AYDEN GRADED SCHOOL CLOSES.

A DAY LONG TO BE REMEMBERED BY AYDEN.

Interesting Exercises and Address by Hon. W. W. Kitchin.

There was a very large crowd at Ayden Friday to attend the closing exercises of the graded school there. Greenville added many to the crowd, the forenoon train from here being crowded when it pulled out of the station.

Hon. W. W. Kitchin was on the same train, and was met at the station by the entire graded school in procession and a large number of citizens. The procession of 250 children in charge of the teachers made a pretty picture as they marched around the depot and through the streets back to the school grounds.

To accommodate the large crowd attending the exercises a stand surrounded by seats had been erected in the beautiful grove in front of the school building.

The exercises began with an invocation by Rev. T. H. King followed by a chorus by the school.

Rev. E. T. Phillips delivered an address of welcome to Mr. Kitchin in which he referred eloquently to his career in both private and public life and the honor the people of Ayden and community felt at having him among them.

After another song by the school, County Superintendent W. H. Ragsdale introduced Mr. Kitchin, adding further testimony to the value of such a man to North Carolina.

The people listened to Mr. Kitchin's splendid address with closest attention, all being eager to catch inspiration from the message he gave them. The address was practically along the same line as the one delivered by him at Bethel the previous day—the elements of a successful life—fuller reference to which we have previously made.

Prof. McArthur, superintendent of the school announced that five young ladies—Misses Rosamond Bland, Lorena Atwood Dixon, Elizabeth Dixon, Clara Forest and Alice Lee Smith—composed the graduating class of the school the past session, and called upon County Superintendent Ragsdale to deliver diplomas to them. Prof. Ragsdale delivered these diplomas in a beautiful speech, and after congratulating the young ladies upon what they had accomplished in their studies, turned to the parents in the audience and reminded them of the fact that not a boy was in the graduating class. He expressed some regret at this coupled with the fear that parents were taking their boys from school too soon to put them at work, instead of letting them continue until the full course had been completed, which would lift them upon the duties of life with better preparation.

Ayden has an excellent school and Superintendent J. A. McArthur and his seven assistants have given the highest satisfaction in their work.

Crushed the Sewer Pipe.

The road rolling machine while being used on Evans street Friday, crushed the drainage sewer that had been buried some feet below the surface. The crushed sewer had to be dug out and a new line put in.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor.

Winterville, N. C. May 9, 1908. Prof. G. E. Lineberry attended the closing exercises of Bethel graded school Thursday and reported a most pleasant day.

The hour for the debate at the closing exercises of Winterville High school will be at 2 p. m. May 15.

Last night was the last meeting of the Vance literary society for the session. The enrollment has been larger this year than ever before, and the work has been of a high order.

A large number of our citizens attended the closing exercises of the Ayden graded school Friday and had a most delightful day. The exercises by the school were greatly enjoyed. Of course the address by Hon. W. W. Kitchin was a gem. He always delivers that kind.

I will be at the following places to list your taxes:

Winterville June 3 and 6.
Ayden June 4, 5, and 8.
Grifton June 10, 11, and 12.
Tucker's school house June 15.
Renston June 16.

B. F. Manning Lister Taker. Misses Venetia Cox and Annie Carroll gave a most delightful birthday party at home of Dr. Cox Friday evening from 8 to 11 o'clock.

P. H. Kittrell and son, Joe went to Greenville this morning.

Misses Olive Woodard and Louise Satterthwaite went to Greenville this morning.

New Steam Plant for Greenville.

Mr. T. A. Person, who has been buying tobacco for the past two years on the Greenville market, is now making preparation to put in an up to date steam plant. This will be of large capacity and the most improved machinery, his business having grown so much since his stay on the Greenville market as to compel him to put in a large steam plant. He will in the future make Greenville his permanent home, owing to the fact that this is the third largest market in North Carolina. Mr. Person has been for the past fifteen years, prior to coming to Greenville, buying tobacco on the Louisburg market.

WOMAN'S TEMPERANCE LEAGUE WITH THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Enthusiastic Meeting Friday—Work to be Enlarged.

The Woman's Temperance League met pursuant to an appointment, at the Methodist church, Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. This was the largest and most enthusiastic of any gathering heretofore; there being from seventy five to one hundred ladies present. Rev. J. E. Ayscue presided over the meeting and opened with prayer which was followed by appropriate singing.

Reports from the chairmen of the committees who had visited every residence in Greenville were as gratifying as could possibly be expected. Almost without an exception the callers were received with exceeding cordiality and intense interest, some few stating that they would be unable to attend on account of sickness or other domestic causes, but their hearts and prayers would be with the work.

Plans were adopted for extending the efforts of the league in every township, the children to be called in at a later date, and banners to be inscribed for their use.

Mrs. Nannie Curtis, who is stated to be one of the best speakers on this subject ever heard in this State, will deliver a public address at the opera house next Thursday evening, May 14th, which men, women and children are cordially invited to attend. We trust that the rare graces of the speaker, apart from the interest which her subject should arouse, will draw a large crowd.

Greenville to Have a New Train.

It is rumored that the next time card issued by the N. & S. Railroad Co., they will put on a morning train between Greenville and Raleigh, supposed to leave Greenville about 7.30 a. m., arriving in Raleigh about 10.30 a. m.; leaving Raleigh about 6 p. m., arriving in Greenville about 9.30 p. m.

Why can't Washington have this same service?

If this same train was extended to Washington it would arrive here about 10.30 p. m. leaving about 6 a. m. via Greenville, arriving in Raleigh on the same schedule time. We learn this great passenger accommodation if accomplished will be due to the efforts of the business men and enterprising citizens of Greenville, as well as the very accommodating officials of the N. & S.

Does Washington want this service? It is up to you business men.—Washington Messenger.

BIG FIRE IN ATLANTA.

Loss a Million and a Half—One Thousand Persons Out of Employment.

Atlanta, Ga., May 8.—Thirty-one buildings destroyed, forty-two business concerns burned out, one thousand persons thrown out of employment and a financial loss conservatively estimated tonight at a million and a quarter dollars is the result of a fire which started about half past three o'clock this morning and raged for four hours in the business district of this city.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. It was discovered in the building occupied by the Schlesinger Meyer Company Bakery. The flames spread in all directions, gutting the Terminal Hotel, one of the largest in the city. All of the guests escaped without injury.

MUCH TIME SPENT ON MANY MATTERS.

Five Candidates for List Taker and Twenty Ballots Before Election Was Declared.

The board of aldermen met in regular monthly session, Thursday night, six of the members be present.

Alderman Higgs was appointed to the vacancy on the finance committee caused by the resignation of Alderman Woodward.

J. J. Laughinghouse appeared before the board and requested that the excavation made by the town in cutting down the street in front of his residence, be refilled. The street committee was ordered to have some dirt hauled there.

W. H. Harrington appeared with a request that a bridge be built over the branch at the Fourth street crossing so as to make an outlet for people living on the east side of town. The matter was referred to the street committee for investigation.

J. D. Garden was employed to keep the books on the street paving account.

The regular committees had no reports of interest to make.

Alderman Johnston who was appointed to have the steam fire engine put in good condition, reported that the work had been done.

The committee appointed to negotiate with C. T. Munford in regard to a sidewalk around his property on Five Points, reported that a satisfactory agreement had been reached with him.

The committee to look after rights of way for widening Dickinson avenue asked for further time to report.

The several officers made their reports for the past month which were approved.

Restaurant license were granted to Moore & Killbrow and to J. A. Whitley.

The three notes for $5,000 each in favor of the three banks of the town, were taken up and destroyed in the presence of the board.

The company that furnished the road rolling machine was ordered to be paid $500 on the machine, less freight and demurrage.

Dr. E. A. Moye was elected a trustee of the graded school to fill the vacancy caused by death of Dr. W. H. Bagwell.

In going into the election of a tax list taker for the year five candidates were placed in nomination. They were C. D. Roundtree, R. A. Tyson, H. A. Blow, T. R. Moore and J. D. Garden. Twenty ballots were taken before an election was reached, when a tie vote resulted between T. R. Moore and R. A. Tyson, which the mayor decided by voting in favor of the former.

Accounts were allowed amounting to $1,873.28.

Notice Judicial Convention.

The Democratic convention for the Third District is hereby called to meet in the court house in the city of New Bern on Friday the 19th of June, 1908, at 12 o'clock M., at which time and place the candidate for solicitor for the said district will be nominated.

J. W. Ferrell returned Friday from Richmond.

E. H. Thomas went to Grifton today.

W. R. Watson went to Weldon today.

H. D. Bateman went to Ahoskie today.

Mrs. Whit Hardy went to Kinston today.

Major and Mrs. H. Harding came home Friday from Charlotte where they had been spending some weeks with their sons.

H. M. Jones came in Friday evening from Tampa, Fla., to spend a few weeks here at his old home.

Misses Theresa Cook and Melville Gibson, who were teaching near here and whose school recently closed, have returned to their homes.

LOCALS.

Owing to some disagreement there were not so many hands at work on the street today.

The Christian church choir will have practice at the home of Mrs. Travis Hooker tonight at 8 o'clock. Every member is asked to be there.

THE BOYS' KICK.

And Not Without Cause Thereof. Editor Reflector.

I am neither a "Maud" nor a "Jack" but I think I have a right as a citizen to express my opinion against the interference with ball playing by the worthy town officials. In every other town in North Carolina base ball is encouraged, but the Greenville officials have seen fit to stretch a clause in the town ordinance beyond measure in order that they might prohibit base ball in town.

This same ordinance has been in print from time immemorial, but not until a worthy policeman became infuriated at some sarcastic remarks, has it ever been construed as forbidding ball playing. Not until his honor, the policeman, accidentally came near being struck with the ball, did he see fit to march up with the consciousness of a hero, and the bravery of a modern Achilles and order 25 boys to the mayor's court, because an ordinance says that it shall be unlawful for any missiles to be hurled by bean-shooter, air rifle or otherwise.

Another ordinance says that it shall be the officer's duty to prevent violation of the ordinances, yet this most efficient officer marched away, leaving the boys playing, and not until next day did the little fellows learn what they had done in violation of the law.

Baseball ought to be encouraged. It aids in developing the body and mind, and is a wholesome recreation after being in school all day, and ought not to be prohibited because of prejudice, and spite of a certain over-zealous officer.

Lives like "Slicum" all remind us, We can hold a job down fine; If we get the mayor behind us, Breaking up a base ball mine.

SATURDAY, MAY 9, 1908.

That night railroad building at High Point, and tearing it up the next day, reminds us of some old times in Durham.

If you want to vote in the prohibition election May 26th be careful to know that you are registered.

Bursting the sewer pipe for a whole block is right expensive experimenting with a road rolling machine.

Men are getting to losing their heads now over politics. Already you can almost get up a scrap over candidates.

One man says he believes all the money has gone to the North Pole. If that is so we wish Welman would hurry up and find the pole.

So many candidates being out for every office shows that men are getting awfully office hungry. And watch out to see if there is not much kicking among those who get left.

The commencement orators and prohibition speakers visiting Pitt county just now are giving our people something worth hearing.

One danger is that the campaign for the gubernatorial nomination will arouse dissension and bitterness in the party that will be hard to overcome. There are going to be some badly disappointed folks if their man does not get it.

Road rolling machines may be good things, but sometimes prove expensive experiments in the hands of those who know nothing about how to use them. In fact it looks like the public improvements going on in Greenville are very much in need of an intelligent, experienced head.

Mr. A. H. Boyden, chairman of the Anti-Prohibition League of the State, tried to buy space in the newspapers in which to print matter against prohibition. It is a pleasure to see that very few of the papers, though possibly all of them need all the money they can get, would sell their space to help debauch their readers.

From the "hilarity" displayed by Mr. Craig's friends they evidently think it is all over but the shouting. He is far ahead all right enough, but no doubt Mr. Kitchin and Mr. Horne are willing to go on record as saying that all the eggs have not yet been hatched out; in other words, that Mr. Craig's strongest counties—his home counties—have been heard from and that a different song will be sung from now on.—Greensboro Record.

A HARD WON BET.

Carrying Four Bricks Half a Mile Is Not an Easy Task.

"The hardest won bet I ever made," remarked the traveling man as he shook the ashes off his cigar, "was to carry four bricks half a mile. That sounds like a simple thing to do, doesn't it? Well, you try it and you will find out whether it is or not. Of course the manner of carrying the bricks is important. A man bet me that I couldn't carry two bricks in each hand from where we were back to the hotel and put them up on the counter. The bricks were to be put side by side and grasped, two in each hand, between the thumb and fingers, the fingers pointing down. I was not allowed to stop and rest nor to put the bricks down.

"Well, thought I, that's $2 easily earned, so I took the bet and started. For a quarter of the distance it was easy, and I already felt that $2 in my pocket. But then my fingers began to grow tired. The muscles between my forefingers and thumbs were soon aching terribly. My arms began to pain me and to throb like mad. I found myself setting my teeth together, and the cords in my neck were in a high state of tension. When I came within a hundred yards of the hotel there was scarcely an inch in my whole body that was not aching as if I had been stuck full of pins.

"I don't know how I managed to go that last little distance. I could no longer stand erect, and I was trembling like a leaf, and yet the other fellow was alongside, laughing as if to split his sides. And when I got into the hotel it was all I could do to raise first one hand and then the other and put the bricks on the counter. I know that I couldn't have gone fifty feet farther. I got the $2, but the next day I could scarcely move, and I didn't get over the soreness for a week. It looks easy, but just you try it."—Detroit Free Press.

Some Queer Shoes.

We are all familiar with the wooden shoe of the Chinese, with its dark cloth top. The Portuguese shoe has a wooden sole and heel, with a vamp made of leather, fancifully showing the flesh side of the skin. The Persian wears a high shoe made of light wood richly inlaid, with a strap extending over the instep. The Muscovite shoe is hand woven, on a wooden frame, and but little attention is paid to the shape of the foot. Leather is sometimes used, but the sandal is generally made of silk cordage and woven cloth. The Siamese shoe has the form of an ancient canoe, with a gondola bow and an open toe. The sole is made of wood, the upper of inlaid wood and cloth, and the exterior is elaborately ornamented in colors with gold and silver.

Lincoln's "Hoss" Trade.

When Lincoln was practicing law in Illinois, he agreed with a certain judge that they should make a horse trade at 9 o'clock the next morning, neither to see the other's horse until the time of the trade and the one who backed out to lose $25.

The judge was on time, leading the sorriest looking nag ever seen in those parts. In a few minutes Lincoln arrived, carrying a wooden sawhorse on his shoulder. The crowd laughed uproariously, but it was nothing to the dip that went up when Lincoln set down his sawhorse, walked solemnly around the sorry nag produced by the judge and exclaimed pathetically, "Well, judge, this is the first time I ever got the worst of it in a horse trade!"

Superstitious Fishermen.

Herring fishermen in the old world are many of them remarkably superstitious. For instance, on some fishing boats whistling is forbidden, and neither milk nor burned bread is allowed on board. Furthermore, not even the name of that unlucky animal, the hare, may be mentioned, and a common method of punishing an enemy is to throw a dead hare into his boat. Some of the fishermen believe in luck attending an odd numbered crew, but the good fortune may be neutralized should one of the number have red hair.

A Mean Trick.

Some sordid soul who wanted to cause distress and suffering among his friends entered his club the other day and wrote on the bulletin board the name of a town over in Wales and offered a prize to anybody who could pronounce it. Here's the name of the town: Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwlantysiliagogoch.

Then the Quarrel Ceased.

They were having the usual family quarrel. As was also usual, she could not convince him that she knew whereof she argued.

"Didn't I go to school, stupid?" she screamed.

"Yes, dear, you did," he replied calmly, "and you came back stupid."—Bohemian Magazine.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore require constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

To the Voters of Pitt County.

We the undersigned constituting a majority of the county board of elections for the county of Pitt hereby give notice that an election will be held on 26th day of May, 1908, at which all who favor the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in North Carolina will vote a ticket with the words thereon "For the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors" and those who are opposed to the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in North Carolina will vote a ticket with the words thereon "Against the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors."

In order to vote in that election, as in all other elections, it is necessary to be properly registered. It is our opinion that the registration books used at the election on the 14th of May, 1907, are the ones to be used in the coming election. We therefore advise every voter who did not register in that election to see that his name is put on the registration books before the close of the 16th day of May when the registration books will be closed by law.

SAWING THE SPILES.

A Problem in Wharf Building Which Seems Hard, but Isn't.

When in building a wharf they have got the spiles driven in rows and sticking up above the water at uneven heights and with their tops all frayed. Then the surplus upper length of the spiles has to be sawed off so that the stringers upon which the wharf planking will be laid can rest upon them. And the question is, How do they manage to saw off each spile so that it will have a perfectly flat and level head, and how do they manage to get all the spiles sawed off at exactly the same height? They do this in the simplest way in the world.

The spiles all driven, they spike along to each row, at a little distance below where they are to cut them off, planks, upon which they lay crosswise other planks to make a scaffolding to work on. Then along each row of spiles at the height where they are to be cut off they draw a leveling line, which, drawn taut and leveled up, touches every spile in the row at exactly the same height, and then to each spile they nail two smooth topped crosspieces, little strips of board, one on either side of the spile, like the crossbars on a mast, only shorter, these cross strips being nailed on so that their tops just touch the underside of a leveling line. And then the sawyers, with their long crosscut saws, worked by a man at each end, come along.

The crosspieces nailed to the spile show exactly where it is to be cut off, and they serve also as guides and supports for the saw in cutting the spile off true. Resting the saw blade on their projecting ends at one side, the men saw and saw until they have sawed the spile off. And so they keep on until they have got them all sawed off and ready for the stringpieces. — New York Sun.

A Compensation.

It was not always possible for Mrs. Leahy from her permanent station at the washtub to appreciate the silver lining which Mr. Leahy discovered in every cloud and pointed out to her.

"I've lost me job, Nora," he said cheerfully, "but this is the time you'd ought to be thankful I'm not as smart as some."

"Why would I be thankful for that?" inquired Mrs. Leahy, pausing for an instant to wipe her glistening forehead with her damp apron.

"'Tis aisy seen," and her husband gazed tolerantly at her from his comfortably tipped back chair by the stove. "If I was Terry Dolan now and out of me job, I'd be losin' three dollars a day instead o' wan sinvinty-five. You think o' that, me darlin', an' 'twill put the heart into you same as it has into me." — Youth's Companion.

Freddy Knew.

A clergyman who farms some of his own gobe was recently addressing a meeting of young friends, comparing himself to a good shepherd calling his flock to follow him. Looking toward his audience, with a self congratulatory smile, he inquired:

"And now who among my young friends can tell me what I do to my flock? Can no one tell me? Ah, I thought so. There's Freddy, the very youngest among you, is ready with his answer. Stand up, Freddy, my boy, and tell me!"

"Shear 'em, sir; shear 'em." — Liverpool Mercury.

An Unexpected Result.

A freight train pulled into a small station, and a ventriloquist on the platform thought he would have some sport, so he threw his voice under a car, saying: "Let me out! Let me out!" The station agent was called, and he hastened to unfasten the door of a car. After working for a time he got the door open and out walked four tramps, all of whom disclaimed that they had asked to be let out. The ventriloquist had builded better than he knew and had stepped upon the ride of the four hoboes, who were left behind.

His Eyeglass.

It was merely a single eyeglass that the young swell wore, and Uncle Hayrick had never seen one before.

"Jes' look at that!" he exclaimed to his wife under his breath.

"What's the meanin' on it, do you think?" she inquired.

"I d'no—unless, maybe, he's buyin' his spectacles on the installment plan." — Pearson's Weekly.

A Mean Suggestion.

A famous London physician was asked out for some shooting. But, though he tried several times, he could not hit a single rabbit.

"It's awful!" he exclaimed. "I've killed nothing all day."

"Never mind," said his host. "Write the rabbits one of your prescriptions." — London Answers.

Better Than Spanking.

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constant cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. S. M. sent Box W. No. 10, D. C., Ind. will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

PASSING TO THE LEFT.

An English Custom Which Puzzles When Met in Canada.

When you go abroad you expect to find things different from at home, and you try to take everything as a matter of course. So in England when you learn that railroad trains pass to the left and not to the right, as with us, and when you find that the same rule of the road applies in city streets and country highways and byways, you may be inconvenienced, but you try to remember and get along somehow.

But when you go to Canada and find this left handed state of things existing you are bewildered. There has been no ocean trip to prepare you. You pass from Yankee soil to Canadian soil without knowing when, and somehow you expect to find the ordinary affairs of life moving along as you have been accustomed to.

One day you are in Portland, Me., the next day in St. John, N. B. You face the direction in which you wish to go and stand beside the right hand trolley track waiting for a trolley car. The car comes, but it is going the wrong way—for you. Then you shift to the left.

But the next day when you are out in the country you have forgotten the trolley car episode. You go driving. Another team approaches. You tug gently on the right hand rein, expecting Dobbin or Maude or whatever the beastie's name is to turn out.

But you get no response. On the contrary. The argument is not concluded when the horses stand face to face and the one you are driving says unkind things about you to his brother of the shafts.

By that time you have remembered, and after an apology you proceed.

The matter is especially puzzling, since the driver's seat is on the right. But the Canadians find this handy. There the men do most of the talking, and when two teams are passing the horses are checked and the men find themselves close together.

With us in like case the women have the preferred positions from a conversational standpoint. And that's how it should be.

Railroad trains don't pass to the left in Canada. In fact, they don't pass at all except at sidings. There is only one track. — Washington Post.

Disraeli's Quick Wit.

Benjamin Disraeli when contesting the borough of Shrewsbury on making his first appearance before the electors of that most corrupt old borough was, on account of his Hebrew origin, received with many jeers, etc., a number of men hoisting pieces of pork upon pitchforks, shouting out ironical invitations, such as, "Have a bit of this," "Try a bit of bacon, sir," etc. Waiting until the excited mob had cooled down, the future prime minister, equal to any occasion, addressed them, saying, "Ladies and gentlemen, I now feel sure of being your accepted candidate, for as I look to the right or the left or look before me I see offers of hospitality on every side." Needless to say, he was returned with a great majority. — Exchange.

"Crossing the Bar."

This is the story of how Tennyson came to write his beautiful "Crossing the Bar." He had been very ill, and one day when he was convalescent he was sitting grumbling. Suddenly his nurse said to him, "You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Mr. Tennyson; you ought to be expressing your gratitude for your recovery from a very bad illness by giving us something, by giving it to the world."

He went out and straightway wrote "Crossing the Bar" and brought it to the nurse as a peace offering. — London News.

His Family Tree.

"Young man," said the farmer, "I must say you've done a heap o' talkin' about yer family tree. Anybody would think you owned a whole timber yard. Come out into the lane a minute."

The youth in golf clothes accompanied him.

Pausing by a weeping willow, the farmer said, "I want you to take particular notice of this."

"What for?"

"That's our family tree. That's what has heightened our ideals and stimulated our energies. That has furnished switches fur four or five generations of us." — Exchange.

"Boost the Booster!"

That's the official slogan of a certain town in Arkansas which through boosting itself and boosting its boosters has doubled its population since the 1900 census.

BOOST THE BOOSTER!

The Arkansas town had been quarreling among itself for years, and standing still. It had boosters, but it had others who refused to boost the boosters, refused to stand by them and yell, "Good boy—keep it up!"

BOOST THE BOOSTER!

Finally the town got together with itself, organized a "Boost the Booster Club" and began to boom. Now its principal thoroughfare, which was a streak of mud, is a stretch of asphalt, and it has new buildings to match. Now everybody boosts the booster and booms the boom.

BOOST THE BOOSTER!

This town might take a hint from that one. We have our town boosters—every town has some. But sometimes they get discouraged because of opposition right here in our midst.

BOOST THE BOOSTER!

Cut out the criticism! Quit the queering!

Boom the Boom!

Then watch the old town perk up and plunge forward. You can see it move.

WHEN YOU BOOST THE BOOSTER YOU BOOM THE BOOM.

GENERAL GORDON.

His Erratic Nature and a Tribute to His Heroism.

In his book, "Modern Egypt," Lord Cromer, for twenty years the representative of British authority in the land of the khedive, gives the other side of the heroic story of General Gordon's rule in Khartum, where he was slain by the fanatical natives. Lord Cromer twice rejected the proposal to send Gordon to the Sudan. "Would," he says, "that I had done so a third time." He soon woke to Gordon's variability. He says: "Impulsive flightiness was in fact the main defect of General Gordon's character, and it was one which, in my opinion, rendered him unfit to carry out a work which pre-eminently required a cool and steady head. I used to receive twenty to thirty telegrams from General Gordon in the course of the day when he was in Khartum, those in the evening often giving opinions which it was impossible to reconcile with others dispatched the same morning."

This stream of telegrams from Khartum was so continuous that Lord Cromer had to adopt a special method of dealing with them. "I generally found a batch of them waiting for me when I began my work in the morning," he says. "My practice was to put them on one side and wait till the afternoon, by which time more had generally arrived. I used them to compare the different telegrams, to try to extract from them what it was that General Gordon really wanted and then to decide what could be done toward carrying out his wishes."

Lord Cromer says also: "One of the leading features of General Gordon's strange character was his total absence of self control. He was liable to fits of ungovernable and often of the most unreasonable passion. He formed rapid opinions without deliberation and rarely held to one opinion for long. His journal, in which his thoughts from day to day are recorded, is, even in the expurgated form in which it was published, a mass of inconsistencies."

General Gordon's courage is warmly praised by Lord Cromer, who says further: "Many a man before General Gordon has laid down his life at the call of duty. Many a man, too, has striven to regard death as a glad relief from pain, sorrow and suffering. But no soldier about to lead a forlorn hope, no Christian martyr tied to the stake or thrown to the wild beasts of ancient Rome, ever faced death with more unconcern than General Gordon."

A Lost Band.
A Scotch story is of a diminutive drummer in a local brass band who was in the habit when out parading with his comrades of walking by sound and not by sight, owing to his drum being so high that he was unable to see over it. The band on Saturday afternoons paraded usually in one direction, but one day the leader thought he would change the route a little and turned down a bystreet. The drummer, unaware of this movement, kept on his accustomed way, drumming as hard as ever he could. By and by, after finishing his part and not hearing the others, he stopped and, pushing his drum to one side, looked to see what was the matter. His astonishment may be imagined at finding that he was alone. "Hae!" he cried to some bystanders. "Has any o' ye seen a band hereabout?"

What Makes a Bank Strong

In judging a Bank, always remember that it is Capital, Surplus and Undivided Profits that give security to the depositor, because that money is what stands between you as a depositor and any possible shrinkage in the securities held by the bank.

Few banks in the State have a larger margin of safety than THE BANK OF GREENVILLE which, with the watchful interest of a very capable and conservative board of directors and the constant inspection of the Corporation Commission, has built up here one of the best financial institutions in the county, one whose
