HAPPENINGS IN NORTH CAROLINA

SHORT ITEMS OF EVENTS ABOUT THE STATE.

Crazy Negro Captured in Woods Near Wharton's—John Griffen Ate 18 Eggs at One Sitting.

An aged negro man was captured in the woods near Wharton's this morning in a raving condition, and brought here for safe keeping and investigation of his condition. The man's name could not be learned, as he was unable to give it, and he had to be brought here in irons. The man is at least 75 years old.—Washington Messenger.

Eating eighteen eggs at a sitting nearly as fast as a cook could fry them, three at a time to start with, John Griffen last night established a record which he claims no man can equal in an equal space of time. This morning he was hungry and had his usual steak breakfast. He has eaten seven young chickens in a day, he says.—Greensboro Record.

It is announced that the opening prayer for the State Democratic convention at Charlotte June 24 will be by Rev. P. D. Gold, of Wilson, a distinguished Primitive Baptist minister and editor of the Zion's Landmark. Special interest attaches to this for the reason that it was Rev. Mr. Gold who offered the opening prayer for the last Democratic convention which met in Charlotte in 1855.

COX'S MILL ITEMS.

Cox Mill, N. C., April 28.

Oscar Evans and Tom Tyson went to Everetts school house Sunday to hear Rev. Calis Little preach. They said he preached a good sermon. He will preach again next fourth Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Our farmers are bending their backs now setting out tobacco plants.

Willie A. Tyson, of Greenville, spent Sunday here with friends.

Henry Page went to Greenville Saturday on business.

W. M. Page is all smiles. It is a fine boy.

Misses Bessie Moore and Lillie Carroll spent Saturday night and Sunday with Miss Helen Hadcock.

Everything New This Season.

The climax of all tented amusements, A. G. Allen's Big Colored minstrels, will appear here under canvass April 30th. The company includes some of the best singers, dancers, cake walkers and colored speciality artists known among the colored race. This is the first minstrel show in the United States to appear under canvass and Mr. Allen is the originator of the idea and has succeeded in getting together a musical organization of such magnitude that would be impossible to be produced in an opera house.

Wiley Brown's class of the Methodist Sunday school will have a lawn party on the court house square Friday night, at which refreshments will be sold. If there should be rain that night the party will be held in L. H. Pender's store. 4 29 2td

The Domestic Steam Laundry, of Wilson, has opened a branch office in Greenville in charge of E. B. Boykin, and will be glad to have your patronage. Work called for and delivered. 4 27 3td

FOR TOWN ELECTION.

Registrars, Poll Holders and Polling Places.

The board of aldermen held a special meeting today for the purpose of naming the registrars and poll holders and selecting the polling places for the election to be held in the several wards on the first Monday in June, and the following were selected:

First ward—J. D. Garden, registrar; Charles Cobb and J. B. White, poll holders; polling place, court house.

Second ward—W. D. Pruitt, registrar; J. J. Willis and M. H. White, poll holders; polling place, Winslow's stables, on Fourth street.

Third ward—R. A. Tyson, Sr., registrar; C. D. Rountree and G. E. Cherry, poll holders; polling place, the Forbes store on Five Points.

Fourth ward—J. G. Bowling, registrar; H. A. Timberlake and T. R. Moore, poll holders; polling place, Turnage's store on Five Points.

Fifth ward—Ollen Warren, Jr., registrar; H. L. Coward and W. H. Kilpatrick, poll holders; polling place, Speight's office near Five Points.

SHELMERDINE NEWS.

Shelmerdine, N. C. April 29, F. G. Whaley returned from Suffolk Monday night.

Dr. and Mrs. Ricks spent Monday in Greenville shopping.

Miss Mary Belle Ricks is spending a few days in Greenville with Miss Mamie Ruth Tunstall.

J. D. Cox, of Winterville, came in Tuesday night.

James Alford spent several days last week with relatives and friends at his old home in Nash county, returning Sunday.

F. B. Barber returned Sunday from Aulander, where he went to attend the closing exercises of the Aulander graded school.

P. H. Harrington returned Monday from a secret business tour. He would not tell what his business was but says he thinks he fixed it up all right.

Miss Blanche Forebee, who has been teaching in the Shelmerdine public school, returned to her home at Belcross after a most successful school term.

Dr. Gaston G. Bell, of Oriental, was the guest of Mrs. J. O. Bobbitt last week.

Miss Olga Harrell, formerly of this place but now of Drum Hill, is spending some time here with her father and friends.

W. T. Harrell spent Sunday in Vanceboro on very important business.

C. B. Duke, of Suffolk spent Thursday night in town.

Miss Bessie Hellen, of Grifton, has returned home after spending several days with Mrs. J. O. Bobbitt.

W. D. Adams and family have moved on Pine street and J. W. Sykes and family will occupy the house in which they lived on Mulberry street.

Got a Charlotte Order.

Mr. J. Benjamin Higgs who is Southern representative of the Mack Manufacturing Company and sold the paving brick that are now being unloaded in Greenville to do the street paving here, has closed a contract for a large shipment to Charlotte for the paving that city is now doing. Mr. Higgs secured both of these orders over strong competitors.

S. C. WOODN FOR HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

To the Democratic Voters of Pitt county:

We the undersigned citizens of Farmville township wish to announce that we will present the name of Mr. Stephen C. Wooten to the next Democratic county convention for House of Representatives. He is a young man of unquestionable character, a true and loyal Democrat, and a firm believer in the principles of the party. He is a worthy and deserving young man, and has by his own efforts made himself.

The people of Farmville township have for many years in the past supported heartily every ticket put forth by the party without asking anything for herself, and for this reason we believe that Farmville township is entitled to this recognition at the hands of the Democratic voters of Pitt county.

We earnestly ask the people of Pitt to give their influence and support to the gentleman whom we place in nomination.

Respectfully signed,
S. T. Lewis, J. H. Harris,
J. F. Carr, J. H. Thomas,
A. J. Flanagan, J. R. Newton,
J. T. Bowles, G. M. Shirley,

C. V. Newton, R. L. Joyner.

* Put a Guard on Speech.

All the three candidates for governor are upright and honorable men. They are men of unimpeachable private character, and are men of conspicuous service and ability. If any one of them is nominated the Democratic party will have a standard bearer, of which it will be proud, and who will lead it to a single victory. How little, then, does it become the friends of any candidate to belittle or vilify any other candidate. Only one can be nominated and somebody will have to eat some crow if a better guard is not placed around the speech and action. Let every man do all he can for his own candidate in every honorable way, and let the contest be fair and open; but let us also remember that we are all Democrats and that a bitter word spoken cannot be easily recalled.—Concord Times.

Joyner Believes in Taxation.

Raleigh, N. C. April 28.—State Superintendent Joyner was interviewed today and says that when folks take a sober second thought they will see the mistake in failing to provide for schools. The only way to maintain efficient schools, he said, is by taxation and he has not lost faith in the people of Raleigh.

Citizens are continuing to subscribe to the fund list, and it is thought the schools will continue to the end of the session. Certainly the high school will.

Harmonizing the Features.

By properly measuring the face for spectacles and nose glasses and knowing the sizes lens required to harmonize the facial features, combined with the latest popular patterns of frames and mountings, makes our work all that people of refined taste can desire.

J. S. Ross, of Robersonville spent Tuesday here and took little Stella Whichard back with him for a visit there.

Harry Skinner and R. C. Flanagan left for Greensboro Tuesday evening to attend the Republican State convention.

Guy Williamson, a former Greenville boy, but now of Scotland Neck, was here today shaking hands with his old friends.

Miss Pattie Wooten is the happy possessor of a handsome pony cart for use with the pony which she has had for some time. The pony and cart make a pretty turnout.

Mr and Mrs. O. Hooker, H. C. and Z. V. Hooker, of Richmond, came in Tuesday evening to see their mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hooker, who has been quite sick for some time.

Deserves Your Patronage.

No entertainment has a stronger claim on your patronage than the concert to be given by the orphans tonight in the opera house. With such a small admission price no one should stay away. By going to the concert you will help a worthy institution and also get more than the worth of your money.

Hear the Orphans' Tonight.

With the admission price only 25 cents there should not be a vacant seat in the opera house at the orphans' concert tonight. You can have seats reserved at Reflector Book Store without extra charge.

Elder R. C. Jackson

Will speak on Prohibition at Hickory Grove church Monday night May 4th, 1908 at 8 o'clock. Men and women are cordially invited to hear this able and godly minister discuss this righteous cause.

WINERVILLE ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor.

Winterville, N. C. April 29, 1908.

Several of the Juniors of Winterville council attended the closing exercises of the public school at Forbes' school house. They presented the school a flag and Bible in the afternoon, Rev. T. H. King making the address of presentation. The boys report a pleasant day indeed.

Rev. H. E. Tripp, of Ayden, filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church Sunday morning and night.

The Sunbeams of the Baptist church enjoyed a rare treat Sunday evening. A. G. Cox took them to the county home where they sang and recited for the inmates. What a pleasure it must have been to those aged and infirm people who seldom have such a privilege as this.

G. E. Lineberry and J. D. Cox went to Shelmerdine Sunday where Prof. Lineberry made an address on prohibition to a large crowd. They report nearly every one present indicated that he would vote for prohibition by a rising vote.

Rev. W. E. Cox, of Wilmington, spent a little while last week here with relatives.

There were regular services at Episcopal church Sunday afternoon conducted by Rev. N. C. Duncan.

D. S. Chapman, of Greenville, spent Sunday night here with his parents.

Misses Lucy Pell Langston and Myrtle McGlohou were driving a colt to school here this morning and the animal become frightened just as they entered the campus. The bit broke and he became unmanageable. They were thrown from the buggy but not seriously hurt, we are glad to report. The buggy was torn to pieces.

The town of Winterville held its annual convention for the nomination of officers to be elected next Monday for the ensuing year. They were as follows: Mayor, R. G. Chapman; commissioners, A. G. Cox, J. K. Barnhill and L. L. Kittrell; for policeman, C. S. Smith. The town is to be congratulated upon the selection of these excellent men for officers.

Several of our citizens went to Greenville to hear Hon. W. W. Kitchen speak Monday. They report it as one of the strongest and fairest speeches ever heard in Greenville. Mr. Kitchen has strong support in our town and community.

The singing class from the Oxford orphan asylum gave a delightful entertainment at the academy last night to a large audience. The receipts amounted to $90. They left this morning for Greenville.

Sale of Book Account.

Pursuant to an order made by the Hon. James R. Gaskill, referee in bankruptcy, I will expose for sale, before the court house door in Greenville, on Monday, May 3rd, 1908, at 11 o'clock the book account, and other evidences of debt of the estate of Paramore & Ricks.

F. M. Wooten, Trustee in Bankruptcy. 4-24 5td.

Tomorrow is the last day for paying poll tax in time to save your vote.

One more day will wipe out April.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28, 1908

Make up your mind to vote for prohibition and put an end to the whiskey business.

And the president has added one more message to his list, but there continues to be nothing doing.

Greenville only has one automobile as yet, but just let the street work get completed and you will see more of them coming along.

The Republicans are making promises to revise the tariff after the presidential election. You can note that word, after. But so long as the Republicans remain in control you can look for no important tariff revision.

Tomorrow there will be something doing in Greensboro when the Republican State convention meets there. Wonder if the city will have an census takers or directory makers on hand to enroll the delegates as citizens?

That is a pretty come off at Asheville. While Judge Pritchard is going about the State making speeches for prohibition, his son, an Asheville doctor, writes a prescription on which wine for a society supper is obtained from a drug store.

Senator F. M. Simmons, of North Carolina, is being mentioned in connection with the chairmanship of the Democratic national executive committee. Mr. Simmons is a man of ability and as an organizer and worker is not easily equalled.

The Republicans are burying the hatchet and lining up for the conflict. The report is sent out from Washington that Speaker Cannon will soon announce his withdrawal from the race for the presidential nomination and urge his friends to support Secretary Taft.

We wish a large number of Pitt county's leading farmers would go to the Democratic State convention in Charlotte, and while there take a ride out on Mecklenburg's fine roads. If they will do this, and fail to join the agitation for good roads in Pitt county, we promise to let the subject drop. It will enthrase anybody to see those Mecklenburg roads.

You can note the bend of the president's mind in regard to a third term. Son-in-law Nick Longworth has said "If the convention is stampeded to him (Roosevelt) I do not know what his attitude will be, but I am sure that if he has his way he will not be the nominee." Just a gentle hint that he will take it if the claim can be made that it was forced on him.

To the Voters of Pitt County.

We the undersigned constituting a majority of the county board of elections for the county of Pitt hereby give notice that an election will be held on 26th day of May, 1908, at which all who favor the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in North Carolina will vote a ticket with the words thereon "For the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors" and those who are opposed to the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in North Carolina will vote a ticket with the words thereon "Against the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors."

In order to vote in that election, as in all other elections, it is necessary to be properly registered. It is our opinion that the registration books used at the election on the 14th of May, 1907, are the ones to be used in the coming election. We therefore advise every voter who did not register in that election to see that his name is put on the registration books before the close of the 16th day of May when the registration books will be closed by law.

 J. G. Moye.

 H. A. White,
 Greenville, N. C.

Dear Sir:—
 I own receipt of yours of even date enclosing check for $25.00 to cover indemnity on account of recent illness.

This is the second time in the last twelve months that I have had to call on the Maryland Casualty Co. for indemnity on account of sickness, and I want to thank you for the very prompt manner in which you handle my claims. In each case the preparation of the claim was no trouble to me as you took the matter entirely in your hands thereby saving me the trouble.

Yours very truly,
 C. W. Harvey.

Note—
 When you buy insurance from me you secure the advantage of an experience extending over 15 years. Result: Satisfactory adjustment of claims.

To the Voters of Pitt County.

Some doubt and confusion having arisen in the minds of some persons as to what registration books shall be used as the legal registration books for the registration of voters for the election to take place on the 26th of May 1908. I beg to say that the registrars should use the book used at the election on the 14th day of May 1907 and no other.

Whenever a new registration is ordered and taken all previous registration and registration books become useless and cannot be used at subsequent elections. The registration for the election on 14th, of May 1907 was a new registration and not a special registration. It is therefore certain that the registration books in use at the election on the 14th of May, 1907, must be used in the coming election. Any voter whose name is on the registration books used at the election on the 14th of May, 1907, need not register again. All whose names are not on these books will have to register for the coming election or they cannot vote.

The registration books were opened on the 24th inst and the law requires them to be closed at sundown on Saturday the 16th day of May, 1908. The law also requires the registrars to be at the polling places in their respective precincts on each Saturday during the period of registration, but the registrars can register the voters at other times and places. So it is clear that every voter whose name is not on the registration books used at the election in May 1907 has ample time and opportunity to have it put there if he so desires and I make this publication for the purpose of urging the voters to register and vote. A great moral question is to be decided upon which will seriously affect the habit, the homes and lives of the people and especially the boys and girls who are soon to become the men and women of the near future. You cannot vote in that great question on the 26th of May unless you are registered. I therefore urge you to register. This great question will be presented to you in the form of two ballots. One of these ballots will read "For the Manufacture and Sale of Intoxicating Liquors." The other ballot will read "Against the Manufacture and Sale of Intoxicating Liquors."

A DOLEFUL DILEMMA

The Tearful Tale of the Perplexed Princess.

HER UNSOLVABLE PROBLEM.

A Most Puzzling and Lamentable Situation That Fortunately For the Peace of Mind of Womankind Is Not at All Liable to Recur.

Now, when it was the thousand and third night, said Dunyazad to her sister, Shahrazad, "Allah upon me, O my sister, recite to us some new story, delightful and delectable, wherewith to while away the waking hours of our latter night."

"With joy and goodly will," answered Shahrazad, "if this pious and auspicious king permit."

"Tell on," quoth the king, who had freely partaken of the dish termed by the Franks "the rabbit of Wales" and was sleepless and restless. So Shahrazad, rejoiced with the prospect of talking, thus began on the thousand and third night "The Tale of the Perplexed Princess."

Afar in the realm of Guricund, which lies within the land of Hindustan, once reigned a mighty king who had one daughter of such exceeding beauty that all who beheld her became poets and warriors, which was well for the national fame, but ill for the royal treasury.

Now, the loveliness of the princess being such, it may seem strange that she had attained her eighteenth year unmarried, yet so it befell, for in his hesitancy because of the great multitude of eligible suitors the king, who though otherwise respectable, was a vilely devout heathen, made a vow that he would give his daughter in marriage only to that man who should receive the indorsement of his idol, an image of exceeding ugliness housed in a golden temple adjacent to the palace. So it was that many princes from many lands came to bow before the idol, offering splendid sacrifices and rich gifts of treasure for the desired sign of favor, yet ever the idol remained silent.

At length there came from the island of Lanka a prince of great power, and so deeply smitten was he with love for the princess that he bowed before the idol, saying, "Great lord, grant but that the princess may become my bride, and then shall I without delay return to thee and cut off my own head as a thank offering."

And the next day when the king and all his court came to worship in the golden temple the evil spirit that was within the idol caused the hand of the image to stretch forth and point to the prince and caused the stone lips to open and say to the king, "Behold thy son-in-law!"

Forthwith was the wedding of the prince and princess celebrated with great pomp in the palace, and straightway thereafter, in fulfillment of his vow, the prince hastened to the temple, bowed before the idol and cut off his own head.

Then entered the priest of the temple and in his grief, horror and fear for what had chanced and for what might well come to him in consequence likewise cut off his head.

Then entered the princess, seeking her husband, and seeing but the two headless bodies, raised the prince's sword and was about to sever her own lovely head when the idol spoke again, saying: "Hold! Take the heads and set them upon the men's shoulders!"

And the princess did even so. And the heads grew fast to the bodies, and the bodies rose upon their feet.

But now it appeared that in her haste and tumult of mind the princess had set the priest's head upon the shoulders of the prince and the prince's head upon the shoulders of the priest, so that in a way each was the other, yet neither was either, and each claimed her as his bride, and each head, being a wise head, spoke many shrewd arguments one way and the other, yet could neither prevail. And so was the princess sore perplexed, and in truth, never have I learned how logically to conclude the tale.

"In sooth," said the king, "might she not have obtained a divorce?"

"Nay, sire," replied Shahrazad, "for from whom? And which must she then have married in accordance with the word of the idol?"

"Then," proposed the king, "why might they not have matched dinars to decide which should have her?"

"Ah, my lord," said Shahrazad, shaking her head, "that would have been in accord with the easy, unscientific method of the far west, which would still have left the problem unsolved."

"Surely, then," urged the king, "they might have fought for her."

"And would that have determined the truth?" responded Shahrazad, "and would not the victor have been either or both a murderer and a suicide? Alas, my lord, the insoluble perplexity of this fair princess hath caused me much sorrow, and glad am I only that such sad dilemmas do not often occur." New York Times.

His Crime.
A popular actress recently visited Chicago's Ghetto seeking a samovar. In that strange section of cosmopolitanism she heard a "new one." "As I turned a corner," said the lady, "the boy's mother had him by the ear, and in her uplifted hand there was a menacing barrel stove. 'I'll learn ye to tie the kettle to the cat's tail!' she yelled in wrath. 'It wasn't our cat!' cried the frightened boy. 'No, it wasn't our cat,' almost shrieked the enraged mother, 'but it was our kettle!'"

PLUG HATS OF JAPAN.

Cherished Ticks of the Vintage of Fifty Years Ago.

"There is one night which you must not miss when you go to Tokyo," said the seasoned traveler to a New York Sun reporter. "That is the rare display of anthropological plug hats."

"Some people arrange to get to Japan in cherry blossom season, and others want to get there in time to receive an invitation to the emperor's garden party in chrysanthemum time, but take the tip of one who has batted about the world considerably and land in Tokyo either on New Year's day or on the emperor's birthday. On both you can see something unique in the lines of headgear."

"When Japan began to get civilized she bought all the accessories of civilization that England did not want any more. England sold her old fashioned, out of date, narrow gauge railroad stock, antiquated tram cars and other secondhand junk, including the then current styles of plug hat."

"The title of those days has remained the ruling fashion in Japan up to the present. Japan may build Dreadnoughts, but the plug hat of fifty years ago still reigns supreme."

"Only on such ceremonious occasions as the New Year's festivities, the emperor's birthday or possibly the racing meets at Negishi, near Yokohama, does the Japanese gentleman bring forth from his camphor wood chest his plug hat, a heritage from his forefathers. It may be warped with twenty summers, damp or green with the shine of antiquity, but that matters nothing."

"Once this superstructure of his wrinkled frock coat and bagged trousers is added the Japanese gentleman feels that no dignity short of a decoration of the Order of the Rising Sun can be added to his person. That crowning glory of a plug hat may settle around his ears or it may perch upon his head like half a peanut shell, but no matter. It is the hat of civilization and the badge of respectability."

"He trots out of his house looking like one of the ancient daimios, stiff with the dignity of two swords. All that fearful day he wears this hat of ancient vintage like a crown, and in the end he stows it away in his damp-proof chest, awaiting another festal occasion or held as an asset in his estate after death."

AN INDIAN GREETING.

The Salutation a Canadian Heard on the Columbia River.

Telling about the Indians of the Pacific coast as he found them in 1846, Paul Kane, the Canadian artist, tried to give an idea of their language as he found it at that time. The example which he quotes would have delighted Max Muller, and it may interest some readers in this country. In his "Wanderings of an Artist" he seems not to recall any particular individual of the name of Clark who might have impressed the Indians of the Columbia river, but American readers will at once think of the comrade of Major Lewis in the famous expedition of 1803.

I would willingly give a specimen of the barbarous language of this people were it possible to represent by any combination of our alphabet the horrible, harsh, spluttering sounds which proceed from their throats, apparently unguided either by the tongue or lip, says Mr. Kane. It is so difficult to acquire a mastery of their language that none have been able to attain it except those who have been born among them.

They have, however, by their intercourse with the English and French traders succeeded in amalgamating after a fashion some words of each of these tongues with their own and in forming a sort of patois, barbarous enough certainly, but still sufficient to enable them to communicate with the traders.

This patois I was enabled after some short time to acquire and could converse with most of the chiefs with tolerable ease.

Their common salutation is "Clak-hoh-ah-yah," originating, as I believe, in their ancestors having heard in the early days of the fur trade a gentleman named Clark frequently addressed by his friends, "Clark, how are you?"

This salutation is now applied to every white man, for their own language affords no appropriate expression.—Minneapolis Journal.

A Boy on Clergymen.

Bishop Potter at an ecclesiastical dinner in New York one time read a Cooperstown schoolboy's essay on "Clergymen." The essay, which created much amusement, was as follows:

"There are three kinds of clergymen bishops rectors and curats: the bishops tells the rectors to work and the curats have to do it. A curat is a thin married man but when he is a rector he gets fatter and can preach longer sermons and becomes a good man."—Washington Star.

Women and Betting.

"Why is it that men bet and women don't?"
"Men choose betting as a means of putting a stop to an argument."
"Well?"
"Well, women never want an argument stopped."—Cleveland Leader.

A True Friend.

"I tell you Green is a true friend."
"Give me proof."
"He borrowed money from me and paid it back when I asked him for it without insulting me."—Detroit Free Press.

"The reason some people can stay out of debt is nobody will let them get in."—New York Press.

Are You a Trust Buster?

Hey—You! Yes, YOU'RE the man we mean.

You're always talking about the harm the trusts are doing. The country's going to the demnition bowwows, you say, because of the uncurbed trusts. Rich growing richer, poor getting poorer. Used to be that a poor man could go into business for himself in a modest way and make a good living. Now he must become a clerk or a roustabout or a hodcarrier for some corporation—some combination that has grown to be a Goliath of bigness, that has devoured the fat of the land and is still gourmandizing upon it, till there's not a scrap of bone left for the under dog.

That's your line of talk. You're still handing it out, and you're proud of it.

Well, now, let's see: Are YOU a trust buster YOURSELF?

Didn't we see you stalk up to the postoffice just now and mail a letter with the address of a city Mail Order Store on the envelope? Hey? Didn't we?

Don't you know that the Mail Order Store is a trust—one of the most dangerous in the crowd? Don't you know that it is secretly and silently and slyly closing the doors of opportunity to the young men in country towns and small cities like ours? Don't you know that the Mail Order Trust is collecting the patronage of town and country people by the mail route, thereby cutting down the patronage of the smaller merchant, the local man who is trying to build up a modest, independent, antitrust business?

Hey?

Didn't that ever occur to you?

N. B. (which means note well): Why don't you trade at home instead of helping to build up a trust that hurts your home place?

WHEN SHE GIVES UP.

The Frenchwoman of Years degenerates into a Dowdy.

The French have a neat phrase for the woman who, growing old, throws off, with the follies of middle age, all pretensions to toilet, charm or good looks. They say, in a word, that she has abdicated.

But when the Parisian queen abdicates she does it in no half-hearted manner. Her dowdiness is a thing to make elegant elderly American women stand aghast. The British matron of mature years is a dangerous siren compared with her French prototype.

From being a plump, silver-voiced enchantress she changes to an unwieldy mass of flesh, with a baritone voice, a small bonnet twinkling with jet placed far back on her parted and scraped hair and with black clothes of nameless fashion and depressing dinginess.

This elderly Frenchwoman may be a dowager duchess from the Faubourg or the cherished spouse of your grocer. The type is the same.

The fact is that the French are an eminently practical, not to say material, race, and the Frenchwoman is the very embodiment of these national idiosyncrasies.

"What is the use," they would argue, "of running up bills for dresses and what not when there is no chance of any longer pleasing? Why not enjoy the pleasures of the table, even if your waist assumes alarming proportions, when they are the only pleasures left? Why try to speak in dulcet tones when, as everybody knows, it is the grand-mother who has always the final word in the French family and, whatever the timbre of her voice, her family will be sure to listen to it?"

This frank acceptance of old age and all that it implies is not without its advantages, and, at any rate, you are spared in Parisian society the spectacle that is too familiar in other lands of grandmothers still dancing in spangled tulle.—London Sketch.

THE CAPTAIN'S PLAN.

His Rule For Fighting Seasickness Didn't Work Both Ways.

A young woman who recently made a trip to Europe decided to consult the captain of the ship as to the best preventive for seasickness. Having armed herself with a letter of introduction to the officer, she waited until the ship had cleared Sandy Hook, says a writer in the Bohemian, and then approached him. She described her fears and begged for a remedy.

"My dear lady," replied the captain, with an amused smile, "you will not be troubled with any illness if you will do what I tell you. Most ladies confine themselves to their staterooms and thereby incur the very thing they fear. Now, if you will stay on deck, get all the fresh air you can, walk up and down, take good physical care of yourself and try not to think of trouble you will never be seasick."

The lady thanked him. She followed the directions faithfully, and when the ship ran into the tail end of a heavy northwest gale she never felt a qualm. She appeared regularly at meals and enjoyed herself thoroughly.

As the gale was abating she thought her that it was due the captain that she should thank him for his good advice and, approaching the deck steward, intrusted him with a message asking for an interview. In due time the steward returned, saying that the captain was unable to grant her an interview.

"Why not?" she questioned. "Why won't he see me?"

"Captain's compliments, miss," said the steward, "but he's suffering with a bit of seasickness which 'as lasted two days now, an' he ain't in shape to talk to you."

Saluting the Quarter Deck.

One of the oldest customs in the navy and one that is often puzzling to the landsman is that of "saluting the quarter deck." Many have the hazy idea that the national colors are its object and that it is merely a naval fad. While to a certain extent it is a fad, it is one of hoary antiquity, being a survival of the days when a crucifix was placed on the stern of a ship and was always saluted as a matter of course. When the crucifix was taken away the old feeling still remained, and men continued to salute the place where it had been. The younger generation imitated their elders, and the salute became a habit and continues until this day.—Los Angeles Times.

A Cold Night in China.

One of the facts that ineffaceably cut into my memory during my first winter in Newchwang was the finding on one morning about New Year's time thirty-five masses of ice, each mass having been a living man at 10 o'clock the preceding night. The thermometer was a good bit below zero. The men had just left the opium dens, where they had been enjoying themselves. The keen air sent them to sleep, and they never awakened.—North China Herald.

Why He Mourned.

O'Flannagan came home one night with a deep band of black crape around his hat.

"Why, Mike," exclaimed his wife, "what are ye wearin' that mournful thing for?"

"I'm wearin' it for yer first husband," replied Mike firmly. "I'm sorry he's dead."—Everybody's Magazine.
