CONNECTICUT SENATOR GETS MAD

A SPEECH THAT LOST ITS EFFECTIVENESS.

A New Turn in the Brownsville Affair That Was Not on the Program.

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Morgan Gardner Bulkeley, United States senator from Connecticut, is today a sadder and a wiser man. Also a madder one. Brownsville did it, Brownsville and that intangible but powerful thing known as the Senate "inner ring."

For when the "inner ring" got together and determined to shelve the Brownsville affair until after the election, Morgan Gardner Bulkeley was left holding the bag—and the bag was empty.

It was not at all a nice way in which the "inner ring" treated the honorable Senator from Connecticut. It is true that Bulkeley is a new Senator and that new Senators do not come in for a great deal of consideration at the hands of the old-timers; but even if he is comparatively new as a senator he is a man of dignified years and distinguished career, having been governor of his state and other things, and it would seem he should have been entitled to a little more consideration.

It happened something after this manner: Next to Senator Foraker, Senator Bulkeley has been the most ardent champion of the negro soldiers who were discharged from the army without honor because of the Brownsville shooting affair. He had loyally supported the Ohio senator in every move of the latter to bring about the reinstatement of the discharged soldiers, not caring if he did "get in bad" at the White House for doing so. He had prepared an able speech on the subject and was prepared to help Foraker force the matter to a vote in the senate.

Then, one day Foraker got in the senate and announced that he would not try to secure a vote on his Brownsville resolution until next December. Bulkeley was dumbfounded, not to say flabbergasted. It was the first intimation he had had that the fight was off. Left without time to map out a course of action, he got up and protested against the delay. But what was the use? Everything had been arranged in that "never slip a cog" manner which prevails in the "greatest deliberative body in the world." The Senate heard Bulkeley politely and then went ahead with the postponement, as per program.

To be left marooned like that now, was enough to make any man mad; but Bulkeley didn't really get hopping until they rubbed salt into his wounded pride. When the "inner ring" saw how Bulkeley felt about the matter it sent an emissary to smooth things out. The emissary was not exactly a diplomat. "Bulkeley," he said, "we're awfully sorry you weren't consulted about that Brownsville matter. We'd have been perfectly willing to have told you of the program if we'd thought about it, but the truth is, you being a new senator, it never occurred to any of us that you ought to be told."

Now, if you were a dignified old gentleman of more than seventy years, were a former governor of your state and a veteran of the civil war, how would you like to have some young fellow, not much over fifty, pat you on the head, figuratively speaking, and call you "sonny?" The Hon. Morgan Gardner Bulkeley, United States senator from Connecticut, didn't like it a bit, and his chief occupation in those closing days of the session is to sit and glare at the members of the "inner ring."

Married in Buggy.

Last Sunday afternoon a couple drove up in front of the residence of Squire C. D. Rountree, on Greene street, and called for him to come out. The couple were Mr. Jordan Hedgepeth and Miss Perlina E. Carney, from the north side of the river. The young man handed Squire Rountree a marriage license and requested him to perform a ceremony at once. He proceeded to marry them as they sat on the buggy, and they drove off happy.

STORE BREAKER CAPTURED.

And Committed to Jail to Await Court.

Today Mr. W. C. Hines returned from Bethel bringing with him a colored man named Sam Brown who was placed in jail. On Sunday, night some one broke into the warehouse of Blount Bros., at Bethel. They telephoned at once for Mr. Hines who went over with his blood hound. The dog run a trail to the house of Brown, but other evidence was waited for before arresting him. With this clue enough evidence to fasten the guilt upon Brown was not hard to find, and arrest, preliminary trial and commission to jail on failure to give bond for his appearance at Superior court, followed in regular order.

MR. J. C. TRIPP DEAD.

One of Our Oldest Citizens Passes Away.

Mr. Joshua L. Tripp, aged 80 years, died at 4.30 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, at his home on Pitt street. About two months ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis, but had recovered sufficiently from this to get about some on a rolling chair, but on Wednesday of last week became worse and continued to grow weaker until the end.

Mr. Tripp was a thoroughly good man and had a host of friends. He was a native of Pitt county and a Confederate soldier. A wife and eight children survive him. These are Mr. J. B. Tripp, of Texas; Mr. J. L. Tripp, of Washington City; Mr. H. B. Tripp and Miss Leila and Lucille Tripp, of Greenville; Mrs. Titus Jolly, Mrs. D. N. Branch and Mrs. A. F. Cox, of this county. He was the oldest member of the Free Will Baptist church at Reedy Branch, and the remains were taken to the burial ground there for interment this afternoon. Service was held at 1 o'clock at the residence conducted by Rev. J. E. Ayscuc.

FOR A STATE STOCK LAW.

Col. F. A. Olds Advocates This for Eastern North Carolina.

If there is one thing which a very large area of North Carolina needs, it is the stock law, and the particular area which needs it worse has, perhaps, less of it than any other part of the State, this being the long-leaf region.

Pick up an old geography and it will tell you that North Carolina is noted for its tar, pitch and turpentine. This was true half a century ago and something later but it is not true now, our genial, if somewhat learned friend the razor-back hog is very largely responsible for the change.

This hog is a connoisseur by the way, and cares nothing for the roots of any tree except the long-leaf, which are sweet. So he plays havoc with the timber. If he were exterminated, or improved as to hunger and taste by being kept at home instead of being allowed to lead the life of a savage, as at present, the result to North Carolina's pine industry would be enormous.

The man who will have the stock law passed for the whole State will deserve a monument, for then a vast stretch of country will be reseeded and the long-leaf pine, which is the prince of Southern forests, will be restored—Col. Fred A. Olds, in Charlotte Daily Observer.

"Not How Cheap, But How Good."

We desire to call attention to the new advertisement of L. H. Pender which appears in this issue. Mr. Pender has long been in the tinning and heating business here and is well known. Since the town put in sewer he has added plumbing to his business and employs the best of workmen. When he turns over a job to you you can bank on its being right. His motto is "Not how cheap, but how good."

Rev. D. W. Arnold.

Will preach on prohibition at Parkers chapel on Sunday May 24th, 1908 at 3:30 o'clock p. m. A cordial invitation is given to the public to attend this service and hear this plea for prohibition.

SOUTHERNERS ENTERTAINED.

Celebrate Hundredth Anniversary of Birth of President of the Confederacy.

Spokane, Wash., May 20. Mildred E. Lee Chapter of Spokane, Daughters of the Confederacy, will entertain its members and a number of Southerners living in the Spokane country at the home of Mme. J. M. Snapp, 1107 Shannon avenue, the evening of June 3, in honor of the 100th anniversary of the birth of the president of the Confederacy. Plans for the celebration of Jefferson Davis day were discussed at the last meeting of the chapter at the home of Mrs. L. A. Robinson, when a committee headed by Madame Snapp, was named to arrange a program of addresses and music suitable for the occasion. Hon. Miles Poindexter, judge of the Spokane county superior court and president of the Southern club, of Spokane, will be one of the speakers, and an orchestra and quartette will present a program of vocal and instrumental music, including songs, typical of the southland. It was originally intended to invite a prominent Southerner to come to Spokane as guest of the chapter and deliver the principal address, but because of the little time left for an exchange of letters this plan has been deferred until later in the season, when the chapter and Southern club will join in a basket picnic at one of the nearby resorts.

COTTEN FOR THE LEGISLATURE.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:

We the people of Falkland, through your columns wish to place the name of R. R. Cotten before the voters of Pitt county in our coming Democratic county convention. As we recall the fact that his name was before our convention two years ago, and he made a strong run, we feel that he will this year lead the ticket, as the people of the county so well know him and know of him. He is a man very conservative and kind in all words and action. He is one of Pitt's largest and most successful farmers and business men. Also he is connected with, and takes great interest in our banks which place him in close touch with our general welfare. Therefore we feel that the county will make no mistake if they will send him to the legislature of 1909

Maine's Champion Forgetter.

The most forgetful man has been found. He lives in a little town in the upper part of York county. He fell ill with symptoms indicating appendicitis and submitted to an operation. To their great surprise and embarrassment the surgeons found that the appendix had been removed. The patient afforded the necessary information when he recovered from the ether, by stating that he remembered that, "come to think of it," that he had been through a similar operation two years ago.

The debate tonight will be held in the opera house at 8 o'clock.

The query and the speakers were announced a few days ago in the Reflector. The boys have good speeches and the management of the school believes that all who attend will enjoy them.

Just before the debate an operatta will be given by thirty boys and girls. The subject of the operatta is "A Day in Florida."

The people of Greenville and the public in general have a cordial invitation to be present.

They declare it is not right when so many thousands of Americans are in Washington who never visit the capital at any other time, the natural and architectural beauties of the city should be so terribly marred. They especially complain of the erection of huge and unsightly reviewing stands along historic Pennsylvania avenue, and a prize will be offered for the design of a stand less conspicuous and more artistic.

A SUBTLE LETTER.

The Boy Knows Just How to Rescue His Mother's Sympathy.

"My son certainly does know how to 'get around' his mother," said a wealthy merchant at his club recently. "That boy of mine is a fine fellow, but he has such queer ideas. He writes verses and little sketches, or whatever you call them, and is furious because I want him to be an attorney.

"A few weeks ago he and I had a talk about his future. 'Father,' he said, 'just give me my fare west and I will get a position on a newspaper out there and make you proud of me, but it would be so awfully dull to be only a Boston lawyer.'

"Well, I bought him a ticket to San Francisco and gave him $25 for pocket money. He had been mollycoddled quite a lot and made to think he was a genius, and I knew to 'get out and rustle' would be the best thing for him.

"I arranged through a western friend of mine to see that the youngster did not starve to death, and I awaited developments. He did not write for money, and I learned through a friend, corroborated by a letter the boy wrote to my wife, that he was earning $8 a week.

"But that youngster will make a good lawyer just the same. You ought to see the last letter he sent to his mother. After reading it she wired him $50 as soon as she could get to the telegraph office. She never said a word to me until afterward.

"Here is his letter:

"Dear Mother—I have not written to you for quite awhile. I have been so busy. I seldom get to bed before midnight, and I am usually too tired to write. There is an awfully nice lot of boys on this paper, and we are trying to save money. I am writing this in my bathrobe because I pawned my best suit to pay my room rent, and the landlady is pressing the other. I sold the rest of my clothes, as a fellow only needs two suits. I think father was so wise to decide I must shift for myself. It was the best thing, and I am doing splendidly. Before this I never thought I could live on the food I eat now, but it seems to nourish me. I had rolls and coffee for breakfast, and I find I do not need any luncheon. Then I have discovered a place—and it is quite clean—where for dinner I can get beans and coffee or a stew and coffee for 10 cents. I do not mind a bit about the kind of people who eat there. They are just as good as I am. I hardly ever have to go to bed hungry. Lovingly,
"YOUR BOY.

"Do you wonder my wife hurried downtown to telegraph $50? I am going to send for that son of mine to come home. I may be able to do something with him after all."—Boston Advertiser.

Dancing and the Hands.

"I used to think that sort of dancing was easy," whispered a woman to her escort in the theater where a musical comedy was being performed. By "that sort of dancing" she meant the work of the chorus. "But now that I've taken up the craze for learning fancy dances I know that it is ever so much harder than it looks. It ain't the steps that bother me. Most women can manage that part of the lessons easy enough. The sticking point is to learn to manage my hands. To have them more in perfect accord with the steps and the music has brought me to tears more than once, and it seems to me that I never will learn to use my hands just right. I believe that chorus girls are troubled the same way in the beginning, but no one except one who has worked as hard as I have can appreciate how clever their work is."—New York Press.

A Bride's Little Scheme.

"Nearly all brides are getting tired of cut glass for wedding presents because they always get so much more than they can ever use," remarked a jeweler recently, "but I never heard of one going so far to block the cut glass as a little bride that was in here the other day.

"She told me her name and asked me if I wouldn't keep my ears cocked for any customer who might come in to buy a wedding present and mention her name. My part of the game was to tell the customer that she had dropped a remark about not caring for cut glass. She said she had been to two other stores and fixed up the same deal with them."

EDISON THE VICTOR.

He Humbled the Pride of the Fast Telegraph Operator.

Edison made his first record as a telegraph operator in Memphis. A contemporary says he came walking into the office one morning looking like a veritable hayseed. He wanted a job, and, although his appearance was not prepossessing, the office was short handed, and he was assigned a desk at the St. Louis wire, the hardest in the office. "At the end of the line was an operator who was chain lightning and knew it," says Francis Arthur Jones' "Life of Edison."

"Edison had hardly got seated before St. Louis called. The newcomer responded, and St. Louis started on a long report which he pumped in like a house afire. Edison threw his leg over the arm of his chair, leisurely transferred a wad of spruce gum from his pocket to his mouth, took up a pen, examined it critically and started in about fifty words behind. He didn't stay there long, though. St. Louis let out another link of speed, and still another, and the instrument on Edison's table hummed like an old style Singer sewing machine. Every man in the office left his desk and gathered around the jay to see what he was doing with that electric cyclone.

"Well, sir, he was right on the word and taking it down in the prettiest copperplate hand you ever saw, even crossing his 't's' and dotting his 'i's' and punctuating with as much care as a man editing telegraph for printers. St. Louis got tired by and by and began to slow down. Then Edison opened the key and said:

"Hello, there! When are you going to get a hustle on? This is no primer class."

"Well, sir," said the gentleman in conclusion, "that broke St. Louis all up. He had been rawhiding Memphis for a long time, and we were terribly sore, and to have a man in our office who could walk all over him made us feel like a man whose horse had won the Derby."

THRILLING SPORT.

Rafting Down the Canyons of an Unmapped Glacial River.

With provisions for only ten days a party of explorers in Alaska found one September that they must build rafts and take their chances of letting the swift river carry them to settlements where food could be obtained; otherwise ice and snow would shut them in from all hope of rescue. In "The Shameless Diary of an Explorer" Robert Dunn tells of the journey on the roughly made rafts.

"At 11 o'clock today began the most thrilling sport I know, rafting down the snaky canyons of an unmapped glacial river.

"Fred and I captained the Mary Ann II, the other three the Ethel May. We rasped and hauled them over the gravel shadows of our tributary, shot out between the main walls of the stream and seized upon that boiling current.

"We reached silently from cliff to cliff, jammed pike poles into the slate shelf overhead, twirled out of eddies. We bumped and grounded. We dashed overboard and on the run eased her across shallows. We tugged half an hour to make an inch at each step through the gravel, suddenly plunged in to our necks, and she leaped free as we scrambled on.

"Bowlders rose through white ruffs of water in midchannel. We might or might not hang on them for a perpendicular minute.

"You must be very handy with a pole. You must have a hair fine eye for moving angles, the strength of an eddy, the depth of foam ruffling over a stump. You must be sure of the length of your pole than a polo player of the reach of his mallet. You must be quicker than a St. Bernard dog. You must know the different weight of each log down to ounces, the balance of the duffel piled high like a dais, covered with the tent and the bean pot, the mackinaws and the ax lashed to all the lashings. It's a pretty game."

A Risky Subject.

"Do you think, sweetheart," queried the young man with the evenly divided hair, "that your father will consent to our marriage?"

"Well," replied the fair one, "of course papa will be sorry to lose me, but—"

"But," interrupted the rash youth, "I will remind him that instead of losing a daughter he will gain a son."

"Dearest," rejoined the wise maid, "if you really want me you mustn't say anything of the kind. Papa has three such sons boarding with him now, and he's a little touchy on the subject."

Queer Milk.

Many specimens of unconscious humor are received by the editors of that monumental work, the "Imperial Gazetteer of India." A district was said to be "an extensive rolling plain, consisting of alternate ridges of bare stony hills and narrow fertile valleys." An interesting item of natural history was afforded by the remark, "The buffalo differs from the cow in giving milk which is richer in butter fat, in voice and in having no hump."—London Globe.

UNWILLING GUESTS.

A Turtle Feast With Indians on the Amazon River.

"One of the strangest situations I was ever in," said a man who has traveled much, "was down on an island in the Amazon river. I was looking up timber for an English syndicate. I had another white man with me, and we went up the river 800 miles in a launch. The crew of the launch were half Indian and half negro. We had been caught by a swarm of Indians who swept us along with them up the river until we reached this island I speak of. There was nothing to do but go with them, as they were several hundred to one of us. They landed on the island, which was quite sizable and sloped to the river's edge, the shores being sandy. There we camped for the night. Next morning when we wanted to leave the natives would not let us go, insisting on our remaining. I did not like this, but there was nothing else to do, so we stayed. Well, that night we saw something moving all about the island, and presently turtles began to crawl out of the water on to the shore. There were hundreds of them. They came there to lay their eggs. It was an annual visit, and the Indians knew and kept track of it. They were there to have a feast. As soon as the turtles were well on the island the fun began. With a big pole we would get after a turtle and upset him on his back, where he was helpless. Scores were caught in this manner. For those they did not want to eat at once the Indians scooped a hole in the sand and dropped the turtle down on his back, and there he remained until dragged out to be killed. The weird and fantastic performances we saw there beat anything I ever saw before or since. The Indians would eat and dance and dance and eat until they fell down, unable to move. As soon as they had rested they would get up and go at it again. They kept that up for nearly a week. Then we got away. How much longer they remained I cannot say, but suppose they remained as long as there was anything to eat."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The Earth's Rotundity.

When the earth comes between the sun and the moon it always casts a round shadow. A place chosen for an experiment to prove the roundness of the earth was near Bedford, England, where there is a straight six mile stretch of water. At both ends and in the middle of this stretch of water posts were erected, each of the same definite height above the water level. Upon looking with a telescope along the tops of these three posts it was clearly seen that the center one overtopped the others by about six feet, thus marking the curvature of the earth's surface. This experiment has been repeated and with every latest appliance brought to bear to effect absolute accuracy. The statement as to how a ship at sea shows the tops of her masts first and then gradually parts below them, but above the water, is a familiar one and satisfies most minds.

A Conundrum.

Jones—I say, Smith, you are a good hand at arithmetic.

Smith—Yes, I am considered very good. Why?

Jones—Well, here is a little problem for you. There was a man named Little living in Dublin who had a daughter. Now, she was in love with a chap she knew her pater did not approve of, so one day she eloped with him. When the old man found out he was very angry and at once followed them. Now, then, what time was it?

Smith (angrily)—What time was it? How on earth do you suppose I can tell you? I give it up.

Jones (triumphantly)—Why, a little after 2, of course.—London Express.

A Distinction.

"John, dear," said the wife of his bosom as she was about to start downtown, "can you let me have a little pin money this week?"

"About how much?" queried her hubby.

"Oh, I guess $500 will do," she replied rather nonchalantly.

"Great guns!" he exclaimed.

"Five hundred dollars for pin money! Why, I can buy a cart load of pins for $5."

"But not diamond pins, dear," calmly rejoined the alleged better half of the matrimonial combine.—Exclamation.

Delicious Banana Cream.

This recipe is highly recommended by one of our correspondents; try it for dessert tomorrow.

Peel five large bananas, rub smooth with five tea-spoonfuls of sugar. Add one teaspoonful cream beaten to a stiff froth, then add one 10c package of Lemon Jell-O dissolved in 1-2 cups boiling water. Pour into mold when cold garnish with candied cherries. Serve with whipped cream, or any good pudding sauce. JELL-O is sold by all Grocers at 10c. per package.

NEXT SUNDAY A DAY OF PRAYER

Governor Makes Request of Christians and Church.

Governor Glenn stated yesterday that he had been requested by a great many local anti-saloon leagues and various ministers of the gospel to issue a proclamation setting aside the 24th day of May as a day of prayer for guidance as to how the people should vote in the election in regard to the prohibition of the sale and manufacture of strong drink in the State. After giving the matter consideration and consulting with those whom he thought suitable advisors, he said that he does not think it would be right for him to issue a proclamation of this kind, but while this is true, knowing as he does that curse of strong drink produces poverty, crime, insanity, disease, indolence, ruin, misery, vice, shame and death, thus destroying the peace of the home, "making wives widows, children orphans, fathers fiends, and many of them paupers and beggars," he does think that every intelligent citizen ought to maturely reflect and pray over his action in casting his vote in the election to be held on the 26th day of May, and, therefore, he earnestly hopes that every good citizen of North Carolina will go to his customary place of worship on the 24th day of May, and make this matter a subject of special prayer, and that also on that day the ministers of all Christian churches will deliver some appropriate discourse on the subject of temperance, thereby seeking to enlighten and instruct the people as to their duty.

Prof. Lineberry Appointed.

Governor Glenn yesterday appointed Prof. G. E. Lineberry, of Winterville, to membership on the board of directors of the State Institution for the Blind, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. W. T. Love, of Lowell.—Raleigh News and Observer.

This is an exceptionally wise appointment, for Prof. Lineberry will fill the position with marked credit and ability.

REGISTRATION NOTICE—FIFTH WARD.

The voters of the 5th ward of the town of Greenville will take notice that I have been appointed registrar for said ward for the purpose of registering the qualified voters of said ward, and to aid in the conduct of an election called to be held on the 1st day of June, 1908, in the town of Greenville, N. C., for the purpose of electing one alderman.

I give notice that I will be at the polling place of said 5th ward, to wit: at Kings stables at Five Points, on Wednesday, May 27th, Thursday, May 28th, Friday, May 29th, 1908, from 9 o'clock a. m. to 5 o'clock p. m. with my book of registration prepared to register such persons as may be entitled to register in said ward for said election. I also give notice that no person shall be allowed to vote who does not register.

What Makes a Bank Strong

In judging a Bank, always remember that it is Capital, Surplus and Undivided Profits that give security to the depositor, because that money is what stands between you as a depositor and any possible shrinkage in the securities held by the bank.

Hundreds of Readers Know What it Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed; Have too much to do. They tell about it in many aches and pains—Backache, sideache, headach', Early symptoms of kidney ills, Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

Mrs. Bisco Pittman, of Walnut St., Tarboro, N. C., says: "For sometime I had kidney complaint. My back was very weak, my kidney did not act as they should, and I suffered from severe pains through my loins. My husband procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills for me and I used them according to directions. They entirely banished the pains from my back, restored my kidneys to a natural condition and since that time I have felt better and stronger in every way. I have great confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills and willingly recommend them to other sufferers."
