ONE GOOD WEEK'S WORK NOW.

WILL TELL FOR ALL TIME TO COME.

Seven Days Unrelenting Effort by Advocates Will Settle the Prohibition Question in N. C.

To the Temperance Forces in North Carolina:

We are this morning entering upon the last week of the most momentous campaign in the history of our State.

Today victory is ours, and the enemy know it, and yet so far from quitting their activities, these next seven days find them in the fiercest, and bitterest warfare of all the campaign thus far.

They know that we have won—and yet they hope now in one terrible cyclonic campaign, acting in the open where it will do, secretly where that plan is best, corruptly wherever money will count, by misrepresentation and lying wherever they can impose upon the ignorant—by fair means or by foul, as may best suit their purposes, and with a belated energy and ferocity in which they hope to smite our people unawares, they are going to work in desperation to reduce our majority to a point where it will be discouraging to us in the future.

Temperance men of North Carolina, they must not succeed!

I appeal to you to match your vigor against their vigor, your zeal against their zeal, your resourcefulness, against their resourcefulness and let us see to it that not one man breaks ranks on our side in this last week of the struggle.

Valiantly and nobly have the moral forces of North Carolina worked in this campaign, with rare zeal and heroism indeed—but next week will be the time for saying this.

My appeal now is for one final week of untiring, unselfish, unwavering action in behalf of our prohibition cause.

One week's whole-hearted, unrelenting, effort on the part of the Temperance advocates now will settle this question for all time to come. One week's indifference and listlessness might mean twenty years more of agitation.

Seven days' effort on your part now may be worth seven years' effort hereafter.

And what I have said in this appeal applies no less to one man than to another. Because they have not been so prominent in this campaign as in some others, some whiskey advocates have even had the temerity to slander the good women of the State and the ministers of the gospel by saying that their hearts are not in this work as we have claimed. May the vigor and terrible earnestness of their work these next seven days answer that slander. Let every woman exert herself to the utmost.

Just one more week's work—it is for this that I appeal, and one week's whole-hearted work now will make it unnecessary for me to appeal to you again.

Remember, the eyes of the nation are on North Carolina. The whiskey sellers all over the country are willing to flood the State with money and with workers in the hope of so reducing our majority as to check the triumphant temperance wave in the country generally and keep the whiskey issue alive in our own State.

Seven days of earnest work will forever defeat their purpose. We must have it, and every friend of temperance must do his duty.

JNO. A. OATES,
Chairman Anti-Saloon League.

R. R. COTTEN FOR LEGISLATURE.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:

We learn you have two candidates for the Senate in your town, both good men. Now we want Mr. R. R. Cotten in the legislature, and as the head of the ticket seems about filled, we give notice now that Mr. Cotten's many friends in various parts of the county will press his name to a finish for the lower house at the county convention.

Mr. Cotten is well known, not only in his county, but in the State. Having served on different boards of our State institutions for a number of years, he has had much experience in State matters, and one of the most active and successful farmers in our county as well as successful in business, he is progressive, and in sympathy with every move that tends to the betterment of his county and State. He is well rounded with experience and health, and will be of much value and influence in the Legislature, just the kind of man we want to represent Pitt county. We have it from a reliable source that if nominated Mr. Cotten will accept. Now line up and stand firm, you Democrats, and give him the nomination. D. J. HOLLAND,
May the 18th, 1908.

Have You a Son? Then Think of This.

If you have a son, then vote to remove the terrible pitfalls of the drink demon from your son's pathway and from the pathway of your neighbor's sons.

Let prohibition win with your vote, and some day your son at college, boasting of the fair record of North Carolina as a leader in temperance reform, may make you proud that you were one of those who stood against the drink evil in this crisis.

Let whiskey win with your vote, and some day your own son, reeling home with his first drunk and starting on a long career of dissipation, may make you curse the day of your error and the men who led you wrong.

From the far, far past and bringing down through the long ages that intervene, there comes to us the bitter and heart-rending cry of David mourning over the death of his own wild and reckless son.

But David had not contributed to his son's downfall; he had not helped the tempter drag him down; he felt no self-reproach for the ruin that had come to him.

But at the last (and as the final word that we shall write upon this question) think what in your case will be your feelings if you vote on May 26th "For the Manufacture and Sale of Intoxicating Liquors" and your own son is one of those whom the Demon of Drunkenness marks out for his prey. Bitter as was the feeling of David over the death of a son he had tried to save, how bitterer far to the soul of any father who had voted his son to ruin must be the day when retribution comes, and how, with a headache that will last as long as life, must he exclaim with Israel's sorrowing king:

"O my son Absalom, my son, my son! would God I had died for thee, O Absalom, my son, my son!"—Progressive Farmer.

"Alligator Joe" says he is just back from his pineapple farm in Florida. He did not bring any pine or gators back with him, but all the same he has nice groceries at his place on Fifth street.

AYDEN ITEMS.

News Notes From a Hustling Town, Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., May 19, 1908.

Mike Wilson, colored, is the champion turtle catcher. He gathered 14 in one day and said that was poor luck.

Rev. Mr. St. Clare, of Georgia, is doing some good preaching in the Free Will Baptist church this week.

Work is progressing rapidly up in tobacco town. A large force of hands and much material on the lot makes it look like our neighbors, Kinston and Greenville. We are not jealous, and hope they will not be.

We learn the interdenominational convention, that was to be held in Ayden this May, has been deferred until July.

"Bud Joe," emphatically and unconditionally declines the nomination for either governor, or the legislature, as he is no orator and cannot stand a change of diet, but has not said about justice of the peace.

H. C. Ferree, of Camden and F. C. Burroughs, of Scotland Neck, arrived on the Sunday afternoon train and will spend a few days here visiting Capt. D. G. Berry.

W. H. Davenport and wife, of Kinston, have been visiting Mrs. Sack Smith on Third street.

Mrs. R. M. Prince, of Scotland Neck, is here on a visit to relatives.

Eld. E. St. Claire, an evangelist, will preach the Masonic funeral of the late R. R. Jackson at the Free Will Baptist church Sunday. The public generally and the Masons especially are invited to be present. The Rev. St. Claire is one of the ablest divines of his denomination.

The closing exercises of Ormondville High School took place Friday under the most favorable circumstances. This school is under the supervision of Prof. C. V. Cannon, of our town, who is assisted in his noble calling by two charming lady teachers, and is a great credit to the community in which it is situated. Especially are the teachers deserving much praise for its excellent management during the past session. Prof. Cannon is a graduate of the University and stands high in his profession.

They say Kitchen and Craig have shaken hands. Does that make Mr. Horne governor?

Mayor J. F. Barwick has returned from Hendersonville where he has been in attendance upon a meeting of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows as a representative of the order at this place.

There were regular services in the Methodist church Sunday morning and evening.

E. E. Hardee, living near here, had his arm very badly torn up in a machine sometime since. He has been to the hospital in Kinston for treatment and came home Monday and is much improved.

Miss May Holton came home yesterday from Wilson where she has been attending the Carolina Christian College.

What a glorious rain Monday! It was just fine.

Busy on the Street.

The mule roller at one end of the street and the steam roller at the other, keep things rolling and packing, while the laying of brick goes rapidly on between them. They have commenced putting in the cement on the first part of the paving.

B. B. WINBOURNE FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Murfreesboro, N. C., May. 2. To the Democrats of North Carolina:

I am a candidate for the nomination for office of Attorney General. I am gratified to learn from letters from all parts of the state, that my candidacy is so favorably considered by so many of the leading people of the state. Should I be nominated and elected to this high and responsible office, the people of my state will never have any cause to regret their action, if straight forward, upright and sober conduct, coupled with what ability I have, will prevent it. Should you deem it proper to nominate some one else, your nominee will have the same loyal support from me as I have given the nominee of the party for the last thirty odd years. B. B. WINBOURNE,
18 2nd St. W. Hertford County.

Prof. G. E. Lineberry

Will speak on prohibition at the following times and places: Stokes, Saturday, May 23, 1908 at 3 o'clock p. m.

Black Jack, Sunday May 24th, at 11 o'clock a. m.

Grimesland, Sunday May 24th, at 3.30 o'clock p. m.

The public cordially invited to attend and hear this question which means so much for the homes and happiness of the people presented by a man who has given his life to teaching those things which tend to make not le men and women.

Thos. J. Jarvis, Ch'm.

Times Not So Hard.

During the past few days Speight & Co., have bought twenty thousand dollars worth of cotton at eleven cents and above. There are said to be yet several hundred bales of unsold cotton in the hands of Pitt county farmers, and here it is the middle of May with another crop planted. Times are not so hard, after all.

Women's Union Service.

There will be a Union Missionary service Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 at the Christian church. There will be short talks made by representatives of the different churches of Greenville and special music. All ladies of whatever denomination are invited to this service. Mrs. H. L. Carr will be the representative from the Methodist church, Mrs. E. B. Higgs from the Baptist church, and Miss Tesh, State Missionary for the Christian church. The representative from the Presbyterian church has not been named.

Prohibition League Wednesday.

On account of rain the prohibition league did not meet Monday evening as announced on Sunday night in the churches. It will meet on Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal church at 3 o'clock. Business of much importance will be transacted and a full attendance is earnestly desired. Let every woman in Greenville who is interested in the welfare of her husband, brother or sons come to this meeting and ally herself with the workers in so important a cause.

Examinations and commencement both this week are giving the graded school children a busy time.

PITT COUNTY IS ALL RIGHT.

We see from the Raleigh News and Observer that the whiskey crowd have been counting on Pitt as one of the counties that will vote "wet" in the coming prohibition election. Possibly they based this claim on the fact that Pitt is one of the few counties in the State in which liquor is sold openly, that is in saloons, there yet being a few of those left in the county. But the whiskey crowd will find themselves badly mistaken in their claim on this county when the votes are cast and counted on the 20th. Pitt county has been making great reputation for advancement in late years, and she is going to take no backward step. Her people are going to add yet more to her honor by giving a large majority for prohibition, and thus show that she is in the front rank of moral advancement as well as in educational and material progress.

The Wilson Times, like perhaps almost every other paper in the State, received an offer from the chairman of the whiskey forces to buy advertising space in which to print matter against prohibition. The Times declined the offer and gave as its reason "because we felt the elimination of whiskey is so necessary we could not afford to lend the influence of the Times to the traffic in any sort of shape whatsoever." Yet we see several whiskey advertisements in the Times. That does not look exactly consistent.

The carnival at Kinston last week worked the town to a finish and came near finishing some of the citizens. The Free Press says two men were carved up pretty freely by an attendee of the carnival, and that the crowd perpetuated their memory in the minds of Kinstonians by leaving some unpaid bills behind. Yet there are quite a number of our people who think a carnival would be a good thing for Greenville.

Every day between now and the prohibition election on the 20th means a day of work, and plenty of it. Let every prohibitionist do his utmost to make the majority as large as possible.

If everybody who has done service for the party must have an office, we had just as well get to work on some plan to make more offices.

New Bern is also putting on city airs by footpads knocking down citizens on the streets with a view of robbing them.

The milliner who invented the merry widow hat struck the key note for the biggest free advertising in the country.

THE SAILFISH.

It Takes Great Skill to Land Him With Reel and Rod.

The small number of sailfish annually taken in Atlantic waters is partially explained by the uncertainties and difficulties to be encountered in locating their presence as well as the great skill, experience and endurance required in handling them with rod and reel.

Although infrequently seen near the Florida keys, they seldom leave the vicinity of the warm gulf stream, whose waters approach within five miles of Palm Beach.

One usually finds them on warm, sunny days, swimming with their great dorsal fins slightly out of water, and immediately a school is discovered all power must be used to forge ahead of them, cross their path a hundred yards in advance, then stop and allow the boat to drift slowly, when a lively fresh bait should be cast.

While they often strike at cut bait or a spoon in trolling, they are seldom well hooked, owing to the peculiar character of their jaws. As a rule they bite very quietly and must be given thirty to forty feet of line before striking, as their mouths are small, hard and bony, not unlike the tarpon in their internal structure, and can rarely be captured unless the bait is well swallowed.

When hooked they create a terrific commotion, first endeavoring to peel the most powerful reels in their rushes, then making perpendicular leaps in rapid succession, clearing the waves by many feet, trying desperately to shake out the hook and finally making long side dashes just under the water, somewhat like a kingfish.

These movements are occasionally interrupted by low, rapid flights just above the water, when their immense sail seems to play its part in aerial navigation.—Forest and Stream.

Free Candy.

A gentleman connected with a large confectionery establishment in the heart of the city finds the free candy luncheon the greatest nuisance about the place.

"Half a dozen young women will come in together to buy candy, and every one of the lot will make a tour around the candy counter, sampling every variety until by the time they buy the crowd has eaten from half a pound to a pound of the choicest candy in the store. Why they should make free with candies and other delicacies I never could understand. When they go to a ribbon counter they do not take the clerk's scissors and snip off a piece of ribbon from every bolt, nor when they are at the notion counter do they pick up and carry away the little articles of a hundred kinds that are sold there, but the idea that sweets are free seems thoroughly to pervade the young female mind; hence in many candy stores all the candy boxes and loose candies are placed under glass."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Some Superstitions.

When starting for the river, says a writer in London Field, if you have to turn back and get something that you have forgotten, you are sure to catch little or nothing that day. This is an article of Devon folklore, and I am inclined to think the west country folk right herein. The disappointment, the hurry and the bringing of wrong things always act prejudicially upon what ought to be the unruffled, even temper of a successful angler. He becomes hasty and rash, most often with ill results to his basket. In the western highlands it is currently believed that if you see a colt with its back to you when starting in the morning on a fishing excursion it is the worst of luck, only to be exceeded should you hear a cuckoo before breakfast.

The Volley at the Grave.

Every one who has attended a naval or military funeral will remember that the last thing is a volley which is fired over the grave of the departed comrade; then the bugle call "taps" is sounded. This is a relic of the dark ages. It was believed that noise kept away the evil spirits, and for this reason a bell was sounded. When firearms were invented volley firing was substituted for the bell, the belief being that the sound of battle was more efficacious for the soldier.

Nine Points of the Law.

Jimmy came running in to his mother from where he and his little brother had been playing with a football and in apparent excitement held up his right hand. "Oh, mamma," he exclaimed, "Georgie can't use this hand!" "Mercy!" excitedly exclaimed his mother as she started for the door. "What in the world is the matter?" "Nothing's the matter," explained Robbie, getting out of the way. "He won't want to use it cos it's mine!"—London Answers.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore require constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. The Way a Person Will Gain and Lose In One Day.

Don't get worried every time you notice a slight decrease in your weight. Of course there may be something wrong, but don't jump to conclusions too quickly. Just take into consideration the fact that the weight varies throughout the day.

Scientific investigation shows that the average healthy man is always gaining or losing weight throughout the day.

At 9 a. m. before breakfast he weighs, say, 155 pounds 8 ounces. An hour later, after breakfast, he has gained one pound twelve ounces, but by noon he loses fourteen ounces of this, only immediately to make it up and to add two ounces by lunch, which brings his weight to 157 pounds 6 ounces. Then the fall begins again and slowly continues till dinner time, though the chief meal of the day puts on two pounds two ounces, fetching him up to his maximum weight.

He is at his lightest just before breakfast and at his heaviest immediately after dinner.

There is a big drop during the night. It amounts on the average to three pounds six ounces, but the loss varies from two pounds to four pounds, according to idiosyncrasy and the season of the year. In making deductions from the results of the experiments touching variations in weight allowance must be made for special exertion, whether bodily or mental.

That mental strain quickly tells on the frame has been established in connection with examinations. Comparative tests show that students in the high classes, where the effort is necessarily greatest, lose several pounds more than those in the lower classes.

The loss of weight due to physical exertion is sometimes a little surprising even to those who have devoted attention to the matter. For instance, Burgess, the swimmer, in trying to cross the English channel, notwithstanding the large amount of food he took while in the water, lost nearly one pound per hour.

Even a degree of exertion within the capacity of well nigh anybody is an important factor in reducing weight. It is easy to lose about two pounds by taking a turn at a home exercise, while a brisk walk may involve a loss of three pounds or four pounds.—Philadelphia Press.

Facts About the Bible.

The first book printed from movable types was the Latin Bible in the year 1455. The first Bible printed in this country was in the Indian language in 1663, by John Eliot. The first English Bible printed in this country was in 1782. The first Bible printed in New York city was in 1782. George Washington owned a copy. The Bible is now printed in more than 500 different languages, representing the speech of eight-tenths of the population of the world. In the thirteenth century a Bible cost £3,000, which was more than the cost of the two arches of London bridge and as much as the entire earnings of a laboring man for fifteen years. Today the Bible is the cheapest book in the world. The entire Bible may be obtained for 16 cents and the New Testament for 6 cents.—Exchange.

Animal Nature.

Why does a dog when in slight alarm and listening lift up a fore foot from the ground? Sometimes it is the left foot, sometimes the right. The setter is usually depicted with all his feet on the ground, the pointer with one foot raised. The cat has the same habit of lifting up one fore foot when in a state of uncertainty. Is the hearing more acute with three feet on terra firma than with four? Interesting problems these for the student of nature to study.

Eight Oxen, One Wife.

To the Kafir a daughter is a vastly more valuable acquisition than a son. He feeds her until she is ten; then she earns her living either as a servant at a white lady's house or assists her father in hoeing the mealie and corn patch. As soon as she reaches a marriageable age suitors arrive. Beauty is a small attraction in the eyes of the Kafir lady killer. The father bargains with the suitor. A very fair price for a good girl is eight oxen.

A Bad Symptom.

"Has George ever hinted that he had thought of you as a possible wife?" asked the anxious mother. "No," replied the girl, a faraway look in her eyes, "and I'm afraid he never will."

"Why," said the mother, "I thought!" "It doesn't matter what you thought, mamma, dear," interrupted the daughter. "Only last night he complained of feeling drowsy, and it wasn't 9 o'clock."

Its Varied Beauties Described in a Burst of Rhetoric.

I have read of the wonder of the ancient world, the hanging gardens of Babylon, which Nebuchadnezzar reared in graceful terraces high above the brazen gates of the city to remind his Median wife of her mountain home, and I have read in the "Odyssey" of that land of delight, the island of the lotus eaters, of which Tennyson draws this beautiful picture:

How sweet it were, hearing the downward stream, with half shut eyes, to ever seem falling asleep in a half dream!

But certainly the garden spot of the modern world is in the Mississippi valley, with its sun kissed mountains and broad, rolling prairies; the paradise of the twentieth century civilization there in our magnificent, fertile and majestic Missouri, with her blue sky, her pellucid streams, her balmy air, her gorgeous sunsets and her everlasting hills. We may visit the famed galleries of the world and feast our aesthetic tastes upon the masterpieces of Raphael, Rembrandt and Angelo, Reynolds and Van Dyck, but no painter's brush ever has or ever can produce on canvas half the glory and majesty and sublimity of an autumn sunset in the Ozark hills, with the golden sunlight gilding the treetops and throwing over and about the variegated foliage its soft and mellow radiance.

Beethoven and Mozart, Mendelssohn and Handel and Wagner have poured forth a flood of melody and harmony which will delight the ears of mankind while civilization lasts, but it can never inspire that feeling of buoyancy and exhilaration, that bubbling joy and gladness, which is felt by the barefoot boy as he listens to the morning song of the mocking bird, the robin and the lark as they flit from limb to limb, while the sunlight glistens on the dew and the very air he breathes is full of life and gladness.—From Speech of Robert Lamar of Missouri in House of Representatives.

A Subtle Plea.

An old negro was brought before a justice in Dover. It seemed that Uncle Mose had fallen foul of a bulldog while in the act of entering the henhouse of the dog's owner.

"Look here, Uncle Mose," the justice said, "didn't I give you ten days last month for this same thing? Wasn't it the same henhouse you were trying to get in? What have you to say for yourself?"

Uncle Mose scratched his head. "Marse Willyum, yo' sent me ter den pen fer tryin' ter steal some chickens, didn't ye?"

"Yes; that was the charge."

"An' don't the law say yo' can't be charged twice with the same 'fense?"

"That no man shall be twice placed in jeopardy for the identical act, yes."

"Den, sah, yo' das hab ter let me go, sah. Ah war after de same chickens, sah!"

Not His Kind.

Two members of a well established firm that does business in the wholesale district indulged in the following dialogue the other afternoon:

Junior Partner—Why didn't you give that man a chance? We need another clerk here, and I rather like his looks.

Senior Partner—I liked his looks, too, but he's no good.

Junior Partner—How do you know that?

Senior Partner—When a man who is looking for a job comes to me and says, "I suppose you don't want to hire any one today, do you?" that's enough. If he had anything in him, he'd come right out and say what he meant. If he supposed we didn't want to hire any one why did he waste our time and his by coming in to bother us?

Seek the Truth.

There is a path that leads to truth so surely that any one who will follow it must needs reach the goal whether his capacity be great or small. And there is one guiding rule by which a man will find this path and keep himself from straying when he has found it. This golden rule is, Give unqualified assent to no propositions but those the truth of which is so clear and distinct that they cannot be doubted.—Descartes.

A Wonderful Fellow.

There are many kinds of celebrity. When Haydon, the painter, visited Stratford he held forth about Shakespeare to some rustics he met in a wayside inn. They told him that Stratford then contained "another wonderful fellow, one John Cooper."

"Why, what has he done?" "Why, zur, I'll tell 'ee. He's lived ninety years in this here town, man and boy, and never had the toothache!"

How Many Bricks Have You Sent Away?

That sounds like a funny question, addressed to every citizen of this town and community, but it's really a serious one. Listen: There is now just completed a magnificent building of red brick exterior and concrete interior right in the business heart of one of the biggest of American cities. It occupies a whole block and calls itself in a large lettered sign "The Largest Monolithic Building In the World." It has many floors, with about a hundred acres of floor space. The entrances are of solid marble. The floors are beautifully tiled. Altogether it is a credit to the big city in which it stands. Oh, it's a Jim Dandy!

Now, how many bricks have you sent to the city to go into this big building? Honest, how many?

Of the hundreds of thousands of bricks put into the walls of this building the city where it stands has contributed not a single red brick. Country people, the people of small towns and cities far away from the big metropolis, have sent in the bricks for the construction of this splendid edifice.

You may have sent in a few hods of bricks yourself without knowing it.

Listen: This magnificent structure, which ornaments a city you probably never will see yourself, is built of bricks bought with the dollars of people living in towns just like ours—towns that would like to have some new brick buildings themselves now and then. Every dollar contributed to the city building fund means a nice, hefty hod of bricks for this big, beautiful skyscraper, "largest in the world" of its kind. This building was put up, through the kind donations of their unknown country cousins, by a firm that ran a small store in that city a few years ago.

But this firm conceived the cute idea of having thousands of strangers contribute bricks to build its fine, large, new store.

And the building is a Mail Order Store. See?

SAWING THE SPILES.

A Problem in Wharf Building Which Seems Hard, but isn't.

When in building a wharf they have got the spiles driven up and sticking up above the water at uneven heights and with their tops all frayed. Then the surplus upper length of the spiles has to be sawed off so that the stringers upon which the wharf planking will be laid can rest upon them. And the question is, How do they manage to saw off each spile so that it will have a perfectly flat and level head, and how do they manage to get all the spiles sawed off at exactly the same height? They do this in the simplest way in the world.

The spiles all driven, they spike along to each row, at a little distance below where they are to cut them off, planks, upon which they lay crosswise other planks to make a scaffolding to work on. Then along each row of spiles at the height where they are to be cut off they draw a leveling line, which, drawn taut and leveled up, touches every spile in the row at exactly the same height, and then to each spile they nail two smooth topped crosspieces, little strips of board, one on either side of the spile, like the crosspieces on a mast, only shorter, these cross strips being nailed on so that their tops just touch the underside of a leveling line. And then the sawyers, with their long crosscut saws, worked by a man at each end, come along.

The crosspieces nailed to the spile show exactly where it is to be cut off, and they serve also as guides and supports for the saw in cutting the spile off true. Resting the saw blade on their projecting ends at one side, the men saw and saw until they have sawed the spile off. And so they keep on until they have got them all sawed off and ready for the stringpieces. — New York Sun.

no sublime Porte.

Sublime porte is the French for porta sublima, the "lofty gate." Constantinople had twelve gates, and near one of these was a building with a lofty gateway called "Bab-i-humajun." In this building resided the vizier. In it were the offices of the chief ministers of state, and thence all the imperial edicts were issued. The French phrase was adopted because at the time French was the language of European diplomacy.

In judging a Bank, always remember that it is Capital, Surplus and Undivided Profits that give security to the depositor, because that money is what stands between you as a depositor and any possible shrinkage in the securities held by the bank.
