McLAWHORN MYSTERY SOLVED.

Was not Murder, but Carefully and Deliberately Planned Suicide.

The mystery surrounding the shooting of Elias B. McLawhorn has at last been solved. Mr. J. J. Stroud, one of the contractors working on the city hall brought the information to Sheriff Crawford and Chief of Police Page this week from Mr. Joe McLawhorn, brother of the deceased. The message sent to the officers was in substance as follows: that the officers here need not worry any more about the affair, as he, (Mr. Joe McLawhorn) was satisfied that it was a case of suicide, having seen the letter written by the deceased the night of the shooting. That the letter was written to Mrs. McLawhorn and told her about the plan and why he was going to shoot himself.

This information clears up a dark mystery and removes every suspicion as to the perpetrator of the crime.

The officers here have written to Mr. Joe McLawhorn for the letter, but have not yet heard from him. The letter when received will be published, as in justice to the citizens of the community it should be.

Several of our citizens have always held to the suicide theory but the evidence before the coroner's jury was to the contrary.

The family knew at the time of Mr. McLawhorn's death that it was suicide, and should have said so then, instead of leading the people to believe it was murder and putting the officers to the unnecessary expense they had in trying to find the supposed murderer.—Williamston Enterprise.

Timber Owners Organize to Fight Fire.

One of the most important economic movements of the day about which the general public has yet learned little is the concerted action of owners of timber in different parts of the country in organizing associations to protect their holdings from fire. In the Pacific Northwest, the Washington Forest Fire Association has just elected officers at Seattle and begun work for the year with 3,000,000 acres under its care. The plans include a system of patrol by rangers resembling the work done by the United States Forest Service in guarding against and extinguishing fires.

Organizations of similar kind and for a like purpose are at work in Oregon and Idaho. In the latter State, a portion of the expense is born by taxation and paid from the State treasury. A western railroad company which holds large tracts of timber has taken steps to guard its property from fire, and during the short time that its plans have been in operation, it has met with most encouraging success.

Similar work is being done on the other side of the continent. Forest owners in Maine have gone to work in the same systematic way to control the forests' great enemy, fire. Like organizations are found in other parts of the country, showing how fully it is now realized that protection against fire is of the greatest importance.

It is safe to say that fires in this country have destroyed more timber than lumbermen have cut. When timber was abundant, the waste passed almost unnoticed, but now that a scarcity is at hand and actual wood famine threatens in the near future, the owners of forest lands are waking up and taking action to save what is left.

DR. DIXON SUNDAY NIGHT.

Addresses Large Crowd in Jarvis Memorial Church.

Dr. B. F. Dixon, State auditor, made an address on prohibition to a very large audience in Jarvis Memorial church Sunday night. The other churches of the town closed for the evening service so as to give all an opportunity to attend this temperance mass meeting.

Dr. Dixon said he loved to talk to people who think something of themselves, as he has found out the Greenville people do. There is nothing the matter with their blood. In fact North Carolina has the best people in the world. All that has kept them from accomplishing many things more than they have accomplished is "old corn whiskey."

For nearly an hour Dr. Dixon spoke interestingly, answering clearly any objections to prohibition and telling strongly why North Carolina should have prohibition.

The choir made good music for the occasion and just before the address Mrs. Norris, of Norfolk, sang a beautiful solo.

The Cotton Mill South.

Twenty cents in stamps or otherwise sent to the Boston Evening Transcript Boston, Mass. will secure for anyone interested the series of articles started Saturday, April 25 in that paper on "The Cotton Mill South." These will appear regularly each Saturday and Wednesday in five articles. They are by the Rev. P. H. Goldstone, D. D., minister of The First Church of Salem, Mass. (the first church in New England) who is a Southerner by birth, a Northerner by residence. This an exceptional opportunity to get this series from a man of high standing and character whose viewpoint on it is interesting theme is singularly excellent.

Sunday School Growing.

Since getting into the new rooms about six weeks ago the Baptist Sunday school has made remarkable advancement, the average attendance being above 200. On one Sunday the record showed 225. Every department of the school seems to have taken on new life. The music is also much improved, an interesting feature of this being a special song each Sunday rendered by one of the classes.

The ladies of the community who are enlisted in temperance will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the ladies' parlor of Jarvis Memorial church.

J. J. LAUGHINGHOUSE FOR THE SENATE.

To the Democratic voters of Pitt county:

We, the Democrats of Chicod township, who know the splendid service rendered our township for 25 years as a magistrate and chairman of the township board of supervisors by Capt. J. J. Laughinghouse put him in nomination for the senate in the coming election in November. None know the work he has done for the Democratic party so well as us the voters of Chicod township. He has been one of our most active managers of the party in this township since 1870. No one has contributed more to make it the banner township of the county than J. J. Laughinghouse. For 25 years he tried three fourths of all cases in this township, wrote three fourths of the wills, mortgages and deeds, and never charged a Democrat a cent for any service during these 25 years. His fees, if collected, we believe would have amounted to several thousand dollars. At no time was he too busy to stop and write a mortgage or deed and take a private examination of some poor fellow's wife to said mortgage or deed and save the fellow a five or ten dollars lawyer's fee.

Our people are all pleased with his services as a member of the house of representatives. All fair minded men know that we are indebted to him for the introduction of the first railroad passenger fare bill that under his leadership passed the house by 2 votes to 1, and would have passed the senate but for the fact a majority of railroad attorneys had control of it. This bill will save to the people of the State a half million dollars annually. The passage of this bill will result in giving us better freight rates when it can be enforced. His work in the passage of the laws pertaining to the fishing industries will be of immense value to our people.

Give us Capt. J. J. Laughinghouse, of Greenville, for the senate this year.

Attention Veterans.

The 10th of May occurring on Sunday this year the annual reunion of the Bryan Grimes Camp of Confederate Veterans of Pitt county, will be held at Greenville on Tuesday the 12th day of May. The veterans are hereby requested to come early and assemble at the court house promptly at 9 o'clock as we have a longer program than usual and we want to get through with the exercises by the dinner hour. All veterans are requested to come, a full attendance is desired. The address will be delivered by U. S. Senator Lee S. Overman, and several patriotic recitations and songs will be rendered by the young ladies, and music will be furnished by the Bryan Grimes drum corps and the Aeolian brass band. Dinner will be served as usual.

Escaped and Captured.

Friday a negro convict, Frank Davis, escaped from the county road gang near Falkland. Saturday afternoon Sheriff Tucker, Deputy Sheriff Hyman and Policeman Clark went on a hunt and captured the negro not far from Greenville.

GREENSBORO FEMALE COLLEGE.

Annual Address Will be Delivered by Mrs. R. R. Cotten.

It will be of interest to the people of our section of the State to know that Mrs. R. R. Cotten is to make the annual address to the graduating class at Greensboro Female College on Wednesday, May 20th. Those of us who are familiar with Mrs. Cotten's record both as a writer and speaker will congratulate the college on the pleasure which awaits them, and feel sure that Mrs. Cotten will on that occasion add fresh laurels to those which have already been won by the alumnae of that noble old institution.

Other exercises of the commencement will be the sermon on Sunday evening by Rev. J. E. Abernethy, of Winston, before the Young Women's Christian Association, the graduating recital of the expression department on Monday evening, the baccalaureate sermon on Tuesday morning, by Dr. J. S. Franch of Atlanta, class day exercises on Tuesday afternoon, alumnae reunion on Tuesday evening, and the graduating exercises on Wednesday morning, in connection with which Mrs. Cotten will speak as stated above and also Mrs. Laura Patrick, the oldest living alumnae of the class of 1848, will present the Bibles. On Wednesday evening the annual concert by advanced students of the music department will be given.

It is hoped that many alumnae and many other friends from this section of the State will attend the commencement exercises which promise to be of more than ordinary interest.

B. & L. Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of The Home Building and Loan Association will be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday night in the mayor's office. It is important that there should be a large attendance of stockholders, for in addition to having the annual report of the secretary and treasurer, in which every one should be interested, a board of directors for the next term must be elected. Be on hand and show your interest in this institution that is doing so much for Greenville.

MONDAY, MAY 4, 1908.

Jeffries Davis is to the front once more, but will not stay there long.

Up Durham way they get up in the audience and call the speaker a liar. Rather dangerous business.

The Chicago young woman named Miss Bible, who stole $8,000 worth of diamonds, certainly went back on her name.

Mr. Kitchen and Mr. Craig had better stop trying to show up each other's old letters. First thing you know the folks will find out that both of them have been saying something.

"Uncle Sam" is getting tony now and wants to erect fine embassy buildings in foreign cities where he has representatives. He should first get government building wherever they are needed at home.

The campaign for the nomination for governor by the Democratic State convention is being conducted on about as mean and low plain as ever existed in a campaign between two opposing parties.

Mr. Horne seems to know when not to write a letter and then when to write one. For instance, it has not been shown that he wrote a letter to Williams, but he did stay home and write a letter to Wadesboro.

You find some fellow once in a while who will cry out that the prohibition campaign will hurt the Democratic party. Do you think prohibition agitation or anything else is likely to hurt the party any worse than the present campaign we are having for the nomination for governor?

Eighteen counties held conventions Saturday to select delegates to the Democratic State convention. That brought the number of counties up to 36 in which conventions or primaries have so far been held. The Charlotte Observer of Sunday tabulates the result in these 36 counties and gives the candidates for the nomination for governor the following vote, omitting fractions: Craig 172, Kitchen 78, Horne 40.

The negroes are not satisfied at the way they have been left out of Republican gatherings this year and ignored in the selection of delegates. Claiming that the Republican conventions have been irregular, the negroes have issued a call for a State convention in Raleigh on May 12th to name delegates to the national convention in Chicago. Each county is asked to hold a convention and send delegates to the State convention in Raleigh.

To the Voters of Pitt County.

Some doubt and confusion having arisen in the minds of some persons as to what registration books shall be used as the legal registration books for the registration of voters for the election to take place on the 26th of May 1908, I beg to say that the registrars should use the book used at the election on the 14th day of May 1907 and no other.

Whenever a new registration is ordered and taken all previous registration and registration books become useless and cannot be used at subsequent elections. The registration for the election on 14th of May 1907 was a new registration and not a special registration. It is therefore certain that the registration books in use at the election on the 14th of May, 1907, must be used in the coming election. Any voter whose name is on the registration books used at the election on the 14th of May, 1907, need not register again. All whose names are not on these books will have to register for the coming election or they cannot vote.

The registration books were opened on the 24th inst and the law requires them to be closed at sundown on Saturday the 16th day of May, 1908. The law also requires the registrars to be at the polling places in their respective precincts on each Saturday during the period of registration, but the registrars can register the voters at other times and places. So it is clear that every voter whose name is not on the registration books used at the election in May 1907 has ample time and opportunity to have it put there if he so desires and I make this publication for the purpose of urging the voters to register and vote. A great moral question is to be decided upon which will seriously affect the habit, the homes and lives of the people and especially the boys and girls who are soon to become the men and women of the near future. You cannot vote in that great question on the 26th of May unless you are registered. I therefore urge you to register. This great question will be presented to you in the form of two ballots. One of these ballots will read "For the Manufacture and Sale of Intoxicating Liquors." The other ballot will read "Against the Manufacture and Sale of Intoxicating Liquors."

If any man is in doubt as to which of these ballots he ought to deposit in the box let him ask his wife or that darling little girl for whose safety he would give his life or that bright eyed boy whose future may be determined by the result of this election. They will tell him and tell him right. But I put it to every father and grandfather in the county of Pitt can you look that mother, that darling girl and that dear boy in the face and then turn away and vote "For the Manufacture and Sale of Intoxicating Liquors." I am expecting, hoping and praying that the men of Pitt will roll up a great big majority "Against the Manufacture and Sale of Intoxicating Liquors."

There is more Catarrh in this portion of the country than in any other. Put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore require constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. To the Voters of Pitt County.

We the undersigned constituting a majority of the county board of elections for the county of Pitt hereby give notice that an election will be held on 26th day of May, 1908, at which all who favor the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in North Carolina will vote a ticket with the words thereon "For the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors" and those who are opposed to the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in North Carolina will vote a ticket with the words thereon "Against the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors."

In order to vote in that election, as in all other elections, it is necessary to be properly registered. It is our opinion that the registration books used at the election on the 14th of May, 1907, are the ones to be used in the coming election. We therefore advise every voter who did not register in that election to see that his name is put on the registration books before the close of the 16th day of May when the registration books will be closed by law.

Before you draw a Check you are very apt to think whether you really want what it is to pay for. Many times you will decide that you don't and the check is not drawn. That's one of the advantages of having

An Account at The National Bank.

It makes you think and often helps to save. Better start such an account and put a check on your spending. The less money you have the more need for care in parting with it.

OUR TRICKY EARS.

The Sense of Hearing Not the Most Exact of Our Equipment.

How do we distinguish the direction of sound? That, says the London Post, is a question to which many people might reply that they do not distinguish it or that in certain circumstances, at any rate, they find it very difficult to do so. As Lord Rayleigh, in discussing the subject, observes, the mechanism by which the ear and the brain locate the sound has been very little considered.

The methods of the eye are easy to come at because the eye has been furnished with a crystalline lens which focuses a bundle of rays of light on the retina, just as a photographic lens focuses them on a sensitive plate. But it is able to do so because the diameter of the eye lens is many times greater than the wave length of the light rays, whereas in the case of sound waves the waves are very much larger than the diameter of the passages of the ear. The waves of sound issuing from a man's mouth are about eight feet long—that is to say, from crest to crest.

The clue to the problem lies in the fact that a person who is entirely deaf in one ear cannot locate the direction of the sound. It is by virtue of hearing with two ears that we are able to do so. The explanation is not, however, so simple as it appears. In certain cases the sound waves (or impulses of comprehension and rarefaction), reaching one ear before the other, enable the hearer to detect the origin of the sound by a difference in intensity. But as the distance around the head from one ear to the other is only about one foot, the very slight difference of intensity will only answer for instances when the sound is a high note and the sound waves are consequently short. When the note is low and the waves are long—let us say as low as ninety-six vibrations or waves a second—the difference of intensity at the two ears amounts only to one part in 500. It is hard to believe that a difference of intensity so small as that would enable the brain to say whether the sound was reaching the right ear or the left ear first.

When, therefore, we are considering the question of low notes, another explanation has to be sought. Lord Rayleigh has shown valid reasons for supposing that in such cases the ears detect a difference in the quality of the sound which is called a phase difference. If the source of sound is situated on the right, then owing to the finite speed at which sound travels any particular wave of compression will reach the right ear sooner. It has to travel on about a foot farther before it reaches the left ear; hence there must in general be a difference of phase in the sound waves of the two ears. If the crest of the wave reaches the right ear, then it must be some point on the trough of the wave which is at the same instant reaching the left ear. One of the consequences of accepting this explanation is to believe that the sound wave does not stop at the drum of the ear, but goes on vibrating along the nerve.

How He Knew.

A lady who was perfectly well, but fancied she was suffering from fever, called on an old and experienced physician to consult him. She described her symptoms at some length, and he listened patiently. At last he said:

"I think I understand your case, madam. Sit perfectly still a few moments and let me look at you."

She complied, and he eyed her attentively for nearly a minute, glancing at his watch once or twice in the meantime.

"There is nothing the matter with you, madam," he said. "You haven't the slightest indication of fever. Your heart beat is perfectly normal."

"Why, how do you know, doctor?" she asked in surprise. "You didn't feel my pulse."

"I didn't need to," he answered. "I counted the vibrations of the ostrich feather on your hat." And he bowed her out.

Portugal.

About the year 1094 the name of Portugal appears in the annals. Alfonso VII. of Castile in that year signed over to Count Henry of Burgundy, who had left his native land to help fight the threatening Moor, the county of Portugal as a fief. The name Portugal comes directly from the Latin, signifying the Port of Cale, Cale being the old name for the town of Oporto. The brief of Alfonso marks the beginning of the separate existence of Portugal. Though for many years it was no more than a feudal dependence of Castile, nevertheless this child was the father of the later independent kingdom. In the year 1139 the lords of Portugal took the title of king and refused allegiance to any power, Moslem or Christian.—Rosary Magazine.

RUNNING AN ENGINE.

Force of a Locomotive Going Sixty Miles an Hour.

At sixty miles an hour the resistance of a train is four times as great as it is at thirty miles—that is, the fuel must be four times as great in the one case as it is in the other. But at sixty miles an hour this fuel must be exerted for a given distance in half the time that it is at thirty miles, so that the amount of power exerted and steam generated in a given period of time must be eight times as great at the faster speed. This means that the capacity of the boiler, cylinders and the other parts must be greater with a corresponding addition to the weight of the machine. Obviously, therefore, if the weight per wheel, on account of the limit of weight that the rails will carry, is limited, we soon reach a point when the driving wheels and other parts cannot be further enlarged, and then we reach the maximum speed. The nice adjustment necessary of the various parts of these immense engines may be indicated by some figures as to the work performed by these parts when the locomotive is working at high speed. Take a passenger engine on any of the big railroads. At sixty miles an hour a driving wheel five and one-half feet in diameter revolves five times every second. Now, the reciprocating parts of each cylinder, including one piston, piston rod, cross head and connecting rod, weighing about 650 pounds, must move back and forth a distance equal to the stroke, usually two feet, every time the wheel revolves, or in a fifth of a second. It starts from a state of rest at the end of each stroke of the piston and must acquire a velocity of thirty-two feet per second in one-twentieth of a second and must be brought to a state of rest in the same period of time.

A piston eighteen inches in diameter has an area of 254½ square inches. Steam of 150 pounds pressure per square inch would therefore exert a force on the piston equal to 38,175 pounds. This force is applied alternately on each side of the piston ten times in a second.—Chicago News.

The Apology.

Willie and Tommy quarreled at school, and unkind words had reached blows when their teacher appeared on the scene.

"I will see you later, boys," she said as she went to ring the bell.

Two little boys looked very much ashamed when they were called up to listen to a serious talk on the sin of fighting. When she had finished, says the Chicago News, they were willing to follow her advice—to express their sorrow and be friends.

"You first, Tommy," she said. And the little fellow turned manfully to his comrade and said in a humble tone:

"I am sorry you struck me, Willie."

"That's all right," responded Willie generously, and both boys felt a weight off their minds, though they could not understand why such a wave of merriment passed over the schoolroom.

Good Horse Sense.

The Mexican burros ascertain where to dig for water by closely observing the surface of the ground. One observer writes:

"We had found water in an arroyo of a sufficient quantity to make coffee when we saw three burros searching for water. They passed several damp places, examining the ground closely, when the leader halted near us and began to paw a hole in the hot, dry sand. Having dug a hole something over a foot in depth, he backed out and watched it intently. To our surprise, it soon began to fill with water. Then he advanced, took a drink and stepped aside for his companions to drink. When they went away we drank from their well and found the water to be much cooler than any we had found for many a day. There is no witchcraft about Mexican burros, but they have good horse sense."

A Valuable Service.

"The traveler in Ireland will do well," recently remarked an attache to our embassy at London, "when he engages a jaunting car to make sure of the step to which in mounting he must trust his weight. The carman does not help him to mount. 'I am afraid that step is loose,' an American once said to the driver he had engaged.

"The man took hold of the step and shook it. 'Ah, shure,' said he, 'it's too strong, it is. What are ye afraid of?'

"As he was talking the thing came off in his hand.

"This mishap did not, however, embarrass the Irishman, for, with the sunniest of smiles, he turned to his fare, saying:

"Shure, now, I've saved yer honor from a broken leg!"

A Fable of the Future.

In 1920 A. D. the Stingiest Man in Stringtown carded his Household Goods to the Depot and bought a ticket for Millionville, the Metropolis.

"Why are you moving to Millionville?" inquired a Citizen.

"To save postage," replied the Stingiest Man. Whereat the Citizen marveled mightily.

Now, be it known that the Stingiest Man in Stringtown was wise in his Day and Generation, for along back in 1907 A. D. or thereabout it became the Settled Habit of the Stringtown people to purchase Large Sheets of Little Stickers bearing portraits of G. Washington, B. Franklin, W. McKinley and other Late Illustrious Ones, which Specimens of Art they straightway stuck on envelopes and sent to a Large and Luring Mail Order Concern in Millionville. Wherefore it came about that the Seven Stores in Stringtown Shut up Shop, one after the other, until along in 1919 A. D. the Stingiest Man found it incumbent upon him to begin purchasing these Small Specimens of Art to present to the Maw of the Monster in Millionville, and the Aforesaid was Simply too Stingy to stand for the Same.

A BOY WITH TACT.
The Story of a Queer Borrowing Transaction in New York.

Tact combined with confidence is the first qualification of a business man, and the following little incident in the history of one of the most successful merchants of New York shows a development of this trait early in his business career:

Coming to the great city, without friends and with very little money, he found his way to "lower Wall street" and, walking into the store of W. & Co., passed back into the counting room and waited modestly and patiently till he should divert the attention of Mr. W., who was at the moment busily engaged with some friend.

At last the frank, open face of the boy attracted his notice, and he addressed him with:

"What can I do for you, sonny?"
"I want a place, sir."
"Well, what can you do?"
The boy answered eagerly:
"Most anything, sir."
Mr. W., partly for a joke and partly to rid himself of the almost too confident boy, said:
"Ah! Well, just go out and borrow me a couple of thousand dollars."
The lad placed his hat on his head, walked out of the store, then passed slowly down Front street till he came to another large store in the same line of business. Then, with a bold but honest look, he walked up to the head of the house and said:
"Mr. W. of W. & Co. sent me down to borrow $2,000."
"He did, my son? How is business up at your place?"
The boy, having seen the appearance of large shipments, answered quickly:
"Very good, sir."
"Two thousand dollars, did you say? Will that be enough?"
"Well, $2,000 is all he told me, but if you have plenty I think he would like it if you sent him $3,- 000."
"Just give this boy a check for $3,000 for W. & Co.," remarked the merchant to the cashier.
The boy took the check and with it returned to Mr. W., walking back into the office with an air of successful pride, and said:
"Here it is, sir."
Mr. W., taking one look at the check and then at the boy, said:
"Young man, come in here. You are just the one I have been looking for."
And, giving him a desk, he set him to work. — St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

HIS WEAK SPOT.
The Thought That Made the Nervy Man Lose His Composure.

"Speaking of nerve," said a Massachusetts congressman, "there generally is a weak spot in the most colossal variety, if it only can be found. In this connection I remember my grandfather used to tell a good story."
"Some forty or fifty years ago a longshoreman's eating place in Boston was the resort also of truckmen and other teamsters whose business brought them out early in the morning.
"One gray November morning about 5 o'clock a stranger entered this place and took his seat among the habitués.
He ordered a substantial breakfast and ate it slowly and with evident enjoyment. Then he took his hat down from the peg on the wall and started to go.
As he got abreast of the cashier's desk, behind which stood the proprietor, he slowed up.
"Mugh bligod," he said genially.
"So long!"
"The proprietor had a good many rough customers to deal with, and his pistol was handy. In a second it was out and the man covered. Then he demanded the price of the breakfast.
"The man, apparently unmoved, looked at the shooting iron with curiosity.
It was a queer, clumsy affair of ancient date, and it was evident that he had never seen its like before. Suddenly his expression of curiosity changed to one of apprehension, even terror, and he drew back a step.
"Is—that a stomach pump?" he faltered.
"This story has a happy ending," the congressman concluded. "The man kept his breakfast!"—Boston Post.

Chinese Torture.
The ingenuity of the Chinese in devising punishment for offenders surpasses that of the most cruel people of the middle ages. Some time ago a boy was kidnaped from a village about thirty miles from Chinkiang and brought to that city to be sold. The kidnapers were arrested and returned to the village, where the people dug a hole in the ground, like a grave, about three feet deep, covered the bottom and sides with unslaked lime, placed the offender, with his hands and feet tied, upon the lime and covered his body with the same material. Then they filled the hole full of water, and as the lime slacked he was roasted alive and his body consumed.

For County Treasurer.

self as a candidate for the position as Treasurer of the county of Pitt, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries of the county. C. T. Munford.

A Woman Finds All Her

Greenville women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Greenville woman's words:
Miss Susan Kinsaul, of No. 503 Fifth St., Greenville, N. C., says: "I have derived great benefit from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills and take pleasure in recommending them. For some time I suffered from dull nagging backaches and had distressing pains through my kidney regions. My kidneys were very weak and the frequent action of the secretions caused me great annoyance.
My back pained me reverely and when first arising in the morning would be so stiff and sore that I would be scarcely able to get around. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, procured them at Wooten's drug store and a short time entirely banished these troubles. The fact that my kidneys have given me no trouble whatever since using Doan's Kidney Pills leads me to recommend them most highly."

What Makes a Bank Strong

In judging a Bank, always remember that it is Capital, Surplus and Undivided Profits that give security to the depositor, because that money is what stands between you as a depositor and any possible shrinkage in the securities held by the bank.

Few banks in the State have a larger margin of safety than THE BANK OF GREENVILLE which, with the watchful interest of a very capable and conservative board of directors and the constant inspection of the Corporation Commission, has built up here one of the best financial institutions in the county, one whose
