Theophile Gautier was once instrumental in securing an engagement at the Theatre Historique for a blond young woman of no particular talent, but with the supremely innocent face of a praphaelite maiden. "Othello" was then being rehearsed. One day the girl came flying into Gautier's library. "What's the matter now?" asked the poet.

"The matter is that they want to give me a contemptible part."
"What part?"
"Desdemona."

The Lesser Evil.

Tommy—Hello, Jimmy! Where are you going in such a hurry?

Jimmy—I'm going home.

Tommy—Something good going on there?

Jimmy—Well, ma's going to spank me.

Tommy (in surprise)—But why are you in such a hurry?

Jimmy—Because if I don't get home at once pa will be in, and he'll do it.—London Scraps.

No Current Tuesday Morning.

Superintendent Haskins says the day current of the electric plant will be cut over tomorrow until noon while the position of some poles is being changed to make ready for the street paving. Users of day current should make their plans accordingly.

Truth.

The tabling of the Aldrich bill in congress is cause for congratulation to the entire country. May it sleep forever.

The "merry widow" and every other brand of new hat had a good time Easter Sunday, for they could not have picked better weather.

Do not let the politicians after office make you forget the prohibition election. Carrying the State for prohibition is more important than electing all the officers.

Farewells that are not farewells are the order of Adeline Patti. She is threatening America with another, conditioned on the price being guaranteed.

The Charlotte Observer says several large Mecklenburg farmers who were holding their cotton have become afraid of the declining market and sold out. Holding has not resulted profitably to the farmers this season.

The Charlotte News says the hauling off of trash in that city has become so burdensome that there is likelihood of the aldermen passing an ordinance requiring residents to pay for hauling their trash. As the residents pay the taxes and the hauling is paid for by the city out of these taxes, it looks like the residents are already paying for their hauling. There is too much disposition on the part of the governing boards of municipalities to inflict additional burdens on the residents.

In our news columns today will be found a report of the fifth annual meeting of the stockholders of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company and what the organization is accomplishing for the farmers. In this connection it is well to say that too much credit cannot be given Mr. O. L. Joyner, president of the company, under whose splendid management such excellent results have been attained. His efforts for the success of the company have been indefatigable, and he has thrown his life and soul in it determined to rise or fall with it. Its success is an honor to him and he deserves the gratitude of every stockholder and patron of the company. When the company was first organized and its plan of operations explained, The Reflector had faith in it and has not hesitated to express its confidence in Mr. Joyner and the enterprise. We believe it is the ideal farmers' organization and deserves the co-operation and encouragement of all tobacco farmers.

HOUSE RENT IN PERU.

An Odd Experience With a Hut and Its Landlords.
 In a village on the upper Marañon, in Peru, Mr. C. R. Enock stayed for some weeks in a thatched adobe house on the banks of the river. In "The Andes and the Amazon" he recalls certain amusing facts regarding his stay.
 I hired the place, writes Mr. Enock, at the not exorbitant rental of 20 cents per week, which amount I handed to the owner on receiving the key. I had just had it well swept out, my baggage installed and traveling cot put up and was enjoying full possession of the premises when a wrathful senora appeared and asked my servant by what right I was there.
 It transpired that she laid claim to the ownership of the place, saying that the person to whom I paid the rent was an impostor, who had absolutely no right to the house at all.

Weary at length of the voluble arguments of the woman, who went back into the remote history of the village to prove her claim, I hit upon the simple method of getting rid of her by paying her the amount of the rent, the disputed 20 cents, in full. But I took the precaution to obtain a receipt this time.

The dame having departed, I again lay back in my cot and was just falling into a siesta when more wrathful voices aroused me. Behold! Three other women and a man were laying claim to the house and its rent and were only prevented from entering by the knowledge that the patron was asleep within, as my men informed them, and sleep is much respected among these people.

This was really too much, and I sent my boy for the gobernador. After much sifting of evidence it appeared that the last claimants, the man and his three cousins, held probably the most likely right to title, and to get rid of the whole affair I again produced a twenty-cent coin and deposited it temporarily in the keeping of the gobernador until such time as a judicial decision on his part should be arrived at.

This particular house afforded me yet another incident. Washing to encourage habits of cleanliness and decency among my men, I had upon leaving them orders that the place should be thoroughly swept out and cleaned up. The day after my men and baggage and my servant joined me I inquired if my instructions had been carried out and saw by their answers that such had not been the case. Forthwith I ordered a right about turn, and the village was shortly astonished at our rearrival. I set the men to work and had the place left in thorough order, while the villagers crowded around wondering.

"Know," I said grandiloquently, "that an Englishman always leaves a house cleaner when he goes away than when he entered it."

Unft.
 "Would you advise me to go into politics?"
 "Young man," answered Senator Sorghum, "the mere fact that you are so modest as to ask advice about it proves that you are unfit for the profession."

All the Gold IN GEORGIA Could not Buy-

Roding, Ga. August 27, 1906.
 Messrs. E. C. DeWitt & Co.,
 Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen—
 In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. Some physicians told me it was Dyspepsia, some Consumption of the Lungs, others said consumption of the Bowels. One physician said I would not live until Spring, and for four long years I existed on a little boiled milk, soda biscuits, doctors' prescriptions and Dyspepsia remedies that flooded the market. I could not digest anything I ate, and in the Spring 1903 I picked up one of your Almanacs as a poor emaciated Dyspepsia wreck will grasp at anything, and that Almanac happened to be my life saver. I bought a fifty cent bottle of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and the benefit I received from that bottle ALL THE GOLD IN GEORGIA COULD NOT BUY. I kept on taking it and in two months I went back to my work, as a machinist, and in three months I was well and hearty. I still use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic.
 May you live long and prosper.
 Yours very truly,

CLIMBING AN ICE SLOPE.

Rain and Perilous Effort to Scale Mount McKinley.
 The long trail to the north brings out the best in men and the worst, declares Mr. Robert Dunn in "The Shameless Diary of an Explorer." As a member of a party which made a vain attempt to reach the top of Mount McKinley he tells something of the hardships of one day's travel:
 Fortunately, imperceptibly, the steepness had stolen a march on us. As one line of footholds gave out we had to slide dexterously to another. The steeper slope was swept clear and hard. Steps had to be cut.
 We have only three ice axes. As I never gave them a thought this morning, all of them were gobbled up when we started, and I was left with only one long willow tent pole. It was never meant to balance you in half-cut steps that may or may not hold your toe.
 As the steps changed from a stairway to a step-ladder the other three betrayed an excitement, no uneasiness. Neither did I at first, but I felt both. It was not dizziness, not vertigo, but simply that as I looked down the sheer 2,000 feet from where we clung by our toes, imagination resistlessly told over how it would feel, how long it would last, what the climax in sensation would be, were I to fall.
 As hour succeeded hour I lived each minute only to make the false step. Courage is only a matter of self-control anyway.
 Climbing the highest mountain on the continent with a tent pole! Sometimes I bolted in those dizzy, anxious places that I had put myself in such a position with such men. Yet I must reap my own sowing. Once I asked if it wasn't customary to rope on such steep slopes, but no one but Fred answered, and he said: "Y' ain't goin' to ketch me tied up to anybody. A man don't want to take chances with any one but himself, haulin' him down from these places."
 One requisite of explorers besides aversion to soap and water is insensitiveness. They can't see; they can't feel. They couldn't do these stunts if they did.

THE HUMAN BRAIN.
 It is the Most Marvelous Machine in the World.
 The human brain is the most marvelous machine in the world. It occupies less space in proportion to its capabilities than any machine it ever invented. It sends a special nerve to every ultimate fiber of some 800 muscles, to many thousand branching twigs of arteries, to every pinhead area of the numerous glands which they the machine properly oiled, heated or cooled, to some sixteen square feet of skin, which is the outermost part of its casing, while such complex parts as the point of a pin cannot fill an inch of space. It possesses special organs for the reception and transmission of a constant stream of vibrations that are the product of all things movable or still in the outer world. On the retina of every open eye is a picture of the outer view, a focused imprint of every ray of light and color, and in the visual chamber of the mental palace stands a vibrance, a magic lantern that receives the retinal picture in its billion speeding series of light waves and throws them upon its mental screen as a living moving picture of light and shade and color. In the chamber of sound is a vibraphone, over whose active wires passes every wave of sound from the dripping of the dew to the orchestral fortissimo, from the rancous screech of the locomotive to the sighing of the wind through the meadow grass. In the chambers set apart for scent and taste and touch are the secret service guards to report upon the air and food which give sustenance to the palace and upon the solid qualities of the tactile world. And, wonder of all wonders, this complex human brain can think in all languages or in no language and even conceive its own physical mortality.—Edward A. Ayres in Harper's Magazine.

Where the Tips Go.

"But I can tell you something you don't know about the tipping system in the cloakrooms of some of the large cafes," remarked a midnight diner to his wife.
 "Why, don't the small boys just pocket all they get?" inquired she.
 "Pocket! Their uniforms are made without a sign of a pocket so that none of the tips can find a lodging there. Those boys get nothing but a salary, which is paid by a man who has purchased the check room privilege for as high as five thousand a year. The tips are all turned into him. You can imagine what the privilege is worth when he can pay down that sum for the right."—New York Press.

Deafness Cannot be cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

BORN WITHOUT FEAR.

Yet Minds of Children Are Made Bogy Houses by Parents.

"My little boy is naturally so timid," "My little girl is so easily frightened. We are trying to cure her of it, but she was born with that sensitive nature, and we have to be very careful." So fond parents are sometimes heard to say when a child shows some special form of fear.

Yet, according to Clara Louise Burnham, who writes in Appleton's Monthly on "How to Keep Your Child From Fear," almost all children are born without fear, and fear is carefully instilled into them by parents and nurses.

Nature, she says, generally hands the child to the parents physically perfect, and still more often she hands him over full of optimism and faith. "Nothing is too good for me," is his natural attitude. Then comes perhaps his first fall. Straightway the anxious mother rushes to him with a cry and picks him up "with such manner and words that he screams with terror," and so the instilling of fear goes on.

"I'm afraid," begins too many of the remarks parents make to their children, says this author. Christian parents constantly disobey the Bible, which is full of commands to "Fear not," "Rejoice always," and while professing to believe the Bible undermine the child's native confidence by teaching it that the world is beset with "snares and pitfalls to health and happiness." So the child becomes, as it were, mentally slouching and stoop shouldered instead of facing life, as he was born to do, with an upright, joyous carriage.

Fear, disaster, sickness should not be talked of in the presence of children. Even though they may not seem to understand it at the time, it sinks into their little minds. It is a disturbing, a distorting influence. Even worse in its influence is the mistake of the anxious mother who is always imagining that her child is ill. "Are you sure you feel all right, dear? Haven't you a pain anywhere?" It need not take much of such insistence to make the healthiest child, if not physically ill, at least nervously upset. The unwise nurse does no end of harm. "She may be kind and loving," says Mrs. Burnham, "and yet consider the mysterious boggy man and the obvious policeman her legitimate allies in enforcing a paralyzed obedience." And so fresh elements of fear are introduced into the child's horizon.

Another thing this writer strongly denounces is the "strange tradition" that into every pantomime or play for the entertainment of children monstrosities must be introduced—cardboard giants, weird figures with goggle eyes and awful grins—which strike terror into the baby hearts. She makes a special remonstrance concerning Captain Hook and his pirate band in "that otherwise charming play, 'Peter Pan.'" No child under twelve should have his nervous system shocked by these gentlemen and their awful captain," she says, and she describes how at one performance she saw a child with its head buried in its mother's lap, begging piteously to know if "the pirates had gone."

A Little to One Side.

"You think you have unusual presence of mind?" said Mrs. Jenks to her husband in a tone which was somewhat tinged by the recollection of her recent wrongs connected with a forgotten basket of kindlings.

"I do in reason," said Mr. Jenks boldly, turning his back to the wood box.

"Humph!" said Mrs. Jenks. "Well, while you've been two hours and a half at the store getting me a yeast cake I've been reading the paper a few minutes to rest my back after doing a lot of work no woman ought to have put on her, and I've been reading of a man that really had presence of mind. What should you do first off if you saw a man fall out of a balloon way up in the air?"

"First off," said Mr. Jenks, turning a calm gaze on his inquisitor, "I should wait to see where he landed, meanwhile standing from under if possible."—Youth's Companion.

Bills and Coins.

All kinds of guesses have been made as to the number of one dollar bills that would be required to equal the weight of a five dollar gold piece. The guesses range, as a rule, from 50 to 500, and when a humorist in the treasury asks a visitor which he would prefer, all the five dollar gold pieces he could lift or the same weight in one dollar bills, the visitor immediately votes for bills, imagining, as he does, that the proportion will be about ten to one in favor of one dollar bills as against the gold. As a matter of fact, there is very little difference between the weight of one five dollar gold piece and five one dollar bills. To be exact, just six and a half bills will balance the five dollar gold piece.

THE ALLIGATOR.

To Students of Animal Habits He is a Fee Worth Watching.

For the nature student the habits of the alligator hold much interest. To the camera sportsman he presents delightful possibilities, while to the everyday tourist who will really seek him in his home he will give an assortment of sensations more thrilling than could be unearthed in a year of ordinary globe trotting.

Hunt up the haunts of the creature until you find a river that he frequents. Paddle quietly and alone down the stream and up the creeks and branches that enter it till you find on the bank the bed of an alligator with signs of his recent presence. Hide your skiff, sit down on the bed and wait for him to come home. By and by out in the middle of the stream you may see three little black dots—the nose and eyes of your absentee landlord—and soon the whole head, tail and back may appear. He will swim slowly toward you and probably sink gradually beneath the surface before reaching the bank. If he comes on and crawls up on the bank beside you, it will be a high tribute to your coolness and complete control of your nerves, and the incident will make a pleasant place in your memory.

It happened once to me that after long waiting for the return of an alligator upon whose bed I was sitting I discovered that he had not left it, but was lying in the tall grass just behind me, with his big jaws three feet from my face and his ten foot body curved partly around me.

After sitting silently in my skiff for half an hour, wondering why an alligator I had seen didn't show up, I chanced to look down and saw his head resting quietly on the surface of the water within twelve inches of my hand as it lay on the gunwale.

It gives a sensation to be remembered to sit thus, motionless, watching the unwinking eyes of this free, wild, powerful brute fixed gravely on your face, the huge jaws and the little that shows of the long, white teeth within reach of your jaws and teeth.—A. W. Dimock in Harper's.

English Money Lenders.

An English clergyman, being pestered with offers from users to advance him sums of money, had the curiosity to answer one by asking on what terms he would loan him £250. By return of post there arrived a letter asking particulars of his rent, life insurance and other intimate matters. To this he made no reply. Then followed a note asking him to call in London on a certain day, to which he sent an answer that he did not intend to call and that the money lender need not trouble himself further in the matter. But the affair was not at an end. Two days later a registered letter arrived, inclosing £250 in notes and a form to be filled up, promising to pay £300 in three months. The clergyman then put the money, the form and the correspondence in the hands of his solicitor, who after three weeks' delay returned the notes to the usurer and got a guinea out of them for his costs.—London Globe.

Imperfectly Equipped.

A story of one McLeish told by the Marchioness of Breadalbane in her book, "The High Tops of Black Mount," does not controvert Dr. Johnson's dictum, "Much may be done with a Scotchman if he be caught young," but qualifies it. McLeish was not young enough when caught.

The Marchioness of Breadalbane, an ardent sportswoman, was accompanied in a deerstalking expedition in one of the great glens of north Britain by McLeish. He had been indulging one day in a long argument in the Gaelic with one of the gillies when there was a deer in prospect. At last, wearied out of all patience, the marchioness said:

"Pray do talk English, McLeish. I cannot understand a word you say in Gaelic."

"It is a pity you had not learnt such a useful thing before taking to the hill," was McLeish's dry response.

A Whimsical Wager.

A young Austrian nobleman who had the reputation of being a brilliant talker made a wager with a club friend that during the first year of his marriage with the daughter of a certain count he would preserve a rigid silence when in her presence and, in fact, would not speak a single word to her. This resolution he faithfully kept; but, owing to the fact that the wager was not made public, some very curious consequences ensued. His wife, believing him to be insane, privately sent a brain specialist to examine the taciturn gentleman. He was on the point of being conveyed to a sanitarium when he disclosed the reason of his behavior. When the year was up he claimed the wager, which was duly paid.

How Many Bricks Have You Sent Away?

That sounds like a funny question, addressed to every citizen of this town and community, but it's really a serious one.

Listen: There is now just completed a magnificent building of red brick exterior and concrete interior right in the business heart of one of the biggest of American cities. It occupies a whole block and calls itself in a large lettered sign "The Largest Monolithic Building In The World." It has many floors, with about a hundred acres of floor space. The entrances are of solid marble. The floors are beautifully tiled. Altogether it is a credit to the big city in which it stands. Oh, it's a Jim Dandy!

Now, how many bricks have you sent to the city to go into this big building? Honest, how many?

Of the hundreds of thousands of bricks put into the walls of this building the city where it stands has contributed not a single red brick. Country people, the people of small towns and cities far away from the big metropolis, have sent in the bricks for the construction of this splendid edifice.

You may have sent in a few hods of bricks yourself without knowing it.

Listen: This magnificent structure, which ornaments a city you probably never will see yourself, is built of bricks bought with the dollars of people living in towns just like ours—towns that would like to have some new brick buildings themselves now and then. Every dollar contributed to the city building fund means a nice, hefty hod of bricks for this big, beautiful skyscraper, "largest in the world" of its kind. This building was put up, through the kind donations of their unknown country cousins, by a firm that ran a small store in that city a few years ago.

But this firm conceived the cute idea of having thousands of strangers contribute bricks to build its fine, large, new store.

And the building is a Mail Order Store. See?

LITTLE WOODEN BARRELS.

Made by the Millions, Some of Them Tiny Bits of Things.

Among the all but endless variety of things of wood produced in American factories are little wooden barrels. They are turned out of white birch and come in many sizes, from tiny affairs, an inch and a half high, up to barrels ten inches high.

The biggest of them are turned with a hand manipulated tool, but those ranging from six inches downward are turned each with a cutting tool, having an edge so formed that it turns the barrel all at once. They set a block of wood in the lathe and adjust the cutting tool, and it turns the barrel into shape complete as quickly as a man turning with a hand tool could have turned one of the hoops on it, and on the smallest barrels one man can run three or four machines.

These little barrels are sold in the aggregate in great numbers, millions of them yearly. A single tack manufacturing concern buys them in carload lots, 2,000 gross, or 288,000 barrels at a time. Great numbers are used by confectioners, who fill them with candy, and they are used to contain a bottle of perfumery.

Many are sold to be given away at fairs or in other ways, being filled with a sample of a staple product of the region, perhaps of flour or it might be of sugar. Many of them are made with a slot cut in one end, or head, through which coins can be dropped, the little barrels in this form being used for savings banks or given out by Sunday school teachers to their pupils to make collections in for some specific purpose. Individual purchasers buy the little barrels to use for button boxes, and great numbers of them are sold for toys.

So in this country there are used millions of them annually, and for all the various uses to which the little barrels are put they are exported in large numbers to countries all over the world.—Washington Post.

An Insignificant Obstruction.

An American who was doing Europe came to the frontier of a petty German state where the officers' sense of dignity was in inverse proportion to the significance of the country. When the train stopped a gold braided officer came to the door of the American's carriage and requested him to go forward to the luggage van that his trunks might be inspected. He had tons of luggage, and they began roughly to handle it. "Here," he said presently—"here, hands off! I didn't come from the United States to be controlled by you. Put those things back. I'll not go through you at all. I'll turn back. I'm in no particular hurry. You're no country. You're only a spot. I'll go around you!" And around he went.—Bellman.

His Singular Infirmary.

"What is your name, little boy?" asked the teacher.

"I'll have to write it for you, ma'am," said the new boy hesitatingly.

"I think not. My hearing is quite good. Your name, please."

"I'd rather not tell you."

"Are you ashamed of your name?"

"No, ma'am, but"—

"Then we will not waste any more time, if you please. I am waiting."

The boy's eyes rolled wildly in their sockets and his face became contorted as he began:

"Kuk-kuk-kuk-kuk-Clarence! That's my first name. The other is Pup-pup-pup-pup-pup-P Perkins. I never stutter 'cept when I'm speaking my name, and when I'm nagged like this I'm a whole lot worse, ma'am."—Chicago Tribune.

Land to Spare.

A public dinner in Edinburgh had dwindled away to two guests, an Englishman and a Highlander, who were each trying to prove the superiority of their native countries. Of course at an argument of this kind a Scotsman possesses from constant practice overwhelming advantages. The Highlander's logic was so good that he beat his opponent on every point. At last the Englishman put in a poser. "You will," he said, "at least admit that England is larger in extent than Scotland?"

"Certainly not," was the confident reply. "You see, sir, ours is a mountainous, yours a flat country. Now, if all our hills were rolled out flat we should beat you by hundreds of square miles!"

Discrimination.

"Your husband squanders lots of money, doesn't he?"

"Yes; lots of it."

"He squandered a dollar on cigars yesterday, did he not?"

"Yes."

"And $100 the day before for a diamond?"

"Oh, that wasn't squandered; that was for me."—Houston Post.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's proof:

James Hardison, business address 319 E. Fifth St., Greenville, N. C., says: "My kidneys acted too freely, especially during the night when I would be forced to rise several times. In the morning my back would be very lame and at such times I was subject to pains through my loins. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wooten's drug store, restored my kidneys to a normal condition, I am now able to sleep well at night and the lameness and soreness across the small of my back has entirely disappeared. I have found Doan's Kidney Pills to be exactly as represented and I have no hesitancy in giving them my endorsement."

A LESSON IN ECONOMY

A STENOGRAPHER in a prominent business house, who operated a typewriter where the carriage had to be raised to see what was written, wasted eight minutes in one hour in lifting that carriage.

She was employed eight hours per day. On this basis she lost 64 minutes that day.

She would lose in one year of 300 working days 320 hours.

She was paid $2.50 per day for eight hours' work, 35.7 cents per hour.

Her employer, therefore, would have paid her $114.24 in one year, for which he received no equivalent.

There were ten stenographers employed in this office, and if they all lost the same amount of time, he would have paid in one year $1,142.40 for which he enjoyed no benefit.

In ten years he would have paid $11,424.00 for nothing.

Every business man using a typewriter that does not write in sight, but on which you have to raise the carriage to see the writing, is losing money in the same proportion.

WHICH IS BETTER—

to have that saving of money in dividends, or pay it out for wasted time?

Spring Cleaning, Spring Cleaning

The prevailing rage now, in domestic life, is Spring Cleaning. While you are at that, get out your spring dresses, suits, etc., and have them cleaned up-to-date and ready to wear. Also have your winter clothes cleaned and treated with my special chemical solution to prevent moth eating, and pack them away until winter. RIGHT NOW IS THE TIME.

Yours to please,
