ELDER HARDY'S LAST PLEA FOR IT

LET US PUT THIS CURSE AWAY AS FAR AS WE POSSIBLY CAN.

To Vote for Sale and Manufacture of Intoxicating Liquors is to Turn Loose Upon Men and Boys That Which Biteth as an Adder and Stingeth as a Serpent.

To the Editor: The prohibition campaign of 1908 is nearing its close when a great moral issue will have fully tested its strength in our good Old North State.

How will the thing terminate? What will be the ending?

I remember when I was a little boy to have seen liquors used as a part of hospitality. The visitors and the family, young and old, all drank together. Then were the seeds sown from which many a poor mother, wife, sister have reaped a wild harvest of drunkenness in husband and brother. Many a wife has sat lonely at night listening for the coming of husband, many a mother for the son, many a sister for the brother, while tears of love, sorrow and fear bathed their cheeks all to end in the very bitter experience of seeing the loved ones come home a drunken debauch filled with words of cursing and bitterness for those who had so patiently waited and so lovingly poured forth prayers and tears. This has grown largely from the old seed which were sown years ago and have grown up from generation to generation until today many young men have not the nerve to go in the company of young women unless they are stimulated with alcohol.

It is time to put a halt to all such as this that our boys may be men who will protect society against debaucheries of every kind. Every peace-loving, liberty-loving citizen in our land ought to come up and lend a helping hand in this great moral movement.

I am glad to be able to note that I am not the only Primitive Baptist preacher who is helping along this line.

Elders Sylvester Hassell, M. B. Williford, P. D. Gold, William Woodard, J. W. Gardner, C. F. Denny, Bird Denny, John Denny and G. O. Key with a large number of our members both male and female are heart and soul in this noble reform.

I have tried to weigh the matter on both sides and I cannot see any moral reason why any one should vote for the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors and to do so, it appears to me, is to turn loose upon the men and youths of our land that which biteth as an adder and stingeth as a serpent. To drink alcoholic beverages is to put an enemy in the mouth to steal the brain out of the head, and to saturate the system with alcohol is to impart a curse to unborn children which will continue many generations.

Let us think now. Next Tuesday is the day to act. What will you do? Let us put this curse as far from us as we possibly can.

Respectfully yours,
L. H. HARDY,
Reidsville, N. C., May 22.

MR. KITCHIN AND FUSION.

As the campaign waxes warm the people are beginning to take notice of some things that were about to be overlooked—if not forgotten. The Sun has repeatedly referred to the attempt of Mr. Kitchin to fuse the Democratic party with Marion Butler and his coterie of pie-hunters in 1898. Some notice has been given to it by other papers. In reply to a letter by Mr. Chas. W. Tillett, of Charlotte, written in the interest of Mr. Kitchin's candidacy, Mr. M. C. Freeman, a farmer of Richmond county writes an open letter, from which the following extract fits in very nicely here:

"And, Mr. Tillett, you mention the fact that Mr. Kitchin has not been in Mr. Craig's congressional district to make a single speech. I believe that this is a fact—and if my memory serves me right I don't think he put himself to much trouble about going up into Mr. Craig's district in 1896 and 1898—and I don't remember to have heard very much about Mr. Kitchin being down in my county or down in the east. The fact of the business is I believe they say he was up in the fifth district a running for congress and if my memory serves me right I think he has been up in the fifth district in every campaign since, making himself conspicuous a running for congress. But what I want to know is did Mr. Kitchin try to fuse with 'Mary Ann' in 1896? It's been charged that he did, and he has not denied it. If he didn't you tell him he ought to deny the charge. If he did, then I say that no democrat in North Carolina ought to vote for him until he confesses and repents for his sins."

Mr. Freeman tells a part of the story very truthfully; but he does not tell all of it. The truth is that Mr. Butler fused with Kitchin in 1896, and gave him the populist vote against Mr. Settle, thereby bringing about what is now claimed as a brilliant democratic victory, but he did not fuse with the other democratic candidates for congress in that year, and they were defeated. Just why young Mr. Kitchin was selected by Butler for fusion in 1896 we do not know but it may have been on account of Captain Buck Kitchin, who was Butler's first lieutenant. Or it may have been because our other candidates, seeing how many negroes Butler and his lieutenants had helped to put in office, refused to fuse with him!

But Mr. Kitchin's fusion record does not end with his election over Settle in 1896. In the year 1898, when the democratic party met in convention at Raleigh, Butler had had a row with Pritchard, and he came to the democratic convention with the stink of a thousand negro office holders on him, and proposed to fuse with us on the basis of dividing the offices, etc.—ad nauseum.

That proposition was referred to the committee on resolutions. It is known that short work would have been made of it, but for Mr. Kitchin. He was earnest, urgent and insistent upon its acceptance. He advanced many arguments why it should be adopted, but the argument which he pressed with greatest force and persistency was that he had been able to beat Settle and be elected to congress, while our other candidates had lost, with the aid of the populist vote. That his district was about all we had left—if we did not fuse we had no chance of winning in the state and that he would lose his district.

Well, the committee remembered those negroes Butler and his lieutenants had helped to put in office, and they considered that a victory, with Butler and his lieutenants on top, would be worse than a defeat, and they refused to accept the advice of Mr. Kitchin, and under the lead of Simmons, Aycock, Glenn and Craig—Mr. Kitchin's "big four"—then opened fire on Russell and Butler and their lieutenants, and smote them hip and thigh, and there was weeping and gnashing of teeth.

But Mr. Kitchin says that Simmons and Aycock and Glenn and Craig, and their able and patriotic followers did not do it at all—that they do not deserve the credit and the reward, if any is to be given. The pollholders, Mr. Kitchin says, did it, and if there is to be any reward it should go to them. This is just what the radicals have been saying, continue to say, never tire of saying. It is what Butler said and is still saying. What they mean to charge is that we did not carry the State in 1898—but stole it! We Democrats have always resented that statement when made by Republicans. Why should we endorse it when insinuated by a Democrat? It is a serious charge. It is not a true charge. Whenever Republicans have made it we have branded it as false. It is now for the first time made by a Democrat, and that Democrat is a candidate for the nomination of his party for governor!

If we nominate him will we not have to admit the charge? Does the Democratic party want to nominate or elect a man governor of North Carolina who in effect says the pollholders and not the voters carried the election in 1898, and adopted the amendment in 1900? Nominate Mr. Kitchin after this charge, and on a thousand stumps in North Carolina the republican campaign orators will, in the coming campaign, point the finger of scorn at us and say: "You dare not deny it, for you nominated for governor the man who said it, and you stand self confessed!"—New Bern Sun.

A Delightful Singer.

At the service in Memorial Baptist church, Sunday night, two beautiful solos were excellently sung by Mrs. C. L. Whichard, of Norfolk, one, "The King's Business," as an offertory and the other "God Give Us Homes," just after the sermon. Rev. Mr. Ayscue's talk was along temperance lines and the duty of the people in the prohibition election, and the two beautiful songs were most appropriate to his subject.

A Young Business Man.

Rogers Dey Whichard, of Norfolk, who has been spending a few days with relatives here, is the youngest stockholder in The Home Building and Loan Association of Greenville. This morning the little fellow called on Secretary N. G. White and signed his own name to a check for a month's dues. He is not quite four and a half years old, but writes his name well.

Mrs. J. G. Moye and children returned Saturday evening from a visit to Conetoe and Tarboro.

God loves that person who is not now afraid of giants.

GREENVILLE WILL GET BUILDING.

OVERMAN AND SMALL DO GOOD WORK.

Appropriation Bill Passes Including $10,000 for a Public Building Site in Greenville—What the Chamber of Commerce Does.

A telegram received Sunday by Prof. W. H. Ragsdale from Congressman John H. Small, announces that Greenville will get a public building site at a cost not exceeding $10,000. The house conference committee on Saturday night agreed to Senator Overman's amendment including Greenville in the appropriations bill which passed the senate, and Congressman Small said it would pass the house today in accordance with the conference agreement.

Greenville and Pitt county are to be congratulated upon this assurance that the town is to have a public building in the near future and our people are under obligation to Senator Overman and Congressman Small for the interest they have taken in it. The good work of the Chamber of Commerce of Greenville is also again manifested in this, both the chamber and the county commissioners having sent a committee to Washington to appear before the house appropriations committee and present Greenville's claims for a public building. Thus in one year by such united effort Greenville has secured both the training school and a public building, neither of which could have been secured without this organized movement.

The chamber of commerce should soon be coming together again to hold a kind of jollification meeting over what has been accomplished, and express appreciation to those who have helped out in it, even if there is no other enterprise the organization wants to push at present. It pays for our people to come together frequently and keep in touch with each other.

Miss Gaston Leaves.

Miss Olive Gaston, who for the past session has been music teacher at the graded school, left this morning for her home in New York. While here Miss Gaston has also been organist in the Methodist church and has served most faithfully in that capacity. Besides being a skilled performer on the pipe organ, Miss Gaston has a splendid voice and frequently favored the congregation with a solo. She gave a farewell song at the service Sunday night.

Visiting Preacher.

A large congregation heard Elder Sylvester Hassell, of Williamston, preach in the court house Sunday night, and they enjoyed a splendid sermon. Elder Hassell is one of the ablest ministers of the Primitive Baptist denomination in this State, and many Greenville people would be glad if he could have frequent appointments to preach here.

Notice.

On and after the first day of June, 1908, a charge will be made for crossing the ferry at Greenville between the hours of 9 o'clock p. m. and sunrise. The price will be for each vehicle and occupants 25 cents, and for each person on foot 5 cents.

By order of the board of commissioners of Pitt county.

Greenville's musical people and all who appreciate high class music will enjoy a rare treat at the Masonic Temple opera house Wednesday evening when the Madrigal Club of Norfolk, Va., give a grand concert for the benefit of the Knights of Pythias.

This week the people will have the opportunity of seeing and hearing Mr. Craig, who will speak at the closing of the Free Will Baptist Seminary at Ayden on Thursday and will also speak in Greenville that night.

The man who has suffered most from whiskey should most strongly favor prohibition.

Show to the whiskey crowd tomorrow that the manhood of North Carolina cannot be purchased with money.

Tomorrow is the day of days for North Carolina, as it marks perhaps the most important election that was ever held in the State. Let every man do his duty at the ballot box and help to swell the majority for prohibition.

Congress took a whack at the South when by a strict party vote it passed the Crumpacker bill which contains a provision to cut down Southern representation in congress. Of course this was a political play on the part of the Republicans, but it is not likely that such a measure will become a law.

The Reflector makes this last appeal to the men of Pitt county to help in the election to-morrow to give such a majority for prohibition that will ring down through the ages to the honor of the county. Pitt county cannot afford to put a blot on her reputation by taking side with the saloons. Go to the polls, men, and put in a ballot "Against the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors."

Last week seven more counties in the State held their primaries or county conventions, bringing the total number of counties that have so far held conventions up to fifty-eight. Of these counties Rowan's 14 delegates and Hertford's 5 go uninstructed to the State convention. Of the others the strength of the three candidates for the nomination for governor is given as follows omitting fractions: Craig 236, Kitchin 175, Horne 72.

WHEN BATHS WERE RARE.

The Time When a Dandy Washed His Face Nearly Every Day.

It will come as a shock to some readers to learn that one of the most serious occupations of a fifteenth century wife was to protect her husband from fleas.

Taking into consideration, however, the horror with which the people of those days regarded cold water and clean clothes, it is not surprising to learn that the question of exterminating these insects made life a burden.

Cleanliness was not only looked upon as a dangerous custom, but a positive sin. The soul alone was regarded as of any importance, so that the neglect of the body became so much a virtue that a bath was only allowed in cases of illness. At any rate, water had no place in the toilet of the grand monarch. His valet after pouring a flask containing spirits of wine over the hands of his majesty passed a comb through his hair, thus completing his toilet for the day.

In the seventeenth century, however, cleanliness was carried to such an excess that an English dandy was expected to wash his face "nearly every day." So rapidly did the custom spread that it was necessary to issue a solemn warning that the practice of using water for this purpose "injures the eyesight, engenders toothache and catarrh, renders the complexion colorless and makes the skin susceptible to cold in the winter and heat in the summer."

Washing seems to have been more popular in the eighteenth century in France than in England, this in spite of the fact that water was forbidden in the former country.

A lost art, according to M. Franklin in "La Civilite du XIII. au XIX. Siecle," is that of blowing one's nose. Today it is a more or less perfunctory necessity, but in the seventeenth century it was an accomplishment. One person imitated the blast of a trumpet, another the swearing of a cat. Possibly snuff taking, which was the fashionable habit of that day, had something to do with its accomplishments, perfection in which consisted in making "neither too much nor too little noise."

Another noteworthy fact on the etiquette of those days is that nobody ever knocked at the door. The correct thing was to scratch softly with the nail of the finger, which the dandies of the day kept extremely long. Etiquette was so right, in fact, that it is said that the Duchesse de Montpensier spent a quarter of her life in mental torture as to whether different individuals admitted to her presence were entitled to sit on chairs with backs or only on stools.

A Tart Answer.

A young and newly married couple were entertaining their friends, and among the guests was one whose continued rudeness made him extremely objectionable to the rest of the company. His conduct, although most unbearable, was put up with for some time until at supper he held up on his fork a piece of meat which had been served to him, and in a vein of intended humor he looked round and remarked:

"Is this pig?"
This immediately drew forth the remark from a quiet looking individual sitting at the other end of the table: "Which end of the fork do you refer to?"—London Graphic.

The Deacon and the Prayer.

"I didn't like your prayer very much this morning," said a fault finding deacon to his minister.
"What was wrong with it?"
"Well, in the first place it was too long, and then I thought it contained two or three expressions that were unwarranted."
"I am very sorry it meets with your disapproval, deacon," the good man responded, "but you must bear in mind that the prayer was not addressed to you."

Fairies.

The masses of Greeks and Romans and the rank and file of people throughout the middle ages thoroughly believed in fairies, gnomes, etc. The child has no doubt about the existence of Santa Claus, Jack Frost and a lot of other strange personages, and when the mind of the race was in its childhood state men were prepared to be as foolish in their beliefs as the little children are in all ages.—New York American.

For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. SKINNER & WHEDBEE
LAWYERS. Greenville, N C

DEAR SIR:—

I desire to call your attention to some questions involved in the election to be held on the 26th inst., which may not have impressed themselves upon your mind, and I take this liberty because of my deep earnestness in the matter and my firm conviction that it will be better for the people and especially for the coming generation, if the people that live in Pitt county shall give a big majority for Prohibition.

Whatever your own notion about prohibition may be, it seems to me that down in your heart you must admit that it is better to remove from our midst a thing that costs so much money, and so much trouble and distress in the home and so much lawlessness and disorder in society, as does intoxicating liquor.

A very conservative estimate of the amount of money expended by the people of Pitt each year for intoxicating liquor shows the startling fact that not less than Two Hundred Thousand Dollars ($200,000.00) is thrown away every year by our people for intoxicating liquor. I say it is thrown away because no one can claim that his money goes to build up anything useful in society or in any department of human life. Yes, it is worse than thrown away, because every fair minded man must admit that the expenditure of this sum of money in the county for intoxicating liquor creates lawlessness, makes criminals, wrecks homes and brings trouble to innocent women and children.

Suppose this money which is thus expended, in that which does nobody any good, but which brings ruin into many homes; should be used in the building of better homes, in furnishing them with additional comforts and in building better schools and supplying them with better teachers, in improving farm implements and creating better methods of agriculture, and in many other ways which tend to elevate the people and add additional wealth to the community; what a change would be wrought in the industrial, educational, social, moral, intellectual and religious life of every community.

It does seem to me that every honest fair minded man must admit that it would be better for the coming generation to grow up in a community and in a state where intoxicating liquors are not manufactured and sold, than it will be to subject them to the temptations and allurements which come to young men in communities where still-houses and bar-rooms hold sway. If this be true, then ought we not to be willing by our votes to help bring about these better conditions?

On the 26th of May, we will be called upon to vote one of two tickets. One ticket will read, "FOR THE MANUFACTURE AND SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUOR." The other ticket will read, "AGAINST THE MANUFACTURE AND SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUOR." We have seen the evil of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in our midst; let us try prohibition and see what this will do for us. It has worked great good in other communities in the state where it has been honestly and faithfully tried, and I feel confident it will do the same in Pitt, if we faithfully administer the law, and that it will bring gladness and joy into the homes of the people. I not only urge you to vote that ticket yourself, but I beg that you will persuade others to do so. Personal effort can accomplish a great deal, and I beg that you will use your personal influence with your friends to get them to go with you to save the boys.

If for any reason you cannot now conscientiously vote the ticket which reads, "AGAINST THE MANUFACTURE AND SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUOR" then I beg you by all that is sacred and holy, I beg you in the name of the women and children, consider well before you vote the ticket which reads "FOR THE MANUFACTURE AND SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUOR." I beg you do not vote for stills and open bar-rooms in the county. I beg you to look at the promising boys and beautiful girls in your homes and in your communities, and then you will not put these temptations in their way.

In making this appeal to you, I am not moved by any selfish purpose. I do it because of my love for the children, and my earnest desire to see them grow up in communities exempt from such evil, and thereby be blessed with all the advantages that can be given them to aid them in making of themselves the best that is possible. I plead with you if you cannot go to the polls and vote "AGAINST THE MANUFACTURE AND SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUOR," that you will not cast a ballot that may have the effect to open still-houses and bar-rooms in your midst.

I think I can say with the utmost confidence, that there is not the slightest doubt about the result of the election in the state. It is, in my opinion, absolutely certain that a large majority of the people are going to vote "AGAINST THE MANUFACTURE AND SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUOR." So that in making this earnest appeal to you, I am not influenced by any fear of the results. But I am exceedingly anxious that Pitt County shall make a record on the 26th of May, of which your children in the days to come will be proud. I have declared that it is one of the best counties in the state time and again, in the county and elsewhere, and I say to you now that I earnestly desire to see it become "The" county in eastern North Carolina. I want to see the county give a majority "AGAINST THE MANUFACTURE AND SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUOR" greater than any other county in this whole eastern section. I want to see the county do this, because I want to see it become a great leader in the industrial, intellectual and moral development of this eastern section of our grand old state.

Men of Pitt, I feel that I have done my full duty in the great campaign for the educational, moral and industrial uplift of the people, and in creating the best conditions for their children. I now appeal to you, to each of you, and to all of you, to do your duty in the fear of God and in love for humanity.

With faith in your manhood and in your devotion to home, to county and to duty, I look for noble action on your part. I am,

Very truly yours,
THOS. J. JARVIS.

WE SHORTEN OUR LIVES.

Human Beings Should Live at Least a Hundred Years.

Every man who dies before he is a hundred years old does so because he has neglected the laws of health. I believe the time will come when men will commonly live to be 150 years old. But to do this they must be born right and be taught matters of health with their A B C's.

A majority of the people of America lose about thirty years of life through not understanding or not following the demand of nature for regular and adequate exercise. Our systems of civilization have worked a vast improvement in production by training men to special lines of work. Thus they become wonderfully proficient. To see a man rattling up long columns of reading matter on a linotype machine is inspiring, to hear a lawyer clearly and incisively summing up a case fills one with admiration, to read a strong, forceful editorial affords pleasure at the thoughts so well expressed, to watch the violinist and listen to the sweet melodies he draws from the strings wafts our souls to higher realms, yet the acquirement of each and all these abilities has robbed the trained or talented performers of something else. The linotype is wearing out his nerves in setting type at such a rapid pace; the oratory of the lawyer has been acquired at the expense of a dyspeptic stomach; the man who wins us with his facile pen envies the strength of the sturdy laborer shoveling in the street; the virtuoso would fain have the appetite of the performer on the big horn in the little street band.

In thus specializing each is apt to neglect the routine work for all the muscles that nature demands to keep up the physique. Had each of these performers or geniuses done his stint of work on a farm, raising the food he consumed, he would have been less skilled in his vocation, but possessed of vastly better health. And all would live out not only their full seventy, but a round hundred or more of years.—Charles H. Cochrane in Metropolitan Magazine.

It will surprise many to learn that ear diseases were studied some 3,400 years ago.

A STORY OF NELSON.

The Presence of Mind of the Great English Admiral.

Captain Mahan relates the following anecdote concerning Lord Nelson's letter proposing a truce to the crown prince of Denmark, dispatched in the midst of hostilities:

The decks being cleared of all partitions fore and aft and all ordinary conveniences removed, Nelson wrote in full view of all on the deck where he was, at the casing of the rudder head, standing, and as he wrote an officer standing by took a copy. The original, in his own hand, was put into an envelope and sealed, with his arms. The officer was about to use a wafer, but Nelson said:

"No; send for sealing wax and candle."

Some delay followed owing to the man's having had his head taken off by a ball. "Send another messenger for the wax," said the admiral when informed of this; and when the wafers were again suggested he simply reiterated the order.

A large quantity of wax was used and extreme care taken that the impression of the seal should be perfect.

A Dinner in Japan.

The usual dinner hours of the Japanese are 4, 6 and 7 o'clock. When the guests are seated on the mats two and sometimes three small, low, lacquered tables are brought to each. On that immediately in front of him the guest finds seven little bowls, with, near his left hand, rice, near his right hand fermented bean soup, the others containing "roast" fish, roast fowl, boiled meat, raw fish in vinegar and a stew of vegetables.—"Food and Cookery."

Need and Needs.

Perhaps many persons have wondered why we are taught to say "He need not do that," instead of "He needs not do that," as the singular pronoun, he, requires under ordinary conditions the singular form of the verb. The reason is that in a sentence of that kind, a negative sentence, expressing requirement or obligation, "need" becomes an auxiliary and takes no change of termination in the third person singular. This exception is laid down in the grammar.—Chicago News.

CASE AFTER CASE.

Plenty More Like This in Greenville.

Scores of Greenville people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

John G. Latham, 907 Cotanche St., Greenville, N. C. says: "Doan's Kidney Pills in my case far surpasses any kidney remedy I had previously used. For some time my kidneys had been in a disordered condition, the secretions being too frequent in action and the passages attended with pain. When I read of Doan's Kidney Pills I was so impressed that I procured a box at John L. Wooten's drug store. They went directly to the seat of my trouble and gave me relief in a short time. My kidneys were restored to their normal condition, the secretions gave me no trouble whatever and I felt better in every way. My wife also used Doan's Kidney Pills when suffering from dull nagging backaches accompanied by headaches and the results derived were highly satisfactory."
